MOB STONES CONSULATE AT BOGOTA

American Legation Is Attacked But Inmates All Escape Injury.

Quarrel of Street Railway Manager With Policeman Starts Rioting.

Authorities Give Evidence of Ability to Protect the Diplomats.

Bogota, Colombia, March 8.—A quarrel between the manager of an American-owned street railway line and a police officer late yesterday was followed by a riot, during which a mob attempted to wreck the street cars. The traffic was stopped and the manager placed under arrest.

The rioting continued for some time and reached the block in which the American legation is situated. The police gathered in force, but the mob, after wreaking vengeance on the rolling stock of the company, attacked the United States legation, stoning the building. The diplomats within were guarded, and though there were further disturbances during the night the authorities this morning appeared to be able to afford protection to the Americans.

Elliot Northcott is the American minister at Bogota, and Paxton Hibben is the secretary. All at the legation were said to be safe today. Mr. Northcott came here last August from West Virginia and was formerly judge of the district court for the Southern district of that state.

Cruiser Going South.

Santa Barbara, Cal., March 8.—It is understood here that the cruiser South Dakota, now at target practice with the Pacific fleet in the channel has been ordered to San Francisco, to prepare for a cruise to Buenos Ayres.

CHIEFS' BODIES ARE SENT WEST

Government Pays for Care of Bodies of Indians Who Were Asphyxiated.

Washington, March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The surviving members of the band of Chippewa Indians will leave here tonight with the bodies of their two comrades who died of asphyxiation in their hotel here last Thursday. The dead chieftains will be taken to Minnesota for final interment. The bodies have been embalmed and encased in caskets of modern construction, and Uncle Sam will pay all expenses of the undertakers and transportation of the bodies to their reservation.

During the last few days Senator Clapp and Representative Miller have heard the complaint of the surviving Chippewas, which is that their tribe has not been fairly treated by the government under the treaties of 1854 and 1866. They allege that Uncle Sam has not lived up to treaty stipulations in many particulars. Senator Clapp will endeavor to right their alleged wrongs in the Indian bill about to be reported to the senate.

REPORT LESS ICE IN GREAT LAKES

That in Harbors Is Heavier But Fields Are Not So Extensive.

Detroit, Mich., March 8.—Reports to the United States weather bureau indicate less extensive ice fields in Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and Lake Huron than a year ago. The ice in the harbors of Lake Superior, however, is reported to be heavier. Warm weather has softened the pack at the Straits of Mackinac. About ten inches is the thickness there.

RECALLS EFFORT TO HANG BROTHER

Civil War Flag Is Given to Maine Society By Rev. John Collins.

Portland, Me., March 8.—An old flag that recalls many of the differences caused by the Civil war, has been sent to the Maine Historical society by Rev. John Collins, who served in a Maine regiment in the great struggle. The banner is an emblem of the state of Mississippi and was formerly the property of Capt. William Collins of the Confederate army, a brother of the donor. Connected with the flag is an interesting story of a feud between the two men, who held opposing political opinions.

William Collins was one of the participants in the Calais bank raid in 1864, and failing into the hands of his enemies, his brother tried to have him hanged. He escaped and made his way back to Mississippi, where he died some years later.

IS ACCUSED OF STEALING PLOT FROM OSCAR WILDE

—Copyrighted by Harris & Ewing.

PRESTON GIBSON.

Preston Gibson is a son of the late Senator Gibson of Louisiana. His mother married Thomas Nelson Page of Washington after Senator Gibson's death. Young Gibson married Minnie Field, the niece of Marshall Field of Chicago. She got a divorce and he then married Grace McMillan Jarvis. Recently Gibson has been amusing himself writing plays. His last play is "The Turning Point," which is being done in New York. He took a special trainload of people to New Haven to witness the first production of it. It is now charged that Gibson plagiarized Oscar Wilde in this play.

ARE FREED BY MADRIZ

Several Political Prisoners Released By President of Nicaragua.

Government Is Confident That Rebellion Will Be All Wiped Out.

Managua, Nicaragua, March. 8.—President Madriz today liberated several political prisoners, among the number being Narcisso Arellano. All of the insurgent prisoners probably will be released soon. This move on the part of the government is expected to conciliate the Granada conservatives and is significant as indicating that President Madriz is confident of victory.

Gen. Vasquez, Gen. Godoy and Gen. Irias are here to confer with the president over the advisability of sending an army against Bluefields. The experience of Former President Zelaya's army during the march on Rama may serve to deter the government from this plan.

Intercession with President Madriz has been made on behalf of Col. Jose Santos Ramirez, former director-general of telegraphs and telephones, who was arrested on a charge of disloyalty and has since been in prison.

WANTS BAN PUT ON "BARBARA FRITCHIE"

Woman Says Poem Should Be Barred From Boston Schools.

Boston, Mass., March 8.—Banishment of John Greenleaf Whittier's famous poem "Barbara Fritchie" from the public schools of Boston is asked by Mrs. B. A. Keane of Roxbury. In a communication to the board of education Mrs. Keane complains of the unfairness to the "noble and pure-hearted men of the South," which she infers is expressed in the lines:

"A shades of sadness, a blush of shame,
Over the face of the leader came.
The nobler nature within him stirred"
—etc.

"There was no need for a 'blush of shame,' and the 'nobler nature' was not reserved for emergencies," writes Mrs. Keane.

She adds that she is not a Southern woman. The petitioner says she is simply a good American and wishes her children to be such.

BURKE AND NEGRO IN JURY PANEL

Former Governor of North Dakota May Help Try Assault Case in Missouri.

Kansas City, Mo., March 8.—After an ineffectual attempt to obtain a jury here today to try William Jackson, the negro janitor who last month confessed to having enticed six young white wirls to his room, the case was postponed till tomorrow.

In the panel called from which an endeavor was made to select a jury were ex-Governor A. H. Burke of North Dakota, now a resident of Kansas City, and James A. Dozier, a negro. The latter begged to be excused, but Judge Lathshaw refused his request.

Heavily armed deputies closely guarded Jackson on his way to and from the court room.

CARNEGIE AIRS VIEWS

Talks About "Future Life," Pinchot and Endowed Newspapers.

Says His Idea of Next World Was Learned From Plato.

Santa Barbara, Cal., March 8.—Just before departing for Del Monte, where he will spend a few days with his wife and daughter, Andrew Carnegie last night aired his ideas of the "future life," Gifford Pinchot and endowed newspapers.

"I highly disapprove of recent utterances upon the 'future life,'" he said, referring to a symposium by Henry James, W. D. Howells and others. "I was asked to contribute to the series, but refused. My great teacher on that subject is Plato.

"Our duties lie in this world, and the man who performs them here has nothing to fear hereafter. It is too bad to say anything to shatter the hope of men or women who pray that their faith in the future life may be strengthened."

Sics Up Pinchot.

Mr. Carnegie does not anticipate any straining of relations between President Taft and Col. Roosevelt as a result of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. The ex-ironmaster summed up his impressions of the forester thus:

"Pinchot is well-meaning, zealous, self-sacrificing—a fine type. We need more like him, but he is inclined to walk so straight sometimes as to lean over backwards. He doesn't seem to have much of the give-and-take."

Concerning endowed newspapers, Mr. Carnegie said he had considered the subject but had dismissed it, as he thought no one would care to read a subsidized journal.

"The element of personality in a paper," he asserted, "is too important. If I went into newspaper work I should both own and edit my own paper."

GERMANY'S NEW FIGHTER DAMAGED

Dreadnought Posen Suffers Severely From Fire in Her Magazine.

Kiel, Prussia, March 8.—The recently completed battleship Posen, one of the four dreadnoughts about to be added to the Germany navy, was damaged by fire yesterday and her first trial trip, which had been set for Saturday, will be delayed several weeks while repairs are being made.

The fire originated among woodwork stored in the otherwise empty magazine, and burned so fiercely as to heat the steel walls red hot, causing them to bend and permitting the flames to spread to the adjoining compartments. The fire department flooded the vessel and extinguished the fire after three hours hard work. A lamp which had been been left in the magazine was responsible for the accident.

DOUBLE LIFE LEADS HIM TO PENITENTIARY

STEPHEN AUSTIN.

Young Austin has been called the modern Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—the realization of Stevenson's fanciful creation. He is a desperate bandit now under arrest in Pittsburg for holding up a drug store man at the point of a revolver and robbing him.

Austin came from Indiana. He is a young man of education and, when his better self is in control, of high ideals. He was engaged to marry a beautiful girl in his native state and he left her two years ago with the promise that he would return with a fortune and marry her. Finding fortunes hard to earn honestly, Austin planned to become a bandit and accumulate a fortune by holdup methods, returning to Indiana with his loot and resuming an honest life. He was caught after he had committed a series of holdups and is due for a long term in the penitentiary.

PLATT'S BODY IS TAKEN TO OWEGO

Mae Wood Will Claim Estate as Ex-Senator's Widow.

New York, March 8.—Massed with banks of flowers, the coffin containing the body of Former Senator Thomas C. Platt was conveyed this morning to Owego, where burial will take place tomorrow. Members of the family accompanied the coffin of the late senator to his old home. The body was taken on a special car attached to the regular train.

Brief prayers were said today at the home of the ex-senator's brother, Hon. Frank Platt, and during the morning friends called. Former associates of Senator Platt will leave on special cars from Albany, Washington and New York tonight to attend the funeral at Owego.

Word came from the West today that Mae C. Wood, indicted for forgery in connection with her suits against the former senator, to whom she declared she was wedded, intends laying claim to his estate, as his widow.

Dies at Age of 101 Years.

Omaha, Neb., March 8.—Mrs. Mary Svacina, aged 101 years, died here last night. Although she had several children in Omaha, Mrs. Svacina refused to live here and lived alone for thirty-five years. She was born a serf in Bohemia.

NEW MOVE TO STOP STRIKE

Philadelphians Again Seek to End Labor Difficulties.

Clash of Union and Open Shop Policies Springs From the Walkout.

Philadelphia, March 8.—All Philadelphia hopes that the city-wide movement begun yesterday by the United Business Men's association to bring to a quick end the great labor conflict that has kept the "City of Brotherly Love" in a turmoil for more than two weeks, will meet with greater success than the effort made last week by the same body. This organization asked the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company and Mayor Reyburn to arbitrate the differences existing between the company and the men, but was given no satisfaction.

The association, which includes practically every business man of any standing in Philadelphia, will now enlarge the movement by taking in other organizations that stand for the progress of the city. Thus reinforced, the members expect to make a united endeavor in the interest of peace and the general welfare.

Spring Trade Hurt.

Business, especially in the central part of the city, has suffered to an extent not known in years, and it is

SAYS MORSE COULD TELL SOMETHING

Friend of Imprisoned Ice King Hints at Secrets of Panic of 1907.

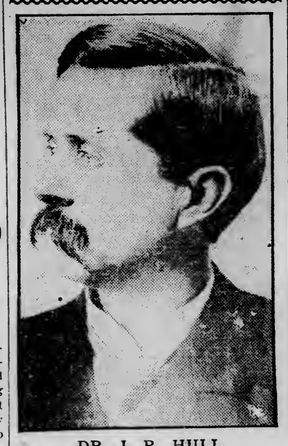
Atlanta, Ga., March 8.—"If Charles W. Morse would tell what he knows of the connection of financiers in New York with the panic of 1907, about a dozen men who stand high in the business world would be buying tickets to Europe and other places for trips of indefinite length," said W. P. Reid of Boston before leaving for the East last night after a conference with the former "ice king."

Mr. Reid, a lifelong friend of Morse, has much of his business in charge, and has been a frequent visitor at the federal prison here since the prisoner began serving a 15-year sentence for violation of the national banking laws.

"Morse is not the squalling kind, and those men know it. But if they thought he was going to talk they would not be so backward in giving him their aid," added the speaker.

According to Mr. Reid, the 15-year-old daughter of Morse does not know of her father's imprisonment. She thinks the absent parent is merely on a lengthy pleasure trip, and she is ignorant even of his arrest.

IS ACCUSED OF GIVING POISON TO PROF. VAUGHN



DR. J. R. HULL.

Much attention has been attracted by the murder of Prof. J. T. Vaughn of Kirksville, Mo. Dr. J. R. Hull is accused of murdering him. After his arrest, reports were circulated widely that Mrs. Vaughn had been interested in Dr. Hull and had met him at Quincy. These reports finally resulted in the arresting of Mrs. Vaughn, charged with being an accessary to the murder of her husband.

LILLIS TOO ILL TO MOVE

Victim of Cutting By John P. Cudahy Remains at Hospital.

County Makes No Charge Against Packer---Wife Not Planning Divorce.

Kansas City, Mo., March 8.—Jere F. Lillis, president of the Western Exchange bank, who was attacked early Sunday morning by John P. Cudahy, the millionaire packer, in the latter's home here, was not sufficiently recovered today to be removed from St. Mary's hospital. A nurse stated, however, that Mr. Lillis' condition was improved.

Definite announcement that Lillis will not prefer a definite charge against Cudahy renders doubtful whether further details of the circumstances that led up to the trouble ever will be made public. Cudahy and Lillis still firmly refuse to make a statement in regard to the affair.

No Charge by County.

The county prosecutor has announced that he will make no effort to prosecute Cudahy if no one dies a formal charge, unless Lillis should die. The physicians say the banker will surely recover.

John Moss, the chauffeur, who was present when the attack on Lillis was made, has not been found, although the police have made a diligent search for him.

Gen. John C. Cowin of Omaha, father of Mrs. Cudahy, went out to the Cudahy home from his hotel early today. Last night Mrs. Cudahy issued a statement saying that her husband had no reason for his act. She also said that she will not institute divorce proceedings for the sake of their children.

DR. HYDE GIVES $100,000 BAIL

Alleged Murderer of Col. Swope and Others Admitted to Bond By Court.

Kansas City, Mo., March, 8.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, charged with three murders and eight attempted murders in the Swope case, was released from the county jail today after furnishing bond in the sum of $100,000.

Dr. Hyde was arraigned in the criminal court again today on the eleven indictments returned against him by the grand jury last Saturday.

The physician's attorneys today made a strong plea to Judge Latshaw in support of the contention that the physician should be released on bond. Dr. Hyde appeared cheerful and unconcerned notwithstanding that he spent last night in jail.

Mrs. Logan O. Swope resumed the giving of her deposition today in the civil suit that developed from the Swope investigation.

Hyde's attorney agreed to have the physician in court on April 11. The bond was divided as follows: In case of Col. Thomas H. Swope, $50,000; Chrisman Swope, $30,000; Hunton, $4,000; eight cases of attempted murder, $2,000 each.

Mrs. Hyde has been too ill to visit her husband in jail. Last night when told that he must remain locked up till today she said:

"I can endure anything for Clark's sake, for I know that he is innocent."

Today, before the question of bond had been settled, Mrs. Hyde said:

"I would be willing to go to jail with him if it would do any good."

STEAMER BREAKS IN TWO IN CORN FIELD.

Gallipolis, Ohio, March 8.—The river packet Virginia, which stranded during the high water at Willow Grove, W. Va., forty miles above here, has broken in two and will be a complete loss. The steamer went into a cornfield during a heavy fog, and when the water receded it was left high and dry. The boat was owned by the Pittsburg & Cincinnati Packet company and was valued at $40,000.

OIL TRUST'S DEFENSE IS SUBMITTED

Attorneys File Brief in Opposition to Suit for Dissolution.

"Individual Rights" Forms Keynote of Answer to Changes.

Story of Growth of Immense Business Interests Is Recited at Length.

Washington, March, 8.—The Standard Oil company today filed in the supreme court of the United States a brief in opposition to the attempt of of the government to dissolve the corporation as violating the Sherman anti-trust law. The document comes as a prelude to oral argument Monday and is the work of D. T. Watson, John M. Freeman and Ernest C. Irwin. The brief of the government has not yet been filed.

The keynote of the defense is the so-called preservation of the "rights of the individual citizens of the United States."

The issue, according to the paper filed today, is the charge made in the petition, denied in the answer and reasserted in the replication, that the seven individual defendants—John D. Rockefeller, William R. Rockefeller, John D. Archbold, Oliver H. Payne, Henry M. Flagler, Charles M. Pratt and Henry M. Rogers—combined and conspired and continued to combine and conspire at the time the petition was filed, to restrain interstate trade in oil and to gain a monopoly of the traffic.

Merely Changed Method.

The brief asserts that the circuit court of the United States for the Eastern district of Missouri, whose adverse decree the defendants seek to

CLAIMS SHE HAS BEEN IN DULUTH

Woman Apparently Drugged Is Taken From Train at Ashland.

Ashland, Wis., March, 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unknown woman was taken off a Northern Pacific train here insensible last night and was unable to give her name until today. This forenoon she says her name is Kate Durin and that she left the veterans' home at Waupaca last October to answer an advertisement that took her to Virginia, Minn. She says she discovered it was a resort and escaped a week later. She can give no clear account of herself, excepting that she recently has been in Duluth and lived in Superior until two years ago.

Her husband, James Durin is at the Waupaca home. She has the appearance of having been drugged.

With Costin Woman?

It is believed in police circles that the woman who says her name is Kate Durin may be the same one brought to the resort between Winton and Ely when Mrs. Blanche Costin was taken there by Charles Bushey, bound over to await the action of the last grand jury as a white slaver.

The Costin woman stated to the local police that the name of the other woman brought there with her was Lucile Wells, but they declare that under such circumstances it is generally the rule that pseudo names are used.

The Wells woman was at the place about a week when she ran away, according to Mrs. Costin. She also says that the Wells woman claimed her home to be in Ashland, but she was unable to tell any more of her history. When on the way to Ely the party, which included the Wells woman and Mrs. Costin, passed through Duluth.

CARUSO GUARDED CLOSER THAN TAFT

Eighty-Two Policemen and Detectives to Protect Him From Black Hand.

New York, March 8.—More carefully guarded by police than President Taft on his visits here, Caruso, the tenor, wha recently received Black Hand letters demanding $15,000, remained barred in his apartments today. The singer is said to have received more threatening leters.

Caruso last night made his first public appearance in opera since the Black Hand startled him with the demands. No lesss than seventy-five policemen, four detectives and three mounted policemen were detailed to look for lurking dynamiters in and about the opera house in Brooklyn.

Detectives mingled in the chorus while police guarded the wings and one or two perched in the flies.

"I am ready for the attack," said Caruso valiantly, "but — here he relaxed with a smile: "I prefer that it should not come."

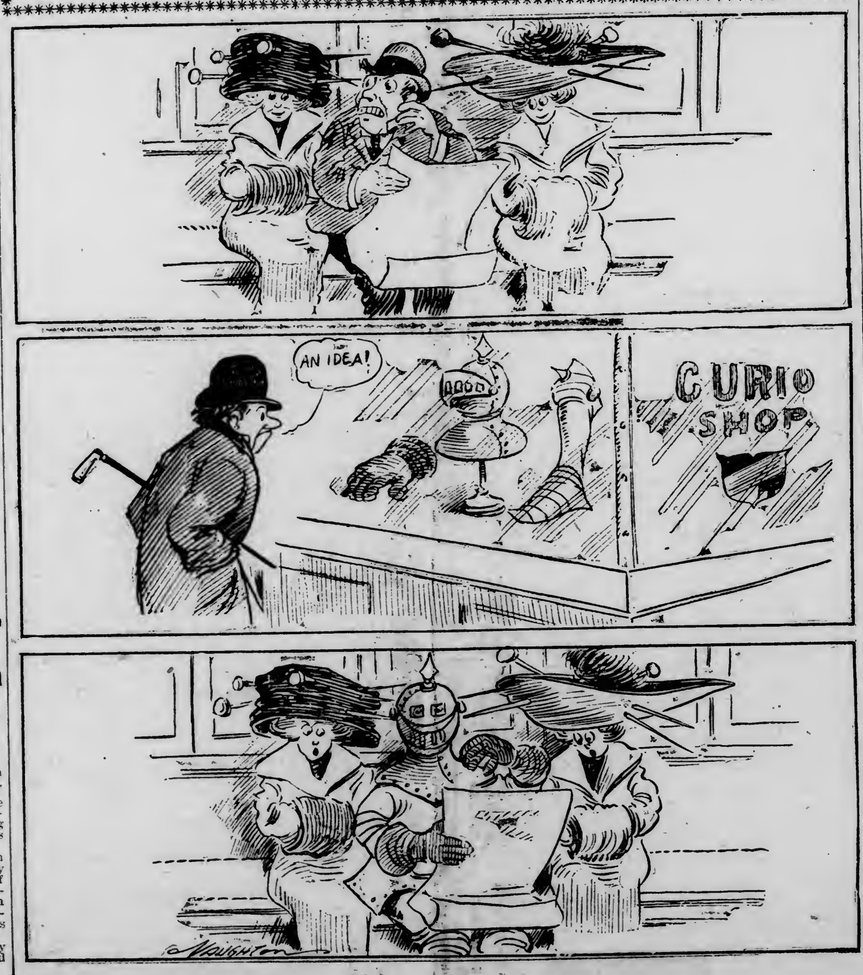
SUGGESTION FOR PROTECTION AGAINST HATPINS.



WILL CONFER ON RAILROAD WAGES

General Managers and Workmen's Representatives Will Meet Thursday.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—G. A. Goodell, general manager of the Northern Pacific railway, said last night that a conference between committees representing the General Managers association and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen will be held Thursday morning in Chicago. This conference was postponed last week at the request of the labor organization until the strike vote of the unions could be completed. Mr. Goodell said he did not believe the firemen and enginemen would take any drastic action before the conference.

Firemen on about fifty railroads running west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, who demand an increase of wages and improved working conditions, are involved.

Though no public statement was issued when the men made the demand, it was understood the managers returned a flat refusal to increase the pay, but yielded on some points concerning working conditions. The matter referred back to the brotherhood for a vote. It is said that the vote indicated that the men were against accepting the managers' offer, and that such will be the report at the meeting, it was believed, however, that both sides would agree to arbitration.

CLOUDS ON DEMOCRATIC HORIZON ARE DISPELLED

Dove of Peace Perches, Though Troyer Will Be Retained.

Mayor and Aldermen Are Said to Have Agreed on Slate.

COUNCIL SLATE.

President—Frank Jordan.
Vice President—John Hogan.
Clerk—H. W. Chandle.
Harbor Master—Thomas Burke.
Sealer of Weights and Measures—Probably George E. Duren.

MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS.

City Attorney—Bert Fesler.
Assistants—O. S. Andreson and Walter Dacey.
Member Board of Public Works—O. G. Olson.
Health Commissioner—Probably Dr. H. E. Webster or Dr. D. D. Murray.
Chief of Police—Chauncey H. Troyer.
City Engineer—Thomas F. McGilvray.
Building Inspector—S. M. Kielley.

Mayor M. B. Cullum will send his annual message to the city council tonight together with the list of appointments which require confirmation by the city fathers.

The message and the appointments are expected to straighten away any matters which have not been made clear since the mayor went into the chair, as well as act as a balm to heal local irritations which have been causing uneasiness.

Last night after the council meeting Mayor Cullum and the Democratic aldermen held a little love feast in the city hall. Any little black clouds which may have crept forth were scattered by the sunlight of good will which beamed forth from all corners of the "Amen" gathering.

Meeting Secret.

No outsiders were allowed to attend. The meeting was strictly for the elect, and those who were inside were very reluctant to speak of what transpired when questioned this morning. They stated that what happened was for private ears only and that those present decided to keep secret all that was said. Some of them even denied that there was a meeting. "We intended to keep the other meetings secret," said one member this morning, "but somebody leaked. So we determined to let nobody know anything about this one."

While together the aldermen reaffirmed the slate of officers named at the caucus some time ago, when it was determined to re-elect most of the old officers, including President Frank Jordan, Vice President John Hogan, Clerk H. W. Chadle and Harbor Master Thomas Burke. The only thing left last night was the election of a sealer of weights and measures.

Many different expressions of opinion were brought forth. It was conceded this morning that Noble Sampson was slated to go. A West end man, probably George E. Duren, will get the place, although John A. Tucker has been a prominent candidate. Others who have been mentioned for the place are Charles McEwen of Duluth Heights; Conrad Wicklund of the Seventh ward and Alex Longmuir.

Troyer To Be Retained.

Today it can be stated with certainty that Chief of Police C. H. Troyer will be retained, at least for a time. Whether or not Mayor Cullum will send him a reappointment is not known. But there is little doubt that he will continue as the head of the police department for some time. It is not necessary that the mayor appoint him. He can neglect to appoint another man for the place, leaving Chief Troyer undisturbed. This is the concensus of opinion of men who are known to be close to the mayor. It was also stated positively today by a man who is unusually well-posted, that Mayor Cullum would not appoint John Brady as chief of police. Mr. Brady has been probably the most prominent candidate.

This is confirmed by the reception which the delegation which called on the mayor yesterday received. The delegation was the result of a big meeting Sunday afternoon at the Lenox hotel of seventy-five of the most prominent Democrats in the city. The mayor received them cordially after locking the door to his reception room, but when they demanded that Chief Troyer be discharged he was unable to satisfy the demand. He said that he would explain it all better and shook hands all around.

The Mayor's Message.

The mayor's message has caused much speculation. He has not divulged any of the contents, as far as can be learned. However, it is likely that he will touch upon the commission form of government and refer to the future that is before the city, in speaking of the numerous improvements which are planned. Within the next year the city will have considerably more money for municipal purposes as the result of the passage of the second and third charter amendments, opening the way for many sadly needed improvements. References to the skating rinks and the playgrounds will be appropriate, having been started under a former administration of Mayor Cullum. The park board still has a large part of the proceeds derived from the sale of the $50,000 worth of bonds on hand, and as the members of the board are appointed by the mayor he will interest himself in the expenditure of these funds. It is possible that he may refer to the condition of the city from a moral standpoint, but as this does not come directly under the jurisdiction of the council it is just as likely that this feature will not be mentioned.

Some of his appointments are still in doubt. Among them is that of a health commissioner. Dr. H. E. Webster is said to have the best prospect of appointment, although many believe that Dr. D. D. Murray will again be given the place. Several other physicians have also been mentioned for the place, and there is a rumor that the Republican aldermen and one or two Democrats, will have Dr. Patton hold over.

O. G. Olson will undoubtedly be reappointed to the board of public works. He will not promise to remain the full three years, but there is probably a definite understanding that he will give ample notice of his intention to resign. T. E. McGilvray will again be city engineer and J. H. McCall will become permanent secretary to the mayor. S. M. Kielley is conceded his position as building inspector. There are many other city jobs controlled through the mayor's office, but they are of minor importance when compared with the others.

Several new municipal reforms have been inaugurated during the time Dr. Cullum was a private citizen. They have been under charge of the subheads of departments and it is possible, though not considered probable, that some of these men will remain where they are. The reforms are of such great benefit to the city that they will receive the hearty indorsement of Mayor Cullum with the recommendation that they be continued. Among them are the campaign for clean pure milk, sanitary meat markets, sanitary bakeries, the municipal collection of garbage and better conditions in the fire halls.

Herald Newsboys Make Hit in First Appearance in West End.

The Herald Newsboys' Quartet opened a week's engagement at the Princess theater, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, last night and pleased a crowd that filled the theater to the doors. The act is the same as that put on at the Savoy theater last week and the boys are becoming more at home on the stage every performance. They have a novel act that brings out their talent and they sing and dance their way into admiration with something akin to professional skill. The boys will be at the Princess all this week and next week they will appear at the Savoy in Superior.

PROVEN ECZEMA CURE

For several years we have announced, with our recommendation, that we had found a positive cure for eczema; a simple skin wash, oil of wintergreen compounded with other healing ingredients.

Yet we know there are people right in this town who have eczema, and still have never tried this remedy.

We have, therefore, arranged with the D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special offer of a trial bottle at 25 cents instead of the $1.00 bottle as regularly sold. Be sure of the correct name: D. D. D. Prescription.

We offer this trial bottle with our recommendation and assurance that just as soon as the patient washes his itching skin, this mild liquid will take the itch away instantly.

IS WANTED BY THE POLICE

West Duluth Man Claimed to Be Guilty of Petty Swindles.

Obtaining money under false pretenses is the charge that hangs over Clement H. Clemetson, 26 years old, of West Duluth, who is wanted by the police for working a series of petty swindles among the business men at West Duluth and the West end, in which he uses his father's name to good advantage.

When Clement wants money he uses a telephone and calls up some business man known to his father, Gabriel Clemetson, awning manufacturer at 5509 Grand avenue, and asks for a loan of between $5 and $10, impersonating his father, it is claimed. He tells the party on the other end of the line that he will send his son after the money and that he will pay it back the next day.

Clement then shows up with a note, supposedly from his father, in which the business man is required to let the son have the money. Clement gets the money and his father afterwards settles the bill to avoid trouble. But when the young man persisted in keeping the game up, his father refused to pay any such loans.

Two warrants are out for the arrest of Clemetson, both charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. One of them was issued a few weeks ago, the complainant being Sidney D. Ives, proprietor of the Esmond hotel at the West end, and the second warrant issued yesterday was sworn to by O. P. Wick of 5718 Grand avenue, who is a feed dealer.

The police know but little of the whereabouts of Clemetson. His wife does not live with him and he has not made his home with his parents for some time. Late in last November, he was sentenced to sixty days in the Douglas county jail at Superior for obtaining a coat under false pretenses from a clothing store. After he was released at Superior, little has been seen of him.

The finals have also been reached in the Buckley race where Wade and Zauft will clash for the cigars, and in the Bagley, Wade will meet Keyes in the finals in the near future. It is planned to bring the other events down to the finals within a week's play.

Last evening, Evered defeated Iltis, 10 to 2, in the Burns event, Rockwell forfeited to Keyes in the Bagley, and Macauley defeated Olson, 18 to 17, and Keyes won from Miller, 13 to 3, in the first game in the Esterly event.

Tonight will be a big night at the rink. It is the last music night of the season and six games have been scheduled in the following events: Esterly, Wade vs. Hewitt and Rockwell vs. Keyes. Burns: Olson vs. Miller; Clark vs. Iltis, Zauft vs. Wade, and Holland vs. Macauley.

MAY BE THE FIRST STEP TOWARD PAVING.

At the city council meeting last evening, a resolution was passed in which the board of public works was directed to start condemnation proceedings for an easement for a sewer on the south side of Grand avenue, between Forty-second and Sixty-first avenues west. The easement will cover ten feet of each lot on the south side of the street. It is probable that a hearing for property owners will be conducted by the board of public works in the near future.

This action by the council is thought to be the first step in the direction of permanently improving Grand avenue in the business section at West Duluth. It is understood that steps will be taken to lay a storm sewer between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues this year and to start next year to pave the street for these five blocks.

EXTENSIVE CHANGES IN PHILLIPS HOTEL.

Work began yesterday on the exterior remodeling of the old Phillips hotel at Central avenue and Ramsey street. The old porch on the Central avenue front, which has long been an eyesore, has been removed and it is the intention of D. A. Fitzpatrick, the proprietor, to extend the first story out to the street line.

A new basement has been put under the hotel and the interior has been remodeled at a cost of nearly $10,000. Mr. Fitzpatrick has provided for a large cafe at the rear of the building, which will be leased out to other parties. The hotel will then be run on the European plan.

"JAKE" SCHAEFER DEAD IN DENVER

Greatest Billiard Player Succumbs to the White Plague.

Denver, Colo., March 8.—"Jake" Schaefer, the noted billiard player, died here this afternoon of tuberculosis.

For thirty years Schaefer has been the greatest exponent of billiards that the world has ever produced. It was due in large part to his marvelous control of the ivory balls that the present restrictions have been placed in the way of long runs. Despite the growing intricacy and complexity of the game, the old master solved the greatest problems of the billiard table and remained, right up to the time of his impaired health, the greatest of them all.

It is said of Schaefer that he solved every billiard puzzle that the greatest students of the game invented to make the play more difficult and scientific. He taught Napoleon Frank Ives, the brilliant and wonderful pupil of Schaefer's, the anchor shot; and expert as Ives became in the use of this shot he was never, according to experts and students of the game, more proficient in its execution than the wizard of the game himself.

"JAKE" SCHAEFER.

Defeated Willie Hoppe.

Two years ago Schaefer met Willie Hoppe in Boston for the world's championship. Schaefer went from a sick bed to the hall where the game was played. Schaefer won. He never recovered from the strain of that match.

Schaefer did perhaps as much as any of the American players to popularize the game and make the name of American players known on the other side of the Atlantic. From 1892 until 1906 he played and taught at the Parisian academy. In his wonderful career he met and defeated Vignaux, the wonderful and brilliant Frnechman; Student Slosson, Frank Ives, Willie Hoppe, George Sutton and other great players of the earlier period of his career.

SAYS METHODS ARE CZAR-LIKE

Hawley Denounces State Board of Arbitration at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"It's an outrage," declared Frank T. Hawley, president of the switchmen's union, addressing the state board of arbitration this morning and referring to the decision of the board to conduct its hearing without his presence.

"I tell you," and he shook his finger at the chairman of the board, S. B. Green, "this union is not confined to St. Paul and the Northwest, but is national in its scope, and you are dealing with thousands of men. Your czar-like methods will work untold injury to a great mass of men."

The trouble grew out of the desire of the arbitrators to have a heart-to-heart talk with the switchmen, who actually worked in the yards, without the interference of any of the leaders. Hawley and George B. Howley, president of the State Federation of Labor, objected. But the board was firm and Hawley retired and Howley withdrew to an adjoining room.

Have Companies' Views.

It is understood that a member of the board has seen the railroad companies and secured from them statements as to what can be done to settle the strike. So far as known, the roads have not receded from their position taken some weeks ago, agreeing to take back about 75 per cent of the men who went out, with the understanding that the others are to be used as rapidly as possible. There is a feeling among the switchmen that on that basis a number of the men never would be returned.

A settlement on this basis would not be countermanded by Mr. Hawley. However, it is known that an effort will be made to set Mr. Hawley aside quietly and adjust the difficulty regardless of his protest.

The members of the board refused to divulge the nature of the propositions made by the switchmen today, but it seems certain that large concessions were agreed to on the part of many of them. The financial stringency is understood to be hitting the Twin City men hard.

IN NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Crusaders Form First Duluth Council of Young Men's Institute.

Louis F. Budenz of Indianapolis, national organizer of the Young Men's Institute, a national Catholic young men's organization, is in Duluth today looking over the field and preparing to establish councils of the institute.

The Crusaders, a strong organization of young men connected with Sacred Heart cathedral, will form the first council of the Young Men's institute and they have already applied for a charter. In parishes in which young men's organizations already flourish, they will be taken into the institute intact as to name, officers and organization and in other parishes organizations will be formed.

The Catholic organization is social and athletic and follows the lines of the Y. M. C. A. The Young Men's Institute is a western organization and has an alliance with the Catholic Young Men's National Union, which flourishes in the East, giving it a national scope. L. E. Mahon of Eureka, Cal., is president and C. A. Slinger of Indianapolis is supervising secretary.

Permanently Cured

A temporary cure is worse—much worse, than no cure at all, inasmuch as it gives the patient a false sense of security. The fire of the sickness, although seemingly extinguished, is but smouldering internally, gathering in strength—eventually to burst forth again with renewed vigor.

The cures effected by

The Progressive Medical Association of Duluth.

Are permanent cures—for one fee the patient is treated until completely well—no chance of a relapse—because, before the patient is discharged and pronounced cured, such rigorous tests are used that should there be the slightest particle of the disease left in the system it would immediately be known.

For 25 years the eminent specialists of this association have been successfully treating the diseases and ailments of men; the thousands of testimonials sent unsolicited by grateful, healthy and happy men, whom they have restored to health, speak volumes for the methods and knowledge of these specialists.

You can be cured!—right here in Duluth, while you are attending to your business or occupation daily. No matter what your ailment or disease—nor of how long standing—you can be cured safely, surely, quickly and confidentially—no one need know except yourself and the specialist who devotes his time and knowledge to your case.

With every accepted case—a legal guarantee to cure is given.

Only one fee is necessary—for that you will be treated until you are well. Delays, however, are dangerous, immediate action is advisable—so call early or write today

MARKET STEADY AT THE CLOSE

Copper Shares Rally From Decline at the Opening, Closing Strong.

Following a decline after the opening due to profit-taking the market steadied today, advanced and closed about on a level with the opening with the exception of several favorites which were subjected to brisk speculative activity. These advanced sharply and closed buoyant. Among them were Calumet & Arizona and North Butte. The other so-called Cole-Ryan stocks acted well under the influence of these two leaders.

The undertone to the market was fairly good. There is no doubt that speculative activity is broadening and that the market is widening. Trading of an investment character is swelling the volume of business and although occasional recessions will overtake the market, the leading issues appear to be improving. This is especially true of the active copper producers, the public apparently regarding with considerable favor those properties which can produce metal instead of those which may or may not produce in a more or less dubious period. This vagary of public sentiment may be based on the fact that copper metal is in a better position than for some time and that copper seems due for another advance in the near future; or it may be the result of the disastrous endings to periodical speculative campaigns undertaken by the public in recent years. This hypothesis may be applied to Duluth as well as to the rest of the country. The price of copper metal in London advanced slightly today.

The producers' report on the copper situation will be issued Thursday. An estimate of the reduction in stocks may be placed at 5,000,000 pounds.

The local market was moderately active and the tone was good, there being more inquiries for stocks than offerings. The action of the market was fairly general, all stocks being traded in. Amazon-Montana bid $6.00½ after opening with sales at $6. It declined to $5.93¾ and sold back to $6, closing $5.87½ bid. Calumet & Montana sold at $1.12½ and at the close was $1.06¾ bid. Calumet & Corbin sold at 75 cents down to 74 cents and at the close was freely offered at 70 cents with no takers. Butte-Alex Scott, part paid, sold at $4.62½ and the full paid sold at $7.56¼ and $7.62½. Cactus sold at $5.12½. Cordova at $2.50; Live Oak at $19.56¼; Red Warrior, at $2.62½; Shattuck at $21; Warrior at $10.25 up to $10.50; Mowitza at 78 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $83 and off ¼ point and back to the opening. Butte Coalition sold at $27.25 and off ¼ point. Calumet & Arizona from $75 up to $79 on buying of a good character, Giroux at $10.12½ and up ⅛ point, Greene at $10.62½ and down ⅛ point; North Butte at $43 and down to $41.25 and up to $44; Ojibway at $11 up to $12; Superior & Pittsburg at $14 and off ⅛ point.

Walter M. Staudt, who thinks the Carman property in the state of Sonora, Mexico, will become a producing mine some day, has returned from a trip to the property. He said that the shaft is down 212 feet and that fifteen men are drifting on the 100 and the 200-foot levels. The north drift, he said, was 70 feet in when he was there and the workings were in ore. Samples, he said, ran from 100 to 1,500 ounces of silver to the ton. The mine, he declared, is being opened up and it is hoped to develop the famous Las Chispas vein which is on the property. Two levels of the Las Chispas property have been worked to the Carman line. Mr. Staudt said that the company has complete title to its property that is safe, legally, from the designs of J. P. Casey. Carman declared a dividend of 25 cents a share about two years and a half ago.

The New York Commercial says today: "The Giroux Consolidated mines is slated to enter the ranks of the producers about Aug. 1, according to reports. Arrangements have already been made, it is said, for smelting the Giroux ores."

SOO OFFICIALS VISIT DULUTH

General Passenger Agent Hopes to See Duluth Depot Opened Soon.

W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent of the Soo, and Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent of the same road, are in the city today. Mr. Calloway stated that no special business brought him to the Head of the Lakes, and that he came here more on a general trip of inspection than for any special purpose.

"It is impossible to say at the present time when the station here will be open for business," said Mr. Calloway. "I have asked the officials of the road to give me three months' notice, and as yet I have received no such notice. It is very hard to predict when the through service between Duluth and Chicago will be established. We hope that it will be ready in the very near future."

Mr. Calloway stated that passenger business on the Soo was very good at the present time, and that the road was getting a very heavy Pacific coast business.

Mr. Fitch stated that he had enjoyed a great trip and that the Southwest was enjoying a great boom.

BUTLER, NELSON AND SMITH NAMED

Governor Eberhart Fills Vacancies on the Board of Regents.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pierce Butler of St. Paul, B. F. Nelson and C. A. Smith of Minneapolis were today reappointed members of the state university board of regents by Governor Eberhart. With these three appointments the board has its full membership.

The first meeting of the new board, which after all is the same old board with the exception of Milton M. Williams of Little Falls, who was named to succeed S. M. Owens, deceased, will be held soon. It is understood that the question of a president of the university will be the principal topic of discussion, though it is not thought that any definite action will be taken. It is probable that if no man is found by John Lind on his trip to the East, Dr. Cyrus Northrop will be asked to remain for at least another year.

B. F. NELSON.

Two of the men appointed to the board are avowed Democrats, B. F. Nelson and Pierce Butler. C. A. Smith was a Johnson Republican and the Democratic state organization has counted him among its friends. Only one, Mr. Williams, is a genuine, blown-in-the-bottle Republican. The facts are pointed to by supporters of the governor to prove that he was not prompted by political ambitions in making his selections.

SUPERIOR FALLS UNDER CAR WHEELS

Mike Martin, a switchman at the Great Northern yards, Superior, owes his life to a fellow workman, who, late yesterday, saved him from instant death under the wheels of a shunting engine. As it was, Martin's leg was crushed to a pulp under the locomotive.

Martin slipped and fell beneath the wheels in attempting to leap to the footboard, the accident occurring shortly before sundown. He managed to grab a handrail in falling and by doing so, he swung his body clear of the wheels, but his leg was ground to a pulp.

In this perilous position, a portion of his clothing caught on a brake shoe and was drawing him under the wheels. A fellow switchman seeing his predicament in time, leaped to the footboard and after a remarkable effort he released the unfortunate man. At St. Mary's hospital the injured member was amputated above the knee. At the hospital it was stated today that he has a good chance for recovery.

GREAT MEN AND BEER BREWING

WHENEVER this great nation needed the assistance and personal services of strong, patriotic men to further the cause of liberty and humanity or to repulse invasions and oppressions, the brewers and their friends were among the first to respond.

History tells us that many of the best men of their time were connected with the business, such as Wm. Penn, who caused the erection of the first brewery in Pennsylvania, or Samuel Adams, the acknowledged father of the Revolution, who managed his father's brewery at Boston, or Patrick Henry, the jovial host of Williamsburg, Va., who made the famous speech: "Give me liberty or give me death." And the immortal Lincoln, when accused by his rival, the great Douglas, in one of their famous debates, of being engaged in the traffic, turned the tables by saying: "The difference between Douglas and me was that I was doing the selling and he was doing the drinking."

Surely the brewers and their friends have always been foremost in promoting public welfare, and according to Andrew D. White, the great statesman, they have done more for real temperance than their fanatic opponents can ever do.

Mrs. Gilbert Majhor, her mother-in-law and her 1-year-old son, in trying to drive from Mahto, S. D., their home, to a neighbor's, were overtaken by the blizzard eight miles from home. They turned the team loose and huddled down in the sleigh to wait for the storm to pass. They slept and never awoke. The return of the team occasioned no uneasiness because it was supposed the animals had escaped from the corral where the visit was made.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROW WING IS IN LINE

Brainerd Commercial Club to Take Steps to Form Development Association.

Proposed Crow Wing Indian School and Other Matters to Be Considered.

Brainerd, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brainerd Commercial club will have one of the most important meetings of the year this evening. The club officials have been quietly working along several lines and matters of importance to the city will be under consideration.

Steps will be taken toward the organization of a Crow Wing County Conservation and Development association along the lines laid down by the recent convention at Bemidji.

Crow Wing Indian School.

Another matter of importance to be taken up will be that of an Indian school at Crow Wing. The movement for this institution was started on the White Earth reservation by Gus Beaulieu and others interested in the future of the wards of the nation in this part of Minnesota, and there is every prospect that the bill for the establishment of the school will pass the present congress, especially if the citizens of Brainerd take sufficient interest.

The selection of a site of eighty acres for the establishment of an experimental farm will also be considered. R. R. Wise, president of the club, has been working on the two last propositions and has practically got them in such shape that their success is assured if the club takes hold and pushes them.

New Brainerd Hotel.

Preliminary plans have been received for the new brick building which will be erected at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets. The plans, which are as yet subject to change in several details, provide for a fine 100-room hotel, to be located on the Laurel street frontage of the new building. This will be a medium priced hotel, $1 per day and upwards, and will be up-to-date in every respect.

F. R. Wise, who gave out the information concerning the new building, states that it will be up-to-date in every respect and that the hotel will be one of the best second-class hotels in the state. The lower floor has not been leased as yet, but it is reported that a large drygoods establishment is negotiating for the entire three rooms.

BELIEVE STRIKE REMOTE.

Fargo Advices Are That Men Indorsed Eastern Railroad Men.

Fargo, N. D., March. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Visions of a railroad tie-up are worrying some people in this part of the Northwest as a result of the vote recently taken by the locomotive firemen and the trainmen. It was reported that 90 per cent of the firemen favored a strike and so voted, but an investigation seems to indicate the local men voted so overwhelmingly rather for the purpose of indorsing the proposed strike on fifty or more roads east of Chicago and giving the plan moral support rather then actually going not. The wages of the firemen in this part of the Northwest runs from 40 to 70 per cent higher than for the same work on Eastern roads and the men claim they have little complaint.

CREAMERY BURNED.

Barronette, Wis., Once Destroyed, Has Another Bad Fire.

Cumberland, Wis., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire totally destroyed the Farmers' Co-operative creamery at Barronette, nine miles north of here, yesterday entailing a loss of about $5,000, with $2,000 insurance. A strong wind prevailed and it was through the effective work of the citizens that the town was saved from total destruction. A forest fire in 1894 burned out this entire village and a repetition of the disaster was threatened yesterday.

HEARING COURT CASES.

Judge McClenahan Has Disposed of Jury Cases at Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Having concluded all cases to be tried by jury and dismissed the jury, the time in district court this week is being taken up with court cases.

The case of Mary E. Phibbs vs. Israel La Fambroise was called and findings were made by Judge McClenahan for the plaintiff, a stay of thirty days being granted.

The case of O. J. Weekly vs. Roger C. Spooner was dismissed.

The case of James Larkin vs. Page & Hill was also tried. The court found for the plaintiff in this case.

There are several matters which the court has under consideration, in which findings have not been made, but which will probably be filed before Judge McClenahan departs, at the end of the present week.

Judge McClenahan states that it is not likely that the three judges of the district will be able to get together to make their final findings in the cases which were brought to test the constitutionality of the state fire warden law until sometime in April, probably at Grand Rapids, where Judge Stanton is very busy with court matters that will last well on into the month of April. A finding in these cases is awaited with interest by the representatives of the railroads involved and also the state fire warden's office at St. Paul.

INTERURBAN LINE

Between International Falls and Ranier to Be Built.

International Falls, Minn., March 8.—At a recent session of the village council the American Tramway company was granted a franchise for the purpose of building a loop of their proposed interurban railway system. The company was represented by A. L. Jones, its secretary, and Judge Richards, its attorney, both of Minneapolis, which is the headquarters of the company.

The franchise grants the privilege of building a loop from the outskirts of the city at the depot, west on Fourth street to Fourth avenue; north on Fourth avenue to Second street; east on Second street to Second avenue, then down Second avenue to Fourth street at the point of beginning. This will enable them to furnish street car service which will penetrate the business section of both Rainer and International Falls. Foster County, N. D., Is Going After Little Nuisances.

Carrington, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gophers, which have infested Foster county from year to year, will be given a hot chase this year as the result of the action of the county commissioners. The board has provided a bounty of 2 cents for each gopher tail brought to the county auditor's office on either April 16 or 30, May 14 and June 1. Only on these dates will payment of the bounty be made. Up to four years ago the county providid, free of charge, poison for the destruction of the gophers, but this policy was abandoned.

It was distributed to farmers in 1892, and the crop now covers more than 500,000 acres. THE COST OF LIVING

The high cost of living is not such a serious question to the man who knows how to save money.

It may mean a LITTLE longer—a little more sacrifice—a LITTLE greater determination—a few cents one way or the other makes but little difference to him—he is working to an end.

He knows that there IS AN ESCAPE—just as there has always been an escape—from oppression of any kind.

A savings account is the only help in the time of need. It stimulates and encourages the little economies and savings that finally bring relief.

TAKES OVER CUYUNA LINE

Soo Road Purchases New Branch to the Cuyuna Range.

The Price Paid Is Said to Have Been About $500,000.

A dispatch from Minneapolis says: "The Soo road has purchased from the Cuyuna Iron Range company of Duluth the newly completed line of road known as the Cuyuna Range road in Northern Minnesota. The price paid was $500,000. Planned on a scale to make construction cost $20,000 a mile, the road completed would represent $720,000 in cost. Some minor portions are still incomplete, although the line was laid and practically finished last fall.

"The road is thirty-six miles long. It extends off the Plummer to Moose Lake line of the Soo, connects the towns of Lawler and Cuyuna, and is expected to be a contributor of an ore tonnage of large proportions when the development of the range shall have proceeded farther. Ore originating on the Cuyuna Range road will move to Moose Lake, thence over the Soo to the docks at Superior, Wis.

"Cuyler Adams, who lives at Deerwood, in Crow Wing county, and who is known as the discoverer of the Cuyuna Iron range, built the road that the ore lands might be developed and the ore find an outlet. The country through which it passes is wild and largely undeveloped, but it is believed to have iron ore underlying it extensively.

"The Cuyuna Range road will make an important addition to the Soo system when the line planned by that road from Thief River Falls to Duluth, work upon which has started in places, has been completed. It is the expectation of the Soo management that populous settlements will follow when mining is more vigorously pushed on the Cuyuna range."

It has been understood in Duluth that the Soo road had been backing the Cuyuna line, and the formal transfer was no surprise.

overturn, held that solely because these individual joint owners of a group of non-competitive properties engaged for forty years in private trade instead of continuing to hold through trustees controlled by the seven defendants, changed in 1899, as the brief says, "the method of holding their properties by conveying them to the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, and that such change was a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act."

This decree is complained of as being unjust to the men who, according to the brief, "were a lawful group, lawfully doing business," and who after what is described as a mere conveyance and solely by reason thereof, became a "group of lawless conspirators," it is charged.

Says It Is Lawful.

The claim that the seven individuals are engaged in lawful business is emphasized.

"The Standard Oil business as it existed in 1906 and still exists," says the brief, "was the natural development and outgrowth of the business begun in 1862 and steadily pursued by the Rockefellers and others. By untiring energy, with infinite skill, with abundant capital and the steady reinvestment of early profits, these men and their associates created out of an entirely new, unique and unprecedented production of crude oil, a new, universaly used and cheapest illuminant the world has known.

"By creative skill they secured from refuse oil valuable by-products. They invented the huge reservoirs for storing oil—the combined pipe line system which gathers up and carries the natural products—the tank cars which carry the refined products.

Cheapened the Product.

"They created the export trade in oil, transporting it in ships of their own, construction and selling it in Asia, India, China, Japan, Russia and all Europe. They devised the trading stations—the tank delivery wagons—and used every means to cheapen the product and improve the quality.

"From 1862 to 1906 (forty-four years) the work went on. They took the risk of the failure in production, of destruction by fire and tempest, besides all the ordinary risks of trade. They met all emergencies with competent skill and sufficient funds. The unexpected enormous increase in production greatly increased their business and added to its importance and profit.

"Their methods of holding their joint properties and the management of them were dictated by economic reasons. They used the best and cheapest methods in the holding of titles and in the transportation, production, refining and sale of oil, and they sought to and did always produce the best and cheapest product.

Competed As They Built.

"They competed with the same energy and skill and they built up.

"They succeeded, as if one had developed unexpectedly a gold or diamond mine, and abundant revenue legitimately becomes theirs.

"Their business thus created was a lawful one, and the owners thereof were and are lawfully entitled to continue the same, and if in 1906, when the petition was filed, they were not restricting interstate trade or by unlawful means seeking a monopoly (which it was not), the court should not have interfered with it."

feared that the heavy spring and Easter trade will be seriously disturbed if an end is not soon brought to the industrial war.

Although it is now three days since the general strike order to all union workers in sympathy with the fight of the trolleymen's union went into effect it is still impossible to state accurately the strength of the movement. Widely divergent assertions continued to be made by both sides in the controversy.

Notice to Fat Women

Presumably you know, ladies, that the proper caper nowadays is lines. Curves are passe. You have got to take off your fat. This must be done in one of three ways. By dieting, by exercises, or by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. The two former will keep you busy for months and punish you pretty severely, the latter will cost you 75 cents at the druggist's. The tablets will not make any alteration in your diet necessary, and yet in all probability, before you have used up one case, you will be losing from 12 to 16 ounces of fat a day. Which method do you like the best?

If you fancy this pleasant method of getting off the fat, see your druggist instantly, or else write the Marmola company, 451 Farmer building, Detroit, Mich., to send you a case by mail. These cases contain so generous a quantity of tablets that the treatment is very economical. It is, also, quite harmless, for the tablets are made exactly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Will purify your blood, clear your complexion, restore your appetite, relieve your tired feeling, build you up. Be sure to take it this spring.

Get it today in usual liquid form or tablets called Sarsatabs. 100 Doses $1.

The union leaders say that the 125,000 workers they had expected to walk out are all on strike and have been joined by at least 20,000 men and women who heretofore were unorganized. The leaders say that they have been so busily engaged in organizing these recruits to the cause of trade unionism that they have not had time to compile any data showing exactly the number affected in each line of industry.

Police Dispute Leaders.

The police, on the other hand, declare that a careful compilation of the reports of a thorough canvas shows less than 20,000 on strike. The police back up their statement by a detailed list of the many concerns involved.

Independent investigators who have also made canvasses say that while the police figures are fairly accurate for the estimates reported, many occupations have been overlooked. It is also pointed out that the number of people who will be affected by the going out of certain branches of the various industries is not sufficiently considered by the director of public safety in compiling his figures, although the latter asserts he has made allowance for all such cases.

Big Area to Cover.

The difficulty in arriving at a close estimate of the number of idle workers is due to the fact that the walkout covers the entire 140 square miles of territory embraced in the city. Except in certain sections like Kensington, Manayunk, the big textile centers, manufacturing establishments are pretty well scattered. Another difficulty is that for business reasons some employers are reluctant to give an accurate statement of the number of men idle.

The lack of detailed figures from unions is due to the fact that the men out have not fully reported, and consequently no accurate reports have been received.

Aside from actual figures, it is apparent that the textile and building trades are the most seriously affected. Practically all the big building operations in town are tied up.

Breaking in New Men.

It was noticeable today that there were more learners on the trolleys under the instruction of regular men. A great many cars are running without police protection.

Labor leaders intend to seize the present opportunity to further organize the workmen of the city. Philadelphia has always been known among labor people as a "non-union town," and plans are being laid to strengthen the cause of unionism here.

The sympathetic strike has threatened a new contest, a fight for the "open shop" by employers who have had working agreements with the unions. When the strike was called many unions were working under agreements and hesitated about going out in sympathy with the trolley men.

Mayor's Course Upheld.

Mayor Reyburn is much gratified by an advertisement in the newspapers today giving the following indorsement signed by forty-four prominent men:

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Philadelphia, having at heart the honor and fame of the city as a law-abiding community, do hereby approve ad indorse the efforts of Mayor Reyburn and the city authorities to maintain order and suppress lawlessness and the destruction of property. We hope and trust that all the power at their command will be invoked ann used for this purpose if necessary."

The statement is signed by five directors of the Pennsylvania railroad company as individuals and by well known financiers and lawyers and men prominent in other walks of life.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

REALTY BEING CLOSELY HELD

West End Dealers Looking Forward to an Active Spring.

West end realty men are looking forward to a number of good sales in the spring, not only in the residence district of the West end but also in the business district on West Superior street.

O. B. Johnson has purchased from the Zenith Investment company the two-story frame building at 1918 West Superior street, having a 25-foot frontage on West Superior street and running back to Michigan street. Before retiring from the hardware business a few weeks ago, Mr. Johnson occupied this building. He paid about $7,500 for the property.

Johnson & Peterson, who purchased his hardware store, have taken out a long lease on the property. As soon as the papers in the deal are filed and other matters finally adjusted, Mr. Johnson will leave with his family for the coast, where he expects to make his future home.

Property in the residence district is commanding a good price, and an advance is looked for in the spring. On West Third street it is practically impossible to buy a corner lot, and other holdings along Third street and Grand avenue are being closely held.

WEST END MAN TAKES POISON

Tries to Kill Himself in the Presence of Aged Mother.

Becoming intoxicated, following a quarrel, in which he and his wife parted, C. A. Joanaise, 25 years old, a machine operator at the Red Cliff Lumber company shingle mill, tried to commit suicide late yesterday by drinking part of the contents of a two-ounce bottle of carbolic acid. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he is recovering.

Joanaise and his wife parted in anger a week ago, and their home at 2102 West Superior street was broken up. His children, two small girls, aged 5 and 3, went to live with a brother, L. N. Joanaise, who resides at 2609 Highland avenue. His wife is working out as a domestic in a West end home.

Since the trouble Joanaise had tried to drown his sorrows with heavy drinking. In a fit of despondency he resolved to end it all and in the presence of his aged mother who was pleading with him to break off the drink habit, he pulled the bottle of poison from his pocket and drained it. He fell to the floor with the acid dripping from his lips.

Dr. O. A. Oredson was called to attend to the man and rendered such immediate aid as was possible. It is thought that he may be able to leave the hospital today.

FIGHT FIRE AT SEA.

Crew of Freight Steamship Are Exhausted on Reaching Port.

New York, March 8.—After having fought unsuccessfully for five days a fire in her coal bunkers, the freight steamship Maude, from Argentina, arrived in port today with the crew exhausted.

The blaze was discovered March 2 while the steamship was in West Indian waters. The speed of the vessel was increased, and the crew tried to extinguish the flames, but the fire had started at the bottom of a bunker and could not be reached. The fire burned itself out yesterday when all of the coal in one division of the vessel had been consumed.

The Maude suffered no serious damage.

BEATEN AND STABBED BY SAFE BLOWERS.

New York, March 8.—On discovering three men in the act of blowing the safe in his provision store, under his living rooms in Brooklyn, before daylight today, Morris D. Warsky attacked them and was frightfully beaten and stabbed. On being beaten off in a first attack the merchant followed the safe crackers down the street, overtaking them several blocks away and renewing the fight. There he was black-jacked and stabbed and left unconscious, but a policeman continued the pursuit and one man was captured whom Warsky identified.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Duluth Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Duluth people testify to permanent cures.

William Bain, 1402 E. Fourth St., Duluth, Minn., says: "About three years ago I was in poor health as the result of disordered kidneys. My back also ached considerably. As I had heard and read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills, I made up my mind to try them and I procured a supply. After I had used two or three boxes, I was relieved and I have not had to take any medicine for my kidneys since. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Granulated Sugar Syrup.13½ oz.
Pinex ..... 2½ oz.

Put 2½ oz. of Pinex in a pint bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup made as follows: Take a pint of granulated sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This recipe will not work with any of the weaker pine preparations. Use the real Pinex itself, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract. All druggists have it or can get it easily on request.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

Asthma and Catarrh Cured

"My husband was cured of asthma and catarrh and I was cured after my doctor gave me up by using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as our only medicine."

MR. AND MRS. H. R. SAUNDERS.

This is what Mrs. Saunders writes after both her husband and herself had been cured: "My husband has suffered from asthma and catarrh for years, but by the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as his only medicine, he has found great relief. As for myself, I was given up by my family doctor 11 years ago, but I heard of your medicine and began taking it. By the time I had taken two bottles, I was able to walk out alone.

"I have recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to many people since it did so much for my husband and for me. Since I wrote you before I have bought a bottle for my sister-in-law; she is nearly worn out and the doctor told her she has Diabetes, but Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is doing her much good."—Mrs. H. R. Saunders, 959 West Main Street, Galesburg, Ill.

Ministers of the gospel, doctors of medicine, nurses and people everywhere unite in commending Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey—the only perfect tonic stimulant, the one true medicinal whiskey.

MEETING A QUIET ONE

The "New" Council Disposes of Little But Routine Business.

Organization for Year Will Be Effected at Adjourned Meeting.

The "new" council transacted its first business at the city hall last night, but after a short session adjourned to meet this evening for the purpose of organizing for the next year.

The meeting lasted less than an hour, the members transacting only ordinary routine business, the only ripple on the calm surface coming when President Frank Jordan ordered roll call on several applications for liquor licenses. The only negative votes were cast by Aldermen Moore, L. A. Barnes and J. D. Bergstrom. No complaints had been made against the saloons.

The board of water and light commissioners was asked to secure estimates of the cost of extending the hillside water and gas system from Thirteenth avenue west and Fifth street to Twenty-fourth avenue west and Richardson avenue. The extension is proposed in West Fifth street from Thirteenth avenue to Nineteen and One-half avenue west; in Nineteen and One-half avenue to Sixth street; in Sixth street to Twentieth avenue; in Twentieth avenue to Eighth street; in Eighth street to Richardson avenue, and in Richardson avenue to Twenty-fourth avenue west.

A petition was received for the grading of Colorado avenue from Vista street to Clover street; Seventh street from Wallace avenue to Colorado avenue, and Clover street from Seventh street to Colorado avenue. The city engineer was directed to prepare estimates of the cost of a storm sewer in Forty-first avenue west from Third to Seventh streets. Under the first amendment passed at the last election the cost of this sewer will be paid by general taxation.

A resolution was introduced directing the health commissioner to advertise for bids and to let contracts for garbage equipment sufficient to care for the city, but action was postponed a week. The Commercial club sent in a communication recommending that the collection be extended and that it become a free service as soon as permitted by the city treasury. The Commercial club also gave it as its opinion that the city should answer emergency ambulance calls and pay the expenses when the patient has no funds.

The council granted a rebate of $19.83 to Mrs. Maria Ceass on her sidewalk assessment. She said that her husband died last December, and having six children to care for, she was unable to pay it when due, allowing interest and penalties to the above amount to accrue.

* * *

G. G. Hartley notified the council that he is erecting a theater on Second avenue west, between Superior and First streets, and asked that no saloon licenses be granted for premises on Second avenue between First alley and First street, as it would annoy the women and children going to and from the theater.

The council was notified that the Commercial club has appointed R. B. Knox, chairman; Leon E. Lum and A. C. Volk to act in conjunction with the council committee which was recently appointed to investigate the commission form of government.

The condemnation for a roadway to open the rich agricultural district near Woodland, was ordered. In a general way the road parallels Woodland avenue and is about half a mile from it.

The city engineer was asked to make an inspection of the south approach of the Sixth avenue viaduct, it being claimed by some that it is not in an absolutely safe condition.

The health commissioner was authorized to relay the planking on the second floor of the incinerator and to repair the furnaces.

The city pay roll was passed. This was not done last week, contrary to expectations, because of a rush of business in the office of the city treasurer.

Working for Successful Institute.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club is taking steps to assume the success of the farmers' institute that will be held here next Saturday. The committee in charge of the arrangements has issued invitations to the farmers residing throughout this district and it is quite certain that there will be an immense attendance.

FEW DOSES END KIDNEY TROUBLE

Lame Back, Bladder Misery and Kidney Disorder Vanishes.

Usually sufferers from backache, bladder trouble or out-of-order kidneys, feel relieved after several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

Misery in the back, sides, or loins, sick headache, inflamed or swollen eyelids, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, dizziness, sleeplessness, listless, worn-out feeling, and other symptoms of inactive, sluggish kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discolored water and all Bladder misery ends.

Feeling miserable and worried is needless because this unusual preparation goes at once to the out-of-order Kidneys and Bladder, distributing its cleansing, healing and vitalizing influence directly upon the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it. The moment you suspect any Kidney or Urinary derangement, or feel rheumatic pains, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so through and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic, and a few days' treatment will make any one feel fine.

Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store—anywhere in the world.

CITY COMFORTS ARE INCREASING

Statistics Relative to Bathing Beaches, Zoos and Playgrounds.

Washington, March 8.—It is shown in the United States census bureau's special annual report for 1907, now in press, relative to the statistics of the 158 largest cities each having over 30,000 population in 1907, that from 1905 to 1907, the number of bathing beaches reported increased from 44 to 53; swimming pools, from 56 to 61; and all the year baths, from 15 to 78. The total bathing attendance increased from 19,158,562 in 1905 to 29,204,838 in 1907, an increase of 52.4 per cent. More than half of this attendance was reported from New York city, those ranking next in order being Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and Milwaukee.

New York has the largest acreage, 278.5, devoted to zoological parks, followed in order by Washington, 166.5, and Atlanta, 140. In the number of mammals and birds that such parks contain, New York ranks first, and Cincinnati second; while Washington ranks third in number of mammals and Philadelphia third in number of birds.

Playgrounds are maintained in 76 of the 158 cities included in the report, and the city appropriations for playgrounds increased from $516,277 in 1906 to $741,912 in 1907. More than one-third of the amount was appropriated by New York, the cities next in order being Milwaukee, Washington, and Pittsburg. Private contributions for playgrounds was greatest in Washington. The total acreage devoted to playgrounds was greatest in Indianapolis, followed by New York, Boston and Baltimore. In New York most of the area devoted to playgrounds was connected with public schools, while in the other cities named, most of the playground area was in city parks.

DISCRIMINATION WINS !!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects—always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

SCHOOLS OF UNIFORM SIZE

Policy of Board to Erect Nine or Ten-Room Buildings.

Found More Satisfactory Than Either Larger or Smaller Structures.

The erection of more schols and buildings of a uniform size will be the policy of the Duluth board of education in the future, at least while the board is made up as it is at present. The members of the board are finding that it does not pay to build either very large or very small buildings and buildings erected by the board in the future will be about eight or ten rooms with accommodations for a full grammar school course.

Some of the schools built in the past have been very large. When they were built, it was thought they would be large enough to accommodate all the children living in a large territory. The buildings are all well filled and the theory worked out well in a certain respect, but the board failed to consider the question of distance.

In the present day, parents object to sending their children ten or twelve blocks to school. They want schools near at hand, so the smaller children can safely make the trip from home to school in all kinds of weather. The rule that lunches may not be taken to school also causes considerable complaint against children going farther than a few blocks from home to school.

The school system of the city is gradually being extended and the plan is such that future complaints of the kind will be done away with. Buildings will be large enough to accommodate all of the grades, yet not so large that they must depend upon a very large territory to fill them. As soon as the funds are available, the board will build eight or ten-room buildings in different parts of the city to relieve the congestion in other schools and bring education nearer to the homes.

The first building to be erected will be that in the district near Fortieth avenue west and Fifth street. Later a building will be erected in the vicinity of Twelfth avenue east and Eighth street. It is entirely unlikely, however, that either building will be erected this year, as the district treasury is being taxed by the erection of the Fairmont and Washington schools at this time and about the only work that can be done is the building of an addition to the Oneota school.

Hamburger Devoured By German Navy.

Every nation has one or more special dishes which form the usual diet of the enlisted men of the navy, and Germany's offering to its fighting men of the sea is hamburger steak, and plenty of it. It is the main portion of every meal. The finest, purest and most wholesome table beverage on the market today is Golden Grain Belt beer. It is brewed from the best of nature's products in a better way than other beers and deserves a place on your home table. PEARY REFUSES TO SHOW PROOFS

House Committee's Request Is Denied By the Explorer.

Washington, March 8.—Commander Peary has declined to submit to congress the proofs of his discovery of the North Pole. He sent in care of Representative Alexander of New York a statement written in the third person and addressed to the sub-committee of the house committee on naval affairs, in which he set forth his reasons for refusing to send his data to the committee. The statement follows:

"Commander Peary and his friends say that contracts signed months ago with his publishers render it impossible to make his records and scientific data public now. It would not only subject Peary to heavy damages—a loss which he cannot meet, having just extricated himself from debt incurred in connection with his various expeditions—but it would be breaking faith with his publishers, which he is unwilling to do, under any circumstances."

Questions Peary's Soundings.

After hearing statements by Representatives Hobson of Alabama and Moore of Pennsylvania, urging the granting of a congressional reward to Peary irrespective of the question of his proofs, the committee adjourned Wednesday without taking any action.

The committee has received a mass of interesting communications on the subject. One is from H. L. Hopkins, secretary-treasurer of the American Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, questioning the reports of Mr. Peary's soundings taken in the vicinity of the North Pole.

"How in time did Peary, with one man, sound in 1,500 fathoms of water?" wrote Mr. Hopkins to the committee.

PLANNING BOAT LINE

On Lake Between Warroad, Keenora and Rainy River.

Warroad, Minn., March 8.—W. F. Tew says that he is in communication with prominent men of Keenora, who are working to install a steamboat line connecting Warroad, Rainy River and Keenora. The proposed line will accommodate the tourist traffic, making connection at this point with the Canadian Northern and Great Northern railroads, and at Keenora with the Canadian Pacific railway.

This trip will give the sight-seeing public an opportunity to see the grandest scenery in the country, both by water and rail. It is an assured fact that at least one boat will be put on the route by the first of June. The beautiful steamer Keenora will likely be the first craft to go into commission

NEW ENERGY IN CAMPAIGN

Y. M. C. A. Membership Committee Reports and Prepares for Canvass.

Association Holds Open House and Many Guests Are Entertained.

Members of the special committee, which is conducting the ten days' campaign for new members of the Y. M. C. A., gathered at an informal dinner last evening, reported on results thus far in the campaign and exchanged ideas for continuing the work with better results before the campaign closes March 10. About seventy-five were present at the meeting last night.

The members of the committee showed that their entauslasm had not flagged during the time the campaign has been in progress. They were all optimistic, certain that the end of the ten days would show the 250 new names on the rolls which they had set out to put there. Every speaker announced his intention of putting forth greater effort during the remaining days and urged his fellow members on the committee to do likewise in order that good results might be shown.

A. C. Le Duc presided as toastmaster. Watson S. Moore, Rollo N. Chaffee, Charles P. Craig and Elmer F. Blu spoke.

In connection with the membership campaign, the Y. M. C. A. held open house last night and a large number of non-members were entertained by the committee. The non-members were shown around the building that they might realize the great opportunities presented for social, physical and moral development.

The amateur vaudeville entertainment was largely attended and the program was thoroughly enjoyed. Physical Director A. B. Wegener did a fine club swinging act and Levin's balancing act met with hearty applause. A mandolin orchestra, Harry Howell's orchestra and the Tresise-Meagher team furnished the musical numbers, and John Sinclair and Hans Haroldson gave impersonations and readings.

Elmer Burkhardt, a boy 17 years old, was rescued by the janitor, Jacob Blaylock. The boy suffered painful burns about the head and face and is in the city hospital.

MUST DECIDE ON SALARY

No Secretary Has Been Secured for Associated Charities.

Committee Has Not Determined on Suitable Man for the Place.

The visit of B. Silberstein and Bishop McGolrick to New York was not productive of the expected results in securing a secretary for the Duluth Associated Charities. A suitable man has not yet been determined upon by the committee and will not be until at a future meeting of the organization, a definite salary is fixed for the position.

The secretary of the national organization was out of New York at the time the committee called at his office. Bishop McGolrick and Mr. Silberstein talked with several charity workers and organizers and learned of a number of good men, who might be secured for the Duluth position, if the salary is made alluring enough. Men for such positions as that of secretary of the Duluth Associated Charities command comparatively high salaries for devoting all of their time to the work. The question of a salary will probably be taken up at the next meeting and with that basis upon which to work, the committee expects to secure a suitable man for the place.

Bishop McGolrick, who has just returned from the East, says the discussion on the cost of living is just as general in the East as in the West.

"Congress has appointed a committee to scientifically investigate the causes for the high costs of living, but I do not expect very startling or very beneficial results," said the bishop this morning. "In Ireland many years ago, the potato crop was blighted and rotted in the ground and the people were starving. The English government sent commissions to Ireland to investigate conditions and with microscopes and scientific books, they examined the rotted potatoes and the people starved in the meantime. One man said that if all the literature published on the subject had been turned into bread, thousands of lives would have been saved.

"Of course, people are not starving in this country, but the poor will suffer while investigations are going on. Meat is too high and so are some other commodities. Yet many people complain of the cost of living, who should not do so. I know men in Duluth who have brought up fine families, have fed them plenty, clothed and educated their children, all on small salaries. They did not have green vegetables in winter and strawberries for dinner in January."

While in Washington, Bishop McGolrick met President Taft several times, their conversation running along general lines.

WAGE SCALE INCREASED

Woodsmen Are Now Receiving as High as $40 a Month.

Wages for common laborers in the woods the present week, have jumped in some cases from $35 a month to $40 per month.

The demand for men is very heavy at the present time, with very few men in sight. The scarcity of labor has resulted in the price for even common labor having an increase.

In addition to the increase in the wages for common laborers, the men are offered free fare to the camps as an inducement, but even with the increase in the wages and the free fare to the camps, there are but few laborers to be secured.

Labor agents state that there are a great many demands for men from the camps, with few men responding to the inducements of increased wages. The Virginia Lumber company has sent in an order for a number of men, needed because of the increased operations in the camps of the company. Other camps in the northern part of the state have been sending in orders the present week, but with slight success in having them filled.

The wage of $40 per month for common labor is the highest the wage scale has gone the present winter.

Another North Dakota Candidate.

Towner, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new candidate for state treasurer may shortly be announced in the person of Hans Rothgarn, of this county. Mr. Rothgarn has been an officer of McHenry county continuously for sixteen years, having served eight years as commissioner, four as auditor and four as treasurer.

DAINTY FOOD

Turns Pale Cheeks to Pink.

Our best physicians of the present day seek to cure patients by the use of food, rather than heavy drugs, and this is the true method, for all physicians agree that only from food can the body be rebuilt.

Many people fail to give their physicians credit, for after living on poorly selected or badly cooked food for a long time, perhaps, and when their ailments become chronic, they expect the Doctor, with some magic potency, to instantly rebuild them.

This is not possible. The only true method is to turn as quickly as can be, from poor food to good. A young lady over in Ohio says:

"I was variously treated for my nerves, muscles lungs, etc., but none of the treatments gave me relief.

"About a year ago my appetite failed completely and I began to have sinking spells similar to fainting, then I took al manner of tonics and stimulants, but they were of no effect. I had been brought to quit drinking coffee and taking Postum in its place, and gradually began to get a little better.

"Some one suggested that if I found Postum so beneficial I had better use Grape-Nuts food, as they were both the children of one brain. I commenced on Grape-Nuts food for breakfast, having Postum with it. I found the food so dainty, delicious, and appetizing that I always looked forward to breakfast with pleasure.

"Shortly after commencing this diet, the wretched pain in my side was greatly relieved, and now, a year later, it has gone entirely, also the sinking spells; in fact, my pale cheeks have changed to pink. I have gained back more than the twenty pounds I lost, and am thoroughly well in every way."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

COMMISSIONERS ARE IN SESSION

The County Board Has Several Important Matters to Settle.

The board of county commissioners is meeting this afternoon.

The meeting was to have been called ths morning, but as Clerk J. O. Walker, with the other members of the county auditor's office, was attending the funeral of Miss Amelia Smith, the commissioners met and adjourned until this afternoon.

There are several matters to come up, chief among them being the matter of the Virginia county building and the incorporation of the village of Spina.

A delegation of Virginia citizens headed by Samuel Kennedy, J. D. Lamont and William Rooney will appear before a committee of the whole and try to convince the commissioners that $100,000 is not sufficient for the needs of the range court.

Other matters to come up are the franchise for the Prindle motor line on the range and road and bridge petitions.

Stiff Neck.

Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side, or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment. For sale by all druggists.

CLAIMS FALSE IMPRISONMENT

J. E. Worthington Brings Suit Against O. G. Shawaker for $3,250.

The case of J. E. Worthington against O. G. Shawaker, for $3,250 for alleged false arrest and imprisonment, was begun this morning before Judge Ensign of the district court.

Worthington in his complaint claims that he was at work for Shawaker in the capacity of traveling buyer of furs. It was his duty to travel through the Northern states and buy furs where he could get them.

Shawaker charged him with embezzlement and had him arrested in a Wisconsin town. At the hearing Worthington claims that he was proven not guilty.

The plaintiff claims that his reputation was damaged and that his family suffered for the necessities of life during his confinement and trial.

WILL POSTPONE ART EXHIBIT

March and April Are the Busiest Months for Art Dealers.

At a meeting of the Duluth Art society Thursday at the Commercial club, the exhibition, which is to be given by the society this spring will probably be postponed. The original intention was to give the exhibit the latter part of this month, but it will probably be posponed until the latter part of April or the first of May.

Bishop McGolrick, who has just returned from the East, says that it will be difficult to secure outside exhibits at this time, as the months of March and April are the busiest sales months for the art dealers and they do not like to send their pictures out during those months without assurance of sales. As no assurance of sales could be given by Duluth people, it is probable that the exhibit will be postponed until a more convenient time for the dealers.

Bishop McGolrick says he saw art dealers in Chicago and cities of the East and they are willing to send their exhibits to Duluth at a convenient time. Art collectors and enthusiasts not interested from a commercial standpoint are also willing to show their pictures in Duluth.

"Even if we do not get a picture from outside, we will have a fine exhibit," said Bishop McGolrick this morning. "People in Duluth and the surrounding towns have many fine pictures, of which nothing has been heard outside of the immediate circles of the owners. Gathered together, they will make an exhibit of which Duluth will be proud as showing fine appreciation of art among our people. We will undoubtedly have many fine pictures from outside, however, and will not be dependent on our own possessions to make up the exhibit."

NIGHT LETTERS BY TELEGRAPH.

The Western Union and the North American Telegraph companies installed "night letter-telegram" service last night. Both will make deliveries by messenger.

The new form of messages cost about one-fifth of the sum of day messages. Fifty words will be sent at night for the regular day rate of ten words and one-fifth of this rate will be charged for each additional ten words or less. These messages are delivered on the morning of the next day. Night letters are received at any time during the day or night either by telephone, messenger or over the counter. Such messages, however, are not put on the wires until the day's business has been put out of the way.

Codes and ciphers cannot be used in the new form of messages.

WANT CHICAGO LEVEE DISTRICT CLEANED UP.

Chicago, March 8.—Two hundred women, headed by Mrs. Emily M. Hill, president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, marched to the county jail yesterday and asked Sheriff Christopher Strassheim to use his power to stamp out vice in the levee district of the city. A similar request was made upon Mayor Busse on Jan. 27. Sheriff Strassheim promised to give them an answer within ten days.

Fair Building Unroofed.

Fargo, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—An investigation at the state fair grounds disclosed the fact that the recent gale unroofed the machinery building. The structure had no side walls and the wind had a better sweep at it than other structures.

No Substitute.

PATTEN EXCITES BRITONS.

Appearance in Liverpool Startles the Cotton Traders.

Liverpool, March, 8.—The arrival here today of James A. Patten of Chicago caused considerable excitement in cotton circles, despite his disclaimer of an intention to deal in cotton or wheat and his explanation that he will be in England only for a brief holiday. Dispatches from America heralding Patten's visit hinted of the possibility of his having designs on the Liverpool market. As a result, the local dealers are watching the American's movements closely.

MAN AND WOMAN TRIED AS REBELS

Tschaikovsky and Mme. Breshkovskaya Face Court at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, March, 8.—Nicholas V. Tschaikovsky pleaded not guilty and Mme. Breshkovskaya responded: "I admit that I am a socal revolutionist," when their trial on charges of criminal activity in the revolutionary organization was begun today. The public was not admitted to the court room, the audience being confined to the prisoners, court officers, Tschaikovsky's wife and forty gendarmes and plain clothes officers. Judge Krasnemikoff presided, and the government was represented by Vice Prosecutor Chervinsky. M. Zaraudney appeared for Mme. Breshkovskaya and Vassili Malakoff for Tschaikovsky.

At the opening the court denied a motion for separate trials as well as the request by the state for an adjournment of Tschaikovsky's case in view of the non-appearance of Feodoroff, political agent of the secret police. Three other important witnesses for the prosecution also were missing. Subpoenas for American witnesses were refused.

Following the reading of the long indictment, the pleas of the prisoners were made and Mms. Breshkovskaya announced that she was ready for trial. Except her counsel, the woman had no friends in court.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

We read of and admire the heroes of old, but every one of us has to fight his own Marathon and Thermopylae, every one meets the Sphinx sitting by the road he has to pass; to each of us, as to Hercules, is offered the choice of vice or virtue; we may, like Paris, give the apple of life to to Venus or Juno or Minerva.

—Sir John Lubbock.

A REASON FOR THE UPRISING.

It may be that there still are people in Southern Minnesota who do not quite understand why Northern Minnesota has been aroused to the point where it recently gathered to discuss matters of common interest in a convention actuated by a spirit of patriotism, aggressiveness and determination that would grace any public uprising.

The state board of immigration has published a booklet describing the public lands in this state that are available for settlers, and in that booklet reason enough for the uprising of Northern Minnesota is shown.

The booklet states that there are in this state about 3,000,000 acres of state land available for the use of settlers, and nearly 2,000,000 of government land available for homestead entry.

Practically every acre of that enormous area of vacant, unproducing land is in the thirty counties represented at the Bemidji convention.

The whole state wants these lands settled upon and tilled and made productive; but Northern Minnesota wants this not only for the same reason that Southern Minnesota wants it, but for the additional reason that these idle acres constitute an enormous handicap upon the efforts of those who are already settled upon the soil of Northern Minnesota, and who are redeeming it from the wilderness.

These lands pay no taxes. They do not contribute a single dollar toward the building of roads, the construction and maintenance of schoolhouses, or the support of local government. They are waste lands, thus far; but they are worse than waste: they are an actual drag upon those who live in Northern Minnesota and who are trying to make it rich and productive.

Northern Minnesota wants the state to put these lands on the market, and to make it possible for people to buy them and till them. To that end, it is necessary that roads be built over them, the cost to be charged to the value of the lands benefited, and that help be provided settlers in the maintenance of schools. This isn't a charity that the state is asked to take up, but a sound business investment. For every dollar that it puts into the improvement of its lands, it can take two dollars back from the sale of them. Land which cannot be tilled because there is no way of getting its products to market has only a nominal value. The same land, provided with roads, is worth two or three times as much. The state asks settlers to go upon isolated tracts surrounded by lands that pay no taxes and that do not contribute to he cost of building roads and schools; and of course settlers are slow to do that. If the state will adopt the sound business policy of making its lands fit for settlement there will be no trouble in selling them.

Northern Minnesota wants this policy adopted, but it can't induce the state to adopt it because it hasn't votes enough in the legislature. Representation in the legislature is based on an apportionment made thirteen years ago. Since that time the population of Northern Minnesota has doubled, but its representation remains the same.

That is why Northern Minnesota demands reapportionment: first as a measure of justice guaranteed by the Constitution, and second as a practical means to the end of inducing the state to deal with its land business in a business-like way.

TAXATION AND FIRE PROTECTION.

That is pretty radical action which F. W. Fitzpatrick, executive officer of the International Society of State and Municipal Building Commissioners and Inspectors, proposes in his letter to building inspectors and civic societies, quoted in The Herald last evening.

He would have the cities label buildings according to their liability to fire—"fireproof," "ordinary" and "dangerous.' Probably owners of firetraps wouldn't like that plan very well. Probably, too, it would be impossible to apply it. But it is not at all impossible to provide regulations governing all new buildings that shall insure safety to their occupants and to their neighbors; and that, too, is a part of Mr. Fitzpatrick's plan.

Still more to the point are his suggestions about taxation: "As things are today, the more a man puts into a building the more is he taxed by the municipality. The one who puts up a fireproof building not only benefits himself but helps the community. He is costing it the minimum for fire protection. On the other hand, a man who puts up a fire-trap, with the foolish idea that it is a saving to himself, not only pays more than the difference in cost in insurance and repairs in a short time, but makes of his property a menace to all around him, and is costing the community the maximum for fire protection. Therefore it is common equity that taxes should be adjusted on a sliding scale so that the minimum would be assessed against fireproof buildings and the maximum against old and highly combustible buildings, for it is for them that the expensive fire protection is maintained."

In other words, taxation shouldn't penalize improvement and public spirit and put a premium on extravagance and sloth.

THE ONLY WAY.

Resolved, That we call upon our representatives in the legislature to block all legislation until a proper bill be enacted giving Northern Minnesota the representation to which it is entitled.

Thus the Cass County Development association announces the temper of its members in the matter of reapportionment.

This may not be pretty, but as The Herald said six months ago, it is the only possible way a reapportionment bill can be secured at the coming session of the legislature. The members who favor reapportionment will not have votes enough to pass a reapportionment bill; they have tried that, and they know it will not work. Those who are interested in keeping the apportionment as it is are too many.

But those members who favor a reapportionment bill and who represent constituencies that want reapportionment more than anything else, because it is impossible to get anything else without it, will have votes enough to stop the passage of any measure on which there is a division; and by such use of those votes it will be possible to put through a reapportionment bill, but not otherwise.

There will be no spirit of vindictiveness in this stand. Representatives from Southern Minnesota, with selfish interests in mind, have combined in the past to block reapportionment. It is fair enough, therefore, that representatives of Northern Minnesota should combine to bring about reapportionment. They are in the minority, and as they cannot achieve justice by ordinary methods, extraordinary methods are necessary. There will be no bitterness in the demand, but there will be determination; for Northern Minnesota has submitted to being neglected and dealt with unjustly just about as long as it can and remain self-respecting.

A BULLY IN POWER.

Alexander C. Shaw is one of the public servants who were driven out of office because they joined in the warning that saved the Alaska coal lands to the people.

If it hadn't been for Glavis, Pinchot, Price and Shaw, Ballinger would have patented these enormously rich coal lands to greedy individuals at an infinitesimal fraction of their value. Because they warned the public and prevented this steal, Glavis, Pinchot, Price and Shaw were ignominiously discharged. Because they did prevent the steal, there is a lack of evidence of Ballinger's intentions, and probably the present inquiry will result in a "whitewash." Yet Ballinger remains in office, and Glavis, Pinchot, Price and Shaw have been hounded out of office.

Nor has the persecution of these men ceased there.

Shaw has been a government employe for fifteen years, and a faithful one. When he was chief of the public lands division of the general land office his reputation was that of a capable, obliging and honest public servant. No hint of suspicion has been cast on his motives, or on those of his fellow-victims of unwelcomed zeal for the public welfare.

Shaw's public service has fitted him to practice before the land office, and has unfitted him for nearly everything else, as public service usually does. When he was discharged from the forestry division for assisting in the warning that saved the Alaska coal lands, he had to make a living, and naturally he decided to begin the practice of law in the land office.

Secretary Ballinger has refused absolutely to let him practice there. He offered no claim that this is for public reasons, or that Mr. Shaw is in any way unfit for such practice. It is mere bald, uncloaked venom and revenge. Shaw helped to block his plans, so Shaw must be punished. And the method of punishment is to deprive him of his right to earn a living in the way for which he is best fitted.

Does this strike you as a fair thing? Does it put Ballinger in any better light than before? Do you think that he has a right to use his public office in that way? If he would use public office as a means of gratifying private revenge, wouldn't he use it in other ways equally dishonest?

Naturally, you would think Shaw would have appealed to the president. He did; and much good it did him. Following his blind practice of trusting implicitly in those about him, in the circle which includes Aldrich and Cannon as well as Ballinger, President Taft has sustained Ballinger's refusal to admit Shaw to practice before the department of the interior.

President Taft gave as a reason that he believed that Shaw had as much to do as Glavis with the publicity of the attacks on Ballinger, and therefore that he is not a fit person to practice before the land office.

Queer reasoning, isn't it? There is no attempt to attack Shaw's honesty or capacity; no hint that he ever had any motive except that of respect for public office and devotion to the public service. Because he couldn't sit still and let thieves break in and steal, the whole force of the administration is bent upon his destruction, and it takes the peculiarly cruel and effective means of depriving him of his right to earn his living in the way in which he is best fitted to earn it.

PLAYING WITH DANGER.

Ice-boating is a very exhilarating sport, and when it has a spice of peril it is even more piquant and attractive. Nevertheless, the spectacle of ice-boats on the lake at this season, when any strong wind is likely to blow the remaining ice fields out into the lake, isn't good for the public nerves, and it would be just as well if followers of this pleasant sport would take less risks. Sunday, it is said, it was necessary to fish one young man out of the lake, and the chances taken by some of the ice-boaters make it rather wonderful not only that so few have been fished out, but that some haven't gone beyond the possibility of being fished out.

Ice-boating on the bay hasn't the same spice of danger that goes with ice-boating on the lake, and therefore, from the sporting viewpoint, perhaps it isn't so desirable. But the way the greater part of the ice field blew out of sight Sunday, when it seemed so solid and fixed, made ice boat expeditions on the lake seem an extremely hazardous enjoyment which it is the part of discretion and common sense to avoid.

The issue of whether Governor Eberhart is a diplomat or a dodger bids fair to be as acute as the issue of county option.

March in its beginning is lamb-like enough, and just because somebody said so some time doesn't make it certain that that means that it won't be lamb-like in its finish.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SUGGESTS BETTER LIST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you let me shy another brick at Mr. Cook and his sustenance for six on $26 per month? The first thing that struck me on reading it was, no woman used to feeding a family would have made out such a list. We all admit that the amount of money given is not enough to comfortably feed six people, but it could be managed better than that.

Suppose the family to consist of the parents and four children—those poor kids have practically nothing to eat but bread and coffee and sugar!

Now, I have a family of six most of the time, and one pound of coffee and one-half pound of tea last a month for the two grown people who drink them. We don't think them good for children.

One hundred pounds of flour lasts a month, and five cents worth of yeast foam is ample for that time. Mr. Cook's prices are lower than those I pay at retail, as most people must buy. But if syrup is to take the place of butter one quart wouldn't last four days.

And three cans of condensed milk to eat with four pounds of oatmeal and put in the coffee! Let me suggest a more wholesome list of food articles for $18 per month, only hoping that many need not pinch as hard. I leave out fuel and light as Mr. Cook has done, although every family must have them

100 pounds of flour	$ 3.40
2 bushels of potatoes	1.25
1 pound of coffee	.25
½ pound of tea	.20
1 gallon of syrup	.40
10 pounds of beans	.60
15 pounds of oatmeal	.93
Sugar	2.00
1 package of yeast foam	.05
1 quart of milk per day	2.10
10 pounds of prunes	1.00
Apples	1.00
3 pounds of lard	.50
2 pounds of suet	.15
Salt and soda	.10
1 quart of vinegar	.10
Meat	2.00
	$18.09

This is a winter list. In summer more vegetables would be needed. If any of the children were very young, one quart of milk a day would not suffice, and it is short measure in any case. No butter or eggs or high priced meat are included. If I had only so much to feed the family, I should think I couldn't afford them. The lard and suet I would try out together to make fat for frying and make corn meal mush with the cracklings which remain, to slice and fry when cold. My children like it. Of course, where the mother is not at home to manage and economize, the living must cost more. The mother who comes from a day's work must buy what can be quickly cooked—steak instead of cheaper meat that requires long cooking; bakers' bread instead of making her own. She cannot take advantage of lower prices for larger quantities. No one can know how hard it is to manage on little who has not done it.

Respectfully,
A PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPER.
Duluth, March 7.

"RAISES THE ANTE."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see Fred Sjoselius raises the ante on Mr. Cook to the tune of 34 cents per month per head.

I believe you will all agree with me that the following figures are not unreasonable for a family of six, per month:

Rent	$ 12.50
Fuel	5.00
Light	.75
Water	.50
Street Car Fare	3.00
Doctors and Medicine	3.00
Recreation and Enjoyment	5.00
Thanksgiving dinner, Christmas dinner, and a present for each of the babies	3.00
What you can afford to pay your wife for her work, 450 hours per month, board, and clothes for each member, $7.50 per month	45.00
One month's subscription of The Herald	.45
One month's expense for a family of six	$78.20
If a man works twenty days a month at $2 per day	$40.00
	$38.20
Cook allowance	$26.00
	$12.20

And it still looks bad, with no pie allowed. A FARMER.
Duluth, March 7, 1910.

WHERE WILL THE FLY LIGHT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Once upon a time—the time being now—there was a wise man, his countenance fringed in patriarchic white, and he stood on a rocky ledge on the hill back of Duluth's business center. A broad smile spread over his countenance; good cheer was written on his face and in his heart he had great sympathy for all mankind. As his gaze swept the skyline of the nearby skyscraper, the harbor and the elevators, he perceived in the hazy distance a wonderfully constructed stereoscopic picture; the scene on the right a vivid pen-picture of the story of the fly and the scene on the left a wonderfully conceived topographical map, created and developed with the magic wand of a master mind. For a few moments he gazed enrapt at the scene; then he turned to the picture on the right, softly entered upon his circuitous journey through the labyrinths and mazes of glittering generalities about inner and outer beltlines, and as he passed back and forth, over and under, through and across the beautiful level bay meadow, he pondered and pondered—where, oh where would the fly light when it had so much territory on which to light, but nowhere could he find the exact spot. Reflecting, perchance, that the said wonderfully conceived topographical map—the picture on the left—might furnish the key to the story of the fly, he turned his gaze thitherward, and lo and behold, there, right there, was the spot marked by a cross; the only spot thus designated; the needle-in-the-haystack spot; the spot on which the fly would light—state asylum (for the insane, the weak and the feeble-minded). Thus, my brother, men may come and men may go; lambs grow wool and lambs get sheared; but a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. The steel plant is in Duluth; the homes of the workmen will be in Duluth; the factories following in the wake will be distributed along the belt lines in Duluth, and the world wags on the same old way, forgetting until too late the adage of the late P. T. Barnum about one being born every minute.

RADIUM LIGHT.
Duluth, March 7.

A Great Talker.

I once met Miss Geneva, when passing by her gate,
And asked if she'd go strolling. She said, "That would be great!"
I spoke about the weather we'd all enjoyed of late,
Geneva showed her dimples, and smiled: "It has been great!"

Ensued a silence deadly, which, hoping to abate,
I asked her, "How's your mother? She laughed: "Ma's feeling great!"
The minister, two novels, a play, my sister Kate—
No matter what I mentioned, Geneva thought 't was great.

It happened, some months later—I don't recall the date—
She married Cousin Herbert (no doubt she thought him great),
"She neither sings nor writes nor plays," I heard a hip, state.
"But when it comes to talking, Geneva's simply great!"

—Lippincott's

THE WEATHER.

The mild weather continues and one is tempted to wear a light coat and take chances on the suffering a cold causes. It's certainly fine—not too slushy under foot and delightful overhead. Everybody in Duluth is happy and certain that no part of the country is more favored by the weather man.

Fine weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:35 and it will set at 6:03, giving eleven hours and twenty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric disturbances are central over North Atlantic districts and Northern Texas. During the past twenty-four hours the first mentioned depression caused snow flurries over scattered portions of the lake region, while the latter low pressure condition caused milder weather in most states lying between the Mississippi river and Rocky mountains. Somewhat cooler weather prevails along the Atlantic seaboard as a result of an increase in pressure. The barometer remains high off the Oregon-Washington coast.

"Indications favor moderate temperature and more or less cloudiness at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Montana—Fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

Useless Imprisonment.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The other day as Cleveland woman was brought before a police judge for intoxication. She is 40 years old. She has been to the workhouse fifty-three times, always for the same offense.

"I went there first when I was 19 years old," she said, "and I've been going there ever since."

A light broke in upon the judge and he ordered her released. She said she would stop drinking.

Who has sinned, this woman or the law, that she should spend her life within prison walls? Has she done any greater sin to society by getting drunk than society has done for her by keeping her in the workhouse? Or has she done any more harm to herself than society has done to her?

What a ghastly jest our legal procedure has played with this woman! For the purpose of "correction and reform" we send her to the workhouse—and send her fifty-three times. We might send her a thousand times—and thereby commit a thousand crimes against the prisoner.

There is a great deal wrong with our handling of such cases.

Tom O'Mala had a similar weakness and we put him in the workhouse more than a hundred times. He spent his life making brushes for us. Then a man with a heart and a little knowledge of psychology—which is to say, a little common sense—explained to him that he had within himself the power to straighten out his life. The man helped him—other friends helped him—and now he is a sober, useful citizen.

Negative and Positive.

Amiel's Journal: He who is silent is forgotten; he who abstains is taken at his word; he who does not advance falls back; he who is overwhelmed, distanced, crushed; he who ceases to grow greater becomes smaller; he who leaves off, gives up; the stationary condition is the beginning of the end—it is the terrible symptom which precedes death. To live is to achieve a perpetual triumph; it is to assert one's self against destruction, against sickness, against the annulling and dispersion of one's physical and moral being. It is to will without ceasing, or rather, to refresh one's will day by day.

Pleasure as An End.

Henry van Dyke: The man who chooses pleasure as the object of his life has no real haven, but is like a boat that beats up and down and drifts and drifts to and fro, merely to feel the motion of the waves and the impulse of the wind. When the voyage of life is done he has reached no port; he has accomplished nothing.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Oneota property owners are working up a boom. It is said that a manufacturing scheme will be sprung some time this month. Broadway lots are being bulled today and a number of sales have been made.

The Park Point people, or at least a part of them, seem to regard themselves still as an independent community apart and separate from Duluth. A village election is therefore to be held there this week and the following ticket is expected to be elected without opposition: President M. J. Gallagher; recorder, John Mears; trustees, E. Falconer, Alexander Shaw and A. F. Webber; treasurer, John T. Russell; justice, Walter Murray; constables, Donald Irving and Fred Hoffman.

Yesterday an old man named Stevens, one of the boarders at McKenzie's boarding house on First avenue east above First street, committed suicide by taking laudanum. He was a carpenter but had been out of employment for some time and had no money to pay the board of himself and 7-year-old boy. His wife died about a year ago.

C. J. Sheffield, the Cleveland vessel man, was at the Spalding yesterday. With him were D. E. Flint and W. F. Brown, also vessel owners. They have been up on the Vermilion range with President Morse of the Minnesota Iron company.

The Standard society, composed of prominent Hebrew people of the city, held an informal opening dance in Ingall's hall last evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Winterfield, Mrs. Bondy, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Klein, Mr. and Mrs. J. Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Levin, Miss Fannie Weiss, Miss Julia Weiss, Miss Della Weiss, Miss Carrie Hoffheimer, Miss Stella Hoffheimer, Miss S. Freimuth, Miss Rose Roos, Samuel Loeb, Louis Loeb, Joseph Sattler, Max Levy, Joseph Levy, Jacob Wolff, B. Silberstein, William Van Baalen, Samuel Van Baalen, Louis Roos and Charles Oswald. The guests from outside places were Mr. and Miss Horawitz and George L. Hynd of Tower; Miss Sophie Van Baalen and Mr. Rothschild of Chicago.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA'S CAUSE.

The Ultimatum.

Ada Herald: Southern Minnesota should sit up and take notice. Reapportionment must come or steps should be taken to block all other legislation. This may not be the proper spirit but Northern Minnesota must be given a square deal on representation in the lawmaking body of the state.

The Paramount Issue.

Brainerd Tribune: The paramount issue in Northern Minnesota: Reapportionment.

Is Southern Minnesota Awake?

Walker Pilot: Northern Minnesota is waking up, says the people in the south end of the state. Northern Minnesota has been awake for some time; it's Southern Minnesota that is just getting its eyes opened to the great future possibilities of the North.

Coming, But Not Yet Come.

Fertile Journal: Northern Minnesota is coming unto its own.

And There Is No Discord.

Waverly Star and Tribune: Northern Minnesota is waking up to the fact that "in union there is strength," and they have proceeded to unite; at least, they're doing a lot of "get-together" talking these days and that ought to help a great deal. Since all the sections of the North have interests in common there is no reason for discord.

Shamefully Neglected.

North Branch Review: Northern Minnesota is after reapportionment sure and intends to get it next year. Chisago county has little to gain one way or the other but it is only fair to say that Northern Minnesota has been shamefully neglected in the past few years. It could get what it was entitled to for the simple reason that it didn't have its fair share of representatives.

Candidates, Take Notice.

Two Harbors Journal-News: The men who attended the Bemidji conservation meeting as delegates have risen above party and bound themselves to favor the candidates who are pledged to the interests of the north country, regardless of party affiliations. This was the greatest concession that could be expected from an indiscriminate body of delegates and one that bodes no good for the candidate not in harmony with the resolutions adopted at this convention.

Just Justice; That's All.

Warren Register: The Bemidji gatherings last week took a positive and aggressive stand on the matter of reapportionment. It was fully justified in so doing. The treatment accorded Northern Minnesota by the last two legislatures in respect to re-apportionment was to put it plainly, outrageous. We should not stop at putting our own candidates for the legislature on record on this question, but we should also see to it that the state platforms of all parties and the nominees of all state conventions declare unequivocally for a redistricting that will give us our dues in both the senate and the house. We are demanding justice, nothing more.

A Great Success.

Newton Herald: The resolutions adopted at the development convention at Bemidji last week well set forth the needs of Northern Minnesota. The convention covered a political purpose as well advised as it is determined, and the Republican party and the legislature will do well to give careful heed to its proceedings. The meeting was a great success in every way, and the Bemidji people did themselves proud in their entertainment of the delegates.

That's the Idea.

Aitkin Independent: The unanimity with which reapportionment was urged at the Bemidji conservation meeting, shows that this will be one of the live issues in Northern Minnesota, and every candidate for the legislature, be he Republican or Democrat, will find that he must pledge himself to the support of no measure until a reapportionment bill has been passed which gives to Northern Minnesota the representation to which this section is entitled—no more and no less than some of the southern districts claim for themselves.

Some Not Extravagant.

New York Sun: "I can not approve of our extravagant ways of living, all of which tend to increase the cost of the necessaries of life."—Senator Smoot of Utah.

There are so very many ultimate consumers who do not have enough money to live extravagantly that if Senator Smoot's observation is repeated too often they may lose their tempers.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Kansas City Journal: "She wants to be a sister to me."

"You can easily get her out of that notion."

"How?"

"Treat her as you would a sister."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Wot's th' bosen piping to quarters fer, Jack?"

"Admiral's orders."

"Wot's up?"

"The lookout spied a Western girl in the offing, and th' old man is determined thet th' service ain't a-goin' to be thrown into disorder again."

Philadelphia Record: The Eastern tourist had just landed in Reno. Nev. "I should think you would change the name of this town to Leisure," he suggested.

"Prithee, why?" asked the native.

"Well," explained the Eastern tourist, "I was just thinking of the old saying about marrying in haste."

Puck: Willie—Did the policy holders have a voice in the affairs of the company?

Gillis—Yes—the customary howl!

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Hubby, did you bring home my new switch?"

"Yep."

"And my puffs?"

"I did."

"How about my face powder?"

"Here's your complexion. Now get busy and assemble yourself."

Los Angeles Express: "It's never too late to mend."

"It was in my case. I caught the basement of my trousers on a nail which projected from a pew as I was coming down the aisle to be married."

Kansas City Journal: Miss Sweet—It is just the sort of engagement ring I preferred. None of my others were nearly so pretty. How thoughtful of you!

George—Not at all, dear. This is the ring I have always used.

Cleveland Leader: "Why do you propose to me?"

"I swore never to marry till I found the right girl."

"And am I the right girl?"

"You are."

"So sorry! You're the wrong man!"

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Why did they call her Henny Penny, grandma?"

"There must have been a reason, lad, but it is lost in the mists of antiquity. No one today would suspect that the hen was ever connected with that humble coin."

Washington Star: "My doctor told me I would have to quit eating much meat."

"Did you laugh him to scorn?"

"I did at first. But when he sent in his bill I found he was right."

Houston Post: "Do you give your wife an allowance?"

"Yes."

"How much do you allow her?"

"Don't you think it is rather impertinent for you to ask what my salary is?"

New York Sun: Knicker—You look well-fed.

Bocker—Yes; I am eating extra meat just now so as to hit 'em harder when I swear off.

Accepting Misfortune.

Maeterlinck: There are many ways of accepting misfortune—as many, indeed, as there are generous feelings or thoughts to be found on the earth; and every one of these thoughts, every one of those feelings, has a magic wand that transforms, on the threshold, the features and vestments of sorrow. Job would have said, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord;" and Marcus Aurelius, perhaps, "If it be no longer allowed me to love those I loved high above all, it is doubtless that I may learn to love those whom I love not yet."

REFLECTIONS ON HIS NOSE

It Was a Red One Before Poslam Completely Cleared the Skin.

Because of the numerous reflections on his red nose many a man possessed of that affliction has determined to rid himself of it, and has done so quickly through the use of a little poslam, the new skin remedy, naturally flesh-colored, which heals and hides skin imperfections. Although primarily a remedy for eczema—stopping the itching with first application and rapidly restoring the health of the skin—poslam shows immediate and surprising results when used for less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, blotches, inflammations, etc. Used after shaving it will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

According to the uses for which it is employed, poslam may be purchased in 50-cent boxes or $2 jars at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, Holmberg's in Superior, also all other drug stores. A free sample, which will demonstrate its marvelous work will be sent upon request to any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

F. E. CRAWFORD DIES AT ST. PAUL

Well-Known Newspaper Man Had Many Friends in Duluth.

F. E. Crawford, managing editor of the St. Paul Daily News, died in that city last night of tuberculosis, at the age of 41 years.

Mr. Crawford was well known in Duluth, not only among newspaper men, but among the general public. Before going to St. Paul, about fifteen years ago, he was engaged in newspaper work here and was at one time city editor of The Herald. Since he took the post of managing editor of the St. Paul daily, his field of influence has spread and he was one of the best known newspaper men in the Northwest at the time of his death.

John H. Crawford, a brother of the dead newspaper man, is buyer for the Clyde Iron Works here. He has gone to St. Paul to attend the funeral. Mrs. S. Chapman of Portland, Or., is his sister and Harry Crawford, formerly of Duluth, now of New York, another brother.

Ore Shipments From Lake Superior Last Year Exceeded 1907 Output.

Hull-Rust Mine at Hibbing Sets New Mark for Single Producer.

The Iron Trade Review presents a resume of the iron ore shipments from the Lake Superior regions in 1909, showing the output to have been 42,586,869 tons. This was 320,201 tons more than the output of 1907 which up to last year was the largest on record.

The Hull-Rust mine at Hibbing, operated by the Oliver Iron Mining company, again broke the world's record for a single iron mine. It shipped 3,039,911 tons compared with 2,926,685 tons in 1908 which, up to last year, was the best record for an individual producer. The famous Mountain Iron mine at Mountain Iron which used to be the leading producer and which turned out more than 2,500,000 tons of ore in 1906 was not operated last year, work was of a development nature which included moving Mountain Iron.

The properties which got into the million-ton class are the Adams, Eveleth; Burt, Hibbing; Fayal, Eveleth; Morris, Hibbing; Virginia group at Virginia, all operated by the Oliver Iron Mining company, the United States Steel corporation's mining subsidiary; the Mahoning at Hibbing, operated by the Mahoning Ore & Steel company and partly owned in fee by the Oliver Iron Mining company and the Pennsylvania Steel company which in turn is owned by the leading interests in the Pennsylvania railroad. The Stevenson near Hibbing, operated by Corrigan, McKinney & Company also shipped more than 1,000,000 tons.

The Canisteo mine at Coleraine, which some day will be the biggest in the world if the plans of the Oliver Iron Mining company are fulfilled, shipped slightly more than 85,000 tons. The Holman, in the same district, shipped 391,157 tons against less than 2,000 tons the year before. Little of this ore, however, needs refining. The shipments from the Canisteo district this year will be more than 1,500,000 tons, it is estimated.

Eight properties on the Mesaba shipped ore for the first time. They are the Euclid, 82,627 tons; Hanna, 258,873 tons; Knox, 7,464 tons; Monica, 7,614 tons; Pearson, 68,883 tons; Perkins, 59,929 tons; Seville, 23,585 tons; Syracuse, 5,509 tons. The Silver at Virginia which is operated by the Hanna interests and which was in litigation for many years, sent out 256,973 tons.

The total output of the Mesaba was 28,176,281 tons with eighty producers. The Vermilion range sent out 1,105,215 tons from five mines. For the first time in more than a quarter of a century the Chandler at Ely was not in the producing list. The known ore body was exhausted and the Oliver Iron Mining company announced that the property had shipped its last cargo of ore. Some folks think there is ore at depth, however, and they are trying to find some. The Soudan mines at Tower which have sent out almost 500,000 tons in some years produced 74,882 tons. Many people thought the Soudan mines had outlived their usefulness some time ago but about two years ago a new strike was made at depth, and the future of the Soudan mines is assured for a long term of years. The Vermilion range has not witnessed the opening of a new mine since 1899 when the Sibley and the Savoy began shipping. Developments on the range at present are extensive, and many stockholders in Vermilion range iron companies hope to open up a few more producers. The Pioneer was the leading Vermilion producer last year, sending out 477,226 tons.

The Gogebic range shipped 4,088,057 tons; Menominee 4,875,355 tons; Marquette 4,256,172 tons; Iron Ridge 15,955 tons and Mayville 66,804 tons. The heaviest Gogebic shipper was the Newport with 1,008,554 tons; Menominee: the Chapin with 587,647 tons; Marquette: Cleveland-Cliffs group with 877,433 tons. On the Marquette range there are fifty-three mines which have not produced any ore since 1898; on the Menominee, nineteen, and the Gogebic, 11.

BIJOU PROVIDES GOOD AMUSEMENT

New Vaudeville Pleases Two Large Audiences on the Opening Day.

Good shows have been in vogue at the Bijou for some time past but the bill offered this week is just a little better than the best of them. The performers are all top-notchers in their line and the acts are varied in style. Two large audiences were much pleased with the entertainment on the opening day.

"Freckles" is the title of a one-act playlet by seven very capable actors. The play is by J. Frank Davis, an Eastern newspaper man. It is well told and is extremely interesting, telling of an interview between a veteran of the Civil war and a child of the streets.

The Velde trio of gymnasts, assisted by several very intelligent dogs, holds the audience spellbound while they are doing their stunts, some of which are very difficult. One of the dogs, a fox terrier, turns a somersault backwards from the shoulders of one of the men to the shoulders of another. The feats accomplished are very difficult and the old time worn tricks are left out of the program.

Musical Lowe, who plays the xylophone, made a hit with his classical and popular airs. The audience was loath to let him go last night and he was forced to respond to several encores. A feature of his act is a motion picture of himself playing while he is in darkness.

The Wheelers certainly can juggle. They have many troubles with an automobile that refuses to move and the machine finally explodes after parts of it leave the stage in a most mysterious manner. At the end of the turn a large ball is balanced by one of the performers on the top of a pole. The pole is knocked out of place, the ball breaks, and the man is clothed in an automobile cap and linen duster, which were not in evidence a second before. The act kept the audience guessing last night.

Wood and Lawson have a dancing turn that is much enjoyed. They mix a little comedy and sing a funny song. They are past masters when it comes to the art of dancing.

Earl Morse this week sings "Chicago," and it is a big hit

Lyceum Notes.

The attraction at the Lyceum tonight will be Miss May Robson in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

The story of the play concerns a maiden aunt, who lives in the country and hates the city. Her nephew is attending college and between times manages to get into all sorts of scrapes, the last one being with a cabman who beats him up pretty badly. To get out of this it is necessary to get $500 from Aunt Mary, as the cabman's wife will sue for this amount. His next scrape is a breach of promise suit, although he is not to blame for this. This is too much for the aunt and she disinherits him. But all is explained and everything ends happily, after Aunt Mary's trip to the city, during which the "rejuvenation" takes lace.

All who miss seeing Miss Robson as Aunt Mary will regret it, for there is not a dull moment in the play, and she keeps the audience laughing from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

"The Great Divide," an American play by an American poet, will be the piece de resistance at the Lyceum on Friday and Saturday with matinee Saturday. William Vaughn Moody, professor of English literature at the University of Chicago, is the author. This play has achieved one of the biggest successes in the history of the American stage. It has a New York run of two years to its credit. A typical Henry Miller production will be seen here. This means that it will be artistically correct and adequate in every detail.

A big surprise is in store for patrons of the Lyceum where "Follies of the Day" the big New York burlesque show will be seen next Sunday and Monday.

"Follies of the Day" has nothing in its case but stars from the ponies to the show girls, from the show girls to the principals and there are sixty-five people in all. This is the show that created such a sensation on Broadway, New York, where the show played a long engagement at the Lincoln Square theater.

A matinee will be given on Sunday. Seats are now on sale.

The Franklin Stock company will play two performances at the Lyceum March 9. The play selected for this engagement is a story of the Southern everglades entitled "Florida" and is built around the adventures of a pretty little Southern girl named Florida, whose hand is sought in marriage by an old miser, who stops at nothing to gain his end. The piece has been well mounted and special scenery will be used for every act. New specialties will also be given.

To Represent Menominee School.

Menominee, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Speer will represent the Menominee high school in the sub-district declamatory contest at Norway on Friday, April 1. Lucille Harmon will represent the local school in oratory.

A. W. Kuehnow Will Present Attendance Statistics at League Meeting.

President Sommers of Superior Will Argue for the Large Guarantee.

It is now stated that President Sommers of the Superior club will represent that organization at the meeting of the Minny league magnates, called for at Red Wing next Sunday. It is stated that President Sommers will make the trip because there are several things that Duluth and Superior want impressed very forcibly upon the minds of the other magnates.

A. W. Kuehnow will go to the meeting with an array of figures, calculated to show to a nicety the expenses of running a baseball team in this part of the country. The amounts taken in at the local games and the receipts received while the team was on the road will be shown. These figures, prepared with accuracy and placed in convincing form, will be shown to some of the other magnates when the guarantee talk arises.

President Sommers is a gruff and outspoken gentleman. Therefore he will go to the meeting instead of the genial secretary of the Superior club, according to late report.

It is expected that the question of the amount of the guarantee the present season will be one that will cause a deal of discussion at the forthcoming meeting.

Reports from Winona state that Uncle Joe Killian has signed Walter Altermatt, a former Brooklings, S. D., player, who has been signed for an infield position. As usual the new man is said to be a comer. He may be used as a utility man by Killian.

Yesterday A. W. Kuehnow received the signed contract of Old Scout Zackert. Whether the right fielder will play with the Sox the coming season is a question that cannot be decided at this time.

Word from M. J. Kelly, manager of the St. Paul American association team, brings news that Sylvester Breen is the leading candidate for the third base job. The youngster made a hit with his playing last season, and if he can maintain the gait, he will keep Boucher, his rival for the position, off the team.

TEAM WILL GO TO MADISON

High School Boys Will Take Part in Big Tournament.

It has been definitely decided that the Duluth Central high school basket ball team will make the trip to Madison, Wis., representing the Northern Minnesota district in the big interscholastic tournament that will be held in the Wisconsin capital the last three days of the present week.

The decision to send the team to the tournament was made after $22.50 was collected yesterday afternoon. The collectors will make another canvass today, when it is expected that considerably more money will be secured to defray the expenses of the team.

Harris, Johnson, Solheim, Boyle, Waldron and Kelly will make the trip. Coach Marvin Wallace will also go with the team members.

Easy for Gotch.

St. Louis, Mo., March 8.—Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world, easily nipped the championship aspirations of Dr. Brecker here last night when he downed him in two straight falls, the first in 12:52 and the second in 8:51.

Badgers Beat Hoosiers.

Madison, Wis., March 8.—The Wisconsin state university basket ball team defeated the Indiana university team 39 to 8 last night.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE)

There is a serious dispute and general mixup in the bantam class, that is as puzzling and baffling to the followers of pugilism as is the identity of a new baby to the father new to the business.

It arises from the rival claims of one Johnny Coulon, who is a Western boy, and Frankie Conley, who so recently sent Monte Attell to the land of dreams in forty-two rounds.

Before the defeat of Attell the East refused to look at the claims of Coulon. Now that another Western boy is in the running for the championship claim, the East will have very little to say in the matter.

The only way for these boys to settle the disputed championship will be for them to come out and do battle for title. The bantam class is one that really attracts, but little attention—or has in the past few years. But the other day at New Orleans 10,000 people saw Coulon beat Jem Kendrick, who called himself the English champion. The attendance at the New Orleans bout would lead to the assumption that interest in the bantam class was increasing.

KARL LEHTO,
The Pride of the Copper Country.

If the little fellows want to further increase the interest that is being taken in the frolics of the wee ones, it is a businesss-like view to suggest that they get together and fight. The average fan cares not for the disputes that are ever attendant upon a disputed title claim.

They do say that this Coulon lad is as fierce as a caged wild cat that has been poked in the eye playfully by the pink parasol held in the dainty hand of a lady. He is managed by papa Coulon, who knows where the Coulon purse is replenished and refuses to permit his offspring to take any chances that look not wise or cautious to father.

But you must hand it to the little Chicago boy. He has gone along and beaten some of the best of his class, and it is hoped that he will one of these fine sunny afternoons, or pleasant spring evenings meet Frankie Conley for the title.

They would make a nice pair to draw to—they would.

What about Karl Lehto?

You can ask a lot of people that question and you will receive a very indefinite answer.

Yes, what about Karlus?

About the only definite thing about Karl, is that he remained in an upside down position with Stan Zbyszko, when the two men in the Copper Country, Stan, or rather Jack Herman, had agreed that the Pole would toss the Finn twice in an hour. When time was called they do say that Karlus was gleefully laughing, not in his sleeve, for he was not dressed for the occasion, but gleefully withal.

Whom he met before he made such a gallant showing against the Pole, is not known in this part of the country. Even his countrymen can tell little about Karlus. He left the mat to find himself famous among the Finnish population of the Northwest. Where he prepared himself for this mustering of sudden ability, and where he learned the wrestling game, are questions that but few seem able to answer.

From his photo, which has been sent around the country on a neat little post card, one can gather that Karlus is a rounded and symmetrical chap, well supplied with beef and shrew and a frank and pleasant countenance. Judging from his photo Karlus might play the lead in one of the night stand "Prisoner of Zenda" companies.

Over in the Copper Country you might take chances of giving the undertaker a job, should you as much as intimate that Lehto is not one great and glorious romper on the mat. If you as much suggested in a casual sort of way that Chris Person was the equal of the Finn, you might be requested to leave town in a very limited period.

They are awfully strong for little Karl, yonder in the red metal district.

Chris Person returned yesterday from a trip through the Michigan open country. While entour, as they say of the one-night stand companies, Chris met and decisively defeated two home talent boys, who were the pride of the local communities. He stated that he wrestled with ease and caution, placing gently the shoulders of the local favorites on the canvas.

This blighting of the hopes of young and aspiring wrestlers is a business that sometimes makes a tender hearted wrestler weep. It so happened that once Chris wagered a goodly part of his earnings that he could throw a local celebrity in a very short period of action.

No sooner had the men shaken hands than the local coin-carrier made a rush for his dressing room. Chris, with visions of disappearing coin, was right on his fleeting trail. To get to his dressing room the village youth had to run up a flight of stairs. Chris caught him by the toe, and muttering that "curfew should not ring that night," applied the Gotch invention to the pride of the village.

The youth came back to the mat and Chris won the purse. In some of these dales and hamlets you do run across some untoward incidents.

Young Man Speer in one of the Eau Claire papers, tells a wondrous story about a colored man playing with Philadelphia under the mask of whitewash. It sounds fine—hop to it kiddo. Here's betting that it would not have taken Tyrus Cobb long to penetrate the disguise, even if he had to do it with his spikes.

It actually happened yesterday—two kids were playing on West First street with a baseball and two gloves. Let the ides of March be as fierce and unfeeling as they choose; we know spring has come and that King Baseball cannot long be kept under the cover of the weather.

Will the hoodoo never camp off the trail of the Cubs? Yesterday Frank Shulte, star outfielder of the Cubs, split his finger while pawing around in the air for a high one. It is the first accident of the season, and of course it had to happen in the camp of the Cubs.

Last season the hoodoo followed the Cubs and probably had much to do with their losing the pennant. Now the Cubs start the present season with a serious accident to one of the best men on the team.

March 17. It was upon that historic day that Saint Patrick, a great fighter, too, drove the snakes from Ireland. Because there was so much clubbing upon the historic seventeenth so long ago, it has ever been a favorite day for fighters to settle questions of fistic supremacy. It was upon one St. Patrick's day, some years ago, that Robert J. Fitzsimmons took the crown from the head of James Joseph Corbett. Each St. Patrick's day since that time there has generally been a dull thud of the padded glove as it bounced off the maxillae of some knight of the knuckle.

Coming St. Patrick's day we are to have two fights that will attract attention even in Superior. There will be the meeting of black Sam Langford and Fireman Jim Flynn, the man who is reported to have had much the best of a recent 10-round encounter with the short and thick black.

There will be the St. Patrick's day engagement of Stanley Ketchel and Frank Klaus, who has been fighting these four years, only to become famous within the present year.

Ketchel is really training hard for the fight, according to report. He realizes that he is up against a tough and rugged young fighter. It is up to Ketchel to make good, in the face of some of the reports that have been circulated regarding his gambols on the Primrose path.

As for the man in black—Stubby Sam Langford—he may win easily, and then again he may show that he has either been an over-rated fighter, or that he is going back.

Some scrumptious swatting on the day the reptiles were canned.

MUELLER TO CHATTANOOGA.

Count and McCrone Will Play Ball in the Southern League.

Count Otto Mueller and Merry McCrone will play with Chattanooga the coming season. News to that effect was received by The Herald today. Mueller will still be the property of the Brooklyn club, according to report, though McCrone has become the property of the Southern team.

It was at first believed that Mueller would play with Milwaukee, but the Chattanooga club has secured the services of the former Duluth star for the season.

PERSON DOES HARD ROAD WORK

Duluth Wrestler Is Training for Finish Match With Ordemann.

Chris Person returned from Michigan yesterday and today began putting the finishing touches on his training for his match with Henry Ordemann. The big Duluth grappler is in the best condition he has been in this winter, as he has been working out with big Fenby, champion of Michigan, who meets Zbyszko this evening.

Person took a long run today and will work out in the Duluth Athletic club gymnasium with several of the local wrestlers. He is overlooking no bets in his training, for he realizes that in Ordemann he is meeting the toughest man in the world, barring Gotch, Zbyszko and Yussiff Mahmout. Person will depend upon endurance and knowledge of the game to win, and has taken to the road to put his wind in the best of shape.

William Beaulieu of Superior, who is ambitious to become middleweight champion of the Northwest, and Ole Johnson, the big boy who made so good a showing at the Armory show of the athletic club, will go on for a finish match preceding the big bout of the evening.

Sailor Jack, whose ambition is to meet Young Miller for the world's welterweight title, will give an exhibition of his skill and speed.

Women will be admitted to the match.

HATLEY SECURES LEAD.

Runs 300 to Coleman's 162 Points in First Game of Tournament.

William Hatley of Duluth got off to a good start last evening in the roomkeepers' tournament that is being played at the St. Louis billiard parlors, between Hatley and Coleman of Milwaukee. Hatley ran 300 balls while his opponent was running up a string of 162. The play is 18-2 balk line. Part of the games will be played in Duluth and the remainder of the series in Milwaukee.

Hatley had an average of 9, Coleman's being 5. Hatley made a high run of 37, while 19 balls was the best accumulation by Coleman.

FIRST BUSINESS MEETING HELD

Executive Committee of American Bowling Congress Has Session.

Detroit, Mich., March 8.—Sport and business today were combined in the American Bowling congress. Shooting at the pins started early and was scheduled to continue until after midnight. Wheeling, Cincinnati, Oshkosh, Washington, Milwaukee, Louisville, Canton, Ohio; Baltimore, Dayton, Minneapolis and St. Paul were among the cities represented on the day's schedule.

The executive committee today held the first business session of the tournament. The principal subject before this meeting was the consideration of a number of amendments to the constitution and the approval of the prize list as drawn up by George Howard of Chicago and Treasurer Frank L. Hasdeloup.

The regular annual meeting of the bowling congress will open Thursday.

Undisturbed leaders was the order of yesterday. None of the holders of first places were disturbed during the long day's rolling. The average of the score was high, but there was no phenomenal work and the scores have climbed so high that it will take shooting far above the general run to beat the top-notchers.

Joe Shaw and Joe Rivest of Chicago were the leaders of the day's squads in the two-men event. They shot 1,188 and jumped into sixth place.

Another Chicago man, Walter Peters, had the best count in the singles, with 639, which landed him in fifth place. C. Kroll of Cleveland had the next best score and went into tenth place with 633.

In the five-men squad the Saramitas of Wheeling, W. Va., rolled into second place with the high count of 2,872. Their good total was due to a third game of 1,021, the second highest of the tournament.

COLUMBIAS DOWN MILITIA.

Clothing Company's Indoor Baseball Team Wins By Score of 9 to 6

The Columbia Clothing company indoor baseball team had the honor last evening of winning the last indoor game of the season, defeating the Naval Militia team by the score of 9 to 6.

Up to the closing inning the clothiers had decidedly the better of the contest, outfielding and outhitting their friends of the good snip Gopher. But in the last inning of the game the sailors took one of those things commonly called a brace, and rolled four tallies across the counting pan.

It looked gloomy for the outfitters, but the last man was retired before the score of the fresh-water marlners was equal to that of the Columbia boys.

The game was well played and furnished some spectacular features for the crowd. Bardwell and Butchart made catches that were of the circus order.

The lineup:

Naval Militia	Position	Columbias
Hutchins	c	Oos
Congdon	p	E. Smith
Hanford	1b	Bruen
Mahnke	2b	McDonald
Jones	3b
Case	ss	Butchart
Bartlett	rs	Libby

Score by innings:

Militia	0	0	1	0	0	1	4	—	6
Columbias	2	1	3	0	3	0	0	—	9

Struck out by Congdon 10; by Smith 10; bases on balls off Congdon 1; off Smith 5. Umpires, Skelton and Olin.

TINKERS TAFT'S TRAFFIC BILL

House Committee Makes Some Drastic Changes in the Measure.

Washington, March 8.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce yesterday made a drastic change in the administration railroad bill, striking out the provision under which a carrier which owns 50 per cent of the stock of another line may still further extend its holdings. This is one of the provisions inserted in the bill at the request of Attorney General Wickersham.

Other changes were ordered bearing upon the question of whether one line shall be permitted to exercise control over another.

The provision to allow a railroad now leasing another line for twenty years or more to renew that lease, or acquire the reversionary ownership of the lesser company, was in that portion eliminated. An amendment was adopted to prohibit a director of one line from becoming a director of a competing line.

Street Railways Not Exempt.

Another amendment which had been inserted by the senate committee to broaden the scope of competition so as to make it still more difficult for one road to own stock or exercise control of a competing line, was adopted also by the house committee. The provision exempting street, suburban or interurban electric lines from the prohibition against a railroad having an interest in a competing line, was also stricken out.

Next to the recent retention of the court of commerce feature, and the inclusion of water transportation companies in the purpose of the bill, the action today constitutes the most important step in the house committee's remodeling of the measure. In its original state it was the principal feature of President Taft's legislative program.

QUARREL'S FATAL END.

Three Lives Are Snuffed Out at Ithaca, Mich.

Ithaca, Mich., March 8.—As a result of a family quarrel, it is said, in which his wife took sides with her father, William Davidson, a farmer living near this place, struck his father-in-law, Julius Teel, with the butt of a shotgun yesterday, killing him. Securing a razor, the man cut his wife's throat, and after making sure she was dead, blew out his own brains.

DULUTH IS BEING PLACED ON MOTOR BOAT RACING MAP.

That the activity in motor boat affairs, especially the offer of Dick Schell to race any six-cylinder boat in the world for $1,000 a side, has attracted attention from the Eastern manufacturers, is made evident by the receipt of an inquiry by the officials of the Duluth Boat club from the Ducro Manufacturing company of Buffalo, the company that built the Arab III, for details of the open events that will be held here next summer, and also for more particulars regarding the challenge of Mr. Schell.

The Arab III is a six-cylinder boat, and according to the claims of the manufacturing company, has a record of 30.87 miles per hour over a five-mile triangular course. The record was made in a 25-mile race.

The Buffalo manufacturers claim that the Arab III is the fastest boat in the world in its class. Mr. Schell has disputed the claim of the Eastern boat and stands ready to race his Dingle Capitol against the Buffalo flyer.

From present indications a race will be arranged between the two boats. Negotiations are being carried on at the present time by a gasoline engine representative. Such a race would attract attention all over the country.

Early this spring the Dingle Capitol will be taken to Lake Minnetonka to represent Duluth against the cracks of the Twin Cities. Here it is confidently believed that the Dingle Capitol will have little trouble in defeating any boat in the Northwest.

ON THE IRON RANGES

RANGE TOWNS ARE HAVING ELECTIONS

Leading Contest at Hibbing Appears to Be on the Treasurership.

Hibbing, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chief interest here in the election today centers around the office of village treasurer for which there are three candidates, A. B. Smith, Dennis Healy and D. D. McEachien. Each has a host of warm supporters who are working for their respective candidates.

Village Recorder Miles Gandsey is opposed by A. H. Kieffman, whom he beat last year by 100 votes. It is claimed that at the caucus which named Kieffman 1,000 votes were cast with only about 400 voters present.

Frank Ansley will be easily re-elected president of the board, as the other ticket is not expected to poll much of a vote, Dr. Welrick, the understanding being he never having said he wanted to run again.

Judge Brady, who is opposed for municipal judge by John E. B. Bell, is believed to have a walkaway.

The Tickets at Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are two tickets in the election her today, the village, headed by Dr. E. N. Nelson for president and the caucus headed by H. W. Fugore. There is not very much interest shown as it is believed which ever side wins Chisholm will go ahead.

Two Buhl Tickets.

Buhl, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are two tockets in the field here today, the People's and the Village, as follows:

People's ticket—President, John Pasich; recorder, George R. Barrett; trustees, John Niemi, William McKinney, Nels Riam; treasurer, John Sopler; justice of peace, E. A. Barrett; constables, A. E. Fordner Erick Nylund.

Village ticket—President, M. A. Nichois; recorder, Gus Kernberg; trustees, John L. Anderson, Charles Hill, Edward Le Beau, treasurer, Dr. J. M. Riggs; justice of peace, E. A. Barrett; constables, Alden Anderson, Erick Nylund.

The following ticket is being voted on in the town of Great Scott: Supervisor, H. P. Sternbaugh; clerk, N. L. Johnson; treasurer, J. H. Grant; justice of peace (two years), L. G. Richter; constable, R. J. Hennessey.

Grand Rapids Eelection.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are six candidates for village trustee being voted for here today, of whom only three can be elected, the candidates being George Arscott, George Shook, Fred A. King, Leo Leroux, F. E. King and E. N. Remer. Messrs. Arscott, Shook and Fred King are the nominees of the village caucus.

For village recorder there are four candidates: E. A. Lefebvre, the village caucus nominee, George W. Meyers, H. E. Graffam and John Lefeve.

In the township there will be only one fight, that over the office of supervisor. A. Zeininger, the nominee of both the township caucuses, will be opposed by A. E. Wilder.

Missabe Township Election.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much interest is being exhibited in the Missabe Mountain township election, being held today, and many tickets other than the caucus ticket, it is expected, will enter the field at the last moment. The principal contest is between the "Independent" and caucus forces, as they have been preparing for the fray the past few days and have the advantage over the tickets that may be formed at the last moment by Ed Hatch and J. Smolka.

In the Fayal township election little opposition is developing to the caucus ticket which was nominated Saturday, consisting of J. J. Dormer, supervisor for three years; W. H. Plummer, clerk for one year; G. H. Dormer, treasurer for one year; B. C. Prout, justice of peace for two years; James Keehan and George Bloomfield, constables for two years; S. A. Prince, overseer of the highways for one year.

HARDING POSTMASTER.

Representative Miller Recommends E. V. Ebert for Position.

Washington, March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative C. B. Miller today recommended E. V. Ebert to be postmaster at Harding, Minn. This is a newly created office, located on the Vermilion iron range, some thirty-five miles from Tower, Minn.

LAGER GIVEN LICENSE.

Two Harbors Saloon Keeper No Longer on Anxious Seat.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Lager, a local saloonkeeper who has been on the anxious seat for fear the council might not renew his license, need worry no more as the council last night granteed the application.

When the application was first made some objection developed, it being claimed the applicant did not comply with the city ordinance at his place of business, it being alleged that he maintained too many exits. Last night several witnesses for and against the saloonkeeper were examined, and it was decided to grant the license, providing the ordinance is complied with.

BURGLARS VISIT STORE IN EVELETH

Break in Sunday Night and Get Away With $75 in Cash.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fair store was entered Sunday evening by burglars through a rear window. The burglars took $75 which happened to be lying in the cash register, having been left there by the proprietor, R. Mantel, prior to his trip to Biwabik, where he went on business. The burglary was not discovered until yesterday morning and little hope is entertained for the apprehension of the robbers as few clues were left by the culprits.

WHIPPING POST WOULD FIT CASE

Is Declaration of Judge Prince in Punishing a Wife Beater.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Perusich, arrested Sunday on a charge of mistreating his wife, was tried in municipal court yesterday. He was arrested in September on the same charge and sentenced to serve six months in jail, but after serving three months of the sentence many of his friends and relatives, including his wife, formulated a petition requesting that the defendant be set free. With the aid of the petition and a pledged taken by Perusich, Judge Prince succeeded in having Perusich set free. He then returned to Eveleth and entered the employ of the Steel company in th Adams mine, and it is reported that on his arrival he had been caring for his family and not mistreating his wife.

Sunday his six months' sentence ended and he horribly beat his wife with his hands, whips and other weapons. The testimony against Perusich proved strong and convincing, and the judge gave him $90 and casts or ninety days in jail. He was given a severe lecture by the judge, who expressed regret that the prisoner could not be punished by a whipping post. As Perusich is without funds, he was sent to the county jail this morning.

John Rapson, the alleged embezzler, who was brought back to town recently by Deputy Sheriff Horrigan from Montana for taking the White Sewing Machine company's funds from their headquarters at Virginia, where he was employed as the local agent, waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury at Virginia under $500 bonds.

Jonasa Ikola and Miko Makkinon, disorderly cases, were fined $15 and $9 respectively. Peter Anderson, on the same charge, paid $7.50 as a fine. Swan Anderson, John Carlson, John Jackson, Ole Olesen, a batch of drunks, were fined $7.50 each, which they paid.

GETTING NEW MEMBERS.

Eveleth Commercial Club Is Adding to Present Membership.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest is shown in the activities of the Commercial club. The committee consisting of F. E. Lister and J. W. TRAIN WINS RACE WITH SNOWSLIDE Clears Danger Zone By Ten Feet Just as Tracks Are Buried.

Vancouver, B. C., March 8.—A Canadian Pacific passenger train had a thrilling race with a gigantic snowslide just east of Feld, on the western slope of the Rockies. The engineer opened the throttle and the train dashed downgrade, escaping by only a few feet.

The train was westbound express No. 97. The engineer heard plainly the thunder of the avalanche booming down the mountain side. He opened the throttle and the race between the train and the snowslide was on.

The last car had just got by a steep point when the slide struck the rails not ten feet behind. An enormous mass of packed snow and ice, carrying big pine trunks, covered the rails to a depth of twenty feet. The train was stalled at Field, and news of the slide was not received until last night.

Twenty Bodies Recovered.

Only twenty bodies have been recovered from the debris of Saturday morning's accident on the Canadian Pacific near Rogers Pass at the summit of the Selkirks. Eight hundred men are clearing the tracks. On account of the danger of snowslides they work only during daylight. The rails in many places are buried to a depth of eighty feet.

It has been eestablished that no one directly in the path of the avalanche escaped alive. The official list of victims is placed at sixty-one, despite a report from Winnipeg that it was ninety-two.

WILL SET DATE FOR CONVENTION

Republican State Committee Will Hold Meeting in Near Future.

Members of the Republican state committee will probably be called together some time this month for a meeting by Chairman A. D. Brown. The committee will set the date for Republican state convention and also determine the apportionment. The latter has been determined the last two conventions by the average vote of the state ticket, the vote on the governorship being heavily Democratic, because of the candidacy of the late Governor Johnson. The same plan will likely be followed. Some have suggested that the best date for the convention would be June 15. The Duluth members-at-large are Odin Halden and Millie Athunell, while Neil Melinis of Eveleth represents the Eleventh judicial district

FIELD IN NEW YORK PROMISING

Gidding Store Likely to Be Heard From in Metropolis.

The following special dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer from New York, published in a recent issue of the Enquirer, will be of interest to Duluthians:

"J. M. Gidding of J. M. Gidding & Co., and his brother Nathaniel from Cincinnati and Duluth, left New York tonight for the Queen City after finishing up the details of their New York real estate deal, by which they are to occupy the six-story building at 564-66-68 Fifth avenue at Forty-sixth street.

"In closing up this transaction the Giddings have obtained what is considered one of the best locations on that fashionable thoroughfare and reflects much credit upon their foresightedness, as it is a recognized fact that property in that neighborhood has been advancing at a terrific rate. The building which they have taken over for a period of twenty-one years is now occupied by such firms as Redfern, Peck & Peck and others equally well known in the metropolis. They will have as their neighbors, L. P. Hollander & Co., Lichenstein, Howard & Co., Budd, Thorley, Black, Star & Frost, W. & L. Sloan and others, who are among the best known in fashionable trading circles.

"That the Gidding company will be as successful here as in Cincinnati and Duluth, where they are established, is taken for granted in New York business circles, where their reputation as live and aggressive young business men of the new school is well known. They will find a field filled with opportunity, as has been demonstrated by the brilliant successes made by many young business men coming here from other cities. From what has been learned the Giddings have succeeded in surrounding themselves with many capable and clever people, who will assist them in the various branches of their business. Their plans for their New York establishment have been laid with much care. By entering the metropolitan field and being on the ground they will be better able, they believe, than ever to keep in touch with every new fashion idea, which will be a decided advantage to their other establishments. They take over their new building on May 1 next, and expect to open the new store the following September. Before leaving for the West, J. M. Gidding closed several large advertising contracts with the New York papers and magazines with world-wide circulation. It is the intention to make the Gidding stores known throughout America and Europe."

QUICK RELIEF OF ITCHING ECZEMA

Was Surprising—Inflammation Reduced in a Few Hours and Cure Soon Followed—Boy's Torture had Been Intense for Years—Friend's Child had Eczema, Too.

MOTHER TELLS HOW CUTICURA CURED BOTH

"When my boy was six years old, he suffered terribly with eczema. He could neither sit still nor lie quietly in bed, for the itching was dreadful. He would irritate spots by scratching with his nails and that only made them worse. A doctor treated him and we tried almost everything, but the eczema seemed to spread. It started in a small place on the lower extremities and spread for two years until it very nearly covered the back part of his leg to the knee.

"Finally I got Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills and gave them according to directions. I used them in the morning and that evening, before I put my boy to bed, I used them again and the improvement even in those few hours was surprising, the inflammation seemed to be so much less. I used two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, the same of the Pills and the Soap and my boy was cured. My son is now in his seventeenth year and he has never had a return of the eczema.

"I took care of a friend's child that had eczema on its face and limbs and I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. They acted on the child just as they did on my son and it has never returned. I would recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone. Mrs. A. J. Cochran, 1823 Columbia Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20, 1909."

CONCERNING WOMAN.

When Mr. Tennyson poetically said that in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turned to thoughts of love, he, like a true poet, leaped over all the prosaic prelude right into the effect. But any up-and-coming young person of 1910 can tell you that no young man's fancy turns to love until the maiden's fancy has turned for weeks ahead to thoughts of suits and silks and spring hats and the right kind of shoes and fashionable stockings and so on, and, in that process, father's pocket book has turned inside out.

Woman is a great force in the world.

From this premise one could wander on into firstly, secondly and thirdly and lastlys. But think it out yourself. In just a few short weeks it will be time for the young man's fancy to turn. What if there were no dainfully clad, ridiculously coiffed, high heeled, pink and white bits of loveliness for his fancy to turn on. Where, one would wish to rise and inquire, would the prophet poet be then?

As would-be wits often say, without any particular application to the subject on hand, the prophet poet would be in the soup.

And so just to be kind, to let Mr. Tennyson's oft-quoted passage remain true, to let the young men find a plausible excuse for doing what Mr. Tennyson says they do do in the spring, all of Duluth and a good portion of the rest of the world are crazy over the spring things.

The windows are getting gay with bright and goregous colors; the counters are piling up with soft sliks and pretty ginghams; and gloves and silk stockings and new handkerchiefs and everything that the heart could wish are beginning to be tumbled in prodigal profusion on counters; and in a very few more days the market will be complete and everybody ready to make his or her choice.

The hats that have been shown are attracting unlimited attention. There is nothing on earth that makes one feel quite so drear and drab as a new spring hat—in the store. Its colors, its immaculate shapeliness, its aloofness all tend to make the wishful onlooker feel rundown at the heels and sagging as to skirt and drooping as to spirit. But in a few short days all will be changed. And woman will enter into that awful period of indecision when the tottering of kingdoms is as nothing compared to the anguish of soul that must be endured before the matter is definitely settled as to whether the hat shall be a baker's cap of straw with a swath of brilliant velvet, or a chanticleer toque.

Spring is not coming. Spring has came.

Spring hats are being chosen; gowns are being made; suits are being fitted; and the young man's fancy better begin to get busy.

MONEY DID IT.

Induced Mrs. Campbell to Go Into Vaudeville.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, in the midst of rehearsal for her new play, "Expiation," at the Colonial theater, found time to express some of her views for the New York Evening Telegram. In clinging black robes and heavy dark furs the actress made a superb picture, her pale face and eager eyes seeming to illumine the darkened theater. It was as if one of Helleu's portraits had come to life.

Naturally, the first question put to Mrs. Campbell nowadays is, why should she, the superb interpreter of Shakespeare's Juliet, William Butler Yeat's Deirdre, Pinero's Mrs. Tanqueray, the modernized Elektra and other heroines connected with the so-called legitimate stage, now venture into vaudeville.

"Why am I in vaudeville?" she repeated, with eyebrows elevated as if in surprise that such an obvious question should be raised. "Well, there's only one answer to that, and no argument that I could use would make the public think anything else. Money, they say, is the root of all evil, as well as many vaudeville engagements. The salary offered was particularly tempting, the theaters are luxurious and the audiences are identical with those one sees elsewhere, so why shouldn't I go into vaudeville? No, I don't flatter myself that I will elevate it, in fact, it doesn't require any elevating.

"Besides, there is something fascinating about the miniature dramas one finds in vaudeville, a sort of charm which makes it readily understood why and how the vaudeville artist is so attached to his life in variety theaters."

It was evident that Mrs. Campbell had much more to say of an equally interesting character, but preparation for a debut in vaudeville, for which she is at once producing manager, stage director and bright particular star, claimed her, and she went back to the shadowy stage, where a group of actors awaited this poised resourceful woman of ideas.

RAISING CHILDREN.

Some Things Some Folks Think You Should Do.

There are plenty debatable points about how to bring up a child.

Shall he use right hand and left equally?

Shall he toddle to kindergarten at 4, or run wild, untaught, till 7?

Shall he ever under any circumstances be spanked?

The world is not agreed.

But on one subject enlightened opinion is unanimous—children must not be scared.

A shock is never justifiable. Therefore when there is screaming at the sea dip we temper the ordeal to swimming baths.

For that fear of the dark that comes sometimes, no one knows whence, to children free from all bogy lore there are the humane night light and the comforting society of a plush bear as a bedfellow.

Everything should be delightfully and smoothly ordered, in fact, for a normal rising generation, if only parents will restrain themselves and keep their nerves out of the nursery.

Don't run to baby and pick him up the minute he falls. The child whose mother runs to him and mourns over him the minute he falls is a much to be pitied little man. Her terrified face and cry of "Are you hurt, darling? Tell mamma where. Poor little pet!" etc., will make him cry at once, whether he is hurt or not.

Very soon he will imagine that the slightest untoward event hurts him and will grow peevish and fretful.

A child who is not fussed over by a nervous and adoring mother is very different. He may have many falls. He probably will. But very soon, with his mother's cheery "No damage done, dearie," in his ears, he will learn, unless things are really rather bad, to pick himself up and go on quite happily with his interrupted game.

The first self-revelation of the child is through play. He learns by it what he can do, what he can do easily at first trial and what he can do by perseverance and contrivance.

Thus he learns through play to recognize the potency of those "lords of life," as Emerson calls them, that weave the tissue of human experience, volition making and unmaking, obstinacy of material, the magic of contrivance, the lordly might of perseverance that can reinforce the moment by the hours and time by eternity.

The child in his games represents to himself his kinship to the human race —his identity as little self with the social whole as his greater self.

Fashion Notes.

Jetted net and laces will be much in vogue. They make an expensive but exceedingly smart trimming for a handsome gown.

Patent leather slippers are always suitable to go with anything, and may be varied by different colored hose worn with different frocks.

Some designers expect that a new and lustrious weave of cashmere will be a leader. It closely resembles crepe de chine.

Self-colored, striped materials still retain their place, in spite of changing fashions, and the downfall of other well-tried favorites.

Many women prefer spun silk hosiery to the higher priced stockings of all silk. The mesh is fine and soft, and is not harmed by washing.

The simple cabin stitch, done with heavy silk, is used more than ever as a finish for dressy gowns. This is particularly effective for outlining panels and revers and collars, and cuffs as well.

Some idea of the choice of colorings offered this season may be gained from the fact that one store is showing 200 shades of broadcloth alone.

GIDEONS POINT OUT CURES FOR THE BLUES IN HOTEL BIBLES

Knights of the road, who are tired, weary and out of plumb with life generally, are to be cheered and consoled after the first of May. The consolation will come from religious and spiritual advice. The Gideons, a Christian traveling men's association, will have Bibles in every guest room of Duluth's hotels after the first of May, and special instruction will be given for the seeking of encouragement and consolation.

The association is working to encourage Bible reading among the men on the road. It was organized in 1899. From a membership of two young traveling men, its organizers, the association today has a membership of 12,000. Part of the work of the organization is to distribute Bibles in the guest rooms in every hotel in the United States.

Not only are traveling men supposed to be benefitted morally by reading the Bible, but the society also intends that the Bible shall be a tonic for those many ills that discourage men on the road alone many times and widely separated from friends.

If a man is lonely, discouraged and down in the mouth generally, a special chapter of the Bible is recommended for his reading. Upon the front page of every Bible is a list of references to fit special moods.

Below are the references to be found in the Gideon Bibles, that will shortly be installed in the rooms of the Duluth hotels:

"If you are lonesome or blue read Luke xv, Psalm xxvii.

"If trade is poor read Psalm xxxvii, 1-5.

"If people seem unkind, read John xv.

"If you are all out of sorts read Hebrew xii.

"If you are losing confidence in men read I. Cor., xiii.

"If you are skeptical read John v, xxxix.

"If you can't have your own way in everything keep silent and read James iii.

"If you are tired of your sin read the 'seeking' sinner (Luke xviii, 35); the 'teachable' sinner, John ix and vi, 1:42."

ROOSEVELT SPENDS DAY IN HUNTING

Will Visit American Mission at Doleib Hill on Wednesday.

Melut, Sudan, March 8.—Col. Roosevelt and his party devoted today to shooting. The sport was enjoyed along the banks of the Bahr-el-Jhazal, a Western tributary of the White Nile. Mr. Roosevelt has planned to visit tomorrow the American mission at Doleib Hall, near where the Sobat river empties into the White Nile. There will be no official reception to the party at Taufikia or Kodok.

Doleib Hill is the northermost African missionary outpost of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian church of North America. The station was established in 1901, and is in charge of seven Americans, including two industrial missionaries, one ordained missionary and a medical missionary.

KNOX'S SON WEDS CLERK IN STORE

Youth Expelled From School at Providence for His Elopement.

Burlington, Vt., March 8.—The marriage of Phil C. Knox, Jr., son of the secretary of state, to Miss Boler of Providence, R. I., was confirmed here today with the filing of the marriage certificate by Rev. C. G. Guthrie, who performed the ceremony. Mr. Guthrie refused today, as he did last night, to discuss the ceremony, which he performed on Sunday evening.

The first revelation at Providence yesterday of the romance proved rather disconcerting to young Knox. News of his efforts to obtain a marriage license preceded his return after a three-days' absence. Refusing to tell friends of the Morris Heights school, where he was a pupil, whether or not he had been married, he was at first confined to his room and later was expelled from the institution.

The young people left Providence for Washington last night to receive the paternal blessing.

The bride was a clerk in a department store at Providence.

TAXICAB MEN WOULD GO BACK

Slight Break Noticeable in the Philadelphia Strike Situation.

Philadelphia, March 8.—There was a slight break discernible today in the general strike situation. Some of the union taxicab chauffeurs who struck in sympathy with the carmen showed a willingness to return to work. One of the taxicab companies reports that thirty of its men desired to return to work, but the company hesitated to start out its cabs because of the fear that the vehicles may be damaged by strike sympathizers. Cab service is in tremendous demand because of the crippled street car service.

W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway employes, announced today that he had received a telegram from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, telling him that all the organizers of all the trades represented in the federation had been ordered to come here to organize non-union workers for the sympathetic strike.

ONLY HOPE IN THE LAND

"Go Back to Farms" Is Advice of Bishop McGolrick.

Returns From East Enthusiastic Over His Colonization Plan.

"There are many people here in this city who are barely making a living and who will be just as poor twenty years from now as they are now, but who have not the courage or the industry to get out on a farm and work for prosperity," said Bishop James McGolrick this morning, in speaking of his plan for the colonization of land in Becker and Hubbard counties.

Bishop McGolrick has just returned from the East, where he organized the agents working on the colonization plan, looked up exhibits for the exhibition of the Duluth Art society, attempted, with B. Silberstein, to find a secretary for the Associated Charities, and attended to other business matters.

Bishop McGolrick is enthusiastic over his colonization plan. In Winona, Chicago and Milwaukee, he says, many people are getting their affairs in shape to take up farms. The first settlers will arrive from Holland very soon. They will be met at New York by a special car and will be brought to Minnesota.

Make Good Citizens.

"The Hollanders will be good substantial people, who will make good citizens," said Bishop McGolrick. "They have sold their farms and have money to get a start in this New World. They are good farmers, dairymen and cheesemakers, and they will be the bases of good communities.

"Our workers in Winona, Milwaukee and Chicago are meeting with success. In Chicago Bishop Rhode, the first Polish bishop in the United States, is pointing out to his countrymen the advantages we offer to them in Minnesota. In Milwaukee we are getting many substantial German citizens and no nationalities on earth make better farmers than Germans-and-Poles.

"I would like to see most of the colonists come from the towns and cities of Minnesota and the Northwest. People in this part of the country are accustomed to the climate, can easily learn farming methods and will become accustomed to conditions more quickly than people from a distance. We offer greater advantages to people and I would like to see our own people of the Northwest take them.

"We are not asking people to go out in the woods. Much of the land is cleared. They will have their own postoffices, their own schools and their own churches. They will have all the advantages of civilized communities and at the same time will be able to prosper in the development of the land.

"I believe we will be successful in recruiting our colonists from the crowded centers of the cities. People with foresight who cannot see any opportunities for improvement of their condition in the cities, will turn to the land and I will be glad to help them."

Corinth, N. Pistol shots were exchanged and Conductor John Bartholomew was mobbed and injured. The railroad bridge was burned.

WATER POWER AN INFANT INDUSTRY

Senator Bankhead Declares That as Such It Needs Protection.

Washington, March 8.—"The development of water power is an infant industry and needs protection," declared Senator Bankhead of Alabama, in the course of a speech delivered in the senate today on his resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of five senators to investigate the improvement of navigable rivers with a view to recommending necessary legislation for the preservation of water power sites and the co-ordination of navigation and water where available power sites exist on navigable rivers.

Mr. Bankhead contended that congress had no control of the waters of navigable rivers, except for the purpose of interstate and foreign commerce, and that the state controlled and was entitled to the unrestricted use of the waters for all other purposes.

Spoiling Power Possibilities.

"Economy in producing heat, light and power very soon will compel the use of water power, an energizing force which we are making impossible by our present method of improving navigable rivers," said Mr. Bankhead.

Urging the promulgation of a definite policy for power development, Mr. Bankhead suggested the establishment of a government bureau as a paramount requirement in connection with a general law for the control of hydro-electric power enterprises.

FAIL TO GET BACK "KEYS OF HEAVEN"

Ohio Free Will Baptists Lose Suit Growing Out of Split of 1902.

Columbus, Ohio, March, 8.—The supreme court today handed down a decision growing out of the schism in the old Free Will Baptist church in 1902 and resulting in the establishment of what is now known as the "Free Baptist" church, involves valuable church property in Sciotoville, Ohio. The courts below held for the Free Baptists.

The supreme court affirms the judgment of the lower court, in spite of an appeal made by the attorney for the old Free Will Baptists that "our keys of heaven have been taken from us by the common pleas and circuit courts and handed over to them."

HAMMERSTEIN PRODUCES MASSENET'S "GRISELDIS"

MARY GARDEN AS GRISELDIS.

Pursuing his policy to reveal to New York all that is latest and best in French opera, Oscar Hammerstein has produced Massenet's "Griseldis." Griseldis or Rich is the operatic version of the old story of the patient Griseldis or Griselda. She was the most patient, and virtuous of women, and the most harassed by temptation. The devil himself made a bargain with her husband to seduce her, and his wife helped him in his attempt to carry out the threat. But Griseldis was proof against the wiles of the devil and the pleadings of the shepherd, Alain, and after many sufferings she was reunited with her trusting husband and her child in front of the oratory of St. Agnes in her husband's chateau. Mary Garden as the virtuous Griseldis was quite as virtuous as any one could wish; just as Mary Garden was as sensuous as any one could desire in the role of the sensuous Sapho. She is at all times picturesque and while her voice was no less rasping in this part than in others, she made the opera as interesting pictorially as Dufranne and Huberdeau made it vocally. Massenet has taken a leaf out of the book of Berlios and the devil's waltz, echoed by a distant chorus and serving as the dance rhythm for a corps of will-o-the-wisps, was very delightful.

RAILROADS

NEW MILEAGE BOOKS APRIL 1

Interstate Commerce Commission Sets a Date for Their Issuance.

A communication received from the interstate commerce commission today by local railroads participating in the interchangeable mileage tickets, that will be issued the first of April, states that there will be no further delay in the issuance of the new form of mileage, and that upon that date the new mileage book will be placed in use.

The new book is issued for 2,000 miles and is over a great number of roads. It carries the holder into territory including the following states: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Northern Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. The book will be most useful for the commercial travelers of this city. Its date of issue has been postponed from time to time, until finally the interstate commerce commission has set a definite date for the selling of the new mileage.

There will be no rebates on the new book. It sells for a straight price and there is no refund when the stubs are used.

The Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Duluth, Missabe & Northern, Duluth & Iron Range, the Omaha and the Soo are the Head of the Lakes roads that participate in the rate.

ALL STEEL CARS ON PENNSYLVANIA

Big Railroad System Is Purchasing Improved Rolling Stock.

G. L. A. Thompson, agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, with headquarters in Winnipeg, is a traffic visitor in the city today. Mr. Thompson also represents the Union line, which is a subsidiary company of the Pennsylvania system, one of the largest railroad systems in the world.

"The Pennsylvania is ordering all steel passenger cars very rapidly," said Mr. Thompson today, in speaking of the improvements that are being made in the passenger service and equipment of the different railroads of the country.

"The Pennsylvania at the present time has 630 of these all steel cars. In a short time the road will operate these cars exclusively upon some of its lines where the passenger traffic is the heaviest. In August, 1906, it was announced that all the passenger cars purchased in the future would be of all steel construction. This policy has been followed in the past to some extent."

Mr. Thompson says the present year the company will order about 250 additional all steel cars, making about 900 in the use of the Pennsylvania at the end of the present year.

WILL NOT BUILD TO CHISHOLM

Missabe Will Not Build the Much Discussed Line This Year.

Rumors that the Duluth, Missabe & Northern would extend to Chisholm early this spring, were denied today by Chief Engineer Dresser of the road. The rumor has been current here for the past week, but according to the statement of the chief engineer of the Missabe, only spurs and some extensions that are being built at the present time, will be pushed this spring.

At the present time work is being rushed on the Missabe extension south of Hibbing. This is the spur that will haul ore from the Hull-Rust mine. There will be some other extension and spur track work done in the Hibbing district, but nothing will be done on a line to Chisholm.

HID GALL'S ACTS TO SAVE HIMSELF

Max P. Emmerich Testifies in National Bank Case at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., March, 8.—In the rough blue uniform of a convict of the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., Max P. Emmerich, formerly a bookkeeper of the Capital National bank of this city, testified in the United States court today that Paul C. Gall, a tobacco merchant, had led him into covering on the bank's books Gall's overdrafts. The first overdraft, he said, Gall asked him to "carry a few days as a favor." Gall promised repeatedly to "make good," Emmerich continued, but persistently overdrew his account.

Emmerich at the same time was concealing his own embezzlement of $40,000 from the bank, and feared that if he did not protect Gall an investigation would be made that would uncover his embezzlement.

Gall is on trial charged with implication in the defalcation. No testimony has been introduced that he was aware Emmerich was an embezzler.

More Men at Work.

WHEELING MEN MAKE FAIR SCORE

R. E. Summerson and Charles Nolte Lead Day's Two-Men Event.

Detroit, Mich., March 8.—R. E. Summerson and Charles Nolte of Wheeling, W. Va., were the leaders of the first three squads in the two-men even of the tenth annual tournament of the American Bowling congress today with 1,126. This score will land them a portion of the prize money, but was not high enough to get them into the exclusive first ten in the standing. The 1,126 was largely due to a 220 contributed by Summerson in the third game.

Three teams tied at 1,123 for the second best score of the three squads. They were Allison and Shaffer of Washington, D. C.; Miller and Kraus of Washington, D. C., and Barron and Plummer of Cincinnati.

Leading scores:

Two-man teams—R. E. Summerson, Wheeling, W. Va., 172, 118, 220; Charles Nolte, 197, 189, 160—1,126.

FAVORABLE TO THE BULLS

The Government Report Was Less Bearish Than Was Expected.

Wheat Advances Sharply After It Was Made Public at Noon.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 8.—After the government's estimate of farm reserves was received at 1 o'clock this afternoon wheat jumped upward 1 cent. The upturn carried values 1 cent over yesterday's close for May and ⅞c over for July.

While the report, which estimated the wheat in farmers' hands at 173,384,000 bu, cannot be accurately described as bullish, yet because it was lower than most traders and crop experts had guessed, it had the effect of being bullish. On its receipt the professional element started a swift buying movement which carried values forward 1 cent in the few minutes before the close. The percentage of reserves is 23.5, according to the government.

The wheat market was a scalping proposition until the bulge following the government's report.

May wheat opened at $1.11⅞ asked, declined to $1.11¾-⅞, advanced to $1.12¼, lost ⅛c, regained it and advanced to $1.12⅝-¾, declined to $1.12⅜, jumped to $1.13¼, and then sold at $1.13¼-⅜, closing at that price asked. The July option opened at $1.12 asked, declined to $1.11⅞-¾ and went to $1.12⅛ and back to $1.12¼-⅜ and then to $1.13, closing at $1.13 bid.

Flax was fairly active, crushers being in the market for small quantities. Some speculation in futures gave a little tone to the market. May and September at $1.70¾ and went to $2.17½, then to $2.18 and up 1c, closing $2.18 asked. July closed $2.18 and septemmber at $1.70¾ and went to $1.70 bid and sold at $1.74½ and closed at that figure. October sold at $1.62 and closed at $1.67 bid.

Cash wheat was slightly easier today, selling at ½@⅞c over the near option. Oats closed ⅛c off, and rye and barley were unchanged.

At the opening wheat declined on selling by commission houses, but the recession was soon checked. Shorts began to buy freely and the market became congested. Values advanced to a fraction over the opening on short buying and then began to decline as trading slackened. The professional element got in readiness to follow the leaders on the announcement of the government's report. Values were weaker at 1 o'clock when the report was given out.

Crop news was plentiful and of a sufficiently sensational character to cause a bull market if the reports had been given credence. News of a more favorable character, however, was more plentiful than for some time, and traders who had not taken the early scare reports as seriously as the tenders had hoped, found considerable satisfaction in the messages from the West and Southwest saying that wheat in many places had not been damaged and that the prospects are excellent for a bumper crop.

A discouraging factor is the cash wheat market. The demand is slow and premiums are slowly weakening except here, where premiums have strengthened on buying by mills and the fact that this market will need more grain than has been coming in, for shipment when navigation opens. Other cash markets, which are of predominate influence, report reduced prices and millers seem to be in no hurry to buy. The cash situation has been one of the foundations of the market, but it appears to be giving away under the great pressure to which it has been subjected. The bull reports of damage to the growing wheat are not sufficiently influential to bolster up what has been a declining market subject to many bearish factors.

Primary receipts are coming in freely and farmers continue to feed out supplies not only to the primary markets, but in sufficient quantities to the localy mills for current requirements. The government's report shows that there is a large supply of wheat in first hands, and it is generally accepted as a fact that the supply in second hands is much larger than a year ago, even though the visible may not show such bearish figures. Stocks in the Northwest continue to increase and the flour situation is easier. Stocks seem to be liberal and the general jobbing demand is not active.

The foreign situation is bearish. Cables today were lower on increased offerings and prospective liberal shipments from Argentina this week. There was no pressure to dispose of La Platta, which exercised a steadying influence, said Broomhall. Bradstreet estimates the wheat increase in Europe at 2,600,000 bu and the world's increase at 3,812,000 bu. The increase for the United States and Canada is 212,000 bu. World's shipments continue heavy. The supplies in Argentina are decreasing rapidly and Russia, the Danube and Canada continue to put afloat large quantities, which add materially to the shipments from Australia and India. Crop conditions in foreign countries, generally, are excellent. European buyers are now in an independent position so far as the United States is concerned and there is reason to believe that they will be in a position to dictate prices with a firmer hand than at any time within several years. There is no apparent possibility of selling old for export wheat from this country and there is a possibility of that the demand for the new grain may be less brisk than the exporters hope for, unless values decline to a level which will allow competition with other exporting countries.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market was under pressure of slightly increased offerings prompted by the easy American cables yesterday and the pressure to sell Australian steamers due off coast. Following the opening the market showed a further decline of ½@⅝d with moderate realizing on the weakness in Budapest and predictions of a further heavy increase in the European visible and expectations of liberal shipments from Argentine this week. These influences were partially offset by the fact that there was no pressure to sell La Plata cargoes and this had a steadying effect. At midday the market was steady at the decline and ⅜@½d lower than yesterday. Corn was nominally a penny lower on the cheaper American offerings and the weakness in American cables."

It is expected that Bombay will ship wheat, but at present wheat is not being offered. Merchants at Curracheee are not offering wheat being forestalled by speculators."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rally After Weak Opening—Demand Is Good.

Chicago, March 8.—Wheat prices rallied today after a weak opening. In the first hour the market on a good demand topped yesterday's closing figures for the distant deliveries and regained practically all of the initial decline in May. At the outset May showed the greatest slump, selling off from 2⅜@⅝c to 1@1¼c, while the other futures opened unchanged to ⅝c down. Conditions throughout the wheat belt give promise of growing weather. Reports from the fields were conflicting, tales of crop damage continuing to shade the rosy hued prophesies of some experts. Commission houses took hold of the market early with an abundance of buying orders, and ran May up from $1.10⅛ to $1.11⅜, the other options climbing with the nearby months. Prices steadied on the high point. Opening prices for May were $1.10¾@1.10⅞.

The market continued fairly steady until near the close when the government figures on farm reserves were announced and the bulls took possession of the pit, running prices rapidly up until May sold at $1.13, which was 2⅜c above the low point for the day. The advance in the other futures was not so great. The hurry to buy subsided almost as rapidly as it gathered, but the subsidence left all futures well advanced in prices. The close was still strong with May ⅞@1c up at $1.12⅛; July, 1¼c up at $1.05½ and September 1⅞@2c up at $1.01⅝.

Considerable selling in corn at the start gave a bearish trend to the market, initial prices being a shade to ⅝c off. A rush of shorts to cover checked the decline, and carried prices back to a trifle higher than yesterday's closing point. May advanced from 61⅜@62½c. Opening figures for May were a shade to ⅛@⅜c off at 62@61⅜c.

As in the wheat pit corn prices lurched forward on the farm reserve report, May crowding up to 64c from 62⅝c, July touching 66⅛ and September 66½. The edge of the high price was taken off before the close and May finished ⅝@¾c up at 62¾c, the other futures losing much of their sudden gain.

Oats steadied after the major grains showed strength. Opening prices were ⅛@⅜c off and fluctuations were within narrow limits. May opened ⅛c to ¼@⅜c down at 44@44⅛ to 44¼c.

Despite another advance in live hog prices in the packing centers, first figures for provisions were generally easier. Within an hour, however, the strength of grain buoyed the market and initial declines were more than recovered. Opening prices for the May products were: Pork, $24.77; lard, $13.35@13.32½, and ribs, $12.80, 5c off.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Has Firmer Tone Throughout the Session.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 8.—The government estimated 173,000,000 bu of wheat in farmers' hands on March 1, or 23.5 per cent of the crop. This reserve is the largest during the last ten years, excepting the year 1907. There was nothing bullish in this report, but it was evident that the figures had been over discounted on the recent decline, for when this estimate was announced wheat prices advanced 1½c. The tone throughout the session was firmer.

Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 400,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 390 cars of wheat as compared with 187 cars a year ago; Duluth 88 cars against 182 cars and Winnipeg 229 cars against 226 cars. May opened, $1.11¼; high, $1.12⅞@1.13⅛; low, $1.11¼; closed, $1.12⅛. July opened, $1.11⅛@1.11; high, $1.12⅝; low, $1.11; closed, $1.12⅜@1.12½.

Cash wheat was about steady. Demand was a trifle slow. Elevators were the leading buyers. Offerings liberal. No. 1 northern sold for the even may price to 1½c above, and No. 2 northern for a 2c discount below the No. 1 northern. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.12¾@1.13¾; to arrive, $1.12¾@1.13¾; No. 2 northern, $1.10¾@1.11¾; to arrive, $1.10¾@1.11⅜; No. 3 wheat, $1.06¾@1.10⅝; No. 3 yellow corn, 62⅜@56¾c; No. 3 white oats, 42½@42⅝c; No. 2 rye, 73¾@75¾c.

Flax—Receipts, 35 cars; year ago, 16; shipments, 6. Demand continued strong for both spot and to arrive at 1c above the Duluth May option. Closing prices, $2.18¾.

Barley—Receipts, 79 cars; year ago, 67; shipments, 48. The market was a trifle easier today. Demand was strongest for malting barley, offerings of this grade being light. Closing prices were steady to 1c lower. Closing range, 56@64c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,048 tons. There was no change in the situation today. Demand fair; shipments normal; prices firm. Bran in 100-pound shacks, $22.00@22.50.

Flour—The market was steady today. Demand was slow and shipments showed a falling off. Prices held firm on yesterday's decline. Shipments, 41,808 bbls. First patents, in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.10@5.60; second patents, $5.20@5.40; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.10@3.40.

The Cotton Market.

New York, March 8.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 2@7 points, and sold 9 to 17 points net higher during the early trading. The opening was rather better than due on the showing of Liverpool and there was some local selling in consequence, but offerings were checked by the appearance of strong bull support.

Spot closed quiet, 15 points higher; middling uplands, 14.80; middling gulf, 15.05; sales, 2,900 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: March, 14.69; April, 14.60; May, 14.63; June, 14.38; July, 14.36; August, 13.75; September, 12.94; October, 12.55; November, 12.37; December, 12.36.

STOCKS ARE UNSETTLED

Tone Uncertain at the Opening and Is Followed By Decline.

Some of Standard Stocks Rise Later and the Close Irregular.

New York, March 8.—Opening dealings in stocks today were very active, but the price changes were narrow and mixed. Some of yesterday's strongest features, amongst them United States Steel, fell back on realizing. New York Central was conspicuous with an opening sale of 3,500 shares at 125 and 124½ compared with 123½ last night. Rock Island preferred rose 1 and Northwestern and Interborough-Metropolitan preferred large fractions.

The uncertain tone at the opening was succeeded by a general decline, the heavy realizing in United States Steel, reading and Amalgamated Copper having a depressing effect. Reading, Rock Island and Amalgamated Copper were forced down a point below yesterday's closing and Bethlehem Steel and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1¼. United States Steel sold down to 87¾ and American Steel Foundries 1. Later there was a considerable recovery. New York Central extended its gain to 2¾, Reading and Union Pacific sold nearly a point above yesterday's final prices. United States Steel made up its loss. The general list, however, showed heaviness in spots. Pacific Mail gained 2 points and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis, American Cotton Oil, American Car and American Agricultural Chemical 1.

St. Paul, in which the movement had been narrow for a long time, was lifted into prominence, large purchases running the price up 2 points. High quotations were made for some other of the standard stocks. United States Steel touching 88⅝, Northern Pacific, Northwestern and Pittsburg Coal advanced 1, the preferred 1½ and International Pump preferred 2. Realizing sales were renewed and prices fell back.

The market closed irregular and somewhat unsettled. A reviving effect on the general list was produced by pushing up United States Steel to 88⅞. Prices as a rule did not get higher than the morning level. Realizing sales again affected prices toward the last.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

TWENTY-SEVENTH YEAR. LAST EDITION WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9, 1910. TWO CENTS.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

REPORT BIG DEMAND FOR KNOWLEDGE OF MINNESOTA'S LANDS

Railroads and State Bureau Run Out of Literature About Them.

Coming Conservation Congress Is Resulting in Wide Advertising.

Railway Companies Have Given $2,750 to Fund for Meeting.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the few weeks that have elapsed since Governor Eberhart issued his proclamation calling the first Minnesota conservation and agricultural development congress to meet in the St. Paul auditorium March 16 to 19, the Northern Pacific Railway company has received more requests for information relative to Minnesota lands than for the preceding five years, according to L. J. Bricker, general immigration agent of the Northern Pacific.

So great has been this demand for information from those who are becoming interested in Minnesota because of the coming sessions of the congress that the Northern Pacific supplies have become exhausted, and pending the receipt of more matter, the railway has been compelled to call upon the state immigration bureau.

Run Out of Literature.

George Welch, state commissioner of immigration, is no better off than the railway, however, for an extraordinary number of inquiries and requests for information have come into his office. Other railroads in the state are having experiences similar to those of the Northern Pacific.

In sending a check for $500 to E. S. Warner, treasurer of the conservation congress, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, through its president, Marvin Hughitt, brought the total of the conservation fund raised by the railways to $2,750 yesterday. The contribution was acknowledged by the personal good wishes of Mr. Hughitt.

Railroads Swell Fund.

The railroads have shown their good will toward the conservation congress in a contribution of $500 from the Soo line, $500 from the Great Northern, $250 from the Duluth & Iron Range, $250 from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and $250 from the Minnesota & International, in addition to which each railroad is spending a large amount of money in advertising and in special printed matter devoted to the conservation congress.

ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING INTENSE

Rioters Drive Manager of Bogota Railway to Shelter in Legation.

Bogota, Columbia, March 9. — The rioting which began with a quarrel between the manager of an American-owned street railway and a police officer on Monday is continuing. The anti-American feeling is intense. The mob which forced the suspension of street railway traffic committed further violence during the night. As a result the American manager was forced to seek safety at the United States legation.

TIE UP THE PAPER MILLS

More Men Quit Work for the International Company.

New York State Militia Company Sent to Corinth to Keep Order.

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 9.—More workmen have joined in the strike against the International Paper company. Today 200 men employed at the company's plant in South Glens Falls quit work in sympathy with the 600 already on strike at Corinth. The company's mills at Fort Edward probably will be closed tomorrow, making the shutdown in this vicinity complete.

The two unions, the pulp, sulphite and paper mill workers, and the International Brotherhood of Paper makers, have joined hands in the strike.

The Delaware & Hudson railroad has a gang of men at work in Corinth today repairing the trestle which was burned by the strikers in the riot of Monday night.

Militia Sent to Corinth.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 9.—Company L of the Second regiment, N. Y. N. G., a Saratoga command, was ordered to Corinth today to maintain order.

Parties of strike-breakers for the mills have been arriving at this village since midnight. Every entrance to Corinth village is patrolled by strikers.

HAS JOINED THE RANKS OF THE POLYGAMISTS

ABBAS HILMI,
Khedive of Egypt.

London, March 9.—The khaedive of Egypt has gone in for polygamy and there is great excitement in England. He has recently married an Austrian countess. He already had an Egyptian wife, Ikbal Hanem, who has borne him several children. Polygamy has been the habit of the khedives, but it has been understood that Abbas Hilmi was committed to monogamy.

SEES PERIL TO NATION

New Jersey Man Protests Against Chartering Rockefeller Foundation.

Says It Would Establish Precedent That Might Have Serious Results.

Washington, March 9.—From George W. Dacunha, an architect of Upper Montclair, N. J., has come an open letter protesting against the Gallinger bill to grant a federal charter to the Rockefeller foundation. The letter, which has been received by the senior senator from each state, sets forth that "the incorporation of Rockefeller's millions and the granting of a charter by the United States is a dangerous precedent against public policy, being special and class legislation and on a line with the granting of charters by crowned heads with extraordinary powers."

It is stated by Mr. Dacunha that the placing of the accumulations of Rockefeller in an incorporated body eliminates the family, and thenceforth there can be no inheritance tax collected from the successions of this fortune.

Sees Money Menace.

If the extraordinary charter asked for in this case is granted, says Mr. Dacunha, "there can be no excuse hereafter for not granting similar charters to any and all the wealthy families of the land. They in turn could combine and form one of the greatest aggregations of money in the world and one that could dominate and overcome all opposition."

An open meeting of the senate committee on the District of Columbia will be held Friday, at which Starr J. Murphy, one of the Rockefeller representatives, will explain the purposes of the foundation.

GOPHERS THICK AT THE CAPITAL

Duluth, Virginia and Eveleth Are Represented Among Visitors There.

Washington, March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller this morning accompanied Morris Shanedling and J. Mesberg, merchants of Virginia and Eveleth, Minn., to the White House, and introduced them to the president. Messrs. Shanedling and Mesberg have been in New York on business and are breaking their homeward journey by taking in the sights of the capital.

N. F. Hugo and wife of Duluth arrived in Washington today and have taken apartments at 1217 M. street. Mr. and Mrs. Hugo have come to Washington to spend a few weeks visiting their daughter, who is a student at the National Park seminary, located at Forest Glen, a suburb of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Hugo, with their daughter, expect to make a trip to the Bermudas later in the spring.

RALPH ST. CLAIR FOR SELLWOOD POSTMASTER.

Washington, March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller today recommended the appointment of Ralph St. Clair, formerly of Duluth, to be postmaster of the newly-created postoffice at Sellwood, an office recently established in the famous Section 30. The new office was named in honor of Hon. Joseph Sellwood.

BEGIN TRIAL OF MAYBRAY

Iowa Town Is Scene of Court Inquiry Into Big Swindle.

Fourteen of the Eighty Defendants Arraigned---Marks Is Sick.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, March 9.—With the opening of the trial of James C. Maybray and eighty other defendants in the federal court, all charged with being concerned in wholesale swindling by means of "fixed" races, prize fights and wrestling bouts, the population of this town was visibly increased today. The proceedings are of particular interest because of the wide territory over which the defendants are alleged to have operated and the prominence of the persons who fell victims. About 100 witnesses from a dozen states are here to testify.

Maybray and thirteen of his associates were arraigned before Judge Smith McPherson this morning. Thirty others named in the indictment have been arrested in different parts of the country and will be brought to Council Bluffs as fast as the cases can be heard.

The government has considered the prosecution of these men to be of sufficient importance to assign to take charge of the cases Sylvester R. Rush, special assistant to the attorney general of the United States.

Harry Forbes on Hand.

Conspicuous among the defendants is Harry Forbes, the prize fighter, who was arrested at the ringside after he had been badly beaten last week by Abe Attell. Forbes still shows the effects of his fight. He reached the city last night. Clarence Ferbes, also a prize fighter and said to be a brother of Harry Forbes, is another defendant.

Benjamin Marks, the wealthy Council Bluffs politician alleged to have been a promoter with Maybray, was too ill today to appear in court. Twelve civil suits for amounts aggregating $70,000 are awaiting trial against Marks and officers of the First National bank who are alleged to have taken part in financing the big swindles.

AUTOMOBILE SINKS IN THE QUICKSAND

Owner Escapes But Car Is Lost in Canyon in California.

Pasadena, Cal., March 9.—His automobile wrecked in a swollen creek, A. B. Carmoody, a wealthy young resident of Seattle, Wash., lost his car in quicksands and barely escaped with his life when attempting to pass through Solidad canyon, a torrent-swept mountain pass. He was on a trip from San Francisco to Los Angeles. The accident happened Sunday, and Carmoody was forced to spend the night in the canyon. Ranchers who came to the young man's aid went back to look for the automobile and found that the conveyance had disappeared in the sands. Carmoody arrived here yesterday on a freight train.

BIG SCANDAL UNEARTHED

France Deeply Stirred Over Confession of Thefts of Huge Sum.

Million Dollars Taken By Duez From Church Sale Proceeds.

Paris, March 9.—The arrest of M. Duez following his confession that he had misappropriated something like 5,000,000 francs ($1,000,000) of the funds derived from the sale of church property, for which he was the liquidator, has created a great sensation. Intimations are freely made that other liquidators in the employ of the government are similarly involved.

The Republican press finds no words of excuse for the disgraced official, and lays much of the responsibility for the conditions of affairs upon the immense amount of work assigned to a single liquidator. At the same time these papers accord the government unstinted praise for courage in exposing the scandal on the eve of the general elections, when the affair is sure to become a powerful weapon in the hands of Catholic adversaries, who

AIRSHIP LINE TO OBERAMMERGAU

"Passion Play" Visitors Can Travel in Latest Style of Conveyance.

Munich, Bavaria, March 9.—The first regular air navigation service in Europe will be started May 25.

Regular trips will be made from this city alternately to Starnberg and Oberammergau, the scene of the Passion play. A dirigible balloon of the Parseval type, having a gas capacity of 6,700 cubic meters and driven by two motors of 100-horse power each, will be used.

The aerial carriage will accommodate twelve passengers besides the crew. The fare for the round trip to Starnberg will be $55 and for the round trip to Oberammergau $175. The regular service will close for the season Sept. 1. An officer from the German aeronautic corps has been detailed to serve as captain of the dirigible.

KNOCKS OUT TAFT'S COURT OF COMMERCE

Washington, March 9.—"The interstate commerce commission" was substituted for the proposed "court of commerce" in the proposed administration railroad bill by the house committee on interstate commerce today.

PENNSYLVANIA LABOR UNIONS WANT NATIONAL STRIKE CALLED

Pass Resolutions Contingent on Failure to Arbitrate in Philadelphia.

City Authorities Fear Outbreak as Result of Night Shooting.

Two Employes of Car Company Arrested---Four Persons Wounded.

Newcastle, Pa., March 9.—The ninth annual convention of the State Federation of Labor, in session here, today unanimously adopted a resolution asking that in the event of arbitration of the Philadelphia strike question failing, the American Federation of Labor call a national strike of organized and unorganized workmen.

Rioting Is Feared.

Philadelphia, March 9.—Despite the excitement created last night by the "shooting up" of one of the principal thoroughfares by a trolley car load of alleged strike-breakers from St. Louis, there were no serious demonstrations against the trolley cars in operation early today.

C. O. Pratt, the organizer of the carmen, denounces the affair which occurred in Frankford avenue and resulted in three men and a 14-year-old girl being taken to the hospital suffering from bullet wounds received when the trolley men fired from a swiftly moving car into the crowds. He said it was the usual last resort of the strike-breakers who, finding everything quiet, shoot up a town to incite trouble. The victims of the bullets are not seriously hurt.

Fear Outbreak of Revenge.

Although many lines were running today without any sign of trouble, much apprehension was felt as to the outcome of the feeling stirred up by last night's attack. The police are trying to fix the blame for the reckless gun play.

It is alleged that the strike-breakers, on learning that one of their num-

WILLIAM G. McADOO.

New York, March 9.—It is reported that T. P. Shonts is to retire from the management of the Interborough company in New York and that W. G. McAdoo will succeed him. Mr. McAdoo is the man who successfully financed, constructed and operated the Hudson river tunnels. He introduced middle doors in cars, operated by pneumatic power, applied pneumatic power to the end doors and adopted every improvement which could add to the comfort of his passengers. Mr. Shonts, as the head of the subway, has persistently fought every proposition for the improvement of the subway. The headway of trains has been cut down, passengers compelled to stand in hours when traffic was comparatively light and every order issued by the public service commission has been evaded. The net result is that the public is inimical to the subway and uses it under protest. And the proposition of Mr. McAdoo to extend the Hudson tubes to the Grand Central station, which was fought by the subway people, met with strong popular approval and was accepted. Mr. McAdoo's election to the presidency of the subway company would be welcomed with joy by the people of New York.

KILLS SELF IN GRAIN BIN

North Dakota Man Dives From Top to Bottom of the Receptacle.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fatal dive of forty feet from the top of a grain bin to the bottom was taken at 6 o'clock this morning by Ole Larson, agent of the Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company at Reynolds, N. D.

Larson left home shortly before 6 o'clock, saying that he did not feel well. His mother, with whom he lived, became anxious when he failed to return, and gave the alarm. Searching parties were organized and four hours later his body was discovered in an empty grain bin.

Larson had gone directly from his home to the elevator, and climbing to the top, had jumped into the bin, striking on his head. An inquest will be held by the coroner of Trail county.

ASK TEDDY TO STUMP WEST

Congressional Campaign Committee Said to Have Sent Request.

Spectacular Tour of Insurgent Territory Is Plan They Have Outlined.

Washington, March 9.—The Republican congressional campaign committee, it is reported here, has taken initial steps to enlist Former President Theodore Roosevelt in the coming campaign upon his return to the United States from Africa.

Officials of the committee, it is said, have been in correspondence with Mr. Roosevelt and have unfolded to him a plan which contemplates a spectacular speech-making tour of the West, particularly in states where the so-called insurgent movement is militant. The former president's attention is said to have been called to the fact that in 1906, President Taft, then the secretary of war, made a tour of the West upholding the policies of President Roosevelt and appealing for a return of a Republican house of representatives. That it will be comparatively easy to convince Mr. Roosevelt that "turn about is fair play" is said to be the belief of the committee.

HAS BEST SHOTS IN UNCLE SAM'S ARMY

Company C, Fifteenth Infantry Leads Them All in Use of Rifles.

Washington, March 9.—Company C, Fifteenth infantry, has the best rifle shots in the United States army according to the general order just published by the war department exhibiting the results of rifle and pistol firing by the troops during the year 1909. Troop I of the Fourteenth cavalry holds the next best record, with a general figure of merit of 108.86 as against 119.48 for Company C. The best regimental record was made by the Twentieth infantry, 91.72. The best cavalry regiment is the Fourteenth, which scored 87.97. The Department of California is the champion in a general average, with a record of 85.83.

Washington, March 9. — President Taft today sent to the senate the following nominations for the new customs court of appeals: Chief Justice Robert M. Montgomery of the supreme court of Michigan to be presiding judge. Associate judges: William H. Hunt of Montana, James F. Smith of California, Orion M Barber of Vermont and Marlon Devries of California.

SAY IT HITS STATE RIGHTS

Briefs on Corporation Tax Plead Violation of Sovereign Power.

Former Chief Justice Marshall Quoted By Attorneys.

Washington, March 9.—From the briefs filed in the supreme court of the United States in opposition to the corporation tax, lawyers draw the conclusion that one of the principal fights on the constitutionality of that measure is to be waged over the question of whether the tax is an infringement on the power of the states to grant franchises. The question comes up for oral argument before court next week.

Frederick H. Coudert, counsel in two of the cases in which the tax is opposed, argues at length against the so-called infringement by the federal government.

"The power to grant charters," he said, "is one of the oldest state powers. It antedates the revolution. Taxation, with its logically concomitant potential destruction of this power by the general government, would thus be an attack upon, and possibly annihilation of, one of the greatest and oldest of state functions."

Quote Marshall's Words.

In the brief of John G. Johnson and Frederick J. Stimson in opposition to the tax in another case the argument is concluded with this quotation from former Chief Justice Marshall:

"No political dreamer was ever wild enough to think of breaking down the lines which separate the states, and of compounding the American people into one common mass."

Jed L. Washburn, in a brief in favor of holding the tax unconstitutional, refers to the same point as follows:

"If whatever the United States has a right to do," said he, "the individual states have no right to undo, it is equally true that whatever the individual states, in the exercise of the reserved power under the tenth amendment have a right to do, the congress of the United States has not the right to undo."

IMPROVEMENTS TO SAWMILL

New Saw in Rainy Lake Mill Will Increase Output.

With the installation of a new diamond saw to replace a horizontal band saw at the Virginia & Rainy Lake mill, a notable improvement has been made, which not only means a saving of a great deal of the log which formerly went to the slab pile or burner, but which is also expected to increase the daily output of the mill by 40,000 feet.

The new saw has been in operation about a week and is proving the success that has been claimed for it. Heretofore there has been considerable waste from the log, but with the re-saw, it is being demonstrated that from 5 to 10 per cent more lumber can be taken from the log than formerly. Besides the installing of the new saw, an addition, 40 by 16, has been built to the mill to provide room for other new machinery.

The improvements at the mill this winter will mean the employment of an additional twenty men on the shifts, making about 160 men in the employ of the company at West Duluth. Plenty of logs are in sight to insure steady work for the men on both shifts for this summer and next winter.

With the new improvements installed it is expected the daily output at the mill has been increased to about 150,000 feet.

New Walk Ordered.

At the council meeting last evening, a sidewalk was ordered laid across the unplatted tract at Bayview Heights, as a continuation of the walk ending at Olney street and its intersection with the Belt Line road. The new sidewalk will connect with the one on Vineland street. The new walk will replace an old footpath which has been used considerably by West Duluth and Proctor people. The motion directing the board of public works to take action on this was introduced by Alderman Barnes of West Duluth.

With the Curlers.

Tonight at the West Duluth rink, Miller and Hewitt will clash in the finals of the Hendrickson event. All the games tonight will commence at 8 o'clock except this one which will be started at 7:30 p. m.

Other games this evening are as follows: Burns event, Olson vs. Keyes; Esterly event, Zauft vs. Method and Wade vs. Macauley.

ARRESTED ON OLD WARRANT

After evading the police a number of weeks by taking several trips into the country to see his grandparents, only coming home occasionally, William Davidson, 17 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon on an old warrant, charging him with breaking into a box car containing feed and stealing some of the contents.

Young Davidson was arraigned last evening before Judge Flack, where he pleaded not guilty. He was tried and was fined $10 and costs or thirteen days in the county jail. He paid the fine. Charles Wedin, hay and feed dealer, of the firm of Wenberg & Wedin, 6216 Grand avenue, was the complainant.

Some time ago, Mr. Wedin caught Davidson and another younger boy in the act of breaking a seal and entering a box car which had been spotted at his place of business. He furnished the police with this information, but before the boy could be arrested on a warrant, he had taken a trip to the country to visit his grandparents.

The other day the police learned that he had returned and served the warrant on him.

WILL BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Ralph Jones, Alleged Slayer of Whitehead, Will Plead Self-Defense.

Next week the trial of Ralph Jones, charged by the grand jury with the murder of Walter Whitehead, the negro pugilist, will be begun.

Jones will try to prove self-defense, and is said to have engaged the services of a Minneapolis attorney of his own race to defend him.

Jones is not as popular as most of the colored people who spent time in the county jail. What friends he has, however, are loyal and they spend all the time with Jones that the jailors will allow. He gets many flowers from women admirers.

RALPH JONES.

The trouble out of which the alleged murder grew began in one of the local colored clubs. Whitehead and Jones were playing at a game of chance and there were words over some point in the game. The climax came when Jones, it is said, attacked Whitehead with a knife, cutting him severely about the body. Whitehead died a few days later as the result of the injuries.

The knife with which the cutting was done is now said to be in the hands of the sheriff. It is a long, dangerous looking weapon.

Both sides are said to be ready with their cases and it is expected that the trial will be one of the first to be taken up next week.

MRS. ALBERT C. RIBENACK DIES

Well-Known Duluth Woman Passes Away After Brief Illness.

Mrs. Albert C. Ribenack, wife of the president of the Lenox Hotel company, died at 7 o'clock this morning at the family residence, 106 South Fifteenth avenue east, of pneumonia.

Mrs. Ribenack had been ill for the last eight days. Her illness reached a crisis Monday morning, when it was not expected that she would survive the day. She rallied, however, and her recovery was hoped for, but early yesterday morning a relapse set in, and death came very suddenly.

Mrs. Ribenack was 42 years of age and was married to Albert C. Ribenack twenty years ago in Chicago. She was born in Kilbourn, Wis.

Her husband and one child, a girl of 17, survive her.

Though funeral arrangements have not been definitely made, it is thought that the funeral will be held from the home Friday afternoon. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

His lecture here will be given in the high school assembly hall and his subject will be "The Moral Education of Children." He will also speak in Superior on "The Meaning of Play."

LONG DELAYED CHECKS RECEIVED

Today there is rejoicing at the city hall. It's pay day and the faithful servants of the city have not received any compensation for their labors for five or six weeks, the pay roll not having been passed last week because of a rush of work in the office of the city treasurer.

"It's fierce," exclaimed one of the ever faithful this morning. "It sure is a long time between times. My girl won't even look at me now. She wanted to go to "The Music Master," but what could I do? If I paid the price for a seat in 'nigger heaven,' I'd have had to go without lunches for a week. Not that I wouldn't do that for her, but I didn't dare to ask her to sit in the gallery. She also wanted to see May Robson last night. If she'd been willing to walk we could have watched the crowds going and coming, but that's all, for it took my last bean to get to work this morning. And if I hadn't come downtown how could I draw my 'breath?' So there you are. If the goddess of fortune and feminine smiles favor me, I'll be able to do something to retrieve myself—maybe. Otherwise I guess I'll have to find another girl or travel in single blessedness the rest of my days."

ARRAIGNED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

On a charge of rape, Donald Gray McLeod this morning pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

The grand jury returned the indictment against McLeod at the last session, but as he was not in custody, the matter was not at that time made public.

The grand jury accuses McLeod of having taken advantage of Miss Sarah M. MacLean when she was in an unconscious condition.

Judge Cat fixed the bond at $3,000.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—At the American bowling congress today Ohio bowlers predominated in the early squads but many from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Louisville and Chicago were on the alleys later.

The executive committee today prepared a slate for the election of the 1910 officers and also acted upon the proposed amendment requiring the tournament to be opened on a Saturday in February. Action was deferred at yesterday's session because of the determined opposition of St. Louis.

The Missouri delegation wishes to have the tournaments started earlier in order that baseball players may be afforded a chance to compete.

INNER-PLAYER
The name adopted to describe exclusively the player action manufactured only by the Cable Company

Easy Music

No matter how difficult it may be written, it's easy to execute on an Inner-Player. All the best magazines of the world tell you of this wonderful instrument—to hear it played will astonish you—to operate it will prove an unending source of pleasure—it's so easy. It responds to every touch—it may be played like an ordinary piano, if you like—you really have two pianos in one.

We are sole representatives in this city for this fine instrument. The fact that you can buy this player here for quite a little less than other dealers are asking for inferior makes, is all the more of a reason why you should see it.

INNER-PLAYER PIANOS ARE NOT ASSEMBLED—THEY ARE BUILT FROM THE GROUND UP—A PERFECT PIECE OF MECHANISM. -:- -:- -:-

Many piano manufacturers buy different parts of their pianos from other makers—here and there. These are assembled—a name stamped on the case—and some people make a mistake in buying an instrument of this kind, because that's the only kind some dealers handle. There is no uniformity to the construction—it cannot be guaranteed, and the only virtue it has is its cheapness. Don't make a mistake and buy one of this class.

The Cable Inner-Player is built by the Cable people from the ground up. They are put together under direct supervision of the inventor—every piece that goes into a Cable Inner-Player is fully guaranteed. Every Inner-Player is fully and carefully tested before it leaves the factory.

We can sell you one of these fine instruments at a price so low that it is folly to buy a cheaply made instrument at any price.

An Inner-Player Piano opens a new realm to music lovers—it creates a desire to hear and play classic music. Besides this, you can be absolutely sure of the correct rendition of every piece, because the Inner-Player Piano responds to every touch perfectly—no stumbling or blundering efforts are ever possible with a Cable Inner-Player. There are only three levers to operate. They produce natural expression. Music on an Inner-Player does not sound like a street organ.

NOTICE—If you are interested in these wonderful instruments; if you would like a Catalog; if you would like any kind of a piano—we have a special offer to make. We want you to buy a piano on our special plan—you are under no obligation if you fill out and mail us this blank. We will give it prompt attention, and you will be surprised at how easy it is to buy and pay for a fine piano or piano player on our plan.

RAILROADS

NO NEWS OF THE STRIKE

Railroad Men Are Anxiously Awaiting Action of Firemen and Engineers.

Not Believed Here That Situation Will Come to Crisis.

No news has been received at the Superior division offices of either the Great Northern or the Northern Pacific relative to the threatened strike of the firemen and enginemen of the railroads west of Chicago. It is believed that some report from the general offices of both the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern will be received this afternoon.

In railroad circles of Duluth but very little definite information can be gained regarding the seriousness of the threatened strike. There is little known here and the railroad men are wondering if the Western roads are again going to be tied up with a strike, just as they have recovered from the setback caused by the strike of the switchmen.

"I have a large blister on my hand this morning," said one of the agents of this city, "which will be a good start for the others that will come, for if the firemen go out on strike, I am sure that some of us will have to go in and shovel coal, just as some of us had to switch when the switchmen went on a strike."

There is a belief in local railroad circles, that the troubles that loom on the railroad horizon will be settled by arbitration and that no serious results will come of the present situation.

At the superintendent's office of the Great Northern at Superior there was nothing known of the strike, further than the information contained in the press dispatches.

However, the Great Northern officials stated that no trouble is expected and that it is not believed that there will be a strike.

D. M. Philbin, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Great Northern, is out of the city today, and his view of the situation could not be learned. K. M. Nickes is also out of the city, but none of the assistants in the office knew anything of the local end of the threatened strike, or had heard anything from the general office of the Northern Pacific at St. Paul.

Firemen in the union depot yards this morning had nothing to say in regard to the situation. The whole situation, at least from the local standpoint, seems one of waiting for something more to develop in the case.

This morning railroad men, especially freight men, expressed the opinion that the going out of the firemen would, for a short time at least, cause the railroads great inconvenience.

At the head of the Lakes at the present time, ars are scarce. Many of the roads have not been able to handle their business. A strike of the firemen at this time would mean the further crippling of the railroads.

LYCEUM—Franklin Stock company.

AUNT MARY REJUVENATED

And a Large Audience at Lyceum Shares in the Rejuvenation.

Others besides Aunt Mary were rejuvenated at the Lyceum last evening. Two hours and a half of May Robson's comedy would turn the Sphinx into a giggling girl, if the Sphinx possessed any sense of humor whatever. The Lyceum was filled last evening, a rather rare occurrence this winter for some unknown reason, and a more enthusiastic house hasn't been seen this year. The audience thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it.

The rather slender plot tells of Aunt Mary, who hasn't been away from her farm for twenty-five years, and her trip to New York, where her favorite nephew is in disgrace. Her nephew and his companions decide to give Aunt Mary the time of her life, and they succeed. Aunt Mary is up and coming every minute, and so enthusiastic does she become over city life, that the third, the scene of which is back on the farm, shows her being about in a roller bed turning the handle of an ice cream freezer and blowing a horn trying to delude herself into the belief that she is motoring. The nephew's troubles, of course, are straightened out.

Practically the same company was seen in Duluth last year. Miss Robson's comedy is as delicious as ever, and her interpretation of the warm-hearted, irascible, maiden lady, who proved herself such a game sport, is thoroughly delightful. The idea is a novel one, and it has been splendidly worked out by Anne Warner, the dramatist. It is doubtful if Miss Robson will ever find another part that will suit her as well, although Booth Tarkington is said to be now engaged on a play for her use.

About the only important changes in the company are in the roles of Betty and The Girl From Kalamazoo, and they have not been for the better. Miss Faye Cusick, while not pretty, is a rather attractive looking young woman, but she is handicapped by an awkward stage presence, and last evening she recited her part like a high school girl in her class play. The Girl From Kalamazoo should have stayed there, and help her mother with the housework.

Miss Robson wisely retained Jack Storey in the role of her scrapegrace nephew, Jack, and Paul Decker as Mitchell, his chum. Miss Nina Seville, whose work as Lucinda is one of the most delightful features of the production, has also been retained. "Lucinda" is a scream, and Miss Saville is to be congratulated on presenting one of the best character bits ever seen in Duluth.

Unfortunately Aunt Mary was rejuvenated in Duluth only once, and those who missed the performance last night will not have another opportunity to see it in Duluth, unless Miss Robson finds Aunt Mary too valuable a role to be abandoned, and retains it next season.

Lyceum Notes.

The Franklin Stock company will appear at the Lyceum again tonight, presenting a story of the Sunny South called "Florida." The plot of the piece has to do with the fortunes of a little blind girl named Florida, whose hand and fortune are sought by an old miser, whose only desire is to gain possession of her estate. Some time prior to the story, the miser assaulted the brother of Florida and thereby caused him to become demented, but through careful nursing, he is restored to reason and denounces his assailant and frustrates his designs on Florida. The play has been carefully mounted and completely equipped from a scenic standpoint. Popular prices will prevail.

"The Great Divide," William Vaughn Moody's successful play, will appear at the Lyceum for an engagement of two nights and Saturday matinee, beginning Friday, March 11. The career of "The Great Divide" has been a most successful one. The scene is laid in the picturesque portion of the Far West, the Rocky mountains, the great divide between the East and the West. A first-class company has been provided, and the production is precisely the same as that which won such praise during the 630-nights' run at the Princess and Daly's theaters, and the Academy of Music, New York.

BEGINS ACTION FOR DIVORCE

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment and naming specific instances, Mrs. Charlotte G. Maher, 31 years old, this morning began suit against her husband, Mike Daniel Maher, 38 years old. The papers beginning the action were filed with the clerk of the district court.

They were married in January of 1897, Mrs. Maher claims in her complaint that a few days after the ceremony the ill-treatment began. She states that her husband came home day after day in an intoxicated condition and that he beat her continually.

She says also that as a result of the treatment her health has been greatly impaired. She wishes an absolute divorce, such alimony as the court may deem proper, and the right to resume her maiden name.

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CITY

The case of Daniel Cole against the city of Duluth for $1,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he fell into a coal hole near First avenue east on Second street, Feb. 24 last, began this morning in district court before Judge William A. Cant.

Cole claims that the cover of the hole, which was made of wood, gave way or tipped, when he stepped on one edge of it, and he was thrown into the opening. He claims that as a result he sustained severe bruises and was confined to his home for some time by his injuries.

HAIR REMOVERS ARE DANGEROUS

Physicians Say: "Don't Use Poisonous Depilatories."

The extravagant claims recently made by unscrupulous manufacturers of hair removers in sensational advertisements unquestionably justify physicians in cautioning the public against the use of this class of depilatories. How many people have been enticed into using these dangerous preparations with consequent injury to themselves, cannot be estimated, but only guessed at.

The preparations above referred to are invariably in the form of creamy pastes, which are to be spread upon the skin to remain until they dry. These contain Sulphide of Barium, an insoluble chemical, which cannot be dissolved, therefore cannot be absorbed by the skin. The very fact that you are told to leave these pasty compounds on the skin until they dry and cake and then lift off with a knife is proof positive that they are not absorbed. If they are, why do they still remain on the skin? The most they can possibly do is to remove the surface hair, which in consequence will reappear stronger and thicker after each removal.

There is only one logical and scientific way to remove hair, and that is by means of a liquid containing soluble ingredients which can be absorbed by the skin. De Miracle, known all the world over as the only real superfluous hair remover, is just such a preparation. It is easily and quickly absorbed, and after you have used it you will note there is nothing left on the skin. It leaves the skin free from irritation, and what is more to the point, it is absolutely nonpoisonous, therefore it will not produce eczema or blood poisoning. Remember, no matter what claims are made to the contrary, no poisonous pasty compound or other worthless concoction can reach the hair root, and we can prove it.

Beware of the fake free advertisers and others. Don't be deceived by them. Better take a doctor's advice. De Miracle is sold by I. Frehmuth. We will send you a 52-page booklet containing full information concerning this remarkable treatment, as well as testimonials of prominent physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and the principal magazines. You should read this booklet before you try anything. Write to De Miracle Chemical Co., Dept. 38, 1005 Park av., New York, simply saying you want this booklet, and it will be mailed, sealed, at once.

OLD NORTH CHURCH CROWN'S PROPERTY

Historic Edifice in Boston Has Its Story Stripped of Romance.

Boston, Mass., March 9.—The Old North church, otherwise known as Christ Episcopal church, famous in song and story, was buffeted by its friends before a legislative committee yesterday. Its historical value was questioned and its property value was said to belong to the British crown. The struggle was due to a bill which provides that the state should acquire the church and maintain it as a place of historic interest.

The joint committee of ways and means heard three parties to the controversy. Sexton Watkins remarked that the story of the signal lantern, which is said to have sent Paul Revere off on his memorable ride, has been questioned and is based mostly on Longfellow's poem.

Belongs to Crown.

One of the petitioners, a member of the D. A. R., admitted that a recent examination of the title had shown that it never had been relinquished by the crown of England. Then a secondary quarrel developed between the Episcopal diocese and the parish as to the ownership of the church. Finally the committee learned that the petition had been withdrawn and abruptly closed the hearing.

The district in which the historic edifice stands is peopled by foreigners and their descendants.

SHUBERTS LOSE SPOKANE HOUSE

William Morris has just leased for twenty years a new theater under construction at Spokane, and has taken another important step in his invasion of the West with independent vaudeville. The new building at Spokane was begun for the Shuberts, but they have dropped out and Morris has taken hold. Morris has also secured a site at Vancouver, a new theater at Salt Lake, and has negotiations on for the Auditorium at Denver. A Morris house will open early in April in Omaha, and Seattle and Portland will also have theaters on the circuit.

It is not improbable that Duluth will be included in the circuit, as Morris representatives have been looking over the field here for some time and he may enter in opposition to the Orpheum people when their new theater on Second avenue east opens.

Hair Health

If You Have Scalp or Hair Trouble, Take Advantage of This Offer.

We could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as we do, if we were not certain that it would do all we claim it will. Should our enthusiasm carry us away, and Rexall "93" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in us and our statements, and in consequence our business prestige would suffer.

Therefore, when we assure you that if your hair is beginning to unnaturally fall out or if you have any scalp trouble, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness, you may rest assured that we know what we are talking about.

Out of one hundred test cases Rexall "93" Hair Tonic gave entire satisfaction in ninety-three cases. It has been proved that it will grow hair even on bald heads, when, of course, the baldness had not existed for so long a time that the follicles, which are the roots of the hair, had not become absolutely lifeless.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is vastly different. We believe that it will do more than any other human agency toward restoring hair growth and hair health. It is not greasy and will not gum the scalp or hair or cause permanent stain. It is as pleasant to use as pure cold water.

Our faith in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong that we ask you to try it on our positive guarantee that your without question or quibble if it does not do as we claim. Certainly we can offer no stronger argument. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store. The E. M. Trolsway Drug company, 103 West Superior street.

The shooting took place while the woman's husband was downtown. It told of the man's determination to kill the woman and himself. It was unfit for publication.

ber had been injured by a stone thrown while he was operating a car, decided to get revenge and took out a trolley without the permission of the company. Running down Frankford avenue they shot into every crowd they saw and quickly returned to the barn by a cross-over switch.

Acting Captain of Police Daly said today that two of the transit company's carmen had been arrested for the Frankford shooting and that the police are searching for the others who were on the car. The captain said the disturbance was caused by the new men, and that the shooting was uncalled for.

Says Cars Were Attacked.

The Rapid Transit company in a statement today said that for one hour prior to the shooting, every car that arrived at the Frankford barn had all windows broken. Most of the trouble, the company says, was experienced at Frankford avenue and Unity street, where it is declared seven striking carmen in uniform led in the attacks on cars. One of these men, the company declares, has been arrested and warrants are out for the others.

After the outbreak, the company says, city detectives searched every man at the Frankford car barn, and found no fire arms on any of them. The transit company says it never has given its men permission to carry fire-arms, but admits that some may have carried revolvers for self-protection.

Notwithstanding Director of Public Safety Clay declares that the general strike feeling is on the wane, the labor leaders declare that they are steadily gaining ground. Many meetings of unorganized workers are being addressed by prominent labor organizers each day and night. Many converts to the cause of trades unionism are reported.

Bakers May Join in Strike.

Some of the special dispensations are being withdrawn by the union, and it was declared today that 600 bakers would join the strike.

Strike leaders today said they had no reason to change their estimates that between 125,000 and 150,000 persons are idle as a result of the calling of the general strike. The city administration continues to belittle the walkout. Director Clay adhering to his claim that less than 20,000 responded to the strike call.

The action of the Philadelphia Hosiery Manufacturing association in shutting down their mills until Monday, with a threat that if the workers do not return on that day a shutdown until fall will occur, is likely to be followed by a similar move in other industries. The hosiery association represents 75 per cent of the local output from 180 mills, which, it is claimed, have 25,000 employes out. Owners of tapestry carpet mills also may shut down until Monday.

Mill District Hardest Hit.

The section of the city suffering most from the strike is Kensington, where the great majority of mills of all kinds are situated.

The union taxicab chauffeurs held a meeting last night and decided to remain on strike.

The campaign to bring out men employed in the great industrial plants of the city met with additional success this morning at the Baldwin Locomotive works, where some men quit work yesterday. Those were followed today by several hundred others who failed to report. The strikers assert that 2,000 men in all departments of the plant quit, but this is denied by officials of the company, who declare that only 200 are out. Most of these, it is said, were employed in the boiler shop. Their defection made idle a number of helpers.

Baldwin's is "an open shop" plant, and the success in bringing out some of its men has given the labor leaders renewed hope of further spreading the strike.

Strikebreakers Going East.

Columbus, Ohio, March 9.—A Pennsylvania railroad train arrived at the union station today from St. Louis filled with about 250 strikebreakers, who said they were on the way to Philadelphia. The men were carefully guarded. They expect to arrive in Philadelphia tonight.

for months have been organizing a genuine political campaign.

Opposition Is Delighted.

The Catholic and Royalist opposition press generally manifests high glee over the exposure, which they declare confirms the suspicions long entertained that the property of the churches, monasteries and convents expropriated by the state, instead of furnishing $200,000,000 for old age pensions and other social reforms, as the proletariat had been taught to believe at the time separation of church and state was voted, had disappeared into the pockets of thieving politicians.

The L'Action Francaise today remarks cynically:

"Duez, being charged by the government to steal the church's property, can hardly be blamed for taking a part of the booty for himself."

The chamber of deputies is not in session at present, but interpellations are expected in the senate.

Government States Its Case.

The government, while admitting that the task set for the liquidators was too large, in one case a single liquidator having charge of the disposal of the property of seventy-four congregations, declares that when the report of irregularities was first bruited two years ago, it did its full duty by relieving some of the liquidators of a part of their work, calling for their accounts and appointing an investigating committee of which Former Premier Combes was president, besides initiating the legal investigations which resulted in the arrest of Duez.

Duez was what is known as an "official receiver," which is a sort of a branch of the magistracy. In addition to his deficit in the congregation accounts, the liquidator admits that he is short $200,000 in connection with other affairs confided to his charge.

Papers All Mixed Up.

He had the management of the liquidation of thirteen congregations, involving more than 100,000 documents and accounts. These are in such confusion that it is impossible to determine accurately the total of his defalcation, which may greatly exceed the $1,000,000 originally estimated.

Besides the admitted shortage, Duez is charged with having pocketed rake-offs for aiding a genealogist who acted as his accomplice. The genealogist sought out the heirs to the funds which had been left to the congregations, many of whom were living at distant points and ignorant of the fact that they were entitled to recover anything. From such persons he obtained contracts, it is alleged, through which the heirs relinquished to the genealogist for his "services" 50 per cent of what was due them.

SAYS PEARY MUST SHOW CONGRESS

Roberts of Massachusetts Insists He Must Prove His Claims.

Washington, March 9.—Indications point to postponement of any congressional action to reward Commander Peary for his conquest of the North. The delay will be at least until after his proofs shall have been published. The sub-committee of the house naval committee charged with consideration of the various bills that propose honors for the explorer met today for further discussion.

"I am absolutely opposed to congress granting any award to Commander Peary unless his proofs are made public," declared Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, a member of the sub-committee. "No doubt the members of the committee would not be able to tell anything about Mr. Peary's records even if they were submitted to us, for we are not scientists, but at least the country would be given a chance to know why we were honoring him.

"There is nothing whatever before us to show that Mr. Peary has discovered the pole, further than the statements of certain gentlemen that he did. How could members of this committee go into the house and support any bill which they presented when they had no facts to back it up? We would be in a ridiculous attitude."

LOUIS JAMES' FUNERAL.

Services at St. Paul for the Late Tragedian.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services for Louis James, the actor, who died in Helena, Mont., last Saturday, were conducted at 458 St. Peter street Monday night.

Only members of the company and Twin City friends of the dead actor were in attendance. The services were conducted by Rev. L. R. S. Ferguson, rector of the Church of Messiah. Flowers about the casket were given by Mrs. James, the members of the James company, all of whom were present, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Munro and Mr. and Mrs. George Eds. Mr. Munro and Mrs. Eds are with the Olga Nethersole company, now playing in the city.

The body was taken from St. Paul yesterday on the Rock Island train for Kansas City, Mo., in charge of Mrs. James and her brother, W. H. Hendricks of that city, who met his sister here.

Mr. James' daughter, Mrs. Millie Seldenberg, will come on to Kansas City from Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. McCloud of New York, an old-time friend, will also come. The body will be taken to St. Louis for cremation and the ashes returned to Kansas City.

Lakes.	Feet above tide water, New York.
Superior	601.73
Michigan-Huron	579.96
Erie	571.19
Ontario	245.03

Lake Superior is 0.23 foot lower than last month; 0.27 foot higher than a year ago; 0.40 foot below the average stage of February of the last ten years; 0.75 foot below the high stage of February, 1901, and 0.72 foot above the low stage of February, 1893. It will probably fall about 0.1 foot in March.

Lake Ontario is 0.09 foot higher than last month; 0.25 foot lower than a year ago; 0.40 foot below the average high stage of February, 1886, and 1.20 feet above the low stage of February, 1897. It will probably rise 0.2 foot in march.

GIVES MOTHER ONE DOLLAR.

Jury Is Promptly Scored By Judge and New Trial Ordered.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 9.—Denouncing as a "miscarriage of justice," a verdict of a jury in the United States court for the western district of Tennessee, awarding a mother $1 damages for the death of her only son, Presiding Judge Severens, in the United States circuit court of appeals, ordered that a new trial be held.

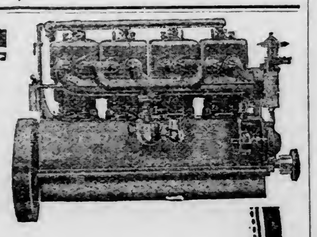
Mrs. Mary Pugh of Memphis sued the Bluff City Excursion company for $10,000 after her son, Jesse, 20 years old, was swept from a pleasure steamer and drowned in a storm on the Mississippi river. The company contended that he had been careless. Judge Severens in censuring the jury said:

"It seems to me that these men entered into a mere scheme to prevent a disagreement."

North Dakotan Perished.

Grafton, N. D., March 9.—A. G. Mahler, a pioneer resident of this city, who moved to Seattle two years ago and engaged in the real estate business, lost his life in the snowslide horror at Wellington.

SCRIPPS MARINE MOTORS



Scripps Motors are best—best in every sense of the word—and for every purpose. This is not merely an assertion, but a fact which is known to every man who has seen and compared the Scripps with other engines.

Scripps Motors are made in eight sizes, ranging from the single cylinder 4 h.-p. style to the new 6-cylinder, high speed, 100-horse power racing model.

They are made in one of the most modern and up-to-date plants in the country, devoted exclusively to the manufacture of high-grade marine motors.

This factory is equipped with the latest type of grinding machinery, and all wearing parts are ground to accurate size.

Their equipment of jigs and tools is complete, so that all parts are made interchangeable, a very important point to the purchaser of a motor.

The close and accurate work resulting from these methods produces a motor of maximum efficiency and long life. The day of the heavy, cumbersome marine motor is past, and discriminating buyers realize that it is not necessary to buy hundreds of pounds of iron in order to get strength.

Scripps Motors are so designed that the weight is kept within a reasonable limit, without sacrificing a particle of necessary strength.

Two years of successful demonstration have proven this beyond a doubt!

Scripps Motors are guaranteed for one year against defects in workmanship or material—guaranteed by the makers and by this store. Come in and see one of these motors in actual operation.

Literature explaining the plans and aims of the convention will immediately be prepared and circulated throughout the territory which the convention will cover. Each pastor will be invited to attend the convention with two or more laymen from his church. Each Duluth pastor will be invited to choose a missionary committee to prepare for the convention, and it is hoped to secure many enthusiastic lay church workers from each church in the city to take part in the convention.

FALLS TEN FEET; DIES

William R. McKeag, Engineer at Furnace Company, Victim of Accident.

Loses Balance While Standing on Ladder and Is Killed.

Falling headforemost from a ladder in the condensing room of the Zenith Furnace company, West Duluth, William R. McKeag, 35 years old, an engineer, last evening sustained a fractured skull and other injuries from which he died early this morning at St. Mary's hospital. The accident happened about 8 o'clock last evening. McKeag lived at 2416 West Second street.

McKeag, while engaged at his work in the condensing room at the blast furnace, found it necessary to apply a wrench to one of the pipes he could not reach without a ladder. He had climbed up about ten feet when he lost his balance and fell from the ladder, alighting on his head. The skull was fractured at the base. Dr. Payette and Dr. Judson were the attending physicians.

In falling from the ladder, McKeag struck William H. Wright, superintendent of the coke oven, a glancing blow on the forehead with his shoe, felling Wright to the ground. The blow was not sufficient to render him unconscious and he hurried out to get aid for McKeag, who lay prostrate on the floor. Wright sustained a gash on his forehead but it is not of a serious nature. He lives at 511 North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

McKeag had been engineer at the blast furnace for a number of years and formerly worked for the Northern Pacific in the capacity of engineer. He is survived by a widow and a 12-year-old daughter, Minnie, who reside at 2416 West First street, and his mother, Mrs. Mary McKeag, who lives at 1804 Piedmont avenue.

GOMPERS ARGUES FOR SWITCHMEN

He Is the First Witness Called By Mediators at Chicago.

Chicago, March 9.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was the first witness called to the stand today on behalf of the Switchmen's Union of North America, whose wage dispute with eight railroads is now under discussion before a board of arbitration provided by the Erdman act.

The labor leader testified that, in his judgment, the work of the switchman is the most hazardous of that of any class of working men. This, he said, is evident by the fact that life insurance premiums for switchmen are higher than for other craftsmen. Mr. Gompers also declared that there has been a marked increase in the cost of living since 1908. This advance, he said, made it imperative that the switchmen's demands should be granted.

CUDAHY'S VICTIM GETTING BETTER

Hospital Physician Says There Is No Fear of Blood Poisoning.

Kansas City, Mo., March 9.—Jere F. Lillis, president of the Western Exchange bank, who was assaulted Sunday morning by John P. Cudahy at the latter's residence, was reported today to be steadily recovering. Attendants at St. Mary's hospital said, however, that it was uncertain just when Lillis would be removed to his home. As to whether his injuries would be of a permanent nature, the reply was that it would require some time to determine.

The hospital physician stated today that there is now no fear of blood poisoning developing. A kitchen knife, used by Cudahy on the banker, was said to have been rusty, and the fear of complications came from this fact.

Gen. John C. Cowin, father of Mrs. Cudahy, left today for Omaha.

New Shoes for Boys and Girls and Little Folks.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The insistent styles for the spring are rapidly being made known. Here are a few hints that authorities are announcing and that are appearing in the Duluth shops.

For the first time in three years the shorter jacket lengths are being emphasized. Paris says a coat from twenty to twenty-six inches in length, but the domestic makers are, as usual, a little less radical, for the long coat is graceful and womankind in general is giving it up with reluctance.

Belted styles are popular, especially for young girls. In fact, a belted style is almost exclusively for a slender figure, for after one has taken on the dignity of years and avoirdupois and a waist measure between twenty-nine and thirty-six, a belted coat isn't as becoming as some other things that might be named.

Collarless waists are to be fashionable and sure to be popular. The shops are showing the most adorable collars and neck things. There isn't anything quite so sweet and young and pretty and attractive as a plump and delicately pink neck. And even the most unimpressionable must sigh to think of the long, yellow, "curly" necks that will be exposed to view during the next season.

Sheer linen and baptiste and light laces will be used for the season's waists. Chiffon blouses are also to be popular.

The lingerie simplicity, the expensive, hand-made simplicity that drives a person of flat pocket book to distraction, is a feature of the year. Linen things in sets, hand embroidered, come under the head of simple. The lingerie of this type is called "peasant." Peasant, indeed. Any peasant would throw it out of joy at anything so lovely also expensive. Petticoat flounces are to be threaded with ribbon.

Straight band collars are going to be worn with fluffy effects in jabots. The low collars are shown in new round and square forms.

Double veils are features and the underlay is of flesh color chiffon. They create a pretty illusion of soft pink complexion.

Long gloves will be in demand. Gold trimmings will be used. The chanticleer vogue is affecting buttons and queer animal shapes are being shown. The parasols, although they will not be needed for a week or two, are fascinating.

The windows along Superior street are a source of such temptation with their bright, new things that the wily merchant is showing that an irresistible force draws woman within, even while she sighs "lead me not into temptation."

VOTES FOR MEN!

Says An Anti-Suffragist in a Green Gown.

Albany, N. Y., March 9.—The anti-suffragists last night got in form for tomorrow's hearing on the various legislative bills affecting the rights of women to the ballot by holding a big mass meeting in the assembly chamber. Madame Bell Ranske of London was the only speaker. Her audience included a sprinkling of legislators, among them Speaker Wadsworth of the assembly.

Wearing a striking gown of green silk, Madame Bell Ranske spoke for nearly two hours.

In expressing the antis' views she said: "The suffragists have done us and society the greatest possible service demonstrating how unbalanced woman can become when she goes into politics. Votes have a decided market value. The voter must pay by certain service such as carrying arms, police, fire and jury work. Are you women prepared to pay this market value for the bauble of a vote?

"Do you think for one moment that women voting will stop the white slave traffic? No; a thousand no's. Their inexperience and blundering would make everything worse. Woman has now all the proper responsibilities that she can stand.

"Trust man and you will get the best in him. Distrust him and you will get the worst of it."

MILITARY MEN

Are Suggesting Themes for Spring Styles.

I don't know whether or not the women of Paris have become infected with the militant spirit of our sisters across the channel, but at any rate many of the new coats are trimmed with military-looking braid, frogs and soutache. At the Palais du Glace a day or two ago I saw an excellent suit of a fine surfaced vigoyne in a new shade of bleu de France, says Edouard La Fontaine in the Delineator for March. The underskirt was plaited and joined to a close-fitting princess body, that formed the upper part of the dress.

The front panels of the dress and coat were heavily braided with officers'-soutache in the conventional military fashion. Suspended from the shoulders of the coat and reaching almost to the waist line were long loops of heavy cord such as are worn by the officers of line of a certain regiment, very popular in Paris. There are other coats that go under the name of the "Garde Francaise" because of a resemblance, real or imagined, between them and the uniforms of the national guard.

I have also seen chic-looking street costumes in bright sailor-blue serge, trimmed extensively with brass buttons. One of this latter class that I saw recently was made with a very short, rather loose-fitting coat. There were no seams at all in the front, and only two in the back, and they were set well apart and ran up into the armhole and not to the shoulder, so that the back, too, had a seamless appearance. The coat had a long roll collar of black satin and was fastened with three or four brass buttons of prodigious size. The skirt was gored and put together with a tuck at each seam. It was mounted on a shallow pointed yoke and was worn with a plaited blouse of white linen with the usual cascade frill of lace and lawn buttoned under the scalloped closing of the front.

Velvet Necklet.

With the low-cut blouses and the Dutch necks dominating waist styles, women speedily discovered the attractiveness of the velvet ribbon band about the throat.

A distinct novelty embodying this idea is the band made over a thin strip of spring steel.

This can be sprung around the throat on the same principle as the trouser guards that the cyclist used to wear.

Most of these are ornamented with bows or buckles or tiny pendant tassels, and give a distinctive touch to the costume.

One's too big—one's too small! The Gordon stiff hat in one-sixteenth sizes is just right.

He was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

The boy had been riding along Third street in a wagon and had just alighted and was crossing the street, when struck by the oncoming automobile. Besides Mr. Corey, the other occupants of the car were James W. Cargill, a traveling salesman for the Kelley-How-Thompson Hardware company of Duluth, who resides at Thirty-fourth street and Minnesota avenue, Park Point. Ed Brown, purchasing agent for the Pittsburg Coal company and Mrs. Brown.

The boy was rushed to St. Mary's hospital in the automobile where he is reported to be recovering today.

MAYOR CULLUM OUTLINES HIS POLICY TO COUNCIL

New City Executive Says He Will Enforce All Laws.

Declares for Extension of Municipal Garbage Collection System.

MAYOR CULLUM SAYS.

That the mayor and council should work in harmony.

That street railway lines should be extended to aid the city's expansion.

That the municipal garbage collection system will be extended, if possible.

That the legal department will guard the streets and look well to the city's rights under franchises.

That public officials should be courteous as public servants.

That he favors playgrounds, neighborhood houses, municipal lodging houses, branch libraries and public band concerts.

That there should be a revaluation of the city's real estate.

That water, sewer and gas pipes should be laid in a street during one winter before the street is paved.

That the city should have a purchasing agent.

That the city should acquire more dock sites.

That he favors a commission form of government, which will include the initiative, referendum and recall, which shall provide for non-partisan elections.

That he will enforce every law if he has the power and machinery.

That he believes in keeping the police department out of politics.

Declaring himself for the enforcement of all the laws, if given the machinery and funds with which to do so, Mayor M. C. Cullum submitted his message to the city council last night. The message is a lengthy document, covering many different questions of importance to the city.

The mayor declared for the extension of municipal garbage collection, for the extension of street railway lines, for the acquiring of dock sites by the city, for non-partisanship in municipal elections, for the commission form of government with the initiative and referendum and recall to retain for the people the power of government, for taking the police department out of politics, for harmony between public officials and for a revaluation of the city's real estate.

The mayor's message follows:

Mayor Cullum's Message.

"Mr. President, members of the council and citizens of Duluth: I appreciate the honor conferred upon me and trust that I will grow in strength and in wisdom to so manage the duties of my office to at least give no chance for dissatisfaction.

"Duluth has every reason to be proud of the fact that there has been no cause for complaint against the men who have served the city so well as members of this honorable body. The record made by this council during the last two years is a creditable one and we who are called to fill the places of those retiring must realize that much is expected of us if we would command the respect and retain the confidence of those who have placed us here.

"I sincerely hope that we may, through a mutual desire to serve the public well, work in complete harmony in all things that will contribute to a clean and progressive administration.

"Again, Duluth has been quite as fortunate in having public spirited citizens who have been willing to serve on the non-salaried boards, and we should never forget the debt of gratitude we owe them for the business-like manner in which they have handled the departments entrusted to their care.

"The water and light board has demonstrated in a very satisfactory manner, through the management of that important department, that municipal ownership, under proper management, is a success, and the public can rest assured that when they are ready for other undertakings along these lines, they need have no fear of the outcome.

Development Retarded.

The business interests, while developing rapidly, find themselves handicapped by discrimination and by conditions that appear to retard our legitimate development. Every public official should identify himself with those organizations that are striving to find relief in these matters. In this connection we should demand a larger representation in our state legislature, and political parties should be given to understand that they must not single out Duluth and its interests as a political football. And the public, without regard to party affiliations, should back such demands with their votes, and I will venture to suggest to those in the majority, that it might be good policy to concede to the minority party at least one member from this part of the state, so that we might have a missionary among his party associates in the legislature.

"Much speculation is being indulged in as to the high cost of living. This community should join in the general investigation and if any remedy can be found that will afford local relief, it should be promptly applied.

"As affecting this condition of affairs, I shall recommend the extension of public service and public utilities as rapidly as possible. The street railway company will be expected to make such extensions as will serve, not only the thickly settled districts, but if possible, the outlying districts where cheaper homes may be erected. Any public or private enterprise that has for its purpose the development of our nearby territory in the way of small farms, truck raising or home building will receive my hearty cooperation.

Extend Garbage Collection.

"During my former terms of office, the health commissioner, in connection with the council, inaugurated ordinances governing that department; an incinerator plant was established; a branch state bacteriological laboratory established; and money and preliminary plans for a contagious disease hospital; laying the foundations for favorable health conditions. During the last two years the health commissioner, aside from adding much to the efficiency of the department, has been experimenting successfully with the garbage question. We shall attempt to, in some way, enlarge the garbage collecting system, as well as safeguard the health of the community by every restriction possible.

Work of Legal Department.

"The legal department has been doing good work in the matter of locating the city's property and cleaning up titles. The incoming attorney will be requested to continue this work; and also look carefully into the matter of franchises and see to what extent the public service corporations who are using our streets and alleys have complied with the terms of their charters, in order that we may determine just what opportunities there are for other uses to be made of the streets—especially in the railroad territory.

"The railroads controlling these streets and alleys will be urged to arrange their freight yards and houses so that shippers will not be handicapped in the expeditious handling of their products.

"The public official is often criticised because of lack of courtesy and consideration for those who have business before the various departments. I should like to remind those individuals who are serving the city in an official capacity that they are the servants of the public and it is a very important part of their duty to furnish the public with any information that may be desired, and to comply with any request that may be made in a courteous manner, or be willing and able to explain why things cannot be done as requested.

"I shall contribute in whatever way I may to any movement that has for its object the relief of the afflicted and unfortunate; to the extension and equipment of playgrounds and neighborhood houses; to branch libraries; to municipal lodging houses; to night schools; to public concerts and legitimate amusements—to anything, in fact, that is helpful in this direction.

Revaluation is Favored.

"The subject of taxation is always worthy of consideration. I believe a valuable investigation is now being made by Lawson Purdy, the tax expert, under the direction of Mayor Gaynor of New York, and shall watch for his report with confidence that it will indicate to all municipal officials everywhere a better way to assess valuations and collect taxes. The whole tendency of thought of those who are best qualified on the subject in recent years has been to equalize the burden of taxation, and in doing this to transfer the burden more and more to the land values, and less and less to such personal property values as the rich can hide from the tax gatherer but the poor cannot. I therefore am heartily in sympathy with the effort you are making to secure a fair revaluation of real estate values in this city, and shall promote such policy with whatever means pertain to my office.

Wants Official Harmony.

"One criticism that has often been made, and I believe justly, of the administration of municipal affairs under our present system, is an absence of harmonious action among the different departments of the city government. I do not desire to make any criticism of individuals or officials, present or past, in what I shall say on this subject. My criticism is intended to be of the system.

"For instance, there is a never-ending complaint as to the methods used in laying sewer, gas and water pipes with reference to permanent paving of streets. I would respectfully suggest that the council give public notice that it will not order any highway to be paved, whether petitioned for or not, unless the sewers have been constructed and the gas and water pipes laid within the limits of the proposed pavement, at least one winter season prior to the time such pavement is laid. If the people are once given to understand that this is to be the rule and practice, I believe it will work as easily, after the first year in which it is instituted, as deos the present system and a never-ending source of criticism will be largely removed.

City Purchasing Agent.

"Again, in my opinion, not only will a just cause of criticism be allayed, but money will be saved to the city if some arrangement can be made whereby in effect one individual can be selected to make all purchases for the city. This need not require that the actual legal act shall be done by one particular individual, but it would undoubtedly be worth while to have some such individual to whom could be communicated in advance the purchases which any department has in contemplation, so that he can advise such department as to the most economical method to pursue. His services in a purely advisory capacity ought to be almost as effective as the actual establishment of a purchasing agent by charter authority. In such case we would at least not have the ridiculous situation of one department of the city paying more than some other department for identically the same service or material.

"An active propaganda is being made in many parts of the country to relieve a situation which the great common carrier transportation companies have apparently brought about through their control of terminal sites. I conceive it the duty of the peoples' servants everywhere to assist with whatever little authority any of us may for the time possess, in looking out for the future in this respect. We in Duluth and Superior are proud of our harbors, our docks and our wharfage facilities. We like to talk about its immense extent; how we have within the limits of the dock line, exclusive of Minesota Point, some seven or eight square miles of dock property, only about one-sixth of which has been developed; how we have an even greater amount in the same harbors apurtenant to Minesota Point.

Should Have Water Terminals.

"One would think, from a consideration of these figure, that the water terminal question had not become a serious one in Duluth, and would not for years to come. But as a matter of fact the dock sites that are now available in a practical way have been largely acquired by private, and as a rule by monopolistic, interests. What amounts to a stub end of a street or an avenue near the Booth dock, at Fifth avenue west, at Twenty-first avenue west and at Ramsey street, constitute, acording to my information, about all the municipal dock frontage we have that is available for use.

"In my judgment, we should proceed without delay to acquire dock room of practical size at some point on the Duluth side of the Duluth-Superior harbor, at some point on the Duluth side of St. Louis bay, and at some point on the Duluth side of the St. Louis river. We can never get it more cheaply than at the present time. Its advantages to the city and its citizens in the reduction of carrying charges on stuff to be consumed by us and our tributary country—whether such docks should be improved for actual use by independent boat lines or should be held as a club argument—would soon pay for the cost of acquisition.

"I feel that such dock room should be now acquired, for the same reason that I formerly advocated the acquirement of park property. Now is the time to buy cheaply. Our successors can determine for themselves when is the best time to improve and use. I am inclined to think that this is the most important subject of permanent advantage to the city which is now presented to the municipal authorities.

Commission Government.

"In the discussion of the desirability of a "commission form of government" for the city of Duluth it should be borne in mind that the phrase has come to have almost as many meanings and interpretations as there are persons using the expression.

A commission form of government which contemplates only the centralization of authority in the hands of five men is not, in my opinion, what most of the people want who advocate such a form of municipal government. They do not want to withdraw power and responsibility further from the people than it is under our present form of government, nor do they want government by the few. Such a commission form of government, in my opinion, would mean an oligarchy, with all the potential disadvantages and curses which have always become associated with the history of every oligarchy of the past.

"What the people want, in my opinion, is the centralization of responsibility and authority purely for the purpose of increased efficiency; but they are not willing to gain the efficiency at the expense of popular control. The people, therefore, are willing to give the power to the few, provided they retain to themselves the power which is involved in the use of such methods as the initiative, referendum and recall. The initiative and referendum will retain for the people substantial control over legislative acts of the commission; the recall will retain for the people substantial control over the officials.

No Partisanship.

"An investigation of the efforts that have been made by other municipalities to adopt the commission form of government will disclose that, as a rule the people have adopted it when it has contained initiative, referendum and recall provisions and have rejected it when such provisions were not included. I am also of the opinion that it would be to the benefit of municipal governments to have national and state partisanship eliminated from the selection of municipal officials; and therefore it is my present opinion that any commission form of government adopted by the city of Duluth should provide, among other things, that no party or other designation should follow the names of the candidates on the ballots.

People Must Retain Power.

"Another provision that has apparently met with the approval of the people where it has been tried, is a form of ballot which gives each elector an opportunity to express on the ballot his first, second and third choice of candidates for office. This would make it impossible for any special interest to elect its candidate by a minority vote by the old scheme of bringing out several candidates to represent the opposition to the special interest in that particular election.

"I do not believe the friends of the commission form of government should haggle among themselves over mere details; but I have no manner of doubt that no commission form of government will be adopted by the people of Duluth in our time that does not reserve to the people a real control over legislative and executive acts of the municipal officials.

Will Enforce Every Law.

"I will enforce every law on the list if you will furnish me with power to do so. I will put an officer on the trail of every transgressor in the city if you will furnish me with the men and pay the bills; but when the public through its representatives, creates laws so much faster than the executive can possibly enforce them, is it not better for the executive to candidly admit his inability to do so, rather than to keep up a pretense of doing so? If the press, the public speakers, would give to the public the benefit of their knowledge along these lines, it would result in a better understanding between the public and the public officials. They could then deal more fairly with each other.

"Under existing conditions I confess to much anxiety as to the success of my administration. I shall pursue such course as will, in my judgment, result in the greatest good to the community, willingly counseling with those who have similar motives.

Criticism of Police.

"The success or failure of the administration frequently depends upon the manner in which the police department is controlled. I regret to say that there is at present much criticism as to the efficiency of this important branch of the city government. This is regretable. It is important that the public should have the utmost confidence in the police department. It appears that the public wants to know, and I shall make it my business to ascertain, just what, if anything, is wrong.

Will Investigate.

"I believe that I may claim the credit of having taken this department out of politics, when first elected to this office, being asked to do so by my party associates. I have also been reminded that I am on record as saying that when an officer did his duty he was safe with me. I cannot now be expected to discard whatever of merit there is in such a policy. Neither can I afford to be unfair to the public by ignoring what appear to be just complaints. Therefore I shall very carefully and fairly investigate as thoroughly as possible. I shall not only be willing, but anxious, to hear what any one interested may have to say on the subject either confidentially or otherwise; so that I may be able to intelligently and fairly determine the matter, for I shall be guided absolutely by the results and whoever I find to be wrong will go.

"It is estimated that about 10 per cent of the business of the city is legislative and about 90 per cent administrative. A formal document like this cannot possibly forecast all the important matters that may come up within the year.

"I should like to remind the citizens that my office, being a public one, is open to them at any time, and I will be glad to see any one who is interested in good government and has anything to propose for the good of the community. Concerning these matters, I will be as willing to listen to one as another, regardless of their social or financial standing — whether they are attired in broadcloth or overalls.

LAWLER AND MACK ON SAME PLATFORM.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 9.—Chairman Norman F. Mack of the National Democratic committee and Mayor D. W. Lawler of St. Paul made brief addresses to the business men's league here last night in response to invitations to be guests of honor at the regular monthly meeting. Assuming that the greater part of those present were of the Democratic faith, both speakers were reassuring in their remarks and predicted success for the future of the party.

Mayor Lawler opened his remarks with a happy greeting from the frozen north, the headwaters of the great Mississippi, soon destined to be opened to transportation facilities never dreamed of in the past, and which would unite more closely the South with the headwaters of the Mississippi river.

CURED OF ASTHMA AT NO EXPENSE

Cases Which Prove Marvelous Properties of New Specific.

It often happens that the free trial treatment of ascatco, the celebrated specific for asthma, which the Austrian Laboratory, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city, will send by mail to anyone who writes for it, will effect a cure in mild cases without any further use of the remedy. These instances demonstrate the marvelous properties of ascatco through which thousands of former asthmatics have been restored to perfect health after suffering for as many as forty or fifty years.

Asthma being a constitutional disease necessitates a constitutional treatment. This is now possible through the use of ascatco. The rapidity with which ascatco performs its work is a matter of general surprise, as the continuance of the small seven-drop dose, taken twice daily, eliminates the disease from the system in an incredibly short time. Former sufferers who were cured by ascatco three or four years ago, when it was first introduced, have lately reported that their cures are permanent, no return of the disease or its symptoms having been experienced.

Those who wish to take the full treatment can procure ascatco in two sizes at 50 cents and $2 at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abett's in Duluth, the A. E. Holmberg Drug company in Superior and all leading drug stores.

THE AWAKENING OF THE CITIES.

In the March Putnam's Magazine Hugh C. Weir starts an interesting review of the activities of American cities with a story. Fire destroyed a big stove factory in a city of the Central West not long ago, and the proprietors promptly announced that they would rebuild. The story went forth over the wires of the Associated Press, and early next morning, before the manager had reached the blackened ruins, a telegram was handed to him. It came from the secretary of the chamber of commerce of Springfield, Ill., and it said: "Springfield wants your new factory. We can offer you a better site, better labor conditions, better transportation, better connection with your raw material. May we send a man to present the possibilities of Springfield?"

That's enterprise; and as it shows what live American cities are doing, it also shows what all cities must do if they would be alive and would keep their places in the procession.

Mr. Weir quotes the Municipal Journal as follows: "It has become a more or less universal opinion in most sections of the country that any city which does not make some active effort at direct advertisement is dead, and sure to fall behind the times." To which Mr. Weir adds: "So widely has this conviction spread during the past five years that there are now more than two thousand civic-publicity organizations in this country and Canada. The day has come when the American city, to be progressive, MUST ADVERTISE ITSELF."

The sharpest competition in this country is that of publicity. Merchants and manufacturers spend fortunes every year in advertising. Skilled advertising men are among the highest paid specialists in the country, and they earn their big pay. The merchant who doesn't advertise but opens his shop and expects custom to drift in to him is promptly disappointed and presently bankrupt. The city that does not advertise is crowded out of the race by cities that do advertise, even though they may have smaller advantages.

Says Mr. Wier: "Civic advertising is an enterprise from which the city as a whole and each individual citizen, from the humblest to the highest, may derive a definite return. It quickens municipal efficiency, eliminates political rottenness and broadens individual patriotism: for a city of dirty sewers or dirty politics can profit little by presenting a glittering circular of its advantages to the prospective resident or investor. Its advantages are external as well as internal. Its benefits are not limited to the area of the city behind the advertisement."

City advertising not only attracts outside attention, but it quickens and invigorates local public spirit. It spreads abroad the knowledge of a city's opportunities for investment, and it increases the city's desirability as a place of residence by vivifying a powerful public spirit that makes the advertising city a livelier, better place to live in.

Duluth has finer prospects, greater opportunities for profitable investment and agreeable residence, and fully as much present achievement, relatively, as any of the two thousand American cities which advertise.

Some time, it may be, Duluth will take up a direct campaign to let the country know about this.

IN DENMARK.

Just to show how different things may be, here is a recent incident that happened in Denmark, which is described in an article in the Outlook entitled "A Commonwealth Ruled by Farmers."

The last parliament decided to build twenty-seven lines of new railroads, covering 400 to 500 miles of track. This would increase the value of land along the new lines. The public bore the cost of building the roads. Therefore it created this new land value.

Who should get that new value? The public, which created it, or the land-owners, who merely profited by it?

There wouldn't be any question about it in this country. The public wouldn't be building railroads, because there is an ancient superstition that the public, through its government, mustn't do anything that private individuals or corporations could get a profit out of. The postoffice is an exception, but that happened accidentally in the beginning. If a corporation managed the postoffice now, do you suppose congress would entertain an idea of taking it over for the people? No more than it would entertain a plan of taking over the express business, the railroad business or the telegraph and the telephone services.

And where the public does create value, as it does in the growth of a city, there isn't any question in this country about who gets the value. The public makes it, but individuals and corporations get it. A man who has the tenacity to buy outside land and hang on to it until the city reaches it and gives it enormous value gets all the benefit. He is even favored by low taxation unless he improves his property, when taxation becomes high.

And there wasn't any question about who was entitled to this new value in Denmark, either; only there a different idea prevails. The view there is that as the public created this new value, it is entitled to at least a share of it. So the parliament took a third of this new value, or enough to pay for building the new lines.

That new value is what is called "unearned increment." The land-owners didn't make it. They couldn't make it except by building the railroads themselves. But the public could make it, and did make it. The maker of this value is entitled to it; certainly there would be no question that the maker is entitled to a part of it, even if taking all of it were disputed.

So the act providing for building the new railroads also provided that after the railroads are completed a new valuation of the land benefited shall be made, and that the state shall take one-third of the increased value. This, it is estimated, will be enough to offset the cost of building the new lines.

And this was done by a legislature dominated by farmers. Fifty-five out of the 114 members of the lower house are peasant owners of farms ranging from thirteen to 150 acres. Many of them probably are owners of lands that will be benefited by the new railroads, and they will have to pay, out of the increased value of their lands, their share of the cost of building the railroads.

Says the Sioux City Tribune: "Tories, reactionaries, conservatives of all grades, shades and brands, reading of this incident, will agree that there is still 'something rotten in Denmark.' They have notions there about taxation and common rights of property that any Tory here would denounce as rotten." So they would; but to a man not afflicted by the intellectual paralysis of toryism, doesn't this Danish proceeding read like justice?

BACK TO THE LAND.

Said Bishop McGolrick to The Herald yesterday: "There are many people here in this city who are barely making a living and who will be just as poor twenty years from now as they are now, but who have not the courage or the industry to get out on a farm and work for prosperity."

This is true, particularly in its first statement as to the outlook in the city for a large proportion of its workers. On the other hand, doubtless there are many in the city who have both the courage and the industry needed to win prosperity from the soil, and with it the wish and the will to get back to the land, but they don't know how to get there.

In this situation there is an opportunity for a big philanthropy, largely along the lines of Bishop McGolrick's excellent colonization scheme. Aside from working directly upon political and economic conditions to readjust the fruits of prosperity so that they may have better distribution, it is hard to imagine how such a great philanthropy as Mr. Rockefeller is proposing, for instance, could be better directed than in helping the oppressed and harrassed surplus labor of the cities to get back to the soil. It shouldn't be a charity, for a movement which involved giving land to city people free would probably fail most ignominiously. But if they could be helped to find places on the land; if they could be provided with the necessary land and outfit on terms that, while business-like, would make it easy for them, a large proportion doubtless would make permanent settlement on the soil, and would soon be in a position to repay to their benefactors the money advanced to help them.

There are many, no doubt, who lack courage, industry and initiative; but there are more who don't know how to go about it to get land and to till it, but who would do well at it if they were given a chance. And the immediate effect of taking from the cities a large proportion of their surplus labor and putting it on the soil would be vastly beneficial not only to the transplanted workers, but to the whole country.

IF SOMEBODY WOULD TELL.

A friend of Charles W. Morse, the ex-banker and exfinancier who is now in prison, was quoted in a dispatch to The Herald last evening as follows: "If Morse would tell what he knows of the connection of financiers in New York with the panic of 1907, about a dozen men who stand high in the business world would be buying tickets to Europe and other places for trips of indefinite length."

The impression that the panic of 1907 was artificial, and was intended to scare agitation into silence and undermine Roosevelt's power with the people, has been deepscated and it is not yet eradicated. The recent near-panic in Wall street, plainly designed to affect congress and the supreme court, looked like another attempt at the same sort of thing, only better controlled. The one of 1907 got away from its instigators. There is no proof of these things, of course; if there were that dozen of magnates would have to make haste if they got the boat for Europe before somebody got them.

Playing with a people's prosperity is pretty dangerous business—if the people find it out. As yet they only suspect.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

The new city administration went through the formalities of organizing itself last evening, when Mayor Cullum sent his list of appointments to the city council for confirmation, and accompanied it, according to custom, with a message.

Mayor Cullum and most of his appointees are familiar official figures, and some of the latter have remained in office during Mr. Haven's administration. There were no surprises in the list, which is headed by Bert Fesler as city attorney. Mr. Fesler has been city attorney before, and his previous service was that of a competent and effective official.

Dr. Cullum's message was a plain, business-like document, in which he promises abundantly while admitting some trepidation about the success of his administration. While it covers a good deal of ground, it has no particularly striking features, being plainly intended to smooth over the change of administration with as little excitement and stir as possible.

RIGHT, MR. CARNEGIE.

Discussing the proposal of an endowed newspaper, Mr. Carnegie said yesterday that he had dismissed the idea, as he thought no one would care to read a subsidized journal. He is correct. There are many instances now of subsidized journals, and the thinness of their subscription lists and the feebleness of their influence is ample proof of what he says.

The only kind of subsidized newspaper that can possibly win is a newspaper subsidized by the people with their patronage. And the only kind of newspaper that can win that sort of subsidy is the newspaper that recognizes its mission and holds sacred its duty as a public servant—untrammeled, unbiased and without fear.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE RETAILER AND THE CREDIT SYSTEM TO BLAME.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been sitting back and waiting for some one "in the know" and with no ax to grind, to come out in black and white, and tell the true reasons for the high cost of living in this town and possibly elsewhere.

I have been buying goods from the wholesale houses in this city for the past ten years, and have no fault to find with the majority of them. I know it will cause a deep, sonorous howl from the bunch, but I maintain that the retailers of this locality are taking too much margin on their investment. Of course, we know they say they cannot do business on less than 15 per cent. Well, maybe not, but why do they take a profit of from 40 to 100 per cent on 75 per cent of what they sell? Why do they sell coffee, which they pay from 12 to 20 cents a pound for, for from 20 to 40 cents; tea, which costs 20 to 30 cents, for 40 to 60 cents; soap, which costs 2 to 3 cents, for 5 cents; canned goods, costing 70 cents a dozen, for $1.20; oil, costing 9 cents, for 14 cents; meat, costing 12 cents, for 20 cents; butter and eggs, which no dealer elsewhere ever thinks of handling for more than 10 per cent net, for 20 per cent net? Why do we see in the papers every now and then where Mr. So-and-So, the "prominent South side retailer," (here insert clothing, hardware, grocery, dry goods, and so on) is building a magnificent home, apartment house, store or office building, or has just purchased for spring delivery a six-cylinder "Windsplitter." The bucket shops are not entirely to blame for putting this burg on the bum, although they have helped some, believe me. Some retailers, we know, have merchandise insanity; they push the goods over the counter and then get stung pay day, but that is their own fault. Abolish the greater part of the credit system now in vogue, take a living profit and don't try to get rich in a year; don't take a profit of $10,000 on $20,000 worth of business; get cash for your goods, for, "if you don't sell 'em, you can eat 'em," as my old friend in the West end says.

The retailers say they can't do business unless they give credit. Answer: Can you get a nickel's worth of oil from John D. if you haven't the price? The biggest and most successful retailers in the world do a strictly cash business. The retailers say their associations are solely to protect their credits. Rot! I tried to buy goods from the wholesalers and the only way I could get them was to bribe employes and take them away from the back doors myself, because I happened to run a restaurant as well as a grocery, and the attorney general of this state tells me that wholesale dealers have a right to refuse goods to certain persons, when by selling to them they might jeopardize the interests of their other customers. The retailers would not let me in the ring and they wouldn't let the wholesalers sell me. Fine, isn't it?

Pardon for getting off the track but there is so much in this rotten business that one gets a bit excited. The consumer is bled at every turn in Duluth just as if it were some mining camp, and I know the retailers are to blame for the greater portion of it.

Cash stores run on sane principles in Duluth, would prosper as they do in other cities. Pay the wage earner weekly so he can have a piece of money to pay for his goods, and thus eliminate a large portion of the iniquitous credit system, whereby you and I brother, who pay our bills will not have to also pay for the fly-by-night who gets into the retailers for a month's groceries, meat or a suit of clothes. When we do this and in addition help build that flat or store and help pay for the "Windsplitter," for take it from me we've got to do the latter any way; it is a little bit too much.

JOHN E. KNOWS.

Duluth, March 8.

ALLEYS NEED ATTENTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just to give the city administration a little help as it starts its new career, I desire to call attention to the condition of several alleys in the downtown district, especially the alley between Superior street and First street. Behind a livery barn between Fifth and Fourth avenue west it is particularly offensive. On these cold mornings when the slush on Superior street is frozen and the gentleman with the broom is dallying ineffectively with a few dozen clods, why not dispatch him to the alleys. Of course it's getting warmer now and his services will be needed down town, but as the weather moderates the condition of our alleys becomes more aggravated. To judge from the waste and offal deposited in some of the alleys I assume that the civic consciousness in many people is in an embryonic state, if it exists at all. Respectfully,

M. L. K.

Duluth, March 8.

The Demand of the Country.

Mark Sullivan in Collier's: That the country is dissatisfied with the Payne tariff is not now denied by even the most stubborn Republican leaders. The Chicago Tribune, which is performing a powerful public service in giving voice to the political views of the Middle West, took a poll of newspaper editors in twenty-six Middle, Western and Southern states. The question asked was: "Do you endorse the Aldrich-Cannon tariff?" The responses would convince even Heyburn or Lodge. These editors expressed their opinions thus:

In favor of the tariff	839
Against the tariff	3,463

The replies of the editors who run the Republican newspapers were segregated. Their showing is more remarkable:

In favor of the tariff	812
Against the tariff	2,686

This may be taken as the index of opinion in the territory which extends from Ohio and Michigan west to the Pacific ocean, and southward including Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma. Even if the Republicans should have complete control of the next congress, it is doubtful if they will wish to approach the presidential election of 1912, with the people in such an obviously resentful state of mind.

The Flowers.

Oliver Wendell Holmes: Do you ever wonder why poets talk so much about flowers? Did you ever hear of a poet who did not talk about them? Don't you think a poem which, for the sake of being original, should leave them out would be like those verses where the letter a or e, or some other, is omitted? No; they will bloom over and over again in poems as in the summer fields, to the end of time, always old and always new. Why should we be more shy of repeating ourselves than the spring be tired of blossoms, or the night of stars? Look at nature. She never wearies of saying over her floral paternoster. In the crevices of cyclopean walls—in the dust where men lie, dust also—on the mounds that bury huge cities, the Birs Nemroud and the Babel-heap—still that same sweet prayer and benediction. The amen of nature is always a flower.

Waiting for a Mate.

Louise Chandler Moulton: Marriage, it seems to me, should be waited for, not sought. Who knows round what corner his destiny may be hiding—at what unexpected turn he may come upon the face above all the faces for him? To put aside as far as possible the thought of marriage until compelled to think of it by some strong and special attraction toward some special person is wiser than to be seeking in every chance acquaintance the husband or wife. "We shall meet the people who are coming to meet us," no matter in what far off land their journey toward us begins.

THE WEATHER

The weather man may exact generous toll in the later spring months for the prevailing fine weather, but who cares? Let April and May be cold, blustering, rainy and raw—April and May are in the future, and, living in the present, Duluthians are delighted, and then some. Fortunate is the visitor to the shores of Lake Superior when normal weather prevails. Isn't this normal? The lowest temperature last night was 10 deg. above zero, but yesterday the mercury climbed to 34 deg. The sky is clear and the sun bright this morning.

Fine weather also prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:33 and it will set at 6:05, giving eleven hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The southwestern disturbance remains about stationary over Texas. This depression, in connection with another developing over Alberta, caused rain in Western Tennessee and Southern Illinois, and snow in Nebraska, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Alberta and British Columbia. Areas of high pressure overlie Oregon and Washington and the Red river valley, the latter resulting in slightly colder weather over Western Ontario, Manitoba and Northeastern Saskatchewan, with zero temperature at Winnipeg and Princo Albert. In other districts the temperature changes during the past twenty-four hours were unimportant.

"The present weather conditions will likely continue at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Why There Are No Fresh Eggs.

New York Press: We are aware that when fresh eggs come rushing from the farms in enormous quantities they are promptly shot into cold storage just as they come, while the stale eggs, already in storage, are put out to the customers. The fresh eggs are whisked out of sight, so as not to "break the market." There is an abundant natural supply for the season, but because it is withdrawn from the consumers the artificial shortage is maintained, with relatively high prices—and for stale eggs in the fresh egg season.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Another railway scheme came to light today, in which only Eastern capitalists are interested. It is said the road is to enter the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges, where rich mines will be opened. This winter four surveys have been made, one route entering Duluth through Chester creek.

The Standard society has secured spacious quarters in the Masonic temple building, and will celebrate the opening of the rooms by a grand ball and banquet. The society has elected the following officers: Ben Hellar, president; I. Freimuth, vice president; S. Van Baalen, secretary and treasurer; B. Silberstein, I. Bondy, G. A. Klein and D. Van Baalen, directors.

The police force has been reorganized with the following officers: Chief, S. C. McQuade; captain, Frank Clements; detective, Robert A. Benson; clerk on special duty, Edwin B. Force. Sergeant Daniel Horgan is in charge at the central station, with William McEwen as jailer. At the West end station, Sergeant Samuel J. Thompson is in charge and John Drennan is jailer. The municipal court officers are Alfred Gillon and Richard Westaway. There are twenty-eight patrolmen, but it is expected to soon increase the force to nearly fifty.

Willard & Piper's is the latest addition to Duluth's suburbs. This property includes eighty acres and lies north of Harrison's Brookdale addition. It is contiguous to Highland Park addition and commands an extensive view of the city and lake. O. L. Rosen surveyed the addition, and Coffin & Warner will handle the sale of lots which will be 25 by 140 feet, with 20-foot alleys.

The Marine bank is moving into its magnificent new quarters in the Palladio building. The big Corliss safe, weighing eight tons, which was put in position in the new office, attracted a large crowd by its peculiar appearance, resembling an immense mortar.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA'S CAUSE.

Same With Other Districts.

Virginia Virginian: This district will need "strong" men in the legislature next year and it will soon be time to cast about for them. In order to secure reapportionment much work must be done and it will require men of force at the helm all the time.

Must Be "Shown."

Virginia Enterprise: While Minnesota is admittedly a Republican state past experience has shown that the party has no cinch on the side-lines in a state election. If the party would make itself solid in Northern Minnesota for the coming campaign it would be wise for the leaders to study the resolutions adopted at the Northern Minnesota conference at Bemidji and embody the ideas promulgated in that convention in the party platform. Northern Minesota is awakening to the advantages of putting the welfare and development of the section above partisanship and reapportionment, highway fund and drainage appropriations are of more importance to us than is the question of John Doe's political affiliation.

The Real Work Ahead.

Spooner News: The Northern Minnesota Development association formally ushered into existence Feb. 17 and 18 at Bemidji, was a big creation, and likewise a big event, but does not end the undertaking, as the real work must now be done, else it may gradually pass into oblivion. Every newspaper throughout the country affected should constitute itself a special promoter of the objects of the organization, giving as much publicity to the matter as possible. Press of the country wields a power that compels recognition and especially so in matters politic, thus it should be the press that should take the initiative in this most vital question of the citizens of the North country.

Unanimity Promises Results.

Alexandria Post-News: The demand of the Northern Minnesota Development congress at Bemidji, have been heard in the remotest corner of Minnesota, carrying reproof to those who in the past have denied that people a just and fair representation in legislative assemblies. The earnestness and unanimity of the delegates there assembled promise results in the securing of a fair reapportionment and more favorable conditions for the settlers of this section. The state can no longer deny Northern Minnesota, with a 50 per cent increase in population in fifteen years, the representation to which those counties are entitled.

Duluth Delegation Commended.

McIntosh Times: The development congress held at Bemidji last week was one of the most important conventions ever held in the state. It was a gathering of the best business men in Northern Minnesota, whose hearts and souls were beating for the best development of their country. They, too, had definite ideas as to some of the things that ought to be done for this section of the country. It marks an epoch in the history of the development of Northern Minnesota. The attitude of the Duluth delegation was very commendable. They came with a spirit of good will to all. They did not demand a single thing, but boosted everything that was for the benefit of all Northern Minnesota. They were not looking for anything for themselves. Politics was laid on the top shelf. Northern Minnesota has found a common rallying ground, and fellcity and good fellowship reigned throughout.

"Boosted a Great Boost."

Roseau Times: The conservation convention at Bemidji was a great success and will be the start to boom the northern part of the state for fair play by the legislature. The convention stood for reapportionment and equitable reapportionment in the law-making power of the state, a one-mill tax for the use of the highway commission for the building of good roads and bridges and other good measures. Bemidji boosted a great boost for Northern Minnesota.

The Greatest Ever.

Warroad Plaindealer: The verdict of the state press and the verdict of every one of the delegates to the convention is that it was the greatest meeting of great boosters ever held in northern or any part of Minnesota, and that it cannot help but be productive of much good to this part of the state. There was no material discord in this convention and politics were not allowed to interfere with or obscure the real objects of the meeting, and those who went to Bemidji expecting it to be a gathering for the purpose of political hob-nobbery were agreeably surprised to find that the majority had gone there for an entirely different purpose, and every attempt to give political candidates a chance to make capital of this meeting was quelched as far as possible.

The Proof of Goodness.

Charleston News and Courier: It is not a man's disposition that makes him good; it's his acts.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Catholic Standard and Times: Miss Elder—The idea of his pretending that my hair was gray.

Miss Peppery—Ridiculous!

Miss Elder—Wasn't it, though?

Miss Peppery—Yes, just as if you'd buy gray hair.

New York Sun: Adam had just blamed it on the woman. "There wasn't any tariff," he exclaimed. Herewith all agreed he had done his best.

Harper's Bazaar: Cook—I'll be lavin' yez, mum.

Mistress—Very well, Bridget. Keep to the right. Incoming cooks keep to the left.

Yonkers Statesman: Bacon—I see the London suffragettes have adopted colors.

Egbert—What are they? Black and blue?

Boston Transcript: He—Now that we are married, pet, do you love me well enough to cook me?

She—Enough, darling? I love you entirely too much for that.

Washington Star: "A statesman never looks really impressive," said the student of human nature, "unless he has a distinctive beard or moustache or bald head."

"I suppose," replied the suffragette contemptuously, "that you are trying to think up another silly reason why women should not go into politics."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "You're buying cheroots since you're married. Beginning to economize, eh?"

"No; my wife likes for me to leave the long butts. She loops 'em with ribbons and hangs 'em about the hat."

Yonkers Statesman: Beulah—When he kissed me last night I asked him to tell no one.

Belle—And did he?

Beulah—Way, it wasn't two minutes before he repeated it!

Argonaut: The dean of a Western university was told by the students that the cook was turning out food not "fit to eat."

"Why, sir," exclaimed the cook, "you oughtn't to place so much importance on what the young men tell you about my meals! They come to me in just the same way about your lectures!"

Chicago News: Cincinnati Tourist (who, for the first time, has just entered a restaurant in Paris)—Have you ordered?

St. Louis Tourist (who has reached the table some minutes before, and who looks up from a French bill of fare)—Yes.

Cincinnati Tourist—What did you order?

St. Louis Tourist (impatiently)—How do I know?

Puck: Lawyer—Am I to understand that your wife left your bed and board?

Uncle Ephraim—Not 'xactly, boss. She dun tuk mah bed and bo'd along wiff her.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The acts of the coldest people can make the rest of us the hottest.

When a man says he respects the law what he means is he's afraid of it.

People don't get nearly so top-heavy from having brains as from thinking they have them.

A woman can even stop curling her hair to hear how near a neighbor's family is to being broken up.

How Many Gentlemen?

Thackeray: Which of us can point out many such in his circle—men whose aims are generous, whose truth is constant, and not only constant in its kind but cleated in its degree; its kind but cleated in its degree; whose want of meanness makes them simple; who can look the world honestly in the face with an equal manly sympathy for the great and the small? We all know a hundred whose coats are very well made, and a score who have excellent manners, and one or two happy beings who are what they call in the inner circles, and have shot into the very center and bullseye of the fashion; but of gentlemen, how many? Let us take a little scrap of paper and each make out his list.

Don't Blame Your Stomach

When Without Exertion or Cost You Can Enjoy Meals and Cure Dyspepsia.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Don't blame your stomach or your luck when your meals declare war on your system.

When the stomach won't do its work it is because it cannot.

When foul smelling odors come from your stomach, when the head aches and the sourness of mouth every morning makes you hate your breakfast, when dreams and nightmare assail you, don't give up the fight.

This is the appeal of nature, and it should be heard.

Over-eating, late suppers, poorly chewed food, too rich pastries and under-done cooking are some of the causes of the stomach's ill health.

When the stomach is busy, it presses and churns all the liquid matter from food and with its juices dissolves into liquid form or pulp everything which comes into it.

If such food be poisonous it effects the juices, attacks the stomach, goes into the blood and weakens the entire system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest a full meal easily without material assistance from the stomach. They will restock the gastric fluid with all the elements needed. They build up the blood, destroy sour taste, bad breath, belching, stomach and bowel trouble and quickly restore natural conditions.

One grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 2,000 grains of food in the stomach or in a glass vial without aid of the human digestive apparatus.

The method of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the methods of Nature.

They contain every requisite for the stomach and digestion. After a meal one of these little tablets when it enters the stomach mingles with the juices, attacks the food and digests it. It removes the fermented and decayed mass, lying stagnant there and eases the stomach at once.

It is wholly a question for you to solve. Your druggist will furnish Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets 50c the box, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

PLAN TO HOLD UP MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS FAILS

Council Overrules President and Names Submitted Are Confirmed.

Opposition to Chief Troyer Is Responsible for Clever Plot.

MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS.

City Attorney—Bert Fesler.
Health Commissioner—Henry E. Webster.
City Engineer—Thomas F. McGilvray.
Building Inspector — S. M. Kielley.
Board of Public Works—O. G. Olson.
Fire Commissioner — James Hart.
Water and Light Commissioner—John B. Erd.
Civil Service Commissioner—Peter Grignon, Jr.
Private Secretary — John H. McCull.

COUNCIL ORGANIZATION.

President—Frank Jordan.
Vice President—John Hogan.
City Clerk—Harry W. Cheadle.

Sealer of Weights and Measures—George E. Duren.
Harbormaster—Thomas Burke.

A clever plot on the part of those opposed to Chief Troyer was sprung last night when an attempt was made to use the charter confirmation requirement of the mayor's appointments to force Mayor M. B. Cullum to discharge the chief.

The scheme was evidently to refer the appointments to the committee on officers and elections, where they would be held up until the mayor had promised to decapitate the police chief.

The plot bore the earmarks of careful forethought, but others had evidently scented the scheme, and after two motions to adjourn had been voted down by narrow margins, Alderman W. B. Getchell of the Eighth ward introduced a resolution to confirm the appointments of the mayor. The resolution was passed after a brisk skirmish.

When the resolution was offered President Jordan ruled it out of order, as the appointments had already been referred to the committee. Alderman Getchell appealed from the decision of the chair, and the chair was not sustained on roll call. The confirmation then went through by a vote of 11 to 5.

The vote was as follows: Yeas—Aldermen Barnes, Bergstrom, Bernard, Getchell, Hector, Hoar, Hogan, Merritt, Moore, Storey and Wharton. Nays—Aldermen Curren, MacDonell, Makowski, Shartel and Jordan.

Alderman Shartel explained that his only reason for opposing the motion was that he thought the committee should have time to report, and that it would be discourteous on the part of the council to take the matter from the hands of the committee, after it had been properly referred. This was probably the attitude of some of the others who voted against the motion.

Immediately after his re-election as president of the council, President Frank Jordan announced the committees for the year. This put the old committees off the slate.

When the annual message of the mayor had been read and the list of appointees given, the latter was referred to the new committee on officers and elections, which had already been named by the president. The committee did not report back to the aldermen and the adjournment was moved but turned down.

After the meeting it was discovered that the ruling of President Jordan was in accordance with the standing rules of the council. For a time there was a glimmer of hope that the confirmation of appointments was illegal, but this was dispelled as the charter takes precedence over the council rules. The confirmation was legal and will stand.

Short Meeting.

The business of the council, which met last night to organize for the year, was transacted in record time. It was one of the very shortest annual meetings on record, lasting only an hour the last motion to adjourn being carried a few minutes after 9 o'clock.

The slate arranged ahead of time by the Democrats went through without a hitch. President Frank Jordan was re-elected president; John Hogan, vice president; H. W. Cheadle, city clerk; Thomas Burke, harbor master, and George Duren, sealer of weights and measures.

Duren was the only new man elected by the council, which seemed to miss the usual merry battle over the election of Noble Sampson, who has held the place sixteen years in the face of much bitter opposition. The first time Sampson was elected it took 197 ballots and the meeting lasted until about 3:30 o'clock in the morning.

The appointments of the mayor were as predicted in The Herald yesterday, nothing being said directly about Chief Troyer, except that the message stated that any police officer will be discharged if sufficient charges for such action can be brought against him. This probably means that the chief will be retained indefinitely. It is certain that those who desire his removal would have preferred the charges before if there had been any proof to back them up.

Dr. H. E. Webster was appointed health commissioner to succeed Dr. F. J. Patton. T. E. McGilvray holds over as city engineer and S. M. Kielley as building inspector. O. G. Olson was named for the board of public works and Bert Fesler as city attorney. The city attorney will select two assistants. James Hart was appointed to the board of fire commissioners; J. B. Erd to the board of water and light commissioners; Peter Grignon, Jr., to the civil service board, and J. H. McCall as the mayor's private secretary.

The council committees for the coming year were named by President Jordan as follows:

Auditing and county conference—Makowski, Bergstrom and Getchell.

Bridges, viaducts and ferries—Storey, Makowski and Bernard.

City property, buildings and markets—Wharton, Hector and Shartel.

Claims—Merritt, Getchell and Barnes.

Drains, sewers and sanitation—Curren, Bernard and Storey.

Finance—Getchell, Storey and Moore.

Fire department—Hogan, Moore and Curren.

Harbors, parks and roads—Barnes, Merritt and Bergstrom.

Light and water—Hector, Wharton and Hogan.

Offices and elections — Bergstrom, MacDonell and Makowski.

Ordinances and resolutions—Shartel, Hoar and Hector.

Police and license—Hoar, Shartel and Wharton.

Purchasing and supplies—MacDonell, Barnes and Hoar.

Railroads, telephones and telegraph lines—Bernard, Curren and Merritt.

Streets, alleys and sidewalks—Moore, Hogan and MacDonell.

Prison-Made Goods.

Washington, March 9.—The proposition to prohibit the transportation of prison-made goods between states, embodied in a bill introduced by Representative Gardner of New Jersey, was debated at a hearing before the house committee on labor. Edward Boyle of Chicago opposed it and Miss Helen V. Boswell, secretary of the national committee on prison labor, Henry F. Wise of Baltimore, and others favored it. Other hearings will precede action of the committee on the measure.

Can Fence Boundary Lines.

After adopting three amendments of importance and listening to another verbal castigation of the forestry bureau by Senator Hayburn, the senate passed the agricultural appropriation bill. As passed, the bill carries a total appropriation of $13,522,636, an increase of $192,360 over the amount carried by the bill as it passed the house. By the amendments adopted today the secretary of agriculture is authorized to build fences along international boundary lines to keep out diseased cattle; the making of lump sum appropriations for any bureau of the department is prohibited, and $10,000 is appropriated for an investigation of the orange grove pest known as the white fly.

Farmers and Immigration.

The farmers of the country are opposed to unrestricted immigration into this country. None of the immigrants reach the farms where they might be utilized, and the farmer consequently sees no reason for their coming. Also they are opposed for patriotic reasons to the great tide of immigration of the lower classes of Europe and Asia and they believe the fate of the country rests upon whether this flood is restricted or not. These were the statements of a committee representing the Farmers' Educational Co-operative union, which appeared before the house committee on immigration. The spokesman stated that they represented 3,000,000 farmers.

WILL INQUIRE INTO AVALANCHE WRECK

Responsibility of Great Northern to Be Looked Into By Coroner.

Seattle, Wash., March 9.—As soon as the bodies have been extricated from the debris at Wellington, Coroner James C. Snyder of King county will hold an inquiry here to discover the causes of the disaster.

Guests at Scenic Hot Springs hotel will be asked to testify concerning the statement that the Great Northern made no effort to extinguish forest fires on the mountain sides last summer. These fires, it is alleged, destroyed the growth which is past years has prevented snow slides.

Coroner Snyder, it is said, will investigate the statement that the day before the disaster a meeting of the Great Northern to delegate guides to take the passengers down the mountain.

Sixty-two Bodies Removed.

Wellington, Wash., March 9.—At the last count sixty-two bodies have been taken from the scene of the avalanche. The trail between Wellington and Scenic is now so well established that the bodies are being sent out to Seattle or Everett soon after their recovery.

BRIEFS ARE FILED IN CORPORATION TAX TESTS.

Washington, March 9.—The attack on the constitutionality of the corporation tax loomed into prominence yesterday when brief after brief was filed in the supreme court of the United States. Final argument of the cases involving the question is set for next week. Prominent among these was the brief of Former Senator Joseph B. Foraker of Ohio, solicitor for Louis W. Jared, a stockholder in the American Multigraph company of Cleveland, who seeks to have the company enjoined from paying the tax on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Among several other briefs filed was one for Oscar Mitchell against the Clark Iron company of Minnesota.

FOUR TONS OF EGGS CONDEMNED AND SEIZED.

Boston, Mass., March 9.—Four tons of eggs for use in bakers' cakes and pies were taken from cold storage yesterday on complaint of Dr. George H. Adams, government food inspector. It is said to constitute the largest seizure of the kind ever made. The eggs had been removed from their shells and were contained in 576 cans.

Dr. Adams said they had become unfit for use, and that after they had been treated with carbolic acid the government will take them to tanning establishments. Had they been in good coondition, the eggs would have been worth $2,900.

The shipment came from a Chicago firm.

BUSY SEASON FOR IRON RANGE ROAD.

The Iron Range road is preparing for a busy year, according to Thomas Owens, superintendent, who went to Hibbing today on business. The road will construct ten new cabooses at its Two Harbors shops. Thirty-five cabooses have been reconstructed to conform with the law passed by the last legislature. An extension, four miles long, will be built to the Shagawa mine in section 30, near Ely. It is expected to ship nearly 100,000 tons this year.

Several new properties will start shipping this year over the Iron Range, which has ordered 1,000 new ore cars and several additional locomotives, Ore, said Mr. Owens, probably will be delivered to the docks in April for lake shipment. The road is preparing to handle a greater tonnage than last year, when 9,250,000 tons were carried.

Mr. Owens is president of the Roy Development company, which owns the fee of an iron property on the Vermilion. The officers of the company will visit the property tomorrow. Developments are in progress.

HIGH FLYERS WILL TAKE TO FLYING.

Newport, R. I., March 9.—The Newport summer colony will go in for flying this summer, according to Wilbur Wright, the Dayton, Ohio, aeroplanist. Mr. Wright has made arrangements for the establishment of an airship headquarters in Newport during the summer months, and says he intends to bring about a dozen completed machines here, many of which already have been sold to members of the summer colony. He would not divulge the names of the purchasers. Mr. Wright proposes to prepare a large field as his aviation park. There he and his assistants will make test flights and instruct the new owners in the use of their machines. His plant also will include a repair shop.

WEIRICK WINS OVER ANSLEY

Former Village President of Hibbing Easily Defeats Present President.

Question of Licensing Sale of Liquor Wins in Grand Rapids.

Hibbing, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although absent, Dr. H. R. Weirick was not forgotten by his friends yesterday, who rallied to his support in a surprising manner and elected him village president or mayor by 116 majority over Frank Ansley, the present president. The vote was the heaviest ever polled in Hibbing.

The race made by Dr. Weirick, who at the last minute before leaving the city consented to allow his name to be used, is considered phenomenal, and upset the calculations of all the wise ones.

A Weirick Landslide.

The result was a landslide for the Weirick ticket with one exception, Dennis Healy, who was defeated by A. D. Smith by the narrow margin of 42 votes. Next to the remarkable run of Mayor Weirick was that of Ab Kleffman for recorder, who defeated Miles Gandsey, the present incumbent, by 262 votes. Heretofore Gandsey has been thought to be invincible.

Judge Thomas F. Brady, who right along was expected to have an easy time by the voters in general, was an easy winner. Mr. Brady had by far the biggest majority of any of the candidates who had opposition. Out of a possible 1,390 votes cast he received 1,042, giving him a majority of 664 over his opponent, John D. Bell.

The trustees elected were William Barrett, Peter McHardy and William Wearne. Mr. Barrett showed his popularity by polling 1,373 votes. Mr. Barrett, who has served the village in many capacities heretofore, was the unanimous choice of the voters, his name appearing on every ticket in the field.

Peter McHardy ran second for the trusteeship while William Wearne defeated Joseph Zant by 37 votes.

The real fight of the day owing to Kleffman's comparatively easy victory over Gandsey was that for treasurer between Al Smith and Dennis Healy, both old timers here, with D. D. McEachen as third candidate. The outcome could not be determined until the final count when it was shown that Mr. Smith retained his office by a majority of 62 votes.

Election Was Peaceful.

Great interest was shown in the election the vote being the largest ever cast in Hibbing. The crowd was well behaved at all times and it is to the credit of the citizens that not an incident of any kind happened to mar the day.

Last evening the friends of the Weirick ticket had the band out playing in and in front of all the most popular places in town. They played "Hail, Hail, the Gangs All Here" and sometimes they played a funeral march. They proceeded to each successful candidates' home where they played all the popular airs.

A summary of the candidates with the votes cast is as follows: Weirick 753, Ansley, 637, for president. For trustees, Barrett, 1,373, McHardy, 819, Wearne, 637, Zant 636. Kearney, 585, Woolfan, 65. For recorder. Kleffman, 796, Gandsey, 593, treasurer, Smith 602, Haley 540, McEachen, 249. Municipal judge, Brady 1,042, Bell 348. Special municipal judge, Thomas Silliman no opposition.

PEOPLE'S TICKET WINS IN ELECTION AT MARBLE.

Marble, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The People's ticket won out here yesterday. W. E. Bawden being elected president without opposition, getting 173 votes. Richard Fitzgerald, Frank L. Smith and Frank Eklun were elected trustees. J. E. Gravel was elected clerk without opposition, David M. Vermilyea, treasurer and H. C. Staacke justice of the peace. NEW OFFICES ARE SECURED

Minnesota Steel Company Leases Second Floor of Sherwood Building.

The Minnesota Steel company, the Duluth steel plant subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, this morning closed a lease for the second floor of the new Sherwood building on First street between Third and Fourth avenues west. The building will be ready for occupancy May 1 and the steel company will take immediate possession.

All downtown offices of the company will be in the new quarters, which will be fitted out for the needs of the corporation. The executive officers now quartered in the Wolvin building will remove there, as well as the draftsmen, who are now in the Board of Trade building.

The company is gradually expanding as the preliminary work progresses. When the quarters in the Wolvin building became too crowded, the draftsmen were moved to the Board of Trade building. The separation of the offices is inconvenient and it has become necessary to secure more adequate quarters.

Work on the detailed plans for the new plant is said to be progressing satisfactorily. Since early last fall, twenty or twenty-five draftsmen have been working constantly on the detailed plans for the different structures and the promises that actual construction work will begin the coming summer will undoubtedly be fulfilled.

GOULD PICKS ANOTHER WIFE

MOURNING IS HER PROFESSION

Denver, Col., March 9.—It will be some time before Clara Howell will be able to resume her alleged vocation of professional mourner, according to the Denver police.

The police said the woman made a practice of attending funerals, not only at undertakers' chapels, but even at private homes. Slipping quietly into the funeral service, she would take a seat and begin to weep. Naturally some of the relatives of the deceased would inquire concerning her identity.

Then the disconsolate one, according to the police, would invariably say she was acquainted with the departed and incidentally would call attention to her own poverty. She was generally successful, the police assert, in getting "a loan."

Policeman Burdette heard some complaints concerning the woman and took her into custody at a funeral.

"I DON'T REMEMBER" IS POOR ANSWER

New York, March 9.—That a judge may summarily punish a witness who answers, "I don't remember," to most of the questions that are asked him, and commit him to jail for contempt of court instead of holding him for a jury trial on a charge of perjury, was the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals yesterday in an opinion written by Judge Coxe. Lawyers say the ruling is one of the most important decisions in the interest of creditors of bankrupts since the enactment of the bankruptcy law.

The decision was rendered in the case of Schulmans & Goldstein, bankrupts. Schulman was called upon to testify before a referee to explain apparent shrinkage in his assets.

Schulmans' refusal to make any explanation aroused the Merchants' Protective association, whose counsel made a certificate to the effect that he was committing perjury. Judge Holt ordered his arrest and committed him to jail for six months for contempt of court. Judge Coxe's opinion, concurred in by Judges Lacomb and Noyes, holds that the commitment was proper.

Four Additional Rooms in District Court Building at Virginia.

At their meeting yesterday afternoon the county commissioners authorized the payment of $25,000 for the site of the new district court building at Virginia. This was the amount recommended by the appraisers who met some time ago.

A Single Cup Correctly Brewed

Proves the merit and satisfaction there is in Postum. But it is often only half brewed and the result is often unjust condemnation.

There are no "grades" of Postum. Every package is the same. It is the steady boiling, for at least fifteen minutes after boiling begins, that gives a cup of Postum its fine, snappy flavour.

If your first cup of

POSTUM

Was not satisfactory, the fault was in the brewing—it must be boiled until it is dark and rich—don't attempt to make it as you would make coffee, but remember—

The longer Postum is boiled the better it is!

Well-made Postum served with good cream, has a flavour distinctly its own and not unlike that of mild, high-grade Java coffee.

The best proof of the value of Postum is found in the clear brain and steady nerves which follow its use as the regular daily beverage in place of coffee or tea.

Postum—made of clean hard wheat (including the bran-coat with its "vital phosphates," grown in the grain)—quickly assists in rebuilding the worn-out body cells, because it contains these valuable elements in liquid form; in fact, it is a very palatable liquid food.

After all arguments, 10 days' trial proves.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

HAVE IT RIGHT

Have Your Beverages Made Good Enough to Win You.

The rule about not boiling coffee leads many persons to prepare Postum in the same way.

This is a mistake and, of course, is unfair to Postum. Have it just right and it has much the same flavour as the old and high-priced Java coffee, but never causes the troubles that coffee does.

An Illinois man found out how to make Postum so it tasted as good to him as his old-time coffee. He writes:

"For years I could not breakfast without my cup of coffee.

"During this time I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, with smothering and nervous spells. The doctor told me to quit coffee, but I did not.

"Finally, one time, while visiting, I was given Postum for breakfast. I can't say I enjoyed it at first—they only guessed how to make it. But when we followed the directions on the package, we all agreed that 'Postum was fine.'

"Then I began to enjoy my meals. Could take plenty of substantial food besides the Postum and felt good afterwards. My headaches were gone, and gradually I forgot I ever had heart trouble.

"I have told persons we used Postum at our house and they remarked they did not know we could 'use the stuff.' They did not get at its goodness because it was not made right.

"A lady tried to give Postum to a lot of hired men but they would not take it. I tasted it as she made it and didn't wonder—it didn't taste like ours. Asked about it, she said she never paid much attention to directions on the package.

"The next time I saw her she had learned how to make Postum right and said the men folks asked for the second cup. Follow directions and you'll have good Postum." Have it right!

AN EASY WAY TO CLEAN THE SINK

Every sink should be provided with a three-cornered sieve made by covering a metal frame with very fine netting. When water is thrown into the sink it should be turned into this sieve, which retains every particle of solid matter, preventing its getting into the pipes and causing trouble. Each morning the sink should be carefully cleaned. Dissolve a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in hot water, scrub every portion of the sink with the Gold Dust solution, pouring some of the hot suds down the pipe to loosen the grease that may have gathered in the trap.

ANNUAL OUTING AT BEMIDJI IN JULY

Dates for Annual Tournament of Northern Minnesota Firemen Fixed.

Bemidji, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual tournament of the Northern Minnesota Fireman's Tournament association will be held here Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 4, 5 6 and 7, these dates having been finally chosen jointly by the tournament committee of the Bemidji fire department and the Bemidji Commercial club.

A large number of the departments in the western part of the state requested that the tournament be held during the week of the Fourth of July so that the fire buddies may also enjoy an outing while participating in the tournament.

For the opening day, July 4, it is the plan of the joint committee to have a monster parade, in which all the fire companies participating in the tournament will be in line, and prizes will be given for the best appearing and best drilled companies. A number of exhibition races will be pulled off on the Fourth, but no championship race will be run that day, as there is a possibility that some of the companies will not be present until the second day of the meeting.

Militia In Parade.

A feature of the parade will be the appearance of Company K, Bemidji's crack company of the Minnesota national guard. The company will be in camp at Lake City from June 20 to June 29, and will have just returned from a five days' drilling and general maneuvering, and will be in fine fettle to participate in the parade and give an exhibition drill and sham battle.

The race track at the fair grounds will be used on which to run the race; and a fine cinder track will be put in there just as soon as possible.

The eastern division of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association will hold its annual tournament at Grand Rapids in the latter part of June, and the dates of the Bemidji meeting will in no manner conflict with the Grand Rapids tourney. As the teams of both associations will be in fine condition at the beginning of July, it is suggested that a race be arranged for the Bemidji meeting for the championship of the state, the exact nature of the race or contest to be decided later, the winning department of each association to compete in this race or contest, for a suitable purse.

Earl Geil, chief of the Bemidji fire department, is president of the tournament association; M. F. Cunningham of this city is secretary; and the fire department tournament committee is composed of Charles Collins Floyd Brown and John Goodman.

RED LAKE COUNTY FREAK.

The creature lived but a short time and excited curiosity.

GUITAR COMES BY MAIL.

Novel Shipment Received at Aberdeen, S. D., From Italy.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 9.—A guitar from Italy passed through the local postoffice consigned to a resident of this city. The package was one of the largest ever received by mail here, and the guitar was packed in a wooden box. In the course of its journey through the malls, either before reaching this country or after, the box in which it was sent was considerably broken, though the instrument itself was undamaged.

The guitar was sent under the European parcels post system and the postage on it was but 96 cents, much less than the duty which was taxed against the instrument. The duty collected was 45 per cent of the value of the article and amounted to $2.16, which shows that the Italian value of the guitar is not much. Had the instrument come by express or freight the charges would have been much more for transporting it, and had Umerto Muroit of this city, to whom it was consigned, purchased it in an American music store, there is no doubt but that he would have paid much more for it.

MUCH LIKE NEBRASKA

Central Africa a White Man's Country, Says Peter MacQueen.

Will Some Day Be Settled With Americans and English.

Peter MacQueen, F. R. G. S., author, lecturer and explorer, has been through all of Central Africa, the country that Theodore Roosevelt is making famous at the present time, stated today that there was a great future for that stretch of Africa that the popular mind associates with fever and other dangerous diseases.

Mr. MacQueen states that Roosevelt was never in a more dangerous climate than the moderate climate of Oyster Bay, the Roosevelt home in the United States. With the exception of Uganda and the head waters of the Nile, through which country the ex-president passed quickly, Mr. MacQueen states that he has been at no time in the least danger from the climate.

It is for this reason that the author believes that the portion of Central Africa which the strenuous "Teddy" is exploring at the present time, is destined some day to be a great and thriving country, populated thickly with Americans, English and Germans.

"The laws of the English are very just toward the native and the white man," said Mr. MacQueen, in describing the country that Roosevelt has written so much about. "The country where the ex-president has been, is a white man's country. There are fertile stretches of prairie, much like the prairie in our Western states, such as Nebraska. You can grow two crops of corn, two crops of potatoes, or two crops of almost everything else in a year. The sun shines continuously, almost—yet there is a rainfall of sixty inches in this country.

"Great stretches of the country are shut off for game preserves. These are held by the English nobility and there has been much complaint against this sort of thing. It has come up the Central African parliament and has nearly caused a split in the government. Some day this injustice will be remedied.

"Mombasa, the city Mr. Roosevelt visited, is a modern city of 20,000 people. There are a number of white men, Americans, English and Germans living there in modern bungalows. The city is much more modern than you would expect, and shows the progress that has been made in the country.

"I believe that within a few years there will be a large number of white men in this country. The going there of Mr. Roosevelt will accomplish much in opening up the country. Anything can be grown in the country, for I have seen a dozen different varieties of vegetables growing in the same garden, and it is only a question of a short time before many white men will seek homes in the new country."

And speaking about Roosevelt, Mr. MacQueen has a letter from the ex-president, which was written only recently from Central Africa. The letter expresses pleasure that Mr. MacQueen has written a book about Africa, and assures the author that he will be "delighted" to read it.

Mr. MacQueen was with Roosevelt in the Santiago campaign, and since that time has become very intimate with the ex-president.

"He is the greatest man of this country," said Mr. MacQueen. "He is not a Republican; he is more of a Democrat than he is a Republican. He is more of a Socialist than he is either Republican or Democrat. His strength lies in seeing the weakness of other people. He sees the faults and needs of this country, as no other man has seen them, and now, as you see, they are calling for him to come back and do some political work."

COPPERS HAD NERVOUS TONE

Market Erratic in the East But Strong in Duluth.

The copper market was nervous today in the East. The local market was not influenced by outside conditions and the market was unusually strong. In the East, coppers declined after the opening but rallied and went higher than the opening. Toward the close the session was dull and coppers sagged below the opening. The close was about on a par to slightly lower, than the opening.

The copper metal situation is slightly weaker, from a standpoint of values, but the situation from a viewpoint of the producer is stronger than for some time. The report of the producers which will be issued tomorrow will show a material reduction, it is believed, in metal stocks.

A new factor which may prove disturbing to the market is a threatened strike of coal operators in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania. The miners of the three states have been refused an increase in wages and an eight-hour day.

The undertone to the market is fair. The public holds only a small percentage of stocks and the buying comes from speculators and strong sources. Any buying movement by the public would cause a material advance.

The feature of the local market was the heavy trading in Warrior, about 600 shares of this issue changing hands at 10.50, 10.43¾, and back to the opening. Calumet & Corbin also was prominent. This issue jumped 23 cents during the day on buying from Boston where an endeavor is being made to make a market for the stock. This issue has been listed on the Boston exchange for more than a year. Application for listing on the New York curb was made several days ago and a favorable report is expected tomorrow or Friday. Calumet & Sonora was especially strong selling at $21.50 after opening bids of 1½ points under.

Butte-Alex Scott, full paid, sold at $7.37½; Butte-Ballaklava at $10.50; Cordova, full paid, at $2.50, Red Warrior at $2.62½; Calumet & Montana at $1.12½; Calumet & Corbin at 73, 75 and then at 95, 94 and 96 cents; Rawhide Royal at 5 cents; Amazon at $6, $6.06¾ and $5.81¾; Zenith at 99 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $82 up to $84 and down to $81.87½ and up to the opening. Butte Coalition sold at $27, and off ¼ point; Calumet & Arizona sold at $78, $77.75, $78.25 and $77; North Butte at $43.50 up to $44.25, off 1¼ points and then at $43.25; Giroux at $10.50 and up ¼ point and down to $10.50; Ojibway at $10.50 after opening with offers at $12. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $14 and off ⅛ point and back to the opening. Stocks soon sold at $85.50 and up to $89.62½, down to $87.87½ and up to $88.

WILL NOT ENTER COMPETITION

County Will Have State Fair Exhibit in Its Own Building.

Owing to the fact that C. P. Craig of this city is chairman of the agricultural department of the state fair association, St. Louis county will not send a competitive exhibit to the state fair this year.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Commercial club this afternoon. The county, will, however, send a first-class exhibit to the state fair, to be shown in the St. Louis county building.

The committee decided also to offer prizes to Duluth children for the best samples of sweet corn grown within the city limits this summer. The competition will be open to all children under the age of 16 years.

The county will send an agricultural exhibit to the conservation congress in St. Paul next week. The exhibit will consist largely of specimens left over from the state fair exhibit last year.

A series of spring meetings will be held among the farmers of the county this spring. Speakers will be secured through the superintendent of farmers' institutes and they will give practical talks to the settlers of this district during the coming months.

"WIDE OPEN TOWN" WINS IN SEATTLE.

Seattle, Wash., March 9.—The count of the vote on the thirteen amendments to the city charter at yesterday's election has not yet been completed, but it seems that the amendment said to be intended to destroy the initiative and referendum was defeated.

The Republican victory in the contest for offices was almost complete. Of the new councilmen twelve are Republicans, one Independent, one Democrat, with two seats in doubt. Bond issues of $4,500,000 were approved.

Hiram C. Gill, Republican, was elected mayor. The campaign centered around the "wide open town" issue. Gill promised a liberal interpretation of the laws.

NEW LAW ON FOREST FIRES

Ballinger Proposes Measure to Guard National and Indian Timber.

Would Impose $5,000 Fine on Anybody Endangering the Woods.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, March 9.—Secretary Ballinger today sent to congress a draft of a bill intended to amend the criminal laws of the United States, so as to make more definite provisions for punishment for the crime of unlawfully cutting timber from Indian allotments, and to define the crime and provide punishment for wilful destruction by fire upon Indian reservations and allotments.

The experience of the department with reference to this class of offenses has shown the need of legislation of this character. The proposed draft of the bill proposes a fine of $500 or imprisonment not over a year for unlawfully cutting timber on government or Indian reservations.

For Starting Fire, $5,000 Fine.
Whoever shall wilfully set fire to timber, underbrush, grass—or, in other words, start a forest or prairie fire—shall be fined $5,000 or be imprisoned not over two years. It is further provided as a safeguard that one who shall be caught building or having built a fire in or near any forest, timber or other inflammable material upon the public domain shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year.

KNOXES BACK AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., March 9.—Philander C. Knox, Jr., and his bride slipped quietly back into the city today from Washington. They went direct to Mrs. Knox's apartments in Benefit street.

Young Knox was quite willing to talk about his marriage, but very reticent about his interview with his father at Washington. From his manner it evidently had not been what he expected.

"I'm glad we're married," he exclaimed. "Of course my marriage was a big surprise to my father and mother—in fact a shock. But I am hoping they will forgive me and that everything will be all right before long. We're going back to Providence to get my things together, and I shall go to work if necessary to support my wife.

"I am expecting and hoping to hear from father in Providence after he gets used to the idea of me being married," said young Knox rather slowly.

Reports of a row with Dr. French, the result of which was his expulsion from school, young Knox vigorously denied.

Decline to Talk.
Washington, March 9.—Secretary Knox and Mrs. Knox declined to be interviewed, and at the Knox home all knowledge of the whereabouts of the young man and his wife were denied. It is said young Knox did not see his mother when he went home.

PASS BILL OVER WILLSON'S VETO

Frankfort, Ky., March, 9.—The so-called tobacco pooling bill, which Governor Willson yesterday vetoed, was last night passed over the veto by both the house and the senate. The house vote was 77 to 11, and the senate, 31 to 5.

The pooling bill provides for the recording of names of persons pooling tobacco or other farm products, and provides a penalty for any person purchasing or seeking to purchase the crop of any individual who has pooled that crop.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

WILL FIGHT NEAR FRISCO

Race Track at Emeryville Selected for Jeffries-Johnson Contest.

Rickard and Gleason Agree to Hold Big Battle in California.

San Francisco, Cal., March 9.—After weeks of negotiations and more or less controversy between the joint promoters, it was definitely announced last evening by Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason that the Jeffries-Johnson battle on July 4 will be held in an arena within the race track enclosure of the California Jockey club of Emeryville, Alameda county, just across the bay from San Francisco.

The announcement was made immediately after a meeting in the offices of the Jockey club this afternoon attended by Rickard, Thomas H. Williams, president of the Jockey club, and Mayor Christie of Emeryville. Williams and Christie both signified their willingness to have the fight staged in Emeryville and an agreement to that effect was signed.

Jack Gleason, Rickard's partner, was not present at the conference, but Rickard stated that Gleason had given his approval of the Emeryville site and all that remained to be done was to secure formal permits from the town board of trustees. Rickard has been assured that the permits will be forthcoming upon application.

"I have secured the permission of Mr. Williams to hold the fight in the race tracks and finally have decided that this is where the big men will meet," said Rickard last night.

"It is an ideal place and we will be able to seat an almost unlimited number of people. I think that 30,000 people will see the fight. From now on I will devote my attention to conducting the thousand and one details incident to the handling of the big affair."

"I have always been against the idea of using the race track at Emeryville for anything but racing events," said President Williams after the meeting, "but the Jeffries-Johnson fight is a sporting event of national importance and for that reason I have given my consent that the men meet within the Jockey club grounds. All that I ask is that the track be placed in order after the fight is over."

The town of Emeryville is located between Oakland and Berkeley and is easily accessible from San Francisco.

OLD HOME FOLKS GREET NEW CHAMPION.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 9.—Ad Wolgast, conqueror of Battling Nelson and now the lightweight champion of the world, arrived here yesterday from the coast. He left tonight for his farm home in Cadillac. Reports from there say that he was welcomed by a band and about 2,000 of Cadillac's citizens. An affectionate scene of greeting between Wolgast and his parents took place at the station. A big reception was tendered him at the opera house.

SAILOR JACK IN PRELIMINARY

Will Meet Unknown Before the Person-Ordemann Contest.

As a preliminary to the big Ordemann-Person match at the Lyceum tomorrow evening, Sailor Jack of Buffalo will meet an unknown welterweight of this city, an amateur, who has established a reputation as a crack wrestler in amateur circles.

The man who will oppose the boy matched to meet Dick Shepperd is said to be versed in all the fine points of the mat game and capable of making Sailor Jack show the fans his best points. The unknown consented to meet the sailor and let the preliminary go to a fall, which shows his confidence in himself.

Today a telegram was received from the sporting editor of the Minneapolis Daily News, stating that a number of Minneapolis wrestling fans would make the trip to Duluth to watch Ordemann in the match of tomorrow evening. The Person match will be one of the last Ordemann has scheduled for the present season. He will meet Freddy Beell in Minneapolis next week, to settle an old difference of opinion between the men.

After the Beell match, Ordemann will set himself on the trail of Dr. Benjamin Franklin Roller, in an endeavor to get that worthy into a finish match with him, either in Minneapolis, Chicago or Kansas City.

In addition to the appearance of Sailor Jack in one of the preliminaries of the Ordemann-Person match, Billy Beaulieu and Ole Johnson will go on for a finish match. Beaulieu is from Superior, while Johnson has recently come from Marshfield, Wis., the home of Fred Beell. Johnson made his first local appearance in the Zbyszko-Person match and made a decided hit with the large crowd.

Today a telegram was sent to Karl Lehto, the Copper country Finnish champion, who at the present time is attracting attention all over the country, asking him if he will meet the winner of tomorrow night's contest in Duluth. The winner of the match will challenge Lehto from the stage.

Both Ordemann and Person are anxious to meet the Finn, as both men are confident that they can defeat him. Ordemann will also issue a challenge to Dr. Roller, if he is successful in winning the match.

Person put in a hard day of training yesterday, doing both road and gymnasium workouts. He is down to the pink of condition and ready to put up the match of his life.

Yonsiff Throws Burns.

Dallas, Texas, March 9.—Hussane Yussiff, the terrible Turk, threw "Cyclone" Burns, the stockyards champion of Chicago, two straight falls last night in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match. After the match Yussiff agreed to throw Carl Pons, the French wrestler, twice in forty-five minutes.

RECRUITS OF PHILADELPHIA BALL TEAM HEAD FOR THE SUNNY SOUTH

PHILADELPHIA BASEBALL SQUAD.

The recruits of the Philadelphia Nationals are now working with the team in the South and a few weeks will show whether they are going to make good next season. LEADERS ARE NOT OUSTED

Erickson and Jaerges of Oshkosh, Wis., Roll Into Second Place.

St. Louis Wants Bowling Tournament Held in January in Future.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—There was no change in the leaders of the three events in the tenth annual tournament of the American bowling congress as a result of yesterday's attack on the pins. The scores were again uniformly high and the average is being raised as the alleys become worn.

Charles Erickson and Frank Jaerges of Oshkosh, Wis., shot 1,203—the highest score of the day—and went into second place in the two-men event. Jaerges was the better of the pair, contributing 789, 224 and 215.

The second best score of the day was 1,126—nearly 100 pins behind—and it was made by R. E. Summerson and Charles Nolte of Wheeling, W. Va.

A new holder of seventh place was the chief result of the bowling in the individual event. K. H. McCoy of Wheeling, W. Va., took that position by virtue of a 636 score. J. J. Gaul of Oshkosh had the second count with 631 and went into a tie with H. C. Albertson of Des Moines for tenth place.

The first squad of five-men teams produced some of the poorest scores of the tournament, the Otis Superbas of Dayton leading with 2,682. The Ziegelers of St. Paul rolled into fourth place in the late squad with 2,894.

Amendments to Rules.

A number of amendments were approved by the executive committee yesterday and will be submitted to the meeting later. It is believed that the majority of them will be adopted without opposition.

One of the proposed amendments upon which action was postponed a day will make it imperative that the annual tournament open on a Saturday in February, and the St. Louis delegation has announced that it will fight it to the bitter end. St. Louis has a plan by which it hopes to draw many baseball players into the tournament if it is awarded to that city.

One of the leaders of the delegation has announced that they will start the event in January in order that it may be finished before the baseball teams start on their training trips. Many baseball players are bowling stars and this will give them a chance to roll. If the proposed amendment is adopted, St. Louis will withdraw its bid for the tourney leaving a clear field for Buffalo.

The plan of individual membership instead of present club plan, was not mentioned in the approved amendments and therefore will not be adopted for one more year at least.

Prize List Alluring.

A total of $25,432 will be awarded the contestants, according to the official prize list issued yesterday at the end of the first session of the executive committee. The list shows a total of $29,920 paid as entry fees, the largest amount ever secured by the congress. First prize in the five-men teams will be $800, the other nine leaders being $675, $575, $450, $425, $380, $310, $265, $225 and $200.

Twentieth is $85, thirtieth is $52, fortieth $41, while the eightieth is $26, the lowest.

In the doubles the ten leading prizes are $500, $400, $350, $300, $250, $200, $130, $120, $100. Twentieth is $49, fiftieth $40, one hundredth $30, one hundred and fiftieth $20 and one hundred and ninety-seventh, $11.

CENTRAL FIVE LEAVES.

Basket Ball Team Will Take Part in Madison, Wis., Tournament.

Central basket ball team will leave at 5:15 this afternoon over the Northwestern for Madison, Wis., to take part in the basket ball tournament for the interscholastic championship of the Middle West. The money necessary to defray the expenses of the team was raised yesterday afternoon and late yesterday it was known definitely that the team would be able to make the trip.

Play in the tournament will open tomorrow. It is believed that Duluth has a very good chance of finishing high in the tournament. Blaine of Superior will be one of the strong rivals of the local team.

AMERICANS ARE EASY WINNERS

Irishman and Austrian Go Down Before Gotch and Roller.

Kansas City, Mo., March 9.—Champion Frank Gotch and Dr. B. F. Roller defeated in straight falls Pat Connelly, champion of Ireland, and Carl Becker of Austria, respectively, in wrestling matches at Convention hall here last night.

Connelly, who was heralded as a rough grappler, proved tame in the hands of Gotch. The champion toyed with his opponent, several times carrying him around the ring in his arms. The first fall came in 19:08 with a reverse nelson hold. A reverse nelson and an English bar hold decided the second fall in 5:45.

Becker was easily outclassed by Roller. The physician won the initial fall with a combination half nelson and toe hold in 16:20. A double body hold caused the second fall in 7:20. Eight thousand people witnessed the contest.

BEGIN WORK ON THE GROUNDS

Repairs Will Be Made at Athletic Park---League Gossip.

Work will be begun on the Duluth baseball grounds Monday, according to the announcement made by A. W. Knehnow. The improvements to the baseball plant will include alterations of the grandstand and the installing of a place for the press men. The left bleachers will be lower and the seating cahacity added to. The right bleachers will be added to, the seating capacity of the park being increased by nearly 1,000.

It is stated today that the Adams Athletic Association baseball team will be very strong the coming season, and that arrangements have been made for a series of amateur games at the ball park when the Sox are on the road.

Reports from Winona stated that Killian has signed Ray Bauder of Nashua, Iowa, an outfielder upon a team that represented that town last season. Killian, according to Winona reports, has a number of fast youngsters in sight, which, if he succeeds in signing, will about complete his team for the year.

It is rumored that at the Sunday meeting of the magnates, a petition, asking that the league be advanced to class C, will be considered. It is believed that if the petition is adopted, strenuous efforts will be made to get the league into a higher class next season.

Mattson Challenges Person.

Carl Mattson, a former crack heavyweight wrestler of Minneapolis, but who at the present time is in New York, writes to the sporting editor of The Herald asking for a match with Chris Person. Mattson wants to meet Person in a finish match, best two-in-three falls. Mattson is fairly well known in this city, having met all comers here during the days of the old Metropolitan. He is well known in Twin City wrestling circles.

Schmirler Strong at Start.

In his first game with the second team of Comiskey's White Sox, John Schmirler, former twirler for the Duluth White Sox, made a two-base hit, scored a run and also struck out three Los Angeles batters during the short period he was in the box. If there is anything in a good start, Wausau Schmirler may finish in the king row.

PLAY ST. PAUL FRIDAY NIGHT

Basket Ball Game Scheduled Between Crack Association Teams.

A letter was received by the athletic department of the Y. M. C. A. this morning, stating that the St. Paul association quint would play here Friday evening. The St. Paul team has been defeated but once this present season, and is said to be a very strong aggregation.

The teams will line up as follows:

Duluth.	Position.	St. Paul.
Fenton	f	Wolff
O'Donnell	f	Danz
Forgette	c	Meyers
McLain	g	Davidson (Capt.)
Slack	g	Meachan

Peters, substitute for Duluth; McKenzie, for St. Paul.

The Giants, a basket ball team composed of men standing over six feet in height, many of them over 6 feet 2 inches, will play the second association team upon the same evening.

The contest between the Duluth and St. Paul association teams should be the best local game of the year.

SOPHOMORES WIN CONTEST

Freshmen Defeated in Final Game for Interclass Basket Ball Honors.

Yesterday afternoon the Central high school sophomores won the basket ball championship of the high school interclass league, by defeating the freshmen, deadly rivals of the second-year men, in a fast and aggressive game, the score being 18 to 8.

The inability of the freshmen to throw accurately spoiled their chances of victory. The members of the first-year team were willing workers and took many shots at the net, but the majority of the throws were wide of the basket.

On the other hand the sophomore shooters were fair marksmen and hit the basket with accurate aim when the chance for a fair shot pressented itself.

The game was fast and rough at times. There was an intense rivalry between the two teams and every man was upon his toes every minute of play. The sophomores had fourteen fouls called and the freshmen nine. Harris of the freshmen scored all the points for his side, converting fourteen fouls into eight points scored by his side.

Capt. Matt Brown of the freshmen played a hard game, and Kerne and Lawrence put up a stubborn defense. Osman and Jeronimus played a strong game for the sophomores.

The lineup:

Freshmen	Position	Sophomores
Harris	f	Osman
Brown, (Capt.)	f	Cook
Huttle	c	Mars
Kerns	g	(Capt.) Jeronimus
Lawrence	g	St. Clair

Officials, Batchelor and Wallace; goals from field: Mars, 5; Osman, 2; Cook, 1; goals from fouls, K. Harris, 8; time of halves, 15 minutes; score end first half, freshmen 4, sophomores 10; final score, freshmen 8, sophomores 18.

WILL BACK SAILOR.

Duluth Men Will Place $200 for a Match With "Mose Brown."

Backers of Sailor Jack, the former Buffalo wrestler, who is making his home in this city, yesterday stated that $200 had been raised that will be wagered on the chances of the sailor against the mysterious "Mose Brown" of Virginia.

A letter received by the sailor's backers states that the mysterious wrestler of Virginia is an Eastern crack who has come to the range in search of some easy game. Aside from the information contained in the letter, little is known locally of the man sailing under the colors of "Mose Brown."

It is said that a lumberman of Virginia has $1,000 posted in Virginia to bet on the man with the drab-colored name.

Balk Line Match.

Canfield and Daily will begin their 1,200 18-2 balk line match this afternoon at the Majestic parlors. Frank Kendig, who claims the pool championship of the Northwest, will be matched against Ed Beers, who was recently defeated by Mike David for the city championship title.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE)

M. W. Savage is doing much to bring Minnesota prominently before the light harness world. The reputed price that Mr. Savage paid for the great and only Dan Patch—$60,000—started the lovers of horseflesh, especially the lovers of the harness horse, an animal that has never commanded the high prices of the thoroughbred.

Mr. Savage has made other purchases since the installation of Dan Patch at the Savage training farm, near Minneapolis. But the recent purchase of the great George Gano, one of the stars of the turf, has further advanced Mr. Savage's reputation as a plunging plutocrat, when it comes to buying the best that the market affords in sulky nags.

There were many who believed Mr. Savage was taking a long chance when he purchased the son of Joe Patchem, but the long reign of prosperity that the black stallion has enjoyed under the Savage handling—joke—has shown many experienced horsemen the error of their opinion.

To be sure, $60,000 is a very steep price to pay for any horse. Some even believed that Dan was going back at the time Mr. Savage purchased him. That was the chance the "Three-Feeds-for-a-Cent" man was taking. He took the gamble and won. He has made money on Dan, much more than he paid for the horse, and then, too, Mr. Savage has had the satisfaction of having the horse break every world's pacing record that there was to fracture.

The Minneapolis manufacturer of stock food has shown that he is still enthused in the game by the purchase of George Gano. The latest additions to the Savage stables should be right in his prime at the present time. The coming season should be one of the best, if not the best, the horse has ever enjoyed.

Every victory that the horse wins and every record that he may break, will add not only to the prestige of the owner, but also to the prestige of Minnesota.

The Minnesota state fair has become generally looked upon as one of the greatest race meets held anywhere in the country. The purses offered by the managers of the State Agricultural society have done much to promote the breeding of fine horses here in Minnesota. Also the purchasing and breeding of fine horses by Mr. Savage has likewise done much for the animal industry in the North Star state.

For some reason the associated press wires carried but stingy news of the Denver contest between Dr. B. F. Roller and big Raoul de Rouen, the man with a nasty disposition. Roller won the first fall and the referee disqualified Rouen in the progress of the second spasm, simply because the big Frenchman refused to open his teeth and let forth for needed recuperation, one of the ears of the genial doctor.

The de Rouen chap is about the extreme limit, as they might say in sewing circle parlance. He bites and gouges and does other little things. If he would pay more attention to the fine points of the game and less to the "murder Martha" stuff, he might be classed with the really first division grapplers.

When the big Frenchman wrestled Henry Ordemann at Minneapolis the promoters were obliged to inform him that, should he persist in imitating a masculine Carrie Nation on rampage, they would not only stop the match, but they would also deduct the Frenchman's end of the receipts for Henry's hospital treatment.

This really alarmed the de Rouen boy. He really cares for the money. He was quite decent after that and Ordemann was not molested by cat-grips from neatly tossing the Frenchman.

The contest of last night shows that Roller and Ordemann are very evenly matched and that in the very near future these men must meet for the settling, once for all, of the question of supremacy between them.

In the East they are seriously selecting Harlem Tommy Murphy as the future lightweight champion of the world. They base much of this conclusion stuff upon the fact that at Pittsburgh, some time ago, Murphy placed it all over the Wolgast boy in a merry ten-round go.

Since that memorable meeting at Pittsburg, the two boys have performed on the coast. The Pacific coast boys, generally very wise as to fistic matters, believe that the German from Cadillac would do cruel and murderous stunts to the little flat-owner from Harlem.

It must be conceded that Wolgast has improved wonderfully in the past year. Right today he looks the best of the 133 division. No one, save a few property owners up Harlem way and some of those provincial New Yorkers, believes Tommy could lick Battling Nelson. Well, Wolgast comes along and turns the trick, and now they are thinking out loud, in the effete East, where the bunco men and the green pea artists work, that Tommy is the paprika boy to hang crepe on the Wolgast family home, out Cadillac way.

Where do they get the dope?

They garner hope from the fact that Tommy slightly outpointed Ad in the Pittsburg fracas. It is hard to figure dope and form. It is not so much what you have been, Thomas, as what you are slugging at in the material presence of today.

Murphy will hardly be any better than he has been in the past. He has taken several trouncings in his time. Owen Moran has hung the sack cloth and ashes on the frame of the Harlemite, and there have been others who have had him sore and stiff in spots. It is difficult to see, if you live west of Detroit, Mich., where this Tommy boy has any license to think he can ride on the same band wagon with Wolgast.

"Bill" Rigg was with us and will be with us again. He was in the city yesterday and is coming up here expressly to see Henry Ordemann perform "on the frame of that Person person," as William puts it. In Minneapolis they have a way of backing their favorites clear across the board and also traveling out of town to see them perform.

J. H. Ritchie, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Journal, may also come up for the match, and you can count upon Messrs Rigg and Ritchie yelling murder, should Person smear a smudge on the Ordemann escutcheon.

Now it has come to a pretty pass. Ever since the Jeffries-Johnson fight was mentioned, James J. Corbett has figured in the publicity of the thing. It was one fine thing for the Jim Corbett person. He was going to train Jeff—not a regular trainer, heavens forbid; but a gentlemanly adviser.

Well now, Susan, they have announced with cutting coldness, that James J. Corbett will not be in the big shout in the Jeffries corner when the fight is called, but that one Robert J. Fitzsimmons, will be imported from far away Australia and will have the role of honor in the Jeffries corner when the battle is called.

This will be gall and wormwood to the Corbett cut-ups. If there are two men upon the peaceful sphere, that have a chill when the other's name is mentioned, it is James and Robert. To think, that after all these literary harvest moons, when Jim has been averting writer's cramp only by automobile rides and illustration of how he was going to train Jeff, that he should be rudely thrust out of the circle of light.

It is a cruel blow and one hard to bear at Jim's age.

Some of the dear little teams in the Minny league nursery best get busy and sigh some players. We have been rather modest and quiet up here in the northern end of the circuit, but all the time our vineyard workers have been producing results.

Now come along these boys in flossy towns and toil with blast of trumpet what they will do to Darberious O'Brien. One Corrigan of Rochester has broken forth in a spasm. He is going to chase the Irish Orator to the cornfields upon the first trip to our little city. We shall remember that statement of the Corrigan calliope and cheer lustily for the humilated home guard when the young murder is trotted forth into daylight.

HARLEM TOMMY MURPHY.

ROLLER AND ZBYSZKO IN FINISH MATCH.

Kansas City, Mo., March 9.—Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle and Zbyszko the Pole, have at last signed articles for a wrestling bout to a finish. Jack Herman signed the men to meet here on March 22. The purse is $7,000.

Roller and Zbyszko recently met here, the Pole agreeing to throw his opponent twice in sixty minutes. He failed, Roller proving the aggressor much of the time.

Menominee Baseball Team.

Menominee, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Menominee will have a baseball team in the field this year, under the management of C. J. Hubell, a well known lumberman, who will be assisted by Ray Mullins.

Zbyszko Beats Fenby.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—After one hour, six minutes and fifty-two seconds (unofficial) of strenuous work, Zbyszko won the first fall in his wrestling match with Ernest Fenby of Michigan here last night. The Pole won the next fall in ten minutes flat. The match was for the best two in three falls.

U. S. EXPRESS STOCK TAKES AN ADVANCE.

New York, March 9.—United States Express company stock advanced yesterday from 120 to 125 on transactions of 5,000 shares. The advance was attributed by some to the death of former Senator T. C. Platt, president of the company, which it is said, may open the way to a settlement of the dispute between the controlling and minority interests.

HOW HE CURED HIS RHEUMATISM

'Six years ago I had a severe attack of Rheumatism. I was confined to my bed for six months, and the doctors seemed unable to help me. I tried many liniments, plasters, home remedies, etc., but none of them gave me any permanent relief; the symptoms always returned when such treatment was left off. My knees and elbows were terrribly swollen, so bad in fact, that for a while I could not move hand or foot. I certainly had one of the severest cases of Rheumatism I ever heard of. I was getting discouraged when I heard of S. S. S., but as it was recommended to me as a fine treatment for Rheumatism I began its use. This medicine soon helped me, and I continued taking it until I was cured sound and well. S. S. S. relieved the swelling, purified my blood, stopped all pain, and cured me entirely. This was six years ago and I have not had Rheumatism since."

1355 Mt. Vernon Ave., Columbus, O. R. H. CHAPMAN.

The severity of Mr. Chapman's case of Rheumatism proves the value of S. S. S. as a cure for this disease. It is just another demonstration of the fact that only a blood purifier can conquer the trouble.

Rheumatism is an acrid blood fermentation; a souring of the circulation from an excess of uric acid in the blood stream. This uratic impurity is transmitted to the blood through the process of absorption, and comes as a result of constipation, indigestion, weak kidneys, etc.

When the blood becomes infected with this uratic impurity the complications of Rheumatism are set up. The circulation is no longer able to furnish the different muscles, nerves, joints and bones with nourishment and strength, but instead deposits into these members the gritty, pain-producing acid with which it is contaminated.

Rheumatism is usually manifested in the joints and muscles. It is here its sharpest twinges of pain are felt, and stiffening of ligaments and tendons first commence. The pain of Rheumatism is caused by the contact of the censory nerves with the gritty, acrid formation which uric acid causes to accumulate in the corpuscles of the blood. The severer symptoms of the disease come on gradually. Constantly the circulation deposits the uric acid particles into the muscles and joints, and slowly the natural fluids are dried up or hardened. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic and serious, and if allowed to run on, may permanently cripple, or break down the health of the sufferer. Like all blood diseases, Rheumatism can be transmitted from generation to generation. This explains why young persons, and others, are afflicted with it, who have always been healthy otherwise.

There is but one way to cure Rheumatism, and that is to purify the blood—cleanse the circulation of the uric acid impurity. S.S.S. goes into the blood and attacks the disease at its head, and by removing every particle of the uratic matter, and building up the blood to a healthful condition, this medicine destroys the cause and cures Rheumatism. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood of the acrid impurity, enriched and warmed the circulation, then the nerves are quieted, the muscles become elastic, the blood tissues are thickened and freshened, all pain disappears, and the feverish, inflamed flesh is soothed and made comfortable. Nothing equals S. S. S. as a cure for Rheumatism, because nothing equals it as a blood purifier. Insist on getting S. S. S. We have a special home treatment book on Rheumatism which we will send free to all who write.

MARKET HAS SHARP RALLY

Wheat Has Good Advance in All the American Markets.

Due to Strength in Cash Grain and Speculative Buying.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 9.—The wheat market was from 1c to 1½c higher today over yesterday's close. The upturn was due to heavy buying in the distant months by the professionals led by Bartlett-Patten and the strength in cash markets, especially in the Southwest.

May opened at $1.13 asked, lost ¼c and regained it, lost ⅛c and jumped to $1.13⅞ in sympathy with July which the professionals bought heavily, lost ⅛c and then advanced to $1.14, lost ⅛c when the market ran into a lot of stop loss and selling orders and toward the close advanced sharply to $1.14⅜-½ and closed with offerings at this price. The July option opened at $1.13 asked and sold at $1.12⅜-⅞ and advanced to $1.13⅝-¾, declined to $1.13⅜, and then sold at $1.13⅞, lost ⅛c and jumped to $1.14⅛ and closed with bids at this price.

Flax was moderately active. May opened at $2.17½, went to $2.19 and lost ¼c and closed with bids at $2.19. The July option opened late with offerings at $2.18⅝, declined to $2.17⅝ and sold at $2.18 and closed at $2.18. The September option opened with offers at $1.75, sold at $1.74⅜ and closed with offers at this price. The October option closed at $1.67 nominal.

Cash wheat was ½@⅝c over May. Oats closed ¾c up, rye was 1c off, barley advanced 2c and durum was 1½c up.

A sudden strengthening in cash markets in the Southwest, a firmer tone in the spot situation in the Northwest and heavy speculative buying in the distant months by Bartlett-Patten, who were trailed by the professional element, caused today's advance.

Bartlett-Patten received a flood of bullish crop reports from Kansas and Nebraska in addition to rumors of wheat damage which came to other traders throughout the country. From Harvey and Sumner counties, Kansas, the reports were received that great damage has been done. From the North Platte district of Nebraska messages say that several days of sunshine had hurt the crop and various other sections of the state were advanced to show that the growing plant has been tremendously injured.

There is a larger short interest than has existed for some time and the traders say that when the market turns upward, although the milling demand is only moderate, about the poorest of the season. So, when Bartlett-Patten began to sell July and September today a big short interest was forced to run to cover. The professional element helped Bartlett-Patten to buy and early in the session prices took a quick jump upward. May being strong at 2c in sympathy with the distant months. It was said that the purchases of September by Bartlett-Patten were about 2,000,000 bu. Around high levels there was considerable profit taking for sale.

Speculative activity was general Duluth bought, Minneapolis and Chicago distant options Minneapolis and Chicago September being the favorites. The market moved slowly until the buying movement was started and it was somewhat erratic even while the longs were taking on heavy commitments. The market ran within 1c of top figures but these caused only a temporary recession.

The cash situation was especially strong even after a dull period. Its firmness probably was temporary. The visible supply in the Northwest was well cleaned up. Millers bought moderately and elevators took spot wheat as fast as it arrived. The Southwest showed a strong cash market. Prices at Kansas City advanced 2c. Premiums here and Minneapolis were about unchanged. The milling demand is quiet everywhere.

The foreign market is weak and the situation is unsatisfactory. Liverpool closed unchanged to ½c lower. There is no prospect of anything even approximating scarcity abroad. In the last few years there have been a period late in the crop year when stocks have been comparatively light on the continent, and Germany especially has been compelled to go freely from the United States. This year, however, there is little prospect of this condition becoming existent unless there is a big decrease in prices on this side.

MARKET GOSSIP

A. D. Thomson, who is bearish on wheat, says that this market will not need as much wheat for Eastern shipment when navigation opens, as usual. There have been no inquiries from Eastern millers which is remarkable. The cash demand, he says, is slow. No wheat has been sold in the Northwest to go out in the spring and the situation is about as bearish as he has ever known at this season.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market was barely steady at the start and ⅛@¼d higher. The strength in American cables yesterday was offset by liberal offerings here and general realizing. Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning the market was under pressure of continued heavy offerings and prices declined ¾d to ⅞d from the opening. Cargoes in nearby positions are freely offered and there is an absence of continental demand. Shipments from Argentina are expected to be light this week as well as Russia and Australia, and these further helped the selling pressure. At mid-day the market was weak and ¾d to ⅞d lower than yesterday. Corn was quoted nominally ⅝d for March. There was very small demand for spot and the market extremely dull. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast nil and awaiting orders nil. Wheat cargoes in distant positions weak with near at hand cargoes offered freer. Corn quite unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Crop Damage Reports Have Bullish Effect on Wheat.

Chicago, March 9.—Crop damage reports had a bullish influence on the early trading in wheat today, hoisting May prices from a weak start to ⅞c stronger than final figures yesterday. The more distant futures opened much stronger than May, and also profited by the bullish activity. July opened ⅛c off to ¾c up at $1.05@1.05½ and advanced to $1.06. Depressed foreign cables were ignored in the face of the crop damage reports, which were viewed as the controlling factor. May touched $1.12⅝ after opening ⅜@1c down, at $1.11½@1.12⅝.

Later in the session more crop damage reports backed up renewed buying caused prices to stiffen. July and September advancing sharply. May also gained, going up to $1.12½. The close was strong with shorts rushing to cover. July closed 2⅛ up at $1.07½, September finishing 2¾ up at $1.04⅝, and May at the close war ⅞ up at $1.13⅜.

Limited offerings together with a good demand, gave a strong tone to corn. Prices advanced ⅝@1c in the first hour. May moving up from 62½c to 63⅜@62½c. Opening figures for the May option were ¾c off to ½c up at 62½@63¼c.

Covering by shorts was the feature later and options advanced 1⅛@1⅜. May climbing to 63⅞c. The close was strong near the high point with May ⅞@1 up at 65⅝@63⅜c.

Oats started easier than the other grains but under the influence of important buying showed a tendency to advance in the first hour. The distant months started weakest. May opened ⅛@¼c off at 44⅜44½c and sold up to 44½c.

Provisions, responsive to sharply increased prices for live hogs, advanced promptly, lard and ribs leading with gains of from 10@17½c. In the first hour pork prices stiffened and the May product went up to $25.10. The strength of the grain markets added firmness. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $25.00@24.92½; lard, $13.60@13.62½; ribs, $13.12½@13.10.

GARFIELD SAYS THE THIRTY MILLION BOND ISSUE IS NOT NEEDED

Former Secretary of the Interior Criticises Administration.

Statement Develops in His Testimony at Land Office Inquiry.

Correspondence With Ballinger Is Read as Part of Evidence.

Washington, March 10.—The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation was resumed today with James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, on the witness stand.

The most startling statement in the former secretary's testimony today was a flat declaration to the effect that the $30,000,000 bond issue sought by the administration for the furtherance of reclamation work is not only unnecessary but a mistake. He maintained that too much of this work is of a purely experimental nature to warrant any great expenditure in advance of the receipts from the sale of land.

"Mr. Pinchot seems to have thought there were no more funds available," he said, "when as a matter of fact there was $2,000,000 available all the time."

The examination of Mr. Garfield was taken up at the point where it was left off when the committee adjourned last Saturday. Mr. Garfield had just begun a detailed explanation of the four coal land bills that were introduced in congress during his term as secretary. He continued his explanation at the opening of the session today.

Some difficulty was experienced this morning in getting a quorum of the committee together. It was not until Senator Root arrived that seven members were present.

JOB IS OFFERED TO YOUNG KNOX

Newspaper Offers to Take Him on Its Staff as a Reporter.

Plattsburg, N. Y., March 10.—An opportunity for Phil C. Knox, Jr., son of the secretary of state, to begin carving out a fortune and future was tendered today. A Plattsburg evening newspaper wired the bridegroom an offer of a position as a reporter.

Young Mr. Knox, who eloped with Miss May Boler of Providence, R. I., and married her in Vermont, was quoted yesterday as saying that his father had warned him that he would have to shift for himself.

Has $100 a Month.

Providence, R. I., March 10.—"Yes, dad told me yesterday that he would give no more money but would let me shift for myself," the youthful husband said last night. "However, I have enough income of my own to keep us until I get a job. My grandfather on my mother's side left me enough to give me an income of about $100 a month, and this I am to receive from my mother, who is trustee of the money, until I am of age."

Mother-in-law Steps In.

The attitude assumed by the Knox family in refusing to receive the bride was the subject of severe strictures by Mrs. Daniel Gilman, the young woman's mother.

"If necessary, I shall go to Washington with Principal French and my daughter and her husband to see the secretary about this matter."

NURSE CALLED BY NOTARIAL COURT

Mrs. L. O. Swope Is Denied Admittance to Home of Dr. Hyde.

Kansas City, Mo., March 10.—Miss Pearl Kellar, the nurse who attended Col. Thomas H. Swope in his last illness, testified today before the notarial court which is hearing depositions in the civil suit that Dr. B. C. Hyde brought against John G. Baxton. Miss Lucy Lee Swope and Miss Margaret Swope, nieces of Col. Swope, gave their depositions today.

Commenting upon the refusal of Mrs. B. C. Hyde yesterday to admit her mother, Mrs. Logan O. Swope, to the daughter's home, John M. Clary, one of Dr. Hyde's attorneys said today that there was no possible chance of a reconciliation between Mrs. Swope and Mrs. Hyde until all the proceedings against Dr. Hyde had been dropped.

MEANS MUSIC FOR BOSTON.

Henry Russell to Be Allied With Gatti-Casazza.

Boston, Mass., March 10.—Although not officially announced, it was reported in theatrical circles today that Henry Russell, now managing director of the Boston opera house, will next season be co-director with Guilio Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan opera house in New York. This will mean, it is aid that nearly all the Metropolitan singers will be heard in Boston. Mr. Russell declined to confirm the report, but said that he thought an official announcement would be made in New York within a few weeks.

DIGS UP OLD POLAR MUSS

Representative Macon Flings Anti-Cook Arguments at Peary.

Doesn't Believe He Found the Pole---Committee Holds Back Honors.

Washington, March 10.—It was resurrection day in the house committee on naval affairs, and Representatives R. B. Macon of Arkansas officiated as chief grave robber by digging out of their resting places a series of arguments used last fall in the Cook-Peary controversy and which it was supposed had been interred for good and all.

Not only that, but those he dug up were some that had been used by Peary and his friends against Dr. F. A Cook's claims, and yesterday the congressman brushed them off, turned them around and hurled them point-blank at the head of the naval explorer with such effect that the committee, which was considering the plan of giving the commander a medal and a vote of appreciation, decided to withhold forms of recognition until Peary shall

NO NEW ARRESTS IN BIG SCANDAL

Fantastic Details of Frenchman's Methods of Theft Are Printed.

Paris, March 10.—No further arrests had been made today in connection with the scandal developed in the discovery of a shortage of something like $2,000,000 in the accounts of M. Duez, one of the liquidators of the church properties taken over by the state. The severe criticism of the judical authorities for the lax control exercised over the liquidators continues, however, and the prosecuting attorney's office especially is being attacked sharply.

The most fantastic details of the methods employed by Duez are published. According to these he obtained a commission of $39,000 on the sale of the Stanislaus college property, and gave a long lease of another property for $2,000. The lease was immediately sub-let for $8,000.

How Values Went Down.

The Journal gives some interesting figures regarding the deterioration of the property of non-authorized congregations and teaching orders which Former Premier Waldeck-Rousseau originally estimated would realize $200,000,000 for the state. After inventories had been made, the estimated figures were reduced to $100,000,000 and subsequently to $50,000,000 when the church issued a decree of excommunication against the purchasers. As a matter of fact, the gross receipts thus far from this property amount to only $19,000,000, of which sum $13,200,000 has been expended in the adjudication of claims against the property and in other costs, incuding attorneys' fees, expenditures and commissions to the liquidators.

FIVE KILLED UNDER WALL

Seven More Men Badly Injured in Collapse at Pittsburg.

Score Are Buried By Debris When Ruins From Fire Suddenly Fall.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 10.—Five men were killed and seven more were probably fatally injured by the collapse today of a brick wall left standing in the ruins of the fire which Tuesday morning partly destroyed the manufacturing plant of M. Lanz & Sons.

Twenty workmen, mostly foreigners, who were at work razing the ruins, were buried under the wall. Without warning, the wall, which was over 100 feet long and fully fifty feet high, buckled and crashed to the ground. Five workmen, caught on a temporary scaffolding on the third floor, jumped to safety with slight injuries. Two others badly bruised were rescued by the police from a perilous position astride another swaying wall.

An hour after the accident two workmen were found alive but crushed in a crevice between timbers and brick piles. None of the workmen escaped injury.

STOLEN JEWELS IN SAFE DEPOSIT

That Is the Latest Theory of Police in Jenkins Robbery Case.

Chicago, March 10.—Diamonds and jewelry valued at $40,000 and said to be part of the loot taken from the apartments of Mrs. J. W. Jenkins, while she was stopping at a New York hotel last December, are thought by the police to be secreted in a safety deposit vault in the downtown district here. It was learned today that Charles Rosenthal and Jay Harris, who were formally charged yesterday with the theft of the gems, rented a deposit box recently. This discovery has led the police to put a close watch on the alleged place of hidden treasures.

Three Held on Bonds.

Mrs. Jenkins is expected in Chicago today to attempt to identify $4,000 worth of diamonds found in the possession of Rosenthal, Harris and Paul M. Korschak. The last named of the trio was also arrested in connection with the case. Upon Mrs. Jenkins' arrival, it is said, a warrant will be procured and the vault searched.

The three men were arraigned in court today. Bonds were fixed at $5,000 each.

PREMIER WANTS MODERN SPAIN

Canalejas Makes Important Speech Condemning the Clericals.

Madrid, March 10.—Premier Canalejas, in an important speech in the cortes today outlining the government's program, appealed for the united support of all the radical and democratic forces in the approaching struggle "to Europeanize and modernize Spain." Without such support, he declared, the fight against the growing power of clericalism and reaction was foredoomed to failure.

IN CONTROVERSY OVER EXISTENCE OF CHRIST

PROF. ARTHUR DREWS.

New York, March 10.—Prof. Arthur Drews is in a lively religious controversy in Berlin. He announced a lecture on the question, "Did Jesus Christ Ever Live?" and found himself promptly embroiled in a controversy. His chief opponent is Baron von Soden, professor of theology at the University of Berlin.

Fifty years ago David Strauss propounded the theory that while there was such a person as Christ, much fable had been woven in with his history. Drews goes a step farther and holds that Christ is a wholly mythical character. American authorities say the matter is unimportant. Though there are few historical references to the existence of Christ, no doubt of his actual existence ever was expressed until the nineteenth century, and as the gospels can be traced back to about 75 A. D., it would seem altogether likely that any doubt of His existence would have found expression then.

ROOSEVELTS TO BE REUNITED MONDAY

Ex-President Will Meet His Wife and Daughter at Khartum.

Khartum, Egypt, March 10. — Col. Roosevelt left Taufikia yesterday and is expected here next Monday. He will be met that evening by Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt.

The Roosevelts will remain at Khartum until the following Thursday, being entertained at the sirdar's palace. During the stay here many points of interest in the neighborhood will be visited.

Welcomed at Mission.

Kodok, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, March 10.—Col. Roosevelt and his party left Taufikia last night and arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning. At the American mission at Doleib Hill on the Sobat river the travelers were received with much enthusiasm.

During the stop at Taufikia all of the officers of the garrison were invited to meet Col. Roosevelt at tea.

ORDER RESTORED AT COLOMBIAN CAPITAL.

Bogota, Colombia, March 10.—The anti-American rioting practically ceased last night. All of the Americans here are safe. The ending of the disorder was due chiefly to the firmness and tact of Elliott Northcott, United States minister to Colombia.

HOGS NEAR WAR PRICES

Sell for Ten Dollars and Ninety Cents a Hundred in Chicago.

Cleveland Dealers Say Eleven Dollar Mark May Be Reached.

Chicago, March 10.—The price of live hogs at the stockyards here is rapidly approaching the Civil war level, a fresh advance today carrying the figures up to $10.90 a hundredweight. In 1865 the price soared to $13.25, which is the highest point ever touched in the history of the market.

Predict $11.00 Hogs.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 10.—The price of live hogs made a new record here today when, with a jump of 25 cents from yesterday's price, sales were made at $10.75 a hundred pounds. Dealers say that the scarcity of hogs on the hoof may cause an $11 market.

Hogs $10.55 in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., March 10.—Live hogs sold here today at $10.55 a hundred, jumping 30 cents above yesterday's close.

AMERICAN GIRLS SHOT BY FANATICS

Tourist Parties Are Fired on While Visiting Mosque of Omar.

Washington, March 10.—American tourist parties visiting the Mosque of Omar, near Jerusalem, have been fired on by Afghan fanatics. Miss Mathile Maurice of Tamaroneck, N. Y., received a slight flesh wound, and Miss Parker Moore of Terre Haute, Ind., was seriously wounded, but will recover.

This information came to the state department last night in an undated telegram from United States Consul Wallace at Jerusalem. The officials express no doubt that the Turkish authorities will take prompt steps to punish the assailants.

Railroad Shops Burn.

Fairview, Okla., March 10.—The Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad car repair shops here, valued at $100,000, were burned early today. They will be rebuilt.

CANDIDATE FOR ALLDS' OFFICE IN THE SENATE

GEORGE H. COBB.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—George H. Cobb is the senator from Jefferson county, N. Y. He is the candidate for the position of J. P. Allds, as president pro tem. of the senate. George A. Davis of Erie county was made leader after Allds was put on trial, and he has been a candidate for the position, which Allds resigned. The objection to Davis is the fact that he comes from Erie county, and some of the Republican leaders object to giving any more power to that district.

ALLDS NEAR END OF QUIZ

Alleged Bribe Taker Has Not Weakened Under Fire of Accuser.

Unqualified Denials of Conger's Charges Thus Far Unshaken.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—The cross-examination of Senator Allds on the Conger bribery charges was expected to close today.

The accused senator was under fire for four hours Tuesday, and then the senate adjourned over Wednesday on account of ex-Senator Platt's funeral.

Since Allds' answers to questions directly bearing upon the alleged payment of the $1,000 bribe and negotiations leading up to this transaction have been unqualified denials, it was assumed that Conger's attorneys would not waste much time making the witness repeat the declarations.

When the investigation adjourned Tuesday Attorney Osborne was probing Allds' recollection of the manner in which the senator acquired 100 shares of the New York Transportation company stock, a concern which is alleged to have benefited by a bill enacted in 1900. From the assembly record, Osborne showed that Allds approved the bill as majority leader and voted for the passage of the measure. Allds insisted that one of his friends bought the stock for him, but the witness could not remember the man's name. The senator promised to find out by tonight.

Thus far, even his enemies acknowledged that the cross-examination has failed to disconcert Allds.

STRIKE FOLLOWS SHOOTING AFFAIR

Miners Refuse to Work With Non-Union Men at Greensburg, Pa.

Greensburg, Pa., March 10.—Five hundred miners in the employ of the Union mines of the Keystone Coal company refused to work with non-union miners today and walked out. Before the strike was called an argument between a crowd of union and non-union men occurred, during which John Strasser, aged 22 years, a non union miner, was shot. The state constabulary is searching for Strasser's alleged assailants.

ONE LIFE LOST WHEN POOR HOUSE BURNS.

New York, March 10. — The poorhouse at Hempstead, L. I., was destroyed by fire early today. One aged man was burned to death, though a young woman risked her life to save him. Five other inmates were seriously burned.

There was a panic when the flames were discovered. Nearly forty persons leaped from the windows of the blazing structure.

Flames destroyed a big factory building on West Forty-fifth street today and caused $100,000 loss.

Big Break in Ranks of the Union Taxicab Drivers Is Reported.

New Castle, Pa., March 10.—A committee of nine appointed yesterday to devise means of carrying into effect the resolution calling for a general state and possibly country-wide labor strike, in the event that arbitration fails in the labor situation at Philadelphia, reported to the convention of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor in session here today. President Greenawalt of the state organization was empowered by the committee with the right to call upon President Taft, United States Senators Penrose and Oliver and Governor Stuart to use their best efforts to compel an arbitration of the Philadelphia carmen's strike question within ten days.

Have Called for Vote.

The committee further stated that they had issued a request to all state local union organizations to call special sessions to vote on the question of a state-wide strike within fifteen days and report the results by wire to President Greenawalt.

SOO SURVEY TO GRAND FORKS

Rumor That Engineering Crew Is Busy Near Thief River Falls.

It is stated here today that the Soo has sent a crew of engineers to Viking, the first station west of Thief River Falls, Minn., and that these men will survey southwest in the direction of Grand Forks.

This rumor is persistent in railroad circles today. It is stated that the Soo has contemplated for some time the building of a line from Thief River Falls to Grand Forks, as this move would enable the Soo to get some of the business that originates at that point.

If the rumor of the intentions of the crew of engineers sent out by the Soo is correct, it will mean that there will be a direct connection between Grand Forks and Duluth.

Physicians Are Naturally Prejudiced against proprietary or advertised medicines, as the sale of these remedies decrease their incomes.

However, this may be, the general public is benefited by the use of such standard medicines as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, with its wonderful record of thousands of cures among suffering women. We are very glad to say, however, that there are hundreds of honest physicians in the United States who do not hesitate to recommend such medicines.

NIGHT SCHOOLS ARE NECESSARY

Thomas G. Lee Says Work of Grade Schools Should Be Supplemented.

A debate on the school situation was held last evening at a meeting of Old Hickory Camp, No. 1555, Modern Woodmen of America. Thomas G. Lee read a paper on "Educational Systems," in which he claimed that the grammar schools of West Duluth were useless and a waste of time and money unless the education was followed up with a night school for those who were compelled to get out and work for a living.

Mr. Lee contended that a night school at West Duluth would be a much better place for young men to spend their evenings than at confectionery stores, pool rooms, saloons and other "homes of evil." He advocated free lectures for the older people to keep them abreast with the times. West Duluth, he claimed, had no night school, no Y. M. C. A. nor any free lectures.

The discussion was taken up by the members present. L. A. Barnes of the board of education was present and defended the schools, but stated that the night schools were a good thing and that he hoped that they would soon come along with the Y. M. C. A. and free lectures. Other talks on the subject were given by J. E. Foubister, George M. Murray and William Conkin.

SALOON KEEPER IS ARRESTED

Claimed That He Kept Place of Business Open After Hours.

Claus Person, who conducts a saloon at 414 Central avenue, West Duluth, was arrested at 2:30 o'clock this morning in his place of busines, on a charge of keeping open for business after the closing hour. He deposited $50 bail with Sergeant Bradley of the West Duluth police force, to insure his appearance in police court today.

Besides Person, there were four other men in the saloon at the time, according to Sergeant Bradley and Officer Hannot, who made the arrest. The men were, the bartender, Anderson, the "swamper," who was found asleep in a rear room, John Carlson, a storekeeper on Grand avenue, and Fred Johnson, who gave his address on North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

The police in passing the saloon in the early morning noticed that the wicket in the front window was not open. Sending Hannot around to the back door, Bradley made his presence known at the front entrance and was admitted. Hannot stopped two men, who tried to get out the rear way.

It is claimed that the men, with the exception of Anderson, were playing cards in a rear room. The case will probably come up in municipal court today.

KNOCKED DOWN BY PASTOR

Contractor Receives Pair of Black Eyes at Curling Rink.

A West Duluth contractor, who has been prominently identified with church activities at West Duluth, and who is also an enthusiastic devotee of the curling sport, yesterday wore a pair of black eyes as a result of an altercation with a minister of the gospel, Tuesday night at the West Duluth curling rink.

The theologian is also a member of the curling club and an earnest lover of the sport. The trouble all started when the preacher was asked to "keep off the side lines," which he did not see his way clear to do. The request was made more forcibly the second time, when a broom handle was brought into play.

This incensed the clergyman, who with a well-directed under cut followed by a few more punches, put his antagonist on his back. The quarrel was stopped and the matter was hushed up among the curlers. But, the contractor, who was a former member of the pastor's congregation, still wears the trademarks.

Party Is Postponed.

The sleighride party and dance, for which invitations have been issued by the M. N. S. club, which was to have been given Saturday evening, has been postponed. COUGHING BURST BLOOD VESSEL

Says Danger Avoided and Cures Coughs in 5 Hours.

A writer for the medical press states that coughing is responsible for the bursting of blood vessels quite frequently. A cough or cold means inflammation (fever) and congestion, and these in turn indicate that the body is full of poisons and waste matter. Simple relief, as found in patent cough medicines, and a whisky, often result in more harm than good; as they cause more congestion. A tonic-laxative cough syrup will work marvels and here follows a prescription which is becoming famous for its prompt relief and thorough cures. It rids the system of the cause, except it be consumption. Don't wait for consumption to grasp its victim, but begin this treatment which cures some in five hours. Mix in a bottle one-half ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age.

JAIL IS NOT THE REMEDY

Imprisonment Does Drunkards No Good, Says Judge Windom.

Sends Old Offender to Poor Farm to Straighten Up.

"Imprisonment does confirmed drunkards no good," said Judge W. L. Windom in police court this morning as he puzzled over a pitiful subject before him.

"They only come out again after serving their time to find the doors of 185 hell houses waiting to receive them. As soon as they get to liquor they are drunk again. Their will power is gone; they can't help themselves.

"It wouldn't do this man any good if he were sent to the county jail. He'd get no better. There ought to be an institution in this county where such men could be sent. They should be given healthy outdoor work. They could clear land and work on a farm. The place ought to be near town and I think each county should have one."

The man arraigned before Judge Windom this morning has been given every show. He has had a good home and is capable of earning good wages. His name is withheld because of his family, who have worried and suffered because of his affliction a long time.

He stood before the court shaking and trembling like a leaf. His vitality was about gone; his voice was so shattered that he could scarce speak above a whisper, and his face was seamed and worn. "You'll drop dead on the street some of these days" said the court.

He was fined $20 and costs or 30 days in the county jail, with the understanding that he would not serve time in the county jail, but would be sent out to the poor farm to try to build up his rundown constitution.

Mrs. Emma Star, a woman who has been in before, made things merry on the Bowery yesterday afternoon after she had put away numerous drinks. Arm in arm with a male companion she paraded up and down the populous highway, singing old country songs and spreading the gospel of good cheer. This morning in police court she entered a plea of guilty and was given $10 and costs or ten days.

Mrs. Carrie Beaton got the same sentence on pleading guilty to the same charge. She thought it was so funny to be in police court that she couldn't help laughing when the court called her name.

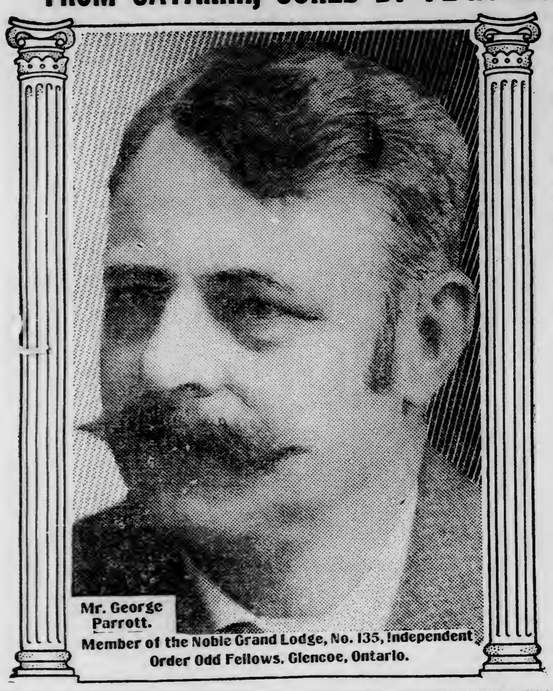
PROMINENT ODD FELLOW SAVED FROM CATARRH, CURED BY PE-RU-NA.



Mr. George Parrott.
Member of the Noble Grand Lodge, No. 135, Independent Order Odd Fellows, Glencoe, Ontario.

A NEGLECTED COUGH—DANGEROUS CATARRH FOLLOWED

"I have been using Peruna for some time for a cough and catarrh of the throat with very satisfactory results.

"Having neglected the cough, catarrh developed, and my physicians said I was threatened with catarrh of the stomach. My breath was very offensive, and I was troubled with nausea.

"Less than two bottles of Peruna cured me."—MR. GEORGE PARROTT.

Had Dyspepsia 25 Years.

Mr. Sidney Wessels, Merriton, Ont., Canada, writes:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion for twenty years, during which time I tried different doctors, but did not get the desired results. I have been compelled for weeks at a time to give up work, being completely prostrated. I had to confine myself to a milk diet, as nothing would remain on my stomach.

"I had about given up, thinking my case incurable, when I heard of Peruna and decided to try it. One bottle made a great change, and after using another bottle of this wonderful medicine I had complete freedom from pain, my appetite had returned and I could again enjoy my meals.

"I believe Peruna is the grandest medicine under the sun. Today I weigh over 225 pounds. Is it any wonder that I praise Peruna?"

Says Pe-ru-na Entirely Relieved.

Mr. Emile Marois, 1879 Ontario St., Montreal, Canada, writes:

After taking nine bottles of Peruna I find that I am cured. I still take it occasionally. For me it is the best medicine in the world. I have recommended it to a number of persons."

RUN ON CLEVELAND BANK.

Hundred Wait in Line But All Demands Are Met.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 10.—A run on the Society for Savings which began yesterday was renewed this morning. Hundreds of depositors, while waiting to withdraw their savings, were held in a block-long line by a squad of policemen. Thousands of persons, attracted by the report of a run, thronged the public square.

When the bank opened today the officers announced that there was on hand and ready for the depositors $6,539,656 in currency. Depositors are being paid off as rapidly as they present their books.

The run was started by rumors that originated in the foreign section of the city, so far as the officials are able to learn. Another theory was that, like a run on a Chicago bank, it was started by thieves who expected to reap a harvest in the excited throng. It is known that in one of the mill districts a man went from house to house and called upon the people to withdraw their money. Most of those at the bank today are foreigners.

Recently interviewed, he says:—"I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well-known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subject to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and oftentimes a cloudy voiding. While upon arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe solely to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers." WORTHINGTON LOSES SUIT

Alleged Bigamist Fails to Recover From Former Employer.

The jury in the false imprisonment suit this afternoon returned into court with a verdict for the defendant. Worthington sued for $3,500, claiming that Shawaker, for whom he was employed as a fur buyer, falsely caused his imprisonment on an embezzlement charge.

THE BRADFIELD CO., ATLANTA, GA.

CONDITIONS ARE IDEAL

No Better Stock Raising Country Than This, Says D. A. Willard.

Railroad Development Agent Hands St. Louis County a Genuine Bouquet.

"Well nigh ideal.

That is what D. A. Willard thinks of Northern Minnesota as a farming, dairying and stock raising country.

Mr. Willard is paid real money by a railroad—the Northern Pacific—just to tell the railroad officials what a country is good for, and whether it has any natural resources that should be developend. When a railroad will pay hard cash for such opinions, they ought to be worth something. He spends all of his time traveling between Duluth and the Pacific coast, investigating the country on both sides of the railroad and finding out what it is good for. His position is a little different from that of an industrial agent, who looks for business openings. His work has solely to do with the natural resources, and he works in co-operation with the immigration department, which puts the actual settlers on the lands.

Mr. Willard was invited to come to Duluth by John G. Williams and C. P. Craig of the Jean Duluth stock farm, to see for himself what could be done in the line of stock raising, and he spent the day looking over the stock farm.

"I am well pleased with what I saw," said Mr. Willard this afternoon. "As far as I can make out it costs no more to winter stock up here than it does in Nebraska, and the animals seem to do just as well or better. There are about 5,000,000 acres more up here that should be developed."

LOCAL MARKET HOLDS FIRM

More Bids Than Offers Reported on the Duluth Exchange.

The copper market was spotty today and lacked the favorable tone the last few days. It suffered a reaction after the opening but rallied at the close and values were about unchanged from the opening.

The local market, however, was in excellent shape, more bids than offers being received. In the last few days the character of trading has been greatly improved and no longer are there trades which have the appearance of being wash sales. There are no occasional juggling stunts with low price issues which in the winter were pulled off as a side diversion, occasionally, by brokers who are not so active on the exchange. The higher class of stocks is being traded in and the volume of trading in these issues is on the increase.

Copper stocks increased 8,724,563 pounds last month, a bearish report. Most estimators looked for a decrease of about 5,000,000 pounds.

Butte-Ballaklava sold at $10.50; Cordova full paid at $2.43¾; Shattuck at $21.25 and $21.50; Zenith at 99 cents; Butte & Superior at $2.50; Calumet & Montana at $1.12½; Calumet & Corbin at 98 and 97 cents; Calumet & Sonora at $21 and $21.50; Cliff at $1.50; National at 53 cents; San Antonio at $9.75 then at $9 and back to $9.50; St. Mary's at 24 and 23 cents, and Amazon at $5.93¾, $6.12½ and back to $6.

Amalgamated sold at $82.50 down to $81.75; Butte Coalition $26; Giroux at $10; Greene at $10.62½; Lake at $79.50 and down to $78; Steel common at $88 and up to $88.12½; North Butte at $43.50 and off ½ point; Superior & Pittsburg at $14.25 and off ¼ point.

A letter has been received by a local stockholder in Butte-Alex Scott from Capt. J. H. Lanyon, who is well known in the Lake Superior mining region. He is in Butte and while there he visited the Butte-Alex Scott mine. He writes:

"I went down to the 1,000-foot level of the Butte-Alex Scott mine and they have a very fine showing of ore on that level. Then I went to the 1,200-foot level and there they have a fine, rich ore at that level. Then I went to the 1,400-foot level and there I found rich bodies of ore all through the levels. They are putting a raise up at the 1,400-foot level now, one set wide and two sets long, three sets high. They have bornite ore seven feet wide but the vein from wall to wall is eighteen feet wide and they have a streak of talc a foot wide. Taking the whole mine right through from one end to the other, I think it is one of the riches that I ever was in. Yours very truly,

"CAPT. J. H. LANYON."

* Cough Cure. *

Better than all the cough medicines you could buy, and far less expensive, is a simple remedy that you can make at home in five minutes. A whole pint of it—enough to last a family a long time—costs only 54 cents. It is pleasant to take—children like it.

It will usually conquer a deep-seated cough in twenty-four hours. Two or three doses overcome an ordinary cough. It is also splendid for colds, bronchitis, incipient lung trouble, whooping cough, etc.

Granulated Sugar Syrup .... 13½ oz.
Pinex .... 2½ oz.

Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes. Put the 2½ ounces Pinex in a pint bottle and fill up with the syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Granulated Sugar Syrup is a simple but excellent sedative. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, and is rich in all the medicinal elements of the pine. None of the weaker pine preparations compare with the real Pinex itself. All druggists have it or will get it if requested.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

McDONNELL IS LOWEST BIDDER

Duluthian in Fair Way to Capture Another Grand Forks Contract.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With contracts for 85,000 yards of paving as the prize at stake, Grand Forks is again the center of strife with the paving contractors of the Northwest. Saturday evening five contracts will be let. A very thorough and animated discussion of the merits and demerits of the several kinds of pavement proposed is on.

In three districts, P. R. McDonnell of Duluth has submitted the lowest bid, being on Donnellite. In these districts there are a total of 57,809 yards of paving to be laid, and the Duluth man therefore has a splendid opportunity of landing a good portion of the work that is to be let. In the other two districts the Biome Paving company, which proposes to lay granatoid, is the low bidder.

In the contest for the work, in addition to McDonnell and the Biome company, are the Bitulithic Paving company, the Fielding & Shepley company of St. Paul, and the General Contracting company of Minneapolis. The Fielding & Shepley company is the low bidder on creosoted blocks, and is being backed by the Kettle River Quarries company of Minneapolis and Sandstone.

Two of the districts were represented in mass meetings held last night at which the subject of paving was discussed, the meeting being called for the purpose of determining which kind of pavement would be preferable.

WOMAN INDICTED FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A charge of murder in the first degree was returned in an indictment by the grand jury Tuesday against Mrs. Lena Dale, who shot W. H. Lear at the Alberta hotel Saturday night, the wound having caused his death at St. Mary's hospital yesterday.

With his last breath, Lear reiterated the charge of murder against Mrs. Dale. The wounded man is said to have been vindictive in his last statement, demanding that the woman be punished for the suffering she had caused him. When told of Lear's death yesterday, Mrs. Dale said: "May God forgive him for his charge. I prayed for him. He pointed a gun at me many a time. I'm not guilty."

PICTURES OF HIS TWO WIVES HUNG SIDE BY SIDE IN THE HOME OF J. E. WORTHINGTON

Arrested as He Was Leaving Courtroom on Bigamy Charge.

Mrs. Worthington No. 2 Tells Story of Her Romantic Courtship.

Prisoner Claims He Was "Doped" By His First Wife.

Little Gregory O'Neill, aged 9, who sold The Heralds on the sturdy tugboat, Medina, liked J. E. Worthington, the cook, because he was such a nice man to little boys, so Gregory piloted Worthington to his widowed mother's home and five weeks later Mrs. O'Neill became Mrs. Worthington.

She learned yesterday that she isn't Mrs. Worthington after all, because the nice cook had forgotten to get a divorce from his first wife who is Mary Jane Angus. She has a strain of Indian blood in her and lives in Signal, Ariz. She is now suing for a divorce from Worthington whose real name is said to be William D. Angus. Worthington is in jail charged with bigamy. He was arrested late yesterday in a district court room where he was trying to recover $2,250 from O. G. Shawaker for alleged false imprisonment.

Mrs. Worthington No. 2 is a comely little woman who lives at 1309½ West Michigan street, upstairs. Her first husband, who was a railroad man, was killed several years ago in the local yards. She greeted callers today smilingly and did not seem to be downcast over the turn in her matrimonial experiences and the fact that she was not really his wife seemed to please her, although she did not recall with satisfaction the recollection of his having hung a picture of her by a picture of his first wife whom he said was his sister.

Worthington is a smooth talker, said Mrs. Worthington No. 2, and at the end of an acquaintanceship of five weeks he had convinced her that he could not live without her so they were married May 24 of last year by the Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church in the West end.

Good to Gregory.

"When I met that man," said Mrs. Worthington, "I was sewing at Patrick's. I was having a hard time of it, too. My little 9-year-old boy, Gregory, was selling papers and one day he came home late. I asked him where he had been and he said the cook on the Medina had asked him to stay to supper. I gave that boy a whipping because I wanted him to understand that I and not the cook on the Medina, was his boss. Well, the boy liked Mr. Worthington and he always kept talking about what a nice man he was. And the boy told Mr. Worthington about me and I guess he got kind of interested because he began to ask Gregory questions. Wanted to know if I was a widow and whether I'd like to have him come to see me. He was certainly good to Gregory. The boy stayed out late several nights and I had to whip him to let him know I was running the house, and not a cook down on the tug boat, Medina."

However, according to Mrs. Worthington's story, it wasn't long before the cook was running the O'Neill household. Little Gregory wanted mama to meet the nice man and mama wasn't unwilling so one evening Mr. Worthington came to call. Mr. Worthington was something of an arbiter of fashion along the bay front, according to Mrs. Worthington, and he made a favorable impression. He called again and a few times more and at the end of five brief weeks little Gregory was told that the nice man was going to become his papa, which came to pass.

Everybody was happy for three weeks. Then a relative of Mrs. Worthington intimated that her husband wasn't really her husband at all and that she had better ask him about it. Worthington pooh-poohed the suggestion and reiterated the fervent declarations of the brief five weeks and Mrs. Worthington was convinced that she was his only wife. In August she learned that he had been married before and when he was told about it, he said it was so but that he got a divorce from his first wife, that he never had loved her, that he had forgotten about her, and wanted other folks to do the same.

But Mrs. Worthington couldn't forget. She gazed reflectively at a picture of a woman in the bedroom of her home, a woman with prominent features, and she said to herself that way down in her heart she doubted whether the original was Worthington's sister. On the other side of the mantle hung a picture of herself and she didn't take kindly to the proximity of the two pictures but in reason she couldn't be jealous of her sister-in-law so she let Worthington think the picture of the strange woman was making a big hit in the Worthington family.

Asked About Sister.

Mrs. Worthington wanted to know something about her husband's sister, though, and she learned from him that he and his sister lost their parents in the Galveston flood. Worthington said that at the time of the flood he was not old enough to strike out for himself. Fortunately, he said, a man named Walter Brown of Usa, Texas, who was sheriff with a big, broad hat and a goatee, took him and his sister and kept them. Mrs. Worthington knew that her husband was 42 instead of 28 as he represented when he was married, and she thought the story didn't hang well, especially as no one at Usa had ever heard of the kind-hearted sheriff. She became convinced of it when a fireman named O'Brien showed up.

O'Brien had known Worthington for more than twenty years, before he became Worthington. O'Brien used to say "how dye do" to him when he was William D. Angus down in Hayward, Mich., and O'Brien couldn't be fooled by the name of Worthington. This and more past history came to light last November when Worthington was arrested at the instance of O. G. Shawaker, a local furrier, who charged him with embezzlement. The case fell flat, as a Hayward judge found him guiltless.

Mrs. Worthington again intimated to her husband that he might be a bigamist but he denied it. She continued to live with him until about last Christmas when he left her after a series of disturbances in which Mrs. Worthington says she was misused. He did not support her, anyway, she avers and she was glad to see him depart even if he had been a nice man to little Gregory.

"That man left me in poverty," said Mrs. Worthington, "when I was on my sick bed with tumor in my back, and me not knowing where my next meal was coming from if it hadn't been for the neighbors and Gregory who was selling papers."

A few weeks before Worthington left Mrs. Worthington went to Spooner. While she was away Worthington took down her picture and that of his first wife. When Mrs. Worthington returned her eye kindled when she saw the vacancy on the wall from where his "sister" had smiled at her, but she somewhat peeved about the loss of her picture. For the time being she was mollified, however, as the woman with whom she roomed declared that Worthington had pressed his lips fervently to the glass over her features, before he wrapped the picture in a newspaper and took it away. Mrs Worthington found out later that the picture got to Superior somehow. She would like her's back but she doesn't care what becomes of "sister."

When Mrs. Worthington learned in November that her husband had not bestowed on her the name that he had borne in earlier days she mentioned the fact to him. He said he loved her so he didn't want his first wife to come back and kill him, which she might do if she learned where he was. Happiness as Worthington said, was preferable to being buried as Angus. Later, said Mrs. Worthington, he declared he would kill her if she ever made any trouble for him. He also intimated that it would not be well for his first wife if she raised a row. Apparently his first wife didn't care to, as she is said to be engaged to be married to a man in Arizona and that she will become his wife when she is legally separated from Worthington.

George Day, father of the first Mrs. Worthington, and the lady herself, may come to Duluth when Worthington is tried for having more wives than the law allows. Mrs. Worthington No. 2 said she would like to meet the first wife. She thought they would find comparison of notes profitable and diverting.

Husband Had "Changed."

Mrs. Worthington saw her husband in the district court yesterday and she was greatly surprised at the change in his appearance. When she last saw him his hair was a beautiful raven black. It was one of his most attractive features. She had to look at him twice yesterday to see if it was really Worthington, as his hair was a light yellow.

"That man actually bleached his hair," she said, "and he didn't do a good job, either."

Husband's Story.

"I'll swear on a stack of Bibles that I was not married by any priest, minister, justice of the peace or other authorized officer, to Mary Jane Day," said Worthington at police headquarters this morning.

He declares that if there was any ceremony he was unaware of it, and tells an unusual story of being kept under the influence of drugs six months, after which the marriage certificate, signed by Rev. J. C. Thomas of Odanah, was flashed in his face by the Indian girl alleged to be his first wife.

Worthington was unable to tell how the drug was administered to him. He said that he knew something was the matter with him, and that he thought he was under the influence of a drug, but that he was powerless to get away from the sinister effect. He supposed that it might have been first administered through some third person.

The police discredit the story. They state that he is spinning a beautiful pipe dream, and that they believe he was legally married to his first wife.

Two Women "After Him."

Worthington declares that his second wife and a "grass" widow were both after him, and that he could hardly get away from taking one of them in wedlock. But before marrying his second wife, he says, he told her that he had a past and didn't know whether or not he was free. She denies this, but claims that he afterwards admitted it when practically forced to the wall.

J. Van Buren, who says he was acquainted with Worthington in their childhood days, said at headquarters this morning that his right name is William D. Angus. He also said that his sister, Mrs. Marie Robinson, of Superior, was in the city last evening.

The accused bigamist recounted a lengthy description of his past history at the station. He said that he was born in Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 7, 1869, and went with his parents to Galveston, Texas, when about a year old. He says he was about 13 when they died and that he went to Capt. J. D. Angus at Ashland, who raised him, thus getting the name of Angus. Fourteen years ago he claims to have wandered through several states, including California, Colorado and Texas. In the last he says he worked as a cowboy for Sheriff Walter W. Brown. He claims to have come back home in January, 1901, and that he met the Indian girl at Odanah, where he was working as a cook. The marriage is alleged to have occurred there May 24, 1902.

CONFERENCE ON EXPRESS LIMITS

Effort May Be Made to Get Sub-Station at West Duluth.

Some time within the next week or ten days, a conference will be arranged between the district managers of the express companies doing business in Duluth and representatives of all the public bodies in the city, in regard to express delivery limits.

The conference will be a friendly one, and it is believed that some satisfactory agreement can be reached regarding delivery to the suburbs.

At the present time there are certain delivery limits beyond which the express companies will not send packages. The limits extend to Twenty-fourth avenue east and to Twenty-ninth avenue west. All the people living in Lakeside, Woodland and West Duluth, and in the district above Fourth street, in parts of the city and Fifth street in other parts, must call for their packages.

It is claimed that West Duluth should have a sub-station and that some arrangement should be made to deliver packages to the other suburbs for a small additional charge. It is believed that there will be no trouble reaching an agreement, as the express managers show a willingness to approach the subject with minds open to conviction. Just as soon as the date has been fixed by the officers of the public affairs committee who have the matter in charge, a public meeting will be announced and any citizen with a grievance or a suggestion will be welcomed.

SUES OWNER OF AUTOMOBILE

Severn A. Rhode Asks Damages From A. G. Fitzgerald for Injuries.

Before Judge Ensign of the district court this morning the case of Severn A. Rhode against Arthur Grover Fitzgerald for $7,318 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he was run down by Fitzgerald's automobile on West Superior street, Nov. 14 last, was taken up.

The accident happened near Mesaba avenue and Superior and Michigan streets. Rhode claims that Fitzgerald was negligent in that he was running faster than the law allows; that he did not have his machine under control; that he gave no warning of his approach, and that while the two oil sidelights were burning, there were no headlights which would give a proper signal of approach.

Rhode claims that as soon as he saw the approaching machine he leaped into the air, lighted on the hand of the car, and after being carried some distance in this position was thrown off under the automobile, which he claims passed over him before being brought to a stop.

In his complaint he states that he was laid up for several weeks in the hospital as the result of the injuries, which consisted of a gash across the face and several broken bones in the right ankle.

There are but a few witnesses to be examined and it is expected that the trial will be finished very quickly.

WANTS DAMAGES FOR INJURIES

Herman Hoffer Sues Rock Lake Lumber Company for $7,300.

The case of Herman Hoffer against the Rock Lake Lumber company for $7,300 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when caught between two cars on the company's logging railroad on Jan. 2, last, was begun in district court this morning before Judge William A. Cant.

Hoffer in his complaint states that he worked for the company in the capacity of fireman. He was also required to do some switching and at numerous times was ordered to couple cars. He claims that he was not instructed as to how to do the work or warned as to the danger. He stated that the company was negligent in this respect.

On trying to couple the cars at the time the injury was sustained, his hand was caught between the two cars and so badly crushed that he claims that he will never be able to use it again. The complaint states that an inexperienced man was running the engine at the time the accident occurred.

BUTTER FROM GOPHER STATE

Minnesota Product May Be Used By the United States Navy.

Dairy Food Commissioner French Says State Creameries Will Bid.

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota creameries may secure part of the 1,000,000 pound butter contract which is to be awarded by the United States navy department on March 15.

Andrew French, state dairy and food commisioner, said that several of the creameries of the state will enter bids for at least 54,000 pounds.

The Model and the Co-Operative at Hutchinson and the Glencoe Butter & Cheese company of Glencoe will submit bids. The Model makes annually nearly 600,000 pounds, its output in 1908 being 586,000 pounds. The Glencoe in 1908 made 420,000 pounds and the Co-Operative, 177,000 pounds.

No Minnesota Bids in 1909.

No bid was ubmitted from Minnesota last year, and it is believed that never has any part of the government contract come to this state. Last year the creamery at Lake Mills, Iowa, secured a contract and is said to have made about $3,000 net thereon. The government generally pays about 2c above the New York market price, making it possible for the bidder to secure a profit.

"I should be glad to see several of the local creameries bid on this contract," said Mr. French. "It would have a tendency to increase the interest in the business, and at the same time make it possible for the creameries to increase their earning capacity. Any of the larger creameries could take care of at least one block.

"The butter must grade 94 or 95, and is made under the supervision of a government inspector. The entire contract must be filled in about ninety days."

DEERWOOD ELECTION.

Practically All of the Former Officials Were Re-Elected.

Deerwood, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election resulted in practically the same council being elected. For president, L. J. Hage was an easy winner over Emil Carlson. The trustees are also the same, C. A. Anderson, William Taylor and Oscar Nelson. Anderson and Taylor ran neck and neck right to the finish. B. Magoffin, Jr., was a close contestant with Oscar Carlson. For trustee, H. J. Ernster beat O. C. Coffin by the close margin of two votes. For assessor, Harry Patterson was unopposed. For justices, R. B. Coffin and C. F. Rathvon were elected, and for constables Oscar Erickson and M. S. Lacey polled a heavy vote over James Magee, who was a new candidate for office. The village voted to divorce from the township.

The annual township election brought out a big vote. There were several tickets and this made the counting of the ballots slow work. Practically the same officers were retained. P. V. Berglund, three-year term; John Brant, two-year term, and Fred Winquist for one-year term, were elected supervisors. C. C. Coffin polled a heavy vote over Olson Skau for clerk of the township, winning out by a majority of 50 out of 74. For treasurer, John Swanstrom polled a very heavy vote over several other contestants. Justice J. F. Saunders had a walk away. The two constables elected were Anson Orr and Charles Anderson.

Hands and Arms In Dreadful State

With Eczema—Baby Lay Between Life and Death.

Another Wonderful Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema. The doctor said he would soon be all right, but he steadily grew worse and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema seemed to be spreading all over his body. His face was so sore, we were obliged to put a mask or cloth over it. We were obliged also to tie up his hands and arms to prevent him from scratching the inflamed places. We consulted other doctors, used ointments and salves sent us by friends and neighbors. Some of these things would seem to have some effect but after a few days would act like a poison, and increase this stubborn disease.

"Just one year ago this month baby lay between life and death. We felt that we must give up trying to find any cure or relief. Our hearts were just breaking, and we had the sympathy of friends and neighbors. Finally my husband said 'I am going to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Olive Ointment.' We began to use these medicines and oh! the results were astonishing! In a few months he was entirely free from that terrible eczema, which had caused him so much suffering. Today he is a fine healthy boy." Mrs. Inez Lewis, Baring, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than twenty different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination. These ingredients are the very remedies successful physicians prescribe for the same diseases and ailments, but they are not all found in any other medicine. Get

SUE A NEW YORK FIRM.

Alleged They Went Back on Contract to Underwrite Stock.

Houghton, Mich., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alleging failure to live up to an agreement to underwrite $325,000 in stock of the North Indiana Mining company. M. E. O'Brien and others have instituted suit in the circuit court against B. H. Sheftels & Co. New York brokers, to recover $150,000 damages alleged to have resulted from the defendants failing to live up to their agreement.

It is claimed the North Indiana proposition was dropped to take up the South Quincy.

Mr. Sheftels refused to talk regarding the suit, without first consulting his attorneys. The North Indiana company owns lands near the property of the Indiana company which recently made such a remarkable rise on the Boston Stock exchange.

A REAL WAIST.

Fashion to Again Favor Nature's Choice.

We must acknowledge our belts and waist lines once more, says Dame Fashion. Belts and girdles are assuming importance, writes Helen Berkeley-Loyd in the Delineator for March.

Many of the new dresses show the natural waist line sharply defined by the girdle of the skirt or waist. In some of them the arrangement is quite simple. For instance, the other day I saw a dress of cloth and chiffon in which the eleven-gored skirt ran up an inch or two above the waist line, forming a close-fitting belt. The waist was a tucked jumper of chiffon trimmed at the square neck and down the shoulder and sleeves—which, by the way, were cut in one with the body—with stitched bands of the cloth. The bodice had no girdle of its own, but was attached to the skirt under its belt extension.

That, of course, is the simplest version of the girdle, and is really a compromise between the beltless princess dress that we still love devotedly and the newer ideas on waist lines. The girdle is more elaborate in the draped dresses, where the drapery frequently takes the form of a pinafore bib.

The new girdles are decidedly deep in front—in fact, some of them run quite up to the chemisette of the waist and form the principal trimming of the bodice. In others the belt, though decidedly deeper in front than at the sides and back, is not exaggerated as the bib or pinafore girdle. It is a very easy matter to make one of these new girdles and mount it on an old bodice. The effect is really quite surprising, for the wide belt is so decidedly a thing of the moment that it brings an out-of-date waist up to time in a delightful manner. You can make the girdle of any depth or shape that you like, and it need not necessarily match the waist in material, though it should in color. Satin moire and any of the corded silks make smart girdles, and they are a most inexpensive way of remodeling an old waist.

SPRING SUITS.

Rough Materials and Light Colors Chosen.

Apropos of the spring tailored costumes there is promise of a continued vogue for rough, loose women materials.

These may be modified for summer use, since anywhere save in a cool climate they would look and feel warm for summer days; but after all, it is for the spring that the tailored coat and skirt does chief duty, and those new tweeds and homespuns are ideal for spring days.

A large percentage of them make up for the suggestion of warmth in their weaves and surfaces by a lightness of color which will be pleasing when the first mild sunshiny days arrive.

Soft mixed grays, biscuit, shades dashed with darker browns, greens, violets and blues, all interwoven with white so liberally that they take on a misty lightness and softness of shading, all these are prominent among the tweeds and homespuns.

There are loosely woven, lightweight diagonals of rough finish in all the khaki and biscuit and dead leaf tones, the grays and medium light colorings, as well as in the dark colors which have been favored during the winter.

Fashion Hints.

Socks will be worn more than ever by children up to 10 years of age. White or black are the favorites.

Some of the monograms seen remind one of Chinese lettering.

If present indications carry, colored hosiery of a variety of shades will be seen with white shoes or ties this summer. The large picture hat of black trimmed with paradise or heron egrets or ostrich French-curled plumes, either in white or in all-black, is fashionable.

Maline bows continue to be in favor and are worn in the high-class end, as well as by the popular class.

Irish lace still occupies the leading position in stock collars, jabots and collar and cuff sets, and there is an increase in size of round collars, owing to the fashionable use of short capes.

Metallic effects in bands and allovers are very strong.

• • •

All the metals in dull effects, crystals in white and colors, and jet and steel are employed in the development of beaded, spangled and bugled costumes.

Cut jet beads are used to make the entire bodices of black gowns, the solid jet embroidery being favored.

All the fashionable colors are used in beaded and bugled robes, although the dull tarnished effect in all-gold trimmings and all-overs is most prominent.

Lace veils with irregular meshes are much favored by Parisian women.

A butterfly design is placed so that one is on each cheek, but this novelty is not obtrusive enough to detract from the beauty of the wearer.

Lanners who is not heard as often as his friends would like.

POEM ON DULUTH.

A short poem on "The Grain Elevators at Duluth," published in the Harvard Illustrated Magazine for February, is attracting attention among Duluth subscribers to the publication. It is signed by Benton Sheahan, 1901, who has evidently visited Duluth. The verses follow:

"Rising above the wharves and burdened ships,
Tossing aloft their manes of flame and steam,
The wheat mills loom, outlined upon the sky,
Like monstrous devil castles of a dream.

"Towers of iron cylinders of steel,
Roaring of fire, grumbling of chain,
And from the line of vessels on the lake,
The mills drink up the dusty, golden grain.

"Oh, my country, homeland glorious,
The pledge of plenty, unto each his part,
I love these ugly engines of the West,
For they have whispered me how great thou art."

TEACHERS WILL BE ENTERTAINED

T. W. Hugo Will Give a Sketch of Daniel Greysolon DuLhut.

The teachers of the city will be entertained by the Scottish Rite bodies of Duluth at the Auditorium, Masonic Temple, on Saturday morning, March 12, beginning at 10:15 a. m.

There will be but three numbers on the program. First, Chopin's "Allegro de Concert;" second, "A Sketch of the Life and Times of Daniel Greysolon Sieur Dulhut;" third, the overture to Wagner's "Tannhauser." The first and last are organ numbers and the second embodies the researches and study of T. W. Hugo into the character, life and conditions surrounding the man for whom Duluth was named.

To most people Duluth, the man, is in the same class as William Tell, Robin Hood, and the like, semi-mythical personages, but Mr. Hugo's digging and delving have brought out the facts which place "Dulhut" in the same class as La Salle, as far as achievements are concerned, and a greater personage, as a man.

Mr. Denfeld, for the teachers, invites any of their friends and all will be welcome, but the program starts precisely at 10:15 a. m., and no one will be admitted after that except between numbers.

No outside speakers will be heard during the week, the local ministers having entire charge of the services.

The services will be held during the week of March 21, and the members of the publicity committee are of the belief that the serivces will fill the spacious theater every noon.

It has been decided by the Duluth Ministerial association that the services shall be called "A Week With the Master." The talks have been arranged in consonance with the events that happened in the Savior's life, during the last week.

Following is the program.

Tuesday — "The Humanness of Christ," J. C. Farles, Presbyterian.

Publicity committee, J. A. McGaughey, chairman; W. I. Prince, N. M. Young.

Head usher, John Stephenson.

There will be on sale a little booklet for those who wish to read the events in the life of Christ on the respective days, known as "His Last Week." This is a harmony of the four gospels.

POGUE GOT NOTHING.

Report Railroad Settled With Bemidji's Mayor Is Denied.

Crookston, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A representative of the legal department of the Great Northern Railway company, while here said the report sent out from Bemidji, that Mayor Pogue had settled his suit against the company for the full amount claimed, is erroneous. He stated that the fact was the Pogue action was dismissed on motion of Mr. Pogue's attorneys and that absolutely no settlement had been made for any amount.

The action was brought to recover damages for injuries received at Wilton by a Great Northern train colliding with an automobile in which Mr. Pogue and three others were riding. The railway company did compromise with the others who were injured for small amounts, but the Pogue case would not be settled as the company was satisfied that the jury would render no verdict in favor of Mr. Pogue after hearing the evidence.

ORGANIZE FOR SELF PROTECTION

Liquor Interests Will Try to Stem County Option Tide.

The Loyal Liberty Protective league, composed of those who think county optionists are trying to destroy constitutional prerogatives, such as an American's right to pursue life, liberty and happiness, is organizing a branch in Duluth.

J. H. Buckler and T. F. Lyons came to the Zenith City last night. They are in the employ of the state association which is financed by the breweries and saloon keepers. Duluth saloon men will be asked to join the state organization. A number signed the charter roll today. Some of the league's state officers will be here tomorrow to help get the local institution started.

The persistent endeavors of county optionists have aroused the liquor interests to action and the "reform" folks will probably meet with organized opposition in every part of the state where the issue of county option becomes predominate.

Mr. Rucker said that the league's excuse for existing is to protect retail liquor dealers against "unfair" legislation that might result from the movement for county option or prohibition. "We stand for order and decently conducted saloons," said Mr. Buckler, "but we don't want to be legislated out of business."

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MARCH 13
Matt. viii, 23-34: Two Mighty Works.

THE CONNECTION.

It was on that same long day, when He spoke so many parables, the longest, hardest day's work we are able to identify till the very last week of His life. In the afternoon He has His disciples take Him across the lake, possibly that He may rest awhile and get them away from so much excitement. But the trip, like all His attempts at resting, only brings other stirring experiences.

THE LESSON.

I.

Stilling the Storm. 23-27.

"And when He was entered into a boat, His disciples followed Him. And behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the boat was covered with the waves, but He was asleep. And they came to Him, and awoke Him, saying, Save, Lord; we perish. And He saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then He arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. And the men marveled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

1. WEARIED.—His real humanity shows in His weariness. His vital power went out in that teaching in parables all morning, for it was a battle with His enemies, concealing Himself from them and revealing Himself to the disciples, by means of His parables. It was exhausting, as all such work is. Perhaps He wanted to go over for several days of rest on the other side. Possibly He wanted to give them private instruction which they very much needed, and He may have felt the need of association with His tried and congenial friends, after His many experiences with deadly and determined enemies. Mark tells us that "other boats were with Him," which means that He would have a poor chance to rest. The real humanness of Jesus is seen in the exhaustion that can sleep amid positive discomforts, resting in a cramped position on the leather cushion used by the steersman. His work is over and He trusts the disciples. He never does for them what they can do for themselves.

2. DANGER!—The worst lake in the world for sudden storms, owing to its depth below sea level and the gulches running into it, the worst season of the year and the worst time of day. The terror of the disciples was natural, even though they were seamen. They knew He could have prevented or could still the storm; so far, so good. But their faith was defective, or they would have known that He could not be drowned and neither could they, as long as they were with Him. However, they did the only right thing in going to Him with their fear.

3. THE MASTER.—His mastery over them is seen in His kindly and tactful appeal to their confidence in Him. In their appeal there is an accent of resentment for His seeming indifference to their safety; in His reply there is a loving rebuke of their doubt, very plain and conclusive. His mastery over the wind and the waves was an easier thing. The disciples put a limit upon His love and power; the wind knows nothing but to obey. They believed He could save them, but only on condition He was interested and wide awake enough. Only a word was necessary. He did it as easily as Edison can control the machine which he has invented, or the engineer can stop the roar and whiz and flash of the electrical machinery by working a little lever. "Be still" means "be muzzled," as if He was speaking to some big animal. His deity is just as manifest as His humanity in this miracle. Awe filled their minds. His power over nature and His love for them startled them. This seems the most unique and wonderful deed He has ever done. Awe and wonder are growing more and more into love and confidence and devotion.

II.

Mastering Two Madmen. 28-34.

"And when He was come to the other side into the country of the Gaderenes, there met Him two possessed with demons, coming forth out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man could pass by that way. And behold, they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee, thou Son of God? Art thou come hither to torment us before the time? Now there was afar off from them a herd of many swine feeding. And the demons besought Him, saying, If thou cast us out, send us away into the herd of swine. And He said unto them, Go. And they came out, and went into the swine: and behold, the whole herd rushed down the steep into the sea, and perished in the waters. And they that fed them fled, and went away into the city, and told everything, and what was befallen them that were possessed with demons. And behold, all the city came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw Him, they besought Him that he would depart from their borders."

1. DEMONS.—There were two of these unfortunate men, but one of them was so extraordinary a case as to absorb all their attention, so that some writers mention him alone. Peter says "to this end was Christ manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil." The works of the devil were most numerous and horrible just then, for he was making his very best fight. There is only one devil and his name is Satan, but he seems to have the service of countless demons. They infect humanity. They are at work now. They made dupes then. Two effects often followed a divided consciousness, so that the victim's personality often seemed that of the demon; diseases of various kinds, epilepsy, insanity, deafness and blindness. The moral effect was always loathsome. The habits and strength and viciousness of this one occupied by many demons are described—a terror to the whole community.

2. EXORCISM.—The demons knew Jesus and were drawn irresistibly to His presence, showing their recognition in some act. They used their victim's personality and spoke for him. They knew they were to be driven from the man and asked to be allowed to continue their work of torture, if only in swine, for their severest punishment is to be denied the privilege of torturing some one. Jesus is not at fault in allowing the destruction of the swine, for if their owners were Jews, they had no business to have them, if Gentiles, there was a moral lesson and a moral force brought to the community far more valuable than the swine, that could only come in some such catastrophe.

3. FEAR.—The superstitious Gentiles saw there was a connection between the curing of the man and the death of the swine and besought Him to leave them. It was an uncanny sort of fear that prompted them, fear that they might lose more hogs or something else, very valuable; when they might have known that He who could so highly bless a wretched man would have only benefits for them.

4. GRATITUDE.—That was the first impulse of the cured man. He would, on the impulse, want to go with Jesus and rightly so, but Jesus' refusal was also right. If he were a Gentile, it would be unwise to have him among the Jews; if a Jew, he would still be amenable to the laws of his previously established relationships and would have a special duty to those who had been so seriously affected by his horrible past life, particularly his own family. He soon saw that his duty was not to follow the line of his personal enjoyments, but of duty. He made an ardent and industrious evangelist, for he traversed that whole region with the story of his thrilling experience and won an encouraging success.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The two things to lay to heart are that Jesus here exercises the divine prerogative of controlling matter by the bare expression of His will, and that this divine attribute was exercised by the wearied man, who, a moment before, had been sleeping the sleep of human exhaustion. The marvelous combination of apparent opposites, weakness and divine omnipotence, which yet do not clash, nor produce an incredible monster of a being, but coalesce in perfect harmony, is a feat beyond the reach of the loftiest creative imagination. If the evangelists are not simple biographers, telling what eyes have seen and hands have handled, they have beaten the greatest poets and dramatists at their own weapons, and have accomplished "things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme."—Maclaran.

As a bootblack and newsboy in New York, I began picking locks, entering houses and stealing the silver from the tables. Then as an office boy I stole from my employer. I became a companion of thieves, committed crimes in five states, was in jail six times. No one could do anything with me. One day an invitation to a mission was put in my hands. I crumpled it up and got drunk. Next morning I found the invitation in my pocket, and went to the mission. I heard a man who had been in prison tell what Jesus had done for him. That interested me. Was there hope for me? I cried out: "I want to get in touch with Jesus." After that I found him. • • • It is nine years since he saved me. Thank God! that what handcuffs could not do, what the prison cell couldn't do—for no man could tame me—Jesus Christ did, and I am free.—John Callahan.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Why does Jesus never do for Himself or for us what we can do for Him or for ourselves?
2. Is it possible to always act on the principle of never going where we cannot have Jesus with us?
3. Why need no storm prove fatal to the peace of the disciple?
4. What evidence have we that Satan is a shrewd fool?
5. Why is the telling of Christian experience so fascinating and effective?
6. What is the distinction between faith and superstition?

CUSTOM OF WEARING WEDDING RINGS IS GROWING AMONG MEN

"I always notice a girl's third finger on her left hand," said the youth who had hopes. "I like to know if she is engaged or married. It gives a fellow a hint as to what he ought to do in an emergency."

"Some men wear wedding rings," interrupted the girl who knew. "I think it's a good idea. A girl can look at a man's hand then before deciding whether to jab him with her hat pin, or accept his kind invitation to a warm bird or a cold bottle."

It is ever so. Shall men wear wedding rings? Assuming, of course, that said rings would be flie-proof, bomb-proof and dynamite-proof and chained, perhaps, to a handcuff? Echo answers "yes," but the noise seems to come almost entirely from one side of the house.

"While there is no custom that absolutely regulates the wearing of wedding rings by men," said a local jeweler, "we have been called upon to supply them. We find that in fashionable weddings, as well as others, the exchange of wedding rings by the bride and bridegroom is largely a sentimental idea, except, of course, where the ceremony calls for it.

"If memory serves me, it is only the Lutheran and possibly the Hebrew ceremony which calls for an exchange of wedding rings, but in the former I know that two rings play an important part. We don't get many calls for wedding rings for men. Most of them have come from Germans. Following these we sell mostly to Hebrews.

"The right sort of married men will always have a certain sentimental regard for his wedding ring and in most cases of the fashionably correct wedding of today we find that the bride buys a wedding ring to exchange with the groom, if not at the altar, to wear for sacred and sentimental reasons afterward.

"Styles in men's wedding rings at present are mostly in the narrow oval models in the bright or natural gold finish. Sometimes we refinish in dull gold, but this style is almost obsolete. You can't tell the difference between a wedding ring for a man and one for a woman. They are made in 18-karat or 22-karat gold. You can buy them for men for from $7 and $10 up, and for women at $7.50 and higher."

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Revives Sutton Case.

Washington, March 10. — Senator Chamberlain of Oregon and Representative McCreedie of Washington yesterday introduced in congress a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a commission of three senators and three representatives to inquire into the death of James N. Sutton, a lieutenant in the marine corps, at Annapolis, Oct. 13, 1907. The resolution directs that a report be made "as to the person or persons participating in or responsible for his death, in order that the ends of justice may be fully subserved." An appropriation of $25,000 is urged to defray the expenses of the proposed inquiry.

The first investigation by the authorities of the naval academy resulted in a verdict of suicide, but the navy department subsequently reopened the case, and it was decided that the young man did not commit suicide.

Convict Labor.

The general policy of laying roads by convict labor was discussed in the house in connection with a bill providing for a military highway between Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley, Kansas, with labor from the military prison at Fort Leavenworth. Opposition was expressed to having the government take part in the building of any state road.

When Prices Were High.

Senator Lodge has discovered that there was a time in the past when prices were unusually high. The fact came to him through the finding of an old document of the Twenty-fourth congress. It is a recommendation by the secretary of the treasury for an increase in the salaries of clerks, and the senator obtained permission for the reprinting of the paper. Mr. Lodge explained that it was accompanied by a private memorandum of expenses which had been kept by a clerk. At that time the memorandum showed the prices of sugar were 14 cents per pound, flour $8 a barrel and illuminating oil $1 per gallon. On the other hand, labor was paid only 75 cents a day.

Roosevelt's Bust Arrives.

A marble bust of Theodore Roosevelt reached Washington today for installation in a niche in the senate chamber. The placing of the bust in this conspicuous place will necessitate the removal of one of the empty niches in the corridors of a former and long-forgotten vice president, as was done when the bust of Former Vice President Fairbanks was received, a year ago.

The Roosevelt bust is the work of James Frazer of New York and shows the subject with face in repose, presenting him in a dignified mood. Col. Roosevelt chose this design from a number showing him in the more strenuous pose familiar to the American public.

Cost of Patent Appeals.

The bill creating a court of patent appeals was passed by the senate. It authorizes a board for the purpose. The president is to nominate members and they are to serve for life. The court would have jurisdiction over patent cases exclusively.

Hears About Prices.

The senate cost of living committee examined F. G. Hall, who conducts a local grocery and meat market. He said the biggest jump in meat prices he had ever known was in the last two years, but he gave no comparison.

In conducting his business Mr. Hall said he figured on a gross profit of 15 per cent, but was satisfied with a net profit of 5 per cent. This caused Senator Smoot to inquire: "Then how is it you have accumulated $35,000 in fifteen years?

The reply of Mr. Hall was regarded by the committee as somewhat evasive, but the point was not pressed.

Speaking of butter, Mr. Hall said that Elgin creamery was standard, and that the price was fixed at Elgin. He said that it was a trade supposition that a number of manufacturers in Elgin get together and fix the price of Elgin butter.

Collector Loeb of New York advocated before the house ways and means committee a bill to license custom brokers and place them under the supervision of the treasury department. Mr. Loeb told of many shady practices indulged in by brokers which kept his department busy looking after them, and he believed the bill would do away with many of these difficulties. The bill was passed by the senate.

Heart Balm for Widow.

New York, March 10.—Mrs. Helen M. Walters, the Chicago widow who sued Theodore A. Dyerson, a broker, to recover $50,000 for alleged breach of promise, has been awarded $3,000 by a jury in the supreme court.

HERE'S THE PROOF.

MR. J. C. LEE, of 1100 Ninth St., S.E., Washington, D.C., writes: — "I advised a lady who was a great sufferer from neuralgia to try Sloan's Liniment. After one application the pain left her and she has not been troubled with it since."

MRS. DANIEL H. DIEHL, of Mann's Choice, R.F.D. No. 1, Pa., writes: — "Please send me a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for rheumatism and stiff joints. It is the best remedy I ever knew, for I can't do without it." — Better than plasters—

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

DO IT FOR DULUTH!

The Herald hasn't said that for several weeks, but that isn't because it isn't a good thing to say and to keep saying, or because it is no longer necessary to say it. We wish it were no longer necessary to say it; but it is the sort of counsel that has to be given without ceasing.

That it is still necessary to say it, and that some folks haven't quite grasped it yet, was made clear by a little story in the local columns the other evening about a fine new building that is being completed in Duluth, whose owner plastered across the front of it the admission that he had bought some of the furnishings in Chicago. That isn't doing it for Duluth.

Nor is it doing it for Duluth when you forget, in buying something you need, to go to Duluth dealers and to ask them whether that thing is made in Duluth before you buy something made in another town.

When you buy goods made in Duluth, your money stays in Duluth.

When you buy goods made in some other town, your money goes to that other town.

When your money stays in Duluth it comes back to you in time.

When your money goes to another town it never comes back.

When you buy a Duluth-made product your money goes to build up a Duluth industry, and building up industries is the very thing Duluth is trying hardest to do.

When you buy a product made somewhere else, your money goes to build up the town that product is made in; and while Duluth wishes every other town in the world the best of good fortune, Duluth is tired of building up other towns and proposes to do something for itself.

And in that work of building up Duluth industries as parts of the foundations of a Greater Duluth, patronizing home industries is something that every citizen can do; and it is a thing that is capable of doing more to that end than any possible effort toward bringing new industries here. Duluth wants new industries, and they are coming; but they will come a lot quicker to a town that makes a practice of supporting its industries than they will to a town that builds up the industries of other communities.

If all the out-of-town purchases made by Duluth people were centered upon any single community, it would be the making of that community, for Duluth has great buying power—which means great building power. The industries of that community would prosper and expand, and other industries would go there to get the benefits of that buying from Duluth.

The thing to do is to center that buying and building power, not on some other community—though that would be better than scattering it all over the country, because when we got that favored community built up maybe we could go there to live and prosper—but on Duluth.

DO IT FOR DULUTH!

PEARY AND CONGRESS.

The congressional committee which has been considering the proposition of giving extraordinary honors to Peary for a feat which, while extraordinary, is also extraordinarily valueless, has decided not to do anything for him unless he submits proofs.

That is the only reasonable course for the committee to take. Peary's position apparently is that he will not furnish congress for nothing that which he can sell for a good round sum. That good round sum will be his reward, and if he refuses to prove his case before congress it should be reward enough.

Remember how Peary said that Cook's story of his dash to the pole was absurd because of the amazing rate of speed he must have achieved to get to the pole? It is dramatic justice that Congressman Macon should have pointed out that according to Peary's own story, he could travel only an average of 9.06 miles a day so long as he had white men with him, and that as soon as he left them behind he traveled at the rate of 26.4 miles a day.

What a fearful handicap the company of white men must be in polar achievements!

OLD HIGH PRICES.

Evidently with a view to convincing the present generation that it should be glad of what it has without asking for more, the erudite and reactionary Senator Lodge of Massachusetts has been giving the senate some figures to show that there was a time when prices were even higher than they are now.

He has unearthed a document of the Twenty-fourth congress relating to a proposed increase in the salaries of government clerks, which is accompanied by a schedule of expenses prepared by a clerk. This memorandum shows that sugar was then 14 cents a pound, flour $8 a barrel and illuminating oil $1 a gallon.

"It would appear," said Mr. Lodge, "that there have been other times when prices were high," Then he proceeded to show further that transportation was 10 cents a mile, while now it is 2 cents.

Of course there have been times when prices were higher than they are now. The date of the figures produced by Mr. Lodge is 1836. Going further back than that, he could have found a time when prices were still higher. Doubtless when the Pilgrims and their fellow-makers of America had just landed, and before they had begun to make the soil yield them a livelihood, living was very high indeed. In the stage coach days naturally it cost more per mile to travel than it does now. Before inventive genius had made it possible to produce sugar, oil and flour with modern machinery, prices were very high indeed.

But what has that to do with it? Oil is much cheaper, thanks to a horde of inventors, none of whom are listed in Mr. Rockefeller's class of high finance, but relatively it is about as dear now as it was then. Nobody was accumulating a billion out of its production in those days, but a billionaire grew out of it while the price was being lowered. Evidently the people have not had all the benefits of invention, or there would be no billionaires.

And, with our humblest respects to the wise statesmanship and prodigious learning of the senator from Massachusetts, we submit that because things are better now than they were in 1836 is not a good reason why they shouldn't be still better tomorrow.

THE VOICE OF THE STANDPATTER.

Among the newspaper exchanges of The Herald is one which never misses an opportunity to urge the cause of standpatism in politics, to oppose any proposed exertion of the power of government for the common good, to assail as "Socialistic" or "paternalistic" every measure that looks to the good of the many, and to condemn as "confiscatory" or "anarchistic" every measure that proposes to curtail special privileges or to set a limit upon the opportunity to despoil the worker of the fruits of his labor.

In the issue of that newspaper just arrived is an editorial that begins thus: "It is both amusing and pitiful to listen to the way some men try to show that this generation is going to the dogs." Then it goes on laboriously to prove that conditions now are better than they used to be.

Of course conditions are better than they used to be. Of course, too, things are going to be better in the future than they are now. Always conditions grow better, and they always will grow better until the millennium is achieved.

But the improvement comes in spite of and not because of the standpat newspaper, statesman or citizen. If the country has listened to such advice as that which this eulogist of the present is handing out daily there never would have been any progress. If the country listens to such advice now there never will be any progress. You would think by its contrast of the conditions of yesterday with those of today that there is no possibility of further improvement. There is possibility of improvement; not only possibility of it, but a certainty of it. And it is just as certain that improvement will come with the standpatter opposing it at every step.

Today is much better than yesterday, and yesterday was much better than the day before. Today the standpatter points to the progress made since yesterday, and fights against making tomorrow better still. Yesterday the standpatter was pointing to the progress made since day before yesterday, and fighting the attempts that made the improvement of today possible. And so it goes, clear back into the mists of antiquity.

Always the progressive pushes forward, and always the reactionary pulls back. And that's a wise dispensation of Providence, too. If all were radicals we should go so fast that we would surely tumble over a precipice and into an abyss of some sort. If all were reactionaries stagnation and dry rot would be their achievement. So there are both; a force to pull us ahead and a force to hold back: and the force that pulls ahead fortunately is a little stronger than the force that holds back.

The reactionary has his uses, therefore, but that doesn't mean that he should be made captain and given full control. That would be stagnation, and stagnation means decay. When he tells us how much better today is than yesterday, we should tell him that that is no reason why tomorrow shouldn't be much better than today; and we should make it clear to him that as the progress since yesterday was gained against his protests, the progress of tomorrow will be made in spite of his protests.

A CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE'S DREAM.

It was related in a dispatch to The Herald from Washington last evening that the Republican congressional campaign committee is planning to grab ex-President Roosevelt as soon as he returns and book him for an extended campaigning tour through the insurgent West during the coming congressional campaign.

In other words, the organization, being powerless to stem the rising tide of revolt against the mischievous influences in full control of the Republican party, proposes to turn the job over to Roosevelt. If the West doesn't think Aldrich and Cannon are quite the proper headlights for the Republican party, Roosevelt is to be asked to come out to the West and tell it that they are.

As Roosevelt had more to do than any other man with setting the prairie fire of independence and insurgency that is so embarrassing to the smooth management of public affairs in the interest of private plunder, naturally he is the very man needed to put it out—if he will. And we are quite willing to go this far with the Republican congressional campaign committee: if anybody can put out that fire Roosevelt can.

Whether Roosevelt is willing to lend himself thus to the effort to undo the splendid work he did as president, and to bend his strenuous energy to the task of smothering the public consciousness which he awakened, is another question altogether. Col. Roosevelt is a good party man. He believes in the Republican party. It is highly improbable, however, that he believes that Aldrich and Cannon are the Republican party. Whether he thinks it or not, the truth is either that Roosevelt is the Republican party, or that the Republican party is dead and hasn't yet been convinced of the fact.

There is still another question, greater even than that whether Roosevelt will fall into the pretty scheme laid out for him by the Republican organization. That is whether, even if he wished to do so, it is possible for Roosevelt to put out the fire of revolt against the corrupt organization of his party. That splendid fire is about all the fire there is left in the Republican party. If it is put out, there is no life or excuse for living left in the party. Col. Roosevelt knows that full well. We don't believe he will help or try to put it out. We don't believe that he could put it out if he tried.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FEEDS FIVE ON $10.94 A MONTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A. P. Cook says that a family of six can live on $26 a month, but we are a family of five and we can live on $10.94 a month. I think every family of the same size could live on that amount, without fuel and rent.

We all admit that the amount of money is not enough to feed six people sufficiently, but it could be managed better than Mr. Cook has laid it out. Let me suggest a more wholesome list of food articles for $10.94 a month, and I hope that many need not pinch as hard as I do. All I need to feed my family each month is:

Half sack flour	$1.80
50 lb sugar	3.00
Meat, per day, 10c	3.00
2 lb roasted barley (instead of coffee)	.10
2 lb cottelene	.30
1 bu potatoes	.60
2 lb butter	.70
Salt	.05
2 pieces laundry soap	.10
1 gallon oil	.14
Yeast foam	.05
Salt herring	.10
Half peck apples	.25
Matches	.05
1 lb rice	.10
Street car fare	.60
Total	$10.94

I believe the list still looks bad without cake on the table.

A DULUTH WOMAN,
Duluth, March 9.

A NUISANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Is there not some law or city ordinance prohibiting the unloading of cement, sand and other fine matter on Superior street on a windy day? If there is not, there should be; and if there is, why is it not enforced? Yesterday was a particularly windy day, and the whole block on Superior street between Fourth and Fifth avenues west was made very disagreeable when several loads of fine sand were dumped, part on the ground but mostly in the air. It got in people's eyes, soiled clothing and made many a Duluthian swear. The driver of the rig seemed to get huge enjoyment out of the fact that people did not care for it, and he called the attention of his helper to the humorous efforts of people who were doing their best to plow through it. The dust came in clouds and was so thick that one was unable to see. I have noticed at different times, especially on windy days, that cement and other matter that gives out fine dust is handled in no careful manner. There was a policeman standing near at the time of the incident I speak of yesterday, but he seemed to be enjoying the efforts of the people quite as much as the driver. Our streets and buildings must be repaired, but some method should be devised whereby the improvements would not interfere with the comfort of the walkers.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Since the subject will not down, please allow me a word in the discussion started by Mr. Cook's figures relative to the cost of "existing" in Duluth.

I think the bill of fare given by Mr. Cook to be very extravagant.

Explorers have been known to "exist" on a limited supply of boiled shoe leather. Therefore an average person should get fat on, say, a half loaf of bread per day, with plenty of 'Duluth's best' to wash it down. If made at home this would cost for a family of six about $4 per month. Also in view of the fact that 100 lumberjacks are often housed in one-room camps in the woods, a family of six should be quite comfortable in one room. Perhaps they could even take in a roomer or two. The question of fuel need not be considered as the winters in Duluth are becoming such that a fire can be classed as a luxury. Allowing $2 for a room, the total bill would be $6 per month, the remaining $20 from the $26 allowed by Mr. Cook could be invested in copper stocks. It is not advisable that so many families try this scheme at once as there may be some slight flaws in it yet to be worked out. Yours truly.

JOHN WISE GUY.
Duluth, March 9.

FACETIOUS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is amusing how these workmen are kicking about their insufficient fare. One really has to laugh! I presume the peasants of Russia put up the same kind of a howl before they got down to their black bread and sauerkraut. Goodness, they ought to know that we won't let them starve. We "cawn't" afford to—they are too useful. We have to allow them food to make enough strength to build our roads and our houses and to produce the things we eat and wear, and to produce their young to take the place of those who drop out.

Now I've been looking over Mr. Cook's list and it's really lavish. Why a common laborer can sit down to a dinner of a spoonful of beans, nearly a third of a loaf of bread, and a sliver of salt pork beside one forty-second of a quart of syrup, and tea all at one meal! Better cut out that tea—20-cent tea is too rich for his blood, anyhow. I fail to find clothing or soap on his list but there must be a rind on the pork. Let him rub it over him and keep quiet. Perhaps nature will grow wool or feathers on him—goose feathers, for if he wasn't such a goose he would have voted the Socialist ticket the rest of us, but really that would never do, for if there wasn't any under crust to society how could there be any upper crust—I "cawn't" see.

ONE OF THE UPPER CRUST.
Duluth, March 8.

My Kingdom.

At last the day is over,
Good-by to toil and pain,
I hasten to my kingdom,
My kingdom down the lane.

My queen is at the portal,
She waits to welcome me;
And at the gate I meet them
My royal subjects, three.

We march into the castle,
And 'round on every side
I view the many treasures
That are my joy and pride.

We dine in royal splendor,
A gay and festive scene,
Because of a light so tender,
In the dark eyes of my queen.

And when the feast is over,
They crown me Lord and King,
We gather about the fireside.
To laugh and talk and sing.

I challenge you to find,
I challenge you to try,
In all this wide world over,
A happier King than I.

—Della McGovern.

Heroism.

Thoreau: What a hero one can be without moving a finger! The world is not a field worthy of us, nor can we be satisfied with the plains of Troy. A glorious strife seems waging within us, yet so noiselessly that we but catch the sound of the clarion ringing of victory, borne to us on the breeze. There are in each the seeds of an heroic ardor, which need only be stirred in with the soil where they lie, by an inspired voice or pen, to bear fruit of a divine flavor.

Up to Date.

Hey diddle, diddle, the cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon;
The Beef Trust laughed to see the rise,
And the citizen dined on a prune.

—New York American.

MILD

The mild weather continues, though there is slight raw March touch in the air today. The overcast sky threatens, but the predictions promised neither rain or snow. The lowest temperature last night was 18 deg. and yesterday the mercury went to 34. Cloudy and slightly warmer weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today was fair and the air was snappy.

The sun rose this morning at 6:31 and it will set at 6:06, giving eleven hours and thirty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on the weather conditions:

"Light rains fell over Northeastern Texas, Northern Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee and portions of Missouri in connection with a slight barometric disturbance central this morning over the Western Gulf region. Another depression overlying Northern Saskatchewan caused some snow or rain over Wyoming, Montana, Western South Dakota and Manitoba during the past twenty-four hours, together with an increase in temperature over Most northwestern districts. The barometer is high over the Lake region, Middle states and Northwestern Wyoming. Somewhat cooler weather prevails over the greater part of the South and North Atlantic states.

"Indications favor partly cloudy to threatening weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Postage Stamps.

Success Magazine: Postage stamps constitute one of our national products which refuse to yield to civilizing influences.

They have several bad habits of which they ought to be cured. In the first place, they do not rise in price with that airy ebullience for which justly famous. They don't even fluctuate. Almost any professor of political economy will admit that this is a gross error. There ought to be seasons of the year when postage stamps fluctuate violently, so that the poor men could not afford them at all. In that way postage stamps would now and then provide an outlet for some ambitious soul to make his name forever revered by securing a corner in them, to say nothing of the smaller fry who could make handsome livings year in and year out by buying and selling stamps on margin.

Another difficulty is that one knows exactly what one is buying, for they cannot be adulterated. Anything that is properly civilized ought to lend itself readily to adulteration.

Furthermore, the price of postage stamps does not yield readily to car shortages, strikes, tariffs, free coinage of silver, big sticks, political oratory, investigating committees, sectional jealousies or yellow journalism.

Our postage stamps have been altogether too conservative, and our leniency with them has almost reached the breaking point.

Advertising Cities.

Hugh C. Weir in Putnam's: This is one of the methods of civic advertising which the capital of Illinois follows: In the office of its chamber of commerce a unique file case is maintained. It is filled with newspaper clippings from the four points of the compass. Many of them are press dispatches; some are announcements of new manufacturing companies; while still others refer to factories seeking new locations or planning new additions. To the individual or firm mentioned in the article, either a letter or a telegram is promptly dispatched, presenting the peculiar advantages of Springfield for commercial purposes, and perhaps calling attention to a parcel of descriptive literature following by express. If the situation is urgent, permission is requested to send a personal representative of the city to explain its attractions in detail.

Whirling across the continent to another city of the same name—Springfield, Mass.—we find the chamber of commerce offering a prize of $500 for the best plan to exploit the municipality's advantages. The idea which won the award a short time ago called for an annual expenditure of $25,000. It outlined a campaign of printer's ink, ranging from the distribution of advertising buttons, like those used in political campaigns; to the publication of a monthly magazine.

Augustus Thomas, Reporter.

New York Telegraph: Augustus Thomas was dilating on his life as a newspaper man the other day.

He was exposed to his first experience as a journalist in St. Louis, and he entered upon his duties with considerable ambition, and, above all, a high literary spirit. His first contribution was well written, allusive, stylish, epigrammatic, but in a sense recondite. His editor, a kindly and genial man, read the copy before he sent it up to the composing room.

Then he called Augustus Thomas over to him. "Mr. Thomas," said he, "this article is well written — very well written. I understand it perfectly. But I am afraid that the majority of our readers, not being classically educated, will be unable to do so. Nor can the paper at present afford to send out with each copy a man who will demonstrate your meaning to each reader.

"Therefore, I must ask you to simplify."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

A well-known real estate agent has gone East to secure capital to build an apartment house that will be something new to Duluth. The building will contain a large number of bachelor apartments and will be under the management of a competent hotel man, who will look after the eating accommodations.

Miss Simonds is in Minneapolis, where she will study music under Prof. Emil Zoch.

S. A. Thompson, editor of the News, has returned from Battle Creek sanitarium considerably improved in health.

At a meeting of the Methodist societies of Duluth and vicinity, the following committee was appointed to organize a Methodist social union: First church, A. W. Bradley, J. B. Scovill and R. H. Harris; Grace church, C. Webber; Oneota church; C. C. Merritt; West Duluth church, John E. Fossett; Park Place church, A. E. Brown; Two Harbors, Rev. Mr. Merritt. The pastors of the city churches are also members of the committee.

Sunday was a damp day under foot, but there was many a dry gullet in Duluth, directly resulting from Mayor Davis' enforcement of the laws. Saturday afternoon the letter carriers delivered to every saloonkeeper a written notice, inclosing a copy of the law regarding the closing of saloons at 11 p. m. and keeping their places closed from Saturday night until Monday morning. This was followed during the evening by a personal notice from the chief of police that the law was to be enforced, and the edict was carried out. The streets wore a very quiet aspect, and the unusual sight was presented of every saloon with front screens removed and blinds up, showing the interior plainly. There was a largely increased traffic on the short line trains to West Superior and the saloons there did a larger business than usual. Mayor Davis is well satisfied with the result of the first Sunday experience and will make the enforcement permanent.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Having Trouble.

Walker Pilot: The politicians who are proclaiming Governor Eberhardt as the man of the hour, appear to be having some trouble in getting the voters to think for a minute that there is anything to it.

They're Bully Managers, Too.

Fairmont Sentinel: One reason why Democrats favor the nomination of John Lind for governor is that it would obviate the expense and necessity of opening headquarters. The people would manage his campaign.

His Ideas Are Sound.

Rush City Post: W. A. Howard of Mora, distinguished himself at Duluth by making a real ringing, sensible speech. It was full of clean-clipped wisdom, and equal to the utterances of the best orators of the land. Howard ought to go to congress.

What to Do With the Cabinet.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: President Taft ought to take the man who picked out his cabinet for him down to the Potomac some morning and push him in. From Wickersham, the Standard Oil graduate, and Knox, the Morgan puppet, down through Ballinger, the Guggenheimer attorney, and Hitchcock, the Cannon-Aldrich machinist, to old "Granny" Wilson, there is not one man of any force and power in the cabinet who is a friend of the people. McVeagh is all right but what chance has he when Aldrich and Cannon control the finances of the country? A thorough house cleaning in the White House some afternoon when the cabinet happened to be in session would do more to put the Taft administration right than almost anything else.

Tax Wealth, Not Poverty.

Albert Lea Standard: A true democratic principle is to tax wealth, not poverty, and until this is accomplished by the election of trustworthy state legislators and congressmen, Privilege, the favored classes, will have the advantage and continue to rule.

Do You Really "Hope"?

Foley Independent: We sincerely hope the present session of congress will do something definite toward establishing a tariff commission for there has already been too much juggling with that subject. It is a matter for political economists, not political scientists.

Not In It For Health.

Willmar Journal: The rottenness of the professional politicians is plainly discerned by the trades and deals they are continually trying to put through. And especially is Ramsey county full of just such political rottenness. Just as long as there are kept men, who will say to other candidates, turn over your votes to my candidate and I will turn my votes to you, just as long will honest men try to keep out of politics. Would that some of the trading tricksters in the Republican party of Minnesota were gotten rid of before the next campaign!

A Real Dilemma.

Fairmont Sentinel: If the Minnesota Republican congressmen in their campaign speeches uphold Taft and the tariff and shio subsidy and Ballinger and the corporation cabinet, they are sure to go down to defeat and if they don't they have no business in the Republican party. Wonder which horn of the dilemma they will take.

A Dialogue in the House.

Congressional Record: Mr. Henry of Texas—Does the gentleman from Illinois think the price of beef is too high in Chicago?

Mr. Boutell—Well, with prime heavy steers selling in the gentleman's district at $10 upon the hoof, I do not see how the people in Chicago can buy them for $6 on the hoof. Does the gentleman want to repeal the duty on cattle?

Mr. Henry of Texas—I will answer the gentleman.

Mr. Boutell—Does the gentleman want to repeal the duty on cattle to help lower the price?

Mr. Henry of Texas—I hope to make myself explicit, and shall plainly answer all questions before concluding. Where we in Texas get $80 for a Texas steer, the beef trust gets $400 and much more from the starving citizens of Chicago and the people throughout the country.

Mr. Boutell—Then will the gentleman from Texas favor the repeal of the duty on cattle?

Mr. Henry of Texas—I want to ask the gentleman how will you reduce the price? You say it is too high in Chicago.

Mr. Boutell—Will you repeal the duty on cattle?

Mr. Henry of Texas—I will agree to repeal every protective duty in your bill and the duty on meats dressed and shipped into this country. And, furthermore, I will agree to put every one of those beef trust magnates in the penitentiary. Will the gentleman from Chicago help me to the same thing? (Applause on the Democratic side.)

Mr. Boutell—To whom does the gentleman refer?

Mr. Henry of Texas—The beef trust.

Mr. Boutell—Who are the beef trust?

Mr. Henry of Texas—Do you not know? And you from Chicago! If you do not, then those starving children will haunt you in your dreams, and their fathers will be swift to remove you from congress. (Applause on the Democratic side.) Now, I decline to yield further, just as the gentleman did the other day.

Mr. Boutell—That is a very excellent place to stop.

Wasn't He Lucky?

National Monthly: "Oh, Mr. Murphy," exclaimed Mrs. Halligan, stopping him as he tried to slip by, "did you hear how the drawings turned out at the fair last night?"

"No," he replied resignedly. "Who won?"

"Now wait till I tell you. Who, do you think won the first prize?"

"I don't know. Who?"

"My little girl, Katie. Wasn't she lucky?"

"Indeed, and she was."

"And who, do you think, won the second? My little boy Willie. Wasn't he lucky?"

Mr. Murphy didn't say anything.

"And Mr. Murphy, who, do you think, won the third prize? You'd never guess." She was right. He couldn't. "I did, myself, Mr. Murphy. Wasn't I lucky?"

"You were all lucky, I'm thinking, Mrs. Halligan. By the way," he remarked after a moment, "did I ever pay you for the chances I took?"

"Why no, Mr. Murphy, that reminds me. You didn't."

"Wasn't I lucky?"

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Are you still taking a cold plunge every morning?"

"No; I quit doing that to save time."

"Why, a cold plunge doesn't take but a minute or two."

"I know, but I used to spend three-quarters of an hour curled up in bed, hesitating."

Catholic Times: Wise—Don't get foolish just because you've had a little money left to you. You'd better be economical now.

Gailey—Ah, it's too hard!

Wise— But if you don't live economically now you'll have to later.

Gailey—Well it isn't so hard to be economical when you have to.

Fliegende Blaetter: "Do you mean to say you are thinking of a divorce already? Why, you've only been married three months."

"Do you think I had better wait a little longer?"

Yonkers Statesman: "Have you ever seen an Italian sunset?" asked the artist.

"No, I never have," replied the lady in the studio.

"Well, that painting of mine over there is an Italian sunset."

"Oh, indeed! And does it look anything like it?"

Washington Star: "Father," said little Rollo, "what is an insurgent?"

"An insurgent, my son, is differently defined. Some regard him as a person who defies the lightning; others as one who does not know enough to come in out of the wet."

Illustrated Bits: Wife—You promised that if I would marry you my every wish would be gratified.

Husband—Well, isn't it?

Wife—No; I wish I hadn't married you.

Catholic Standard and Times: "After all" said the optimist, "the best of luck is only what you make it yourself."

"It's all well enough for you to talk," growled the pessimist, "but I never get anything but bad luck."

"Well, then, it's up to you to make the best of it."

Yonkers Statesman: Patience—Anything unusual about her wedding?

Patrice—Oh, yes; she didn't get any duplicate presents.

Kansas City Times: "Why don't they hold the prize fights in Nevada?"

"Why, that state is so opposed to fighting that its chief industry is the Reno divorce mill."

Houston Post: "I shall not wed until I can marry a hero."

"Well, you show the first man who proposes to you a schedule of the cost of living and if he still asks you to take him for your meal ticket he is a hero."

The Circle: "Is it so, that you used to call regularly on that girl?"

"Yes; she always sang a song to me that I loved."

"Why didn't you marry her?"

"I found I could buy the song for 50 cents."

Life: Harold—Do you speculate?
Harold—Well, I'm engaged to you.

Judge: Clerk—This is an imported skate that can be put on in three seconds.

Customer—But I wish a pair for my best girl.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The greatest social gift is having plenty of money.

Not enough good folk die young to keep the death rate decreasing.

All you have to do to want a thing so you can't sleep about it is not to be able to get it.

Old age has as short a memory about the error of its youth as a long one about its virtues.

The worst thing about marring a woman is how many of her family you have to marry at the same time.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Pay as you go—but don't go too often.

Many a man has to be scared into being good.

When an aeroplane chauffeur drops, it's all up with him.

A man reaps what he sows and rips what his wife sews.

If you would please your neighbor say less than you think.

When a fool gets angry he furnishes the proof of his foolishness.

No, Cordelia, it isn't called "common sense" because it is so common.

His santanic majesty seldom wastes any time trying to tempt a busy man.

A man's opinions are subject to change—save the good one he has of himself.

Anyway, spinsters and old bachelors always agree as to how children should be brought up.

A woman shouldn't be foolish about her age. It's often better to tell the truth than have it guessed at.

After it is all over the average man wastes a lot of time telling what he would do if he had another chance.

How absurd it is that the young man in love with a pretty girl never thinks to investigate her cooking until it is too late.

Book Companionship.

Jeremy Collier: Books are a guide in youth and an entertainment for age. They support us under solitude and keep us from being a burthen to ourselves. They help us to forget the crossness of men and things; compose our cares and our passions; and lay our disappointments asleep. When we are weary of the living we may repair to the dead, who have nothing of peevishness, pride or design in their conversation.

Sinister Good Wishes.

Newton, Ill., Democrat: J. I. Hiles is talking of moving to Yale to do undertaking. He says he can do more business in that capacity at Yale than in Hunt City. The writer wisher to see John do well wherever he goes.

HOSPITAL IS INSPECTED

Anti-Tuberculosis Committee Visits Sanitarium at Poor Farm.

Members Much Pleased With Manner in Which Work Is Conducted.

The Duluth anti-tuberculosis committee spent an hour yesterday looking over the new county hospital recently built at the poor farm for the St. Louis county tubercular patients.

In speaking of the trip Bentley P. Neff, chairman of the committee, said:

"We were more than pleased with the result of our trip. While the new hospital does not come under the jurisdiction of the city committee we of course are intensely interested in anything which will tend to increase the efficiency of the system of taking care of tubercular patients, and as the city nurse is giving her services temporarily to the county board we thought we would like to go out and look the proposition over.

Dr. Tuohy, E. A. Silberstein, C. L. Rakowski and myself were greatly interested in what we saw. The building is a substantial affair built of concrete, 135 feet long and especially arranged for the treatment of tubercular patients. We found seventeen men and one woman receiving treatment. They were just at dinner when we arrived and their food was well prepared and wholesome. Everything was as clean and neat as possible. Each patient has some little duty to perform and everything possible is done to make them comfortable.

"The county poor board deserves the greatest possible credit for the whole hearted and intelligent manner in which it has carried out this work. Mrs. Florence Lee, our city nurse, is warm in her praise of the courtesy and consideration of the county board and of Mr. Melby, the superintendent of the poor farm. Mr. Melby has taken a great interest in this new project, and in many different ways has done much to add to the comfort of the patients and nurses as well.

"Mrs. Lee will remain at the hospital only a week or ten days longer, after which the work will be in charge of Miss Keague, who is with Mrs. Lee at present, getting the work organized.

"A visit of this nature seeing the work done in a scientific and practical manner was a great inspiration to the committee to continue its endeavors and a meeting of the general committee to plan the work for the ensuing year has been called for next Wednesday evening."

PENNSLYVANIA UNIONS ALLOW BUT TEN DAYS FOR ARBITRATION

general state-wide strike will depend, according to the committee.

The convention unanimously adopted the committee report.

After the "Open Shops."

Philadelphia, March 10.—Encouraged by the success which has met their efforts at breaking into the ranks of unorganized labor and persuading several thousand workmen in this city to join the general strike movement, union labor leaders continued the campaign today to swell the army of sympathizing strikers.

Baldwin's Locomotive Works, where 2,000 men quit yesterday and which was considered almost impregnable against the attacks of unionism, was again the object of much attention, the labor leaders hoping to add to the ranks of idle men before the close of the day.

Success in penetrating Baldwin's works is likely to lead to moves against other large industrial plants that are considered "open shop" places.

Claim 125,000 Are Out.

The Central Labor union Committee of Ten which is conducting the general strike has given out figures to support the assertion that between 125,000 and 150,000 persons are idle. The exact total number of men, women, boys and girls on strike up to last night as figured by the committee was 139,571. The members gave out the following approximate details:

Building trades, 40,000; metal trades, 20,000; textile trades, 20,000; garment workers, men's wear, 10,000; garment workers, women's wear, 9,000.

Miscellaneous trades:

Asbestos workers, 105; cloth hat and cap workers, 210; cigar makers, 2,500; shirtwaist and laundry workers, 1,000; piano movers, 151; bakers and confectioners, 341; paviors and rammers, 468; suspender makers, 211; electrical workers, 365; waiters, 410; upholsterers, 142; street hackmen, 110; chauffeurs, 150; street car men, 6,200; hatters, 972.

Some Not Affiliated.

According to the labor committee the following affiliated workers are on strike:

Lawn mower makers, 300; glaziers, 178; American Hoe & Shovel company, 161; National Cutlery company, 84; butchers, 300; sheet metal workers, 500; worsted weavers, 1,700; stone masons, 550; laborers, 250; wood carvers, 125; mast and carpet mills, 400; Germania carpet mills, 300; rolling spring works, 200; Wallace Hosiery company, 500; Baldwin Locomotive works, 6,000; Bement Miles & Co., 900; Harrington Machine company, 125; Newton Machine shop, 320; lace curtain operators, 600; Cramps shipyard, heater boys, 150.

Some of the above figures are disputed by the city authorities and large employers. Officials of Baldwin's Locomotive works deelare that only one-third of the number of men the union asserts are on strike.

The Transit company today operated more cars than any day since the strike was inaugurated. A few attacks were made on the new crews, but the disturbances were confined to the outlying sections and were not serious.

Trouble at Ball Park.

Trouble, it was said, might come today if the police and labor leaders clashed over a proposed demonstration of strike sympathizers at the grounds of the Philadelphia National League baseball club. To the decision of the director of public safety that the parade would not be allowed to take place and that the gathering was in conflict with the proclamation issued by the mayor forbidding all gatherings on the streets, the strikers' attorney replied that the police power could not abolish the constitutional rights of citizens to peacefully assemble for a lawful purpose.

The baseball club is enlarging the seating capacity of the park, and the improvement was stopped when the general strike was begun. The management asked the union leaders to permit the contractor to continue his work, and the permission was granted on condition that the club will let the strikers use the grounds for a mass meeting today. This was quickly agreed to, but when the city authorities heard of it they declared the meeting would not be permitted.

"Same as a Hall."

Counsel for the strikers insists that legally the ball park is the same as a hall, as the grounds are inclosed, and the authorities have no right to stop the meeting.

The baseball management, realizing that the city authorities were in earnest in the declaration that the open air mass meeting would not be allowed today, decided not to give the strikers the use of the grounds unless a permit was issued by the police department. The call for a mass meeting had gone out, however, and a crowd was expected to gather at the grounds, Broad street and Lehigh avenue, nearly three miles from the center of the city.

The general strike leaders declared today that 300 additional men had quit at the Baldwin Locomotive Works. This was disputed by the superintendent of the plant, who said that only 400 failed to report for work today.

Break in Taxi Drivers.

There was a big break in the ranks of the union taxicab chauffeurs who went out in sympathy with the trolley men. The three taxicab companies reported today that 115 out of a total of about 275 taxicab drivers had returned to work. The companies are making no attempts to fill the places of the striking chauffeurs.

The Value of Sunken Logs.

The recovery of sunken logs from old, abandoned lumber mill ponds has become a profitable industry to many parts of the country, especially in some of the timber regions of the South. The fact that timber is not injured by being submerged in the water makes the logs obtained from this source just as valuable as newly cut timber, if not more so. The recovery of good health and good appetite may be gained through the daily use of Golden Grain Belt beer. Taken with your meals regularly it will aid your digestion, steady your nerves and build you up physically. BOOM FOR FOLK FOR PRESIDENT IS STARTED.

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—Missouri Democrats want Minnesota to join them in supporting Joseph W. Folk for president. Lon Sanders of St. Louis, advance agent for the Folk boomers, arrived in St. Paul yesterday and will spend two days in the Twin Cities interviewing Democratic leaders and learning what the sentiment is for Folk.

According to Mr. Sanders, Minnesota is the first state to be visited and prospected for the Missouri candidate. He is not in politics and has never held office, but is president of the Sanders Engraving company of St. Louis and was one of the original backers of the former governor in his political career.

BEEF BARONS GOOD HOSTS.

Man Who Served Indictment Notices Has Good Time.

New York, March 10.—With tales of tempting luncheons and other entertainments, Detective Frank Bennett has returned to Jersey City after serving notice of indictment on the Chicago packers.

"I served most of them personally," said Bennett, "including J. Ogden Armour, A. Watson Armour, the Swifts and the others. They treated me royally, invited me out and most of them knew just when to expect me as they had luncheon or dinner all ready for me.

"Of course, I could not accept all of their kindnesses, and I pleaded a rush of business as an excuse. None of them gave me the least inkling of what they proposed to do about it. They just smiled, said nice things, and were very polite."

SAYS TEDDY WAS SAFE IN AFRICA

Peter MacQueen States That the Dangers Were Greatly Exaggerated.

Peter MacQueen, the African explorer, who spoke last night at the First Methodist church, said that Roosevelt was just as safe while braving the mysteries of the African forests as he would have been in the hammock on the left wing of the White House at Washington. Mr. MacQueen has gone over all the territory made by the ex-president and he took a large number of pictures which he showed last night.

Mr. MacQueen told of some thrilling adventures that took place in Africa and displayed pictures of the various kinds of game hunted in that country.

The lecture was one of those arranged by the Star lecture course committee. Jacob Riis of New York will contribute the next lecture in the series.

Insurance companies, having paid policies on Ager's life, prosecuted Harrington as well as the merchant. Ager was given a sentence of from two to fourteen years and Harrington was given the same.

Washington, March 10.—The cruiser Birmingham is returning to Norfolk with a boat which, it is now certain, belonged to the tug Nina, which foundered off the Delaware capes, recently. This is taken as final proof of the loss of the tug. The next step will be the issue of the formal notice of the loss and the payments of two months' wages to the dependent relatives of the lost sailors of the crew.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

WILL DULUTH HAVE CREW

Question Whether Boat Club Will Send Eight to Kenora Regatta.

Apathy in Present Situation ---No Coach or Candidates or Organization.

(BY BRUCE)

Is the Duluth Boat club going to have a crew the present season?

Nobody seems to know.

Oarsmen are asking each other the question. No one can give a definite answer. There seems to be no head to the movement. The president of the club is out of the city, and the matter of engaging a professional coach seems to be in abeyance, at least for the time being.

If Duluth is going to be represented at the Kenora events, it is time that a husky crowd of candidates was at work out on the machines. The machines have been deserted and, as a matter of fact, are out of repair. Everything seems "up in the air."

The men who have generally assumed charge of the rowing affairs of the club have indicated that they are going to wait and see what the oarsmen are going to do. The oarsmen seem to be waiting to ascertain what the officials of the club are going to do.

Some one ought to act as mediator and bring the two parties together.

The question of coach has not been settled. The officials are waiting to see how many promising candidates can be lined up. The members of last year's crew and some of the men who have announced an intention of coming out for the crew, are waiting to see who is employed to coach.

In a wee, short time the St. Paul candidates will be rowing on the turbulent Mississippi. They have a habit at St. Paul of getting out on the water when the ice is behaving like the Eliza scene in that pathetic play "Uncle Tom's Cabin." They will be well advanced by the time the candidates of the local crew are shivering and spluttering on the raging main of the bay.

Something should be decided upon and decided in a hurry. If the rowing department drags along in a half-hearted way, it might as well be dropped, for Duluth will never return laden with loving cups unless the candidates get out and hustle.

Last season a good deal of spirit was shown during the latter part of the training period, with the result that Duluth journeyed to St. Paul and made an excellent showing; the best showing that two Duluth crews have made since the halcyon days of rowing in this city.

If the crew, or crews, get out and train hard the present season under a competent coach, there is no reason why Duluth cannot drag down the junior eight-oared event at Kenora.

A mass meeting is suggested. The members of the Duluth Boat club and the business men of the city should be enthused to take an interest in the crew. A campaign for candidates should be inaugurated. There is no use in permitting the situation to drag along as it is at the present time.

Some decided action should be taken at once or the crew should be abandoned.

"JIM" McLENNAN WINS THE BAGLEY

Takes Final Contest From Phil Heimick on Sticky Ice.

"Jim" McLennan's rink last night, on sticky ice at the Duluth Curling club, won the Bagley event by defeating Phil Heimick's rink, 14 to 5 in the final contest for possession of the trophy.

The ice was in poor shape following the warm weather. The final contest was far more interesting than the score would indicate. McLennan's men played the more consistent game, however, and they were never in danger of losing out.

The Helmick rink consisted of Sheridan, Blackmarr and McGregor. The McLennan rink consisted of Ned Congdon, William White and Charles McLennan.

There is but one more event to be finished, the Manley-McLennan. This event is played squad style and nearly all the squad winners have been determined. Last night Roy Deetz defeated Dinham in this event, 14 to 5.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE)

Some wise sporting nabob of the East has suggested that Jeffries hire a trainer.

This advice may sound funny to some of you, when you think that Jeff has had a retinue of handlers and instructors around him upon his recent tour of the country.

But the nabob who came forth from the bush with the sage advice—sage bush—is right in the premises. It is the intelligent trainer that brings the athlete to the physical point where he is capable of exerting every ounce of his physical energy. When a man gets beyond that point he is stale and incapable of putting up a great or even good fight.

Why have men like Mike Murphy and Keene Fitzpatrick had such great success with the athletes and the athletic teams they have handled? Simply because they knew the nervous organization of man, his moods and his temperament.

That is just what the men around the delicate Jeff don't know. We use the word delicate advisely, because there is nothing more delicate in this mundane sphere than the organism of a trained athlete. It can be abused with the slightest mistake—therefor it would only seem rational that Jeff should employ some one who understands the function of the human body, the amount of work that is good for it, and when that body has reached a stage where it has had enough work.

Jim Corbett, Frank Gotch and Farmer Burns! Old Billy Delaney would be worth the trio together. Gotch might possibly do the ex-champion some good in roughing it with him, but aside from that his advice upon conditioning would be valueless.

If Jeff employs some great trainer, the fight public would have much more confidence that he was going to be in better shape when the bel calls the men together.

John Schmirler continues to play with the enthusiasm shown by a crossroads nine at the county fair. He is sojourning with the second division of the Chicago White Sox, and in the game of the day before yesterday fanned the entire side in the fourth inning. He also had a putout and an assist and no errors. If the Schmirler boy can keep up the tabasco gait he has hit the first chapter of the season there may be hope that he will gain a regular and lower berth with the Comiskey tribe.

But, Patrickla, the season is merely an infant as yet. It has not been weaned as yet and the sheep and the baseball goats have not been separated from each other. Therefore, and for that reason, it is very much 4:40 a. m. to begin wondering or hoping what our fellow townsman will do out in the big league meadow, where the grazing is sweet and lucre long.

It is to be hoped that Wausau John will make good with a vengeance and also with the Comiskey Sox. He is a nice boy, good to look at, with grown-up manners and as quiet as a man with the quinsy. He has a nice graceful appearance in the box and would make a splendid adornment for any team. However, we are only suggesting the possibilities in the case. Schmirler is that—at least, the indications would point that way.

This evening there will be a party in honor of Mr. Person. All of his friends are cordially invited to be on hand to witness the massage act he hopes to do to the large and determined person of Hank Ordemann.

Henrick is a Norsk. He reminds one of what his forefathers, the ones that sailed the sea and pillaged wherever the pillaging was good, must have been. Henry is mild and easily placated, but once he is rolled he is like a Kansas cyclone that has been delayed in starting and is attempting to crawl along on the schedule.

Person is a Dane of the Battling Nelson disposition. He is enduring and stubborn when pressed too hard. He likes the going rough and doesn't mind what the other fellow does in the least, so long as he does not employ a canthook of meatax.

There has been considerable rivalry between the two men of a generally sunny-dispositioned race, and if the flood tide of feeling is loosened, there might be a squall on the wrestling mat.

They are only going to charge 100 cold, grinning, smirking simeoleons to witness the undoing of either Mr. Jeffries or Mr. Johnson. If you are real enthusiastic and have a bundle of currency that would make a music roll look like a piece of macaroni that has been ill nurished in its growing period, you might attend the fight and really enjoy the holocaust.

One hundred beans, right in one jump, is an awful piece of currency to give to anybody but the meat man. That fellow that tends door for Messrs. Gleason and Rickard will get seasick gazing at the green waves of currency that will come floating into the ticket window. He will also probably be watched by a couple near relatives of the promoters, to keenly observe that he does not, purely by malicious mistake, wrap one or two of the high denomination boys into a roll in his vest pocket.

This life is a jolly place, if you are where you can get the proper slant at it. To Messrs. Gleason and Rickard it will probably seem as lovely as the roses when those ginks come trooping through like the Campbells on parade, each one slyly and deferentially dropping a one-hundred case into the strong box.

If Johnson or Jeffries should happen to win the very first punch, some of the holders of $100 coupons might have reason to feel like the man who bought a gold mine that was not. The man who sits in the $100 seats is taking as much chance as the fighters.

The ease and dexterity with which Frank Augustus Gotch is heaving the shoulders of challengers and near-champion wrestlers to the mat, leads to the natural query as to what will happen to Stan Zbyszko when he hooks with the pride of Humboldt.

Zbyszko may prove that he is no more capable of beating the champion than the other wrestlers who have come over from the other side. Then again he may prove that he is the man built to sink the ship. There is no way of doping this Zbyszko person from the standards of the ordinary wrestler.

Therefore, though he has not displayed the skill in getting the shoulders of his opponents to the mat as quickly as that master of ceremony, Frankie Gotch, it may be that Zby will prove a mulish cuss when it comes to having his own blades pressed gently on the canvass.

This is no prediction that the ponderous Pole will thrust the shoulders of Frank to the resin; it is nothing like that. Frank is one of the hard ones to pin. But it is only gently hinting that when Gotch and the Pole get together the match will be harder than many would in the course of natural events suppose.

NEW YORK AMERICANS HAVE SOME PROMISING RECRUITS

New York, March 10.—The first of the New York American baseball team left New York last week for Athens, Ga. They were: Hal Chase, recently appointed captain of the team and four new men, Catcher Fred Mitchell, secured from Toronto; Pitcher Jack Frill from Newark; Pitcher Carroll from Akron and Pitcher Fisher from Hartford. Manager Stallings has got what looks to be a good bunch of ball players and the team looks like a contender for the pennant. Chief Rooter Edward Everett Bell accompanied the players to Jersey City, where they took the Pennsylvania en route to Athens.

PERSON IS READY FOR HIS MATCH WITH ORDEMANN

HENRY ORDEMANN.

Chris Person finished his training yesterday for the match this evening with Henry Ordemann. The Duluth wrestler is in the best shape of his career. He has trained faithfully for the bout, and gave out the opinion that, should he be defeated Ordemann will know that he has been in a contest.

Person weighed in at the athletic club yesterday and tipped the beam at 186 pounds. Advices from Minneapolis say that Ordemann will weigh 195 pounds or possibly 200. The Minneapolis man will have weight and strength in his favor.

When it comes to the scientific side of the game, Ordemann will have little on Person. The Duluth man has been working out in Michigan with big Fenby, a 200-pound giant, who the other night stayed an hour and some minutes with Zbyszko. The work was the best preparation in the world for his meeting with Ordemann.

If it is a question of condition, the Minneapolis heavyweight will have nothing on the Duluth man, for Person stated yesterday that he never felt better in his life.

Every detail of the match this evening has been decided upon, save the question of referee. Ordemann has demanded that he have something to say in the choice of the judge of contest, so that the selection of the third man on the mat will be deferred until the arrival of the big Norsk.

Walter Wilmot, the former member of the Chicago Nationals, and now a resident of Minneapolis, who is putting on the Ordemann-Beell contest in Minneapolis, has written to the officials of the Duluth Athletic club that Ordemann is perfectly willing to meet Karl Lehto in the event of his winning the match tonight.

Win or lose tonight, Person declares he is ready to meet the Copper country man.

The contest this evening will go to a finish, best two out of three falls, catch-as-catch-can.

In the preliminary, Sailor Jack, will meet a local welter, whose name is being kept a secret by the unknown friends. These friends would only inform the officials of the club that the man was a crack amateur and would make the sailor work to win.

Ole Johnson, a newcomer to this city, who made his initial appearance before the local fans at the Person-Zbyszko match, will wrestle a finish match with Bill Beaulieu, as a curtain raiser to the big event of the evening.

The first preliminary will start at the usual time, 8:30, the big match coming on about an hour later.

PLAYING FIRST GAME.

Local Basket Ball Team Will Get in Action at Madison.

Duluth Central basket ball team is due to play today in the tournament at Madison, Wis. According to the reports that have come from Madison, the local team will meet one of the Wisconsin high schools in the game of today.

The play at Madison will be on the elimination plan, the strongest teams remaining in the play until the last and then pitted against each other in the finals.

It is hoped here that the Duluth quint will at least and get down to the semi-finals.

The defeat of Superior last night is rather discouraging to local supporters of the Central team, for Superior has a very strong team. However, it is believed that Duluth right at the present time has a stronger team than Superior and therefore will compare favorably with some of the strongest high school teams at the tournament.

JIM BARRY KNOCKS OUT GUNBOAT SMITH.

Oakland, Cal., March 10.—Catching his man rebounding from the ropes, Jim Barry of Chicago, sent a right uppercut to Gunboat Smith's chin in the ninth round of their scheduled ten-round fight here last night and the sailorman was knocked out in his own corner.

SALARIES TO BE LIMITED

Effort May Be Made to Enforce League Rules This Year.

Darby Is Coaching a College Team at Cleveland, Ohio.

At the Minny league magnates' meeting next Sunday at Red Wing, it is believed that the question of salary will receive the august attention of the club representatives.

At the present time the Minnesota-Wisconsin league monthly salary limit is $1,300. It is believed that President John A. Elliott will ask that the managers do try to keep within this limit.

There was one team in the southern end of the circuit over the salary limit last season. There was not very much said about it, but with the coming in of Red Wing and Rochester, towns that will have to dig deep for the wherewithal, it is expected that a more eagle glim will be kept on the salary lists of each club.

It may be that President Elliott will be authorized to enforce the salary limit rule, though there is no apparent reason why he cannot do so at the present time.

In one of the southern towns of the circuit they have the opinion that the attendance guarantee is $35 at the present time and that Duluth and Superior are attempting to boost the figure to $50. Far be it from such. At the last annual meeting of the magnates, the guarantee was raised to $50, and Duluth and Superior are only asking that it be left at that figure.

It is some of the southern towns that are raising the dust and asking that the guarantee be reduced to $35.

Word from Darby O'Brien says that the Irish orator is in his true environment at last—he is coaching a college team. He tells Mons. Kuehnow that he will have his men report at Cleveland early next month, and that they will work out with the college candidates he is instructing in baseball etiquette.

Mique Malloy of Red Wing has signed James Burke, a fast infielder, who comes from the Chicago semi-professional ranks. Word from Red Wing has it that Malloy has his eye upon a pitcher and outfielder who will materialy strengthen the Red Wing aggregation.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED

First Session of Delegates to American Bowling Congress Held.

Detroit, Mich., March 10.—The first session of the annual meeting of the American Bowling congress was held today, and the major portion of the time was devoted to the consideration of a number of amendments to the constitution which have been approved by the executive committee. About 200 delegates, representing practically all sections of the East and Middle West, were present. The majority of the proposed changes met with no opposition, but several delegates insisted upon slight changes being made in some of the suggested amendments.

One of the big days of the tournament was expected on the alleys as many of the star bowlers of the country were scheduled to shoot. The New York aggregation attracted a great deal of attention in the first squad of the two-man event. The six stars from New York played in the following pairs: Glenn Riddell and William Weingarth, Lee Johns and Alex Dunbar and Peter Riddell and Fred Pump, Jr. Others of the early squads were nearly all from Toledo.

Frank Woodbury of Milwaukee, a bowler of National fame, was also scheduled on the day's program as well as a number of well-known Chicago rollers.

Wednesday was passed without a change in the leaders in any of the three events. In the five-men teams, the first squad was led by the St. Clairs of Toledo, with 2,736, which puts them in fourteenth place. The Brunswicks of New York, of whom much was expected, failed to land in the first ten in the prize list, as they scored only 2,725, which put them in sixteenth place.

W. C. Zoellner of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Milwaukee was the star of the day in the individual event with 657, three pins behind the leading 660 of Glen Fisher, the Chicago bowler. Zoellner rolled in the last squad and up to the time he went down the alleys, no one had even threatened the leader's mark. An error in the ninth frame of the last game probably kept Zoellner from passing Fisher. He started with 256, then came up with 212, but he was unable to get only 189 in his last effort.

Through an error in his score, John Kolde was credited with only 631, but Secretary A. L. Langtry later announced that his correct score was 641, which was the second high score of the day and gave him sixth place.

Seventh place was the best that could be secured by the high pair of the day in the two-men event. Albert Osler and Frank Erschell of Cincinnati rolled 1,186 in the second squad and that was the best score of the day. Their good score was due to some fast work by Osler, who shot 199, 211 and 224. P. F. Strassheim and Charles Hildebrandt of Chicago had the next best count of the day with 1,175.

The executive committee met yesterday and nominated practically all of the present officers for the same positions during the coming year.

It was decided to increase the number of members of the executive committee from fifteen to eighteen.

George A. Metzger of Pittsburg and Emil Schmitt of Cincinnati were dropped from the committee.

Following is the slate of officers for the coming year, as prepared by the executive committee: President, R. H. Bryson, Indianapolis; first vice president, Adam Hahn, Pittsburg; second vice president, Fred Gosewick, St. Paul; third vice president, M. A. Phillips, St. Louis; secretary, A. L. Langtry, Milwaukee; treasurer, Krank L. Pasdeloup, Chicago.

Executive committee: William Agnew, Cleveland; Chris F. Balz, Columbus; Mike J. Costa, Philadelphia; S. L. Drake, St. Louis; W. J. Ennis, Wheeling; G. O. Francisco, Omaha; E. B. Hull, Minneapolis; George B. Howard, Chicago; D. P. Hager, Louisville; John Koerner, Milwaukee; A. L. Reinhardt, Cincinnati; F. J. Ryan, Detroit; J. A. Stretz, Des Moines; C. A. Turner, St. Joseph, Mo.; C. A. Nichols, Kansas City; John G. Floss, Buffalo; Larry Gazzolo, Toledo; L. L. Wehner, Dayton.

The committee took no action on the proposed amendment concerning the opening date of the annual tournament, which is opposed by St. Louis. The amendment will be submitted to the meeting today without recommendation. St. Louis delegates oppose the arbitrary fixing of the opening date as a Saturday in February, and say they will not bid for the 1911 tourney if they cannot adhere to the plan of opening it in January in order to give baseball players an opportunity to compete.

ANNUAL SUFFRAGE DAY.

New York Legislature Besieged By Vote-Seeking Women.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—The annual legislative hearing on the proposition to eliminate the word "male" from that section of the Constitution governing the right to vote, took place yesterday. The various woman suffrage organizations sent their best speakers to argue before the joint judiciary committee for the proposition. The New York State association, opposed to woman suffrage, and the National League for the Civic Education of Women sent as large a corps of speakers to argue against the proposition.

The advocates of sexless ballot did not confine their activity to the hearing. Big delegations invaded the capitol where they began missionary work on every legislator within reach. The suffragettes boasted that they had representatives from every assembly district in the state and the individual delegates were assigned to tackle their legislative representatives from home.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont was absent owing to illness, and Mrs. Clarence Mackay, president of the Equitable Suffrage league was another conspicuous absentee.

In number the ballot seekers had the advantage. They occupied nearly two-thirds of the seats in the assembly chamber.

NEGAUNEE WATER WORKS PLANT IS PROSPEROUS.

Negaunee, Mich., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Negaunee water works plant had the best year in its history in 1909. The receipts were $17,058.87, as compared with $13,021.62 in 1908. The improvements in 1909 were on a larger scale than during any corresponding year since the installation of the plant. The operating cost was $13,346.48. The additions and improvements to the water mains cost $1,926.58 and $53 was expended for meters.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.
The season for coughs and colds is now at hand too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

LONG COURT TERM HAS REACHED END

Dismissal of Bovey Saloon Raid Cases Shortened Up the Calendar.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The October term of district court ended here this week and the March term will begin March 23.

The term just ended was a long one. Among the most important of the cases recently tried was that of Fred Ingersoll vs. H. R. King, an action to recover some money claimed to be due for wages getting out cedar. A counter-claim was made that the amount claimed was held out for damages sustained, caused by the neglect of the plaintiff. The matter was taken under advisement by the court.

The divorce case of Ella B. Evans vs. George M. Evans of Deer River was heard and taken under advisement.

The Felthouse Land Company vs. C. A. Smith, involving the title to some lands, was settled.

All of the justice court appeals growing out of the Bovey saloon troubles of last summer were dismissed, the defendant paying fines and costs to date. The cases settled include the cases in which Rev. F. W. Hill and Constable August Johnson, who were convicted of housebreaking, were convicted and fined.

The defendants Hill and Johnson were sued in two actions, $2,500 damages being demanded in each case, the plaintiffs being saloon men whose places were broken open on Sunday evening, May 23, at which time Hill, Johnson and two other officers from Coleraine made their raid. These actions were on the calendar for the present term of court for trial, but have been voluntarily dismissed by the plaintiffs.

The last grand jury indicted Hill and a private detective named Johnson on charges of agreeing to accept a bribe to withhold evidence. It is the understanding that these indictments will stand.

Ends Interesting Chapter.

When the indictments against Hill and Johnson, the private detectives, are out of the way, the closing chapter will have been written to some very interesting Itasca county history. The Hill crusade commenced last May and resulted in a number of prosecutions in some of which Mr. Hill appeared as complaining witness. The saloon men who were attacked retaliated by prosecuting Hill for breaking open their saloons. Later Hill and George Johnson were bound over to the grand jury and indicted, and Hill and August Johnson were also sued in civil courts. Hill was formerly pastor of the First Methodist church at Coleraine, but was removed by the conference to another part of the state last September. He prosecuted Thomas Kingston, village marshall of Bovey, on charges growing out of the crusade, but Kingston was acquitted. Hill also accused Con Griefe of Bovey, of having assaulted him with a dangerous weapon at Bovey, and Griefe was bound over to the grand jury, but that body refused to indict.

DETECTIVE IS AFTER REWARD

A. M. Worthington of Duluth Wants Coin for Capturing Dynamiter Hamilton.

Houghton, Mich., March 10.—Asserting that evidence he furnished formed the connecting link making possible the capture and conviction of George A. Hamilton of the Mesaba range, who is now serving sentence in the Marquette prison for sending a cunningly devised infernal machine filled with four stocks of dynamite and an electrical exploding contrivance to former Sheriff Beck of Houghton county, A. W. Warthington of Duluth, private detective of the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railway, through his counsel, has petitioned the county board of supervisors for the $3,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of Hamilton.

Warthington claims that he found the dynamite machine's owner and secured an identification from him of the machine. He said that the Pinkerton men were walking around Virginia, Minn., at the time with their hands in their pockets and making no headway when he came in and secured the evidence.

Ex-Sheriff August Beck, the intended victim of the bomb, said that Warthington has not a cent coming from this county, that he was a detriment to the officers working on the case at the time, that he is a bluffer and while he talked a lot at the time about what he knew he could not give up a thing when it came to a showdown.

The claim is still in the hands of the finance committee of the board and Prosecuting Attorney MacDonald.

NASHWAUK MINER IS SHOT TWICE

Alleged to Have Attacked Proprietor With Chair and Kettle of Hot Water.

Nashwauk, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Perusich, a miner working in local mines, is in a critical condition at the Nashwauk hospital with a bullet hole through both lungs while Matt Mairele, a saloonkeeper, is in jail charged with the shooting.

The shooting is said to have been the culmination of a row, the wounded man having been quarrelsome all day yesterday and finally attacked Mairele with a chair and a kettle of hot water he grabbed off the stove, when he was shot.

Perusich first threw a glass of beer into the bartender's face, as the story goes, and the proprietor interfered only to have the attack turned upon him, a chair and a kettle of hot water being the weapons. Mairele drew a pistol and told Perusich to keep away from him but the latter did not heed the warning and the saloonkeeper fired the bullet perforating both lungs. It is not thought the injured man can live.

VIRGINIA BOARD VERY INDIGNANT

Says County Examiner Wasgatt Must Prove Charges or Retract.

Virginia, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the board of education do not propose to pass up the manner in which the report of the district's doings was made by A. J. Wasgatt, county examiner, and filed in the office of the county auditor, and it is the intention of the board to force Mr. Wasgatt to prove his charges or back-water. In an interview with The Herald correspondent, a member of the board said: "The members of the board are glad that they at last have this ancient lie in shape where they can nail it. When Wasgatt was asked to come before the board and prove his charges he showed a faint heart and failed to appear. The board will find a way to force the issue with him, and since Wasgatt is under bonds of $5,000, for the benefit of the county and of any and all persons who may suffer loss or damage by reason of a wrong report on his part, there will be sure to be something doing. The board claims that the taxpayers of Virginia have a right to know the truth in this matter and no stone will be left unturned to show up the animus of the whole affair.

Bookkeepers Errors Magnified.

"The members of the board who have gone over the report claim that what it purports to correct in the bookkeeping of the board, it shows magnified in itself a hundred fold. It purports to call attention to errors in the books kept by the board, but the report itself is a mass of errors, misstatements, ignorant assertions, falsehoods, and cowardly inferences, which it will not do to pass over. If Wasgatt really fathers this report instead of the one he presented last May the board claim they have him just where they want him.

"The report opens with a barefaced lie, by stating that the city bank, acting as depositories for school moneys, are not under bonds. As a matter of fact both banks are under $50,000 bonds and were at the time the report was written.

"In reference to alleged illegal vouchers drawn to Joseph Roskilly, director, this money was voted to the said Joseph Roskilly for services rendered the district, by the people of the district at their annual meetings.

"The payment of $112.50 to N. A. Holmer, clerk and the same to Hen E. Carlman, treasurer, was regularly voted by the board as the minutes show, and was in no way illegal and contrary to law. Mr. Wasgatt and Capt. Theodore H. James do not constitute a court of law.

"The alleged 'overpayment' of $358.00 to H. E. Foosness on a fence contract, is easily explained since Mr. Foosness did considerable work for the board besides build the fences, bills for which had been allowed by the board and were on file at the time the report was made. Wasgatt might as well have spared himself the obliquy of attacking an honest man who is dead. His anxiety to be a man of 'character' as the law calls for.

"That the superintendent of schools pays out the money of the district for teachers' wages, supplies, lecture courses, etc., is absolutely false, as the superintendent has never once drawn an order on the treasurer and all bills for freight, express, etc., have gone before the board and have been audited in the regular manner."

have proved to the committee's satisfaction that he really was at the North Pole.

"Exceedingly Skeptical."

"I confess that I am exceedingly skeptical about Mr. Peary's ever having discovered the pole," declared Mr. Macon today before the committee "and I am going to protest against any honor being conferred upon him by congress until he has established beyond a reasonable doubt that he did discover it. And it must be established in the open and not in the dark."

He expressed himself as being "indignant at the thought of being called upon as a representative of the American people to confer a high honor upon any one of its citizens in the dark." All legislation by congress, he said, ought to be open and above board.

Mr. Macon said he wanted to direct attention to "one discrepancy in Mr. Peary's story." This was the speed which the explorer declared he had made from the time Capt. Bartlett left him until he reached the pole.

What Peary Said.

Mr. Peary said that for five days he made 26.4 miles a day, but Mr. Macon said this appeared very singular, in view of the fact that the Peary party had made only 9.06 miles a day up to the time Bartlett left.

"The astonishing part of Mr. Peary's statement," said Mr. Macon, "is the number of miles he traveled every day after Bartlett left him, and when no white man was with him as a witness, his only companions being his negro valet and four Eskimos.

"His greatest marches, singularly, were all north of the Bartlett camp. From that time forward, going to the pole and returning to Cape Columbia, he claims to have made an average of 26.4 miles a day until he reached the pole, 44 miles a day on his way back from the pole to Bartlett's camp, and 28.6 miles a day from Bartlett's camp to Cape Columbia. The greatest speed he had made before Bartlett left him was 9.06 miles a day, so Peary must have made nearly three times as great speed after Bartlett left him."

Quotes Shackleton and Greely.

Mr. Macon declared that Mr. Peary's own statement showed that he equalled this speed only twice during the entire journey to the pole. The first day he started from land he made twenty-six miles, and on another day made twenty-nine miles in fourteen hours of forced march, which Mr. Peary has told us was about the limit of human endurance."

Mr. Macon quoted Lieut. Shackleton, Gen. Greely and others to show that "ten to twelve miles a day, or slightly more, perhaps, is considered the limit of human endurance, travelling over polar seas."

his testimony, made an explanation of the Alaska coal bills that were introduced in congress during his administration of the interior department. Mr. Garfield said that he and Mr. Ballinger, who was then commissioner of the land office, differed on the question as to whether proposed future classification of coal lands in Alaska and an increase of price over $10 an acre should apply to locations already made and entered. The witness said Mr. Ballinger thought lands already entered should be allowed patents at $10 an acre, provided by the old law. This would have allowed the Cunningham claims to be paid for at that price.

Questioned by Senator Sutherland, Mr. Garfield said he believed himself that as to locations made in good faith, the entrymen should have the right to the $10 price."

Read Letters Exchanged.

Mr. Garfield then read an exchange of letters between himself and Mr. Ballinger after the latter had left the land office in April, 1908, and while the coal bills were still pending. Mr. Ballinger addressed Mr. Garfield as "my dear Jim," and the latter replied "my dear Dick."

Mr. Ballinger's letter was evidently called out by some criticism of his course before the committees of congress, and he detailed his position at some length, concluding with the statement that before leaving Washington he had talked with President Roosevelt about the whole subject, and that the president had commended his action.

In reply Secretary Garfield urged Mr. Ballinger not to be disturbed about the coal bills; that Garfield had always understood Ballinger's position and had told the newspaper men that there never had been any misunderstanding.

Quizzed by Nelson.

Mr. Garfield said he had never read Mr. Ballinger's testimony before the congressional committees, however, until he had gone out of office.

Senator Nelson questioned the witness closely as to a statement that Ballinger had been in error in stating Mr. Garfield's position as to the Alaska coal bills. Mr. Garfield said his recommendations cited by Mr. Ballinger applied to a general coal bill and not to the Alaska measure.

"But as a matter of fact didn't you say you were willing to condone fraud if the fraudulent claimants paid a higher price based on the classification of the coal?" asked Senator Nelson.

"The effect of the section which I recommend was that if the entire coal bill passed and the government adopted a new policy as to coal deposits, there should be a validation of all entries at a new classified price. Up to 2,560 acres I was willing that claims should be consolidated and was willing to condone prior fraud."

Mr. Garfield said the difference in the old price of $10 an acre and a classified price might prove to be a difference between $25,000 and $500,000.

"Ballinger Was in Error."

Attorney Pepper read to the witness a portion of Secretary Ballinger's reply to the president concerning the charges against him, wherein Mr. Ballinger declared that Mr. Garfield, who had written President Taft himself, had made no real effort to learn the facts or to understand his position. He also said that Mr. Garfield had highly commended his course while in the government service and that he could only explain his change of spirit by the fact that his mind had been poisoned against him by misstatements.

"Mr. Ballinger was in error," said Mr. Garfield. "I made every effort to obtain the facts before writing to the president."

Attorney Pepper also read into the record an exchange of letters between Secretary Ballinger and Assistant Secretary Pierce in August last. It appeared from these that Senator Guggenheim had asked to have certain lands at La Junta, Col., set apart as an "arid park," the withdraw to be made under the supervisory power as with water power sites. Mr. Ballinger directed that the withdrawal be made.

"Arid Park" and "Dry Town."

"What is an 'arid park'?" asked Senator Root.

"I don't know."

"Maybe it's the same as a dry town," suggested Mr. Olmstead.

Mr. Garfield next was examined as to the plan be adopted of co-operating with water users' associations as to reclamation projects and the issuance by him of "reclamation certificates," which came to be known as "Garfield currency." The certificates were given as evidences of work done on projects, the certificates to be turned over in payment of water charges when water was delivered on the land.

Secretary Ballinger, acting under an opinion of Attorney General Wickersham, stopped this practice.

Mr. Garfield charged today that neither Mr. Wickersham nor President Taft had the facts and complete information before them on which to base a proper decision as to the certificates.

No Need of Bond Issue.

The witness was asked whether the $30,000,000 issue of bonds recommended by President Taft was not necessary to relieve hardships growing out of the co-operative plan. He declared that the proposed issue of bonds would cover a much wider field of reclamation than that begun under his administration of the interior department.

"In fact," declared Mr. Garfield, much to the surprise of the committee, "I don't believe it is necessary to issue any bonds at all."

"But, aren't there hardships growing out of the present status of the project?" asked Senator Sutherland.

"In individual cases, yes. They arise from a failure on the part of entrymen to appreciate the difficulties of developing irrigated lands and from their going on the land long before the projects could be completed and water turned on. They were constantly warned against doing this and went at their own hazard. The government is not responsible for their plight."

Mr. Garfield said he was not certain that a bond issue, as now proposed, would be necessary to the projects to proper completion any faster than would be possible under the old way of raising funds by the sale of public lands.

In Experimental Stage.

"Many of the projects are experimental," said the witness, "and it is a serious question as to whether it would be wise to go faster than the sale of lands allows. Physically, the projects could be completed at a much earlier date by a bond issue, but I doubt whether it would decrease the cost."

"But the law makes no provision for payments in labor instead of money, does it?" asked Senator Nelson.

"No."

The witness then declared that during the time the certificates were being issued there were funds available to carry on the work. The certificates were in reality, he said, simply a method of keeping books. There was no effort to augment the reclamation fund by the certificates.

Mr. Garfield declared that Attorney General Wickersham had held that the co-operative contracts would be valid if there were funds available for the work.

Two Million Available.

"He evidently had in mind the idea that there were no funds available," continued Mr. Garfield, "when as a matter of fact, some $2,000,000 was available all the time."

Attorney Pepper here concluded his examination, but Attorney Brandeis interrogated the witness further concerning the Cunningham claims.

Hearing at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 10.—The inquiry before United States Commissioner William J. McGee into the claims of four of the thirty-three claimants to Alaska coal lands was resumed this morning. The government is endeavoring to prove that the entrants combined together illegally and also that they intended to co-operate with the Guggenheim interests.

W. H. Warner of Cleveland and Hugh B. Wick of Elyria, Ohio, who were examined yesterday, and Henry Wick, father of Hugh Wick, and another claimant, took the stand this morning.

CURE FOR ECZEMA DISCOVERED

Dr. J. E. Currier Tells How It Can Be Used by the Patients Themselves.

(From New York Journal.)

"Eczema, tetter, ringworm and other skin diseases are spreading," says Dr. J. E. Currier in the Doctor's Guide, writing about a new and wonderfully successful cure for skin affections.

solved in hot water, twice a day. You who know how stubborn tetter, ringworm and eczema can be, will be amazed to see how soon this stops the itching, dries up the eruption and causes a growth of new healthy skin. I now tell my patients to get a package of pure citrox at the drug store tablespoonfuls of hot water, as this solution must be made fresh each time and used warm.

"I am having better success than ever before. A case of tetter on the hand that had run six months, citrox cured in a week; and a young woman whose back was a mass of pustules was cured in two weeks. I could cite many others. Be careful to get the pure drug put up in small, sealed packages, as the common kind sold in bulk is not fit for medical use."

It will interest women to learn that this well-known drug's value for skin diseases was discovered accidentally by the doctor's wife.

FILES BRIEF IN OIL CASE

Government Submits Basis of Its Argument to the Supreme Court.

Names of Wickersham, Kellogg, Morrison and Severance Appear on It.

Washington, March 10.—"Either the Sherman act should be repealed or it should be enforced in a manner to make the people respect it."

With this declaration of its guiding principle, the department of justice has filed with the supreme court of the United States 1,000 pages of a brief in support of its petition that "Standard Oil" be dissolved as in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The brief will be the foundation of the government's oral argument at the hearing of the case by the supreme court next Monday. It bears the names of Attorney General Wickersham and of Frank B. Kellogg, Charles B. Morrison and Cordenio A. Severance as special assistants.

One of the two thick volumes of the brief is devoted to an analysis of testimony taken in the circuit court of the United States for the Eastern district of Missouri, which decreed that "Standard Oil" be dissolved. It represents years of governmental investigation of the oil business.

Shows Rebates and Discriminations

The government declares this shows the rebates and discriminatory rates received by the Standard Oil combination, not only during its formative period, but during the last ten years, "whereby the Standard was enabled to bring a large part of the concerns into the combination and to crush out and eliminate from the field of competition the principal part of the balance."

It is claimed by the government that it shows "a system of lowering the prices, where competitors are doing business, below the cost of the products while keeping up or raising the prices in other parts of the country until the competitor is either eliminated or his business brought within a compass so that the Standard Oil company can control it; of obtaining secret information as to competitive business, largely through bribing railway employes, and using that secret information to procure countermanding of orders of independents and to facilitate their system of price cutting and oppression; of the use of so-called bogus independent companies whose operations are predatory and oppressive, principally used to drive out competitors; and various other means."

No Hope for Little Fellows.

"We do not wish to be understood as discouraging enterprise," says the government, "or as taking a position against legitimate competition, but if the Sherman act means anything in this country, it means a monopoly acquired by such methods of competition as this. Unless it is enforced, the small corporation of individuals who wishes to engage in business will have absolutely no opportunity at all.

"In many districts the Standard Oil company has an absolute monopoly. We mean by absolute monopoly that in those districts it does all of the business and has eliminated every competitor. Practically this is the case throughout the Rocky mountain country and most of the Pacific coast states. The percentage of independent business throughout the entire Southern states is very small."

In the second volume is a so-called summary of facts and a brief of the law. Here, too, repeated statements are made as to the attitude of the government towards organized business.

Intent to Monopolize.

It is urged that if the intent is clear to monopolize any part of the commerce of the United States, the scheme is void in whatever form the action is taken.

"The oft-repeated argument that this construction of the law prevents the formation of partnerships and the legitimate consolidation of business enterprise," says the government, "is fallacious for the reason that such construction has no application where an enterprise is formed with the honest and legitimate intent to pursue a lawful business, not go beyond the bounds of legitimate combination or directly or substantially suppress competition. But whenever that acquisition is a mere cloak to cover the intention of monopolizing commerce or for the purpose of using it as a weapon to strike down competition, it is illegal. It follows from this that the acquisition of the same property might under some circumstances be legal while under other circumstances it would be illegal."

Answers Trust Brief.

The brief replies to the argument of the Standard Oil counsel that the corporations which entered into the organization in 1899 were not at that time competing with each other.

"If they were not competing," says the government, "it was because of an unlawful combination in the form of a trust, or during the liquidation period, because of the conspiracy of the individual stockholders. We have seen this trust was void. Certainly, the conspiracy between the stockholders of the subsidiary corporations was directed inhibited by the Sherman act."

Testimony of John D. Rockefeller, it is claimed by the government, was to the effect that after the trust dissolution was ordered in 1892, each of the corporations, as controlled by its own stockholders, transporting and selling oil, and that they were each competing with the other.

"Even assuming," the government says, "that there was a purchase of property previous to 1899, it is maintained that it is well settled law that where property is acquired for the purpose of suppressing competition, the acquisition is void."

In support of this statement the government quotes at length from an opinion rendered by President Taft, then a judge.

PENCHANT FOR PRINCES

Mrs. Cudahy Also Showed Attention to "The Prince of Tonight."

Forsook the Prince of "Merry Widow" After Leaving Duluth.

Mrs. "Jack" Cudahy, the woman in the now famous Kansas City cutting affair, apparently had a penchant for leading men of musical comedy companies.

Many people here remember her from the fact that she was in attendance at every performance of the "Merry Widow" company, when that lively show was at the Lyceum, some two months ago.

It seems that after the "Merry Widow" left Duluth, Mrs. Cudahy transferred her attention to Henry Woodruff, who plays the leading part in "The Prince of Tonight."

While that musical comedy was at Des Moines, according to a Des Moines paper, she paid marked attention to the acting of Mr. Woodruff, who in the past has been known to look around when some one called "Handsome Harry."

Mr. Woodruff is not as young as he used to be, in the days when he played the imp in Nat Goodwin's production of "When We Were Twenty-one," yet he is still attractive and somewhat dashing.

Mrs. Cudahy attracted much attention while in this city. She did not miss a performance of the "Merry Widow" and she often took members of the company to dine. She was always accompanied by a young woman companion, and sometimes by her maid.

An Ideal Cough Medicine.

"As an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Mr. R. A. Wiltshire of Gwynneville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Medicine. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ills it is intended." For sale by all druggists.

CUTS POWER OF COMMERCE COURT

House Committee's Action Is Expected to Arouse the Administration.

Washington, March 10.—The administration railroad bill was amended in an important particular by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce yesterday when by a vote of 9 to 7, the committee voted to substitute the interstate commerce commission for the proposed court of commerce as the tribunal designated to receive petitions or applications of railroads desiring to acquire interests in other railroads.

The six Democrats on the committee voted for the substitute and were joined by Chairman Mann and two other Republican members. Representatives Esch and Wanger were absent, but their votes could have had no greater effect than to cause a tie.

As this section provided one of the chief duties of the court of commerce, it is expected that the administration will use vigorous measures to have the vote reconsidered in committee and the action rescinded.

SALE OF NEW DULUTH LOTS

The New Duluth Company has decided that it will on the 21st day of March, 1910, place on sale between 350 and 400 lots in the First Division of its splendid Townsite of New Duluth, at prices ranging from $22.00 to $48.00 per front foot for business lots, and from $11.00 to $16.00 per front foot for residence lots.

This division of New Duluth is a table land, elevated about sixty feet above St. Louis river, which is near its southerly boundary, has a number of graded streets and sidewalks, has the advantages of schools and churches is beautifully situated for residences and homes, of which it already has a large number, and adjoins Manufacturers' Division, which doubtless will in the near future be the location of many manufactories.

Commonwealth avenue and Grand avenue are designed to be the business streets of New Duluth.

The proximity of New Duluth to the development work of the United States Steel Corporation and the Interstate Bridge, and to its new steel plant, which it is beginning to construct, insures a large population in New Duluth before the end of the present year. The New Duluth Company can therefore recommend investments in New Duluth property to all.

For the sale of lots herein proposed, The New Duluth Company will receive applications until March 21st, 1910, from parties desiring to purchase. The applicant should state the number of lots he desires to purchase. That each applicant may be treated impartially as to choice of lots offered, a plan to be followed will be adopted on the morning of March 21st, to determine the order of his turn to make selection of lots. To entitle each applicant to his choice of lots, he or his representative must appear on March 21st, and in his turn exercise his choice of the lots. Ten per cent of purchase price must be paid on the selection of lots March 21st; within thirty days thereafter 10 per cent additional is to be paid on the delivery of land contract in the usual form for the lots sold. The terms of payment for the balance shall be as follows: One-fifth of purchase price in six months, one-fifth in twelve months, one-fifth in eighteen months, one-fifth in twenty-four months after date of sale with 6 per cent interest on all deferred payments.

Title to all lots sold is to be good. All land contracts issued for lots sold at this sale shall provide that if the purchaser shall construct a building to cost not less than $1,000 on any business lot, and not less than $500 on any residence lot, within one year from date of sale, that one-fifth of the purchase price of said lot represented by the installment maturing next after the completion of such building, shall be cancelled as an inducement for improving the property; providing the lot is free from liens or claims, which might jeopardize the company's security thereon for the balance of the purchase price.

A list of prices for all lots to be offered at this sale, and maps showing the location of the lots and their proximity to the New Steel Plant can be secured on application by mail or otherwise to

The president appointed as such committee Aldermen Shartel and Moore. The mayor was presented and gave his annual message, which is as follows:

To the Common Council of the City of Duluth:

Duluth has every reason to be proud of the fact that there has been no cause for complaint against the men who have served the city so well as members of this Honorable Body. The record made by this Council during the last two years is a creditable one, and we who are called to fill the places of those retiring must realize that much is expected of us, if we would command the respect and retain the confidence of those who have placed us here.

I sincerely hope that we may, through a mutual desire to serve the public well, work in complete harmony in all things that will contribute to a clean and progressive administration.

Again, Duluth has been quite as fortunate in having public-spirited citizens who have been willing to serve on the non-salaried boards, and we should never forget the debt of gratitude we owe them for the business-like manner in which they have handled the departments entrusted to their care.

The Water and Light Board have demonstrated in a very satisfactory manner, through the management of that important department, that municipal ownership, under proper management, is a success; and the public can rest assured that when they are ready for other undertakings along these lines, they need have no fear of the outcome.

The business interests, while developing rapidly, find themselves handicapped by discrimination, and by conditions that appear to retard our legitimate development. Every public official should identify himself with those organizations that are striving to find relief in these matters. In this connection we should demand a larger representation in our State Legislature; and political parties should be given to understand that they must not single out Duluth and its interests as a political football. And the public, without regard to party affiliations, should back such demands with their votes; and I will venture to suggest to those in the majority, that it might be good policy to concede to the minority party at least one member from this part of the State, so that we might have a missionary among his party associates in the Legislature.

Much speculation is being indulged in as to the high cost of living. This community should join in the general investigation, and if any remedy can be found that will afford local relief it should be promptly applied.

As affecting this condition of affairs, I shall recommend the extension of public service and public utilities as rapidly as possible. The Street Railway company will be expected to make such extensions as will serve, not only the thickly settled districts, but if possible, the outlying districts where cheaper homes may be erected. Any public or private enterprise that has for its purpose the development of our nearby territory in the way of small farms, truck raising or home building, will receive my hearty co-operation.

During my former terms of office, the Health Commissioner, in connection with the Council, inaugurated ordinances governing that department, an incinerator plant was established; a branch State Bacteriological Laboratory established; and money and preliminary plans secured for a contagious disease hospital; laying the foundations for favorable health conditions. During the last two years, the Health Commissioner, aside from adding much to the efficiency of the department, has been experimenting successfully with the garbage question. We shall attempt to, in some way, enlarge the garbage collecting system, as well as safeguard the health of the community by every restriction possible.

The Legal Department has been doing good work in the matter of locating the city's property and cleaning up titles. The incoming attorney will be requested to continue this work; and also look carefully into the matter of franchises, and see to what extent the public-service corporations who are using our streets and alleys have compiled with the terms of their charters, in order that we may determine just what opportunities there are for other uses to be made of the streets—especially in the railroad territory.

The railroads controlling these streets and alleys will be urged to arrange their freight yards and houses so that shippers will not be handicapped in the expeditious handling of their products.

The public official is often criticised because of lack of courtesy and consideration for those who have business before the various departments. I should like to remind those individuals who are serving the city in an official capacity that they are the servants of the public, and it is a very important part of their duty to furnish the public with any information that may be desired, and to comply with any request that may be made in a courteous manner, or be willing and able to explain why things cannot be done as requested.

I shall contribute in whatever way I may to any movement that has for its object the relief of the afflicted and unfortunate; to the extension and equipment of playgrounds and neighborhood houses; to branch libraries; to municipal lodging houses, to night schools; to public concerts and legitimate amusements—to anything, in fact, that is helpful in this direction.

The subject of taxation is always worthy of consideration. I believe a valuable investigation is now being made by Lawson Purdy, the tax expert, under the directions of Mayor Gaynor of New York, and shall watch for his report with confidence that it will indicate to all municipal officials everywhere a better way to assess valuations and collect taxes. The whole tendency of thought of those who are best qualified on the subject in recent years has been to equalize the burden of taxation, and in doing this to transfer the burden more and more to the land values, and less and less to such personal property values as the rich can hide from the tax gatherer but the poor cannot. I therefore am heartily in sympathy with the effort you are making to secure a fair revaluation of real estate values in this city, and shall promote such policy with whatever means pertains to my office.

One criticism that has often been made, and I believe justly, of the administration of municipal affairs under our present system, is an absence of harmonious action among different departments of the city government. I do not desire to make any criticism of individuals or officials, present or past, in what I shall say on this subject. My criticism is intended to be of the system.

For instance, there is a never-ending complaint as to the methods used in laying sewer, gas and water pipes with reference to permanent paving of streets. I would respectfully suggest that the council give public notice that it will not order any highway to be paved, whether petitioned for or not, unless the sewers have been constructed and the gas and water pipes laid, within the limits of the proposed pavement, at least one winter season prior to the time such pavement is laid. If the people are once given to understand that this is to be the rule and practice, I believe it will work as easily after the first year in which it is instituted, as does the present system, and a never-ending source of criticism will be largely removed.

Again, in my opinion, not only will a just cause of criticism be allayed, but money will be saved to the city, if some arrangement can be made whereby in effect one individual can be selected to make all purchases for the city. This need not require that the actual legal act shall be done by one particular individual, but it would undoubtedly be worth while to have some individual to whom could be communicated in advance the purchases which any department has in contemplation, so that he can advise such department as to the most economical method to pursue. His services in a purely advisory capacity ought to be almost as effective as the actual establishment of a purchasing agent by charter authority. In such case we would at least not have the ridiculous situation of one department of the city paying more than some other department for identically the same service or material.

An active propaganda is being made in many parts of the country to relieve a situation which the great common carrier transportation companies have apparently brought about through their control of terminal sites. I conceive it to be duty of the peoples' servants everywhere to assist with whatever little authority any of us may for the time possess, in looking out for the future in this respect. We in Duluth and Superior, are proud of our harbors, our docks and our wharfage facilities. We like to talk about its immense extent; how we have within the limits of the dock line, exclusive of Minnesota Point, some seven or eight square miles of dock property, only about one-sixth of which has been developed; how we have an even greater amount in the same harbors appurtenant to Minnesota Point.

One would think from a consideration of these figures that the water terminal question had not become a serious one in Duluth, and would not for years to come. But as a matter of fact the dock sites that are now available in a practical way have been largely acquired by private, and as a rule by monopolistic interests. What amounts to a stub end of a street or an avenue near the Booth dock, at Fifth avenue west, at Twenty-first avenue west, and at Ramsey street, constitute, according to my information, about all the municipal dock frontage we have that is available for use.

In my judgment, we should proceed without delay to acquire dock room of practical size at some point on the Duluth side of Duluth-Superior harbor, at some point on the Duluth side of St. Louis bay, and at some point on the Duluth side of St. Louis river. We can never get it more cheaply than at the present time. Its advantages to the city and its citizens in the reduction of carrying charges on stuff to be consumed by us and our tributary country—whether such docks should be improved for actual use by independent boat lines or should be held as a club argument—would soon pay for the cost of acquisition.

I feel that such dock room should be now required, for the same reason that I formerly advocated the acquirement of park property. Now is the time to buy cheaply. Our successors can determine for themselves when is the time to improve and use. I am inclined to think that this is the most important subject of permanent advantage to the city, which is now presented to the municipal authorities.

In the discussion of the desirability of a "commission form of government" for the city of Duluth, it should be borne in mind that the phrase has come to have almost as many meanings and interpretations as there are persons using the expression.

A commission form of government which contemplates only the centralization of authority in the hands of five men is not, in my opinion, what most of the people want who advocate such a form of municipal government. They do not want to withdraw power and responsibility further from the people than it is under our present form of government, nor do they want government by the few. Such a commission form of government, in my opinion, would mean an oligarchy, with all the potential disadvantages and curses which have always become associated with the history of every oligarchy of the past.

What the people want, in my opinion, is the centralization of responsibility and authority purely for the purpose of increased efficiency; but they are not willing to gain the efficiency at the expense of popular control. The people therefor, are willing to give the power to the few, provided they retain to themselves the power which is involved in the use of such methods as the initiative, referendum and re-call. The initiative and referendum will retain for the people substantial control over legislative acts of the commission; the re-call will retain for the people substantial control over the officials.

An investigation of the efforts that have been made by other municipalities to adopt the commission form of government will disclose that, as a rule, the people have adopted it when it has contained initiative, referendum and re-call provisions, and have rejected it when such provisions were not included. I am also of the opinion that it would be to the benefit of municipal governments to have national and state partisanship eliminated from the selection of municipal officials; and therefor, it is my present opinion that any commission form of government adopted by the city of Duluth should provide, among other things, that no party or other designation should follow the names of the candidates on the ballots.

Another provision that has apparently met with the approval of the people where it has been tried, is a form of ballot which gives each elector an opportunity to express on the ballot his first, second and third choice of candidates for each office. This would make it impossible for any special interest to elect its candidate by a minority vote by the old scheme of bringing out several candidates to represent the opposition to the special interest in that particular election.

I do not believe the friends of the commission form of government should haggle among themselves over mere details; but I have no manner of doubt that no commission form of government will be adopted by the people of Duluth in our time that does not reserve to the people a real control over legislative and executive acts of the municipal officials.

I will enforce every law on the list if you will furnish me with power to do so. I will put an officer on the trail of every transgressor in the city if you will furnish me with the men and pay the bills; but when the public, through its representatives, creates laws so much faster than the executive can possibly enforce them, is it not better for the executive to candidly admit his inability to do so, rather than to keep up a pretense of doing so? If the Press, the public speakers, and those familiar with the facts would give to the public the benefit of their knowledge along these lines, it would result in a better understanding between the public and the public officials. They could then deal more fairly with each other.

Under existing conditions, I confess to much anxiety as to the success of my administration. I shall pursue such course as will, in my judgment, result in the greatest benefit to the community, willingly counseling with those who have similar motives.

The success or failure of the administration frequently depends upon the manner in which the Police Department is controlled. I regret to say that there is at present much criticism as to the efficiency of this important branch of the city government. This is regrettable. It is important that the public should have the utmost confidence in the Police Department. It appears that the public wants to know, and I shall make it my business to ascertain, just what, if anything, is wrong.

I believe that I may claim the credit of having taken this department out of politics, when first elected to this office, being urged to do so by my party associates. I have also been reminded that I am on record as saying that when an officer did his duty, he was safe with me. I cannot now be expected to discard whatever of merit there is in such a policy. Neither can I afford to be unfair to the public by ignoring what appear to be just complaints. Therefor, I shall very carefully and fairly investigate as thoroughly as possible. I shall not only be willing, but anxious, to hear what any one interested may have to say on the subject; either confidentially or otherwise; so that I may be able to intelligently and fairly determine the matter, for I shall be guided absolutely by the results and whoever I find to be wrong will go.

It is estimated that about 10 per cent of the business of the city is legislative, and about 90 per cent administrative. A formal document like this cannot possibly forecast all the important matters that may come up within the year.

I should like to remind the citizens that my office, being a public one, is open to them at any time, and I will be glad to see any one who is interested in good government and has anything to propose for the good of the community. Concerning these matters, I will be as willing to listen to one as another, regardless of their social or financial standing—whether they are attired in broadcloth or overalls.

M. B. CULLUM,

DULL DAY IN THE MARKET

Wheat Advances Early in Session, But Slumps Later in Day.

Buying By Chicago Firm Prevents a Decline at the Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 10.—Trading in wheat was dull today and the market closed about ½c higher than yesterday's close, after a fairly good advance earlier in the day.

May wheat sold at $1.14¼ bid, up to $1.14½ and down to $1.13¾-⅞ and up to $1.14⅜ at the close on buying by professionals led by Bartlett-Patten. The close was $1.14¼-⅜ nominal. The July option opened at $1.14 asked, sold up to $1.14¼ bid and down to $1.13¾ and up to $1.14⅜ toward the close. The close was $1.14¼-⅜ nominal.

Flax was moderately active. The May option opened at $2.19 and gained 1c and closed $2.19⅞. July opened at $2.18 and closed $2.18⅞. September was offered at $1.75 after the opening and closed $1.75. October closed at $1.67.

Cash wheat was ½@⅞c over May. Barley closed 1c up, oats closed ½c off and rye was unchanged. Durum closed ¼c up.

After the opening the wheat market was weak on account of liquidation but it firmed on buying but slumped again when traders refused to get excited over the crop scare reports and continued to take profits. A break appeared imminent but buying at the last moment saved the market and prevented a decline. The buying was led by Bartlett-Patten.

The cash market was fairly good. Winnipeg reported a good demand. Offerings there were limited. In Minneapolis, the leading cash market in the Northwest, the cash demand was slightly improved over yesterday. Millers bought more freely at ⅛@1½c over the near option. Cash here was ½@⅝c over.

Crop damage reports continue to roll in from all parts of the Southwest and West, but the messages did not have as much effect as yesterday, as the market was at the top of the bulge and the traders were taking profits. They did not care to use the reports as an excuse for bulling the market, although when Bartlett-Patten began buying toward the close the professional element trailed along. Coburn estimated the Kansas wheat condition at 84 per cent.

While the government's estimate of approximately 173,400,000 bu of wheat and flour were $7,139,000 bu. In 1908 the crop totalled 664,662,000 bu and the exports were 151,279,000 bu. The exports, of course, were not wholly from the respective year crops but the figures average up sufficiently for the purpose.

Thus, in 1909, a big crop year, the exports were about 64,000,000 bu less than the previous year, which was a short crop year, the yield being about 23,000,000 bu less than in 1909. In 1909, therefore, the difference between the production and the exports was 650,000,000 bu, and in 1908 the difference between the production and the exports was 513,323,000 bu. This great increase in production and reduction in exports coming before 1910, faced a year that will be remarkable for the independence of the foreigner and the low export business in this country, combined with what probably will be a heavy winter wheat crop. Most traders agree that there is enough wheat in the country to last until the next crop is available.

The government's guess at farm reserves made just a little more splash than it was entitled to. That little matter of 137,000,000 bu, the increase of available wheat for this country in 1909 over the available in 1908, will have to be given its proper place in the reckoning.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall's crop summary: "United Kingdom, France—There are fewer complaints being heard regarding the outlook for the crops, as the weather is now fine and plowing and sowing progressing rapidly. Germany, Roumania—The outlook for the crops remains unchanged this week, the conditions being favorable. Russia—There are some complaints being heard of damage to the growing crops as a result of frost, the plant being without snow covering, and this condition prevails especially in the Southeast. Supplies at both the ports and interior points are increasing. Italy, North Africa—The crop outlook continues favorable. Hungary—The crop outlook continues favorable, which is causing holders to resell their earlier purchases of foreign wheat. Spain—Beneficial rains have fallen in the districts where drought has prevailed. Argentina — The fleet loading wheat indicates that the shipments will be maintained this week."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The market displayed a steady undertone at the start with values ¼@½d higher, being influenced by the firmness in American cables yesterday. Following the opening the market developed a heavy undertone and with offerings larger, prices declined ⅛@½d with the principal pressure in May. Selling was stimulated by the larger and cheaper La Plata cargo offerings, which were 3d lower, and the continued pressure to sell Australian steamers about to arrive. The predictions of liberal shipments from Argentine this week and the official Indiana report given out late yesterday further caused realizing. At midday the market was easier and ⅛@¼d higher than yesterday. Corn was steady at the start and ¼d higher on the strength in American yesterday and predictions of late arrivals of the new crop for shipment. Following the opening the market continued steady from the opening.

The government's wheat report was bearish so far as the Northwest is concerned. In fact a close analysis of the report discloses more bearish features than bullish ones. The increase of 1,000,000 bu in Minnesota, North and South Dakota cannot be regarded otherwise than bearish. In the face of this report is an almost unprecedented condition regarding the Eastern situation. There are no bids from Eastern mills for wheat for shipment when navigation opens and the export demand is absolutely negligible. The fact that the decline in the market in the fore part of the week discounted the report was an important factor on the bull side after the report was issued.

Broomhall cabled: "Budapest, wheat closed ½c lower. This decline is attributed to the continued favorable weather throughout Hungary, where the outlook for the growing crop is very good."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Early Trading in Wheat Is on a Nervous Basis.

Chicago, March 10.—Early trading in the wheat pit today was on a nervous basis. Opening figures were ¼c off to ⅜c up and influential concerns were active in disposing of September and acquiring the July option. In the first hour prices generally fell off from the opening figures and then rallied slightly, steadying for May and July at about yesterday's close, with September fractionally off. Crop damage reports from Southwestern fields were again numerous, and emboldened bulls to attempt to "put over" May, which sank to $1.12¾ after opening at $1.13½ to $1.13¾ and rested on the rally at about $1.13¼. Opening prices for the nearby month were ⅛c to ⅜c up.

Later in the day the market sagged again, May going down to $1.12½. The other futures, under the influence of a less demand also fell off, the fluctuations being of a narrow character. Toward the close the market stiffened slightly, final figures being about midway between the high and the low point. May closed down at $1.13. Corn prices started a shade to ⅜c higher and under some selling pressure sagged a trifle. In the first hour a fair demand brought the futures generally back to yesterday's closing level. The large accumulations of stocks was a bearish factor which gave the bulls much concern. May traveled down from 64c to 63½@63¾c and then gained from 64c to 64⅜c. Opening figures for May were a shade to ½@⅝c up, to 63¾@64c.

Later the speculative demand became less pronounced, and May dropped off to 62⅞c, the other futures traveling down with it. The close was weak at not far from the low point with May ⅜@½c off at 62¾c.

In oats trading was within narrow limits and showed a little firmness, with the cash concerns leading the buying. Opening figures were unchanged to ⅛c higher and in the first hour prices held generally steady. At the start May was a shade to ⅛@¼c up, at 45@45½c.

Provisions opened sharply higher, gaining 5c to 25c, May pork leading with a top of $25.60. Advanced prices for live hogs was the controlling factor in the upturn. The sharp increase was met by liberal selling from the longs and in the first increase the crest of the market receded. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $25.60@25.50; lard, $13.95@13.85; ribs, $13.37½@13.35.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Early Wheat Trade Is Easier But Overselling Brings an Advance.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 10.—Liquidation made the early wheat market easier, but later the market advanced on an oversold condition. May opened ¼c higher than yesterday and after fluctuating in a range of ⅞c from the high to the low, closed ⅛@¼c higher. Local elevator stocks increased 675,000 bu for five days. Reports on the winter wheat crop told of damage although an occasional favorable report was received. A nervous undertone was apparent in the local pit. The deferred contracts were relatively firmer. Minneapolis today received 320 cars of wheat as compared with 205 cars a year ago; Duluth 25 cars, against 56 cars, and Winnipeg 116 cars, against 270 cars. May opened $1.13¾ @ 1.13⅞; high, $1.13⅞; low, $1.13; closed, $1.13¾. July opened $1.13¾; high, $1.14; low, $1.13⅛@1.13¼; closed, $1.13⅜. September opened $1.03½ high, $1.03⅞; low, $1.03¼; closed, $1.03⅝.

Cash wheat was about steady with yesterday. Elevators were heavy buyers of the liberal offerings. Millis bought an occasional car of choice wheat. No. 1 northern sold for ½@1½c above the May option and No. 2 northern sold for ⅜@1½c under. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.14@1.15; to arrive, $1.14@1.15; No. 2 northern, $1.12@1.13; to arrive, $1.12@1.13; No. 3 wheat, $1.07@1.11; No. 3 yellow corn, 57¾@57¾c; No. 3 white oats, 42⅞@42⅞c; No. 2 rye, 72¾@73¾c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,199 tons. The market was steady, demand strong and general. Shipments were about nominal and prices held firm. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $22.00@22.50.

The flour market was in the same old rut. Dullness was the feature. Shipments showed a falling off from yesterday. Demand was slow and prices firm. Shipments, 42,223 bbl. First patents, in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.40@5.60; second patents, $5.20@5.40; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.10@3.40.

EARLY RISE WIPED OUT

Stocks Start Upward, Making Good Advance, But Gains Are Lost.

Increase in Copper Metal Stocks Causes Decline and Close Easy.

New York, March 10.—Prices of stocks tended upwards in the opening dealings today, which were on a large scale. A few exceptions were amongst the less conspicuous stocks and did not affect the firm tone of the opening market. Union Pacific was a feature with an initial rise of 1¾. Rock Island preferred and Virginia-Carolina Chemical rose 1, and Southern Pacific, Reading and Louisville & Nashville large fractions. General Electric and International Paper declined large fractions.

The opening display of strength encouraged more general buying. The rise was carried further on large dealings. Dividend-paying railroad stocks were heavily bought, and there was also an active inquiry for some of the metal stocks. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis was bid up 3, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred 1¾, Union Pacific 1⅛, Norfolk & Western and Rock Island preferred 1½, the common 1¼, and Northwestern, Pennsylvania, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, Consolidated Gas and other specialties 1. Profit-taking sales wiped out practically all of the above advances, and trading became quiet.

London sold stocks in this market today notwithstanding subscriptions by foreigners to our new bond issues. When this selling had been absorbed prices advanced. There was less anxiety over the strike situation in Philadelphia than yesterday. Rumors of coming dividend increases were stimulated by the higher New York Central dividend. The increase in copper stocks reported by the producers' association caused a setback to prices. The tone was heavy and dull at noon. Bonds were firm.

The market closed easy. The later trading did not free the market from the depression caused by the copper producers' statistics. Prices dragged about last night's closing level. Union Pacific lost all its gains. St. Louis-Southwestern, Colorado Fuel and North American fell 1. United States Express rose 6. Higher rates were made for time loans.

GUSTAVE HENNECKE, 211 E. SUP. ST.

This lady supplies her "wants" by calling phone 324 and letting it tell the public through the columns of The Herald.

Last week she wanted a cook, lost a watch, and wanted a good seamstress. She inserted ads in The Herald and was delighted at the results.

This week she wants to buy some antique furniture, her nurse is sick, and she wants a governess for her little girl. She feels sure that she will get what she wants, for she told phone 324 about it.

324 is for you as well as for her. See that you use it as much as she does and you'll be more than pleased.

NELSON AND OTHERS IN PROBE INQUIRING INTO PERJURY LAWS

Much Comment Caused By Aftermath of Garfield's Testimony.

Cunningham Affidavit Attracts Attention in Land Office Case.

Davis Says Ballinger Knew Little of Work in That Service.

Washington, March 11.—Today has seen more comment on the revelations in the inquiry into the conduct of the general land office than any day since that on which Gifford Pinchot made his accusations against Secretary Ballinger, and the comment has circled principally about the acknowledged fact that after James R. Garfield's testimony yesterday the congressional committee held a discussion on the perjury laws. It is said that the discussion included the possible application of those laws in instances such as that recited yesterday concerning the Cunningham affidavit as to affairs in La Touche.

Some more interesting details of the land office business were brought out today in the examination of Civil Engineer A. P. Davis, who asserted that he had found Mr. Ballinger decidedly lacking in either information or interest regarding affairs over which he had supervision.

To Corroborate Glavis.

With the testimony of Louis R. Glavis, Gifford Pinchot and Former Secretary James R. Garfield all in, the prosecution at the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing today began the introduction of evidence which is intended to be in corroboration of the three principal witnesses. The first person called was A. P. Davis, chief engineer of the reclamation service.

Mr. Davis let it be known that he took the stand reluctantly and declared

FIND ORIGIN OF BERI-BERI

Doctors Tell of Experiments Conducted With Users of Rice.

Manila, P. I., March 11.—The theory that beri-beri has its origin in the practice of polishing rice was practically accepted by the Far Eastern association medical conference today. Polishing removes the skin, containing phosphorus. Doctors H. Fraser of the Federated Malay states, J. De Haan of The Netherlands and Hans Aron of Manila reported a series of experiments covering the use of polished and unpolished rice. All agreed as to the results of the experiments, which showed that the disease was non-infectious and non-communicative.

WOULD ADD $200,000,000

Telephone Trust May Raise Its Capital Stock to $500,000,000.

Annual Report Shows Net Revenue of $30,000,000 for 1909.

New York, March 11.—A recommendation that the capital stock of the American Telephone & Telegraph company—the so-called telephone trust—be increased to $500,000,000 is contained in the company's annual report made today, but other than to say that the company desires to be "forehanded" no reason is given for the proposed increase of $200,000,000.

Wall street believes that the company intends still greater expansion, though the report states "that none of this increase will be needed during the current year for ordinary capital expenditures."

The report shows that the number of telephone stations in the Bell system was increased to 5,000,000, including 1,500,000 operated by connecting companies. The wire in use is shown to aggregate 10,000,000 miles. Traffic has increased to nearly 20,000,000 connections a day or about 6,500,000,000 connections a year.

Net Revenue of $30,000,000.

The company had a net revenue for 1909 of $30,000,000. The Bell system earned gross $149,914,700, an increase of $11,770,400 over last year. Net earnings for the Bell system were $48,367,500, out of which $23,910,600 were paid in dividends; $10,221,400 expended for interest and $14,235,500 placed in the surplus. Out of the gross earnings nearly $45,000,000 was charged to depreciation and maintenance.

No new phases of the taking over of the Western Union Telegraph company by the telephone company were developed in the report.

IN TROUBLE OVER FRACAS AT CLUB

CHARLES G. GATES,
Son of John W. Gates.

New York, March 11.—About two weeks ago, on his last visit to New York, Charles G. Gates created a disturbance in the billiard room of the New York Athletic club which probably will cause his suspension from the club for at least one year. He attempted to poke fun at the playing of W. J. De Aguero, one of the board of governors. De Aguero strenuously objected and Gates slapped his face, and but for the interference of bystanders there would have been a fight. It is not known just what punishment was meted out to Gates, but it was probably a year's suspension. Mr. Gates is the son and heir of the only John W. and is engaged with his father in developing oil fields in Texas.

FIGHTS ONLY TWO OF THEM

Italian Deputy Is Released By the Other Three Challengers.

Gets His Chin Hurt and Stabs General in the Arm.

Rome, March 11.—The honor of every one concerned having been vindicated in the two duels fought by Eugenio Chiesa, the Republican deputy of Milan, the other three engagements for the offending party were called off today.

In the chamber of deputies last Friday, Chiesa, who has a reputation both as a duellist and as a debater who does not mince his words, addressed an interrogation to the government concerning what he described as the influence of the Austrian Baroness Siemens on the Italian army by reason of her acquaintance of the late Lieut. Gen. Tancredi Saletta and subsequently with Gen. Fecia di Cossato, who is the commander of the grand maneuvers and who is said to be engaged to marry the baroness.

Gen. Prudente, under secretary of war, refused to reply, whereupon he was roundly abused by Chiesa, who took occasion to remark that Duchess di Litta had been a great favorite with the late King Humbert.

Five Wanted to Fight Him.

Count Giacomo Morando, a nephew of the duchess, boxed Chiesa's ears, and then challenged the latter to com-

CALIFORNIA GETS GENTLE REMINDER

Most Severe Earthquake Since That of 1906 Is Felt There.

San Francisco, Cal., March 11.—A sharp earthquake, in some parts of the state the severest shock since the big one in 1906, was experienced throughout the central part of California last night about 10:54 o'clock.

The vibrations were long and undulatory but slow and the duration as usually given from one and a half to four seconds. The shake was felt as far south as San Luis Obispo, but did not appear to extend far north of San Francisco. The pronounced heavy movements with a slight interval of undulations between were felt, but no damage has been reported.

In San Francisco the people were generally aroused and in the Western Union office virtually every operator left his key, which caused a report to come from Portland that some of the San Francisco wires had been interrupted.

Scared Theater Crowds.

In two of the local theaters where the last act was closing, scores of people jumped to their feet and in one of them there was a decided movement from the galleries toward the exits, which was promptly stopped by a policeman.

SCORES OF WITNESSES

Small Army on Hand to Testify in Maybray Cases.

Michigan and Wisconsin Men on Stand at Council Bluffs.

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 11.—United States District Attorney Temple had 127 witnesses on hand when the case of John C. Maybray and eighteen assistants were resumed today. Judge Smith McPherson, presiding, gave notice that daily proceedings would last until 6 p. m., with night sessions if necessary.

Postoffice Inspector Wenson, who has obtained most of the evidence in the Maybray cases, said today that the known collection by the defendants would aggregate $1,000,000. "Stores" were operated in New Orleans, Little Rock, Denver, Council Bluffs, Davenport and South Bend which did a thriving business, while at Seattle and other Northwestern points less active institutions were made part of the string owned by the club.

After Men on Coast.

Efforts are being made to obtain the presence of R. B. Harriman, Frank W. Brown and Ed Moore, arrested some time ago in Los Angeles, but later allowed to leave. They are included in the blanket indictment against Maybray and eighty-two others. Harriman is alleged to have been "secretary" of the "Millionaires' club" and to have handled all the money of the organization.

Counsel for the defense have given no inkling of what will be presented to counteract the testimony offered by the government. Cross-examination of witnesses thus far has been limited, but Emmett Tinley, leading counsel for the defendants, indicated that he would be prepared with half a hundred persons to meet the evidence for the government. It is not believed Maybray himself will take the stand.

Michigan Witnesses Heard.

Sensational testimony by four government witnesses, the first called in the case, featured yesterday's proceedings in the case.

The testimony was given by Thomas Gay, indicted with Maybray, but who turned government witness; James Coon of Owosso, Mich., and Ernest Fenby, a professional wrestler, whose

SHOT FOR LIKING WRONG SUITOR

Girl at Judson, Minn., Wounded By Father Who Then Attempts Suicide.

Mankato, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because his daughter, Maude, accepted attentions from a young man to whom he objected, Robert Pfeiffer, a laborer, living in the village of Judson, near here, last night shot his daughter and then fired two bullets into his own breast.

Both were brought to a hospital here, where it is said the father will probably die, while the girl has a chance to recover.

HAVE HOPES OF FORCING ADJUSTMENT

Philadelphia Business Interests Plan to Assert Public Rights.

Some Concessions Bring Non-Union Men Back to Their Work.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—Another effort to find some method by which the struggle between the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company and the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway & Electric Employes can be ended was scheduled to be made today by the United Businessmen's association. This body represents thirty-two bodies of business organizations with 12,000 members. A convention composed of delegates from these trade bodies, and from religious and fraternal societies as well as commercial and other organizations was called to meet this afternoon to discuss the subject.

It was expected this morning that a strong and representative committee would be appointed to take steps to bring the two warring sides together. The meeting, it was said, would take the ground that the general public has some rights in the present situation. A powerful demand was planned to end the struggle quickly.

Keep After Recruits.

The Committee of Ten which has the general strike in charge is bending all efforts towards securing recruits from the big industrial plants. Men whose occupation is to supply the necessities of life are not being interfered with.

The transit company continues to increase the number of cars in operation, although slowly.

Emerson School Pupil Is Given Gold Badge in National Essay Contest.

The Emerson school of the city has won honor for the Duluth schools as one of the pupils of the eighth grade of that school won a gold badge for the best essay, in which children from all over the nation competed. The Little Chronicle, a children's school magazine offered prizes for the best essay on "Public Health." Miss Gertrude Eaton, teacher of the eighth grade at the Emerson, interested her pupils in the contest and many sent in essays. The first prize, a gold badge, was won by Miss Antoinette Saucier an. several of the children who competed received honorable mention. When the number of children throughout America who competed, is taken into consideration, the honor is one that is very well worth while.

The Emerson school is at Eleventh avenue west and Third street and Miss Elinore Thomson is principal.

Breshkovskaya, who was sentenced Wednesday to exile in Siberia as an active member of revolutionary societies. Her companion in the trial was acquitted. During the trial none was admitted except the principals and attorneys, except the wife of Tschaikovsky. Mme. Breshkovskaya's son, her only living relative, does not share his mother's political views, and as a result she has disowned him.

CARS LOST WITH FERRY ARE FOUND

Relics of Wreck on Lake Erie Last Fall Are Discovered.

Erie, Pa., March 11.—According to a report here today, trace has at last been found of the wrecked Marquette Car Ferry No. 2, of the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad. The craft went down in a storm on Lake Erie the night of Dec. 7, 1909, with thirty-two men on board. The report states that a lot of cars aboard the ferry when she sank, have been discovered under the ice off Port Bruce, Ont., fourteen miles from Port Stanley and that the hulk of the ferry is also visible.

BLACK EYE FOR ROOT

New York State Senators Turn Down His Choice at Albany.

Cobb Is Elected to Succeed Allds and Sherman Is "Not Pleased."

Albany, N. Y., March 11.—George H. Cobb of Watertown, will succeeed Senator Jotham P. Allds as president protem of the New York senate. The telegram which United States Senator Elihu Root sent from Washington urging the election of Senator Harvey D. Hinman of Binghampton, the appeal in Hinman's behalf by Governor Hughes at the eleventa hour, and the influence of the federal administration at Washington proved unavailing against the organization forces headed by Chairman Tim L. Woodruff of the Republican state committee.

Voted More Than Four Hours.

Cobb was named as the choice of the majority at a conference of the Republican senators which began shortly after 8 o'clock last night and did not end until an early hour today. On the forty-ninth ballot two of the supporters of Senator George A. Davis of Buffalo deserted for Cobb, who throughout the balloting had fourteen votes. Seventeen were necessary for a choice.

With victory in his grasp, Cobb stepped into the gap with a ballot for Thomas Thorne, Actor, Kills Himself While Despondent in Chicago.

Chicago, March 11.—Thomas Thorne, an actor, killed himself in his room today while despondent. He used the thick cord from a bath robe, tying one end around his neck and the other to a door hinge. Thorne's home was in New York.

PLAN ORDER ON MEXICAN BORDER

Business Men Want Anti-Saloon and Anti-Gambling Zone.

San Antonio, Tex., March 11.—An anti-saloon and anti-gambling zone twenty-five miles in width and extending the length of the international border on the Mexican side, is planned by the business men of the Mexican-Texas border. A petition to this effect will be presented to President Diaz.

It is alleged hat undesirable persons, during the Juarez race meet, made their headquarters in Juarez, and have since scattered through Northern Mexico and the border towns. Governor Creel, it is stated, will insist that certain reformations be brought about before the next season of racing at Juarez.

LANDIS HITS THEM HARD

Driesbach and Broadwell Bear Brunt of Sentences By the Court.

Bortz Draws Eighteen Months in Chicago House of Correction.

All Are Ordered to Begin Their Imprisonment Without Delay.

Chicago, March 11.—Summary action was taken today by Judge K. M. Landis of the United States district court in sentencing violators of the federal laws regulating the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine.

He fixed the punishment of Samuel Driesbach, who pleaded guilty, at a fine of $15,000 and six years' imprisonment in the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

To Daniel Bortz, who also pleaded guilty, the court meted out an eighteen months' term in the house of correction in this city.

William Broadwell, who was sentenced some days ago, must meet like punishment with Driesbach.

On the order of the court, Bortz was immediately taken to the prison and preparations were made to take Driesbach and Broadwell to Leavenworth today.

Quick Action a Surprise.

The quick execution of the sentence was unexpected, as it had been intimated by the presiding judge that the men, who have been giving much information concerning the olemargarine business, would not be sent to jail until their confessions had been given to the grand jury.

The attention of the court had been called to statements attributed to the three defendants since they were sent to the county jail to await the grand jury investigation, and today he disposed of the cases by sentencing the men.

May Be Brought Back.

Should the grand jury, which is expected to take up the investigation of the alleged irregularities in the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, make a request, the prisoners will be returned from the prison to testify.

FAVORS BILLS ON STATEHOOD

Senate Committee Orders Reports on Arizona and New Mexico.

Washington, March 11.—The senate committee on territories today voted to report favorably the Arizona and New Mexico statehood bills after adopting an amendment against disfranchising Mexican votes. All of the Democrats opposed the amendment except Clarke of Arkansas. If defeated it would have made the new states Democratic.

FOUR MEAT FIRMS PLEAD

Answer "Not Guilty" to the Charges in New Jersey Indictments.

National Packing Company, Morris, Armour and Swift Houses Appear.

New York, March 11.—Former State Senator William E. Edwards appeared before Judges Blair and Carey in the special sessions court in Jersey City today and entered pleas of not guilty on behalf of four of the corporations which were indicted recently by the Hudson county grand jury as a result of investigations as to high prices of food. The corporations were indicted for conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Senator Edwards said he appeared on behalf of the National Packing company, Morris & Co., Swift & Co., and Armour & Co. He reserved the right to withdraw the plead and demur to the indictment.

It was decided that inasmuch as it would be almost impossible to hold a corporation in any specific amount of bail, no bond would be required from the indicted meat concerns.

Prosecutor Garven said he could not ask the court to fix a date for trial, as several of the individuals and corporations indicted had not yet entered pleas.

ASSISTANTS APPOINTED

Bert Fesler Takes Oath of Office as City Attorney.

Oliver S. Andresen and Walter Dacey Named as Assistants.

Bert Fesler, appointed city attorney by Mayor Cullum last Tuesday, took his oath of office before City Clerk H. W. Cheadle yesterday afternoon and has assumed his official position, succeeding C. S. Wilson, who has served the last two years.

Mr. Fesler today announced that his assistants will be Oliver S. Andresen and Walter Dacey, both young attorneys of ability. Mr. Andresen will likely act as office assistant to Mr. Fesler and Mr. Dacey will probably have charge of the criminal prosecutions in municipal court.

The mayor in his annual message spoke of the legal department and mentioned a few of the more important matters with which it will deal. Mr. Fesler was city attorney during two previous administrations of Mayor Cullum and made an excellent record. Probably the most important case was the railroad action relative to the viaduct over railroad property which he won in the United States supreme court.

"ARBOR AND BIRD DAY" IS FIXED

Governor Sets April 29 as Day for Special Work in Schools.

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a proclamation issued today Governor Eberhart designates Friday, April, 29, to be observed as "Arbor and Bird day." The governor cites the widespread awakening of interest in the reforestration in Minnesota as a proper warning that further devastation must be stopped, and that the present time is opportune for retrieving the losses sustained by reckless slaughter of the state's timber.

The proclamation also calls upon those in charge of public and private schools to celebrate the day with appropriate exercises, "including features to emphasize the value of the study of ornithology and the necessity for conserving the bird life of the state."

MOTHER WANTS NEWS OF HER MISSING SON.

Mrs. Anna B. Weldon, giving her address as 53 Doyle avenue, Providence, R. I., wrote the health department this morning for information regarding her son, Clarence A. Weldon. She wanted to know if anyone of that name or bearing those initials had died in this city since Dec. 15, the date of the last letter she received from him. The records showed no such name or initials. She is greatly worried about him and fears that he may have been harmed in some manner.

WOMEN WILL NOT GIVE UP

Label League Refuses to Be Ousted From State Federation of Labor.

The Women's Union Label league, which has branches in Duluth, Minneapolis, Winona, Red Wing, Superior and Brainerd, refuses to consider itself out of the State Federation of Labor unless it is ousted at the state convention to be held in Fargo next June. Then an appeal may be taken to the American Federation of Labor in the hope that it may be accepted to membership and by that means retain its membership in the Minnesota state organization.

The state federation has refused to accept the per capita tax of the Label league on the grounds that it is not a bona fide labor organization. The women claim that since they have once been taken into the state federation, they are entitled to retain their membership. Opponents of women's suffrage, they say, are responsible for the attempt at ejection, but the women say they will fight for their votes. They say they do not care so much for the votes as for the prestige membership in the state federation gives them.

FARGO MEN CHARGED WITH CRIMINAL LIBEL.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Warrants were served today by Sheriff Taylor of Towner county on H. C. Plumley, manager, and Charles Brewer, managing editor of the Fargo Forum, charging criminal libel. The action grows out of charges recently published regarding alleged school land frauds in Towner county. The complaints are made by H. H. Thompson, eldest son of Fountain L. Thompson, who was appointed United States senator to succeed the late M. N. Johnson and afterwards succeeded by State Senator Purcell. Half the school lands in question are now owned by F. L. Thompson.

WOULD BE PAID FOR INJURIES

Philip Cyr Brings Suit Against Street Railway Company for $10,250.

The case of Philip Cyr against the Duluth Street Railway company for $10,250 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he was hit by a trolley car one day last fall, was taken up this morning before Judge Dibell of the district court.

Cyr claims that the street car was running at an excessive rate of speed and that he was driving a lumber wagon across the track in the vicinity of the Alger-Smith mill with all due care. The car hove quickly into sight around a bend in the road, he states, and was upon him before he could get out of the way.

As a result of the accident he claims that he sustained severe injuries to his spine.

SNOW AND ICE CONDITIONS.

The government snow and ice bulletin issued March 8, says:

"Light flurries of snow occurred in the Lake region on the morning of March 7, aside from which no appreciable snowfall was reported during the week from any portion of the United States.

"With the continuation of moderately warm weather a large amount of snow has disappeared from all northern districts during the week, and only small areas east of the Rocky mountains are now covered to any considerable depths.

"In Northern New York and the interior of New England the snow in the woods and other protected localities ranges from one to two feet in depth, but in the open country it has largely disappeared. In portions of Northwestern Pennsylvania and Western New York there is still a covering of several inches, and considerable snow remains on the ground in Northern Michigan and over the greater part of the states of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"In the mountain regions of the West the snow has disappeared from all the lower elevations and there appears to have been a large reduction in the depths at the higher elevations. At Leadville, Colo., above 10,000 feet elevation, the decrease in depth during the week was nearly two feet, and in the Yelolwstone National Park, Wyo., above 6,000 feet elevation, the decrease was slightly greater.

Ice in Rivers and Harbors.

"As a result of the continued warm weather and the general rise in the rivers the ice is being rapidly broken up and appears to be passing out of the various streams without the formation of gorges or seriously interfering with navigation in the open portions of the rivers.

"In the Missouri the ice appears to be breaking up throughout its entire course, due mostly to the rising waters.

"The Mississippi is open below Dubuque, but the ice above that point appears to be intact. The ice has practically disappeared from the Ohio river and its tributaries, and likewise from the main streams of the Atlantic coast, except in New England, where the rivers and lakes are still generally ice covered.

"In the Great Lakes the westerly winds have driven the ice fields toward the eastern sides or ends of the lakes, and the harbors of the western portions are generally free of ice, except in Lake Superior, where but little change has occurred since last week."

FEWER AFTER MONEY.

Officials of Cleveland Bank Say Run Is Falling Off.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 11.—Almost with the dawn this morning excited depositors commenced to gather about the bank of the Society for Savings. When business began, the third day of the run opened with several hundred men and women thronging the doors of the bank, and in half a dozen languages calling for money. The crowd, however, was appreciably smaller than on yesterday. The bank officers declared that they expected the flurry would end today.

Published statements by the bank officials and the state examiner, and telegrams from the biggest financial houses of America offering help and expressing confidence, have apparently had an effect in checking the panic.

The cause of the run remains a mystery.

DELEGATES FROM DULUTH

Zenith City to Be Well Represented at the Conservation Congress.

Governor Eberhart Appoints Members of the Reception Committee.

Duluth will be well represented at the conservation congress to be held at St. Paul, March 16, 17 and 18.

A number of the women's clubs of the city will be represented as will the Commercial club and other public bodies.

The meetings wil be attended by delegates from the most remote corners of the state. It is now expected that the congress will be the biggest undertaking of the kind ever attempted in Minnesota.

The reception committee as appointed by the governor follows: W. G. Hegardt, J. L. Washburn, Thomas F. Cole, C. A. Congdon, Ward Ames, W. J. Olcott, J. H. Hearding, G. G. Hartley, C. R. Rust, W. R. Peyton, M. Bunnell, A. C. Weiss, R. B. Knox, C. P. Craig, W. A. McGonagle, A. H. Comstock, F. A. Patrick, T. W. Hugo, W. J. Prince, S. H. Jones, Bishop McGolrick, Bishop Morrison, J. G. Williams, E. W. Bohannon and D. H. Williams.

The delegates from the Commercial club are: Judge W. L. Windom, John Uno Sebenius, George Rupley, Odin Halden, N. J. Upham, L. B. Arnold, H. G. Mooney, J. F. Thomas, G. A. Everest, Oscar Lonegren, Maj. H. V. Eva, John Stone Pardee and Edward Hazen.

Among the Duluth women who have been named by Governor Eberhart as delegates to the congress are: Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard, Mrs. F. L. Barrows, Mrs. E. W. Bohannan, Mrs. W. H. Burris, Mrs. C. H. Merritt, Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst, Mrs. Nella Williams, Mrs. Ella F. Gearhart and Mrs. Helen Stewart and Miss Jean Poirier.

A. O. PERRY BELIEVES IN "DO IT FOR DULUTH" SLOGAN.

A. O. Perry, the new proprietor of the Spalding hotel, is a firm believer in the "Do it for Duluth" idea. Since assuming charge of the Spalding Mr. Perry has purchased all the supplies of the hotel in this city, with but a few exceptions, those exceptions being goods that were not kept in Duluth.

Today Mr. Perry stated that he has found that most of the supplied that were used at the Spalding—furnishings, supplies for the table and other articles needed in a large hotel—could be purchased more advantageously in Duluth than they could in any other city.

"I have found the wholesale groceries in this city the best of any I have traded with," said Mr. Perry. "I have also found the other stores here thoroughly modern and up-to-date in every detail. I have made it a practice to purchase the goods of my different houses in the city in which they are located, if the prices and conditions are right. In Duluth I have found both the prices right and the goods of the best. Therefore I shall continue purchasing the supplies for the Spalding in this city. I think it is only fair to the dealers of Duluth."

VERDICT FOR THE PLAINTIFF

Rantio and Himango Recover $1,027.88 From the Duluth Log Company.

A jury in the district court this morning returned a verdict of $250 in favor of Richard Rautio and Otto Himango, who sued the Duluth Log company for $4,000, claiming that the logging concern violated terms of a contract for a certain amount of timber.

The verdict would have been set aside by Judge Dibell had not the two sides got together in open court and decided on $1,027.88 in favor of the plaintiff. There was a matter of some $900 that both agreed was coming to the plaintiff. The jury evidently had forgotten this item and failed to include it in the verdict.

BOAT COMPANIES INCORPORATE

Duluth the Home of Majority of the Vessels on Lakes.

The Houghton Transit company and the Raleigh Steamship company this morning filed articles of incorporation by the same men. The Houghton Transit company is capitalized to the amount of $10,000 and the Raleigh Steamship company, $150,000. The incorporators are: Fred P. Houghton, David W. Stocking and Herbert R. Spencer. The principal office of the companies will be at the city of Duluth, although they may have branch offices at other ports on the Great Lakes. The companies are already in business, and it is understood that they will enroll their boats from this port so that the low tax rate in this state may be taken advantage of. The board of directors of each company is composed entirely of Detroit, Mich., men.

Some three years ago a law was passed in this state setting the tax on vessels at 3 cents per net ton. Since that time a large number of the companies have taken advantage of the low tax rate and now a majority of the boats on the lakes are "of Duluth."

WALKED AWAY WITH BABY CARRIAGE.

Some woman who evidently believes in the motto, "If you see what you want, help yourself," practiced what she preached last evening, when she walked away with the baby carriage belonging to Mrs. James J. Hughes at 2722 West Third street. Mrs. Hughes had just left it on the porch when the woman who wanted it came along. She took it from the porch where it had been left a few minutes before, although she had no baby with her to wheel. Some boys followed her and gave the police her description. Mrs Hughes isn't anxious to prosecute and is willing to drop the case if the baby carriage is returned.

NEW FIRE BOARD WILL MEET

The board of fire commissioners will meet tonight to organize for the coming year. President William Burgess will retire, being succeeded by Commissioner James Hart, appointed by Mayor Cullum last Tuesday. He took his oath of office before City Clerk H. W. Cheadle this morning. H. H. Lemont will retire as secretary and J. H. McCall, secretary to the mayor, will be elected to succeed him. The two positions go by custom to the same man.

Mr. Lemont has several positions in view but as yet he has accepted none of the offers made to him.

OLSON AGAIN PRESIDENT

Only Democratic Member Heads the Board of Public Works.

City Electrician Will Be Chosen By the Board Soon.

The board of public works, composed of a majority of Republican members, this morning organized for the coming year and elected O. G. Olson, a Democrat, president.

Mr. Olson is practically the only old member on the board, one having served but a year and the other having just taken his position as successor to James Preston, resigned. Mr. Olson has been on the board over six years and has been president before. R. Murchison was re-elected clerk of the board. Mr. Murchison has held the place for many years and is unusually well posted on public improvements in the city.

The board this morning discussed the advisability of securing a city electrician, which position has been vacant for some months. It is considered necessary that it be filled shortly and steps will be taken to that end. Other routine business was transacted. Monday the board will have hearings on seventeen different assessments and also on five condemnation reports on slopes for cuts and fills in streets and avenues.

PROF. HAECKER TO LECTURE

Member of Agricultural School Faculty Will Speak on "Dairying."

Prof. T. L. Haecker, professor of dairy husbandry and animal nutrition at the Minnesota Agricultural school, will speak on "Dairying" at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, the lecture being one of the series on agriculture being conducted jointly by the Y. M. C. A. and the Commercial club.

Prof. Haecker has been a student of dairying in general and in Minnesota in particular for many years and his talk should be one of the most interesting of the series. There is wide interest in dairying in this part of the state on account of the successes that have been made on experimental dairy farms and the lecture tonight is expected to be well attended.

FIVE NEW CARS ARE PURCHASED

Street Railway Company May Send New Equipment to Superior.

Of the new large cars purchased the present spring by the Twin City Rapid Transit company, five will be sent to the Head of the Lakes. These cars will either be placed in service in this city or Superior, or will be placed on the Duluth-Superior line.

Manager Warren stated today that there were sufficient cars in Duluth at the present time, but that Superior had inadequate service, and for that reason there was a possibility that the new cars might be placed in service on the other side of the bay.

Mr. Warren stated that cars were possibly needed on the West Fourth street line, but that the company was not ready at the present time to place the big cars on that line. Therefore he stated that there was no crying need for big cars in Duluth this spring.

Barlow, N. D., Elevator Burns.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—The farmers' elevator at Barlow, Foster county, was burned Wednesday night. The flames started from a hot box in the top of the building. The structure was valued at $8,000 and it contained 30,000 bushels of flax and wheat, all of which is a total loss.

"THE FURNITURE MAN"

ODD FELLOWS' HALL BUILDING 18 and 20 Lake Avenue North.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The art exhibit being arranged by the Duluth Art association will be held in Duluth for two weeks, beginning May 2. This change in date was decided last evening at a meeting of the committee on arrangements, of which Bishop McGolrick is chairman, and it is expected that at that time Duluth will have an art exhibit that will be one of the most important events of the year. The exhibit is to be on a scale that will compare with the exhibits of the large centers of the country and it is estimated that pictures to the value of $250,000 will be shown for the pleasure and education of Duluth people.

The exhibit will be held on the fourth floor of the courthouse, a place admirably fitted for the purpose. There will be pictures from the Chicago Art Institute and from other large collections as well as famous collectors and dealers in Eastern cities. There will also be a loan collection of pictures owned by Duluthians that are of value. In Duluth homes there are pictures of rare artistic value that are necessarily restricted to the observation of the few and many of the owners have signified their willingness to loan their pictures for this purpose.

There will be lectures during the two weeks by out-of-town lecturers and local people, in order that the exhibit may be of the greatest possible value to the people.

A meeting of the finance committee, of which C. C. Hartman is chairman, was also held last evening.

ADELINA PATTI LIVING IN WALES

ADELINA PATTI.

Adelina Patti lives at her beautiful castle in Wales, where she has just celebrated her sixty-seventh birthday. She is as happy apparently in her third married life as she was in the first two. She was the daughter of Salvatore Patti of Catania in Sicily and was born in Madrid, Feb.19, 1843. She made her debut in the old Academy of Music in New York in November, 1859. It is interesting to note that the present season saw the last attempt to convert the old academy to operatic purposes again.

COIFFURE STYLES.

Chignons Are to Again Be in Style.

Chignon of small curls has displaced the plain effect of the Brittany braid coiffure.

The hair is worn flat on the top of the head, but wide on the side and extending around to the back in a regular chignon.

The chignon of our mother's day was a bulky, unsanitary thing, but we have progressed and we have now all sorts of clever, light weight, becoming arrangements which give the requisite width without burdening the wearer.

Even the omnipresent rat, or hair-roll, is being displaced by transformation and false pompadours.

These latter are simply the natural hair fastened to a webbing, which is worn either over or under the wearer's own tresses, augmenting them considerably and giving the full, fluffy effect, which is absolutely essential with the hats of the day.

Puffs singly or in strings or clusters do much to enhance an unattractive coiffure and are easily adjusted.

There is one arrangement of short curly hair, which can be worn either as a cluster of puffs or in tiny little curls, exactly at the back. Sometimes this is varied to have both puffs and curls.

Single curls are molded on long hairpins, and added just where they will give the right touch.

Long, thick braids finished with a cluster of small puffs at either side are worn in a fillet-like manner from ear to ear, just above the waved parted front hair.

These Grecian bands, by the way, play a prominent part in the headdress of the day.

Jeweled or jetted or fancy ribbon bands are used to confine the fullness of the hair and give the requisite flat effect at the forehead.

There is a new barrette in use which is almost filet-like in the way it is worn, but it extends from the ears down on either side.

BRIDAL WHITE

Is Passing—So Hopes One Masculine Writer.

At last a change in feminine costuming has come about that ought to bring satisfaction to men and joy to women. We are told that a new sartorial revolution is taking place that will transform the conventional wedding dress of deadly white into a thing less sugestive of the tomb, says the Kansas City Journal. A recent London bride crossed the Rubicon and was married in a gown of rose tint, and in place of the pallid cluster of orange blossoms she wore a wreath of fresh myrtle. To be sure, she did not do away with the traditional tulle veil, but even this article, usually suggestive of a shroud, was so arranged it did not hide her face. It was fastened in a box at the crown of her head and depended gracefully down her back, leaving the face frankly and honestly exposed.

All brides are beautiful, as a matter of course; but many a girl to whom white lends an accentuation of paleness is dressed in bridal white at a sacrifice of much of her own natural loveliness. The starting point of the ghastly white of the bridal dress is lost in antiquity; but it is probably of a religious origin, white being the synonym of purity and innocence. Yet white as a bridal color is about as grotesque as could be imagined if considered logically. White is the color of snow, the hair of hoary age and the cerements of death.

What, pray, has youth to do with these things? A bride should be the very embodiment of life, vernal beauty and that warm innocence which displays itself in colors. Is there anything in this gray old world more suggestive of purity than the rose that is tinged with the pink of sunrise bearing in its heart the dewy pearl drop?

Despite ancient theories and prejudices, an orange blossom is not in itself pretty. The apple blossom is warmer and hints of health and sweetness. The white rose is not a natural growth. It is a hybrid chilled by the hand of man into a thing of stillness and solemnity. It has no perfume worthy of the name. But an Alexandra bud with its delicate shading of ethereal pink is vibrant with love and hope and beauty. That is the rose for a bride. And why the draperies of white to deck a radiant woman at the altar? Is she lost to the world in a cloister where her soul and body become the sacrifice of love? Does marriage end all, even life? Let us take a leaf from the customs of savages, who at least know nature better than we do, and adorn our brides with color and bright flowers. The morning of life is glorious with reds, purples, greens, gold and violet. The evening sky is cold and gray.

THE HOPED FOR.

Some of the Styles That Would Be Welcome.

A revival asking for recognition this spring on the score of prettiness is the undersleeve of lace or net bouffant at the wrist. The sleeve proper is tight-fitting to below the elbow, and then discovers the bouffant, which both spoils the outline of the attache and looks untidy and too often dirty into the bargain.

The first skirmishes of La Mode are always in the millinery world at the demisaison. February sees the early straws putting in an appearance and the dipping down below the horizon of the wintry felts and beavers. But a most useful "betwixt and between" at this juncture is the stretched satin shape which is trimmed with an enormous chou of satin or velvet or a market posy of roses or violets. The toque of flowers is favorite now, too.

In spite of all the prognostications to the contrary—and it must be owned that the wish is father to the thought here, is only for comfort's sake—there has been but little decrease in size, but they are no longer of the extinguisher shape, says the Queen.

Blue serge is, as always, well to the front for early spring wear, enlivened with the rich tints of the Roumanian and Persian embroideries; but the neutral shades are all favored, especially gris hirondelle (does not the very name incline one toward it?)—a foretaste of the days when the swallow will have returned to us and the winter be past—at least, we hope so, for hope invariably rises superior to experience in spring time, which too often bears out the truth of the proverb that one swallow does not make a summer.

Mauve Flowers.

Pink and mauve are heralded as the hues in flowers that are to be most in favor this spring, and the flower farmers now are bending their best efforts to the production of an abundance of purple and pink blooms. A change in furnishing fashions is said to be responsible for the new demand. A year or two ago when yellow drawing rooms were in vogue, yellows and rich bronzes were the favored colors in flowers, and it was about this time the chrysanthemum enjoyed its greatest popularity. Now the old-fashioned chintz patterns are being revived, and upholstery is in flower-patterned materials, in which reds, old rose, heliotrope and purple are blended. Curtains, wall paper, and even ornaments have fallen under the same color influence, and it is found pink and mauve flowers give a much better effect than yellow blooms in such a room.

Fire Victim Dead.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elwood Burkhardt, the chauffeur, who was so seriously injured in the burning of the Northwestern School Supply company building that he was removed to a hospital is dead. He was 16 years old and was a pupil of the Bryant school. He was driving a car for Payson Smith, a neighbor. Burkhardt plunged through smoke and flame down the elevator shaft.

Latest Subscription Edition Revised to Date 1910.

A complete and fascinating narrative of our country's life from earliest times to the present day

Dr. Lossing was more than a historian, and he was more than an engaging writer, though to be sure, he was both of these. But he was also a great authority; a court of last resort for facts and data; and from his statement there is no appeal.

Brander Matthews says: "He was the most conscientious and thorough writer of history that our country has produced."

A PICTORIAL MARVEL, INCLUDING OVER 1,000 ILLUSTRATIONS (INCLUDING MANY FULL-PAGE COLORED PLATES by F. O. C. DARLEY, THOMAS NAST CHAPPELL, POWELL, TRUMBULL, LESTER, MATTHEWS, and reproductions of the celebrated BRADY collection of photographs of Civil War heroes, Grant, Lee, Sherman, Johnson, Sheridan, Jackson, etc., etc. These priceless negatives were loaned by the Secretary of War for this work, and many of them are produced for the first time. The World's Great Literature

The Masterpieces of Ancient and Modern Times.

HARRY THURSTON PECK, L. H. D., Editor-in-Chief. Frank R. Stockton and Julian Hawthorne, Associate Editors. Introduction by John Russell Young.

This great work is similar to the Warner Library, and in many respects considered superior. It covers the entire field of literature with biographies of all the authors and selections from their works. In no other set of books can so much entertaining and instructive reading be obtained in such compact form. As a Literary Encyclopedia and Reference Work it is invaluable to every home library.

This Monumental Work, 12,000 pages, is printed on superfine Bible paper of extra fine quality and opaqueness with a pure white dead lustre surface. Although each volume contains 1,200 pages the superior quality light weight paper affords a delightfully convenient 12-mo. size volume, a decided relief from the cumbersome form in which such volumes are usually presented. There are many full page illustrations. The set is complete in ten volumes.

Bad Stomach, Poor Appetite, and in Poor Health Six Years, a Veteran of the Civil War, 63 Years of Age, Was Restored to Health and Strength by the Great Blood Purifier and Body Builder--Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

"For five or six years I was in poor health and very weak. Now after taking several bottles of your Whiskey I am well and strong and have gained nearly 25 pounds, and I recommend it to all who are troubled as I was with poor appetite and a bad stomach trouble. I think it is the best medicine for aged people on earth. My daughter, Mrs. R. O. Mason of Bangor, and my son's wife, Mrs. B. W. Otis of Carmel, both speak very highly of it; your medicine did them lots of good. All my friends know how much I have improved since I began to take the Whiskey. They often ask me what I have been taking to fatten me up so; they say, 'You look ten years younger than you did ten years ago.' I tell them I will never be without Duffy's."

REMARKABLE WILL IS FILED

Aged Philanthropist Provides for Women's Hospital in 1985.

Worcester, Mass., March 11.—The beautiful mansion in Main street, between the Old South and Piedmont Congregational churches, for half a century the home of the famous inventor and philanthropist, Thomas H. Dodge, is to be a part of the "Eliza D. and Cora J. D. Dodge hospital" in 1985. This is made obligatory under the will of the aged philanthropist, made when he was 84 years old, and which has just been filed for probate.

Mr. Dodge, who died at the age of 86, had always taken a great interest in movements for the betterment of the social conditions of women. His idea for many years was to found a woman's hospital to perpetuate his name. He had plans made and his will even goes to the length of directing the kind of building material to be used, the dimensions of the various air spaces in the building, th ornamentation, the style of lettering in and upon the front of the building and its exact location, his mansion house to be a part of the general scheme.

A trust fund for the maintenance of the hospital, which is to be for women and children and not for contagious or incurable diseases, amounting to about $1,000,000, is to be set aside, to be placed on interest, and it is figured that at the expiration it will amount to $1,600,000, invested at 4½ per cent, which would double itself every fifteen years.

A provision of the will and the bequest is that there shall stand in the corridor of the new building, to be seen plainly from the entrance, three life-sized, standing portraits of himself, flanked on either side by pictures of his two wives, Elizabeth Daniels and Cora Dodge, the maiden names of the inventor's wives. The will specifies the exact style of frame in which the paintings are to be placed, even to the style of gilt to be used, the width and depth.

In this remarkable will Mr. Dodge went into the most minute detail, even to providing for the extension of the plank walk on the north side of the present mansion house, and the rail of the steps leading to the back door of the mansion being extended to the entrance to the proposed hospital.

Mrs. Cora Dodge, the widow of the philanthropist, is pleased with the will. She entirely approves of the hospital idea, although the will was not made subject to her approval, and regrets that she will not see the carrying out of the plan of her husband. She will remain in the mansion, living with her sister, who is a teacher in the classical high school, and has confided to friends that she will never marry again. She is but little more than 40 years old, and her life work has been devoted to the Y. M. C. A., in connection with which work she met Mr. and Mrs. Dodge nearly twenty-five years ago, during the latter years of Mr. Dodge's life she acted as his confidential clerk.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

SEVENTY-ONE BODIES TAKEN FROM WRECK.

Wellington, Washington, March 11.—When excavation in the avalanche ruins was resumed today seventy-one bodies had been recovered, twenty-nine passengers, thirty-five railroad and postal employes and ten unidentified, mostly Italian laborers. They are still in the gulch and bodies of seventeen passengers, seven trainmen and an uncertain number of work hands are not found.

Railroad officials expressed hope that the track between Wellington and the coast will be opened before night.

The potter's field will be the last resting place of a score of the victims, the coroner fears. The bodies recovered are clad only in sleeping garments or are entirely nude, and identification is almost impossible.

HAS BEEN POSTMASTER LONG ENOUGH, HE SAYS.

Rockford, Ill., March 11.—C. E. Hackett, postmaster of Garen Prairie, has resigned his position because he thinks he has had it long enough. Mr. Hackett was appointed by Abraham Lincoln and has served consecutively except for two years during Cleveland's first administration. He is now more than 70 years old.

S.S.S. THE REMEDY FOR SORES AND ULCERS

There is but one way to cure an old sore or chronic ulcer, and that is to remove the cause that produces and keeps it open. No matter where located, any sore that remains until it becomes chronic does so because of impure blood; the circulation constantly discharges its polluted matter into the place and it is impossible for nature to heal the sore. S. S. S. heals sores and ulcers by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of taint or impurity from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. No local application reaches below the infected flesh at the spot, and for this reason can have no curative effect on a sore or ulcer; while such treatment is being used alone, the germs and impurities are constantly increasing in the blood and the sore is bound to grow worse. When S.S.S. has cleansed the blood and enriched and purified the circulation the place begins to take on a more healthy appearance, the different symptoms show improvement, the flesh around the ulcer gets firm, new skin and tissues are formed, and aided by pure, rich blood, nature provides a perfect and lasting cure. Under the tonic and blood-purifying effects of S.S.S., the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be greatly benefited by its use. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

VILLAGE RECORDS ARE FIRED

Yancey, Village Recorder of Grand Rapids, Placed Under Arrest.

Evidences of Fire Having Been Deliberately Started.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At 2 o'clock this morning, as Henry Rener was returning home from downtown, he discovered a fire in the rear of the village hall. He turned in an alarm and the bell was rung lustily. In a very short time the firemen were on the ground and had a couple of streams playing upon the flames.

The fire was found to be in the village record office and in the electrician's office adjoining. The fire was a stubborn one and it took almost two hours to completely subdue it.

In the meantime many conjectures as to how the fire started were heard. When it became possible to enter the office of the village recorder the firemen and others took lanterns, the electric lights having been extinguished by the wires burning, and penetrated the smoke into the gutted room. The room fairly reeked with kerosene fumes. In one corner was an empty five-gallon kerosene can. On the desk was one of the large record books open face up and around this book was stuffed some old underwear, the whole being saturated with kerosene so heavily that it was almost impossible to put out the fire when it got started on the desk.

Books and Papers Destroyed.

The books and papers are very badly destroyed. The drawers in the counter were all pulled out and there was general disorder in the room. The fire was evidently set in the records office. The blinds were down and the fire burned its way into the electrician's room before it was discovered. This room was papered with rosin paper and it burned very quickly, the heat breaking the glass of the windows giving the fire egress. As soon as the condition of affairs was learned the question was raised: "Where is Yancey," the village recorder. It was learned that Yancey had taken the 1:08 train west. Mayor Boossard at once got the wires busy and the police of all towns west were notified to look out for Yancey and apprehend him if found.

Village Recorder Arrested.

Yancey returned on the 3:33 train having gone only as far as Deer River and he was immediately placed under arrest. He was released this morning on bail in the sum of $1,000. After being released on bail Yancey visited the scene of the fire and after looking in at the door remarked that it was a poor job; it was surely no accident. County Attorney Price and Sheriff Riley have been busy this morning collecting evidence as found about the recorder's office. W. C. Yancey has been village recorder for the past two years.

He was a good accountant and up to some months ago was believed to be responsible. For years he was employed by Kremer & King, but about a year ago his conduct became such that they discharged him. At the beginning of his second year in office he commenced drinking heavily and otherwise going the pace that kills. It must have required a great deal of money to go on as he did and many suspected that things were not right, however none aired their suspicions in such a way as to cause an investigation of the books and other decisive action and things were allowed to go on.

The fire coming on the night after the heaviest water and light collections were payable to the village recorder, and it is believed that he has been helping himself from the receipts for some time and that as he was about to turn the office over to his successor in office he wished to cover up the tracks of his waywardness.

While Yancey was employed by Kremer & King he did the village business in their office. After his dismissal from their service he was forced by the council to take up his office in the village hall. A new $65 coal stove, a new roll top desk, tables, chairs and other furniture of the most expensive pattern, repainting the hall, linoleum on the floor, new typewriter were among the items included in the bill of expense compelling the recorder to have his office in the village hall. All the new furniture, etc., is a total wreck. It is said that Yancey boasted of having made it cost the village $500 to make him open his office in the village hall. The damage to the building and contents is probably $1,500, fully insured.

This is the appeal of nature, and it should be heard.

Over-eating, late suppers, poorly chewed food, too rich pastries and under-done cooking are some of the causes of the stomach's ill health.

When the stomach is busy, it presses and churns all the liquid matter from food and with its juices dissolves into liquid form or pulp everything which comes into it.

It such food be poisonous it effects the juices, attacks the stomach, goes into the blood and weakens the entire system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest a full meal easily without material assistance from the stomach. They will restock the gastric fluid with all the elements needed. They build up the blood, destroy sour taste, bad breath, belching, stomach and bowel trouble and quickly restore natural conditions.

ADVANCE WAS NOT MAINTAINED

Copper Shares Decline at Close Following Strong Opening.

Considerable selling pressure was exerted on the copper market after the early hours today and values declined to about a level with the opening after scoring small gains earlier in the day.

The market was nervous and there was considerable liquidation. Some of the selling appeared to be from longs. The bulge earlier in the day followed liquidations at the opening. Short buying and sympathetic action as the result of heavy purchases of Steel, caused the advances before noon.

Copper exports in the week ending yesterday were 2,145 tons.

The professional element is doing most of the trading although as the market broadens the public is coming back. Some of the favorites received attention, San Antonio being the feature of the local market. This issue was heavily bought and passed into good hands. The stock at the opening sold at $10.12½ and advanced steadily to $12.81¼, 950 shares being traded in. Calumet & Sonora was strong, buyers being forced to bid up to bring out any offerings. This issue sold at $23 and sold up to $23.25. It opened at $22 bid. Top price on the Boston market was $23. Arizona-Montana was active and sold at $6.06¼, and $6.12½. Red Warrior sold at $3.06¼; Butte-Alex Scott at $4.50, Shattuck at $21.50 and $22; Calumet & Montana at $1.12½ and $1.06¼, Calumet & Corbin at 97 and 96 cents and Butte & Superior at $2.50.

Amalgamated sold at $80.75 up to $81.25 and down to $78.62½. Calumet & Arizona was traded in at $75.50 to $74; Giroux at $10 down to $9.62½; Greene at $10.50; North Butte at $41.50 up to $42.25, down to $40.25 and then at $41. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $14, up ¼ point, down ⅜ point and back to the opening. Ojibway advanced from $10.12½ to $11. Steel common sold at $87.87½ up to $89.25 and back to the opening.

Tuolumne shipped 2,400 tons of ore in February averaging 295 pounds of copper and 5 oz. of silver to the ton. The tonnage will be increased in March.

According to the review of the National Mining & Investment company of Butte, the Butte-Alex Scott company on the 1,400-foot level has drifted 100 feet which, on this level, is from twelve to eighteen feet wide. The vein runs about 300 feet through the property. From this level the company is raising on a chute of six feet of ore which run 10 per cent copper. In February the Butte-Alex Scott company shipped six mining cars of ore which ran 13.7 per cent copper and about the same quantity which ran better than 7 per cent.

Butte-Ballaklava will begin shipping in a few days when the new electric hoist will have been erected.

* * *

At the Keating property in the Radersburg district of Montana a vein of ore nine and one-half feet wide, running about $40 to the ton, is being opened up on the 400 level. The new electric line to the mine will be in operation in about a week or ten days. A great saving in costs for transportation will be effected.

NO DISCHARGE FOR CURRIE AND CASE.

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—That Cameron Currie and Louis H. Chase are not entitled to discharge in bankruptcy is the gist of a final opinion filed in the federal court here by Referee in Bankrutpcy Harlow P. Davock. Currie and Case were partners in the Detroit brokerage firm of Cameron, Currie & Co., which failed for more than $1,000,000 in July, 1908. Referee Davock in his opinion states that certain directions given by Case to his employes were difficult to explain unless there was intent to conceal the financial condition of the firm.

SERVANT IS BENEFICIARY

Bounty of Single English Woman Gets Into the Courts.

Made Butler Rich Man---Heirs Try to Get It Back.

London, March 11.—One of the favorite themes of the old-fashioned story writers was the poor young man from the country who went to London, and, entering the service of some wealthy man, either married his daughter or was adopted by him and inherited his wealth.

Such a case has just come before the British courts. London woke up a couple of days ago to read that Lord Rosebery, once prime minister of England; Lord Rothschild, possible the world's greatest financier; Arthur Cohen, K. C., who is one of England's leading lawyers, and Arthur Lucas, who isn't any one in particular, were bringing suit as executors of the estates of the late Misses Lucy and Anna Louisa Cohen, against Frank Bradley, to compel him to account for more than $300,000, which it was not disputed had been given to him in their lives by the two old women. In fact, it was alleged that they had given him nearly $500,000 altogether, but only the amount about which there was no dispute were mentioned in the legal proceedings.

He Married Right.

Now who is Frank Bradley and who were the two very generous women who made him a present of such a great fortune? The Misses Cohen were of the very elect English Jewry. They were relatives by blood or marriage of the Rothschilds, the Montefiores, the Salomons and all the other families whose names spell great wealth to those who are familiar with the financial world in England. Their aunt married the late Baron Meyer de Rothschild, the father of the late countess of Rosebery, while her aunt had already married Nathan Meyer de Rothschild, the grandfather of the present Lord Rothschild. They were very wealthy in their own right and when Miss Lucy Cohen died in 1906 she left $750,000 to the Hon. Neil Primrose, Lord Rosebery's young son; $25,000 to Lord Dalmeny, his elder son, and $300,000 each to his daughters, Lady Crewe and Lady Sybil Grant.

Frank Bradley began life in quite humble circumstances. When he was 17 years old he entered the service of the Misses Cohen's mother as an under footman. The elder of the two women was then about 24 and the other a couple of years younger. This was in 1870. Four years later he was promoted to be valet to their uncle, John Samuel, and a little later he became butler. Mrs. Cohen died in 1879, but it was in 1885 that Bradley did the stroke of business which was destined to make him a rich man. He married the ladies' maid, who had had the two Misses Cohen in her charge since they were old enough to have a maid, to whom they were devoted.

Children Also Well Treated.

Thereafter his rise in life was rapid. Friends of the women who gave evidence in court said that soon after that it was evident that they treated him as an equal. He began to eat at table with them, and from butler he soon developed into their man of business and general factotum. They showered gifts on him. One of the first was a fine house in the country. As his children were born they became their godmothers and they sent his daughters to school in France where they received the education of daughters of the nobility.

When the eldest Miss Bradley was married they gave her a trousseau, $25,000 in cash and lent her their country house for the honeymoon. Then there were many gifts in cash to Bradley. In 1891 they gave him $30,000 in three different sums. In 1892 they gave him $10,000 and in 1897 they handed over to him securities worth $160,000. There were lots of smaller gifts and the last recorded was in October, 1902, when they gave him a check for $50,000. At this time he was drawing a salary from them of $5,500 a year. Bradley's own explanation was that they often expressed their gratitude to him for his management of their affairs and promised to leave him a substantial sum in their will. He pointed out to them that he was nearly as old as they were, and might not survive them and suggested that they might as well give him what they intended to leave him while he was alive to enjoy it.

He Keeps Most of It.

At any rate, he got the money and when the suit was brought against him he was described as of the Hall, Wivelsfield, Sussex. Some of the witnesses said that he was now a county magnate and spoke of his regular appearance in the hunting field.

The basis for the suit against him was not any allegation of undue influence. Every one agreed that the Misses Cohen were particularly shrewd and business-like old women and that they were not likely to be unduly influenced by anyone. There is a very salutary provision in the English law, however, which prohibits a person who acts in a confidential business relation for another, such as a lawyer, manager, doctor, or agent, from receiving large gifts from that person unless the donor has taken independent advice about them. It was alleged that Bradley occupied such a relation to the two old ladies, while he denied that he had ever been anything more than an upper servant.

Just what his relations to them were will probably never be known now, for after the case had been before the court two days, which were occupied by the statements of the lawyers and a little preliminary evidence, it was announced that a settlement had been arrived at. Bradley will keep nearly all the money.

RIFLE MATCHES ON DETROIT RANGE

Much Interest Aroused in the Matches Scheduled for August.

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—Considerable interest has been aroused in the matches of the Department of the Lakes Rifle association, which will be held on the Detroit range beginning Aug. 1, in conjunction with the annual matches of the Michigan State Rifle association and the Michigan National Guard. The D. L. R. A. is composed of the states comprising the military Department of the Lakes, including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Kentucky. Although organized only a year ago the association is in possession of five handsome prizes and the sixth, to cost $600, will be added this year. It holds its tournament alternately in the states comprising the association, the first being at Camp Perry, Ohio, last year.

Michigan is making great preparations for the visitors at these matches. Among the improvements for the Detroit range are a concrete mess hall, with a capacity for 300 men; concrete kitchen, incinerators and an increased water supply. An effort will be made to secure the fleet of naval reserve vessels on the Great Lakes to move the competitors from Detroit to Camp Perry, Ohio, immediately after the matches, the Camp Perry matches following close on the Michigan and D. L. R. A. matches. At the latter place the matches of the Ohio National Guard, Ohio State Rifle association, the National Rifle association and the national matches under the direction of the national board for promotion of rifle practice will be held. The latter matches will probably be moved next year, and the shooting world is relying on the Department of the Lakes Rifle association to maintain interest in rifle practice in the Central West after the national matches go elsewhee.

TALK ABOUT FEET!

Troublesome Skin Affections Put to Rout By Poslam.

A recent exchange of experiences between ten persons developed the fact that nine of them were suffering from foot trouble which caused continual annoyance and serious concern. According to those who know, the best thing to do when the feet are tired, inflamed, itching, chafed or broken out is to apply a little poslam and note how quickly the difficulty will vanish.

Poslam is the new skin remedy which so rapidly combats the worst cases of eczema and all skin troubles, stopping all itching with the first application. It makes quick work of acne, herpes, tetter, scaly scalp, barber's and every other form of itch. Occasional applications in small quantities will quickly banish pimples, hives, blackheads, blotches, etc. A special 50c package of poslam is prepared for those who use poslam for minor skin troubles, and this, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is on sale at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, Holmberg's in Superior, as well as all drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

THE COLD STORAGE CURE.

Man Undergoing Treatment for Sleeping Sickness.

Liverpool, March 11.—In a room at the Liverpool university sits a man who is enduring something of the rigors of an Arctic climate. Whatever may be the varying temperature of the fickle English atmosphere, he is experiencing one steady, consistent period of cold. Indeed, during the day the temperature of his room is considerably below zero. He is a victim of the dreaded tropical disease of sleeping sickness, and as he is putting to the best practical test a novel cold air treatment for tropical diseases taken in hand by the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine. He is a source of daily interest to the professors of the school, who have spent years in combating the baneful effect of blood parasites.

Most of the experiments for fighting this peculiar sickness have been carried out on the spot in the tropics, and it is not an unreasonable suggestion that if parasites, even when they have entered the blood of a human being, are removed from the warm climate where they start their deadly operations and transferred to a climate of an extremely opposite character, they may, by this simple operation, be annihilated. If the method should prove successful it would mean the establishment of huge refrigerators at all the European stations in tropical countries in which a victim would be installed in the early stages of sleeping sickness.

A sister received one or two letters from the absent brother, and it was always thought that he was here in St. Cloud. F. W. Petrie is 74 years of age, and he says that his brother, if living, is 80.

Facing death from shot and shell in the Civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough, that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MEAT SHOP A "BLIND PIG"

Special Agent Johnson Makes Startling Discovery at Detroit, Minn.

Drug Store at Frazee Had More Than Ten Gallons of Liquor.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Morch 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A "blind pig" in a butcher shop is the latest; not one of the $11 per hundred four-legged animals, but an illicit booze joint. The latest wrinkle in dodging the government inspectors in the so-called Indian country, where the sale of liquor has been tabooed was discovered by Special Agent Johnson and his assistants at Detroit, Becker county. The butcher shop was found well-stocked with liquor which was confiscated.

Frazee Drug Store Raided.

They then went on to Frazee, where they found that a drug store had more than ten gallons of intoxicants allowed by law on hand, and taking the excess liquor they carried it out and destroyed it by hurling the bottles against the sides of the building and smashing them. Frazee went dry the same day. The destruction of the liquor is in line with the federal government's policy to keep liquor away from the Indians who reside in the neighborhood.

"Grandpa" Lariviere has a great many relatives, just how many he does not know, but the record of his oldest son can be taken as a criterion. This son has fifty-five children and grandchildren.

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill. — "I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—Mrs. ALVENA SPERLING, 1408 Clybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill.

LUMBER COMPANY EXPLORING LAND

Itasca Company Has Party of Men Looking After Iron Ore.

Deer River, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some excitement was created here Tuesday morning by the arrival of forty laborers shipped from Duluth and Minneapolis for the Itasca Lumber company. The arrival of the men looked queer when at this time the company is letting men go by the hundred every day with the breaking of their camps. Inquiry elicited the fact that the new men hiring as laborers come as explorers for the Itasca company and the thousands of acres of the company's lands lying to the north of this place ten to thirty miles will be explored for iron ore this season. The lands are known to contain ore and to what extent is now to be ascertained.

SALOONLESS ELECTION.

Passing of Drinking Places in Deer River Made Affair Tame.

Deer River, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tuesday's was the quietest election Deer River ever held and a light vote was cast. The elimination of the saloons by the government left little interest in local politics. W. C. L. La Croix, president; W. J. Shreve, F. E. Betz and A. D. Ingersoll were elected trustees without opposition. The fight was on recorder, George Ruby winning over O. C. Hamilton by one vote.

The contest for constable was sharp, A. F. Olson and E. R. Certer winning over L. C. Culp and E. M. Gallant by nine votes.

The retiring council met Tuesday night and discharged Marshal Culp and last night the new council met and reappointed him. H. H. Herreld was also elected without opposition as treasurer.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edgar Richter, editor of the Larimore Pioneer, was the winner in an action in the district court here yesterday in which damages were asked by Fred Geise for assault and battery. Last winter when Geise and several other boys were engaged in throwing snowballs, Richter had the pleasure of stopping one with the back of his head. He did not take kindly to that particular form of amusement, and gave the Geise lad a thrashing. Suit for damages for $1,000 followed, and yesterday the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

SAW POISON MIXED.

Members of Moline Family Witnessed Preparation for Crime.

Rugby, N. D., March 11.—For fifteen minutes, while Charles Moline was engaged in mixing poison that was intended to kill his father, and which the state claimed was later administered to him, members of the Moline family sat in a circle about the room watching the operation without a single word of protest or curiosity.

This fact was brought out in cross-examination of 12-year-old Oscar Moline, brother of the accused, in the trial of Charles Moline for killing his father.

It was brought out that Charles Moline was drunk on the night of the homicide. When Charles returned home after the killing, he said:

"Oh, now it is a different, Charlie; father is dead. Go out and search his body for the marriage license."

Oscar Moline says there was no word of sorrow, nor were any tears shed at the receipt of the news. It is contended by the state that the murder was done to prevent the possibility of Moline's property passing into the hands of a third party through the second marriage of the father, he and Mrs. Moline having parted.

Facts About the Gold Dust Twins

The Gold Dust Twins are cartooned more than any other trademark in the world. Life, Puck and other comic papers have given up their front pages to them. The N. Y. Herald, Chicago Record Herald, N. Y. World and hundreds of other not-to-be-bought dailies have cartooned the Gold Dust Twins prominently. Why? Simply because the Gold Dust Twins are popular and known everywhere where the English language is spoken and read.

This is significant when you stop to think of it. The Gold Dust Twins are simply the trade-marked picture of Gold Dust—the greatest cleansing powder the world has ever known. Everybody knows it—nearly everybody uses it.

If you are not using Gold Dust to wash your clothes, wash your dishes, clean your pots and pans, scrub your floors and doors, you are doing your housework in a needlessly hard way.

Try Gold Dust—favored by press and careful home folk.

IS CRUSHED UNDER CARS

Janitor at Irving School Meets Sudden and Horrible Death.

Tried to Board Train Passing Through West Duluth Yards.

With his head almost severed and his left arm crushed to a pulp, the lifeless form of Gust Apel, 40 years old, a janitor at the Irving school, West Duluth, was picked up by the police on the Northern Pacific tracks near Sixty-fourth avenue west, shortly before noon today.

The man came to his death by falling under the wheels of a freight train which he had boarded. A small boy is said to have seen the man fall under the wheels while hanging to one of the cars. The police were notified of the accident by telephone and Undertaker M. J. Filiatrault was ordered to take charge of the body.

At the Irving school, where the man has been employed for the last few months, no reason can be given for the events which led up to his death. He left the building shortly after 11 o'clock, and without his cap, his overshoes or his overcoat.

Later he was found dead on the tracks, and no one seems to be able to account for his being on the railroad tracks when his duties required him to be working in the school building. Principal Foster, who has been looking into the case, says that he believed the man to have been suddenly robbed of his reason and that through some strange trick of his mind he was prompted to catch a ride on a fast freight train.

He was working under the direction of the head janitor, Andrew West, who says that the man was of a very quiet, unassuming, and silent nature. He had up to this time been very faithful in his duties and had never left the building until the work he had to do, was completed.

Apel was last seen alive shortly after 10 o'clock by Mr. West, who was working in the building with him. Between then and 11:30 when he was missed, he had left the building, for what purpose, no one knows. The coroner will probably hold an inquest over the body of the dead man and try to clear up the mystery surrounding his death.

Apel is a married man and is survived by a wife and two daughters, aged 16 and 14, and two sons, 11 and 9, who reside at 2318 West Fourth street. He was a member in good standing of the Modern Samaritan lodge, Beta council, No. 2, the members of which will probaby today arrange for his funeral.

The body is held at the undertaking parlors of M. J. Filiatrault, Central avenue and Ramsey street.

Surprise Party.

A pleasant surprise party was given in honor of Herbert King Wednesday evening. Music and games were played and refreshments were served. Those present were:

BROWN MAKES STATEMENT

The sparring match which took place Tuesday evening before a large crowd at the West Duluth Curling rink, is still the main topic of conversation at West Duluth.

H. C. Brown, a West Duluth contractor, who is said to have been the aggressor in the affair, came out of the fracas with a black eye.

Rev. Arthur G. Hoag, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, showed Mr. Brown that he had not forgotten some of the fine points about the art of self-defense and when hit in the face with a broom by Mr. Brown, his come-back was clean cut and well delivered.

Mr. Hoag is one of the most popular preachers in the western end of the city. He has been prominently identified with the Y. M. C. A. movement for West Duluth and is a lover of athletics. He is the only pastor in West Duluth who is a curler.

The trouble between Mr. Brown and Rev. Mr. Hoag is not a new one. Mr. Brown was a former member of the West Duluth Baptist church. After leaving it he joined the Plymouth Congregational church, and he took a prominent part in expelling Rev. D. G. Cole from that church.

The following statement as to the affair Tuesday evening at the curling rink, was given to The Herald today by Mr. Brown:

"Please allow me to make a statement regarding the article which appeared in The Herald last evening referring to the trouble between a certain contractor and a pastor of one of the West Duluth churches. I am the contractor referred to, and seem destined to have trouble with the preachers. Only a few days ago your paper referred to a contractor who neglected to take his hat off in the presence of another "pastor," when that gentleman undertook to run a meeting called by the officers of the church. I feel that between the newspapers and the preachers I am getting something of a reputation.

"The trouble at the curling rink started when Rev. A. J. Hoag commenced to interfere with our game, by shouting, loud talking and guffawing whenever our side missed a shot. I was substituting as third man in the Olsen rink and had no special interest in the game except that I wished to see Olson win. This I feared he would fail to do with such an attraction on the side ice. There were no other spectators out on the ice, only the Rev. Hoag, and all his shoutings and loud remarks had to be addressed to himself or to the men playing the game.

"After the tenth end was played I suggested to Mr. Hoag that he stop snouting or get off the ice; that he had better go inside and 'take his goffy along with him.' I coasted him further by asking what right he had to be out there interfering with the game.

"At this he became very angry and told me to shut up or he would punch my face. That's the word he used. One word led to another and he assumed a threatening attitude and I fully expected he would strike me. He was standing on the board walk between the rinks and I was on the ice and therefore at a disadvantage; and also, as I do not know how to 'spar' I felt unable to protect myself if he should make a dive for me.

"The first thing that occurred to me was to jolt his cheek by hitting him with the broom which I held in my hand. This I did by striking him in the face with the brush end of the broom. The consequences were not sufficiently damaging to him to prevent him from coming after me immediately. I was unable to defend myself. He struck me, of course, and the next morning my nose was out of line and my eyes blackened, one of them especially, and my lip also discolored and swollen.

While I regret the affair I do not feel much ashamed of it. I only wish my strength and knowledge of the science of boxing had been equal to the occasion. Had it been so this pastor would have got what I believe he deserves. However, I am glad his features were not seriously marred—only a little skin rubbed off his nose by the broom and he will be able to conduct services as usual on Sunday.

"The Herald is right in saying I was formerly a member of Rev. Hoag's church. I was an officer in that church for several years and withdrew, principally on account of Rev. Hoag's attitude toward me; and because I believed he deliberately tried to discredit me at that time. I have not since learned of anything to change my understanding of those matters, and still believe I did the right thing at that time.

"But I do not intend to withdraw from the curling club on his account. I enjoy the game very much and know there are a fine lot of men playing it in the Western Curling club.

"I have lived in West Duluth for twenty years and it has been my aim to stand up for what I believed to be right regardless of consequences to myself. If I have not always been charitable I am sincerely sorry as I do not wish to court the ill-will of any one.

"If this incident at the rink serves to check the unwarranted interference of spectators I will have done the club a service. Respectfully yours,

"H. C. BROWN."

Salter Club Meets.

The regular meeting of the Salter club was held last night at the office of the director, Rev. Daniel George Cole, in the Silvey block. Three new members were admitted to membership: Dannie King, Toive Norberg and Dominick Blottle. Evora Feely and Margaret Hall will entertain the club at its next meeting and plans will be formed for an increase of membership.

Dies of Pneumonia.

Otto Johnson, aged 27 years, died at the Duluth hospital at 10 o'clock this morning of pneumonia. He had been in the hospital but two days. He had lived in West Duluth for some time and a sister lives at 318 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

E. W. Peck, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will occupy the pulpit of the Westminster Presbyterian church at Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. J. G. Leitch.

With the Curlers.

At the West Duluth curling rink last evening, Rockwell forfeited to Macauley and Wade won from Keyes, 14 to 9. In the Burns affair, while Clark bested Evered, 10 to 9 and Holland won from Miller, 14 to 3 in the Esterly race. Method will play Olson this evening in the Burns event. Zauft will play Clark and Keyes will meet Holland in the Esterly cup race.

Will Discuss Creamery.

More definite plans for the organization of a co-operative creamery association will be discussed this evening at the regular meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club. It is probable that before the new association is launched another conference will be held between the club's committee and the Farmers' club at Adolph.

The banquet committee of the Commercial club will also report this evening.

Mrs. Talerico Dies.

Mrs. Talerico had been ill only a month, her death resulting from a complication of diseases. She is survived by four sons and three daughters. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Italian Catholic church at Eleventh avenue west. Burial will be at Calvary cemetery.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I note by last night's paper that The Herald still sounds the battle cry "Do It For Duluth." That's bully; but what about Superior? Doesn't The Herald wish Superior well? And what about the "Twin Ports" idea?

A SUPERIORITE.

Indeed The Herald does wish Superior well, but it wishes Duluth a great deal better.

The Herald is for Duluth, first, last and all the time. It has no objections whatever to the prosperity of Superior, but it seeks first the welfare of Duluth. It wishes to state that so clearly that there can be no misunderstanding about it. The Herald is published in Duluth and for Duluth, in Northern Minnesota and for Northern Minnesota. It will work for their upbuilding consistently and constantly; though it would be glad indeed if its efforts could bring so much prosperity that a lot of it would overflow and benefit Superior and Northern Wisconsin.

And that is the way it is going to be. It is too bad that Duluth and Superior are not one city, but a state boundary line makes them two cities. There isn't any reason for lack of harmony between them, and there is going to be no lack of harmony. They will work together to a large extent, but in working together each will be working for itself, and what benefits one will benefit the other. There is going to be plenty of prosperity to go around. Prosperity will spread all over the Head of the Lakes, and that is as it should be.

But if there are new industries to be had, The Herald wants Duluth to get them. If Duluth can't get them, it wants Superior to get them and it will help Superior land them. But first comes Duluth; and as a spokesman of Duluth's aspiration for greater things, The Herald can do no less and shall do no less than to put Duluth first and keep it first.

As to the plan of merging the identity of Duluth, for purposes of publicity, in some new and grotesque joint application, the idea is absurd. The name of Duluth is a trademark for this community, known far and wide. To merge it in a strange new title would be to throw away all the advantage of the splendid advertising Duluth has had from coast to coast. Duluthians take pride in the name of Duluth, and it is to be hoped that Superiorites take pride in the name of Superior. To replace these two fair names with a joint name which is certain to be confused with that of the nearby "Twin Cities" is to lose all the advantage of previous advertising. It would be like asking a manufacturer who had paid millions to provide publicity for a trademark to drop that familiar trademark and replace it with a new and unknown name for the benefit of a smaller manufacturer whom he had taken in with him.

Let Duluth continue to "Do it for Duluth." New industries are needed, and new industries are coming. Duluth wants them for Duluth, and will work to get them for Duluth. If they can't be had for Duluth, let them go to Superior. But the word "Duluth" is a good enough trademark for The Herald, and "Do it for Duluth," the motto it invented, will continue to be its battle cry.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Everybody is agreed, apparently, that the American merchant marine has practically vanished, except where its flag still flies upon the Great Lakes.

Everybody, too, appears to be agreed that it ought to be revived; though some people think it ought to be revived whatever the cost to the people, so long as shipowners profit, while others are not so anxious to have a merchant marine that they are willing to tax the people oppressively to get it.

Congress has before it two proposed ways of reviving the American merchant marine. One comes from administration sources, and is Republican. The other comes from Democratic sources. The hope of the people rests in defeating the administration plan. There is no hope of passing the Democrtaic plan for two reasons: First, because the Democrats are out of power, and it isn't considered good form for the "ins" to adopt a policy of the "outs"—that might make people think that maybe the "outs" and the "ins" should change places; second, the Democratic plan departs from the good old Republican fashion of taxing the people for the benefit of Special Privilege; and such a radical departure will not be considered by the Republican organization.

The Republican plan for reviving the American merchant marine is the ship subsidy; which means taxing the people to provide profits for ship-owners. That plan has the merit of simplicity, and of being in line with the Republican principle of taxing the many for the profit of the few.

The Democratic plan is simple, too. Here it is: "A 5 per cent reduction of all customs duties for ships owned and controlled by citizens of the United States; free entry of all materials used in the construction and repair of vessels built in the United States; American registry of foreign-built ships owned by citizens of the United States; and the taking away from foreign-built ships of the mail subsidies which they now enjoy under the law of 1891."

This plan does not tax the people a penny, but it provides profits for American ship-owners. The tariff on goods imported in their ships will be reduced 5 per cent, such reduction constituting the American ship-owner's advantage over foreign ship-owners. As American shipbuilding was destroyed by high tariffs on ships and ship materials, this plan proposes to restore it by taking the tariff off ships and ship materials. As Americans cannot now buy ships built in free trade England, because of the tariff, the Democratic plan would allow them to get the benefit of the reduced cost this involves.

The protective tariff wiped the American merchant marine off the face of the world's waterways. The Democratic plan proposes to use the tariff to restore it, and to repeal the absurd restrictions that put this country out of the running when iron ships replaced wooden ones.

One plan proposes to provide a merchant marine by giving ship-owners artificial profits derived from taxing the people; the other proposes to provide a merchant marine by giving American ships a tariff preferential, along the lines of a plan used with great effect in President Madison's time.

But the Democratic plan will not be seriously considered by congress; so the people's only hope is that the Republican plan may be defeated.

DULUTH, THE CONVENTION CITY.

It was announced at the state meeting of the Modern Samaritans in Minneapolis this week that the imperial council of that order will hold its annual convention in Duluth in June, drawing delegates from Minnesota, the Dakotas, Michigan and Wisconsin. The imperial council has picked the right place, and Duluth will be glad to receive it.

Duluth lays claim to being the best convention city in the country, and if any conventions seeking a location are doubtful about that statement the best thing they can do is to try it. And when delegates go from Duluth to the state or national meetings of the various organizations, they should tell those organizations that Duluth is the place to meet in hereafter. Climate, scenery, hospitality and interesting sights may all be guaranteed. Duluth "has the goods," and is glad to show them.

"AMERICAN DOMINANCY."

Charles E. Magoon, one-time governor of Cuba, has evolved the idea that Uncle Sam should be in all the smaller governments on this continent what he was in Cuba—a kind of over-lord and special providence for the proper administration of their affairs.

Speaking before a commercial body in Boston, he said: "It means and always has meant the dominancy of the United States in the western hemisphere, and if this dominancy is to be maintained, the United States must see to it that the governments of this hemisphere discharge their duties to their citizens, their international obligations, and keep pace with the progress of the world. No other course is open to us."

That's good. It's beautiful. The United States must see to it that the governments of North and South America "discharge their duties to their citizens." That's a great and a noble mission. Perhaps some of the many republics in the western hemisphere may object; but what of that? We are stronger than they, and we can overrule their objections.

But there is one embarrassing possibility. What if these republics which Mr. Magoon proposes the United States should take under the wing of its eagle ask this country to show its capacity for making governments "discharge their duties to their citizens"? What if they should poke an inquisitive finger into the manner in which the government of the United States has discharged its own obligations to its own citizens?

For instance, taking a familiar example, suppose when this government puts an overlord over the people of Mexico some Mexican patriot would ask if that meant that the American protective tariff were to follow the flag. Wouldn't that be embarrassing? Through the tariff the government of the United States discharges an assumed obligation to Special Privilege, and taxes the citizens billions of dollars a year to do it. Mexico mightn't like to be included among the victims of that beneficence.

On the whole, Mr. Magoon's proposal seems fraught with dangerous possibilities. If it is carried out, and the United States begins compelling the many governments in this hemisphere to discharge their obligations to their citizens, some impudent two-by-four republic is certain to suggest that before it branches out this government would better learn to discharge its obligations to its own citizens. Sharp criticism of the ease with which high finance and plutocracy can get favors from the government, and the exceeding difficulty with which the people wrest favors from it, is certain to be made.

Attention is likely to be called to the fact that the government of this country has let 80 per cent of its capitalized wealth get into the control of a dozen men in Wall street, and continues to permit the use of this enormous power for the exploitation of the citizens for the profit of a few. Republics not big enough to make such attentions worth while are likely to resent being put under the control of a government so thoughtful of the special privileges of the few and so impatient with the rights of the many.

Better drop it, Mr. Magoon.

GOOD FOR THE N. P.

D. A. Willard, an employe of the Northern Pacific, told the people of Northeastern Minnesota through The Herald last night that this is an ideal dairying and stock raising country. That's right, and it's pleasant to be told about it. But the Northern Pacific is doing better than that; it is telling the people of other states about it, too. Recently we have noticed advertisements in Eastern newspapers, inserted by that road, calling attention to the opportunities that exist in Minnesota for residence and investment. The cheap and fertile soil, the splendid openings for settlers, the attractions for sportsmen and sight-seers, all are described temptingly and truly.

It took the Northern Pacific a good while to get around to it, but it seems to be doing the right thing now, and to be doing it in the right way.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

KNEW WHAT HE WAS TALKING ABOUT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The editions of your paper for the past two weeks have had the open court column filled with answers to Mr. Cook, mostly written by women.

Now what I want to say is that if Mr. Cook did not know what he was talking about when he said that a family of six could exist on $26 a month he most certainly would not have said it, because he has been county poor commissioner for a good many years and knows exactly what a family can get along on.

I have noticed that most of his assailants have a mistaken impression of what Mr. Cook meant. According to my way of thinking, he meant that the families who are dependent on charity could get along on $26 a month and not those who can afford better.

One thing that strikes me as being rather queer is that the women never kick about the cost of an Easter bonnet, for which they have just paid $30. But when the grocery bill is a little higher than usual they let out a yelp that would make the warwhoop of an Indian sound like a meeting of the deaf and dumb society.

I would like to suggest that the married ladies learn how to cook in the right way and thereby cut down the cost of living. If there was a law that any woman about to be married would have to prove that she could boil water without burning it before being allowed to enter into the married life, there would be very few married people in Duluth, or at least very few divorces.

I could probably have answered Cook's assailants to better advantage had they signed their names to their letters, but as they are afraid of letting themselves be known I have done my best without them.

ROCKEFELLER'S MILLIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see John D. Rockefeller has become tired of grabbing off millions each year in dividends from the monopolistic ogre of which he is the ruling spirit and has decided to turn some of them back into the channels through which they have passed in reaching his coffers. John is getting along in years and apparently has begun to think. He canont undo the evil the Standard Oil has done in its years of throttling competition and holding the reins of finance, but he should be able to do some good with the money at his command.

He has indeed put a stupendous task up to the commission of which his son is to be the head. There are so many, many places in which money is needed to better the condition of the "masses," the human beings who have been crushed by economic and social conditions to the level of the worms of the earth and who now grub along living their cheerless life as best they can. If Rockefeller, the Standard Oil and their kind could not exist, conditions would not be what they are. But conditions are as they are and they must be met. If Rockefeller chooses to help the world in meeting them, he is able to do real service, for he has the money.

Two plans of philanthropic work that have come to my attention recently have impressed me as sane and sound and could but they should be productive of good results. They are the model tenement plan in Cleveland Moffatt's play, "The Battle," which Wilton Lackaye presented here and Bishop McGolrick's plan for the colonization of land in Minnesota, by bringing workers from the crowded centers of the cities. Carried out on the immense scale that is possible with the Rockefeller millions behind it, those two plans, I believe, would do the greatest amount of good for the people.

A certain number of workers must live in the cities. Under our plan of city building and under economic conditions which pay the workers small wages, people must live in crowded districts. If we must have tenement houses, let us have model tenements, with adequate light courts, adequate ventilation, sanitary plumbing and clean streets. A squalid home is depressing to the spirits, fatal to ambition. Discouraged with homes that are but hovels and prospects of nothing but continued starvation and finally death, it is small wonder that men and women turn to drunkenness and crime.

Give such of the workers, who want to return to the soil, farming opportunities. In the larger cities, establish a tenement system that will give the poor wretches some semblance of home life at moderate rentals. In the smaller cities, give them detached homes with clean houses and little gardens to promote industry and good citizenship. Give them cheap rent in the large cities and easy payments for home purchases in the smaller cities. Foster ambition by removing some of the hopelessness that life now holds to thousands in every city and I venture to say we will soon find the influence spread to such an extent that other Rockefellers will get into the field and uplift the masses and we will have good citizenship where we now have licentiousness and vice. It is within John D. Rockefeller's power to do a good work. Would that conditions were such that none of his kind could arise, but since the past cannot be remedied, let us hope that he and his commission are given the power to do the work that is before them.

If any others have suggestions as to a better method of disposing of Rockefeller's millions, I would be glad to hear of them.

To Book Borrowers.

Dear friends, I am grateful, and thank you sincerely
For all the kind sayings you've linked with my name.
They pass my deservings, but frankly and clearly,
I'll say this one virtue I feel I can claim—
I boast not of speeches, addresses, orations,
Of verses I published or essays I burned;
But proudly I'll state in the face of the nations,
The books that I borrowed I always returned.

Some people there are, who—with honest intention—
Your favorite volumes will take "as a loan."
Perhaps the excuse for their final retention,
Is that they regard them at last as their own.
If sometimes they think about due restoration,
The date for the function is ever adjourned;
And this is the sum of the whole situation—
The books that they borrow are never returned.

My faults have been many—I sadly admit—
Deserving of censure to any amount,
Yet some folk may find when the scene
I have quitted,
An item or two for a "contra" account.
Some loveable soul, touched with tender emotions,
May say that the loss of such men should be mourned
And plead in defense of so startling a notion—
"The books that he borrowed he always returned."

To the Editor of The Herald:

The above was sent me by a dear friend who boasts poetically of his honesty. I reminded him that D. F. may be given another interpretation, but he asserts that he is willing to bear the consequences. Who knows what consciences may be stirred?

THE WEATHER

A soft, slushy snow attended the warmer weather last night and today pedestrians are slipping and splashing along the walks. It isn't pleasant underfoot, but the temperature is still mild and the air balmy. Somewhat colder weather is promised tonight, with the lowest temperature about 20 deg. The lowest temperature last night was 30 deg.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:29 and it will set at 6:07, giving eleven hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions of slight intensity central over Wisconsin and East gulf states caused snow in the Upper Lake region and Red river valley, and rains in Gulf and Middle Atlantic states, respectively, during the past twenty-four hours. Another disturbance has appeared over Alberta. The barometer is high over the Rocky mountains and North Atlantic states. Temperatures are moderate in practically all districts, but the easterly movement of the Rocky mountain high pressure conditions will probably be attended by somewhat colder weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Greatness.

What time I con the verse of Pope
And find a faulty rhymeless line,
I murmur softly: "Alec's dope
Is much like mine."

I scan the lines of Avon's bard;
Frequent the grammar faults I strike;
Whereat I swell, and say: "Old pard,
We're much alike."

I read that Irving couldn't add,
That two plus two would floor him flat,
And then I think, "I'm not so bad;
I'm just like that."

Lately I read "The Life of Poe"—
A drink, it says, he never missed
I'm not what you would call a Prohibitionist.

Of Burns's conquests I have read;
Byron's affairs were multiplex;
Of me it never can be said
I hate the sex.

In me these many traits combined—
Such qualities—should mean a lot.
And yet, you know, I've come to find
That they do not.

Put Heyburn In.

Life: A statue of Senator Heyburn of Idaho, would look nice in Statuary hall.

Senator Heyburn is the impassioned orator who lately waved the bloody shirt in the senate with such vehemence over the proposal to lend some tents to a Confederate veterans' organization, without getting any response, and without turning any vote except his own against the proposal.

He deserves to be known and handed down to posterity as the Great Reconciler.

The Two Pies.

Portland, (Me.) Express: Ruth, who has been married just two weeks, lives in a little flat on Congress street and there keeps house for her lord and master. She has read a little and is wise beyond her 19 years. On Sunday, after their dinner had been served by the wife, she went to the kitchen and returned with a pumpkin pie.

"What's that?" asked the L. and M.

"I made a pumpkin pie yesterday," his wife answered, timidly.

He attacked the confection with a knife and fork, but could not make much headway and was about to declare himself when Ruth announced:

"I have another in the pantry, dear. Your mother sent one over yesterday." She then produced the second pie, which was as tender and appetizing as the first had been tough and unsavory.

"That's something like it," he said, patronizingly. "Of course you couldn't expect to become expert at once, my dear."

The girl laughed. "You're eating the one I made now," she said. And in her diary for the day is written:

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

NORTHERN MINNESOTA'S CAUSE.

The Discovery of Northern Minnesota.

Cass Lake Times: The late Bemidji convention has aroused the suspicions of the thousands who inhabit the unrepresented portion and unless we are granted the relief due us there will be something more than mere protests for our southern friends to meet. The southern end of the state did not discover us, we made the great "find" by comparing what we have and what we are entitled to have and those who have held us in the political bag during these years of unrest will discover, before we are through with them that Northern Minnesota, though considered a howling wilderness, has a few live men who dare demand fair treatment and equal rights.

Right You Are.

Onania Lake Breeze: If Northern Minnesota is to accomplish what she says she wants to in those Bemidji resolutions, the lieutenant governorship is one of the offices she should look to closely. The senate committees will have a lot to say about reapportionment, state land sales, good roads, etc., and these committees in the senate are selected by the lieutenant governor. It will take a man of broad caliber to handle that office next session—no fledgling will do.

An Awakening.

Grasston Advocate: The recent development and reapportionment congress at Bemidji is a move in the right direction, and should, and no doubt will, be productive of much good toward accelerating the development growth and more extensive settlement of Northern Minnesota generally. It is the best and most feasible plan of arousing that much-needed interest that has so long lain dormant from year to year for the last quarter of a century. Northern Minnesota has, at last, found an awakening, and may Providence speed the day when every acre of tillable land will be occupied by the horny-handed sons of toil, and last, but not least, good roads are a predominant feature.

It Is Historic Already.

Cloquet Independent: The Northern Minnesota Development convention which met in Bemidji is destined to result in untold benefit to this section of the state, and in years to come will be looked back to as one of Minnesota's great events.

Mr. Giant's Awakening.

Roseau Region: The tremendous outburst of enthusiasm at the Bemidji development convention, heard all over the state and carried even into adjoining ones, was the first reverberating utterance on the awakening of the giant of Northern Minnesota, who has been slumbering since the day of creation. Indifference has been shaken off, and from now on this section will show its united and formidable strength in a way that will inspirit hope and self-confidence at home and command wholesome respect in the state at large.

Shoulder to Shoulder.

Crookston Times: The movement started at Bemidji last month has been the talk of the entire Northwest and hardly a paper can be picked up that does not refer to that convention in some manner. It marked the date when Northern Minnesota became awake to its possibilities and its privileges. Heretofore we have been good naturedly permitting our rich heritage to lie dormant and taking as our morsel whatever has been thrown to us. We have been kept quiet and peaceful by being handed a crumb now and then and we have been satisfied with trailing, whereas we should have been leading.

It is different now. Thirty counties have declared in favor of certain policies and there is every indication that these thirty counties are going to stand shoulder to shoulder and maintain their position until victory perches on their banners. To be sure, we have had scattered champions who have fought and labored hard for their respective sections of Northern Minnesota, but every effort hitherto has been futile which had for its object united action. The ability of these champions can be put to good use in the general movement for the establishment of our rights to equal representation with the other sections of the state, etc, and the result will be success.

Making It Homelike.

Fliegende Blaetter: Hotel Keeper (to Arctic explorer)—Shall I have some ice put in your bed?

Statistics on Cannon.

Louisville Courier-Journal: It is established by the statistical department of the Courier-Journal that "Cannon must go" has been uttered 900,000,000,-131 times. But, apparently, Mr. Cannon is worrying about as much as an inmate of an almshouse frets about the income tax question.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Town and Country: Hotel Clerk (pleasantly)—What! Not leaving us?

Young Man—Yes; I've seen all the sights and became engaged to all the girls.

Comic Cuts: "I should very much like to know how you made that $25 the other day."

"Can you keep a secret?"

"Oh, yes!"

"So can I. Good night!"

Tit-Bits: The Manager—I've got a new idea for a melodrama that ought to make a hit.

The Writer—What is it?

The Manager—The idea is to introduce a cyclone into the first act that will kill all the actors.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Why is it that all these continued stories start so interestingly and peter out?"

"We're humans," replied the author. "You find the best apples at the top of the barrel, don't you?"

Chicago Record-Herald: "They are threatening," said the city clerk, "to hang you in effigy."

"Let 'em," replied the mayor, who declined to become excited. "They threatened to hang me in Arizona once, and I'm not going to let a little thing like this scare me."

Life: Farmer (at the grindstone)—Well, why don't yer turn?

City Nephew—Nix! Ye don't fool me ag'in. Whenever I turn, ye go and bear down with the ax!

Chicago Tribune: "Paw, what do you mean when you talk about the 'insurgents?'"

"Tommy, do you know the meaning of the word 'mugwump'?"

"No."

"Then there's no use in my trying to tell you what an insurgent is."

Fliegende Blaetter: Belle (to the maid)—A bouquet from Lieut. Braun. Must have cost 20 marks at least. Why, a poem with it as well!

Officer's Servant—That cost more still, fraulein.

VERY CLOSE FRIENDSHIP

Has Sprung Up Between Clarence B. Miller and Hamilton Fish.

Duluth and New York Congressmen Lunch Together Daily.

Washington, March 11—One of the most notable friendships which has sprung up between a congressman from the "effete East" and a representative of the progressive West is that of Hamilton Fish of the Twenty-first New York district and Clarence Benjamin Miller of the Eighth Minnesota district. As those of the army would express it they are "buddies." They lunch together daily and during the sessions of the house may be observed in earnest conversation. These men are entire opposites in physical appearance, Miller of Duluth being of ruddy complexion and of rather boyish appearance, of almost bashful presence; medium in height and weight. Hamilton Fish on the contrary is a six-footer, lank and spare, with austerity written all over him. Each is devoid of hirstute facial adornment, though both have a reasonable amount of hair on their heads. Miller dresses neatly and moderately either in dark blue or black serges, while Fish runs to tweeds, not loud of course, but somewhat conspicuous when one considers that the average "statesman," affects the more conventional black even in his daily "working clothes."

Representative Miller was born on a Minnesota farm in 1872, a son of a veteran of the Civil war; was educated in a country school, high school and Minneapolis academy and graduated from the university in 1895 and from the law department of the same institution several years later.

Hamilton Fish was born in Albany in 1849, while his father was governor of the state; was educated in private schools and in Switzerland; graduated from Columbia college in 1869; from 1869 to 1871 was private secretary to his father who was secretary of state under President Grant. He was for eleven years a member of the New York state assembly, and was speaker in 1895 and 1896. He was appointed by President Roosevelt assistant treasurer of the United States at New York in 1903 and reappointed in 1907, resigning the office in October, 1908, to run for the Sixty-first congress, and in which he is now serving.

To Retire From Congress.

The high cost of living in Washington has driven at least one editor congressman back to the "case." This member who announces that he can no longer afford to be a representative in the congress of the United States is William D. Jamieson, a Democrat, representing the Eighth Iowa district.

Mr. Jamieson had the distinction of defeating that old war horse of Republicanism, Hon. P. W. Hepburn and overturning a Republican majority which has existed in this particular district for nearly twenty-five years.

The prize won, Mr. Jamieson finds that even with a salary of $7,500 per year with mileagle and stationery added he can only through strictest economy, make ends meet. He states, in declining to be a candidate for re-election, that he cannot by the closest figuring save over $3,000 of his congressional salary and even that pittance and more he would be called upon to "cough up" by the avaricious local campaign committee in order to secure a renomination and re-election.

Therefore, he has announced his intention to quite his congressional job and return to Shenandoah, Iowa, to edit and manage the newspaper which he owns.

River and Harbor Bill.

There is every reason to believe that the commerce committee of the senate will report the river and harbor bill as passed by the house last month, within the next week. From three to five millions will be added to the bill by the senate committee, projects, which were not considered by the rivers and harbors committee of the house, having come to the attention of the senate committee through the recommendations of the engineer board of the army, being largely accountable for these increases.

Once the river and harbor bill came to the senate, some ninety amendments have been proposed by senators to the measure, carrying in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. These amendments cover the entire scope of river, harbor and canal improvements and show the wide interest that is being taken in these appropriations that but a few years ago were looked upon as a "sop" to legislators to help strengthen them in their states and districts.

Water transportation is being demanded in sections of the country today that but a few years ago would have laughed immoderately over the scheme of making the rivers work. But congestetd freight yards and the inability of the railroads to handle the bulkier freight within reasonable limits of time have brought the people face to face with a condition and today they are demanding of their legislators that something yearly be done for the rivers and harbors of continental United States to the end that both the rail and the river shall do their part in handling the growing commerce of the nation.

Electric Line to Baltimore.

The Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric railway has commenced the operation of sixty-three limited trains daily between Washington and baltimore running on half-hour schedule, starting from a point within sight of the United States treasury building and landing its Baltimore passengers at Park avenue and Liberty streets. Those destined for Annapolis may, by a system of transfers, be landed at the gates of the United States naval academy. The cars in service are some sixty feet in length and resemble very much a miniature Pullman. Each contains a smoking compartment, and the body of the cars contains comfortable seats upholstered in leather. The time these trains make from Baltimore to the treasury building at Washington is ninety minutes, which, when one considers that you are brought directly into the business section of each terminal city and furnished with transfers to practically all the street cars is bound to have considerable favor with those obliged to travel frequently between Washington and Baltimore.

READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Anti-Saloon League Will Demand Pledges From All Candidates.

Present St. Louis County Legislators Will Be Opposed.

E. C. Clemans, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, returned to the city yesterday and he is now preparing for an active campaign preceding the primaries and the legislative election next fall. Mr. Clemans attended the county option convention at St. Paul and since that time he has been engaged in speaking in the villages in which local option was an issue at the elections this week.

Mr. Clemans says that the whole St. Louis county delegation in the legislature will be opposed by the Anti-Saloon league in the coming election unless their views on the liquor question have changed. Senators Vail, Pugh and Laybourn are to be vigorously opposed, he says, for they are classed as reactionaries.

Mr. Clemans will open an office in one of the downtown office buildings immediately and will work from now until the election to prevent the election of any legislators who do not show themselves to be in favor of county option. He has twenty-two counties under his supervision and he says that the organization of the Anti-Saloon league will effectively cover them, as well as the other counties of the state.

"The campaign has been carefully mapped out for the entire state and we are bound to have a county option legislature for the next session," said Mr. Clemans. "It is in accord with the demand of the people and those who are not in sympathy with it are going to be eliminated from politics. We will ask every candidate for a pledge on the county option bill. If he pledges himself to vote for such a bill, we will support him with all our machinery and if he does not make such a pledge, we will oppose him just as vigorously."

Mr. Clemans says that the enthusiasm shown at the county option convention and the results at the recent village elections have been encouraging, for the county option issue is gaining ground in Minnesota. Governor Eberhart, he said, made a sorry spectacle of himself in trying to straddle the issue at St. Paul, and his failure to come out and declare himself one way or the other will work to his disadvantage from both sides.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY TO WELCOME ROOSEVELT.

New York, March 11.—Mayor Gaynor has added ninety-five names to the committee which will receive Theodore Roosevelt on his return to America next June, making 250 names in all. Among those just added are: Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia university; Commander Peary, W. Emlen Roosevelt, Henry W. Taft, Harry Payne Whitney, George J. Gould, Lee Shubert, Robert W. Goelet, Peter Cooper Hewitt, John Bigelow and George C. Boldt.

GREAT PEARL IMPORTED.

Its Selling Price Said to Be About $165,000.

New York, March 11.—One of the largest pearls ever imported into the United States was received at the appraiser's warehouse this week and turned over to Michael Nathan for examination.

The pearl is pear-shaped, and, although no official figures were given out, it is said to weigh more than any similar ornament brought into this country for many years.

The pearl is said to have been appraised for a value of about $100,000. The duty on pearls in their natural state is 10 per cent, which would bring the cost of this one to about $165,000.

The pearl is intended for a pendant and at the appraisers' warehouse it was reported that the purchase price would be close to $200,000. The appraiser of the port would give no information regarding for whom it was brought into the United States.

Business Barometer Good.

Washington, March 11.—Business throughout the country is improving as indicated by the receipts of the postoffice department, which is regarded as a certain barometer of business conditions. The total percentage of increase in gross receipts for February was 11.39 over the same month of 1909, when it was 4.73 per cent greater than for the same period in 1908.

The Story of a Medicine

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

More than forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

MEN BEGINNING TO GET UNEASY

Sailors Pining for Opening of the 1910 Navigation Season.

As blue water appears in the lake the sailors begin to grow uneasy. The rooms of the Lake Carriers' association are filled these days with men who are anxiously awaiting the opening of navigation. Some of them have lived in the city all winter and they are, becoming short of change and others are beginning to stroll in from the woods where they have been engaged since the close of the last navigation season.

Down at the rooms of the Lake Carriers' association the men meet each day and while the blue smoke curls to the ceiling, they discuss everything from the earliest possible opening to the latest type of smoke stack. The fever strikes hard at this time of the season each year, and many already have their season's job lined up.

Shipping Master Currie of the Duluth office is daily receiving letters from men who wish to secure a job during the coming season.

The wages will be probably about the same as during last year. There has been a slight advance in some departments.

Mr. Currie says that the first boats will start about April 15, according to advices received by him from lower lake ports.

Germs in Her System

Every Woman Should Read this Advice and the Generous Offer that Goes With It

The number of diseases peculiar to women is such that we believe this space would hardly contain a mere mention of their names, and it is a fact that most of these diseases are of a catarrhal nature. A woman cannot be well if there is a trace of catarrh in her system.

Some women think there is no help for them. We positively declare this to be a mistaken idea. We are so sure of this that we offer to supply medicine absolutely free of all cost in every instance where it fails to give satisfaction, or does not substantiate our claims. With this understanding, no woman should hesitate to believe our honesty of purpose, or hesitate to put our claims to a test.

There is only one way to overcome catarrh. That way is through the blood. You may use all the snuffs, douches or like remedies for years without getting more than temporary relief at best. Catarrh in general is a diseased condition of the system that shows locally most frequently in discharges from mucous membranes. Local treatment should be assisted by internal treatment for the general diseased condition if a complete cure is to be reached. That internal treatment should be scientifically devised and faithfully administered.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is scientifically prepared from the prescription of an eminent physician who for thirty years made catarrh his specialty. This remedy is admirably adapted to the treatment of the catarrhal ailments of women. It purifies and enriches the blood, tends to stop mucous discharges, aids in removing impurities from the system, soothes, heals and strengthens the mucous tissues, and brings about a feeling of health and strength.

We want you to try Rexall-Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. If you are not benefited, or for any reason not satisfied, simply tell us and we will hand back your money. Rexall Mucu-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store,—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL IS ON

Case of "Dolly Dimples" Gang Before the Court in Utah.

Leader of "Frame Up" Tells How Swindle Was Carried Out.

Ogden, Utah, March 11.—With a little less color in her face, a more wan expression in her eyes, but wearing the same big black velvet hat with a white feather stuck jauntily on one side, Mrs. L. V. Curry, the "Dolly Dimples" of the circulation contest by that name, which was pulled off in Ogden last November for the Evening Standard, appeared in the district court room with her husband, L. V. Curry and Fred Ricker, to face the charge of criminal conspiracy which has been preferred against them by "Bill" Glasmann, the proprietor of the newspaper which conducted the questionable contest to boost its subscription list.

"Bill" Glasmann, the proprietor of the Standard; Fred J. Van Ness, a former employe of the paper, who admits his connection with the "frame up," by which Miss Beatrix Musser of Ogden secured the $300 reward for "catching" the "mysterious" woman in the contest, and Miss Musser were the witnesses examined.

Story of the Contract.

Glasmann told of the contract into which he entered with the Currys and Ricker for putting on the circulation contest for his paper. After the trio had left Ogden he said he learned that there was some talk of the contest being unfair, and he swore to a complaint and had the defendants brought back to the city to explain the rumors.

Fred Van Ness, who at the time the contest was staged in Ogden, was employed as a bookkeeper at the Standard office, admitted that he played the leading part in the "frame up" by persuading Miss Musser to "catch" the woman in the contest on information furnished by him, but was positive in his assertions that the plan to bunko the newspaper, his employer and the public generally was sugested by Curry and Ricker. After the reward had been paid to Miss Musser by check, both the young woman and Van Ness testified that it was "cut" between them, Miss Musser receiving $20 of the $25 promised her by Van Ness, and the greater portion of the balance being turned over to the Currys and Ricker by Van Ness, according to his testimony.

Glasmann Brought In.

Judge A .G. Horn, who, with Attorney Leslie J. Aker of Salt Lake, is appearing as counsel for the Currys and Ricker, succeeded in securing the admission from Miss Musser while she was being cross-examined that when she signed the affidavit alleging that the capture of "Dolly Dimples" had been fairly made, she knew this to be untrue, and that Van Ness, who had given her the information, was working for the Standard and obtained the information as to the identity of the woman through this connection.

Miss Musser explained her actions by declaring that Van Ness had told her that Glasmann was back of the "frame up," and she thought he had received the money paid to her as a reward and turned back to Van Ness through the latter, until Glasmann called her up some time after the contest to ask her about the rumors of unfairness, which were being discussed in regard to the contest. Then she explained what part she had played in the "frame up" to local police officers, who called to question her.

The story of how the "capture" was made, and the subsequent announcement made at a local dance hall, was again related by both Miss Musser and Van Ness, with but little variation from the story told at the preliminary hearing several weeks ago.

This is the same crowd that operated the "Dolly Dimples" game in Duluth, Minneapolis and other cities.

BEDRIDDEN WITH ECZEMA SIX WEEKS

Itching, Burning Eruption from Head to Foot—Doctor Gave Her Up Entirely—First Application of Cuticura Brought Relief and Sleep.

CUTICURA REMEDIES EFFECT PERFECT CURE

"Four years ago I suffered severely with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six weeks confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for about three weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about the house, entirely cured, and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies as I know what they did for me. Mrs. Edward Nenning, 1112 Salina St., Watertown, N. Y., April 11, 1909."

UNNATURAL THINNESS EASILY CORRECTED.

By Clever Prescription Which Can Be Filled at Any Drug Store.

No Need to Be Thin Now as Reports Show This Method Effective.

People who are very thin and scrawny ought not to be so. Undoubtedly they are more subject to disease and contagions than the normally fleshy. Thinness, and weakness subjects any one to colds, coughs, consumption, pneumonia, etc. It has been discovered, almost by accident, that tincture cadomene, when combined in a prescription with proper accelerative medicines, becomes one of the most valuable, effective, and reliable nutritive or flesh making medicines known to science. It is especially beneficial to men and women between the ages of sixteen and fifty-five, who from lack of proper nerve force and digestion, remain undeveloped in body limbs, arms and bust. A well rounded symmetrical figure in man or woman indicates health, magnetism, stamina and happiness.

The reader who wishes to add from ten to forty pounds should not fail to begin with this valuable prescription:

First, obtain of any well stocked druggist, three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb in an 8 oz. bottle. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol. Shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take one teaspoonful before each meal, one after each meal. Drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Keep up this treatment regularly and of a certainty from one to three pounds will be added to the weight each week, and the general health will also improve.

CONGRESSMAN PERKINS DEAD

Native of Wisconsin Succumbs While Serving New York at Washington.

Washington, March 11.—Representative James B. Perkins of Rochester, N. Y., died this morning at 1:15 o'clock at Garfield hospital, after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Perkins suffered from a malignant intestinal disorder that had caused his physicians to despair for his life ever since his prostration by disease. Now and again he rallied during its progress, but at no time was the improvement in his condition such as to offer hope for his recovery.

James Breck Perkins was one of the well known public men of New York state and was serving his fifth term in congress as the representative of the Thirty-second district of that state. He was first elected as a Republican to the Fifty-seventh congress and became a member of the important foreign affairs committee of the house, of which committee he was chairman at the time of his death.

His work abroad, where he spent many years in France and other countries and wrote a number of important works on various phases of the history of France, added much to the value of his services in the house and made him a highly valued member of that body. His last official work was in connection with the preparation of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill and the drafting of a bill contemplating government ownership of certain embassy buildings.

Lawyer By Profession.

Mr. Perkins was a lawyer, having been admitted to practice in 1868. He was city attorney of Rochester for two terms beginning in 1874. His public career really began in 1898, when he was elected to the state assembly of New York, following which he was a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1904 and immediately following that was elected to congress. He was a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters and the University of Rochester conferred the degree of LL. D. upon him in 1897.

Mr. Perkins was born at St. Croix Falls, Wis., in 1847. He had a wife, but no children.

TO RESTORE LANDS IN UTAH AND COLORADO.

Washington, March 11.—A large part of the lands withdrawn by Former Secretary of the Interior Garfield along the Grand river in Colorado and Utah, on the ground that they contained power possibilities, will be restored to entry by Secretary Ballinger, an examination shown that only 12,392 acres are serviceable for that purpose.

Secretary Ballinger also eliminated from the early coal land withdrawals in New Mexico certain private lands which were erroneously included. These withdrawals were made by Secretary Hitchcock and Secretary Garfield.

CONGRESS SPENDS A FEW MILLIONS.

Washington, March 11.—The United States military academy bill, carrying appropriations of $1,700,000, was passed by the house yesterday and consideration was begun of the legislative executive and judicial appropriation bill, which as reported by the committee appropriates nearly $34,000,000. The senate passed the Indian appropriation bill with appropriations aggregating $10,000,000.

PORK HITS HIGH MARK

Sells for Highest Price in History of Commission Row.

Eggs Are Firm and Slightly Higher---Butter Also Advances.

Eggs, which have been subject to some speculation on account of the scarcity of receipts, held firm and were more steady this week with prices a shade higher. All grades of butter advanced and the market is buoyant. Meats are firm and in most instances higher, especially pork loins. Some commission men expect 16½ cent pork this week which will establish another high record. This price is ½ cent over the outside quotation today which is the highest in the history of commission row. Poultry prices displayed signs of irregularity but the market, toward the latter part of the week, firmed. Fruits and green vegetables are meeting with a broader outlet. The potato market is still depressed.

Fresh eggs are selling wholesale at 24 cents. There are no storage eggs on the market. Receipts have slumped on account of the poor condition of country roads which hinders farmers in coming to shipping points. The heavy spring movement of fresh eggs from southwestern farms which aided in pulling down prices the latter part of last month, has sustained a sharp decline. The roads in the Southwest are coated with mud owing to the spring thaw. The falling off in receipts and the broadening demand encourage speculators and the market was subject to some speculation in the leading receiving points.

The quality of receipts is unusually good, even for this time of the year when arrivals consist chiefly of new laid stock. Miscellaneous stock has been in demand by retailers as they found that variety of such excellence that they preferred to take a risk on them rather than to pay a slightly higher price for graded stock.

The butter market was influenced by stronger prices at outside points, a sharp upturn being registered in the East. The better grades are 2 cents higher than this time last week, and the packing grades are correspondingly strong. Dealers declare that the demand for butter is showing a steady improvement. As there has been little storage stock pressing on the market and arrivals from creamery districts have been of moderate volume, the market has been in a receptive condition to the beneficial influences to which it has been subject.

The quality of arrivals is excellent and all grades have been closely sold. Stocks are smaller than usual at this period of the year. Both shippers and retailers have been generous buyers and the general trade has been of a good character.

• • • •

The outlet for cheese is broad and so great has been the demand that stores have been reduced to a minimum. Prices have displayed a strong tendency to move upward and most traders are confident that reserves will not prove sufficient to meet requirements and the market is headed for higher levels.

• • • •

Live and dressed poultry are unchanged with the exception of springs which are ½c higher than last week. Prices are the highest on record for this time of the year. Ducks, geese and turkeys are unchanged. Receipts consist chiefly of chickens. The demand which was somewhat narrow last week, broadened sufficiently this week to prevent an easing in prices. Receivers were not put to the necessity of making concessions to encourage buyers.

• • • •

Receipts of potatoes continue heavy and prices show a tendency to softness. The demand is comparativley slow and the market is depressed. New potatoes are arriving in large quantities and are meeting with favor. Sweet potatoes have met with a reduced demand. The season is about over and the consumer is tiring of them. Arrivals are not heavy, but they have been in excess of the immediate requirements of the trade.

• • • •

Fresh vegetables and fruits have had a good sale owing to the warmer weather. Perishable goods in large quantities have been taken hold of by receivers without fear of suffering a loss through freezing while in transit. Commission men on some days have been enabled to display their goods to advantage and they have made satisfactory sales and have had the opportunity of pushing forward particular lines in which the supply was more liberal than the demand. Accumulations have been easily disposed of at good values.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a statement given out here, U. L. Burdick of Munich says he will not withdraw from the congressional race, but proposes to stay, in spite of the action of the insurgent eliminating committee.

He said he was opposed to slate-making as it had been carried on by the committee, and would positively not stand as a candidate for lieutenant governor, which place the committee had assigned to him.

Sensational Discovery Made in the River at Rainy River, Ont.

Spooner, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Rainy River, Ont., are considerably worked up over a horrible discovery made there this week, when the corpse of a new-born baby was found in Rainy river tied in a sack. MOLINE'S BODY EXHUMED.

Vital Organs to Be Examined at Minnesota University.

Rugby, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over twelve witnesses were placed on the stand yesterday by the defense at the Moline murder trial, to try to prove the prisoner insane. This morning physicians were called to the stand to testify as to the present condition of the defendant, and also to tell of the cause of the death of Frank Moline, which the defense now claims was not strychnine, but rupture of the heart.

Yesterday the body of Frank Moline was exhumed in the Barton cemetery and the vital organs removed to be taken to the Minnesota university. Results of analysis made there will be used in the case of Mrs. Moline, who is also charged with murder.

GREEK LABORER IS KILLED AT MINOT, N. D.

His body was horribly mangled. He leaves a wife and family in the fatherland.

MILLIONAIRE PREACHER.

Ole Bergstrom, Formerly of South Dakota, Amassed Fortune.

Vermilion, S. D., March 11.—Twenty years ago Ole T. Bergstrom was an itinerant preacher in South Dakota, traveling from place to place. He preached many sermons in Clay county, and many old settlers know him well. At that time he could count his worldly possessions with ease.

He died a short time ago in Tennessee, leaving a fortune estimated at anywhere from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000. The only living heirs are Andrew Bergstrom of this city and John Bergstrom of Dalesburg, Clay county, brothers.

After leaving Clay county years ago Mr. Bergstrom went to Oklahoma. There he made his start. He gave up preaching and began speculating in the oil district. In a comparatively short time he amassed a fortune of $175,000, then went to Tennessee and bought timber and coal lands extensively.

WEST END

NEW PASTOR IS CALLED

Rev. T. M. Findley Will Again Take Charge of West End Church.

Was Pastor From January, 1888, to November, 1898.

Rev. T. M. Findley, pastor at-large for the St. Cloud presbytery, with headquarters at Spicer, Minn., will be the next pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. James L. McBride, who is now in charge of a church in Chicago.

A call was officially extended Rev. Mr. Findley last evening at a meeting of the congregation at the church. That he will accept is generally believed among the church officials, who expect that he will be in Duluth to preach his first sermon on April 3.

Mr. Findley is a former pastor of this church, having served from January 1888 until November 1898, when he resigned to take charge of his pres-

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"The Great Divide."

"THE GREAT DIVIDE."

Henry Miller's Production of Great American Play at the Lyceum.

With Edwin Mordant and Mabel Brownell in the leading roles, Henry Miller's production of William Vaughn Moodoy's great play, "The Great Divide," will be presented at the Lyceum tonight and Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday afternoon.

"The Great Divide," was the rage in New York for two seasons in three different theaters and since it has been on the road, the New York verdict that it was the "great American play," has been confirmed. With the high standards set by Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin at which to strive, the people who will appear in the cast here have proved their ability. Critics all over the country have pronounced them the peers of the creators of the roles and have said the present production is equal to that which was given for 600 nights in New York.

"Follies of the Day."

"Follies of the Day," a burlesque which enjoyed a sensational run on Broadway, New York, will play at the Lyceum Sunday night and matinee and Monday night. There has never been a better selected beauty chorus than that seen with "The Follies." A better group of ponies has never been shown. Albert von Tilzer has written for this production jingle after jingle, and there is a song a minute. The book and lyrics were written by Barney Gerald, who also staged the production, and there are laughs at the rate of one every second. A clever cast of sixty-five people headed by Gertrude Hayes is kept going at a break-neck speed for two hours and a half.

The Mammoth.

What caused the extermination of the mammoth? Nobody knows, but it is probable that they failed to keep up with changing conditions and were succeeded by creatures better adapted to their environments. Other things are today becoming extinct for these same reasons. But there is one thing that will not become extinct—Golden Grain Belt beer. As a health builder it cannot be excelled. GOOD CHANCES IN STAPLES COUNTRY

Commercial Club Considers Possibilities of Soil in That Section.

Staples, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At an enthusiastic meeting of the Commercial club held this week many matters pertaining to the advancement of Staples and the country tributary were considered.

Among matters considered were: The establishment of a potato market in this city, and the building of a warehouse, insufficiently large to contain the crop marketed from the surrounding districts. Also a starch and pickling factory, both of which would thrive exceedingly well here, the soil being found to be very fertile and productive of vegetables and grains of all classes, as has been shown by exhibits at different times in our city.

Potatoes yield surprisingly well, and are of a very fine, mealy quality, demanding upon the best markets, a superior price, as they come from the ground free from scabs, and as clean as though washed.

President Cashman stated that he has proof from farmers in the vicinity of Staples of $600 worth of cucumbers being produced from one acre of ordinary land, and he wished to impress upon the minds of those who were not already aware of the facts, that a man need not pull stakes and go West, where similar producing lands are valued from $300 to $800 per acre, to make a home and be independent, but to investigate right at home in Minnesota, and he will find that $10 to $20 lands will yield the desired results when the proper care is given, same as is required on the high-priced lands in the West.

Further addresses were made by T. J. Sharkey, formerly of Anoka, well versed in the starch manufacturing industry, and by H. C. Miller, owner, and John Herschy, one of the prosperous farmers of this community.

One speaker declared that he had travelled from the Pacific ocean to the Gulf of Mexico, and that he found no place that offered the inducements for agricultural purposes, like the country in the vicinity of Staples.

Red clover of the finest in the world is produced here, yielding from two to four tons hay, and from three to eight bushels of clover seed per acre, and there has never been a year in the history of the country, since farming was taken up, that the corn crop has not been a success, thereby insuring unlimited success to dairymen, and stockmen.

The market facilities are the very best to be had, the location of Staples being practically equi-distant from all the great cities in the state, and also on direct main lines of railroads leading to points outside of the state, and there is no reason why that, during the next few seasons to come, the farming community around Staples will not be the most prosperous of any portion of the central states.

BRAINERD'S NEW BUILDING.

Postoffice for Which Bids Are Invited Will Be Fine Structure.

Brainerd, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plans for Brainerd's new postoffice building have arrived and show that the building will be an ornament to the city and well adapted to the purposes for which it is designed.

The bids will be opened in Washington, D. C., March 31, and under the terms of the advertisement for bids the building must be ready by April 1, 1911.

The building will be 55 by 73 feet in size and about 32 feet in height, surmounted by a tall flagstaff. The building will be of rough red brick, with Flemish bond, and trimmed with sandstone or limestone. It will be set twelve feet back from the Sixth street lot line and fourteen feet from the Maple street line. The first floor will be about four feet above the sidewalk grade, and will be reached by a flight of seven steps. The building will face on Sixth street and will have an entrance from Maple street.

There will be a 15-foot sidewalk on both sides, while a 27-foot macadamized driveway will go around the south and east sides of the building, thus making the mail vestibule accessible from either street.

The granite steps which lead up to the entrances will be surmounted with handsome lamp posts, while there will be handsome bracket lanterns on the west entrance.

WIDOW GOT INSURANCE.

Wife of Glyndon Merchant Has Faith in Life Insurance.

Glyndon, Minn., March 11.—Friends of the late Fred Tracy, a local merchant, who died two or three months ago, and especially the widow, are feeling very kindly towards a leading life insurance company.

Twenty-nine days before his death Mr. Tracy took out a policy for $5,000, payable to his wife. He paid the premium, was given a binding receipt, which was subject to acceptance by the company at headquarters in New York. In the medical examination of the insured there was a little difference from previous examinations, and it was that which the company desired to look into.

Mrs. Tracy and her friends hardly expected to have the claim allowed in the absence of the issuance of the policy proper, but proof of death was made and intimations were subsequently received that the company intended to pay the claim; that before the death of Mr. Tracy it had been decided that the falling off of weight had nothing to do with the death, which was caused by pneumonia.

The company Tuesday delivered to Mrs. Tracy a draft for $5,000 and $1.12 interest, as there had been a few days delay.

THIEF RIVER FALLS' NEW HOTEL CONTRACT AWARDED

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract for a new modern hotel building in this city has been let to P. S. Doege, a local contractor, and the plumbing to W. Dreyfus, also of Thief River Falls, while the electric material and lighting was awarded the city lighting department. The plans were drawn up by a Fargo firm of architects and call for a 75-room structure of light-colored brick, and the hotel will be supplied with every known convenience. Julian Provencher, proprietor of the Hotel Evelyn, is the projector of the proposed building, and before it is fully completed will have spent some $45,000.

WAITS FOR DIVA'S ANSWER.

Robert E. Chanler to Get Reply From Mlle. Cavalieri April 15.

New York, March 11.—Robert E. Chanler, former leader of Duchess county Democracy, is to find out on April 15 if Mlle. Lina Cavalieri, prima donna of the Manhattan opera house, is to marry him.

She blithely fixed the day just a few days ago.

Now "Sheriff Bob" has marked off April 15 on his calendar and he is counting the days impatiently as, in his studio, above the Windsor Arcade on Fifth avenue he puts on glittering touches of silver and gold to the queer decorative paintings he has been working on for many months.

TO DO HER EVERY BIDDING.

The Object of Germany's Feverish Naval Preparations.

London, March 11.—Speaking at Folkestone on the German navy, Admiral Penrose Fitzgerald said: "Mr. Blatchford has come to the conclusion that the rulers of Germany are preparing for a war against England, though he admits that the German people, do not want war. As to this I have no doubt whatever that he is right; I would say that the rulers of Germany do not want war, though they are obviously preparing for it.

"What I think they are aiming at with their navy is to place themselves in such a position that they will be able to get all they want without war, by merely holding out the threat of war. The preamble to her navy law says that Germany must have a fleet of such strength that even for the mightiest naval power a war with her would involve such risks as to jeopardize its own supremacy. You know that the mightiest naval power means England, and also that Germany is putting forth the most strenuous efforts to fulfill the preamble to her navy law.

"Germany is spending more money on new construction than England, and by so doing is striving to place herself in the same position with regard to England which she occupies towards the other nations of Europe—in plain language, to have us under her thumb, so that we shall be obliged to do her bidding under the threat of war. If we allow Germany to do this, we shall have lost our independence without firing a shot, and the history of Germany leaves little doubt as to what use she makes of her commanding position."

Not Girl's Assailant.

Moorhead, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Shepherd, the man arrested and held for assault and battery upon Selma Erickson, established an alibi in Judge Malloy's court. It was proven by the testimony of four young men and two young women that Shepherd was with them at the residence of a Mr. Johnson from 8 p. m. to after 11 p. m. on the night of Sunday, Feb. 13, the night of the assault.

Orrine Cured Him of DRUNKENNESS

Her Husband Now Spends His Evenings at Home.

She bought Orrine from the druggist in her home town—she bought it after reading the Orrine Free Booklet. In the Booklet she read of the wonderful cures of drunkenness which were accomplished by the aid of Orrine. On page ten of the Booklet she read the liberal guarantee to refund all money paid for Orrine if it failed to effect a cure. After reading the Booklet she became convinced that Orrine was a remedy of unusual merit. She decided to purchase it and cure her husband of drunkenness. Orrine cured him. Now she is a happy wife in a happy home. Orrine helped to purchase the home. Read the following letter from Walter K. Schmidt Co., 84 Canal St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

"For a number of years we have been agents for Orrine. During that time we have had occasion to be convinced, beyond a doubt, that Orrine is a reputable remedy, worthy of recommendation. One of the many cases coming to our attention, a mechanic earning $22.50 per week, who had not taken a full pay envelope home for over five years, was induced to try Orrine, a complete cure being the result. The man became worth more to his firm, receiving an advance in pay, and has purchased a home. The house stands there showing the merits of Orrine. We cannot help but feel that we were most fortunate when we secured the agency for this reliable liquor cure."

Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orrine costs only $1 a box. The guarantee is in each box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orrine Co., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. Orrine is for sale in this city by W. A. Abbett, 129 West Superior street, 930 East Second street, 101 West Fourth street.

They Know. Orrine is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness and they will not offer you a substitute.

GIVEN JUDGMENT AGAINST OFFICER

Woman Ejected From Chisholm Saloon Awarded Damages for $1,000.

Virginia, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of Johanna Ostervich vs. Morris Simonson, returned a verdict in the district court in favor of the plaintiff, allowing her damages to the amount of $1,000. Simonson was a police officer at Chisholm and entered a saloon one night and ejected Mrs. Ostervich from the place and placed her in the city jail on a charge of disorderly conduct. She claimed that Simonson abused and ill treated her so she became sick.

Simonson claimed that the woman created a disturbance in the saloon and resisted him when he attempted to quiet her and after several attempts she again resisted him, when he arrested her.

The case of the State vs. Mrs. Myers and Frank Bree, charged with adultery, is now on trial. The couple were arrested last fall at Buhl on the charge made against them by the husband of Mrs. Myers, and were indicted by the grand jury. The defense is trying to shew that the charge is unfounded.

It is expected that court will be in session here for another week when it will adjourn to Hibbing, where a number of important cases are to be tried. Judge Cant will probably be called to try the Hibbing cases.

PUTTING COAL DYE INTO MEAT

Two Eveleth Butchers Haled Into Court and Fined for Law-Breaking.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Peterson and L. Seastedt, two merchants, were haled into municipal court yesterday on a charge of treating old meats with coal tar dye, in violation of the pure food laws. The charges were brought by state Food inspector E. B. Hieberg, who had the men arrested following an investigation of their meat markets.

The accused asserted that the treating of old meats with coal tar dye by their clerks, as alleged, was committed without their knowledge. Mr. Seastedt was directly charged with the dyeing of old meats by illegal methods, in the inspector's charge, and as the evidence submitted by the inspector was strong and convincing, he was fined $15 and costs. Mr. Peterson was given the same fine, which in both cases was paid.

It is understood the inspector has also secured strong evidence against other local meat market proprietors for violation of the pure food laws, and will have them tried in municipal court today. L. Wiener, another merchant, is said to have been given thirty minutes in which to clean up his place of business in a satisfactory manner, or appear in court on a charge that the inspector would prefer. Mr. Wiener succeeded in cleaning up his place of business in the required time limit, and was also warned to conduct his meat market in a more sanitary manner hereafter.

COURTS MUST SETTLE

Just Who Is Entitled to Hold Municipal Judgeship.

Virginia, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge James P. Carey expects to leave next week for Hot Springs, Ark. Judge Carey has been in poor health for some time and is contemplating this trip with the hope that it will be beneficial. During his absence there is a question as to who will preside as judge of this court. J. H. Cumming, who was elected as special judge two years ago for a four years term, holds he is entitled to the office for two more years. R. C. Pickering, who was elected as special judge in February, claims that he is entitled to conduct the affairs of the municipal court in the absence of Judge Carey. It may be that the matter will have to be thrashed out in district court.

Judge and Mrs. J. H. Fleming are the proud parents of twin girls, the pair having arrived at the parental home last Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles Sarff and Mrs. G. I. Williams went to Aurora yesterday to spend a day or two at the home of Capt. J. H. Polglase.

G. W. Mulligan, the Eveleth cigar manufacturer, spent yesterday afternoon in the city and at Mountain Iron on business.

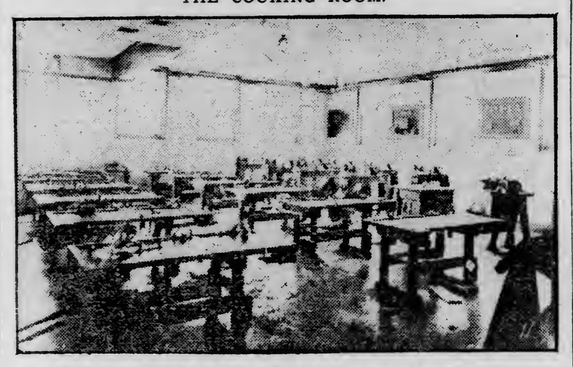
COOKING AND MANUAL TRAINING WORK IN EVELETH HIGH SCHOOL

THE COOKING ROOM.



THE MANUAL TRAINING DEPARTMENT.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cooking and manual training departments of the Eveleth high school are important factors in the local school system and much interest is being taken in the two departments by the pupils and parents. The work being done by the pupils of the two departments is of a high standard, and the exercises completed, show careful observation and accuracy.

The cooking department has enrolled about sixty-five girls, who are members of the public school grades from the sixth grade up, and the remainder is composed of ninth, eleventh and twelfth grade girls, of the high school. The pupils are being taught cooking under the direction of Miss Emmalissa Mandeville, Rochester, N. Y., who has been associated with the local schools for four years, and much progress is being made under her instruction, the pupils putting their knowledge to practical use. The cooking department occupies two rooms, a cooking room and a dining hall. The dining hall is an innovation in the local cooking department having been installed for the first time this year, and is proving a success. The dining hall is being utilized for many purposes and serves as a resting place and luncheon room for the teachers.

This evening the pupils of the junior cooking class will prepare a dinner for the school board to be served by two members of the senior class.

Manual Training Department.

The manual training department under the direction of Harry L. Lyons, St. Cloud, is also proving a success and 184 pupils are being taught. The pupils are all turning out good work and their completed exercises are the subject of much high recommendation.

The manual training room is very well lighted and spacious and affords the students every convenience in their work. Twelve regular manual training benches are used by the pupils from the fifth grade up to the eleventh grade, upon which many household articles of considerable size and weight are being made by the pupils. Chairs, tables, furniture, etc., for the home are being made with considerable success by pupils of the higher grades who work at the benches. Lathes were installed for the first time this term, and the junior and senior boys, the only classes operating them, are enthusiastic over the innovation and their work shows the results of careful observation and interest. The lathes are run by electricity and each one has a separate motor. Upon the lathes the wood turning work is being done and the articles completed are in most cases perfect practical use of their training. Knowledge is being made by the students and they at times furnish articles called for by the other departments of the school.

MRS. HIRAM HAYES OF SUPERIOR DIES

Was Resident of Head of the Lakes for More Than Fifty Years.

Mrs. Hiram Hayes, a sister of Mrs. H. M. Peyton of Duluth and a resident of Superior for more than fifty years, died Wednesday night in San Antonio, Tex. News of her death was a surprise to her friends, for, although her health had not been good for some time, her condition was not considered serious.

Mrs. Hayes was born in Syracuse, N. Y., and was 68 years old at the time of her death. She came to the Head of the Lakes when very young and lived in Superior continuously for over fifty years. She was well known in both Duluth and Superior and her death brings sorrow to the pioneers of the two cities and the younger generation as well.

Mr. Hayes was with his wife at the time of her death and he will accompany the body to Superior. He is expected to arrive Monday and the funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon from the Episcopal church of the Redeemer, East end, Superior. Besides Mr. Hayes, one son, Frank Hayes of Superior, survives Mrs. Hayes.

WOODSMEN IN FROM CAMPS

Annual Influx Has Begun---- Men Well Supplied With Money.

The annual spring influx of lumberjacks from the woods is in progress and Bowery clothing stores and saloons are doing a thriving business. Though the class of men in the woods of Northern Minnesota is different from that of the old days, the laborers, or many of them, still cling to the Bowery in the spring until their rolls are gone.

The woodsman with a roll scorns offers of work and every man coming in from the woods at this time is plentifully supplied with coin of the realm and possessed of an unwholesome desire to get rid of it.

With the breakup of the lumber camps, railroad construction work is opening and the employment agents are flooded with orders for men. They cannot fill all the orders at present, but in a few weeks it is expected that the men who now consider themselves plutocrats will be willing to listen to offers of $35 a month and chuck.

He is a member of the Social Revolutionary party and entered the Old Believer church, it is stated, to shake the traditional conservatism of the members of that body.

SALE OF

NEW DULUTH LOTS

The New Duluth Company has decided that it will on the 21st day of March, 1910, place on sale between 350 and 400 lots in the First Division of its splendid Townsite of New Duluth, at prices ranging from $22.00 to $48.00 per front foot for business lots, and from $11.00 to $16.00 per front foot for residence lots.

This division of New Duluth is a table land, elevated about sixty feet above St. Louis river, which is near its southerly boundary, has a number of graded streets and sidewalks, has the advantages of schools and churches is beautifully situated for residences and homes, of which it already has a large number, and adjoins Manufacturers' Division, which doubtless will in the near future be the location of many manufactories.

Commonwealth avenue and Grand avenue are designed to be the business streets of New Duluth.

The proximity of New Duluth to the development work of the United States Steel Corporation and the Interstate Bridge, and to its new steel plant, which it is beginning to construct, insures a large population in New Duluth before the end of the present year. The New Duluth Company can therefore recommend investments in New Duluth property to all.

For the sale of lots herein proposed, The New Duluth Company will receive applications until March 21st, 1910, from parties desiring to purchase. The applicant should state the number of lots he desires to purchase. That each applicant may be treated impartially as to choice of lots offered, a plan to be followed will be adopted on the morning of March 21st, to determine the order of his turn to make selection of lots. To entitle each applicant to his choice of lots, he or his representative must appear on March 21st, and in his turn exercise his choice of the lots. Ten per cent of purchase price must be paid on the selection of lots March 21st; within thirty days thereafter 10 per cent additional is to be paid on the delivery of land contract in the usual form for the lots sold. The terms of payment for the balance shall be as follows: One-fifth of purchase price in six months, one-fifth in twelve months, one-fifth in eighteen months, one-fifth in twenty-four months after date of sale with 6 per cent interest on all deferred payments.

Title to all lots sold is to be good. All land contracts issued for lots sold at this sale shall provide that if the purchaser shall construct a building to cost not less than $1,000 on any business lot, and not less than $500 on any residence lot, within one year from date of sale, that one-fifth of the purchase price of said lot represented by the installment maturing next after the completion of such building, shall be cancelled as an inducement for improving the property; providing the lot is free from liens or claims, which might jeopardize the company's security thereon for the balance of the purchase price.

A list of prices for all lots to be offered at this sale, and maps showing the location of the lots and their proximity to the New Steel Plant can be secured on application by mail or otherwise to

In the second bout Person was slammed to the hard floor of the stage, the fall tearing three ligaments from his leg and disabling him during the remainder of the bout.

Ordemann plainly showed the class that has made him one of the three great wrestlers of the world. Huge in body, possessing lithe, tapering limbs, and with the beautiful rounded symmetry of a statue, he moves with the lithe speed of a panther. He surprised Person and the audience by his amazing speed for such a big man. He was in and out like a cat. He was heavier, stronger and faster than Person. Despite the odds, Person put up as gritty a struggle as has ever been seen here.

Both Ordemann and Dr. L. J. McDevitt, who refereed the big bout of the evening, wished Person to quit when he tore the ligaments from his knee. The big Dane only shook his head and told Ordemann that he would have to go on and beat him. With a limb that he could not bear to put his weight on, Person was at the mercy of the big Minneapolis crack and the second fall was only a matter of the first opportunity.

Ordemann started the match with a wild rush. He rushed Person off the stage, made a circle at the right stage box and completed the race by rushing Person into and almost through the inoffensive scenery. He tried to continue his hold on the hard floor of the stage and Referee McDevitt was forced to pull the men apart.

Once again Ordemann almost rushed Person across the footlights, making the holders of front row seats gasp in nervous apprehension. But when Ordemann had sized up his man and settled down to business he showed the audience that he was right there and that there were few points of the game that he was not familiar with.

He went quickly behind Person and soon had the Duluth man in serious mat difficulty. He secured a crotch hold immediately and went to work in a very workman-like manner. Person wriggled out of the hold when his shoulders were but a few inches from the canvas. He clamped on a half-Nelson, secured a wrist hold and nearly flopped Person with a half-hammerlock hold. Then suddenly switching, almost as quick as a flash, the big Minneapolis man secured a wrist and bar hold and began forcing Person's shoulders to the mat.

Struggle as Person did, bridge, using lever lifts and desperately resisting by propping himself on one shoulder, he was slowly forced to the mat by the great weight and strength of the big Norwegian.

When they came back for the second fall Person began working more aggressively. Ordemann went behind Chris but the Duluth man brought cheers from the big audience by sneaking out from a crotch hold and going behind Ordemann. Person started to work with a determination but he could do little to the blonde giant. He clamped on a crotch and half-Nelson and lifted Ordemann over to his left side. Here his progress stopped, however, for the big Norsk gave a sudden Herculean bound of his big body and escaped from the hold.

Again during the second bout Person skillfully worked behind the big Mill City boy, only to find that his strength and power of frame made progress impossible.

Suddenly Ordemann grasped Person and turned him head-over on the hard floor of the stage. Chris was slow to rise and it was seen that he was badly injured. He limped to the center of the mat, full of fight, but he was all in, and it was an easy matter for the big Norsk to bring Person to a bridge by a hammerlock and wrist hold from in front and crush his shoulders to the mat.

In the first preliminary of the evening, which was refereed by William Allen, an old time wrestler, Bill Beaulieu of Superior defeated Ole Johnson of Marshfield, Wis., in straight falls, the first fall coming in three minutes and the second fall in 2.35.

The Sailor Jack-Harvey Wood contest showed some clever wrestling. The bout was announced as an exhibition, and the sailor showed why he is one of the best welters in the country. His speed and knowledge of the game make him a dangerous man to any opponent.

Next Friday evening the Sailor will meet Dick Shepperd in the clubrooms of the Duluth Athletic club.

The Gophers Win.

Chicago, March 11.—The University of Minnesota basket ball team last night defeated the Northwestern university team, 31 to 18.

DULUTH BOYS WIN FIRST GAME IN BIG MADISON TOURNAMENT

THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM.
Solheim, Guard; Waldron, Center; Boyle, Captain and Guard; Johnson, Forward; Harris, Forward.

Madison, Wis., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Showing some of the best form of the present tournament, the Duluth Central high school basket ball team yesterday defeated the strong Cleveland high school team by the score of 28 to 17.

The team work and speed shown by the Duluth boys proved a distinct surprise to those who had picked the Cleveland team to win. The latter team is considered one of the strongest teams at the tournament, and the defeat of the Cleveland boys has placed the stock of the Duluth quint very high.

Duluth is believed to stand a very good chance to get into the finals, and possibly win the tournament, so strongly has the showing of yesterday impressed the followers of the tournament play.

In yesterday's game the playing of Capt. Larry Boyle and Harris was the feature of the game. The team work of the Duluth boys and the quick shooting, proved too much for the Cleveland team.

Duluth plays Freeport today and Superior will line up against Waterloo, in the consolations.

Yesterday's lineup:

Duluth 28—		Cleveland 17.
Johnson	r.f.	Miller
Harris	l.f.	Mortimer
Waldron	c.	Heliencamp
Boyle	r.g.	Weber
Solheim	l.g.	Spencer.

Field baskets—Johnson, 3; Harris, 4; Waldroh, 2; Boyle, 2; Solheim, 2; Heliencamp, 4; Weber, 1. Free throws—Harris, 1; Waldren, 1; Mortimer, 5. Umpire—Kadish.

In the other games yesterday, Sterling, Ill., defeated Waterloo, Iowa, by the score of 33 to 31; New Ulm, Minn., defeated Crawfordsville, Ind., by the score of 21 to 16; Appleton, Wis., defeated Menominie, 28 to 12; La Crosse defeated Janesville by score of 24 to 13; Detroit defeated Faribault, 33 to 26, and Ottuma, Iowa, trimmed Marquette, Mich., by the score of 64 to 2.

KETCHEL WILL FIGHT EACH WEEK

Middleweight Champion Gives Himself Good Chance to Remain in Condition.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 11.—Stanley Ketchel stated last night that he had satisfactorily arranged for a postponement of his fight with Frank Klaus at Pittsburg until March 23.

He signed to meet either Klaus or Hugo Kelly, April 10, in New Orleans and today signs to meet a middleweight to be selected by a Memphis club for April 25.

"I will fight every week after leaving here if I can get the engagements," said Ketchel.

NORDBY HOLDS THE SKI RECORD

Fiering's Jump of 144 Feet Ruled Out By National Association.

Marquette, Mich., March 11.—The slide of the Ishpeming club holds the official record for the greatest jump ever made on a ski hill in the United States. This is the decision of Aksel H. Holter of Ashland, Wis., secretary of the National Ski association, and an acknowledged authority on the great winter sport of the Scandinavian peninsula. The leap which has set a new official record for America was made by August Nordby of Superior, Wis., when with other professional riders he took part in Marquette county's big annual tournament Feb. 22, last. The jump was 140 feet. This is two feet greater than the official record established at Chippewa Falls, Wis., last winter.

Fiering's Jump Ruled Out.

Regarding the reported jump of 144 feet on the hill at Duluth, Mr. Holter says that that leap was made in a trial preliminary to the regular run and cannot be recognized by the association. He adds: "There is no doubt in my mind—and I have always maintained this—that the Ishpeming ski hill is the fastest in the country." Mr. Holter says that the world's official record is 147 feet. This jump was established by Harold Smith of Christiania, Norway, at Davos, Switzerland, last winter. The same skier made 151 feet, but failed to retain his footing.

It is particularly fitting that the Ishpeming hill should hold the record for America. The Ishpeming club was the first ski organization formed in the United States and it was the father of the national association. For a score of years it has been conducting annual tournaments on Washington's anniversary. Its hill is a natural slide on which much money has been expended in the endeavor to make it as perfect as possible. Still further improvements are planned, with the expectation that next season will see the world's record at least equalled.

SAILOR ISSUES CHALLENGE.

Will Meet Beaulieu in Finish Match —Accepts Mose Brown's Defi.

Sailor Jack today issued a challenge to meet Bill Beaulieu in a finish match for either a purse or a substantial side bet. Beaulieu outweights the sailor by some twenty-five pounds, but in his challenge the sailor stipulates that he will meet the Superior grappler upon even terms.

The manager of the local welterweight has also replied to the challenge of the man of mystery, "Mose Brown," who is believed to be some prominent wrestler masquerading under an assumed name. The backers of the sailor state that their man will meet Brown who is for the time being making his home in Virginia, for $200 a side.

The money of the Duluth man is up and he states that he is ready to wrestle as soon as he is through with his match with Dick Shepperd.

The Centrals won two out of three games from the Majestics on the latter's alleys last evening. All three of the games of the winning team were over the 900 mark, and two of the games rolled by the losing team were also over the 900 accumulation point. WILL DECIDE HOCKEY TITLE.

Adams and Big Duluths Will Settle Hockey Championship This Evening.

The lineup for the game of this evening, at the Duluth Curling rink between the Big Duluth and Adams hockey teams, will be composed of the same players who have played in the championship games that have been so closely fought within the past two weeks.

The score at the present time stands at a tie, each team having captured one of the post-season championship games, which will decide the city championship. The winner of the game this evening will capture the city championship trophy. The game is for the benefit of the Smith memorial scholarship fund, which is a worthy cause.

The teams will line up as follows:

DULUTH BOY CHOSEN FOR ALL STAR HOCKEY TEAM

Young Frank Crassweller of this city, son of Attorney Frank Crassweller, and a student at Cornell university, has been selected as right wing on the All-Eastern collegiate hockey team. The young Duluth boy has played a star game for his team the present season, and in most of the games Cornell has participated in his work has stood out prominently.

A writer in an Eastern publication states that the Duluth boy has no peer as a hockey player in the college world. The writer says further that young Crassweller is aggressive, shoots well and carries the puck exceptionally well.

The Duluth boy has long been recognized as a hockey crack, but not until the present season has he come into such prominence.

FRANK CRASSWELLER.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE)

There are persistent rumors which say that the present year will be the last that Frank A. Gotch will put in on the mat. It is whispered around that if the world's champion defeats Zbyszko in their coming match, he will forsake the mat for the more quiet life of his large and prosperous farm.

No wrestler who has ever lived, has earned a better right to retire from the mat than Frankie. He has met them all and rolled them like a French-Canadian jack can roll the slippery log. Gotch has yet to find the man that he has failed to beat, and there is not very much left for the master of the mat to do but retire.

Gotch finds himself in something of the position of Jeffries before he retired, some five years ago. There was no use in Jeff's remaining in the ring, as there was no one whom the public believed could give the then champion anything like an equal fight.

If Gotch does defeat Zbyszko, who in the world will there be left for him to tackle? There will be possibly Mahmout, the Bulgarian, who is really a great wrestler, but who has been decisively defeated by Gotch. Mahmout has pleaded for another chance, and there is the possibility that he may be given one more try for the title. Outside of Mahmout and Zbyszko, there is no man that is known who is capable of giving Gotch a terrific struggle on the mat.

Lovers of wrestling will be loth to see Gotch retire, as he is the most brilliant performer the world has ever seen. But even a master like Gotch can't go on forever, and the American public would rather see the big Iowan retire undefeated than to remain upon the mat until the harpoon of defeat was sunk into him by some man he could have easily beaten in his earlier days.

Old Joe Choynski, valiant battler in the heavyweight ranks some few years ago, and one of the men who used to get beat up much as the Battling Nelson of today has been beaten, comes forth with the prediction that the Battler is still the greatest of them all, that he can come back, and that a rest and careful preparation will make him the conqueror of Wolgast.

Joe, himself, tried to come back and found the game has either grown too strenuous during the period of his retirement, or that he had passed the limits of his endurance. It does sound funny, that he, of all men, should believe that the battle-scarred Battler could come back and beat the young and vigorous Wolgast.

Perhaps Nelson will try, for he is a mulish sort of a person, and then the fight public will have the opportunity of finding out just how good Choynski's judgment is upon matters pugilistic.

Wee Willie Keeler, in his day one of the greatest little hitters and outfielders the game has ever known, is not after all to leave the big league. The little chap has signed with the New York Nationals, and comes forth with the statement that he will still continue to hit them "where they ain't."

Only recently Keeler was given his unconditional release from the New York Americans. Many believe that the big league days of the little fellow are a thing of the past. McGraw evidently does not think so. As McGraw is a very wise fish when it comes to things baseball, it may be best to lie back and watch Willie before coming to the dead and down conclusion that he is through with high averages for ever.

And Willie has an interesting explanation of the fact that he has not hit as well in the last two or three seasons.

"It was so sunny in the outfield on the New York American's grounds," says Willie, "that my eyes were often blurred and dazed when I came to bat. Under those circumstances it is not difficult to see why I could not lambast the leather to far corners of the lot. I am tickled to death to get back to the old crowd again, and you can be sure that McGraw knows that there are some very good games under my belt. I have been trying to get away from the sun field for the last three years, and I will show them that all the baseball has not left my system."

John L. Sullivan is back to dear, old Ireland. He visited the birthplace of his father and mother, and soon after that appeared at the Dublin Theater Royal before a packed house.

His appearance was the biggest hit of the evening. When Sullivan opened his mouth he put his foot in it. The Irish audience didn't take to his jokes very well—no, not in the least. And when John recited an alleged pathetic tale, some of the audience were unkind enough to titter.

Sure, and it is a foine reception for the greatest fighter that Ireland ever produced.

Sam Langford and Jim Flynn mix a week from today at Los Angeles. There are many that believe the negro is going back and that Flynn will again hang the initiation banner of the down and out club on the broad and sometimes beaming countenance of the darkey. It is a cinch, however, that Langford has not overlooked any bets in the training line, and he will be as fit as the proverbial fiddle when he faces the Colorado fireman.

Reports from New Orleans, where the Chicago Cubs are training, would lead one to the belief that there will be several new faces upon the team at the opening of the season. However, it is a very good wager that when the bell rings for the season, there will be the same old faces there. Chance may have a lot of classy youngsters burning up the diamond down New Orleans way; yet at the same time it will be pretty hard to supplant any of the old boys who have brought three flags to Chicago. It is a very different matter in the early spring season and later when the old boys begin to strike their gait. Unless the peerless leader has uncovered some phenoms, it is a good bet that there will not be any changes in the personnel of the Chicago team.

FIRST OF NEW BOATS FINISHED

Seven of Uniform Type Are Ordered By Boat Club Members.

Word from Lake Geneva, Wis., has been received that the first of the uniform class motor boats that will be used at the Head of the Lakes the coming season, has been completed. The boat will be shipped to Duluth in the near future.

The new boats will be 26 feet in length, 4 feet 6 inches in beam over all, and will have 17-horse power. The boats are being built by J. E. Simmons of Lake Geneva, and so far seven have been ordered by members of the Duluth Boat club.

Barry vs. Jack Burns.

San Francisco, Cal., March 11.—Jim Barry of Chicago, who knocked out "Gunboat Smith" in Oakland Wednesday night and Jack Burns of Salinas, Cal., have been matched to box twenty rounds in this city on Tuesday night, March 29.

Free Field Will Rule.

Louisville, Ky., March 11.—Col. Matt J. Wynn, manager of the new Louisville Jockey club, last night announced that a free field will rule on the occasion of the Kentucky derby this spring. "We intend," he said, "to put the race in this respect on a par with the English classic. There the running can be seen by all, regardless of their financial condition, and as a result the English derby has become the most fashionable and popular sporting contest in the civilized world. We will have the center field of the track reserved entirely for those unable to pay to see the big race."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Old Officials of Bowling Congress Will Probably Be Re-elected.

St. Louis Is Making a Hard Fight for the 1911 Meet.

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—The second session of the annual meeting of the American Bowling congress was held today. The election of officers for the coming year and the awarding of the 1911 tournament formed the principal business.

When the delegates gathered it was believed that practically all of the present officers would be re-elected. St. Louis appeared to be the favorite in the battle over the awarding of the 1911 event. There were many Buffalo badges in sight and the New York state men announced that they would make a hard fight for the honor.

The usual long program on the alleys was scheduled.

At today's meeting it was decided that future tournaments could be started on any date between Jan. 15 and March 15. This is considered a victory for St. Louis, as the Missouri delegation opposed the amendment which required the tournament to be opened in February. It was also decided that no new records would be allowed unless bowled upon alleys which had been planned within one year of the time the new mark was claimed.

Yesterday passed without a change in the leaders in any of the three squads. While the scores in the two-men event were uniformly high, the individuals and five-men teams rolled indifferently.

Tournament leaders: Two-men teams —Dalker-Wetterman, Cincinnati, 1,231; Erickson-Jaerges, Oshkosh, Wis., 1,213; Cook-Crewson, Sebring, Ohio, 1,203; Zimmerman-Campbell, South Bend, Ind., 1,203; Sundvahl-Wilson, Chicago, Ill., Hall-Lane, Washington, Pa., 1,196; P. WARD AMES, JR., WINS NASSAU GOLF TROPHY.

A letter received in this city by E. P. Alexander, secretary of the Northland Golf club, states that Ward Ames, Jr., has won the golf trophy offered by the Nassau club of the Bahama Islands. The trophy is a coveted one, as it represents a victory over some of the very best players in the country.

The letter was sent from D. R. McLennan, who states that when Mr. Ames made the finals he made the score of thirty-six holes in 159, one under bogey. In playing eighteen holes in one period of the competition he finished two under bogey.

BUILDER RAMALEY GIVES DULUTH GOOD BOOST.

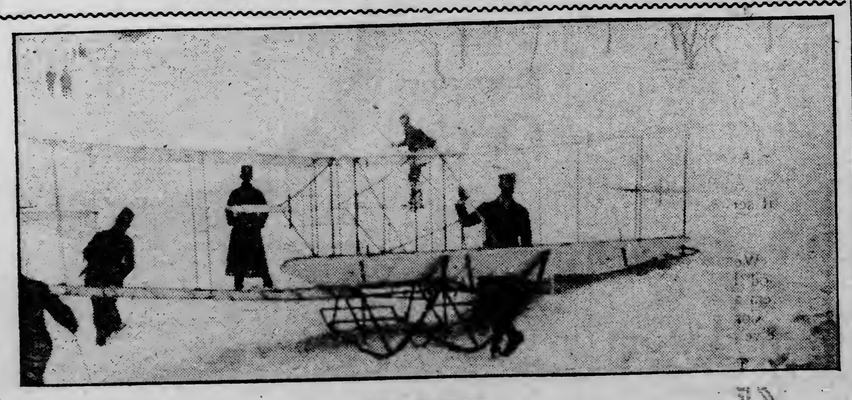
Gene Ramaley, one of the most prominent sail and motor boat builders in the Northwest, was here yesterday looking over the local situation.

"I have heard much about the growing interest in motor boats at the Head of the Lakes," said Mr. Ramaley yesterday. "I have been given to understand that there will be some of the best racing in Western waters at the Head of the Lakes the present summer. I know that some of the Eastern manufacturers are going to send some fast boats here. I am glad to see that Duluth is falling in line.

"In St. Paul I heard of Mr. Schell's challenge. That is the kind of business that will bring out the boats. I saw his boat at White Bear last summer, and I will say that in the Dingle Capitol Duluth is represented by one of the fastest boats in the country. I am of the opinion that Duluth will be one of the motor boat centers, and I am informed that there is also a renewed interest in sail boating.

"I wish that Duluth would inaugurate a class A boat class, in order that White Bear and Duluth might hold interlake regattas."

THE AERO-SLEIGH IS THE LATEST INVENTION USED BY LOVERS OF OUTDOOR SPORTS



AERO-SLEIGH.

The latest novelty in sporting equipment is the "Aero-Sleigh." It has been adopted by the Austrian Winter Sport club and the first competition took place on the Semmering, Feb. 13. The Aero-Sleigh is a biplane on runners. It is intended to run over the snow, the planes acting as sails, and if the wind is strong enough, it rises from the snow or flies over depressions. The greatest height it reaches is three or four feet from the ground. The first race was won by Miss Erdenreich. This picture shows the Aero-Sleigh of Capt. Umlauf, who came in second.

BULLET GOES OVER HEAD

Nels Olson Fires at Bartender, But His Aim Is Bad.

Waives Examination and Is Held to Grand Jury for Attempted Assault.

For shooting at John Miller, a bartender in Theo. Swanson's saloon, at 621 West Superior street, last night, Nels Olson, 32 years old, is under arrest. The bullet went a foot over Miller's head and was harmlessly embedded in the wall.

Olson and a man named Gus Nordin became engaged in an altercation in the saloon and Miller separated them. He took Nordin up to bed and Olson resented the interference. He began to make trouble and Gus Schroeder, who was in the place, went to call an officer. When he returned with Officer Mehlin, Miller was crouched behind the bar, there was a bullet hole in the wall, and Olson was leaning over the bar with a revolver in his hand, it is said. Olson was taken to the station and locked up on an attempted assault charge.

Olson waived examination when arraigned in police court this morning and was bound over to the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $500.

SCORES OF WITNESSES

home is in Shepperd, Mich., both of the latter admitted "steerers," and C. A. Nelson, a victim of the swindling operations.

Five farmers and seven from various branches of business life constitute the jury.

Thomas Gay, one of the indicted men who turned state's evidence, told of being one of the wrestlers in a match in which a lumberman of St. Paul named Shull lost $2,500.

Fenby a Witness.

Fenby of Shepperd, Mich., who was defeated at Detroit a few nights ago by Zbyszko, the Pole, was a star government witness. He told how, with James Coons, a neighbor, he "landed" three men from whom $14,000 was taken on wrestling matches. Coons later went on the stand and confirmed Fenby's testimony in every detail.

C. A. Nelson, a farmer living at Alma, Mich., was a victim to the extent of $3,000 and he told how it all happened. He started out for "a bit of sport," and ended up without a cent, a "steerer" having purchased a ticket for him and sent him home.

Pawnbroker on Stand.

The first witness today was Peter Voorhees, a pawnbroker of Alma, Mich., who confirmed the testimony given yesterday by Fenby and Coons concerning the alleged swindling of C. A. Nelson. Voorhees had some part in the negotiations, but declared that he did not expect Nelson to be fleeced. The witness admitted he saw nothing morally wrong in taking money from members of the "Millionaires' club," but regarded the Nelson affair as quite a different thing.

Alex de Laine of Green Bay, Wis., testified that he had accumulated $2,500 as a farm laborer and lost it on a fake race at Council Bluffs. He said Fenby and Coons showed him letters from someone in Council Bluffs making it clear that he could not lose if he took a hand in the game.

Cultivating Slimness

Fat women must take this injunction to heart if they want to be in style for the new modes will not drape over a fat figure.

The fat has got to come off quickly but without harm, of course, and this means only one thing can be depended upon. Exercising or dieting are too slow. The fat woman who wants to wear a form-clinging gown must make an immediate trip to her druggist and get a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, which will cost her about 75 cents.

Taking one of these after each meal and at bedtime should be enough to bring her to the "losing-a-pound-a-day" stage before even the first case is used up. It is hardly believable that such delightful results can be obtained without harm and for such a small sum of money, but then, fact is stranger than fiction.

Test the effect of these tablets by getting a case yourself, either from the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer building, Detroit, Mich., or from any druggist. They are made in exact accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription and, consequently, can not have any ill effects.

bat. Gen. Prudente also sent his seconds to Chiesa, as did Gen. Fecia di Cossato. A fourth challenge was received from a son of the Duchess di Litta at Milan and a fifth from a nephew of the duchess in Berlin.

Chiesa announced his willingness to meet all comers, and on Wednesday received a prick on the chin from the sword of Gen. Prudente. Yesterday, after twenty-four assaults, Chiesa put his mark on the cheek of Gen. Fecia di Cossato, and today it was decided that every one was satisfied.

Baroness Siegens arrived from Berlin today, and will nurse the general back to his normal health. It is reported that the two will be married soon. The general is 69 years of age and the baroness 42.

HAVE HOPES OF FORCING ADJUSTMENT

cars yesterday, and five persons were injured. The day proved featureless except for an attempt to make the center of the city the scene of a big demonstration in aid of the strikers' cause.

Blocked by Police.

The police blocked the move—by exercise of "high-handed methods," and "brutal unwarranted force," the strike leaders claim, and in prosecution of lawful, justifiable means and with no more force than was necessary to check in its incipiency what might have resulted in a serious disturbance of the peace, the authorities assert.

Suspecting that the crowd of more than 10,000 persons who had been prevented from holding an open-air meeting in the National League baseball park would take up the line of march to the city hall, the authorities took efficient measures to prevent the invasion of the city's central districts by what it was feared might prove a turbulent mob.

May Appeal to Banks.

Among the plans which it is said will be presented at the peace meeting this afternoon will be an appeal to the big banks and bankers of the city to bring about a settlement of the strike. It will be suggested that the bankers alone have the power to force a speedy adjustment. The executive committee believes that if the bankers consent to act the transit company will have no other alternative than to agree to a program of conciliation, as the company is a large borrower of money, and would naturally heed the demands of the financial interests.

W. B. Mahon, national president of the carmen's union, returned here today from Newcastle, Pa., where he attended the annual convention of the Pennsylvania branch of the American Federation of Labor. Mahon said the union leaders succeeded in bringing out 2,211 men, the employes have been granted a half holiday on Saturday. In making this announcement S. M. Vauclain, general superintendent of the plant, said:

"A delegation of men called on me and asked certain concessions. I granted them a half holiday Saturdays. I believe they are entitled to it. Part of the time they will make up and part of it we will. The half holiday will stand whether they strike or not, and will stand for all time if I can get it started right.

"One of the men cried out to a company official yesterday that they were sorry, but that they could not stand the strain. He said they would come back on Monday. If the present state of things prevails they will stay out longer; of that I feel assured. We do not like to see them go out, but if they are keyed to it and feel they want to go, we will not stop them."

Get Time and a Half.

The spirit of unrest has also brought a concession to several hundred machinists at the Midvale steel works, it is said. These men are reported to have agreed to join the general strike movement when word was given by the leaders. A strike signal was expected by the men tonight or tomorrow. The company, according to one of the employes, learned of the move, however, and granted the machinists time and a half time for extra work.

NELSON AND OTHERS IN PROBE INQUIRING INTO PERJURY LAWS

he did not wish to testify unless specifically directed to do so by the committee. Chairman Nelson told him he had been officially summoned, and would have to give any information possible.

With Taft in Panama.

Mr. Davis is an elderly man, who has been in reclamation work for more than a score of years. He accompanied Mr. Taft, then president-elect, to Panama in January, 1909, as a member of the board of consulting engineers on the canal work.

Interest in the investigation began to lag today and the crowd which sought admittance was smaller than on any morning since the committee first assembled.

Mr. Garfield's final half hour before the committee yesterday furnished the sensation of what had been up to that time a decidedly dull day. Mr. Garfield stated that Mr. Ballinger, after having been commissioner of the land office, submitted to him on Sept. 17, 1908, an affidavit signed by Clarence Cunningham and containing the statement that the Guggenheims had no interest whatever in the Cunningham group of coal claims in Alaska, while as a matter of fact the record of a recent hearing before the senate committee on territories show that prior to the making of the affidavit the Guggenheim syndictae had been given an option on a half interest in all the Cunningham claims.

Read From Ballinger's Report.

Attorney Brandels, who was questioning Mr. Garfield, followed the declaration by reading from Secretary Ballinger's report to President Taft on Sept. 4 last, concerning the Glavis charges, the statement that Mr. Ballinger had suggested to Mr. Cunningham an amendment to an affidavit made prior to the one which he presented to Secretary Garfield in September, 1908, and that Mr. Cunningham made the amendment by explaining in detail what he meant by certain terms used in his former affidavit.

Mr. Garfield said Mr. Ballinger, in giving him the affidavit, left the impression that his action was entirely casual and that he had been requested by friends in Seattle to leave it on file for whatever it might be worth. Mr. Brandeis then called attention to the fact that the name of Mr. Ballinger's law firm was printed on the backing of the affidavit.

Confer Over Perjury Laws.

Just before the adjournment of the committee yesterday afternoon the members engaged in a discussion as to whether the statutes regarding perjury would cover the ex parte affidavit of Clarence Cunningham which includes the statement by him on May 6, 1908, reiterated on Sept. 4, 1908, that the Guggenheim syndicate had no interest direct or indirect in the Cunningham group of coal lands claims in Alaska. A hearing before the senate committee on territories recently developed that an option by the Guggenheims on one-half the Cunningham claims was accepted by the claimants Dec. 7, 1907.

When today's session began, Attorney Brandeis said he desired to call the committee's attention to the revised statutes regarding perjury and subornation. These enactments, he thought, covered the case.

The Cunningham affidavit of Sept. 4, 1908, was left with Secretary Garfield by Mr. Ballinger.

Chief Engineer Davis continued his detailed statement as to operations of the reclamation service under the direction of Mr. Garfield. The witness went over most of the wholesale withdrawals of power site lands by Mr. Garfield and declared there was no subterfuge at any time. The policy of withdrawals, Mr. Davis stated, was not initiated by the reclamation service but was ordered by Secretary Garfield.

Compared the Policies.

Attorney Pepper took up with Mr. Davis the details of every water power withdrawal made by Secretary Garfield's orders and asked for a comment on each.

"Do you want me to draw inferences?" asked Mr. Davis.

"That has been the style here to date," remarked Senator Nelson with a broad grin.

Mr. Davis declared he thought the Garfield plan of making wholesale withdrawals, which could be pared down by subsequent examination, was preferable to the Ballinger plan of restoring all the lands and later restoring smaller areas actually necessary for power site purposes. He thought the first method a better protection of the government's interests.

When the technical features of his testimony had been exhausted Mr. Davis was asked to tell of an interview he had with Secretary Ballinger in this city the evening of March 17, 1909.

Talk With Ballinger.

"The secretary telephoned me to come to his hotel," said the witness. "We talked together for two hours, discussing principally the power site withdrawals. He criticised the past conduct of the reclamation service and said that the withdrawal of the large areas was illegal. He criticised our publicity bureau. I told him it was for the purpose of disseminating information of the various projects; that it saved the time of officers and prevented inaccuracy in newspaper accounts. He criticised what he termed our oppression of contractors, and said he had heard much complaint on that score. Mr. Ballinger did not show any great familiarity with the work of the service. He seemed interested in all I said, and when I was through he declared that things looked better to him. He said he wanted me to help him get acquainted with the work, and I promised to do so."

"Did you know he had previously gone over these matters with your superior, Director Newell?" asked Attorney Pepper.

"I did not."

No Confidence in Newell.

"Did Mr. Ballinger make any reference to Mr. Newell?"

"He expressed a lack of confidence in him. I had also seen newspaper clippings which said Secretary Ballinger intended to reorganize the reclamation service and to eliminate Mr. Newell."

"What impression did Mr. Ballinger's comment on the power site withdrawals leave with you?"

"He spoke as though a great crime had been committed by these withdrawals. I said I did not think it was so serious; that the lands could be readily restored, and that no great harm could be done."

himself, and won the coveted goal. Hinman was the choice of thirteen. Davis, who at the beginning mustered nine votes, had only three to his credit at the finish.

Say Root Made Mistake.

Although ostensibly Cobb's victory is a triumph for State Chairman Woodruff and the state organization, the beaten side declares that Woodruff's influence has been less responsible for what happened than was the will of the individual state senators.

Viewing the battleground, some confessed today that Senator Root had made a mistake in conveying his orders to elect Hinman in so open a manner. The publicity given Root's telegram of Tuesday night was intentional. The object was to show the people of the state that affairs at Albany were most unsatisfactory to the party leaders and to Governor Hughes, and that there must be a new deal. The state senators, however, bitterly resented dictation that might discredit their importance and authority with their constituents. Cobb's friends say that he will lose no time in declaring his loyalty to the governor, for even in the hour of victory the organization men admit that Hughes is the party's greatest asset in this state.

Sherman Not Pleased.

Washington, March 11.—Vice President Sherman and Representative McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, are evidently disturbed by the developments in the Republican caucus at Albany last night. Together they called to see President Taft today, and while waiting in the ante-room Mr. Sherman, whose expressions seemed to have been indorsed by Representative McKinley, said:

"I was not pleased with the selection." (Referring to Cobb as president pro tem to succeed Allds).

"The other selection (meaning Hinman), would have meant plain sailing for the campaign, with no clouds or squalls in the way. I would not say that the course of events complicates matters, but it certainly disturbs them."

Senator Root, when asked for an expression regarding Mr. Cobb's selection, said:

"I have no comment to make."

GIRL WHO RAN AWAY IN NIGHTGOWN NOT FOUND.

Lakewood, N. J., March 11.—Search for Miss Helen Bloodgood, daughter of a wealthy New York merchant, who eluded her nurses Wednesday night and leaped from the second story of her home and disappeared, has been unavailing. The young woman was clad only in a night robe and a pair of slippers. Miss Bloodgood came here in search of health.

A nearby lake has been dragged without result and bloodhounds pressed into service followed a track to the railroad station at Maxim and then refused to go further. Circulars describing Miss Bloodgood are being distributed broadcast.

CANADA TO HAVE INDEPENDENT NAVY

Government Carries Second Reading of Bill for That Purpose.

Ottawa, Ont., March 11.—The Dominion government carried through the second reading of its bill for the construction of a Canadian navy last night by a solid party majority of 41. The measure has been unsuccessfully fought by the Conservative opposition for a month. This vote finally and irrevocably commits the Canadian government to the creation of a navy independent of that of Great Britain.

ISSUE ORDERS FOR MANEUVERS

Naval Militia Boats Will Cruise to Buffalo Next Summer.

The government's orders concerning the naval maneuvers in which the good ship Gopher of Duluth will participate, follow:

"The summer exercises of the naval militia on the Great Lakes will take place Aug. 8 to 17, inclusive, and this will require that the men of each organization obtain sufficient additional leave to enable them to arrive at the place of rendezvous prior to and leave after the completion of the cruise on the dates shown above. The rendezvous will be at Thunder bay, (Alpena) Mich., and the cruise will be down the lakes to Buffalo, N. Y. It has been calculate dthat the cruise from Thunder bay to Buffalo and return, maintaining a steady speed, will require about six days; therefore, the necessity for ten days, as outlined above, is apparent, as this period will allow four days for liberty, anchorage and drills. Any less period than this will necessitate entirely remodeling the cruise and it is requested that, if possible, the organizations make provisions for this amount of time."

In the report of the secretary of the navy on the maneuvers last summer the Gopher's crew is highly complimented for its efficiency.

ALLEGED BIGAMIST AND HIS FIRST WIFE WHOM HE CLAIMS "DOPED" HIM

J. E. WORTHINGTON.

GREGORY,
The Little Son of Mrs. Worthington, No. 2.

MRS. WORTHINGTON, NO. 1.

Jack E. Worthington, alias William D. Angus, has been removed from his cell at police headquarters to the county jail to await his preliminary hearing on the alleged bigamy charge next week in municipal court.

Worthington's story of the manner in which he met wife No. 2, who resides at 1309½ West Michigan street, is the same as that of Mrs. Worthington. Both agree that it was through little Gregory, the son of Mrs. Worthington by another marriage, this being her third venture into the fields of matrimony.

The alleged bigamist says he took a liking to the bright little fellow, who told his mother about the kindly man who gave him dimes and quarters. He states that this led to a receipt of a long letter from the lad's mother, which was followed by an introduction and subsequent marriage.

The photograph shows the boy shortly after he had recovered from a serious illness of scarlet fever. The picture of Worthington was taken some years ago together with his first wife. He has changed quite a bit since that time, having an older look, which is probably enhanced by the fact that his hair is now light, whereas it was formerly a raven black. Mrs. Worthington or Angus is now said to be living in Signal, Tex., with another man with whom she ran away. Worthington states that hisname is Withers and that he has followed them through sheriffs in different counties.

Mrs. Worthington of Duluth refused to have her photograph taken yesterday afternoon, explaining that she was too ill.

PATTEN "BOOED" IN MANCHESTER

Chicago Speculator Is Driven From Exchange and Off City Street.

London, March 11.—A special dispatch from Manchester says that James A. Patten, the Chicago cotton and grain speculator, was "booed" off the Manchester exchange this afternoon and subsequently followed through the streets by a large crowd. He was obliged to find refuge in a business office.

Patten was roughly jostled in the exchange before he was hustled out into the street. Eventually the police came to his rescue and prevented the hostile crowd from following the speculator into the office where he found temporary refuge. Later he was smuggled out of the office and driven away in a cab.

FARGO'S SENSATIONAL CASE THING OF PAST.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Rindlaub case is a thing of the past. Mrs. Rindlaub's petition for a rehearing was denied by the supreme court. Because of the prominence of the doctor as a specialist and Mrs. Rindlaub socially, the action attracted wide attention. The trial court, with Judge Templeton of Grand Forks presiding, gave Mrs. Rindlaub the decree and the exclusive custody of all three children with certian financial arrangements. The doctor appealed and the supreme court gave him the decree with the custody of the two oldest children, and the mother that of the youngest with some modified financial provisions, which led to the petition for the rehearing.

LONG WALKS ARE POPULAR

Philadelphians Getting Hard Training During Street Car Strike.

Traveler From Quaker City Tells of the Labor Troubles.

U. C. Ransome, a Philadelphia commercial man, who is at the Spalding, has gone through the thick of the Philadelphia street car strike. He says the strike is wearing off, kind of getting ragged around the edges at the present time; but a week ago the situation was something to make the nervous man a persistent profaner.

"I happened to be so unfortunate as to live in the suburbs," said Mr. Ransome. "It had never occurred to me that it was unfortunate before the strike began. To get down to the house that employs me, it was either necessary to telephone for a hack or walk. I am a man of modest means, and the hack drivers being an avaricious lot, placed their price high when the street cars stopped running. Therefore I generally walked between my home and the place where I am employed.

"There was every indication that other unions would be drawn into the strike vortex. For a while Philadelphians wondered where they were going to get their bread, unless it was baked at home. The bakers threatened to join in the strike, from pure sympathy of the thing.

"Then the butchers threatened to take a hand in the affair. They had not done so when I left home; but just the same, there is the chance that they might. Some of the Philadelphians will have an opportunity, perhaps, of joining involuntarily the crusade against the high price of meat.

"You should have seen the walking brigades that formed every evening at 6 o'clock, when the large wholesale houses, stores and factories turned thousands of people out on the streets. There was not the usual hurrying for a street car, the quick, nervous tread of a person who is in a hurry; it was the long, settled tread of a person who has a long way to walk and who settles down to a steady pace to get to that destination.

"Many of the people who were employed in places that compelled them to go to work at an early hour in the morning walked the distance and then walked home in the evening. I have been told that you could see strings of people walking in from the poorer residence districts of the city to the business section at unearthly hours of the morning.

"The strike was naturally not so hard upon the man with the auto and the carriage; its greatest hardships have fallen upon the poor and only moderately well-fixed people. They walked long distances daily, simply because there were no street cars and the people could not afford the luxury of a carriage.

"There have been some very many humorous incidents of the strike. The rout of the militia boys was really funny. These poor chaps were stationed about 100 feet apart. What could the commander expect? Almost instantly the young men, many of them with pink and white complexions and an Ella Wheeler Wilcox conception of life, were surrounded by sympathetic shop girls, who used hat pins much as an interested students of vivisection might use steel prods in getting below the outer surface of the skin.

"The rout of the 'boys' was funny, and long-faced Philadelphia paused to pull up the corners of its mouth and smile.

"It was reported that there was 130,000 idle men in Philadelphia. It seemed as if there were many more. They thronged the street corners, walked the sidewalks and packed labor meetings that were held morning, noon and night. The streets were impassable at times. Men wore cards of various lettering, telling the troubled public of their troubles. The average citizen of Philadelphia was so busy getting around the city that he had little time to sympathize with the strikers.

"The business men have held meeting after meeting in Philadelphia, calling into conference the biggest interests of the city. What will be the result of the negotiations, it is hard to say. I have read that many of the strikers have returned to work. But, even now, every time I think of home, I think of some of our 500-strong walking clubs.

TROUBLE IN SCHOOL DISTRICT

Treasurer Refuses to Turn Over Books When He Is Ousted.

Claiming that George Trader, treasurer of School District No. 8 in the town of Gnesen, has failed to furnish a sufficient bond, has neglected to perform the duties of his office and has been hostile to the interests of the district, John N. Koslakiewicz, chairman of the board of education of the district, has brought mandamus proceedings in district court to compel Trader to turn the books and records of his office over to Martin Kusnierek.

Koslakiewicz sets forth that he is chairman; Kusnierek, clerk; and Trader formerly treasurer of the district. Feb. 5, he says, a new bond was demanded from Trader and he refused to furnish it. Later the members of the board elected Kusnierek treasurer and he demanded the books and records of the office from Trader. Trader refused to turn them over and now they have gone into court to compel him to comply with the demand. Trader will be cited to show cause why the writ should not be issued.

MARKET WAS LIFELESS

Many Sensational Crop Reports Failed to Send Prices Down.

Cash Market Continues Strong ---Flax Active and Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 11.—The wheat market was dull today and trading was light. A deluge of sensational crop damage reports came from all parts of the Southwest and West. The cash markets were stronger and mills bought moderately. The market cased off at the close on winter wheat belt before taking on new commitments or expressing themselves otherwise regarding the market.

May wheat opened at $1.14⅜ asked, lost ⅛c and went to $1.14¼ and then to $1.14⅜, sold at $1.14⅜ and up to $1.14½, slumped to $1.14⅜@⅛ and at the close was $1.14 bid. The July option opened with offers at $1.14⅛ asked, lost ⅛c and sold at $1.14⅛, $1.14⅛ and then at $1.14⅜@½, closing $1.14 bid. Flax was moderately active, crushers buying small quantities. Everything that was offered was quickly taken. May opened at $2.19⅞ bid, sold at $2.20, $2.20¼, $2.20½, then at $2.22 and off ⅛c and closed $2.22⅞ asked. The July option opened at $2.21 bid, sold up to $2.21½ and closed with bids at that price. September was offered at $1.75 and closed with bids at that price. October was $1.67 bid after the opening, closing $1.67½ bid.

Durum was unchanged, cash wheat was ½@1c over the near option, oats closed ⅛c off, barley closed at 59@60c compared with 59@66c yesterday. Rye closed 1c off at 73@76c.

The market is passing under the domination of crop reports. The period when traders must begin to take a more serious view of damage rumors is approaching and with its coming the market is more susceptible to reports on the growing plant.

The crop reports today were sensationally bullish, but the professionals kept a weather eye on Bartlett-Patten and as that firm did not buy heavily in the distant months there was no accumulation to cause a buoyant market. Trading was light but the undertone was good. Everybody was in a waiting mood. The shorts did not dare to take on new lines and the bulls were undetermined what to do. Any indication of bullish activity in the distant options by Bartlett-Patten probably would have caused a pronounced flurry. Bartlett-Patten sold September heavily, but bought May in small lots.

The damage reports appear to be spreading. They came today from Central Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska. The only favorable bit of news from Kansas was the assurance that the plant in the Kaw valley, between Kansas City and Topeka is in a healthy condition. From Topeka to the western tier of counties came all sorts of reports of damage of 15 and 25 per cent to total disaster. Saline county, Mo., said farmers were plowing up wheat and sowing oats. Many parts of Illinois reported from 25 to 75 per cent damage. Many crop experts are in the field and most of them are sending in bullish reports. Some wired today that the warmer weather had not revived the growing plant.

These reports are conducive to speculative buying and that is probably the principal reason for the present public attention to the market. The public has been a mere active buyer recently than for some time. The speculative favorite is the Chicago September option.

Other factors are lost sight of as the interest in the distant months increases. The cash situation does not show much tendency to improve and the receipts continue large with stocks rapidly increasing in the Northwest. The bulls think the cash demand will soon revive, believing that mills will be extensively in the market if it becomes apparent that the winter wheat crop has been seriously damaged. Minneapolis cash was ½@⅞c over May today. Elevators bought moderately. Foreign news is not noticed. Cables today were higher, but nobody paid much attention to them. There is some inquiry from Eastern millers, but bids are off and no business is being closed up. There is no demand for durum.

A falling off in country offerings in the spring wheat states is expected soon. A decrease, however, has been expected for several weeks, but the stuff has continued to come into Duluth and Minneapolis with very little easing off in recent weeks.

An official estimate gives the area under wheat in India at 27,710,000 acres, compared with 25,836,000 acres last year. The wheat crop last year was officially placed at 284,000,000 bu.

Some traders do not take the government's figures of 21,000,000 bu reserve wheat in the Northwest seriously. They think the figures are too high. They claim there is no more wheat in the Northwest now than at this period last year and that the mills may have to import several million bushels before the close of the season.

The world's supply of wheat increased 12,643,000 bu in February against an increase of 6,312,000 bu in January and 2,349,000 bu in February, 1909. The gain was mostly in stocks afloat for Europe, the stocks in store there decreasing sufficiently to more than balance the increases indicated. American stocks decreased 2,133,000 bu during last month, but were 3,000,000 bu in excess of last year. Supplies in store in Europe were 23,570,000 bu in excess of last year, although showing a loss of 236,000 bu for the month. Detailed supplies follow:

Primary receipts of wheat were 656,000 bu, last year, 433,000 bu; shipments, 254,000 bu, last year 239,000 bu. Corn receipts, 550,000 bu, last year, 552,000 bu; shipments, 440,000 bu, last year, 371,000 bu.

• • •

Stephen H. Jones humorously, but succinctly, expressed the market situation when he said: "There is no demand for anything but Chicago September and when we sell them that we can't deliver."

• • •

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased $65,000 bu for the week.

It had been supposed that the entire category of crop killers had been sprung this year, but Carrollton, Ill., came forward today with the Hessian fly. Some of the early sown wheat near there is being plowed up, said the report.

Some folks are guessing as low as 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 bu of wheat for Kansas.

Chicago wired—"Samples of wheat here from Eastern Pennsylvania, which the sender says he has had to haul home as local mills are full and cannot handle it. The receiver of the sample here says it would grade No. 2 red in Chicago. Cash house says there is absolutely no milling demand. Farmers are buying wheat in Ohio laid down at the mills, equivalent to May price here."

Broomhall cabled—"Argentine shipments of wheat this week, 4,064,000 bu; last week, 4,184,000 bu; last year, 5,100,000 bu. Corn, 41,000 bu; last week, 57,000 bu; last year, none. Wheat at country was steady with prices ¼@⅜d higher and during the morning further advanced ¼@⅜d. During early trading the principal buying was in May, but later March developed pronounced strength on covering by shorts. Argentine shipments were about as expected, but were largely directed to the continent, and these together with small Australian shipments and the fact that two cargoes of Australian wheat have been ordered to the continent. Shorts covered and offerings were lighter owing to firmness of cargo offerings for distant delivery for which there is a better demand."

The world's shipments for the week are estimated at 10,000,000 bu.

A wire from Wichita to Bartlett-Patten declared that out of a total acreage of 6,500,000 Kansas will abandon 1,500,000.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Firm Opening in Wheat Is Followed By Falling Off.

Chicago, March 11.—Falling off in prices today followed a firm opening in wheat. Quotations at the outset were a shade to ⅝c up, but profit-taking sales were liberal, and values sank ¾@1c. Checkered reports from the winter wheat belt, some telling of disastrous conditions and others giving more favorable accounts of the growing crop, puzzled the bulls and bears alike. In the first hour the market worked away from the low point, but still kept well distant from the high. May fell off from $1.13⅝ to $1.12⅞ and steadied at $1.13¼. Opening prices for the May delivery were ⅛@⅜c up at $1.13⅝@1.13¼.

The market held steady at a slightly lower level in the final half of the session. Prices kept within the limits of the early fluctuations. The close was steady and ¼c up for May at $1.13¼, but somewhat easier for the more distant deliveries, which closed ⅝c off.

Corn started firm with wheat, opening figures showing a gain of a shade to ½c. Liberal offerings followed and some of the early buyers resold their purchases. A sag ensued, May moving from 63⅝c to 63¼@63½c. At the opening May was ⅛@⅜c up at 63⅜@63⅝c.

The market gathered some firmness later, on more liberal buying. May went up to 63⅞c. The close was firm near the high point with May ½@⅝c up at 63⅝@63⅞c.

Oats at first were fractionally higher, but attempts to dispose of holdings showed a poor demand and quotations dropped, May going down from 44⅝ to 44. In the initial trading May was unchanged to ⅛c up at 44⅜@44½c.

Provisions ruled generally higher but kept within narrow limits in the first hour with prices 2½@12½c up. Continued high prices for live hogs was the bullish factor. Opening prices for May: Pork, $25.37½; lard, $13.82½; ribs, $13.25.

SENTIMENT FOR LIND SO STRONG HE MUST RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Has Not Said That He Would Decline Unanimous Nomination.

Rumor That Ed Smith Will Try for United States Senate.

McGarry's Campaign Against Lindbergh Financed By Duluth Politician.

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John Lind is returning from Florida, where he has been enjoying the mild weather and is far removed from the influence of Minnesota politics. Frederick B. Lynch, national Democratic committeeman, spent some time with the former governor in Florida and returns with the message to Minnesota Democrats that no one is authorized by Governor Lind to positively say that he will not permit consideration of his name for the nomination for governor. There have been during the past few weeks, during Mr. Lind's absence from the state all kinds of rumors affecting his position with respect to the Democratic nomination. Some of these reports have made it appear that Lind will have nothing to do with Minnesota politics, while others have placed him in a receptive frame of mind. It appears from the testimony of Lynch that the former governor is neither a candidate for the nomination nor has he said positively that he would not accept a nomination if it were unanimously tendered him by his party.

"Governor Lind has not said that he would not accept the nomination," Mr. Lynch said yesterday, "nor has he said that he would take a nomination, if tendered him. The governor's personal wishes probably do not lie in the direction of re-entering state politics, but he is human and while I am making no predictions, I am certain that the situation is not hopeless so far as inducing him to re-enter public life."

Strong Sentiment for Lind.

Lynch's statement, which found its way into print, has vivified the Lind

CUDAHY'S VICTIM LEAVES HOSPITAL

Banker Lillis Is Doing Well and Is Said to Be Very Cheerful.

Kansas City, Mo., March 12.—Jere F. Lillis, president of the Western Exchange bank of this city, was able to be moved to his home last night, after nearly a week spent at St. Mary's hospital, waiting for the healing of knife wounds inflicted on him by John P. Cudahy, the packer. A nurse at the Lillis residence this morning said the banker was getting along "splendidly." Hospital attendants stated that the banker's wounds were fast healing and that when he left the institution he was in a very cheerful mood.

Cudahy probably will not be called on to face the court for his action.

MANY YET TO TELL TALES

Four Days of Testimony Against Maybray Are Promised.

St. Paul Hotel Scene of Gang's Work---Cass Lake Man Stung.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, March 12.—Not less than four days more will be required, according to Prosecuting Attorney Temple, to present the government's evidence in the case of John C. Mabray and his eighteen associates on trial in the federal court for wholesale swindling by fraudulent use of the mails.

Interest continues to attach to the case, and today it was again necessary to close the doors of the courtroom and limit the attendance. The admission of documentary evidence in the way of letters, betting sheets and fighting and wrestling contracts found in the possession of Mabray is a mooted point between counsel, but Judge McPherson indicated he would permit most of this evidence to become part of the record. He promised to make a ruling on the matter today.

Mrs. Mabray has been present in the courtroom throughout the trial, accompanied by several other women.

Approached in St. Paul.

J. H. Secrest, a retired farmer residing at Iowa City, Iowa, furnished an interesting account yesterday of the alleged operations of the defendants.

MAY DEVOTE THREE DAYS TO ARGUING

Government to Be Represented By Wickersham and F. B. Kellogg.

Rockefeller Brothers and Others Are Individual Defendants.

Appeal Is From Order of Dissolution Made By the Circuit Court.

Washington, March 12.—The most serious legal battle that "Standard Oil" has ever faced will confront it next Monday.

That is the date set by the supreme court of the United States to hear arguments on the appeal of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey from the adverse judgment of the United States circuit court for the Eastern district of Missouri, which ordered the dissolution of the New Jersey corporation as an illegal combination and monopoly in restraint of interstate commerce.

Three entire days probably will be given by the court to hearing arguments on the suit. Counsel have agreed to ask for that time, and in view of the fact that three days were given for the argument of the "tobacco anti-trust suit," it is believed the court will consent to an equal period for the oil case. The arguments of the corporation tax cases probably will consume the rest of the week.

In the Standard Oil case, John G. Johnson of Philadelphia and John G. Millburn of New York probably will argue for the defendants. D. T. Watson of Pittsburg also may appear. The side of the government will be presented by Attorney General Wickersham and Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota.

SETTLEMENT ON B. & O. IMPORTANT

Probably Means No Strike on Railroads East of the Mississippi.

Baltimore, Md., March 12.—The amicable settlement of the controversy between the conductors and trainmen of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and the officials of that road relative to wages and service conditions last night is understood to be of far reaching importance. It has been tacitly understood that whatever was done by the Baltimore & Ohio would be taken as the basis of settlement by all other roads interested. These involve practically all railroads east of the Mississippi river.

The terms of the settlement effected here were not disclosed, but it is understood both sides made concessions. The settlement does not bring the men in the East to a par with the railroad men of the West, but it is said it represents a substantial increase in their wages and—what the men value highly—it seems to insure standardization of wages.

By mutual agreement the question of double-header freight trains, the abolition of which the men asked, was laid aside for settlement in conjunction with other roads.

Presidents Garretson and Lee of the two organizations representing the men, were busy today preparing a statement to be sent out to the members of their organizations.

Davis Declares Letter Written By Secretary Is All False.

Tells Congressional Committee That Reclamation Work Is Hampered.

Witness Is One of Most Important in Land Office Inquiry.

Washington, March 12.—Chief Engineer Arthur P. Davis of the reclamation service, who yesterday flatly denied the truth of many statements made by Secretary Ballinger to President Taft and others, continued today as the witness before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee.

Mr. Davis, in telling of interviews he had with Secretary Ballinger concerning the work of reclamation, declares that the service has been in danger of disintegration ever since Mr. Ballinger came into office, and that many of the best engineers contemplate resigning.

In many ways Mr. Davis has proved one of the most important witnesses so far produced by the "prosecution," and has given more original testimony, perhaps, than any witness since Glavis left the stand.

Recommendations Were Ordered.

Davis' principal statement against Ballinger has been to the effect that the secretary specifically ordered the reclamation service to recommend various lands for restoration to the public domain, and had reported to the president that the action was only because of recommendations made by the service. Mr. Davis, however, has denied any intention to make charges of any sort against his superior officer.

When the hearing was resumed this morning, Mr. Davis was under direct examination. After his cross-examination is ended, it is expected that Director F. H. Newell of the reclamation service will take the stand.

Wanted to Cut Salaries.

Chief Engineer Davis, questioned further today as to interviews with Secretary Ballinger, declared that the head of the interior department had constantly continued to criticise the reclamation service, and within the last week had told the witness the salaries paid in the service were too high and had proposed a new salary scale. Mr. Davis declared the rumor

Speculator Is Roundly Scored in the British Press.

Liverpool Men Indignant Over His Treatment at Manchester.

London, March 12.—James A. Patten, the Chicago speculator, who was jostled and driven out of the Manchester cotton exchange yesterday, sailed today from Liverpool for New York on board the steamer Mauretania.

The English press, generally strong for law and order, extends no sympathy for Mr. Patten in his Manchester experience. The Westminster Gazette today says:

"We are glad that the American cotton king got out of the Manchester exchange with nothing worse than some hustling and hooting, but cannot profess any sympathy for his wounded feelings."

Calls His Act Impudent.

The paper expresses astonishment that Patten had "the impudence, considering the injury which his operations had done to the Lancashire cotton industry, to presume on the courtesy generally accorded visitors from across the Atlantic." It adds:

"Men who make corners in raw materials, in men, life, and labor, are no longer sent to prison, but they cannot reasonably expect to be welcomed by the people who have suffered through their operations."

The Pall Mall Gazette does not question that the Chicago speculator may be, on his own lines, an honest dealer, "but what is interesting and import-

Worn and exhausted by almost incredible hardships and bearing the marks of weeks of battling with the icy gales they encountered, four of the crew of six men, who on Jan. 7 left the wreck of the Farallon in Cook inlet and in a small rowboat undertook the desperate task of rowing to procure relief for their companions, were brought into Seward just before midnight last night on the revenue cutter, Tahoma, which for almost three weeks has been searching for them.

The Tahoma also brings word that the two remaining members of the boat's crew are alive and safe.

The four men on the Tahoma are Gus Swanson, second mate of the

NICE QUESTION UP TO CANNON

Shall Near Insurgent Succeed Perkins as Head of House Committee?

Washington, March 12.—Whether Speaker Cannon will follow custom in such cases and appoint as a successor to the late Representative Perkins, as chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, Representative Foster of Vermont, ranking member and a "near insurgent," or name a "regular" is a question many members of the house are discussing.

The senior Republican member of the foreign affairs committee is Representative Foster, but for some reason he has been showing restive signs and indications of leaving the party reservation. Recently in a speech in the house he declared that New England and his district in Vermont were opposed to "Cannonism."

May Name Denby.

The custom in the house is that members of the committee succeed to the chairmanships in order of their senority of service, and by this rule Representative Foster would be entitled to the place. Few predict, however, that the speaker will name Mr. Foster. It is generally believed the choice will fall upon some well-known "regular" member of the committee, and in this connection Representative Denby of Michigan, is frequently mentioned.

MANY NEW INDUSTRIES IN SIGHT FOR WEST DULUTH

TAFT MAY CHANGE PLANS FOR TRIP

He May Cancel Engagements He Had in New York for March 15.

Washington, March 12.—President Taft will leave this evening for Pittsburg, where tomorrow afternoon he will attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Thomas McK. Laughlin, who died late yesterday at that place. Mrs. Taft will not accompany the president. He will leave Pittsburg tomorrow evening and reach Washington early Monday.

On account of the death of Mr. Laughlin the president is considering, but has not yet decided, whether he will cancel his trip to New York, March 15, where he had planned to attend the opera, and instead begin his week's trip by going direct to Chicago, where he has an engagement March 17.

Big Reservoir Breaks.

Julesburg, Colo., March 12.—The Big Jumbo reservoir belonging to the Julesburg irrigation district, went out suddenly yesterday, washing out two miles of Union Pacific tracks and did about $150,000 damage. No lives were lost so far as known. Officials of the irrigation districts have been unable to discover the cause of the accident.

Zenith Furnace Company Will Increase Its Dock Capacity.

Another New Coal Dock and a Foundry Are Planned.

Judging from announcements made previously of new industries to be established in West Duluth during the coming summer and plans that have come out during the past few days, that part of the city will have the busiest summer in its history this year.

But more than that, West Duluth is entering on what promises ot be a long era of prosperity, commercially and industrially. It is estimated that $2,000,000 will be expended in West Duluth during the coming summer and industries will be established which will employ hundreds of men permanently.

The Zenith Furnace company is preparing to fill 600 feet of its dock line on the bay shore at West Duluth, with the intention of increasing its dock capacity to that extent. New rigging will be installed on its docks and the coal capacity will be considerably increased. About $150,000 will be expended.

SPLENDID PROGRESS

Development Work on Properties of the Amazon-Montana.

Shaft Has Been Sunk to Depth of About 130 Feet.

Butte, Mont., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Splendid progress has been made during the past six weeks toward extensive development of the properties of the Amazon-Montana Development company, located at Amazon, on the Great Northern railroad, about thirty-five miles northeast of Butte. Within that time a complete electric hoisting plant, including proper buildings, has been installed, and the shaft has been sunk to a depth of about 130 feet.

The surface plant consists of an electrically driven hoist, with capacity for sinking to a depth of more than 500 feet, operated by an 80-horse power motor. The air compressor, of five-drill capacity, electrically driven, has been installed, and a well equipped blacksmith shop has been provided. A new gallows frame, forty feet in height, has been built and is now in commission. The surface plant is thoroughly complete and will conduce to economical mining. Water is supplied from a natural spring, and is piped to the plant and to the boarding and bunk houses. All of the buildings, as well as the shaft and lower workings are lighted by electricity.

The shaft is of two compartments and is now down to a depth of 130 feet. It is well timbered with 10 by 10 timbers, and is one of the best constructed shafts in the country. A station is now being cut at the 130-foot level, and from this a crosscut will be run to connect with the main tunnel, which was run by the original owners. The tunnel will be used for drainage, and will save lifting the water to the surface.

At the first station level a blind vein was cut in the shaft, and although the mineral values are not, the vein filling is excellent, being of a good live quartz, carrying iron and yellow copper. Drifting on this vein, into the mountain, giving greater depth, will undoubtedly open up commercial ore bodies.

The vein which has been cut in the shaft will show great width. Only the foot wall has been exposed, and is on the south side of the shaft. The vein filling is now fully eight feet wide, and the hanging of the wall has not been reached. The station is being cut on the hanging wall side. The rock is the true Butte granite.

The shaft will be carried to a depth of 230 feet before any underground development work will be commenced, and at the latter depth a crosscut will be run to intersect the vein which was opened up by the original tunnel, and which gave such excellent values. A shipment of the ore from the tunnel, at a vertical depth of less than ninety feet, which was made recently, averaged high in copper, silver and gold, and with the additional depth, which will be attained by the crosscut, the ore shipments promise to be profitable.

The Amazon-Montana is today one of the most plausible prospects in the entire Corbin district, and the showing is such as to warrant the company in pushing the work with all speed. It values in the Corbin district increase with depth, and with the values which have been opened up so close to the surface, there is not a doubt that the property can be developed into one of the greatest producers of the state within reasonable time. It would not be surprising, from the results thus far attained, to see the Amazon-Montana on a producing and earning basis within the next six months.

COPPERS DULL AND NERVOUS

The copper market was nervous and dull today. Trading was light in the East and locally and values generally will not stand up although there was slight reaction upward after a decline early in the session. The close was about on a parity with the opening, to slightly lower.

The professionals did not care to take on new commitments in the face of a holiday and the public was not in the market except to pick up scattered offerings.

Shattuck sold at $22.37½; Butte & Superior at $2.50; Calumet & Montana at $1.06¼; Calumet & Corbin at 95, 93 and then at 98 cents. A wire from Boston said bids had been made there for Corbin at $1.06¼, but that the price could not be maintained. San Antonio, which was offered at $14 at the opening, sold at $12.50 and closed strong. North American sold at $2.25 and Amazon brought $6.

Amalgamated sold at $79.37½ down to $78.62½; Calumet & Arizona at $74 and up ½ point; Giroux at $9.62½, down to $9.50 and back to the opening; Greene at $10.25; Lake at $77.50 up to $79.25 and down to $78.50. North Butte sold at $41.25, $41.50 and down to $41.37½. Steel common sold at $88.50, and off ¼ point.

The Cannon Mining company is sinking a permanent 2-compartment shaft on its property near Tower. The shaft has been put down 19 feet and is going through soapstone. It is 206 feet from a vein on which a temporary shaft was put down, a sufficient depth to determine the trend of the vein and give a fair idea of its extent. Drifting, it is said, is showing up a large body of hematite ore. Drifts will be run to the vein from the main shaft, 206 feet distant.

BISHOP SPELLMEYER DIES AT CONFERENCE

Heart Trouble Causes Death of Prominent Man of Methodism.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 12.—Bishop Henry W. Spellmeyer of St. Louis, Mo., who was here presiding over the annual New Jersey Methodist Episcopal conference, died suddenly at the Hotel Dennis today. Death was due to heart disease.

Bishop Spellmeyer was not feeling well last night and told friends he hardly expected to attend today's session of the conference. He did not take his illness seriously, but deemed it wise to rest today.

When the bishop failed to appear about the hotel this morning, many inquiries were made for him. The manager, learning that the prelate had not been well last night, hastened to Bishop Spellmeyer's room. The door was forced open and the body was found lying partly on the bed, partly on the floor. It is thought that upon feeling the heart attack coming on, the bishop tried to summon assistance but died before reaching the room telephone.

The news of his death created consternation in the conference. Every person in the church seemed to have been moved to tears. Prayer was offered and the conference adjourned for the day.

Bishop Neely of New Orleans will preside over the remaining sessions of the conference.

LYCEUM—"The Great Divide."

WESTERN PLAY AT THE LYCEUM

"The Great Divide" Pleases Large Audience on the Opening Night.

Time has dealt kindly with "The Great Divide," William Vaughn Moody's western play, which was presented before a very large and appreciative audience at the Lyceum theater last night, by Henry Miller.

The play has lost none of its luster; the people are capable; and the production as a whole is well up to the high standard set by the original company.

The story of the Great Divide is well known to theatergoers, and scarcely needs repetition.

It is a clean, virile, Western drama, and has been hailed by many critics as "The Great American Drama."

During the New York engagement, it scored a tremendous success, and Mr. Miller has wisely not allowed such a valuable piece of theatrical property to run down, or be cheapened by a second-class company.

Edwin Mordant scores heavily as Stephen Ghent. He is Western in every respect. From a typical bad man in the first act to his crossing the divide in the last, he comes finely up to expectations in every respect. He brings to the part a fine appreciation and a personal magnetism which gains for him the sympathy of his hearers from the first.

Mabel Brownell, who plays opposite, taking the part of Ruth Jordon, is very satisfactory. Good to look upon and possessing a voice that it is a pleasure to hear, she captivates from the first.

Virginia Berry as Polly, Ruth's sister, is a small bunch of sunshine. She is bright, cheerful, is possessed of unique ideas and ideals, and does not fear to let them be known. She has a way of getting as much fun out of the part as does the audience.

"The Great Divide" was presented at a matinee this afternoon and will be repeated again this evening. It is well worth while.

ISSUES LETTER TO THE TRADE

Manager Outlines Policy of Producers' Co-operative Market Association.

The Producers' Co-operative Market association of Duluth is making a stand for good products, full weight and full measure and a square deal and the members expect that the consumers will share in these benefits. It is not expected that extravagant prices will be asked for home-grown products, but merely a fair price for all home-grown goods of high quality that Duluth people can use. The following letter from the local manager of the market association, J. Fearer, will be of interest to many:

"To the trade:

"It is not necessary at this time to enter elaborately into a formal introduction of ourselves or the object of the Producers' Co-operative Market association of Duluth. So many kind words have been said by the press and public of the purpose and need of such an organization as to make this unnecessary.

"Our aim at this time is to acquaint you of the fact that we are now ready for business and earnestly solicit at least a portion of your trade.

"We are not going too far, or assuming too much, when we say you should at least give us a trial—a fair trial—to make good the promises herein stated. You should do this at least, for the sake of encouraging our pioneer neighbors, who are struggling for a foothold, and a home in the untamed wilds surrounding our beautiful cities, Duluth and Superior. These men are straining every muscle, giving every ounce of energy to the clearing out of these forests which eventually will add millions to our thriving cities.

"A great deal of time and labor has been spent in perfecting this organization. We are now ready to show our goods. Business men of Duluth, and Superior, we want your trade. We need your business, we will give you a squire deal. We will meet you half way. We must sell our products or quit growing it—won't you buy?

"Our promises—we are going to ship only the very best it is possible to raise here. You know that can't be beaten. We are going to put it up in at attractive a manner as possible, just as you want it; when you want it; how you want it.

"I will be on the ground all the time, and anxious to consult with you any time on any subject. When disputes arise I will personally help adjust wrongs and errors, satisfactorily to all parties concerned.

"We will guarantee as good goods, for the same price as can be had anywhere. We will guarantee full weights and uniform grades, we guarantee sound stock all through; or will make proper concessions for errors.

"I will call on you as rapidly as possible and will always be in reach. I want your trade. I will treat you right. Give our home producers the first chance at same prices you pay others. Thanking you in advance.

"Sincerely,

"M. J. FEARER, Manager."

GENTLE DIG FOR SENATOR

Duluth Trades Assembly Wants to Know Where Nelson Stands.

Senator Moses E. Clapp and Congressman Clarence B. Miller stand "right" on the proposition to increase rates on second class mail matter as broached by the president in his last message to congress, but the Duluth Trades Assembly wants to know what Senator Knute Nelson is going to do about it.

Senator Clapp and Congressman Miller wrote to the assembly that they would work against the measure if one was presented to congress. Senator Nelson, on whom was bestowed a set of resolutions drawn up by the assembly, replied that he would give the question his "careful consideration."

The senior senator's letter was read at the meeting of the Duluth Trades assembly last night and it caused considerable comment. The assembly decided to sting Uncle Knute a bit for not snuffing the lamp and reading that resolution right off the bat. Its communications, it thinks, are due more attention than a promise of "careful consideration."

The resolution that Senators Clapp and Nelson and Congressman Miller received, follows:

"Whereas President Taft, in his message to congress, called attention to a deficit in the postoffice department, and claimed it was brought about by the carrying of monthly magazines, trade journals and similar periodicals at the current rate of 1 cent a pound.

"And whereas, President Taft has practically advised that the rate be raised to 9 cents per pound, it seems apparent to us that President Taft has made recommendations with the object in view of either curtailing the circulation or the ultimate undoing of said publications.

"And, whereas, we believe that the said deficit in the postoffice department is caused by the excessive rate paid by the government for carrying of the mail,

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, That we, the Federated Trades assembly of Duluth do urge and request that you use your influence to overthrow any movement having in view the raising of second-class rates.

"E. A. Rickard, J. H. Powers, P. G. Phillips, committee."

Immutable Law of Progress.

That a man must move forward or backward, that he cannot stand still and hold his place in a progressive world, is an axiom which, applied in an abstract manner, is easily understood. Everything in the world must advance or retrograde The present way of living, which at times strains the limit of the laws of nature, makes the use of a good malt tonic necessary. There is nothing better than a glass of Golden Grain Belt beer with your meals. "Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company."

DRIVEN OUT BY FLAMES

West End Families Are Routed By Early Morning Fire.

Twenty People Forced to Seek Shelter at Neighbors' Homes.

Protected from the cold by their night clothes only, about twenty people were driven from their beds this morning by a fire which broke out in a flat building at 1820 to 1828 West Second street.

No one was injured and the damage by the fire is estimated at $1,700.

The blaze is thought to have started in the flat of Henry Broullette, a policeman. The number of this flat is 1824 West Second street. The origin of the blaze has not as yet been learned. When the Brouilettes discovered the fire, they spread the alarm through the building.

The fire was an exceptionally smoky one, and the flats were soon filled with a dense cloud which drove the occupants from their beds. Many of them sought refuge at the homes of neighbors. The blaze was first discovered about 4:30 o'clock.

Besides the Brouilettes, other occupants of the buildings were the families of Joe Bolfvert, R. Nelson, W. W. Flewitt, J. Shields and J. McDonald. The loss to the building will be covered by $500, but the inside furnishings were damaged by smoke and water to the extent of $1,200. The building was owned by Mrs. K. W. Upham and Alma E. Whitney.

FUNERAL OF GUST A. APEL

Mystery of Irving School Janitor's Death Is Still Unexplained.

Funeral services for Gust A. Apel, 45 years old, of 2318 West Fourth street, who was found dead yesterday morning on the Northern Pacific tracks at West Duluth with his head almost severed, and his arm cut nearly off, will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. Interment will be at the Scandinavian Union cemetery at Hermantown.

The death of Apel is still unexplained, although the police hold steadily to the theory that he did not commit suicide. Many believe in the theory that the man was not responsible for his actions when he came to his death. Andrew West, janitor of the Irving school at West Duluth, where the man was employed is a firm believer in this theory and says that he can recall many things about the conduct of the man during the past few days which would indicate this.

Apel, it is said, would sit around the schoolhouse basement in dark corners and was always silent. He was faithful in his duties, but he never talked unless he was spoken to. Mr. West says that he thinks that the man had not been in his right mind for some time past.

Apel's wife died six years ago and one year ago he lost one of his children. He has been sick for a number of years, but never was he so ill that he could not work. It is thought that he brooded silently over his troubles until he gradually lost his reason.

Rev. Edward Stromberg will officiate at the funeral Monday.

ALDERMEN WILL GIVE THEIR SUPPORT.

Aldermen Hoar and Bergstrom of the Sixth ward and Bernard of the Seventh last evening pledged support to the movement started by the West End Hillside Improvement club to secure water extensions for the hillside district.

They were present at the club meeting. A committee comprising Peter Olson, Ole Swanson and Antonio Jennetta, was appointed to confer with the board of water commissioners. When the committee has its report ready, a special meeting of the club will be called.

West End Shortrails.

Miss Clara Sommerville of 2601 West Sixth street returned today from Willow River, Minn., where she has been teaching school. She will spend her Easter vacation at the West end.

The Young People's Society of the Central Baptist church held a social at the church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, last evening. It was well attended.

Andrew Mason of Moorhead, Minn., was in the West end yesterday on a business trip.

Ed Akerstrom of 2316 West Second street returned last evening from Minneapolis, where he attended a horse sale.

An Easter sale of home cooking and fancy articles will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Central Baptist church next Friday and Saturday, at 119 East Superior street.

Miss Fanny Peterson of Twenty-fourth avenue west left yesterday for Chicago, where she will spend the next two weeks on a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Selim Hadad of 1407 West Superior street are the parents of a son, born Thursday evening.

W. L. Anderson is back from Minneapolis, where he has attended the annual convention of the Modern Samaritans.

Axel Erickson is reported to be ill with the grip at his home, 2224 West Fourth street.

THE DAIRY COW HIS THEME

Prof. Haecker Delivers Interesting Talk in Agricultural Course.

Putting the dairy cow on the basis of a highly sensitive machine, Prof. T. L. Haecker of the state agricultural school last evening in an address at the Y. M. C. A. declared that it has not been brought to its highest efficiency in Minnesota.

He declared that the value of the dairy products in this state annually is about $42,300,000. He estimated that with the right kind of cows and the proper scientific care, the value should be $50,000,000.

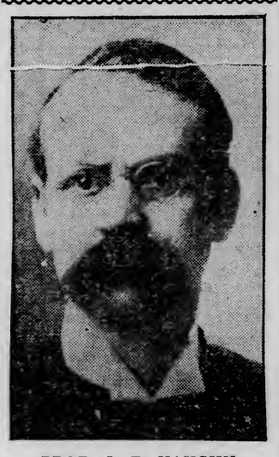
The conditions in Wisconsin were taken for purposes of comparison. The Badger state has about 1,300,000 cows producing an annual wealth of $60,000,000. Each cow gives an annual output of 160 pounds of butter fat. Minnesota has about 1,125,000 cows, each with an annual average output of 144 pounds of butter fat.

Prof. Haecker said that Minnesota farmers should use care to buy the cows best adapted to dairying purposes, which has not been done by most of them in the past. Also more attention should be given to the feeding, the care of the stables and more science of an exact nature brought into play. He declares than once the farmers are awakened to a full realization of the importance of this subject Minnesota will witness a big improvement in dairying lines. The possibilities are vast and the feeling is beginning to be strongly manifested that the most should be made of the opportunity.

Cunningham Denounces Glavis.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 12.—The cross-examination of Clarence Cunningham in the government's inquiry into the Alaskan coal claims was commenced here this morning before United States Commissioner W. J. McGee. Mr. Cunningham was examined yesterday by the attorneys for the claimants. He then made a bitter attack upon Louis R. Glavis, whom he charged with misrepresentation and obtaining affidavits under false pretences. This feature of the inquiry will be taken up by the federal attorneys who are endeavoring to prove that the claimants under the Cunningham survey had entered into a combination with the Guggenheim interests in defiance of the federal statutes.

EXPERT HIRED BY WIFE SAYS HE WAS POISONED



PROF. J. T. VAUGHN.

Kirksville, Mo., March 12.—Prof. J. T. Vaughn's viscera were in good condition at the time of his death and he was killed by some other means than disease in the belief of Dr. George Still, an expert hired by the lawyers for Mrs. Vaughn and Dr. James R. Hull, who are under indictment on a charge of murder.

Dr. Still has returned from Columbia, where he inspected the organs of Prof. Vaughn and brought back a portion of them for a microscopic examination.

MACK VISITED BY BOOM STARTERS

Democratic Chairman Is Sought Out By Those With Names to Suggest.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 12.—That Charles Murphy, Tammany leader, has come South to keep in close touch with presidential booms on the part of Southern Democrats, is accepted generally here, where Chairman Norman E. Mack of the national committee is constantly being visited by friends among Southerners who aspire to party leadership in 1912. The booms of Senator Culberson, Joseph Folk and Judge Harmon each have had their day in court here, and now the Tammany chief brings on a renewed interest in the course Mayor Gaynor of New York is pursuing.

"I did not know of Murphy's coming until it was announced in the press," said Chairman Mack, who is reticent about likely candidates.

He Is Non-Committal.

"Culberson is a fine man, and Roger Sullivan and John Hopkins are my friends," was all the chairman said, when the Culberson talk was started.

Sullivan and Hopkins, who are credited with starting the Culberson boom, are coming here before Mr. Mack leaves for French Lick on April 1.

"Mr. Folk has a world of strength in the West, and has the confidence of the party leaders," said Chairman Mack when Nelson McLeod of St. Louis, who manages the Folk campaign, was in touch with Mr. Mack here.

"Mayor Gaynor is doing the things that go to make Democratic presidential candidates," said Mr. Mack.

NO RELIEF IN PHILADELPHIA

Efforts to Get Arbitration of Labor Troubles Have Been Futile.

Philadelphia, March 12.—With the federal government interested, the National Civic Federation appealed to for its assistance and nearly every local trade and other organization aroused to action, all Philadelphia hoped today that the general movement started yesterday to end the conflict will bring about the desired result. This was the twenty-second day of the street car strike, and neither side to the controversy showed any disposition to yield.

All the plans so far devised call for arbitration. The striking carmen are willing to submit their grievances to impartial judges, but the directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company have repeatedly declared that they have conceded as much as they intend to along that line.

Think Taft Could Do It.

The belief is general that if President Taft should see his way clear to attempt to bring about peace a plan may be found that will bring the warring elements together. There is no law under which the president can act, as interstate commerce is not involved, and whatsoever steps he may take probably would be along the lines President Roosevelt laid down when he intervened in the anthracite coal strike in 1902.

There has been little change during the last few days in the general strike situation. The number of men who went out in response to the walkout order is still in dispute, but the number is to doubt larger. Employers hope that next Monday will see a breaking up of the sympathetic strike.

Talk of Wider Demands.

The strike leaders say they look for no break and express confidence that the men who went out in sympathy with the carmen will stand firm. The Committee of Ten has announced that if the car strike is not ended within forty-eight hours a general movement will be started among the men who obeyed the general strike order to demand better conditions in their various occupations. However, how far this movement will go cannot be predicted.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says:—"I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well-known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subject to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and oftentimes a cloudy voiding. While upon arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe solely to Foley's Kidney ills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers." THE COLUMBUS ELECTRIC

The Theater Car
The Shopping Car
The Car for Service

The Powerful Car
The Light Car
The Great Town Car

The car supreme among all electrics.

There are more Columbus Electrics in Minneapolis than all other Electric machines combined in the whole State of Minnesota. This is certainly a strong indorsement of its popularity and worth.

Great Performance In Deep Snows

WEATHER and snow drifts have been no obstacles to the smooth-running of the Columbus Electric this severe winter. The remarkable performance of these cars has been a marvel to the makers of other electric vehicles. No wonder that more Columbus machines are being sold than all electrics combined.

Popularity of The Columbus Grows Greater Every Week

In the first place, the Columbus is built by one of the few high-grade vehicle-makers of the country. For years Columbus vehicles have been the standard for genuine excellence.

Second—The Columbus is the lightest built car on the market. It has a 24-cell battery (weight 750 lbs.)—scientifically demonstrated to be the best for all-around efficiency. More cells mean more unnecessary weight (dead weight.) Sixteen more cells would mean 512 lbs. more battery weight in addition to more car capacity to care for the extra cells. Light Weight means (1) Less tire trouble, (2) Less battery trouble, (3) Less cost on second battery set, (4) Less battery capacity, (5) Just as much mileage.

Buy the Right Electric—The Columbus.

A clumsy, heavy, bulky car will not give efficiency twelve months in the year—especially during the winter months when roads are heavy and full of snow.

Nothing unusual for this Limousine Model to travel 50 to 60 miles on one charge on these deep snowy roads.

We Absolutely Guarantee This Car for One Year. We Have the Facilities and Equipment to Make Good This Guarantee.

Here's Real Evidence of its Popularity. A Partial List of Owners of COLUMBUS ELECTRICS in this Section of the Country:

GOVERNOR MISSED FEW

"Highly Appreciates Valuable Services" of Many Good Citizens.

His Official Invitations Were Scattered Broadcast Over the State.

If you haven't received an appointment as a delegate to the "First Minnesota Conservation and Agricultural Development congress," which will be pulled off at St. Paul four days beginning March 16, it is because your name isn't in big type in the city directory or the governor's clerks inadvertently overlooked you.

It is said that the dressmakers' union stands as one man or woman, as the case may be, for the renomination and re-election of Adolph O. Eberhart as governor of this commonwealth. Nearly every woman who has been named by the governor to do a few delegating stunts in the St. Paul municipal auditorium next week, has felt that the occasion demanded a new dress even if the winter's hat could be made to do. Thus, the modistes of this town have been consuming the midnight oil and the telephones have resounded with cries of anguish when madame was told politely but nevertheless firmly, that "it was too bad, very bad in fact, that her dress would not be done by 10:42 Saturday morning, but that on account of the very great esteem in which madame and madame's patronage were held, said raiment would be rushed to completion and that perhaps if madame would consent to an extra seamstress—thank you, madame can have the creation at 10:59."

Some women who were appointed delegates haven't received their official notices but that is because the printing presses broke down and not enough forms were turned off. Here is the official grand hailing sign:

"State of Minnesota, Executive Department. Adolph O. Eberhart, Governor.

"To Mrs. John Doe:

"GREETING: With high appreciation of your valuable services to the state of Minnesota, in both private and public relation, and realizing your deep interest in everything that makes for the progress and development of this commonwealth, I hereby designate you as a

DELEGATE TO THE FIRST MINNESOTA CONSERVATION AND AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT CONGRESS, to be held in the Municipal Auditorium, City of St. Paul, March 16, 17, 18, 19, 1910.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the state to be affixed at the Capitol in the City of St. Paul, this fifteenth day of February, A. D. 1910, and of the state, the fifty-second.

"ADOLPH O. EBERHART,
"Governor.

"Attest:
"JULIUS A. SCHMAHL,
"Secretary of State."

If you didn't get this on a piece of white paper with a gold-colored imitation seal down in the left-hand corner, you have something coming to you, and if you missed out on the grand salaam now are you going to get in the municipal building of the city of St. Paul, March 16, 17, 18 and 19. It's you for one of the many overflow meetings that may be necessary if all of the delegates appointed by the governor or his clerks show up at the appointed time. Anyway, there is yet time to get an "invite" for yourself printed.

While pleased with the governor's appreciation of their "valuable services to the state of Minnesota, in both public and private relation," some women who have been appointed delegates are a bit peeved because the Great Seal beame exhausted and the ribbon ran out before the stamper came to their notifications. The Great Seal is somewhat different from an ink print even if said print looks so much like the seal that if a curious person subjects her eyes to considerable strain she can read the numerals "1855" at the bottom of the "seal."

As a bit of political campaigning the governor has used the conservation congress with telling effect, his friends think. Every woman who is a delegate to the congress is first and last for Adolph O. Eberhart for governor and if every woman delegate could vote the governor would be assured of a few thousand ballots which nobody will get. And there are a few husbands, too, who are beginning to think that maybe the governor is a pretty good chap, after all. And, just a whisper: "Don't forget the 'Malgamation of Modern Modistes," the members of which are solid for the governor.

"But," say the friends of conservation, "the only way to get a crowd is to send out plenty of invitations, so get on the hand wagon and come along to St. Paul."

Gentlemen:—
Our Mr. C. A. Mills has just returned from the Isle of Pines, and was very much elated over the beautiful orange and grapefruit groves.
Dr. Kellog has a grove of four year old trees near Sante Fe, the finest that we ever saw. The trees are as high as an ordinary house, and produce several boxes of grapefruit per tree, of the very best quality. It beats anything we ever saw in Florida.
Dr. Kellog has left most of his grapefruit on the trees until the present time, and is now commencing to ship. It is some of the most delicious grapefruit we ever tasted—very thin rind, heavy and full of juice. We will have a shipment of Kellogg's grapefruit about Thursday. Sizes will run mostly 64s, 54s and 46s.
Very truly yours,
MILLS BROS.
The shipment referred to above from the Isle of Pines brought $4.50 to $4.75 per crate wholesale. That means at least $2.50 per box profit to the grower. There is nothing else so profitable as Isle of Pines lands at $50 per acre.

LUCKY STAR FAILS HIM

John Niemi Tries to Make Up Shortage at Poker and Loses.

Sends $70 Across Green Cloth After Original Shortage of $50.

"Because I was always lucky at gambling when I was a kid I thought I could recoup my shortage while in the employ of the Finnish-American Publishing company by poker," was the statement of John V. Niemi this morning during his preliminary hearing in police court on the charge of embezzling $220 from the publishing firm.

Niemi is only 18 years of age and the attorneys were rather surprised to learn that he had often made "killings" over the green cloth when a "kid." He was arrested at Cloquet on a warrant sworn out by the publishing company.

Niemi explained that when he was at Virginia some time ago he found that he had spent $50 of the firm's money. Believing in his lucky star he tried the goddess of chance. He lost $70 at one sitting. That put him $120 behind and he also had books and other material belonging to the company which he is said to have forgotten to return. He was bound over to await the action of the next grand jury. Bail was fixed at $500.

MILLER WANTS DEATH DUTIES

Proposes Inheritance Tax for the District of Columbia.

Washington, March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller today introduced a bill providing for taxation of inheritances in the District of Columbia. The bill is draw for the purpose of preventing men or women of wealth from leaving their home states and taking residence in the District of Columbia merely for the purpose of avoiding taxation exacted in their home states regarding inheritances. There have been many men and women of wealth who have openly confessed that the only reason they have acquired legal residence in Washington has been for the purpose of avoiding taxation as to inheritances, and other methods adopted by the state to create revenue which do not prevail in the capital city of the nation.

RESCUED BY SISTER.

Girl Going to School Near Walker Has Close Call on Ice.

Walker, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The two daughters of John Birtles had rather a harrowing experience while crossing the ice on Kabakona bay on their way to school Monday morning, when the older of the two suddenly went into an air hole in about thirty feet of water. She was rescued by her plucky little sister and the two then made their way to Fred Regan's home, where they were speedily cared for.

WANT WRIT DISMISSED

County Commissioners Give Reasons for Turning Down Spina Petition.

Claim It Was Irregular and Proposed Voting Place Was Improper.

William J. Stevenson, special attorney for the county board, this morning filed his answer to the petition for a writ of mandamus filed some time ago by Fred Erickson, a resident of Spina, asking that the court order the county commissioners to allow Spina to incorporate.

The matter was to have come up before Judge William A. Cant this morning but was postponed.

In their answer through their attorney, the county commissioners explain their side of the matter by saying that on Jan. 18 they considered the matter of the incorporation of the village. They state in their answer that they were unable to tell whether the signatures attached to the petition were genuine or not. They claim no proof was offered. Upon investigation it was found, according to the answer, that less than twenty-five of the signatures were those of men who were legal voters and that less than nineteen were legal voters in the territory of the petition. They found that the notary purporting to take the verifications attached was one of the petitioners.

The commissioners claim that the territory within three-quarters of a mile of the limits of the village of Buhl is mining property, used and occupied by the Republic Iron & Steel company. They claim also that the unplatted portion of the territory is not so conditioned as properly to be subjected to village government. After hearing what was to be said in favor of the incorporation of the village the commissioners decided that the granting of the petition would not be for the best.

It was also found by the commissioners, according to their report, that the election place as suggested was in a room adjoining a saloon and barroom. The commissioners say that they acted in good faith in turning down the petition and ask that the writ be dismissed.

MORGAN TICKLED OVER "DEATH"

Financier Says He Is Used to Meeting That Kind of Fate.

Rome, March 12.—J. P. Morgan enjoyed a hearty laugh today when he learned for the first time of the rumor that he had been the victim of a sudden taking-off. When he appeared for breakfast at the Grand hotel, where he has apartments the American financier found awaiting him many telegrams congratulating him on the falsity of yesterday's report. He was evidently amused rather than surprised for he said:

"I am accustomed to such tricks. They are planned simply to affect the market momentarily. I have never before felt as well as I do now."

RAILROAD NEVER HAS PAID EXPENSES

Special Master Butler Makes Report in the C., C. & L. Receivership.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 12.—Eleven hundred intervening petitions for priority claims amounting to $2,000,000 against the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville Railroad company, now in receivership, are disapproved in a report by Special Master Noble C. Butler to the United States district court today. The master finds that since the railroad company was organized in 1903, it never has earned enough money to pay expenses. The claims, priority of which is disallowed by the master, are for supplies sold to the railroad after the mortgage liens had been put upon the company's property.

ELEVATORS ARE CLOSED

Deputy Building Inspector Puts Two Lifts Under the Ban.

Many People Risking Their Lives in Elevators in Duluth.

People are foolishly risking their lives every day by taking chances on elevators in the city, according to the officials of the building department, who have been making their annual spring inspection this week.

Many firms are also violating the law relative to safety appliances. Two elevators were ordered shut down yesterday by Deputy Inspector Adolph Anderson for this reason. He states that although they had gone to the expense of providing safety appliances and gates, they had nailed them up so as to be useless.

Deputy Anderson made the startling report that in one hotel he saw at least twenty-five people, men and women, take their lives in their hands by jumping on and off a moving elevator.

The safety gates raise and shut automatically while the elevator is rising and descending. It seems that these people would wait until the elevator got even with the floor, at the time the gate was highest, and hop on or off. In any case a slip might have been fatal. A person splitting on the floor might be the cause of a slip, which would cost a life.

"It made me shiver to watch them," said the deputy. "It was useless to remonstrate with them. Some of them just laughed. I was fearful any minute that one of them might get his or her clothes caught on some projection and be crushed to death. Or they might have fallen under the elevator as it was going up and been dashed to pieces on the basement floor beneath.

"Some of the conditions I found were very bad and ought to be remedied immediately. I closed down two elevators yesterday and if the conditions do not improve more will be shut down. We have an extra man in the office now and the office can give more attention to this phase of the duties imposed upon it."

Three Sticks Under Steps Leading Into Brewery Branch Office.

Ashland, Wis., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A trunk and three sticks of dynamite were found under the steps of the Pabst brewery wholesale house this morning.

The trunk was apparently left there after the arrival of the Northern Pacific train last night. It also contained part of a suit of clothes and a miner's outfit. The dynamite had been taken out and placed under the warehouse steps

SAYS STORY IS ABSURD

First Wife Did Not "Dope" Worthington, Says Thomas Burke.

Claims Prisoner Ran Away With Her From Father's Farm.

"The man now under arrest for bigamy, who calls himself Jack Worthington ruined the life of Mary Day," said Thomas Burke, harbor master, at the police station this morning.

"She was a happy, care free child when he met her on the farm about fifteen miles out of Bayfield, Wis., early in her 'teens," continued Mr. Burke, who has known them both for many years. "When she left Worthington, or Angus, in Wisconsin, she came to Duluth, where she lived with him until she left for the coast.

"Mary was one of the best girls on earth until she met this man who says he is Worthington, but who really is William D. Angus," he explained.

"She had not met many men, and in the face of the strenuous opposition of her parents—her father is a carpenter named George Day, whom I know well—she was induced to run away with him. They were married in one of the nearby towns, maybe Odanah.

"Had the men in the vicinity been able to find him after that occurrence he wouldn't be alive today," declared Mr. Burke, emphatically. "The feeling against him was bitter and relatives of Mary often stated that it would be unhealthy for him to be in the same neighborhood as themselves.

"He secreted his bride in the home of one of his sisters at Washburn. Later they went housekeeping. When she came to my home here I had to fit her out with shoes myself.

"She and another girl later went to the Pacific coast in company with two other men. If she has done wrong the entire blame rests upon Worthington."

Mr. Burke declared that the dope story is absurd. He states that it is a flight of the imagination.

W. E. Greene, assistant county attorney, is investigating the case.

INSPECTS THE POINT OF ROCKS

City Engineer Recommends That Some Boulders Be Removed.

The office of the city engineer made the annual spring inspection of the so-called Point of Rocks near Fourteenth avenue west this morning.

Several pieces of rock that are loose were discovered, but the inspector reported that there is no immediate danger of their falling. However, he recommended that they be removed before they become a menace to the stream of traffic which passes the cliff every day. The matter will likely be turned over to the board of public works. This is done every year in order that all possibility of boulders falling may be eliminated.

SHE "DID IT FOR DULUTH"

School Girl Took City's Slogan for Theme of Prize Essay.

Won Gold Medal in Competition With Children of Entire Country.

No slight honor has come to the Duluth schools in the fact that one of the grade pupils has won an essay in a nation-wide contest, and the "Do It For Duluth" cry was the feature of her composition.

The honor is entirely for the Duluth schools as Miss Gertrude Eaton, the teacher of the eighth grade of the Emerson school, from whose class the first prize winner came, is a product of the Duluth schools and she did much to interest her class in the essay contest and to make it a part of the class composition work. Miss Antoinette Saucier, who won the first prize of a golden badge, came to the Duluth schools two or three years ago and could speak only French.

The World's Chronicle is the school magazine that offered the prizes for the essays on "Public Health," and the editor said of the first prize winner:

"Miss Antoinette Saucier, of the eighth grade in the Emerson school, Duluth, Minn., receives the first prize, a solid gold badge. Her work is not only excellent in matter, but she has succeeded in throwing a literary charm into it which has caused it to be the one selected after much deliberation and re-reading."

Others of the class who received honorable mention are: Violet Randall, Pearl Older, Homer Holdren, Joe Benda, Walter Nelson, Hilda Nelson, Nels Neander, Louise Lewis, Lewis Campbell, Hanna Miller, Elsie Jones, Dagny Zahl, Walter Emanuelson, Flossy Hansen, James Campbell, Ernest Ruden and Roderick Macleod.

The Prize Essay.

The prize essay is as follows:

"The cry in our city today is 'Do It For Duluth.' The great problem which is gradually being solved is 'How shall we protect our people? How shall we improve public health?' The more people think over these questions the more they realize the fact that where cleanliness dominates health prevails.

"The sanitary drinking cup has been done away with in many parts of the city and the bubbling fountain now takes its place in public buildings, places, schools and on many of the street corners. We hope that sooner or later the public drinking cup will be obsolete in our city.

"Hospitals for contagious diseases have been built and other hospitals do not take contagious disease cases. A doctor and nurse visit the public schools and care for the sick children whose parents cannot afford a family doctor.

"Inspectors have been inspecting the milk that is sold very strictly lately, and the meat markets as well. Thus the lives of many little children have been saved and the health of all our citizens has been improved.

"City ordinances provide for this strict inspection of the dairies, the meat markets, the back yards, and public parks. Another ordinance forbids smoking and spitting in the street cars, and the latter in all public places. In this way the health of the public will not be injured for the pleasure of a few.

"Impure air in a city injures the health of the people, and is due to smoke and dust chiefly. To avoid as much of this dust as possible, our streets are cleaned every day in the summer time, and the chimneys have to be built a certain height so as to prevent the smoke from mixing with the air which is breathed by the people on the streets. By this method the air is kept much cleaner and purer.

"Our city government is doing much to improve the conditions of the people, but if the people in return do not take hold and push, instead of leaving this work to be done by a few, we cannot improve our public health very much. But I believe that every loyal Duluthian will do his share and I hope that the cry 'Do It For Duluth' will stimulate our people, improve the public health and make the Zenith City one of the cleanest, healthiest cities in the United States.

"ANTOINETTE SAUCIER."

Miss Elinore Thomson is principal of the Emerson school, which is located at Eleventh avenue west and Third street.

SIX BRAVE MEN WIN LONG FIGHT WITH BITTER FATE

wrecked Farallon; Charles Peterson, seaman; Otto Nelson, seaman; Albert Bailey, passenger, en route to Kodiak.

The remaining members are Charles Bourne, a resident of Afognak, who is now at Kafliar bay. Capt. Wedding, master of the launch Sea Wolf, remained at Kodiak to take charge of his craft.

Survived Terrific Gales.

Officers of Tahoma report terrific gales during almost the entire time the tug was out on the search.

The cutter left Seattle, Feb. 8, under orders from the navy department to make a search of the islands scattered through Cook inlet, in the hope that the men had camped on some shore.

On March 7, as the tug was leaving Karluk straits, the steamer Mattie, from Uyak, was spoken, and it was learned that the boat party had been at Uyak, leaving there two days previous on a dorey, headed for Afognak.

The Tohama put on full speed and reached Afognak and found the men there the evening of March 7. The vessel then proceeded to Kodiak, where Pilot Brown was drowned. Wedding also left the Tahoma there to join his launch, the Sea Wolf.

From the men brought to Seward, a story of hardship and suffering, together with dogged courage almost beyond belief, is gathered.

The little party of six left the wreck at 11 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 7 with a light but fresh wind blowing north by northwest. This increased during the night to a gale that compelled the men to beach the boat in Uesus cove, where they camped until morning.

At daylight, with a light northeast wind and in a heavy snow storm, they left Uesus cove only to have the wind suddenly veer around to the northwest and fast reach the proportions of a gale. With the heavy sea that was running the little craft was fast becoming a mass of ice and sinking under the weight.

All six men were drenched through and through with the spray, which in turn froze until they resembled animated icebergs. At sundown the men reached land at Cape Douglas, but not until the boat had sank under them with nearly all the provisions it carried.

In Water to Armpits.

They waded in water to their armpits to the shore. Half frozen and starving, the party at daylight reached the cliff above the beach, and there a makeshift tent was rigged up and a fire kindled. When the wind moderated they set off down the beach and two miles from where they had spent the night they found the camp of Michael Pablo, a trapper, with a schooner hauled out on the beach.

No amount of persuasion would induce Pablo to attempt crossing the straits. Two hundred dollars was offered him, but this he refused, declaring the attempt meant certain death, as he well knew the fury of those waters in a storm.

Pablo, however, shared his provisions with the men up to the time he left them. The party of six remained at the trapper's camp storm-bound until Feb. 7 when they started out once more.

Bailey led the way to Kaguak along the beach, with Swanson, Peterson, Bourne and Wedding, who were unable to walk, following in a native bidarka.

Found an Old Skiff.

Reaching Kaguak the party found an old skiff which they dug out of the snow, and in this they made their way to Kaflia bay, living the entire time since leaving the trapper's camp on whale oil and dried fish flour. Here they decided to make an attempt to cross the straits in a sixteen-foot boat. Bourne, however, refused to take the risk and was left with the natives.

They made the start Feb. 22 at 6 o'clock at night. They managed to make land at Cape Ugat as a gale came up which wrecked their boat.

Near where they made camp an old native birdarka was found and after more hardships and sufferings they made their way in this to Uganek village. There they remained storm-bound until March 5, when, in a dory, with two natives, they made Afognak, where the Tahoma found them.

The Tahoma with the four men will leave Seward for Seattle Sunday.

talk throughout the state. Reports received in St. Paul during the past few weeks show an almost unanimous sentiment among Democrats throughout the state favoring Mr. Lind. The sentiment is by no means confined to Democrats, but thousands of Republicans are said to be expressing the hope that he can be induced to permit the use of his name as the Democratic candidate. Leaders from the Second congressional district say that Congressman W. S. Hammond's friends in the district, while appreciating the honor conveyed in the talk of their congressman for the nomination for governor, earnestly desire him to stand again for election to the house, and are confident that he can be elected with comparative ease. They are naturally among the most active of Governor Lind's boosters, for in his nomination they are confident that they will not only see Congressman Hammond returned to congress but the election of a popular and able man to the governorship as well.

The University Regents.

Governor A. O. Eberhart has finally announced the appointment of the three regents of the state university whose terms of office had expired. While there were no vacancies until in March the contest for the offices has occupied the attention of the politicians for several months. The governor settled the matter by reappointing the three men whose terms had expired. In the cases of C. A. Smith and B. F. Nelson, both of Minneapolis, the governor had apparently made up his mind weeks ago and efforts to change it proved fruitless. The temperance people attacked Mr. Smith's candidacy on the ground that he is alleged to be a stock holder in a malting company. It is said that the governor committed himself to Mr. Smith's desire to be reappointed soon after taking office and was not in position to change. Nelson's activity in state fair matters and his opposition to John J. Furlong's candidacy for the presidency of the association produced a crop of active opponents, and it is said that the owner of one of the Minneapolice Republican newspapers protested against his reappointment. Mr. Nelson had the governor's promise, it is said, ante-dating the state fair fight and so received his commission. The big fight came over the naming of the St. Paul regent. The Ramsey county Republican organization had indorsed the candidacy of Webster Wheelock, former editor of the Pioneer Press, and there were active candidates in the persons of Charles Somers, a wholesaler, and H. C. McNair, a prominent Irish-American. All three are active Republicans, but the commercial interests of the city are understood to have been friendly to Pierce Butler, the Democratic incumbent of the office, and to have secured the intercession of George Thompson, owner of the Pioneer Press and Dispatch, in his favor. Mr. Butler was thereupon appointed. Local Republicans express some resentment, while admitting Butler's superior qualifications and his steadfastness wherever St. Paul interests are concerned. The governor had naively declared that neither politics nor religion would be involved in making his selections of regents. The appointments made, with the political manuevering that preceded them, scarcely confirm this view of the situation.

The State Treasurership.

If reports from Northern Minnesota are true the contest for the state treasurership nomination at the next Republican state convention will possess elements that will appeal to the thirty men in politics. One story runs that Al. Kayser, the Bagley man who is seeking the nomination and who is said to be on the Eberhart slate, has just sold pine lands valued at $30,000, and his friends credit him with a willingness to part with at least a portion of the amount if such action will expedite matters. The country bankers, who are in the field of candidates for the treasurership, are apparently outclassed when they compare their available assets to those of the Bagley man.

Smith for United States Senator.

There is a well defined rumor in political circles in Minneapolis that State Senator E. E. Smith may find himself in the field for the United States senate. Senator Smith is the conceded Republican county leader in Hennepin, and his sphere of influence is by no means circumscribed by county boundaries. Since the session of Governor Eberhart to the office he now holds, the Minneapolis senator has been touted as close to the throne and, properly or otherwise, has been credited with being responsible for a number of the more important appointments made by the governor. The story goes that a situation may be created in Minnesota politics, which will make Senator Smith an active candidate for the berth now held by Senator Clapp. It as known that the junior senator has alienated the friendship of the national administration at Washington, not so much by his vote against the Payne bill, as by his association with Cummins and La Follette and his votes on administration measures during the past few weeks. Senator Smith stands well with the men who, in Minnesota, are considered close friends of President Taft, and it requires no strength of the imagination to place him in the field as a candidate to weaken and possibly defeat Clapp's ambition to succeed himself. Such a situation, involving as it would the necessity of at least a large percentage of the federal appointees in Minnesota taking sides against the national administration, would be illuminating in politics. The men who owe their appointments to the junior senator would be expected to stand with him, while those named by Senator Nelson would be found, if signs are not deceiving, lined up with the administration and Senator Smith. The power of the state administration, if it were fortunate enough to be still in existence when the senatorial fight is on, would be expected, under such circumstances, to be found aligned with the Taft organization and Senator Smith.

The Folk Emissary.

"Go and get a record," in sporting parlance, was what in effect was told Lon Sanders, emissary of Former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, when he sounded Minnesota Democrats on their preferences for the presidential nomination this week. Sanders is visiting a number of Central Western states in the interest of Governor Folk's candidacy, and Minnesota was the first state he visited. He found Democrats of the North Star state by no means unfriendly to Folk but he was told that it was up to the governor to show them first that he had strength at home. While they were by no means from Missouri, it was considered good politics that Folk "show them." As the situation in that state sands today, Folk appears in the light of a beaten man. He was defeated for senator a year or more ago by Senator Stone. He is being urged to try again for the senatorship to fill the place of the Republican Warner, but Former Governor David Francis is already in the field, and many well informed Democrats on national affairs expect Francis to be a presidential candidate. Advices from Washington say that there is no doubt that Champ Clerk, leader of the Democratic minority in the lower house, will also be a candidate for the presidency. With Missouri probably presenting three favorite sons for the highest office in the gift of the people of the republic, Minnesota Democrats are naturally in no hurry to commit themselves to the candidacy of any one of the three. Mr. Sanders was told all these things, and it is true that he expressed some surprise that conditions in his own state should be so accurately known here in Minnesota. The Missouri man in an interview declared that if Governor Johnson were now living Missouri would have no candidate for the presidency and would be found in the Johnson column.

Spooner for the House.

Lewis C. Spooner, one of the most conspicuous men of the house in the last two sessions of the legislature, has been announced—by others—as a candidate for congress, and also as a candidate for the senate. Recent advices, coming from pretty close to home, are that beyond any question Mr. Spooner will shortly announce his candidacy for re-nomination to the house from the Grant-Traverse-Stevens county district, thus disposing of the rumors that he aspires to other honors. It is known that he feels that his experience in the house fits him to do more effective work there than elsewhere.

Mr. Spooner probably has accomplished, in his two terms, about as much as any other single member in the way of broadly important legislation. While he was the author of the law providing for a separate training school for wayward girls, and of several other successful measures, he has been chiefly conspicuous for his activity in broadening the scope of the manufacturing industry at the state penitentiary. It is due to his efforts that the prison is now making farm machinery, and that it is equipped with a revolving fund that will permit this work to expand as the need arises. This year, it is stated, the prison will turn out 250 binders and mowers, and experiments with the machines already made have shown them to be uniformly successful.

The Sixth District Fight.

Up in the Sixth district friends of Senator Moses E. Clapp are trying to explain away charges that the senators are behind P. H. McGarry's candidacy for the Republican nomination for congress in opposition to Congressman Lindbergh. It is claimed as a basis for the charges involving the senators that C. B. Buckman, just appointed deputy United States marshal, is circulating through the district boosting McGarry and undermining Lindbergh with the people. A prominent Duluth Republican politician is openly charged by Lindbergh's friends with financing McGarry's campaign. It is said that "Pat" has been indiscreet in declaring to the publishers of country papers that he was prepared to pay real money for any advertising matter that might be run in his interest and there are suspicions of a barrel of large proportions. Senator Clapp has received notice that he must convince Lindbergh's friends that he is not a party to McGarry's entrance into the field and Buckman must be called off as an earnest of senatorial disinterestedness.

Many well-informed Republicans in the district insist that McGarry is not to remain in the contest to the finish, that he is to make way for a stronger man in due time, and that the real contest is to be between his successor and the sitting member. An evidence of Lindbergh's strength in the district and the apparent hopelessness of McGarry's campaign is found in the fact that the Cass Lake Times, in McGarry's home county, has come out for Lindbergh. McGarry made a great fight for Cass Lake in the last session of the legislature and put the bill establishing a sixth normal school at that town through the house only to have it meet its deathblow at the hand of Governor Johnson. It was scarcely expected that the Cass Lake newspaper would desert him in furthering his ambitions to go to congress from the district.

An Ideal Cough Medicine.

"As an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Wiltshire of Gwynneville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Medicine. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ills it is intended." For sale by all druggists.

STANDARD OIL WILL BEGIN ITS LAST BATTLE FOR LIFE

defendants—John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, Henry M. Flagler, Henry H. Rogers, John D. Archbold, Oliver H. Payne and Charles M. Pratt, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and other defendant companies.

The court found that in 1899, by an exchange of stock by the seven individuals, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey acquired the legal title to a majority of the stock of the nineteen companies, which in turn controlled a large number of others, all but one engaged in the oil business. What it found as to this combination was this:

That since 1899 the affairs of all these companies have been managed by the principal company as the business of a single person, so as to fix for them the price of crude oil, the rates for transportation and the selling prices of its products.

Stock Value $150,000,000.

That the par value of the combined capital stock in 1899 was about $100,000,000, and that in 1903 it was $150,000,000.

That twelve of these companies owned 54,565 miles of pipe lines.

That six of these companies had 3,574 selling stations throughout the United States.

That these companies, from 1899 to 1907, produced more than one-tenth of the crude oil obtained in this country.

That they owned and operated more than one-half of all the tank cars used to distribute its products.

That they manufactured more than three-fourths of all the crude oil refined in the United States.

That they transported more than four-fifths of the petroleum derived from the Pennsylvania and Indiana oil fields.

Big Interests in Trade.

That they marketed more than four-fifths of all the illuminating oil sold in the United States.

That they exported more than four-fifths of all the illuminating oil sent forth from the United States.

That they sold more than four-fifths of all the naphtha sold in the United States.

That they sold more than nine-tenths of all the lubricating oil sold to railroad companies in the United States.

On this finding the court decreed:

That the organization of 1899 was a combination or conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce in petroleum and its products, such as the first section of the Sherman anti-trust act declares is illegal.

That the seven individual defendants, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and thirty-nine other companies had entered into a combination or conspiracy to monopolize, and had in fact monopolized, a substantial part of interstate commerce in violation of the second section of the Sherman anti-trust act.

That thity-three other companies accused were proved not to be in this combination.

Terms of Injunction.

The court enjoined the principal company and its directors from exercising any control over the subsidiary companies: it enjoined the subsidiary companies from declaring or paying any dividends to the principal company, but not from distributing ratably to the shareholders of the principal company the stock of the subsidiary company; it enjoined those found to be in the "illegal combination" from continuing in it or forming a new combination by means of aggregation of the physical properties in the hands of one member of the combination, and forbade those in the combination from engaging in interstate commerce until the combination was discontinued.

The counsel arrayed in defense of the Standard Oil company includes John G. Milburn of Buffalo, N. Y., in whose home President McKinley died; D. T. Watson and John G. Johnson, leaders of the Pennsylvania bar; and Moritz Rosenthal, the legal pillar of the Standard Oil interests. Of these Johnson made the principal argument to the supreme court in the defense in the tobacco cases.

Kellogg Prime Mover.

Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota and Charles B. Morrison of Chicago have been most active in the preparation of the case against the defendants. Their arguments were upheld in the main by the lower court.

The business world is awaiting the outcome of the suit to know what effect it will have upon the future, not only of the Standard Oil, but of other combinations with points in common. The department of justice is waiting for the decision of the court in order to shape the government attitude toward other organizations of which complaint have been made.

Stiff Neck.

Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side, or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment. For sale by all druggists.

MANY NEW INDUSTRIES IN SIGHT FOR WEST DULUTH

dock near the old Merrill & Ring mill, is preparing to begin work on the construction of the new dock as soon as the ice breaks up. The company will spend $500,000 and will give employment to several hundred men when the dock is completed.

The Canadian Northern, which is preparing to come into the city through West Duluth, has had men sounding for some time at the site for its dock at the foot of Fifty-ninth avenue west. Plans are being prepared for the shops and roundhouses, which will be erected on the forty acres of land purchased near Fairmont park. The company evidently intends to rush its construction work this summer, and it is expected the docks, shops and roundhouse will be completed at the same time as the tracks are ready for the running of trains.

New Foundry.

The Imperial Iron works, formerly the Wessinger company, has plans out for a large foundry to be erected this summer as an addition to its other shops.

It is said that another coal company is negotiating for the purchase of a site near that recently acquired by the Hanna company, and there is a strong probability that the negotiations will be successful and that West Duluth will have another large dock.

Promoters of other smaller industries are looking toward West Duluth. With fine railroad connections, practically the only water front property available in the city, the only level land in the city for large manufacturing plants, the opinion of shrewd observers that Duluth's greatness must come through the development of West Duluth is gaining general support.

West Duluth will be swarmed with workmen during the coming summer. There is no doubt in the minds of those who have been watching the situation that the work on the steel plant will begin this spring. It is certain that work on the other plants mentioned will go on. The Canadian Northern apparently intends to go ahead with its construction and give Duluth a direct connection with the great Canadian Northwest.

But it is not the temporary activity that people are considering. It is the fact that the new industrial plants will provide labor for hundreds of men. The Zenith Furnace company now employs about 400 men steadily, and that number will be increased when the projected improvements are made. The new Hanna dock will employ hundreds of men, and the new foundry of the Imperial Iron works will add many more to the number employed in West Duluth. What the Canadian Northern shops, roundhouses and docks will mean can only be conjectured, but it is certain that the numbers they employ will result in a greatly increased population for West Duluth and added prosperity.

MANY YET TO TELL TALES

He first contributed $3,000 to the "Millionaires' club" and, still satisfied with the legitimacy of its existence, returned from New Orleans to his home and secured $6,000 more, which he lost, both sums going into the pools of fixed horse races.

Mr. Secrest, whose appearance gave him the stamp of a dignified gentleman of wealth, is probably 65 years old. He told a story which kept the entire courtroom in respectful silence.

"A man giving the name of J. C. Cramer greeted me in a casual way at a St. Paul hotel," he said, and told of later meetings with the man and how he was induced to lend $3,000 for him to bet on a sure thing in a horse race.

Jockey Had a Pit.

The race was pulled off, but the jockey on the horse carrying Secrest's money had a fit and fell from his mount.

Still sure that all was as it should be, Secrest secured $6,000 more and put it on another sure thing in the hope of getting back his $3,000. This time

"Our jockey had another accident, and when we picked him up he looked like he was dead, and I thought he was. They told me we would all be arrested and advised me to return, which I did."

Secrest pointed out Maybray as one of the "Millionaires." He also produced several letters which he testified were received from Maybray's associates.

Cass Lake Man Stung.

Secrest's testimony was only one of similar stories told during the day. Samuel Sutor of Cass Lake, Minn., explained his loss of $5,000, and Alex Delaine of Green Bay, Wis., told of losing $2,500. Sachariah Pierpont of Pawnee, Okla., lost $3,000 on a fixed wrestling match.

PATTEN ON WAY HOME

ant is the judgment of the Manchester business men upon the lines which they themselves consider reprehensible."

The paper calls the cornering of the necessaries of life monstrous, and adds:

"It would be difficult to draw the line between the legitimate and illegitimate in market methods, but that there is such a line is the confident judgment of our common morality, to which the Manchester exchange has given rough and ready execution."

Liverpool Men Displeased.

Liverpool, March 12.—The Patten incident at the Manchester cotton exchange yesterday has stirred up considerable feeling against the brokers there, between whom and the Liverpool dealers there is much jealousy. The local businessmen are anxious to disassociate themselves clearly from a suspicion of complicity in the insult and expulsion which followed the appearance of the Chicago speculator on the floor of the cotton exchange.

A Liverpool merchant today received from New York this cable message:

"Is the report of the treatment of Patten at Manchester true? England pretends friendship for America. Would heathenish Chinese be guilty of this? Patten is one of America's purest men."

The recipient of the cablegram replied:

"Liverpool resents Manchester treatment of Patten. The best Manchester men are ashamed and personally feel the discourtesy strongly."

Visited Corn Exchange.

Mr. Patten was to have paid a visit to the cotton exchange before sailing today, but abandoned his purpose, as there appeared to be a possibility that his appearance would be greeted with counter-demonstrations, and he had no desire to be the cause of further excitement. He did, however, pay a farewell visit to the corn exchange. In the course of an interview, he said:

"I went to Manchester to show them I was an ordinary man, not adorned with horns and tail, but simply a bull on the market, as I told them. That the hostile demonstration did not represent the best elements in the cotton exchange is shown by the personal and written expressions of regret which I have received from leading spinners of Manchester, some of whom visited me today to convey an expression of their keen regret over the occurrence. I have also received many letters of like tenor.

Want Him to Use Money.

"During my stay at Liverpool I have received between 500 and 600 letters from all parts of this country. Many of these enclosed money with which I was to speculate on behalf of the senders. Others were begging messages, some of the writers wishing assistance in developing inventions. Of course, all of the money sent me was returned immediately."

MORE OF BALLINGER'S STATEMENTS FLATLY DENIED BY ENGINEER

had persisted that Director Newell was slated to go.

The witness referred further to the enmity against the service in some communities in the West. Senator Sutherland sought to show that much of the dissatisfaction was due to the fact that on some projects the original estimate of the cost of water has been increased from $20 to a final charge of $30 an acre. Mr. Davis admitted that this "might" be the cause of some of the discontent.

Engineers Not Backed.

Mr. Davis declared the engineers of the reclamation service, in order to succeed in their work and in their relations with land owners, ought to have the earnest support of the secretary of the interior. The witness did not feel that Secretary Ballinger had given the support.

Attorney Pepper read into the record a letter recently addressed to the house committee on ways and means by Secretary Ballinger in support of the $30,000,000 bond issue for reclamation work. In this letter Secretary Ballinger spoke of the hardships which had resulted to settlers on some of the projects where co-operation agreements had been entered into by former Secretary Garfield.

The communication also asserted that inducements had been held out to settlers to come on the land and that at Toluca, Mont., there had been erected a large sign board inviting settlers to come there. This sign included the statement: "Settlers can work out their payments."

Makes More Denials.

Mr. Ballinger said he ordered this part of the sign painted out.

Mr. Davis contradicted practically every statement in the Ballinger letter. He said he was with Mr. Ballinger when the latter saw the sign; that no orders had been given to paint out the words, and that up to a few days ago the sentence had not been painted out. Mr. Davis said there had been no co-operative agreement or certificates at Toluca; that no such signs had been erected anywhere else, and that undue inducement never had been made to settlers to go into the co-operative work. At Toluca the reclamation had been completed and there was more water available than land under cultivation. The lands were public and it was decided that they should be taken up he said.

DO IT FOR DULUTH

One way to make a bigger, better and greater Duluth is to patronize the industries that are already located here.

Every man that smokes can at least assist in building up the cigar industry by calling for home-made cigars.

Cigars made in Duluth will equal and excel cigars from foreign markets.

By smoking home-made cigars, you will escape the danger of Eastern made tenement-house cigars, which are the receptacles of that dreadful disease—tuberculosis.

To assist the smoker in making his selection, the following list of home-made cigars are highly recommended. Give them a trial:

ON THE IRON RANGES

ALLEGE POLITICS PROMPTED REPORT

Gilbert Officials Say Wasgatt's Report Was Sprung for Effect.

Gilbert, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the last meeting of the village council Thursday night a letter was read informally from County Examiner Wasgatt in which that official disclaimed responsibility for publication on the eve of election in Duluth papers of his report reflecting on certain village officials. The parties mentioned in the report are indignant claiming that it was sprung for political effect at the ninth hour, when it was really two months old and it is said that the persons on whom reflection is made will call on the examiner to make good his charges.

It being the last session of the council its business was cleared up. The vote cast at the recent election was counted and other routine matters disposed of.

The village engineer announced that his recent plans for a water system were completed and that as there was no further work in his department that needed immediate attention, that he would hand in his resignation, the same to take effect at once, and that he would file with the city officials the entire plans and drawings of all the city improvements that had been made under his department.

The council granted quite a number of liquor licenses, incidentally thrashing out the question as to whether the village could license new saloons in place of saloons that let their licenses expire, or of saloons that were refused new licenses, until the number of saloons corresponds to the number contemplated by the recent liquor laws touching upon that subject.

The council by resolution created a new water, light, power and building commission and the following citizens were named to constitute the board of commissioners: C. L. Newberry, three years; James Dowling, two years; O. H. Haenki for one year.

The commission will have monthly meetings, and will have charge of the administration of the light and water affairs of the village, and control of the village buildings, etc. The clerk of the village will be clerk of the new commission.

NEED NEW SCHOOL.

Voters to Meet Next Week and Decide Upon Steps to Be Taken.

Chisholm Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The need for a new school building was forcibly presented to the people at a meeting of the board, and it was decided to call a mass meeting of the voters of the district next week to consider what should be done.

Supt. J. P. Vaughan recommends that a twenty-room structure which shall cost about $120,000 be erected, as he feels the village badly needs a building of that description.

Both the two buildings in Chisholm proper are now badly crowded, and although a two-room addition is to be made to the Munroe school and the new two-room Shamango school will be ready in abut two weeks, they will not relieve the situation very much.

SHIPPING AWAY SUPPLIES.

Fear That McKinley Mine Will Not Resume Very Soon.

McKinley, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are small hopes that the McKinley mine will be operated the coming year. Orders have been received for the shipment from there of all the supplies on hand, which is taken to mean that operations are to be suspended for the present season at least. Nothing is definitely known, but the outlook, considering what has taken place, is not bright.

At the regular meeting of the village council this afternoon the application of the Iron Range railroad to purchase water from the village will be considered. Two liquor license applications also are to be considered.

Instruments have been ordered for twelve boys who will be members of the McKinley high school band. Other applications for membership have been received. George Thompson is the instructor, he having already made a success of a like band in the Gilbert school.

The new electric plant at the Corsica mine has been installed, and the work is now done with dynamos instead of mules. Four to five cars are hauled on each trip. The new service is proving a great convenience.

Ice Harvest Finished.

Nashwauk, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sebeka Mercantile company has completed filling its new icehouse, which was recently erected in the rear of its warehouse on Lower Grand avenue. The ice was hauled from Pickerel lake for the purpose. The Fitger Brewing company's icehouse, under the management of James Hayes, has been filled with ice taken from Pickerel lake. The ice on some parts of the lake is twenty-three inches thick. Mr. Hayes has been distributing some of this winter's supply to his customers in the village, owing to the warm weather.

EVELETH PLANS BRANCHING OUT

Commercial Club Favor the Scheme of Annexing Contiguous Territory.

Eveleth, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club last night heard the report of the committee that waited on the officials of the Oliver Iron Mining company at Duluth Tuesday relative to annexing adjacent territory and reported satisfactory results.

The company approved of the city annexing the entire Adams location, all parts of the Missabe Mountain township not property of the city, the new Virginia mine, and all land north of the county road in the Fayal district including the Fayal school; central division No. 2. This territory contains about 3,000 people and its addition would raise Eveleth's population to 8,000 and increase its area to one and a half miles square, or about thirteen times its present size. By this move Eveleth would gain access to considerable mineral wealth which would then be under its jurisdiction. The mines that would come into Eveleth's jurisdiction by the success of the annexation movement are the Hull, Cloquet, Adams and Nelson mines, also the Virginia mines stripping, and their valuation would raise Eveleth's present valuation to $9,500,000 from $1,500,000.

The consensus of the meeting was in favor of attempting to have all the annexation work done under the Austin law provisions and completed by April 15, the time when the national census will be commenced to be taken. To this end George A. Perham, a resident of the Central Division No. 2, in the affected territory, was empowered to take the census with required assistance at the club's expense.

The annexation committee was given a unanimous vote of thanks.

The local postoffice officials were requested to confer with the national postoffice department relative to the sending here of a postoffice inspector to investigate local tree delivery conditions.

A committee consisting of J. P. Boyle, Fred E. Lister and George A. Perham was appointed to revise the bylaws of the club.

A. M. Murnik, Peter Peterson and H. Perlman were appointed a committee to investigate boosting propositions.

NEW MAYOR WELCOMED.

Dr. Weirick Given Warm Reception By His Fellow Townsmen.

Hibbing, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. R. Weirick, the newly elected mayor, returned home last evening and was met at the depot by about 500 people and the local band. The doctor was placed in a carriage drawn by four horses and escorted to the Armory, where he was introduced by City Attorney Stratton, who acted as chairman. The doctor responded in a very few words and asked to be excused as he was very tired after his journey. The new mayor promised to faithfully carry out the wishes of the people in every particular insofar as he was able. Mr. Stratton then introduced Peter McHardy and William Wearne of the new board of trustees, who made short addresses. Abner Kleffman, the new recorder, was then called upon for a few remarks. The council then dispersed after giving three rousing cheers for the new mayor and council.

BUILT A MONUMENT.

The Best Sort in the World.

"A monument built by and from Postum," is the way an Ill. man describes himself. He says:

"For years I was a coffee drinker until at last I became a terrible sufferer from dyspepsia, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and was a physical wreck.

"The different kinds of medicines I tried did not cure me, but finally some one told me to leave off coffee and take up Postum. I was fortunate in having the Postum made strictly according to directions on the pkg., so that from the start I liked it. It has a rich flavour and I made the change from coffee to Postum without any trouble.

"Gradually my condition changed. The old troubles disappeared and I began to get well again. My appetite became good and I could digest food. Now I have been restored to strength and health. Can sleep sound all night and awake with a fresh and rested body. Every one who meets me comments on my getting so plump and rosy.

"I am really a monument built by Postum, for I was a physical wreck, distressed in body and mind, and am now a strong, healthy man. I know exactly what made the change, it was leaving off coffee and using Postum."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one apprears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BARTENDER IS CAUGHT AT TOWER

Alleged to Have Sold Liquor to Indians and Is Bound Over.

Tower, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite the posters displayed here, offering a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any one caught giving or selling liquor to Indians, officers have arrested Jack Linkler, bartender for Doc Lackie, and had him bound over to the grand on that charge.

An inspector for the government claims to have caught the bartender in the act of selling liquor to John Sky and Joe Big Nose, witnessing the transaction through a window. The inspector followed the Indians to the lake and arresting them found the liquor in their packs.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of Lackie and Linkler. The proprietor of the establishment claimed he had warned Linkler not to give drink to Indians. Linkler was held in $500 bonds. A deputy sheriff came from Duluth today and took the Indians back to appear as witnesses before the grand jury.

OLD RANGE CITIZEN.

William Elliot, Who Died at Eveleth, Buried at Virginia.

Eveleth, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wialliam Elliot, a well known range citizen, who had been sick at a local hospital since October, with dropsy is dead. At his bedside, when the end came, were his daughter, Mrs. U. G. Holloway and U. G. Holloway of Virginia, who have been constant visitors at the local hospital the past few weeks. The funeral will be held this afternoon from the St. Paul's Episcopal church at Virginia.

Mr. Elliot resided in this vicinity for many years during which time he was employed as superintendent by the Swan River Lumber company about Hibbing. Prior to his illness he was employed for four years at the Hull-Rust mine in the Hibbing district in the capacity of construction foreman. He was also a railroad man and was employed as superintendent of road construction for the Canadian Pacific when that line built through the Crow Nest Pass.

SENATOR VAIL A CANDIDATE, HIS OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for selection for state senator of the Forty-ninth senatorial district of Minnesota.

Having served the people for three sessions in the legislature and in the lower house in 1897, which session the last reapportionment was made and in which St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties fared fairly well. Served in the senate in the sessions of 1907 and 1909. In all of the three sessions named I had the iniquitous and notorious "tonnage tax" bill to contend with, and from my past experience, I feel competent of looking after the needs and welfare of the Forty-ninth district and St. Louis county, and in the state in general, especially the northern part.

Upon my past record, I respectfully solicit your support at the primaries to be held in September, 1910. Respectfully yours, P. R. VAIL.

MISTAKES ACID FOR MEDICINE

Woman Gives Burning Potion to Child and Nearly Causes Death.

Mistaking carbolic acid for cough medicine, Mrs. Andrew Lumn nearly caused the death of her 6-month-old baby in her home on St. Croix avenue yesterday afternoon. Two bottles were standing together on a table, and the mother wanted to use cough medicine to stop a spell of coughing. She detected her mistake when the child screamed from pain. Taking the baby in her arms, she ran to her husband in the Finnish bathrooms, and together they raced for the office of Dr. Mary McCoy, who stated last evening that the child will probably recover. Its mouth and throat were burned.

Fitger Brewing Co., DULUTH, MINN.

In commenting on a report made public by a Special Government Commission, "The Hospital," London, in an editorial, May 1, 1909, says:

"When a man drinks good beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats a bowl of soup. We hope the number of beer drinkers will increase considerably, as the result of the researches of our Commission, and we hold the view that it would be infinitely better for the well-being of the people, as a whole, if they were to select beer as their habitual drink. If the worth of food is measured by its calorimetric value, the fact is, that a glass of good beer is approximately as nourishing as a glass of beef, and it is often far more efficacious in the treatment of insomnia than drugs, due to the hypnotic principle contained in hops."

Just a Word to

The Front Row

If every man and every woman would begin now to use Newbro's Herpicide and teach the children to use it, the front row of the next generation would not be bald headed and none of the ladies would be wearing false hair.

Falling hair means trouble. The dandruff germ is there and will in a short time ruin the best head of hair that ever grew.

Too many people, finding they need a hair remedy, allow themselves to be duped into buying and using something said to be just as good or very much like Newbro's Herpicide.

Why do it? Such a remedy is but an imitation, a substitute. Herpicide is the original dandruff germ destroyer. Insist on having genuine Herpicide and take nothing else.

Newbro's Herpicide
Saves the Hair

The results from the very beginning are often astonishing. The hair will cease to fall and instead of being dull and dead takes on the sparkle and luxuriance of true hair beauty.

Herpicide possesses a delicate fragrance which appeals strongly to persons of taste and refinement.

The Herpicide Co., Dept. 10B, Detroit, Mich., will send a nice sample and booklet to any address upon receipt of ten cents in stamps or silver.

One dollar bottles are sold and guaranteed by all druggists. Applications may be had at the better barber shops and hair dressers. See window display at the Lyceum Pharmacy and Lenox Drug store, our special agents for Duluth, Minn.

RAINY RIVER MAN SKIPS OUT

Reported That He Defaulted to the Extent of $8,000.

Fort Frances, Ont., March 12.—Harold H. Morton, a resident of Rainy River, quietly slipped out of that town on Sunday night last for Uncle Sam's domain, leaving a number of sorrowing creditors. It is reported that his defalcations run up to over $8,000, made up chiefly of trust funds belonging to estates of which he was the agent. It is also alleged he took the funds of the local branch of railway trainmen, of which he was the treasurer.

Morton's actions are a surprise to his many friends, and a very sad blow to his wife and child, who are ignorant of his whereabouts, as well as to his brother, T. P. Morton, barrister of that place, who is extremely shocked over his brother's wrong-doings. A warrant has been issued for his arrest, and the police of the American cities have been notified to be on the lookout for him. Morton passed through Fort Frances for Duluth on Monday morning, and so far is safely away, as he cannot be traced further than Duluth.

WRIGHT WATCHES PAULHAN FLYING.

New York, March 12.—Louis Paulhan, the French aviator, made two short exhibition flights yesterday afternoon at the Jamaica race track in the Farman bi-plane in which he broke the world's record for height at Los Angeles by ascending 4,165 feet, but he did not go higher than 250 feet and the distance in each instance, a trifle more than two miles, was made in about five minutes.

Wilbur Wright was among the favored spectators. He studied the biplane closely, as did his attorney. Paulhan has an arrangement with the Wrights whereby he can continue to give exhibition flights on deposit of a $6,000 weekly bond pending the determination of the Wright patent injunction suit.

Ahead of His Schedule.

Syracuse, Kan., March 12.—Edward Payson Weston, the pedestrian, ten days ahead of his schedule and predicting arrival at the end of his long walk ten days before his time limit, made a two-hours' stop here yesterday.

LAKE CARRIERS ARE INDICTED

Charge of Shanghaiing Is Accepted By Grand Jury at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 12.—The Lake Carriers' association, which controls a large percentage of shipping on the Great Lakes, was indicted by the federal grand jury here yesterday on a charge of shanghaiing. The indictments are against the corporation, the officials of which must appear before Judge Hazel next week to plead.

Al Limerick, a former fighter, who acted as local shipping agent for the lake carriers during the strike last summer, also was indicted on a similar charge. He appeared before Judge Hazel, pleaded not guilty and was released on bail.

The indictments grew out of complaints brought to United States Attorney O'Brien last summer, that agents of the association had been shipping boys of 14 and 16 years to take the places of striking seamen and firemen. The boys were induced to ship, it is alleged, under promise of light work and other misrepresentations, which, under the federal statute, constitutes shanghaiing. Some of the lads were roughly handled when they balked at the heavy work it is alleged.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

St. Louis Beats Out Buffalo in the 1911 Bowling Tournament.

Another Day Passes Without Any Change in the Leadership.

Detroit, Mich., March 12.—St. Louis was awarded the 1911 tournament and the old list of officers and members of the executive committee were re-elected with a few exceptions at the annual meeting of the American bowling congress yesterday.

On the alleys another day passed without a change in the leadership of any of the three squads, although Dalker and Wetterman of Cincinnati had a close call in the doubles, when a "railroad" in the tenth frame of the last game prevented Al. Leigh and Charles Nudd of Chicago from beating 1,231. They scored 1,222, which put them in second place.

In the individual event, Louis Franz of Cleveland and Nick Hess of Aurora, Ill., were the stars. The former rolled into a tie with Max Drossman of Detroit and John Kolde of Cincinnati for sixth place with 641, and the latter shot 646, which gave them temporary possession of ninth place.

St. Louis had little trouble in landing the next tournament, as the vote was St. Louis 34, Buffalo 24. Those were the only cities that made a bid. The tourney at St. Louis will probably open on the last Saturday in January, as the promoters favor the early opening in order to allow the baseball players to compete before the opening of their training trips.

Two or three minor changes were made in the slate of officers, but the present incumbents were practically re-elected.

Following is the list of officers elected:

President, Robert H. Bryson, Indianapolis; first vice president, Adam Hahn, Pittsburg; second vice president, F. W. Gosewich, St. Paul; third vice president, M. A. Phillipps, St. Louis; secretary, A. L. Langtry, Milwaukee; treasurer, Frank L. Hasdeloup, Chicago.

Executive committee, George B. Howard, Chicago; C. A. Nichols, Kansas City; W. A. Agnew, Cleveland; L. A. Wehner, Dayton; George A. Stratz, Des Moines; G. O. Francisco, Omaha; W. J. Ennis, Wheeling; C. A. Balz, Columbus, M. J. Costa, Philadelphia; F. J. Ryan, Detroit; C. W. Turner, St. Joseph, Mo.; John Koerner, Milwaukee; F. B. Hull, Minneapolis; D. P. Haager, Louisville; Albert Reinhart, Cincinnati; John G. Floss, Buffalo; S. L. Drake, St. Louis; J. Gazzolo, Toledo.

The following were elected honorary life members of the congress: August Herrmann, Cincinnati; Godfrey Langhenny, Chicago; J. P. Haager, Louisville; Edwin Meyers, Washington.

The scores follow.

Five-men teams—Cosmas, Chicago, 2,883; Saramitas, Wheeling, 2,872; O'Leary's No. 2, Chicago, 2,833; Zeigers, St. Paul, 2,804; Colonials, Madison, Wis., 2,801; Libertys, Rochester, 2,789; B. P. O. E., Syracuse, 2,787; Ungers, Pittsburg, 2,786; Rovers, Buffalo, 2,770; Vulcans, Oshkosh, Wis., 2,757; Howard Majors, Chicago, 2,802; Chalmers-Detroit, Chicago, 2,783; Mahoneys, Chicago, 2,739; Rossows, Chicago, 2,720; Krizeks, Chicago, 2,673; Stehnos, Chicago, 2,661.

Chicago Wins Meet.

Chicago, March 12.—The University of Chicago defeated the University of Illinois last night in an indoor track meet by a score of 52½ to 23½. The last event, the pole vault, was not finished until long after midnight.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE)

Plans and preparations for the holding of the motor boat regatta over a course marked out in St. Louis bay, will be actively taken up in the near future. There is no doubt about the holding of the regatta, and the chief concern of the officials of the club will be to formulate the rules under which the events will be held.

It is very probable that the rules governing the Peoria regatta of the West Power Boat association, Aug. 18 last, will be followed closely by the officials of the Duluth Boat club.

These rules and handicaps, etc., which were adhered to during the three days' racing at Peoria, worked out very satisfactorily, and the officials of the boat club are inclined to the belief that they will be adopted for the regatta scheduled for the Head of the Lakes.

Already wide interest is being shown in the motor boat activities that are planned for Duluth. To tell the truth, the motor boat is just coming into its full measure of popularity. Like the automobile, very little attention was paid to the motor boat until the sport possibilities loomed forth. Now motor boating is one of the popular sports of the country.

From time to time in the sporting columns of The Evening Herald mention has been made of the interest of various motor boat manufacturers in the events that are being planned for Duluth the coming summer. If the big open race is held, as it is now planned at the Duluth Boat club regatta, it is very probable that some of the very fastest of the water flyers will be seen here.

The manufacturers of the Arab are seriously thinking of sending that speedy boat here, and then there is the Dixie III and the Red Wing, owned by J. F. Trautner of Red Wing.

Here we have the speedy Dingle Capitol to uphold the motor boat supremacy of Duluth. The speedy Schell boat promises to be faster the present season than ever before as the engine should be working more smoothly. Mr. Schell has plenty of confidence in his trim flyer, and, as has been stated in The Herald, he stands ready to back that confidence with some good coin of the realm.

Looking over the coming season from the early prospective of March, it does seem that the coming June, July and August months will bring out some very keen water sport.

Down Pittsburg way that swarthy mat expert, Leo Pardello, who is the best mat man that sunny Italy has sent to the shores of the United States since the palmy days of Raicevich, is a hero, tried and true, among the many Italians that make smoky Pittsburg their home.

Three men of the profession of "rasslers" were to oppose sturdily, with perhaps danger to life and limb, the attempts of burly Stan Zbyszko to put them to the mat. Like Bosco, Zbyszko eats 'em alive. Well, the ponderous Pole made short shift of the two first victims of his ambition to the throne of King Gotch.

Then Leo was trotted forth to the supposed slaughter. Not so, Leo. He not only stayed that unoccupied period of the hour that his brothers of the mat had found so uninteresting, but he also went right at the Pole, tooth and nail, so to speak, for Leo is plum rough, and kept him exceedingly busy the rest of the sixty minutes.

Pardello is much mat-stained and bears marks of numerous frays with foreigners; but at that, he is one of the toughest customers in the canvas world to handle—and that is not forgetting that Ringling Bros. have some tough gazaboos traveling with them, who would just as soon blot your physique as eat.

A communication from a sporting editor of one of the Minneapolis papers bears out the tale that there is $5,000 of real money in Minneapolis that will be gleefully plunged on the chances of Henry Ordemann, should the big Norwegian be fortunate enough to get a match with Dr. Benjamin Franklin Roller.

Those who saw the cleancut work of the big Norsk here Thursday night may be inclined to coincide with the opinion expressed so freely in the Mill City. Ordemann is one of the great wrestlers developed in this country, and outside of Gotch, Zbyszko and possibly Yussiff Mahmout, it is very doubtful if there is a wrestler in the world who can beat him.

In his dressing room Thursday evening Ordemann confided to the writer that it was his one ambition to get on the mat in a square match with Dr. Roller.

"But he will never meet me," and Henrick spake the words with a sigh and dismal shake of his head.

It was here that Ordemann sprang the suggestion that there was the possibility that there would be a tournament in this country, such as are held upon the other side of the water. The winner of the tournament would be the recognized champion of at least America.

This tournament may be held, in the event of the retirement of Gotch. Then Roller would probably be compelled to meet Ordemann, and the former Minneapolis blacksmith would have his ambition realized.

Red fire and sulphur! Mother turn the hose on!

We have waited long for this. Barney Oldfield and that other devil of the auto, Ralph de Palma, are to race.

If there is any thing in this world that could be invented to raise the phlegmatic man from the cellar of complacency to the roof garden of excitability and frivolous feeling, it would be the race between the two flying drivers.

The present season Oldfield is driving a Benz, one of the highest power cars in the racing business, and de Palma is trusting his reputation to a Brooklands Fiat. The race will be held in Florida on the long stretch of level sand beach, and it shouud be one of the great sights of the day and generation.

Oldfield has expressed the opinion that he will surely make a mile in 26 seconds, and says it is a casual way. Really, when you come right down to it, there is nothing like getting used to things. Do you think you could get used to reeling off miles in 26 seconds? Answers will be carefully reviewed.

There surely must be a lot of crack baseball material around that city of Cleveland. Reports from the camps of the Cleveland Naps, bring the information that there are two Cleveland high school boys trying out for the team and that to date they have showed the goods.

And by and by, speaking of Cleveland, Lajoi may play first base the present season. In the spring practice games he has been covering the bag, and little Terry Turner covered the second base position.

Turner is really a wonderful baseball player; in fact, one of the best that have been developed in recent years. His arm went back on him just when he was making the other shortstops in the American league look like cheese that had been left in the sun.

They have moved him to the second base position, believing that he can stand the shorter throw. If the cotton top's arm holds good the present season and Bill Bradley doesn't slow up at third, Cleveland should have a great infield.

Efforts are being made to match Young Miller and Otto Sutter before one of the Chicago clubs. The match would be for the welterweight wrestling championship of the world. Miller is a wonderful little grappler, but he would have to go some to defeat the Cleveland boy, who is one of the greatest in the game.

At the Cincinnati meeting of the national commission, action will be taken on the case of John Kling. If Mike Donlin is allowed to play with the Giants the present season, there is no reason why the great Chicago catcher should not be allowed to play with the Cubs. Hearts will beat slowly in Chicago while the commission is making its decision.

CHAMPION MANY YEARS

The Late "Wizard Jake" Schaefer, Was Master Mind of Billiards.

He Defeated Greatest Players of His Day and Solved Many Problems.

(By Thomas Foley.)

In two hemispheres there are thousands of followers of the game of billiards whose eyes became moist when they read of the death of "Wizard Jake" Schaefer out in Denver. I have known this marvelous billiard player since 1873—have been a close confidant of him for three decades—and I am moved to say that it is scarcely in my power to eulogize him as he deserves. Champion of champions for more than thirty years, he appealed to the billiard men as the incomparable, intuitive, natural wizard of the ivories. It may be that there never will be another like him, unless it might be Willie Hoppe or Calvin Demarest.

In what other line of sporting endeavor has there been a champion—a man admittedly in a class by himself, year in and year out—who has been supreme for more than thirty years? Does the prize ring, baseball diamond, tennis court, cricket field, skating rink, wrestling mat, etc., show another man like Schaefer has been in billiards?

Permit me to add that Jacob Schaefer was the greatest figure the world of billiards ever knew—a genius positively without an equal. He was the most wonderful performer in his line the world ever knew, and stood without a peer in any other line of sport. Up to the last big champoinship contest he participated in he was the wizard—the man who for thirty years had taught even the best exponents of the game some things they did not think were possible with the cue and ivories.

Climax of His Career.

It may not be generally known, but he went from a sick bed to the 18-1 championship contest in Orchestra hall two years ago to meet his challenger, Willie Hoppe, with most of his friends blue as indigo over the prospects. But Schaefer won. It was the climax of his career.

Always somewhat taciturn, never very communicative to his closest friends and much given to melancholy all his life, Schaefer retired from his victory over Hoppe at the most difficult style of billiards, and took to his bed. Practically he never recovered from the effects of that illness, for his trip to Denver did not bring the wonders that were expected. Poor Jake fought hard in Denver to regain strength, but his case was hopeless.

Now that George Sutton has been having his troubles trying to get rid of a serious illness; to be in readiness for his 18.1 balk-line championship contest with Hoppe, it strikes me that the big fellow realizes that he made a mistake in judgment in challenging the sick and disheartened sufferer, "Wizard Jake," as the fitting thing to have done would have been to permit Schaefer to retain the 18.1 trophy, allow the Grim Referee to signal "None for the white" and close the inning.

Came to Chicago in 1873.

Schaefer came to Chicago from Leavenworth when 18 years old—he was born in Milwaukee in 1855—to try to get work in my billiard hall on Clark street. But I had no opening for him at that time and advised him to come later. He was then one of the best billiard players in the country, but few of us knew it.

He drifted to New Orleans, and, making for the famous billiard hall of John Miller, soon created a sensation by engaging Mr. Miller in games and beating him. No player ever had been able to beat John Miller before the young "mysterious stranger" arrived. The South to a man was willing to back Miller against any handler of the cue that ten, and Schaefer won steadily in wagers.

I firmly believe that had not John Oberlander, one of Mr. Miller's close friends, warned Miller not to back himself too heavily against the young man, Schaefer would have won the billiard hall from the veteran of today. Miller's hall is still running in New Orleans.

"Who is this Schaefer—the fellow with one short finger, who says he knows people in Chicago?" wrote Miller's friend to the late Henry (Dump) over the letter and wrote back that Rhines. Mr. Rhines had a good laugh they would better beware of the fellow with the short finger, as he was one of the best billiardists in the country.

Soived Every Billiard Puzzle.

Schaefer enjoys the distinction, in my estimation, of having found a solution for every billiard puzzle the students of the game invented to make the game harder and thwart him. He ferreted out the technical points of the play as an automobile engineer discovers faults in his car's mechanism. His genius forced every change that was made in billiards for more than three decades.

They modified the game in 1879 with the four and a half-inch squares in each corner of the billiard table and decreed that the balls could not be blocked or jawed in those squares. But they built without knowledge of the delicacy of touch and stroke of the wizard. He learned how to nurse the balls along the rail so that after each shot he had almost the same set up. Around and around the rails he would take the ivories in a regular walking match, as it were.

I recall the match with J. F. B. McCleary in San Francisco, when Schaefer ran his 1,000 points each night, beating his man so overwhelmingly by walking the balls around the table that the country gasped at the brilliancy of the young player. The straight-rail game was put into the discard for champions with that performance. Schaefer compelled new styles of "balking" him.

McCleary in Predicament.

There is another feature following that McCleary game that I may be pardoned for interjecting. "Lucky" Baldwin and other rich Californians were stunned by Schaefer's victory, but they did not lose their faith in McCleary. I was asked by mail by McCleary about his chances against Schaefer in an eight-inch balk-line game. The first contest had been for $2,500 a side, and he wanted to meet Jake for $1,000 a side.

Almost prophetic were my words in my reply to McCleary, as I recall them. I told him that Schaefer perhaps would average 100, while he would go to an average of about 15. "Keep away from Schaefer on a wager, for he surely will defeat you," I added. The match was played, but Baldwin did not back McCleary enthusiastically. Schaefer averaged a trifle over 100 and McCleary's average was a bit over 14.

One might descant for months on Schaefer's intuitive playing of shots, but it is best to remember that he spent a long time in mastering the intricacies of the dead-ball shot and utilized this well-earned superiority in winning many a big match. Without the mastery of this shot no man can expect to become a great billiardist.

Schaefer taught it to Ives, and the Napoleon of billiards, great a general as the dashing young player became, had almost complete mastery of it. Yet the pupil never excelled the teacher.

I was one of a committee of three to revise the balk lines, and I recall how we added the lines in the corners, despite the fact that critics said they would make matters easier for Schaefer. The latter said that without these lines the balk would be more difficult. He was pleased over the "improvement." Nothing stopped him. Benjamin Garno, the veteran billiard writer and editor of the Billiardist, threw his skill and genius into devising balks to thwart the players, like Schaefer, but always were the calculations overthrown by the wizard.

Barred the Anchor Shot.

It was Schaefer's supremacy with the anchor shot that caused this to be barred. In a game with Frank Ives in New York in 1892 and when apparently hopelessly beaten, Jake ran 556 points and won amid scenes of the greatest excitement. The anchor shot is barred to this day. That year did not impair Schaefer's skill even with the difficult 18-1 style of balk is borne out by the fact that the last big championship contest he played in was at that style, and he successfully defended his title, only to lose it by forfeit later when unable to raise a cue.

Schaefer used the straightest and plainest sort of an ash cue for many years. Not until the tools began to come in sections and were elaborately made did he discard this old ash cue. I had it around my place for years, as a treasured gift from the wizard. But it has disappeared. It weighed about eighteen ounces. The stroke and nicety of touch, knowledge of distance and power developed by Schaefer perhaps never may be equaled with any kind of a cue, tip, table, cushion or balls.

Abroad they should know Schaefer's temperament and many anecdotes about him, as he was for fourteen years in the Parisian academy, going there in 1892 and returning to this country in 1906. During that time he played every day, Sundays included, and never earned less than $30 a day—often it was nearly $60. He has won thousands upon thousands of dollars in purses in matches and exhibitions, has earned as much as $12,000 a year steadily in academy play, and for many years was on the payroll of the big manufacturers for at least $5,000 a year.

But Jake, unfortunately, never knew the value of money. He had too big a heart to keep it. Anybody could get his money from him with a "hard-luck story." However, he was being looked after by the billiard manufacturers, and there is a liberal life insurance fund left to his family.

Looks Bad for Americans.

New York, March 12.—When play was given over for the day this evening, prospects were not very rosy for the American team engaged in the twelfth annual cable chess match against Great Britain. While Marshall appeared to have a decided advantage on the first board, three of the Americans' games looked rather favorable for the British antagonists. However, it is too early to predict the outcome. The contest today promises to be hard fought and it is not expected that any of the games will be concluded before late in the afternoon.

PLAYER MUST SHOW CLASS

Spring Training Trip Is Where Many "Phenoms" Are Exploded.

Veterans Put Skill and Knowledge Against Youngsters' Ambition.

(By Billy Evans.)

This is the era of the spring phenom in baseball.

Now that the spring training trips are on, the fans will hear much concerning the cold weather wonders.

Since the close of the 1909 season major and minor league clubs have been signing youthful recruits with reckless abandon. All kinds of nice things have been said about the newcomers, shortly they are to get the long looked for chance to deliver the goods.

The success that various managers have had with young players in the last three or four years has boomed the stock of young blood considerably. Of course the veteran with his experience is all the more valuable if he still possesses the speed and ability he showed as a youngster, still every manager is always on the ulert for promising material among the raw recruits.

The old saying that many are called but few chosen fits in mighty well in these days of modern baseball. Every year hundreds and hundreds of ambitious young ball players are signed up for the bush and big league recruits, but few are fortunate enough to deliver the goods and win a berth. From now until the opening of the season in the various leagues, it will be a bitter fight to the finish. The ambitious youngster will exert all his energy to outshine the veteran of many a strenuous campaign, while the old standbys will bring into play every trick they know to prove that no youngster has the class to oust them from their position as a regular.

It has been the same old story for years, the untiring energy and ambition of youth pitted against the skill and knowledge acquired only by experience. Each season, however, usually witnesses the overthrow of some former idol, and the installation of some hitherto unknown youth in his place. Baseball fame is truly little more than a fleeting fancy. One season you are a big hero, the next season you may be just as large a lemon.

It's no easy task for any player to make good in the major or minors. It's a rough road full of all kinds of obstacles, that is only overcome by a display of nerve and perseverance that simply refuses to be denied. It's not always the player with the most ability who creates the biggest stir in league circles. Of course ability is the one big essential, but with it he must have nerve, confidence, gray matter and last but not least he must be impervious to criticism.

Players Are Abused.

It is doubtful if any person before the public is subjected more abuse than the men connected with the great national game. The politician isn't excepted in this classification either. The public seems to regard it as a divine right to criticise or abuse the ball player as they see fit. The youngster who at the very start of his career can realize that it's the public pays the salary, that the public has the right to enjoy itself as it sees fit, will have overcome one of the big obstacles that confront any one who seeks to acquire fame in the grand old game of baseball.

Baseball scouts will tell you that there are any number of minor league stars who are dismal failures in the big show, any number of crack amateur and semi-professional players who are huge jokes in the minors. In these same circles may be any number of players who do not appear to have half the ability of the stars, yet many of them make good in faster company right off the reel. Some never can get over the stage fright that generally comes with advancement, others who look like stars in the bushes show a decided lack of gray matter.

Baseball managers have decidedly different ideas as to the best time to break a youngster into fast company. Some baseball leaders much prefer the games in the late fall, while others look on the gentle spring as the ideal time to look over the new recruits. Naturally every youngster is differently constituted, has a different disposition, consequently some very funny incidents take place in the career of every youngster breaking into fast company.

There is the chesty youngster, who by his manner and action lets it be known that he intends to burn up the big show. Any youngster who announces himself takes unto himself a handicap before he gets under way. Such a stand always makes the veterans more or less sore, arouses their enmity, and invariably works to the detriment of the newcomer. Then there is the bashful, backward chap who is really afraid to assert himself, who is ever awed at the many stars on the same team with him. Quite often players of this sort fail to stick in fast company simply because they lack the initiative. Others soon get over this feature and show the ability they really possess. Then there is the willing, cheerful recruit who doesn't think the baseball world revolves about him as an axis, who realizes the veterans know more about the sport than he does, who is always willing to learn and anxious to be corrected. Any recruit with such a disposition is sure to get away with a good lead, for the older players are always anxious and willing to help him and make his job of sticking all the easier.

Gives Advice to Old Timers.

In commenting on chesty players, I recall the career of a young infielder who came to the American league a few seasons ago. The young man, I believe, is now working hard for a living. When he joined the club in question he soon made his presence felt by talk and manner; while on the ball field he had more to say than the other eight players, and the team in question did not lack ginger. His line of talk was not abusive, but very personal. He told pitchers like Addie Joss, Bill Donovan, Walter Johnson and quite a few other cracks that they wouldn't be in the league next year. He informed Ty Cobb that he was slower than a switch engine, and implored him to lay down a few bunts so he could throw him out a couple of city blocks. His entire conversation was on this order.

Strangely enough for about a week the young man with the large vocabulary stepped at a record-breaking clip. He hit the ball on the nose, fielded sensationally and stole base after base. It was was only a flash in the pan however.

Chesty Player Hits Toboggan.

I happened to be working with Jack Sheridan in the games in which the new recruit was showing such great form. During the first week of his success he paid little attention to the umpires. He appeared to be a wise young man in that respect. A trifle inflated, however, over the way he had been cutting up, he couldn't resist the temptation to say a few things to the umps.

Things began breaking badly for him one day, both in the field and at the bat, and when Jack Sheridan called him out on a strike that looked like a sure enough ball to the recruit, he turned around and with a look of utter disgust, remarked:

"Why the umpires up here are even blinder than they are in the bush."

It took Sheridan about two days to recover, but he had sweet revenge. The young man began to hit the toboggan, and Sheridan didn't fail to let him know about every bone-head play he pulled off or every error he made. One day before getting in bad with Jack, he told him that as yet the big league pitchers had not shown him anything that he hadn't seen in the minors. Every time he fanned after that, and he whiffed quite often, Jack never failed to ask him if he had discovered any new stuff.

Sure to be Disappointed.

A number of new players will be tried out in both the big leagues this year and in every minor organization. Some managers are banking strongly on the showing made by these men to round out their team. As is always the case there is sure to be a number of surprises and disappointments. Some players looked on as sure enough comers because of their past record, will blow up much to the disgust of their manager. Other comparative unknowns will play rings round some of the highly touted boys. The selecting of young blood is pretty much of a gamble, you can never tell.

Young players have helped build up the Boston and Philadelphia Americans, and added much strength to the champion Pirates. Many a manager is hoping against hope that he may have picked up an Adams, a Miller or a Collins in his bunch of recruits.

Baseball fans the country over will soon have all their doubts settled about the much touted recruits.

BALL GROUNDS ARE TO BE SOLD

Battle Ground of Highlanders Will Be Divided Into City Lots.

New York, March 12.—Announcement was made last night that the American league baseball park at Broadway and Sixteenth street, will be offered at once for private sale.

It is intended to cut it up into 150 city lots. The ground is valued at $1,700,000. The New York Americans will have grounds further north, beginning next year.

JOHNSON IN PULPIT.

Colored Prize Fighter Attraction at Minneapolis African Church.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, showed Thursday that he was quite familiar with some things other than the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

The negro fighter's ability as an expounder of the faith, especially as it is applicable to filial affection, is second only to the strength of his punch and his nimbleness in the squared circle.

Attired in a loose fitting sack suit of spring design, Jack Johnson stood beside the pulpit in the St. James African M. E. church and for thirty minutes explained to a large congregation of colored admirers that a prize fighter could be in the sporting game without being a saloon roustabout, a tough bruiser and a rowdy.

"If I want a glass of beer or whisky—which I never drink, I will go into a saloon and get it—or brandy rather—but when my moderate appetite is appeased, I drink no more. Many people think that it is up to a prize fighter to make the saloon his home, but such a theory is wrong when it is applied to modern ring masters. Because a man can't be a master of the ring and make the saloon his home.

"Gans, Nelson, Jeffries, Sharkey and several other fighters that I might mention have all been born of poor parents and all have provided excellently for them, sent their sisters and brothers through school and shown an interest in their family in other ways."

At this point a negro at the rear of the church interrupted with:

"Ain't it de truf—Lawd—ain't it de truf."

He was stilled by a deacon and the preaching prize fighter continued.

Rev. James Wharton, pastor, invoked a blessing on Johnson and the meeting broke up in favor of a chicken pie dinner in the basement of the church.

IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

WILL ERECT CLUB HOUSE

Rendezvous for Motorists Will Be Built on Whiteface River.

Owners Are Again Agitating for Early Work on the Roads.

On thirty acres of ground on the Whiteface river, Morton Miller and associates of Duluth, may, in the very near future, begin work on an automobile clubhouse to cost about $3,000.

The grounds selected are in section 9, township 54-17, and those who have visited the place are loud in praises of its natural beauty.

The clubhouse will be erected on a slight hill amid a most beautiful natural grove of oak, elm and maple. The river at this point is most beautiful, being one of the wildest places on the entire stream. The plot selected is bordered by the river on three sides. Ten acres of the ground has already been cleared and this will be used for tennis and other outside games.

The roads to and from the spot selected, are in very fair shape according to those who have made the trip and they lie through forests unsurpassed for natural beauty.

The river is one of the most popular of the streams about Duluth for fishing and the ride is of the right length to make motoring to and from the city a pleasure.

Plans are indefinite as yet, but an option has been secured on the land and it is quite possible that work on the grounds and clubhouse will be started very shortly. Duluthians who own cars have many times been heard to remark that about Duluth there is no place to go. The answer is that there are many places to go, but the roads are the great hindrance. This road is said to be in very fair shape and will afford easy motoring to and from the club. A number of Duluth people are interested in the project and they are all without exception, very enthusiastic over having a club within motoring distance.

Already the autoists are beginning to clamor for work on the roads about Duluth. They insist that the work of repairing roads should be started early in the spring. They say that the same talk of improving the roads is started each year and that those that have the roads in charge put it off by saying that there is a whole summer ahead in which to do the work. The autoists say that it drags along, is never done and the next spring the same thing happens all over again. Those who drive cars are particularly anxious concerning the roads between St. Paul and Duluth and Duluth and Eveleth. Mr. Calvin of the Calvin-Robb Lumber company is greatly interested in improving the roads on the range and Duluth people say that what he has done cannot be over-estimated. He is working especially for the improvement of the Vermilion road. The citizens of Biwabik are helping the good work along and they have become greatly enthused with the work for better highways. If this road were put in the best repair, Duluth autoists would have one of the best drives of 160 miles, in the entire county. The roads lead through the most beautiful parts of a great Minnesota forest and there are but few low spots. On this road the Duluth motorist would on leaving the lake, pass Eagle Lake, Biwabik, McKinley, Alba, Stevenson, Gilbert, Sparta, Eveleth, Virginia, Mountain Iron and Buhl, making the circuit and on coming back by way of the Miller Trunk road he would pass Cedar Island lake, St. Mary's lake, Half Moon lake, Anchor lake, Murphy lake, Elliott lake, Paleface river, Cloquet river, Pike lake and then back to the city. This is considered by automobilists one of the most beautiful drives in the north country. The road is said to be very good for the most part but there are several bad spots where it is nearly impossible to get through.

This spring again bobs up the question of the bridge over the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac. The Wrenshall farmers are working hard to get the road so that they could come with their produce to Duluth rather than to Superior and if built, the bridge would save six miles as the present route is that much longer.

While the snow of the past week put a crimp in the sales of automobiles, the Duluth dealers are not kicking. Bad weather always hinders sales to some extent and the dealers figured that owing to the fine weather and the great number of sales made during the week before, they could afford to rest up a bit.

Rhodes & McNamara during the week sold to Frank A. Carlson, the contractor, an E. M. F. This firm will, the first of the month, have a Flanders "20" demonstrating car. They have added to their line the Detroit electric.

• • •

The Mutual Auto company received eight Hudsons and one Overland car during the past week. Among the Hudsons was one of the new touring car types, and it is creating quite a sensation in Duluth. It is one of the popular priced touring cars, has a long wheel base, large wheels and a straight body line. It is, in fact, as neat and racy a looking car as ever came to Duluth.

• • •

William A. Ryan, the Western representative of the E. R. Thomas Motor company, spent a few days in the city the first of the week on his way home from the Minneapolis automobile show.

• • •

A. W. Hepworth expects to receive his new Chalmers 40 about the middle of next week.

• • •

W. S. Smith of the Fisk Rubber company has been in the city the last three or four days, talking the merits of Fisk tires.

• • •

Frank M. Hall of the Hartford Rubber Works was in the city the past week, calling on auto dealers in the interests of Hartford tires.

• • •

Mrs. A. D. Davidson has placed her order for a Model "K" 90-horse power Thomas Flyer, for delivery about April 1.

The Columbus Buggy company of Minneapolis has invaded the Duluth automobile field with the Colubus electric car. W. G. La Rue and James W. Norton have Columbia electrics and they are said to work well on the hills. This car is the real thing for the theater, shopping and town work, although the owners have found good going on very rough and uncertain roads.

• • •

W. F. Leggett has secured the agency for the National in this district. Mr. Leggett expects to have two demonstrating cars in Duluth by the first of the coming month.

Easy for Gotch.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 12.—Champion Frank Gotch threw the great Sandow in straight falls last night, the first by a hammerlock in 19 minutes 40 seconds and the second in 6 minutes, with a wrist hold and crotch hold.

REAL CAR AT LOW PRICE

Now Possible to Get First-Class Machine for $1,000.

It Embodies All Essential Features of Expensive Automobile.

Since the early days of the automobile industry there have been low-priced cars, but only recently has it been possible to build a car that embodied all the essential features of the high cost models in an automobile at a moderate price. Today $1,000 will buy a better car than it was possible to build at any price a very short time ago. Every department of this great industry has passed the experimental stage, which was a costly stage, both for the manufacturer and the user.

Lubrication, ignition and cooling systems in the car of yesterday were complicated, troublesome, expensive affairs, while today there are many oiling devices that are entirely automatic and positively requiring no other care by the operator than keeping the reservoir filled.

Ignition troubles are practically a thing of the past, owing to improved magnetos, which a few years ago were prohibitive on low-priced cars, owing to their high cost. The thermo syphon system of cooling has effectively disposed of all cooling troubles, and is being quite generally used.

Another and probably the principal reason that a high-grade car can be sold at a comparatively low price is the wonderfully increased demand and consequent increased production. In years past even the largest manufacturers numbered their season's output by hundreds. Today there are several concerns whose 1910 product will be 20,000 machines and over.

The problem of weight has only recently been solved. Short wheel base cars with hundreds of pounds of unnecessary weight in engine, body frame and running gear made the tire proposition alone an expensive item. Besides this, their capacity for consuming gasoline and oil was marvelous compared with the slight expense of operating the average low-priced car of today.

Many cars that were honestly built, both as regards material used and workmanship literally wear themselves out carrying around their own weight.

Nineteen hundred and ten marks a new era in the automobile industry. It is no longer necessary for a man to pay $4,000 or $5,000 to obtain speed and power or, what is more important, dependability and durability, as all of these qualities are found in the up-to-date low-priced car.

After a careful consideration of the competitive proposals submitted by a number of manufacturers for the privilege of furnishing the official pathfinding car for the 1910 Glidden tour, the contest board awarded this privilege to the Chalmers Motor company of Detroit.

The Chalmers car which is to lay out the route will commence its work some time during the month of April, as soon as the roads are in a fit condition to determine the most practical route.

A No-Decision Bout.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 12.—Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., and Jimmy Clabby of Milwaukee, fought a ten-round no-decision bout before the Badger Athletic club last night. Both men finished strong. The verdict of the experts at the ringside was that Gardner had a slight shade over his opponent. The men fought at catch weights, Gardner being apparently about fifteen pounds the heavier.

TO GATHER AT RED WING

"Minny" League Magnates Will Discuss Many Important Matters.

Managers Expected to Clash Over Guarantee and Schedule Dates.

A. W. Kuehnow and J. C. McGreevy, representing the Duluth club, and Vice President Sommers of the Superior club, as well as Secretary Cheveral, representing the Superior club, will leave this afternoon for Red Wing, where the meeting of the Minnesota-Wisconsin magnates will be held tomorrow morning.

There are several important matters coming before the magnates. There will be the matter of the guarantee, which at the present time is $50 for each game. Some of the southern end towns will attempt to have the guarantee put back to $35, while Superior and Duluth will fight for the figure fixed at the last annual league meeting, claiming that they have lost money upon the road when the attendance guarantee was at the old figure.

There will be the schedule and the usual attempt of some of the managers to get the most attractive holiday dates. It is probable that Duluth and Superior will both be given Decoration day games at home, the teams probably returning from the trip at that time. Last season Duluth and Superior split the Fourth of July date, and it is not known whether the Head of the Lakes teams will be at home upon Independence day the coming season.

It is understood that the team salary limit will come up at the meeting tomorrow. There was caustic comment over the violation of salary limits last season, and President Elliott may attempt to compel the managers to stay within the limit of $1,300 per month.

There is the length of the schedule also to be worked out. Last year the season started May 16. It is probable that there will be at least seven more games in the schedule the coming season, with the possibility that the season may be extended two weeks.

Reports from Rochester state that Jack Corrigan has signed Collet, a third-sacker from Rochester, N. Y., and Eardman, a pitcher from some strong semi-professional club. In addition to these two players, Corrigan has captured Schoonover, a catcher from the wilds of Nebraska. Sam Hasset has also affixed his name to a Rochester contract.

Though all the money necessary to secure the Rochester franchise had not been raised from last reports from that city, it is not expected that there will be any trouble in completing the necessary amount, $3,000.

Because of the fact that the Rochester ball park will be under course of construction this spring, the candidates for that league will report for spring practice at Faribault, April 15.

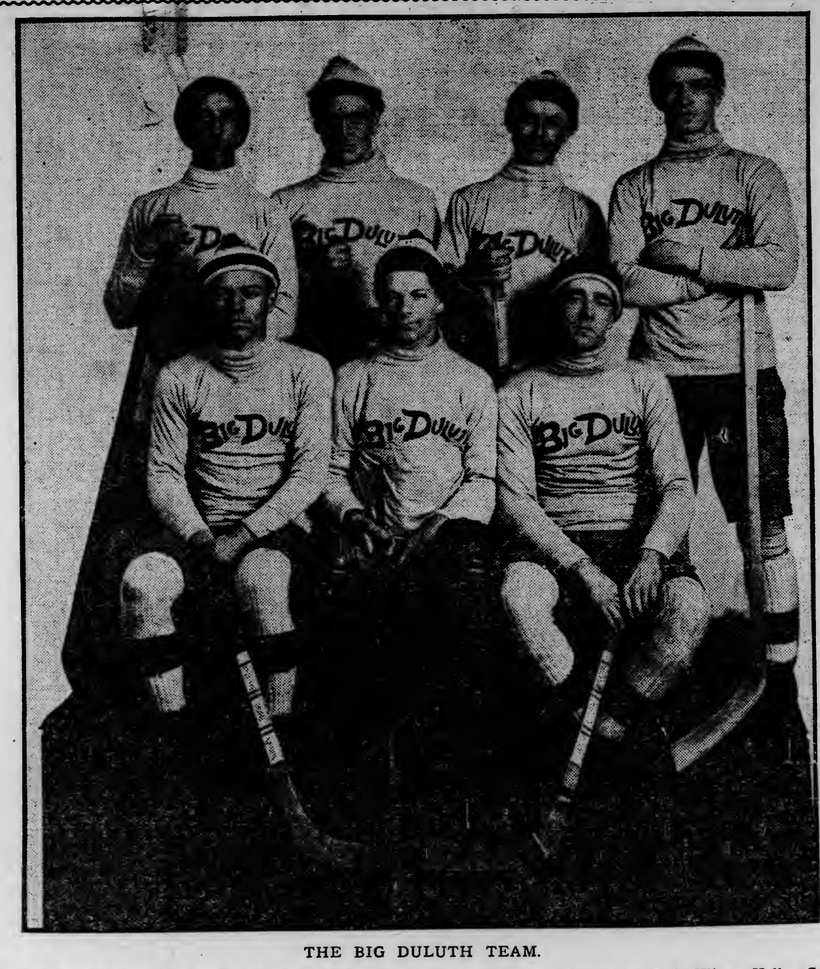
Young "Cy" Young, last season a stellar twirler in the Lake Shore league, has been signed by the La Crosse team. It is reported that he is the same "Cy" that pitched at the University of Wisconsin.

Fred Rice, a southpaw from Milwaukee, has also been signed by the La Crosse team. He played around Milwaukee last season and is said to be a comer. Charles Watson, premier performer on the burling hill last season for La Crosse, has written to President Rooney and stated that he is in the best of condition and ready for a hard season's work.

Barney Was Hitting It Up.

Daytona, Fla., March 12.—Barney Oldfield, driving his 200-horse power Benz in practice yesterday, covered a mile in twenty-eight seconds, being one-fifth of a second faster than the world's record, made by a steam car here four years ago.

BIG DULUTH TEAM WINS HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE CITY



THE BIG DULUTH TEAM.

From Left to Right, Top Row—Bartlett, Center; Earl Cummings, Rover; Ostergren, Left Wing; Kelly, Cover Point. Seated—Wharton, Right Wing; A. Woods, Goal; G. Wood. Cover Point.

Last night at the Duluth Curling club rink, the Big Duluth hockey team won the amateur championship of the city as well as the handsome trophy offered by the City Amateur Hockey league, by defeating the Adams team, 9 to 3, in the third and deciding game of the post-season championship series.

At the end of the first half the score was 4 to 0 in favor of the Big Duluths. The play in this period was close and there was no telling which team would win the game. But in the second half the Big Duluths came out and played the stronger game, running up five scores to the lonely puck caged by the Adams.

The ice was poor and the rink small, making brilliant playing out of the question. However, the game was one of the hardest played the present season. The heavy ice made skating difficult and most of the players were exhausted at the close of the game. Though somewhat outclassed last night the Adams never gave up for a minute and were playing as hard at the final whistle as when the first play was called.

Wharton scored first, giving the Big Duluths a lead for a minute when he secured the puck from a pass by Kelly, who was behind the Adams' goal, and shot it by Pearling. The Adams came back strong, A. Olson and H. Grenner shooting goals in quick succession.

The West end team enjoyed the lead for but a few seconds, as Bartlett and Cummings shot goals for the Big Duluths and the half closed with the score 4 to 2 in favor of the clothiers.

H. Grenner was the only player on the Adams team who seemed able to penetrate the Big Duluth's defense. He shot one of the goals in the first half and again in the second half shot the third and last goal for his team, carrying the puck half way down the ice and making a clever drive for the net.

Cummings scored first for the Big Duluths in the second period, getting the puck on a pass from Alder. He carried it down the ice and let fly for the net. The puck struck the top of Adams' goal, bounded in the air and fell into the net.

Bartlett scored soon after, dribbling the puck down the side lines, despite Al Olson's slashing, and shooting a goal from the side. Bartlett scored the next three goals in quick succession, the first on a pass from Wharton, the second in a hot scrimmage in front of the Adams' goal, and the third when he received the rubber from a pass from behind the Adams' goal.

The latter part of the game was characterized by some roughness, A. Olson being penalized for tripping, and Cummings and Grenner being sent to the side lines for illegal checking.

The game last night will probably be the last game of the present season, which has been a very successful one. The games have been well attended and there has been a high standard of play. Next season the officials of the City Hockey league believe that a team can be organized here that will be the equal of any of the other teams in the state.

The lineup and score:

Big Duluths.	Position.	Adams.
A. Woods	g	Pearling
G. Wood	p	E. Olson
E. Wood	c. p	Ed Nelson
Bartlett	c	A. Olson
Cummings	r	A. Grenner
Wharton	r. w	Alder
Ostergren	l. w	H. Grenner

Referee—Deetz; goal umpires—MacKenzie and S. Olson; timekeeper—Clarke; goals—A. Olson, 1, H. Grenner, 2, Bartlett 5, Wood 1, Wharton 1, Cummings 2.

LIVES WERE IN JEOPARDY

Arbitrators of Early Days Failed to Secure Adequate Protection.

The Spectators Were Umpire Baiters and Often Chased Them From Field.

Philadelphia, March 12.—Judging by the tenor of his letters to the umpires of his staff, President Lynch of the National league believes that much of the friction in that organization has been precipitated by the lack of cheerful acquiescence in the decisions of the arbitrators, and the disposition shown by some of the magnates to override them, and in some instances to assume the executive function by barring objectionable umpires from their grounds. Evidently Mr. Lynch, who was positively one of the very best umpires who ever handled an indicator, proposes to stand by his men ad see that they are in fact what they are supposed to be in theory, absolute bosses of the playing field during the progress of the game. And that is as it should be; for what is more unsportsmanlike than the spectacle of a baseball magnate refusing to sustain an umpire in the interpretation and the enforcement of the rules which he, the magnate, helped to formulate? Nothing could be more opposed to the very spirit which makes baseball what it is—the most popular outdoor sport ever devised.

But though their lot is not the happiest one, the umpires of today have it easy compared with the Daniels who almost took their lives in their hands twenty or thirty years ago. Except on some extraordinary occasions have umpires in recent years been subjected to anything more serious than the roasthigs of the spectators and now and then a little bit too vigorous kicking on the part of the players. Whether this decline in the number of scenes and demonstrations is due to the improvement in the caliber of the men who are now selected to render judgment, or to the stricter disciplining of the players and the greater enlightenment of the general baseball going public is a question which might be argued from two angles, but in the opinion of the Old Sport this desirable change for the better has been brought about by a combination of both reasons.

Old-Timers Umpire-Baiters.

There are hundreds and hundreds of cranks still on the sunny side of the 50-year line who will recall how diverting things were made for the umpires at the old grounds at Twenty-sixth and Jefferson streets in 1883, the year that Simmons, Mason and Sharsig's Athletics won the pennant. Without exception, the regular attendance in those days was the greatest bunch of umpire-baiters that ever happened, and they were ably abetted by the majority of the newspapers—that is, newspapers that paid any attention to baseball at all. It didn't seem to make much difference whether the Athletics won or lost either—the painstaking "ump" could feel pretty sure of getting his some time during the afternoon. John Campbell was the official scorer of the club at that time, and if we were to take John's word for it, the Athletics never lost a game—the umpire always robbed them. Nor did John have any patience with the reporter who might espouse the cause of the luckless arbitrator—he was a traitor to the city and should consider himself lucky that he was not ridden out of town. But, nevertheless, the Old Sport could not help thinking that the Athletics lost many of their games because the other fellows played the better ball, and said so. This led Harry Stovey, then captain of the Athletics, and possibly the greatest of all base-runners, to christen him the Deacon, and when Stovey, who is now a police officer in New Bedford, was called here about four years ago, he still called the Old Sport the Deacon.

There were two particularly good umpires in those days—umpires the excellence of whose work commanded the admiration of even the rabid Athletic rooters and the partisan newspaper writers, and who, if around today, would rank with the very best of the present arbitrators. And yet their methods were as far apart as the poles. "Honest John" Kelly, who had been a catcher, was the first umpire to assert the authority with which every umpire today is supposed to be clothed. He was boss of the field, and when he first exercised the authority he fairly took away the breath of the icemen, who used to root so loyally for the Athletics in general and for Harry Stovey in particular. They couldn't understand it, and when Kelly finally jumped over the paled fence right back of first base to get a spectator who had been unusually offensive, they were unhorsed. This reflected great credit upon Kelly's gameness, although at this time it would be considered the rankest kind of judgment.

But it had its effect. Kelly had little or no trouble here for the brief time he remained an umpire, and yet the players all declared that as many decisions got away from Kelly as any other umpire in the American association. The players rarely questioned them, and consequently both spectators and newspapers kept off him.

Gaffney Without a Peer.

The other umpire was John H. Gaffney, of whom it can be said, and with all due respect to the very capable men who have followed him, that he had very few equals and never a superior. In a less pugnacious way than Kelly he impressed upon both spectators and players that he was master of the situation, and without arousing the resentment of either.

He had a splendid voice, but even in that portion of the grounds which it could not penetrate the observing spectators could tell the decisions on balls and strikes. If it were a ball, Gaffney would indicate by his right hand whether it was too high or too low, too close or too wide. He always ran to the base at which he believed the decision would come up, and it was the fact that as a rule he was right over the play that stalled off a great deal of adverse criticism.

But Gaffney and Kelly were exceptional men, and since their time there has been a big improvement in the umpiring, taken as a whole, although a great deal of this improvement is due to the general adoption of the double system. In the first place, the financial inducements are greater—at least double, if not treble, what they were when Gaff and Kelly were in their prime. Then, slowly but surely, the spectators are becoming better educated on the finer points of the game, the players are under sterner discipline and very few papers make a practice of roasting the umpires. Under these conditions it is possible for the presidents of the big league to secure a high class and reliable set of men, who must become better with each succeeding year.

Bryant Defeats Johnson.

Last night at the Lincoln park pavilion Frank Bryant, champion Head of the Lakes roller skater, defeated Cal Johnson in a mile race. Bryant passed Johnson in the third lap and again passed him in the seventeenth lap. Bryant skated nineteen laps in 2:53 and Johnson skated eighteen laps in 3:03. The track is eighteen laps to the mile, Bryant giving Johnson a handicap. Bryant will meet Frank Kenid of St. Paul. He challenges any skater in the Northwest, from a mile to five.

CHAMPION LONG DISTANCE SWIMMER OF THE WORLD

W. J. GLOVER, JR., AND S. STAKSBERG.

William J. Glover, the Baltimore distance swimmer, is out with a challenge to any one to meet him for a purse of from $1,000 to $10,000. Next summer he expects to swim from Charlestown bridge to Boston light. One of his most notable feats was his swim of twenty-six miles from Tolchester to River View park, near Baltimore and he also swam from Flat Rock to Lewiston in the lower rapids of Niagara river, a distance of nearly five miles, a feat never before accomplished and which was extremely dangerous. Glover claims to be the champion long distance swimmer of the world.

SEASON IS ALL BUT OVER

Manley-McLennan Event Remains Unfinished at Duluth Curling Club.

WINNERS OF THE EVENTS.

Presidents—William Dinham.
St. Louis—William Dinham.
Vice Presidents—Charles Brewer.
Bagley—James McLennan.
Herald—Stephen Jones.

The curling season is now all but over. The Manley-McLennan event remains unfinished, which is very unsatisfactory to a great number of the members of the Duluth rink.

In this event there are still four or five squads to be finished, and as the weather has been very discouraging, hope has about been given up. Stillman, Oldham and Chrudinsky are squad winners. Dinham and Hall have to play off for the honors of Squad 4 and Pugh, Hurdon, Smith and Jamar are still in the running.

It is the first time in years that all the events have not been finished. There were many interruptions this season and to these the blame is laid by the majority of the admirers of the Scotch game.

Outside the unfinished event the season at the rink of the Duluth Curling club, the great granite game has prospered. There are many new enthusiasts and they have done their part to help up the interest.

The bonspiel was very successful in every way. Duluth men won much jewelry and the other curlers at the Head of the Lakes rallied in great shape and made the 1910 event one long to be remembered.

William Dinham this year won out in two events and had a chance at the third, the Manley which remains unfinished. Walter Hall of the local club is the champion curler of the city. This was decided at the city bonspiel held some time ago. The Duluth men have this year visited more, entertained more and enjoyed the game to a greater extent than ever before. The season just closed is claimed by the curlers to have been the best ever experienced at the Head of the Lakes.

Many novel events have been run off and in these events the West Duluth and Superior men have contributed greatly to their success. At the beginning of the year, at the opening banquet, in fact, it was decided to spend more time visiting and entertaining and to get better acquainted with the other Head of the Lakes curlers, and this resolution was carried out.

Before next year a new rink will be erected. There is much dissatisfaction with the old building and a strenuous effort will be made to have the new structure ready for the beginning of the season next winter.

It has been a great season and with the exception of the slight dissatisfaction over the unfinishing of the Manley-McLennan event, all agree that it is the best ever.

DULUTH IS DEFEATED

High School Boys Are Put Out of Running at Madison.

Madison, Wis., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sterling, Ill., defeated the Central high school basket ball team of Duluth yesterday by the score of 18 to 15, in one of the best games played during the tournament.

Capt. Boyle of the Duluth team played a great game and every member of the Northern team distinguished himself at some part of the contest.

Duluth won the morning game from Freeport, Ill., winning by the score of 18 to 13.

The final struggle for the champion ship honors of the tournament lies between Appleton, Wis., and Sterling, Ill., the team that nosed Duluth out of the finals.

Appleton defeated La Crosse by the score of 27 to 14, Ottumwa defeated Detroit by the score of 29 to 23, while Oconto defeated Waupaca 29 to 20 and Waukesha took Marquette into camp by the tune of 35 to 10.

DULUTH "Y" WINS GAME

St. Paul Association Team Defeated By Score of 26 to 19.

Teams Very Evenly Matched St. Paul Losing on Fouls.

A surprise was sprung in basket ball circles last night, when the strong S. Paul Y. M. C. A. basket ball team went down to defeat before the Duluth Y. M. C. A. quint by the score of 28 to 19.

There was little difference in the form shown by the two teams, the winning of the game by the local team resulting from the large floor, to which the Duluth players are used, and to the fact that St. Paul has evidently been playing under a much more tolerant interpretation of the rules. Time after time the St. Paul players were penalized for holding, fourteen penalties being called and ten baskets resulting from these penalties. The St. Paul players protested, but to no avail.

McLean threw ten baskets in fourteen attempts, while each team had the same number of baskets from the field. There was little to choose between the two teams in the general play. Both teams were fast and exhibited good team work.

Peters for Duluth threw five baskets from the field, O'Donnell getting two and McLean the other. For St. Paul, Wolff secured two from the field, Meyers two, Meecham two and Davidson two.

The score at the end of the first half was 10 to 9 in favor of the local association team, Duluth playing somewhat the faster game in the second half.

The lineup:

St. Paul		Duluth
Wolff	f	O'Donnell
Danz	f	Peters
Meyers	c	Forgette
Meecham	g	McLean
Davidson	g	Slack

Goals from field—Peters 5, O'Donnell 2, McLean 1, Wolff 2, Meyers 2, Meecham 2, Davidson 2; goals from fouls—McLean 10 out of 14, Davidson 3 out of 7.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

A Burlesque Show Will Hold the Boards Sunday and Monday—Mischa Elman Coming for One Night.

If the press agent can be believed theatergoers who are fond of a good hearty laugh will have their appetites satisfied when "Follies of the Day," the burlesque which enjoyed a long prosperous run in New York, plays its engagement here Sunday and Monday with a matinee Sunday.

There are times when the observing one in the audience is almost led to believe that there is a plot, but just when the moment is right for some one to discover the missing papers, or the grafting politician to be caught redhanded, "zoom-zoom" sounds the bass riddles, and a regiment of girls floats upon the stage.

The two settings of the piece show a reproduction of the Central park plaza at Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, and the famous boardwalk at Atlantic City. The costuming is rich, and the scenic production is an elaborate one. Besides the long list of clever principals there is a chorus of attractive show girls and a collection of "ponies" who are regular dynamos, when executing the many difficult dancing numbers in the show.

Gertrude Hayes is the star comedienne, Charles Nevins, a light comedian of the George M. Cohan type, dances and sings. John West plays the part of The Commoner from Lincoln, Neb., and his makeup and imitation of familiar characteristics of William J. Bryan are said to be in the scream class. John Williams plays a boss politician, and Harry Lester Mason plays the part of Louis Mann running for congress. Larry McCale plays an Irish part and Miss Lydia Arnold, a manicure girl. Miss Ida Sturgiss appears in the role of a society woman.

There are a series of burlesques and imitations introduced in the last act, including a copy of Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian, by Sandy McGregor, who is himself a Scotchman. There is a travesty on David Belasco's production, "The Easiest Way," entitled "The Cheesiest Way." Other burlesques are on "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which Mrs. Leslie Carter is imitated and she is supposed to play the part of little Eva. Another is one on "Railroad Jack," where the hero is supposed to be lying across the railroad tracks and the toy engine dashes madly across the stage as the heroine drags the hero away in time to let the engine pass by. One of the dancing specialties introduced after this scene is "The Scarecrow Dance," done by Nevins and Arnold, who were a big hit in New York.

The book and lyrics were written and staged by Barney Gerard and the music was composed by Albert Von Tilzer, and there are said to be at least a half dozen songs that will be whistled before the week is over, among them being: "You're Just the Sort of a Girl for a Boy Like Me," "Roll Me Out on the Boardwalk," "Honest, You're the Only One for Me," "Rosa Rosetta," "Would You Like to Learn to Like Me," "My Banjo Girl" and "Take Me Up in an Aeroplane."

The Stock Company.

The Lyceum management announces the engagement of the Franklin Stock company for ten days beginning Thursday, March 17. Since its reorganization the Franklin Stock company is one of the best now playing this territory. Special scenery is used for every play and the Lyceum scenic studio is kept busy turning out special settings. Among the plays to be presented are "For Home and Honor," "Slaves of the Orient," "A Gentleman Burglar," "Tracey, the Outlaw," "Girl of the Streets," "Thelma," "The Girl in Command," "Florida," "The Two Orphans" and "Under Two Flags."

For the opening play the company will offer the drama "For Home and Honor."

For this engagement the popular scale of prices will prevail and matinees will be played on Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday, at which the prices will be only 10 and 25 cents.

Mischa Elman Coming.

"The heartstrings of an overflowing audience throbbed in the Manhattan opera house as Mischa Elman played on his violin," said the New York World of Dec. 21, 1908. "A wonderful player and a genius, all have hailed him. Perhaps he never played with more inspiration and thrilling power than he did last night. Mr. Hammerstein in adding Elman to his Sunday night concerts gained a great attraction."

That Elman's coming appearance here on March 15, at the Lyceum is eagerly anticipated is evinced in the numerous requests received by the Lyceum for Elman to play some of the selections which have captivated New Yorkers.

Lyceum Notes.

"The Virginian" will return to the Lyceum theater in a few weeks. The usual company and equipment will be seen during the forthcoming production of this thrilling play of Western life.

In spite of the reports of bad theatrical business in general throughout the country, Al. H. Wilson, the German dialect comedian, appears to be doing a "land office" business with his new musical play, "Metz in Ireland." Mr. Wilson's success is probably due to the novelty of his production, which is said to be altogether different from previous Wilson plays. For "Metz In Ireland," Mr. Wilson has written several new songs, among which are "Love Thoughts," "Erin's Isle," "The Banshee," "The Nightingale Song," and "Mixed German."

In the production of the new comic opera "The Golden Butterfly," music lovers are promised an event of more than ordinary interest as it will mark the first appearance here in several seasons of the popular prima donna, Grace Van Studdiford, who is probably the greatest and most popular singer now appearing on the American light opera stage. Oscar Hammerstein is said to have offered her $1,000 a week to appear with his company at the Manhattan opera house. Miss Van Studdiford declined with thanks Mr. Hammerstein's offer. She much prefers to remain in comic opera, as this is the line of work she first took up after she graduated from college and will not forsake it now.

Grace George has selected as her new play to follow "Divorcons" a three-act comedy written by Thompson Buchanan, a young New York newspaper man, entitled "A Woman's Way." It will be seen here shortly.

The play might be entitled a comedy of common sense, showing how a young woman with a strong sense of humor and the firm belief in the good of human nature, wins back her husband after she has apparently lost him to a rich and fascinating widow. The novelty of the play comes in its treatment of the old divorce question. Instead of tears and recrimination, Marion Stanton when she finds through the expose of a sensational automobile accident that she has apparently lost her husband, takes the original and common sense view of it. "She is a woman—and I am a woman—you're a man. If I cannot hold you, I don't want you. We will invite her here and see."

The second and third acts deal with what happens in the Stanton home when Mrs. Blakemore, the rich young widow, arrives as a guest of the wronged woman. Marion invites both her family and her husband's to meet the widow, assuming that she will probably succeed as Stanton's second wife. The novelty of having the other woman thrown at his head quite overcomes the husband. He finds his wife becoming more and more attractive and the widow less attractive by contrast. The other men with whom the gay widow has had affairs more or less important further complicate the situation. The whole battle between the woman for the possession of the man is fought out without any of the other women present discovering what has happened. In the end Marion completely wins back her husband's love and he is only too glad to sue for pardon. One of the novelties of the play is the scene where Stanton after his sensational automobile accident in which the widow figured, is besieged in his house by fifty newspaper reporters eager to get the story. As the author of the piece has been for a number of years a New York reporter, the newspaper business and interviews are particularly true to life.

AT THE BIJOU

Most Famous of All Acrobats, Rice and Prevost, Will be the Feature Attraction in the Vaudeville Bill Commencing Monday Afternoon.

Another bill of excellent vaudeville will open at the Bijou Monday. The shows presented at the popular vaudeville theater so far this season have been of the highest standard, and are being thoroughly appreciated by the big crowds that attend each performance.

Heading the list Monday will be Rice and Prevost, who are two of the most famous of American acrobats. The act is out of the ordinary and is claimed to be without an equal. Howard Prevost is a remarkable acrobat, in fact, it is claimed he has not a peer in the world as a sensational gymnast, while Jimmie Rice supplies the comedy creations. The act has been featured in every vaudeville theater in America and Europe, and has been starred with the Barnum show, Ringling Bros., and the New York and London Hippodromes. The act is called "Bumpity Bumps," and is rightly named.

Harry Klein and Pearl Klifton are presenting in vaudeville this season a decided novelty in the singing and dancing line, "A Dummy's Holiday." The characters are a wax clothing figure and the living bust of a milliner's hat model in a nearby window. Intermingled with much comedy are some good songs and some very clever dancing, making the act a very entertaining novelty that has not a weak spot in it from start to finish.

A vocal offering that should make a big hit will be Mr. and Mrs. John W. Longworth, who are singers of considerable note. Both have been opera stars, and their vaudeville skit is one of their best efforts. It gives both an opportunity to be heard at their best, and the program they present is a delightful offering to those who enjoy good singing.

The greatest of all protean violinists, Emile Chevriel, who is well known in France, will be a welcome attraction. Mr. Chevriel first came to America two years ago, when he toured this country, playing at the Bijou at that time. Since then he has been in Europe, where he played all the leading music halls and is now making his second American tour. Besides being an exceptionally good musician, he is also a clever comedian.

One of the bright spots of the week's program will be Smith and Arado, in their unique novelty, "Just For Fun," in which they introduce singing, dancing, and some original comedy that is not shelf-worn.

Earl Morse will sing his latest illustrated song success.

The moving pictures will be up to the usual good standard and will conclude an exceptionally good program. Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and performances every night at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday at 2:30, and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"A SON OF THE PEOPLE," BY A DANISH DRAMATIST, AT THE NEW THEATER—AN EXPERIMENTAL DRAMA—THE COMING OF A GERMAN STAR.

New York, March 12.—The New theater has filled a gap in its schedule of productions by admitting John Mason and his own company in "A Son of the People." The play scheduled for this premiere night was Maeterlinck's "Sister Beatrice," which could not be got ready in time and is now scheduled for March 14, when it will be staged together with the fourth act of Ibsen's drama, "Brand."

Incidentally let me mention that "The Winter's Tale" is announced at this playhouse for March 28, "with such scenic effects as were used in Shakespeare's day, according to the latest historical researches." On Monday night, April 11, we are to see Rene Fauchois' "Beethoven," which created a genuine stir in Paris last season.

But to return to our mutton.

"A Son of the People" is S. I. Szinnyey's translation through the German of "A Revolutionary Wedding," by the Danish author, Sophus Michaelis. Under that title it was produced early this season at the Irving Place theater. Why the name was changed is not apparent. The subject is far better described under its original title.

It deals with the second year of the French revolution, and the scene is the salon of Mlle. Alaine de L'Estoile, a beautiful young aristocrat, who has suffered the fury of the revolution to burst into flame all around her old Chateau Trionville, near Conde, without having been molested. In youth she was betrothed to Ernest des Tressalles, an aristocratic young emigre, and the play opens with her marriage.

The elementary problem is the contrast of character in two men; the courage of the aristocrat compared with that of the commoner, Marc Arron, a soldier in command of a detachment of Republican troops that scoops down on the chateau ust as Alaine and Ernest are sitting down to their wedding feast. Ernest, taken prisoner and summarily sentenced to death by Montaloupe, a commissioner of the Republican tribunal of justice, finds a sympathetic advocate in Marc Arron. At the latter's request Ernest's execution is postponed until o'clock the next morning, that the young aristocrat may have his wife to himself in the meantime. It is apparent that in Arron the author meant to draw the rich bonhomie of the French temperament.

The interim proves Ernest to be an arch coward. He can think only of his death. Every noise gives him a start. His wife's smiles are wasted upon him. From a man of princely splendor, in his white uniform, he dwindles into a dishevled ragamuffin, and from a hero to a coward, even in the eyes of the lovely Alaine.

His abject debasement at last fills her with pity and disgust.

"You shall be saved!" she says. "How?" That is her affair.

The gruff, military Arron has a tender heart. The touch of her white hand thrills him to the core. Why has she given him her white hand? Her significant look speaks more eloquently her design than her words. He understands. Arron exchanges clothes and with Ernest and helps him to escape through the guards that surround the chateau and fill the park. That's what her white hand and her look has done. He must answer for it in the morning, but the price is not too high for a chivalrous Frenchman.

Arron's chavalry goes farther. He does not exact the price. At first Alaine abhors him and repudiates her bargain. He laughs lightly at her invectives and fear. Ensconed in an armchair and wrapped in his great military coat, he bids her retire. Her appraisement of the man changes as she overhears a dialogue between Arron and the black-browed commissioner, Montaloupe, whom he has summoned in the night. She knows now that this man is doomed to die in the morning and has trifled away his life for no more than the pressure of her hand and the desire to please her. Montaloupe puts the estimate upon the man when he says that he has frittered away the bato of a marshal of France.

Before he dies he has the rupture of Alaine's love. It is 5 o'clock in the morning, and now he would give anything to live. Even the cruel Montaloupe attempts to save him, but in vain. The consciousness of a duty to be performed keys up the soldier's nerve. He has been a traitor to the republic in facilitating the escape of an aristocrat, and he meets death bravely on the open balcony, penetrated by the bullets of his own soldiers.

This is a rather good play, but it has suffered in the adaption. Whole passages of necessary speech have been cut out, and the piece has been reduced to a skeleton of action and situations which are strong, but now appear more or less forced. Nevertheless it held the interest from act to act and from incident to incident without however, scoring the unqualified success that it proved in almost every city in Europe.

In the first place, John Mason, who played the gallant officer, is hardly young enough for the heroic lover. He played excellently well, but without being able to convey the proper impression of youth in its most romantic stage, and his was really the most serious phase of the performance. His excellent technique could not supply the illusion of adventurous knight errantry.

Katherine Kaelred played Alaine. Those who saw Robert Hilliard in "A Fool There Was," will remember her graphic performance as the adventuress in that play. Here she appeared in an opposite line of character, and proved her mettle. She was both tender and lovable, so long as she did not attempt to portray the extreme emotional scenes with a rasping tendency toward ranting. George Fawcett gave a capital performance of the part of Montaloup, and Walter Hale was Ernest.

At the Hackett, "The Turning Point," by Preston Gibson, one of the millionaire set, is on view. The author is accused of having made free with Oscar Wilde's epigrams in two of the Englishman's plays, and he replied to his critics from the stage, frankly admitting that he borrowed a few of the aesthete's brilliant sallies, but not enough to injure Wilde.

At the New York theater the bill is "Bright Eyes," which has been seen in Washington and other cities. It is by the same authors as "Three Twins," and is worked over by Charles Dickson, as in that case, from one of his former farces, "Mistakes Will Happen." Cecil Lean and Florence Holbrook are featured. The piece met with only a mild welcome.

The Hackett theater has been the home of experimental dramatics practically all this season. The compiler can make up a pretty list of plays that have been tried out there and found wanting since the theatrical year began.

The latest is Mr. and Mrs. Daventry," in which Constance Crawley made her Broadway debut last week. In the program this play was announced as Oscar Wilde's last play. But the day after the first performance Miss Elizabeth Marbury, the play-agent, made it known that the piece is the work of Frank Harris, a London newspaper man, in whose interests she is acting.

This announcement was not a great surprise to those who saw the play. The only question was, how came Oscar Wilde's name to be attached to its authorship? One or two allusions and the theme itself suggested the once famous apostle of the esthetic, who had written "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "Lady Windemere's Fan." But the bulk of the work was obviously the handiwork of some one else, or Wilde had dismally degenerated in his mentality when he wrote it.

The explanation came about in a round-about way. Oscar Wilde had sketched the scenario of the play while still in Reading jail. The idea had been suggested to him by an actor. After his release from prison, seeing no prospects of meeting with any encouragement for a play from his pen, he sold the scenario to Frank Harris, and Harris developed it into a four-act domestic tragedy, which Mrs. Patrick Campbell performed in London about eight years ago with little success.

Constance Crawley is a fairly good actress. She has method and feeling, but she is appallingly scrawny and thin, and she takes no pains to hide her angles. Hence as the heroine of this drama is supposed to be a beautiful woman, over whom two men fall to fighting, she made anything but a first-class impression, and through her bad dressing—rich and elaborate it was—she vitiated the effect of her excellent dramatic work in the lighter as well as the serious scenes of the play. And as a natural result the critics fell foul of her and said many unkind, yes, heartbreaking, things about her.

The play is one of those ultra-bold things, and is directed against the English anti-divorce laws. In England a woman must have two grounds for divorce—infidelity and nonsupport. A man may be notoriously unfaithful to his wife, as long as he supports her she has no legal resourse in the divorce court. The man, on the other hand, can gain a divorce on the ground of infidelity without anything else.

In this case Daventry is surprised by his wife in the act of making love to Lady Langham. That is, she witnesses one of the most ardent scenes ever presented on the stage between her husband and her guest. Neither of the parties to the tete-a-tete, of course, is aware of the wife's presence. She is inadvertently concealed behind a screen in her boudoir. The philanderings of the faithless husband are interrupted by a knock on the chamber door. The knocker is Sir George Langham, and the twain are trapped, as it were.

At this critical juncture Mrs. Daventry steps out from behind the screen, to the amazement of her husband and his paramour, and, with sweeping disdain of both, opens the door, admits Sir Charles and adroitly allays his suspicions and soothes his ire.

She leaves her husband and we find her drawn almost irresistibly into the companionship of Ashurst, who played the part of the husband's friend and Mrs. Daventry's respectful admirer in their former lives. He now becomes her lover. The law opposes her divorce. Daventry, moreover, refuses to consent to that. He wants her, now that she is beyond his reach. It is the wife who refuses to even see him again, and casts her fortunes with her lover.

In the last act she and Ashurst are living in Nice. A duel is about to be fought between Daventry and Ashurst, but before the meeting the husband forces his way into his wife's presence. He is in a quarrelsome mood, but is so overwhelmed by her sight that he offers to forgive her and take her home. Again she refuses, and as he is about to go out in order to meet Ashurst on the field of honor, unmoved by her entreaties, she swoons away with the statement that if he kills Ashurst he will kill the father of her unborn child.

Daventry has one impulse of decency left. He shoots himself. Mrs. Daventry and Ashurst can now get married, there the curtain falls.

This is the plot of the play, which, in Wilde's hands, no doubt would have attained a significance that had made it tolerable, whereas Mr. Harris succeeded only in creating a nasty taste in the mouths of the audience. He lacks the skill to treat the theme with artistic decorousness.

The company, too, left a good deal to be wished for. It did nothing to fill in the half-tones and to infuse blood into the veins of the theatrical fabric. As Daventry, appeared Arthur Maude, and as Ashurst, Erwin August. Mabel Cameron was capital as Lady Langham, and Nina Herbert was good as Lady Hilingdon, friend of Mrs. Daventry, as was Grace Parker in a small role, and Kate McLaurin.

"Mesalliance; or, A Debate in a Sitting," Bernard Shaw's latest play, so-called, presents his usual wealth of argument in dialogue, but little action.

The scene is in the house of a rich linen merchant, whose peccadilloes are made the subject of conversation, for although he loves his elderly wife he cannot resist a pretty woman. So when a female acrobat descends in his garden in an aeroplane he promptly becomes a victim of her charms.

His daughter falls in love with the other aeroplane passenger, who is an athletic young man. As she is engaged to the neurasthenic son of a nobleman complications ensue which provide all the heterogeneous characters with opportunities to talk at great length and to give vent to Shaw's peculiar but entertaining theories. The girl marries the man of her choice after asking her father to "buy the brute."

Herny Bataille has scored in a new play entitled "La Vierge Folle," produced at the Gymnase, Paris, a fortnight ago. It is regarded as a masterpiece. The theme is that of the heroic devotion and martrydom of a wife, whose husband, a prominent attorney, has made a victim of a young girl of 18. The wife disdains to avail herself of legal methods to redress her wrongs, and so impresses the young girl that she shoots herself dead. An intensely tragic situation is created, and notwithstanding its unpleasant theme the play abounds with true poetic feeling and refined sentiments. The Roman Catholic caurch and free thought questions are made the subject of a magnicently contested argument. The piece created a sensation. Bertha Baby distinguished herself as the wife and Mona Delza as the young girl.

* * *

From all accounts Maugham's latest play, "The Tenth Man," will not prove the success of its forerunners. It was produced last week in London with Arthur Bourchier in the leading part, that of a rascally financier and member of porliament, who ultimately commits suicide to escape his financial troubles. The actor was interesting, but the first two acts are desribed as talky.

* * *

Forbes-Robertson and George C. Tyler signed contracts last week under the terms of which Mrs. Robertson (Gertrude Elliott is to come nuder the management of Liebler & Co. and be starred in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow." At the expiration of her season in Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's play she will appear in a new production. Miss Elliott has been absent from the stage for a year, before which time she co-starred with her husband in London in a number of successes. At the conclusion of Miss Elliott's contract with Liebler & Co., she will rejoin Mr. Robertson in a London production. It is purposed to have Miss Elliott open in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" in London immediately. In the autumn will come Miss Elliott's debut as a star before a New York audience. The Burnett play will be shown also in a few of the large cities outside New York during the season of 1910-1911.

This country is not the only one complaining about the many failures among the new productions this season. Reports from London also state that this is the worst season the British capital has known in years. Many of the prominent actor-managers are at a loss how to proceed, and the discovery of new dramatists is being anxiously awaited.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, who announced their retirement from the stage, have put that announcement into effect and have said they will never again appear. In a letter Mr. Kendal wrote: "It is our desire to leave the profession as quietly and unobtrusively as we have all our lives endeavored to follow it." In an address to a large meeting of ladies in Liverpool recently, Mrs. Kendal made an interesting revelation regarding her husband and herself and their unbroken professional association. She said that prior to their marriage her father gave his consent to it on what was a firm understanding that they should always act together—a condition of things which, she believed, still found favor with many play-goers.

Bertha Galland, who has just brought her tour in "The Return to Eve" to a close, has accepted for early production a new play by an American author.

HOLLYHOCK RAILWAY FLOWER.

London Daily Mail: That supreme cottage flower the hollyhock, which has won a score of local and poetic names in the last 400 years, is now the chief glory of the biggest as of the smallest gardens. The zeal for the rough border has brought back the hollyhock, which comes to perfection when the gush of color is over. Even florists have recently been taking it in hand with great success, and one can have hollyhocks of lemon and of many variegations. It can be yellow, of every shade of red and pink had single or as thick with petals as a cabbage rose.

Some years ago the flower was almost extinguished by a peculiar disease which always threatens it, but this year has been favorable, and some gardeners say they have kept the disease at bay by getting rid of the mallow which is said to be the host of the disease spores.

For some reason the hollyhock grows supremely well by railways. Fine six-foot plants grow in little headlands between the metals just outside Victoria station, London. But the paradise of the flower is the embankment along the Midland railway just before it escapes into the country.

Just when the incoming traveler expects the banks to be particularly grim and barren they are crowned for nearly a mile on end with hollyhocks of every conceivable color, standing straight and tall like uniformed sentinels. The spectacle is a wonderful object lesson of what might be done with the acres of waste railway banks by expert gardeners.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

BAD BLOOD OVER TRIAL

Attorney and Expert Witness Nearly Mix in Moline Murder Trial.

State Rebutting Evidence Says Accused Was Crazy When He Killed Father.

Rugby, N. D., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rebuttal evidence by the state was introduced at the opening of the session of the district court this morning in the case of Charles Moline, accused of killing his father. The defense, which has had several days, rested yesterday afternoon, and the state at once took up the rebuttal.

About seven farmers, neighbors of the Moline family, testified for the state yesterday afternoon that they believed Moline was sane. They all said that they knew the defendant very well, and had never been given occasion to believe that he was insane.

For the defense yesterday Dr. C. W. Collinson was the most important witness. He declared that, in his opinion, Moline was clearly insane now, as well as at the time of the homicide.

An interesting incident of the trial occurred when Attorney M. A. Christianson, for the state, and the witness, Dr. Collinson, became involved in an argument which resulted in the lie being passed. The two men met on the street afterwards and came very nearly mixing things.

WOULD EXTEND LICENSE SCOPE

Deerwood Village Board Asked to License "Soft" Drinking Places.

Deerwood, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A petition is being circulated here asking that the village council enforce a license of not less than $500 per annum on all those selling "malt" or so-called soft drinks, and that those houses be obliged to close their establishments at 11 o'clock each night; also that they shall be obliged to remain closed throughout Sunday. The petition also asks that a license be imposed upon billiard and pool tables amounting to not less than $10 per annum for each table in drinking places. Beware of Colds Boards of Health Issue Warning Against Danger of Present Season. Thousands of Lives Sacrificed.

The board of health has the danger sign out in big letters. Now is the time the doctor is kept busy, and the undertaker reaps his harvest from those who do not heed the warning. It's the cough or cold we contract now that lingers throughout the year running down the system and often ending in death. The board of health and best medical authorities state positively that the deaths from these causes are absolutely unnecessary.

In view of the board of health's warning, then, we urge our readers to take "the stitch in time." A remedy like Salubrin, the great Swedish antiseptic, will absolutely prevent danger from our changeable climate.

Salubrin will have prompt effect on all diseases of the bronchial tubes and lungs. Indeed so remarkable are the benefits of Salubrin that the government of Sweden has removed all taxes on its manufacture, so that it might be universally used. The wonderful effects of Salubrin on all coughs and colds, as well as its powerful benefits in cases of weak lungs and catarrh of the throat, nose and lungs, are now creating as great a sensation in scientific circles in this country as they have already done in Sweden.

Salubrin sells for 50 cents per bottle, and every first-class druggist is prepared to furnish it for home or professional use.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

GOOD RESULTS AT CORDOVA

Second Drill Hole on Eureka Group in Commercial Ore—Warrior Shipments Make Excellent Average —Live Oak Ready for Greater Things.

Globe, Ariz., March 12.—The churn drill work being conducted by the Cordova Copper company, on the Eureka group of claims, located in the Miami portion of the Globe district, is obtaining gratifying results. Hole No. 2 which is now being sunk at a point 500 feet east of Hole No. 1, struck copper sulphide at a depth of sixty-five feet and passed into material of commercial grade at a depth of 125 feet. This hole is now 495 feet deep, and at this distance from the surface is still in ore, although, as is often the case in the development of low-grade bodies, the copper contents of the ore at the various depths has not been uniform, but has fluctuated above and below commercial value.

The shipments of ore from the Warrior mine for the month of February averaged over 100 tons daily, and the copper content of the mine's product averaged about 10 per cent. All of this ore was sent to the El Paso smelter. Practically all the ore from which the shipments are made up is being mined from the 250 and 300-foot levels. The chief scene of advance work at the Warrior mine is on and above the 300-foot level, where the drift being driven west is in ore of high enough grade to make it available for shipment. Raises Nos. 38 and 40, put up from the west drift, are in ore of good commercial grade. The development work during the month of February at the Warrior mine has been very satisfactory to the management. The churn drill belonging to the Warrior Development company is working at its second location, on the Montgomery claim. The present depth of the second drill hole is 115 feet and is still in the dacite which forms the overburden of the Warrior property.

The Live Oak Development company is on the eve of beginning operations on a considerably larger scale than has been possible in the past. In the more extensive development work being contemplated, the ten-drill air compressor now being installed at the portal of the sulphide adit and a Star churn drill already ordered will be notable factors. The air compressor is practically in readiness to operate machine drills at once, and the churn drill is expected to arrive on the ground by April 1. According to present plans, four air drills will be used in development work for the present and others will be added from time to time as the number of working faces is increased. The four drifts being driven westward from the drift No. 306 are 328, 255, 166 and 87 feet long respectively. All of these drifts are in sulphide copper ore of good grade, the average value shown by the assays during the past week of advance work being 2.5 per cent copper. Raises Nos. 1 and 2 measure 111 feet and 23 feet respectively. Both of these raises are in ore, but work on them was discontinued during the past week and will be resumed again as soon as the machine drills are ready for use.

NEW EQUIPMENT IS PLANNED

Second Reverberatory Furnace Being Installed at Green Cananea—Five Boilers Will be Added and Other Improvements Are Contemplated.

Cananea, Mex., March 12.—An additional reverberatory furnace, the same size and pattern as the one now in use, will soon be installed at the smelter of the Greene-Cananea company. Work on the installation has already begun. Five boilers will be added to the equipment, all of the sterling pattern and of 250-horse power.

These are only part of the improvements, according ao Assistant General Manager David Cole, which the company will make on its equipment, and in the near future the smelter will be brought up to such a high standard that it will be difficult to find another reduction plant in existence which will compare with it.

The section of the concentrator which was closed down about a month ago to permit the making of several changes in the operation, has been entirely overhauled and new devices installed. This section has resumed its portion of the operations.

The changes made at the plant consist of a device being installed which will separate the slime from the sand, thereby permitting the handling of them separately. Heretofore the slimes and sands have been handled together; in fact they still are in the old sections of the concentrator.

These new changes will greatly facilitate operations, and more material can be handled than heretofore, which will mean a great saving in operations at the plant.

After this section is in operation the other sections will also be changed, and when the entire concentrator is gone over, it will have a greater capacity than before.

Twenty-eight Wilfley tables and thirty-six vanners are included in the section which has resumed.

The new equipment is a contrivance whereby flue dust will be mixed with slag from the reverberatory furnace at a proportion of 25 per cent of flue dust to 75 per cent slag. The slag is valuable as a flux, and two benefits will be derived from the new system. First, it will prepare the slag for blast furnace flux, making it easy to recover the values and also to handle it. The other benefit is the handling at a much reduced cost.

Twenty-five per cent of flue dust added to a ladle of slag will cause it to boil up and form a foam which, when it cools, resembles the clinker found in the common kitchen stove. The volume will be increased seven times. The clinkers will then be run through the smelter and the values recovered.

The plant will consist of a series of slag pots into which the molten slag and the flue dust will be poured simultaneously, one pot at a time. The mixture will boil over and the foam will run down the hillside, where it will be recovered and loaded into cars and run through the smelter again.

The scheme is comparatively a new one, and one of the same order is being tried at Douglas by the Copper Queen. The only plant of its nature in the Southwest is that at the smelter at Sasco, Ariz.

TREATMENT OF COBALT ORES

Tests Under Chlorinization Process Show That $500 More a Ton Can be Secured—Plans to Erect a Large Plant.

Helena, Mont., March 12.—Tests conducted here for the last two months by Dr. C. A. Burwell of Cleveland and C. C. Titus of the Northwestern Metals company are intended to revolutionize the treatment of cobalt ores. Samples of the ores were treated under what is known as the chlorinization process. It has been demonstrated that by this method the companies will get $500 more a ton than they now get from the smelters for their ores.

Dr. Burwell has been called East in furtherance of a plan for the erection of a large plant at the mines. Titus was formerly assistant manager of the East Helena smelter of the American Smelting & Refining company. Despite the richness of the cobalt ores, because of their refractory nature, treatment charges have been very excessive and only the silver has been saved, much of the cobalt, the nickel and even a percentage of the silver being lost.

The cost of the Bruwell-Titus treatment is less than the present smelter charge. The cobalt ore carries 200 pounds of cobalt to the ton and it is worth $1.75 a pound, and under the process demonstrated here every bit of this was saved. The ores also carry 250 pounds of nickel to the ton, worth 15 cents a pound. This is likewise saved.

A feature of the process is that the refining is done at the same time that the values are extracted from the gangue.

The process will prove highly profitable when applied locally. Tests have been conducted with ores from the dump of the famous Comet mine, twenty miles south of Helena. There are thousands upon thousands of tons of this ore pronounced worthless because it carried too much zinc, but this become usable under the chlorinization process.

One of the chief advantages in the process lies in the fact that the chlorine is saved and may be used again. The test of the ores from the Comet and Elkhorn has proved equally as satisfactory as that from Cobalt. From Comet ore 20 per cent zinc, as shown by assay, has been saved in its entirety, and the result was the same with the Elkhorn product.

Leedy & Gary, who are operating the old Shober mine, five miles southwest of Helena, have made a gold strike. The ore assays $60 to the ton, with occasional streaks that run higher. Arangements have been made for the treatment of the ore in the Henley mill.

PUMPS IN HOATSON STOPPED

Water to the Junction—Two Shafts Connected on 1,500 Level, Resulting in Better Ventilation and Econmy of Operation.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 12.—So far as the Calumet & Arizona is concerned, there has been absolutely no change during the week, shipments and development continuing the same as usual, which to the well informed man means that the property is still in glit-edged shape.

At the Superior & Pittsburg properties, the Briggs shaft work is progressing nicely on the 1,200 station. This station will be finished and sinking resumed within three weeks.

At the Hoatson work has been pushed on the 1,500-foot level toward the Briggs shaft.

At the Junction the 1,500-foot level was connected through to the Hoatson shaft during the week, and the opening is expected to make exceptionally good ventilation for both mines. The pumps in the Hoatson will be shut down, and all the water will flow over underground to the Junction. This will make the Hoatson shaft cold, and send a cold draft through to the Junction.

The Sulphide ore body on the south side of the Junction shaft is developing into a big ore body, and is looking better every day.

At the Cole shaft work on the bottom shows very encouraging signs.

Courtland has been a steady shipper since the nrst of the month, and the smelter will receive a car or two of ore from there regularly each day.

At the Calumet & Arizona smelter four of the six furnaces are in blast and the average product for the past six months has been near 4,500,000 pounds. The figures for February were 4,000,000 pounds.

SOUTH QUINCY IS FINANCED

New Lake Company Ready to Begin Exploratory Work—North Lake Has Struck No. 1 Adventure Lode—Bohemia to Start Second Diamond Drill, Having Located an Outcropping.

Houghton, Mich., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The financing of the newly organized South Quincy Copper company has been completed and the company is now in shape to begin exploratory work. This work will consist of diamond drilling in which two complete cross-sections of the property will be taken, and it is generally expected that the Kearsarge amygdaloid, the Pewabic amygdaloid and the Hancock lode will be disclosed by these operations. The new company is backed by B. H. Schoefels & Co., and is their first venture in this district. The property is favorably located, and though work of a desultory nature was done there about forty years ago very little concerning the actual mineral value of the property has been determined.

North Lake.

North Lake has encountered what apparently is the No. 1 Adventure lole by diamond drilling. The strike was made in the so-called No. 7 drill hole at a depth of 1,420 feet. The lode at this point shows a width of about twenty-three feet of which ten feet carries copper in commercial quantity. The other North Lake drill hole, designated as No. 5, has attained a depth of 1,200 feet, and is thus far without results.

La Salle.

La Salle, during the week past, shipped about 1,400 tons of rock from its Tecumseh mine to the Centennial-Allouez mill where a test run was made. No official announcement concerning the actual yield of this rock has been made, but in usually well informed circles it is said that the recovery was eighteen pounds mineral per ton of rock milled. It was generally expected that the test would show anywhere from 25 to 35 pounds mineral per tone of rock. The Tecumseh mine has been opened to a depth of 1,800 feet with the greatest lateral extensions measuring about the same distance, and it is estimated that upwards of 1,000,000 tons of copper rock have been blocked out ready for stoping. The mill test was made from rock taken directly from the stockpile which in turn is the accumulation of rock taken out in the course of opening work, and fairly representative of what the mine contains. Mill shipments will continue indefinitely and a thorough test of the Tecumseh ground will be made.

Franklin.

Franklin's diamond drill operating in the western limits of the Franklin Junior property, has passed through what is supposed to be the conglomerate bed immediately overlying the Hancock lode, and at a depth of 1,000 feet is drilling in tap rock just below which it is expected the Hancock lole will be encountered. The operations of the company on the Pewabic lode continues centered in development work, and some very fine ground is being had at depth in the No. 1 shaft. A steady production is being maintained by reason of this work and though small is being gradually increased. Present production is at the rate of about 1,000,000 pounds annually.

Bohemia.

Bohemia has gotten its diamond drill outfit in place and sand pipe preliminary to diamond drilling is now being driven. Indications point to a shallow overburden and little or no difficulty should be experienced in reaching bed rock. The company has in the last few days or since drill operations were begun, located an outcropping on its property and it is planned to secure a second drill outfit and make an investigation of this outcropping at depth immediately and without interrupting the other work already begun. The Bohemia property lies just northeast of the Indiana and is thought to carry the extensions of the several Adventure and Lake lodes.

Ojibway.

Ojibway's operations continue confined to the creation of lateral openings at the 500-foot, 650-foot and 1,250-foot levels. The results in the No. 1 shaft are very encouraging and first class copper ground is being opened particularly at the 500 and 650-foot levels. The situation in the No. 2 shaft has been rather discouraging to date, but more recent work shows a steady though slow improvement with the extension of laterals to the northward. The general situation in the mine is also improved with depth, and there is at this time little doubt that Ojibway will make a mine, though probably of very low grade.

BACK TO NORMAL CAPACITY

Butte Mines and Smelters Again in Operation—Firm Stand Taken by the Amalgamated—Work on Butte & Superior's Concentrator to be Started Soon and Pushed Rapidly.

Butte, Mont., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mines and smelters are once more running about their normal capacity and the jurisdictional trouble between the Western Federation of Miners and the International engineers has passed into history—history not of the kind the engineers will be anxious to refer back to in the years to come. For a time it looked as if the trouble might assume serious proportions, for the reason that the engineers endeavored to secure the aid of co-operation of the various crafts working about the mines who are Internationals, such as carpenters, blacksmiths, electricians, machinists and ropemen. The Amalgamated Copper company, through President John D. Ryan, made it plain when the trouble started that the company would stand by a contract which existed between the company and the miners, but this did not deter the engineers of the International organization from soliciting the sympathy of other international bodies and bringing President Mattson of the A. F. of L. from Brooklyn, N. Y., to lend a hand in the fight. On the eve of a big international mass meeting Mr. Ryan played a trump card by publishing a lengthy review of the whole situation, and finally declaring that the mines were going to be operated whether the different crafts went out or not—if men were not in the city to do the work, they would be brought in. This settled the whole affair. The mass meeting did little except talk, and in twenty-four hours the International engineers started to apply for their jobs back, and all talk of a sympathetic strike was lost sight of. Mr. Ryan in his statement declared that the company would live up absolutely to the terms of the contract with the miners so long as that organization could furnish men necessary to carry on the company's operations. The statement further declared that the company under no circumstances would discharge any man at present in its employ, and men leaving their employment might not expect to regain work. In concluding, the statement said: "The company proposes to run its mines, mills and smelters and wishes to say to its employes who are members of other international unions that a careful and calm consideration should be given this entire controversy before any sympathetic walkout is ordered." Between the lines of the statement is the warning to all organizations that no further trouble or disputes will be tolerated, and it is believed this is intended to mean miners and smeltermen as well as all others.

Going After Heinze.

L. P. Donovan, attorney who was appointed a few days as receiver for the Hypocka Mining company, expects to go East in a short time to look up the stockholders of the company for the purpose of endeavoring to get a settlement of a $12,000 judgment standing against the company. Donovan has qualified for the position and he says that the first person he proposes to go after is F. A. Heinze. Under the laws of Montana a stockholder is liable up to the amount of stock he owns.

After Zinc Properties.

Both the New Jersey Zinc company and the Guggenheims are endeavoring to get hold of some of the zinc properties in this city. A representative of the former corporation has been in the city for some time, and under his direction the water is being taken out of the old Emma shaft to the 200 level with a view of securing samples of ore and sending them to New Jersey for the purpose of ascertaining if the zinc can be extracted at a profit. Three men representing Guggenheim interests in Colorado are also in the city looking over properties, and it is said both concerns have taken options on mines. The New Jersey corporation has also got an option on a site for the erection of a large mill, should the samples from the Emma and other properties justify the erection of the building. The quantities of zinc to be found in this district are said to be enormous.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior company is said to have enough ore in sight to pay $8 a share on the stock. At the present time the company is shipping 200 tons of ore daily to the Basin concentrator. Just as soon as the weather permits work will be commenced on the company's new mill and work will be pushed along as rapidly as possible. The machinery has been ordered and is such that it will save values in the treatment.

Sapphires Shipped.

Sixteen boxes of rough sapphires were shipped from the New Mine Syndicate Mines, located near Moore, in this state, the other day to New York, thence to London, England, where they will be cut and polished. The shipment was worth several hundred thousand dollars.

Suit over Berlin Stock.

A case of some interest in the mining world has been filed in the United States court, the title Levi M. Strong against the Berlin and North Butte Mining companies, W. D. Thornton and A. J. Davis. Strong alleges that the defendants have 5,000 shares of stock in the Berlin company which belong to him, and he wants the court to issue an order giving the stock to him. It appears Adam Gassert sold to Strong 10,000 shares of the stock, and in proceedings which finally were settled in the United States supreme court, Gassert recovered 5,000 shares of

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Gogebic Range Expected to Ship Nearly 5,000,000 Tons of Ore This Year—Colby Was Original Steam-Shovel Mine of World —Explorations in Crystal Falls District.

It is the expectation on the Gogebic range that pretty close to 5,000,000 tons of ore will be shipped from that district this year. The outgo last season just rounded the 4,000,000-ton mark, the production exceeding all former records to the extent of 400,000 tons. Since 1884, when the first shipments were made, the Gogebic has produced almost 61,000,000 tons of ore.

The first mine opened on the Gogebic range was the Colby, at Bessemer, now owned by Corrigan, McKinney & Co. of Cleveland. Relative to the discovery of this deposit there has long been a controversy as to just who is entitled to the honor. Ore in place and quantity was found by Capt. N. D. Moore during the summer of 1880. It is the contention, however, that the Colby outcrop originally was discovered by Richard Langford, subsequently known as "the hermit of Lake Gogebic," and that Langford informed Capt. Moore of its location.

Original Steam Shovel Mine.

The Colby was the original steam shovel mine of the Lake Superior district, or of the world, for that matter, and when Joseph Sellwood, now of Duluth, began taking out ore by that means the news sent congestive chills up and down the spinal columns of mine operators on the Marquette and Menominee ranges, the fright then experienced being premonitory of the more serious scare given the older ranges, including the Gogebic, when the Mesaba ore fields were opened nine years later. The Gogebic, however, is not a steam shovel range, the ore extending to depths of thousands of feet, and the Colby happened to be the exception proving the rule. After three seasons of steam shovel operations it became necessary to resort to underground work, as in the older districts. The Colby reached its maximum production in 1888, with an output of 286,000 tons. This mine is credited with a total production of 2,450,000 tons, but these figures are misleading. The property now known as the Tilden was a part of the Colby tract at the time of the opening of the mine and until the close of 1890. Of the total tonnage credited to the Colby it is probable that at least 500,000 tons should be credited to the Tilden. After the Tilden was divorced from the Colby in 1890, the latter was considered almost valueless and was discarded at the time by the Penokee & Gogebic Development company for that reason. There were known to be further deposits of ore on the property, but on account of the steam shovel operations of the earlier years the mine was in very poor condition for reopening. The Colby passed into the hands of Corrigan, McKinney & Co., the present operators, in 1896. Important discoveries have been made at great depth during recent years, and the mine has a long life before it.

Extent of the Range.

The iron bearing formation of the Gogebic range extends from Lake Gogebic, in Michigan, to English lake, in Wisconsin, a distance of nearly eighty miles. The formation also is found both east and west of these limits, but is not traced continuously. The productive portion of the range extends from one mile east of Sunday lake to Iron Belt, a distance of twenty-two miles. The general width of the ore formation, from the footawall of fragments of quartzite in the hanging wall of slate, is from 300 to 400 feet. Two of the deposits, the Iron Belt and its neighbor, the Atlantic, the former of which is practically worked out, rest upon a black slate of considerable thickness interstratified with the iron bearing formation, which latter is only about 150 feet in thickness. The ore of the range occurs in lenses of various sizes having a triangular or trapezoidal cross-section, and pitching to the east at varying degrees on diorite dykes crossing the formation at right angles. The footwall dips north about 60 degrees. The diorite dykes which abound in the Ironwood basin are to a great extent missing in the district east of the Black river, where the definite characteristics of the formation which are found to the westward are lost. East of Black river the formation is half a mile wide and more. The ore which has been found in that region, however, lies in the generally direct line of the mines to the westward, but without the distinct under and overlying strata common to the western section. The mines at Sunday lake are at the extreme north limit of the formation, being within 200 or 300 feet of the amygdaloid trap of the copper range. The ore thre rests upon a footwall of ferruginous quartzite identical with the caprock and "horses" of the mid-cutting and drifting to further explore the possibilities of the ground. In addition to the increased copper values in the last few feet sunk, the last assay taken gave a return of 1.14 ounces in gold, which gives a value of $22.80 for the gold content alone. The ore in the steam shovel pit carries gold and silver to the extent of only 25 per cent per ton, so that the importance of this rich strike in the Clipper cannot be overstated.

Unfortunately, at the point where this assay was obtained, a strong inrush of water was encountered, which was too great for the pumping capacity at the Clipper, and the shaft was flooded, necessitating the purchase of new pumps. These are now on the way, but have been detained at Cobre, on account of the severe floods which are deluging the country, due to the early spring thaw. In the course of a few days this new pumping plant should be on the ground, when the shaft will be unwatered, and sinking operations will be continued, so as to demonstrate the extent of the high-grade ores encountered just before the shutdown. The large flow of water which was struck in the Clipper shows the open character of the ground through which the shaft is passing, and by competent engineers is taken to indicate the probabilities of high-grade ores being soon met within these workings.

AT THE BUTTE BALLAKLAVA

New Hoist Being Erected—Will Be Operated By Electricity and Will Sink to Depth of Three Thousand Feet.

Butte, Mont., March 12.—The new electric hoist for the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company has arrived in Butte, and a score of workmen are now engaged in transferring it from the flat cars to its position on the concrete foundation which has been built to receive it. The new hoist house is also under construction. It is expected that the new hoist will be in operation some time next week.

The new hoist is one of the latest design and is provided with all of the latest safety appliances which experience may have suggested. It was built by the Lake Shore Machinery company at the Marquette shops, and it is being erected by the machinery company's expert mechanics.

The hoist will be driven by a 350-horse power motor, which has been shipped from the Pittsburg plant of the General Electric company. It will have capacity for sinking to a depth of 3,000 feet. It is provided with air brakes and clutches, and is one of the most complete in construction of any electric hoist in operation anywhere. It is the first deep sinking electric hoist to be erected in Butte, and takes the place of the electric hoist which has been in operation at the Butte-Ballaklava mine for the past year and a half, which was the first to be put to practical use in the Butte camp.

As soon as the new hoist is in operation the ore bodies which have been developed on the 800-foot level and lower levels will be regularly worked, and constant shipments will be made to the Washoe smelter at Anaconda. It is expected that the output will average about 500 tons a day.

With the new electric hoist the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company has one of the most complete electrically driven surface plans in the country. The equipment includes, besides the new hoist, two electrically driven air compressors, furnishing air for twelve drills and for the splendidly equipped blacksmith shop, and a carpenter shop provided with all necessary machinery and saws for the economical framing of mine timbers, each piece of machinery driven by an individual motor.

A new gallows frame recently was constructed, carrying two sheave wheels each six feet in diameter. New steel ore bins, holding 700 tons of ore, were completed a few months ago.

BIG ORE BODIES AT CACTUS

More Than Mile of Work is Completed in Development of Mines—Star Drills Will be on the Ground Soon.

Globe, Ariz., March 12.—Developments at the Cactus mine continue to give results extremely encouraging for the future of the property. Drifting, crosscutting and raising on the 300 and 400-foot levels are progressing in several directions. At present the level workings of the Cactus extend from the Hamilton shaft 300 feet south, 165 feet north, 750 feet west and 650 feet east. Altogether, considerably over one mile of underground driving has been completed and a force of seventy-five men actually employed in mining in advancing the work on the third and fourth levels.

The Star cburn drills ordered some time ago for use on the Cactus property have been shipped from the factory, and as soon as received at the mine, will be set at work 200 feet north of the shaft at a point where the Gila conglomerate apparently overlies the altered schist, which has so far been encountered in the Miami and Cactus mining districts. In case the drills penetrate chalcocite ore bodies underlying the conglomerate, the property will be endowed with remarkable value as a low grade proposition.

An examination of the surface characteristics of the Cactus land, embracing over 600 acres, reveals the altered schist cropping out on hillsides from beneath cappings of dacite flow or Gila conglomerate, so that the chance for development of large grade ore bodies in altered schist area, where the presence of a non-mineralized overburden leaves the existence of ore bodies underneath open to question, appear excellent. The surface croppings easily visible indicate an altered schist mineralized area extending 2,700 feet north and south and about 3,600 feet east and west. Almost in the center of the area is the Hamilton shaft and 748 feet northwest of the Hamilton is the Pinto shaft. The drifts now being driven from the Hamilton to the Pinto on the 300 and 400-foot levels have attained a length of about 600 feet and the connection between the two shafts, both of which have been sunk merely for prospect purposes, should be effected within a month. Sinking of the Pinto from its present depth of 541 feet will probably be resumed in the near future. The location of the main working shaft to be sunk on the Cactus property will be largely determined by the results of the drill work. It is reasonably certain, however, that this shaft will be located outside the ore body and will have at least four compartments. C. W. Pritchett, consulting engineer for the Cactus, visited the mine, Feb. 24. W. H. Hamilton is superintending the development work.

RICHER ORE AT ELY CENTRAL

Latest Assays of Clipper Shaft Ore Give Gold Content of $22.80 Per Ton—New Pumping Plant Rushed to Mine.

Ely, Nev., March 12.—One of the biggest engineers who ever visited the district, made an inspection of the Clipper workings of the Ely Central Copper company a little over a month ago, and gave it as his opinion that development work in that portion of the Ely Central estate would open up one of the greatest mines in Ely. Subsequent developments certainly seem to indicate that the opinion of this authority was well founded.

The last few feet through which the Clipper shaft has passed have shown increased copper values as well as high assays in gold and silver. From the time the Clipper shaft entered the sulphide zone at a depth of fifty-eight feet from the surface, it has been in sulphide ore carrying varying percentages of copper and appreciable gold and silver values.

Except for the ore bodies disclosed in the Alpha workings of the Giroux Consolidated, little work has been done in the Ely district on ore bodies of this class, hence the management of the Ely Central have planned the work at the Clipper with the idea of carrying on development to a sufficient depth to justify them in crosscutting and drifting to further explore the possibilities of the ground. In addition to the increased copper

AT THE ARIZONA-MICHIGAN

Air Compressor Likely to be Installed at Early Date —Extreme Hardness of Rock Makes Hand Drilling Very Difficult.

Globe, Ariz., March 12.—At the property of the Arizona-Michigan Mining company, located in the Copper Hill portion, five miles east of Globe, development work is being steadily continued at the Telfair shaft. The two crosscuts being driven, north and south respectively from the Telfair on the 500-foot level, have recently encountered changes in the formation that may presage the striking of copper bearing material within the next few weeks. The north crosscut has been extended 488 feet from the shaft and is now in quartzite of somewhat different appearance than that through which the drift has been driven heretofore. The ground in this part of the workings, however, contains little mineral, but the general indications are slightly more favorable than formerly.

In the south crosscut the change for the better has been decidedly marked during the past two or three weeks and particularly so within the last five or six days. This crosscut is 533 feet long and is in diabase much faulted and broken and containing a little iron. The flow of water in this crosscut, while not great enough to interfere appreciably with the work, is showing a slight increase. For the past ten feet the ground has been getting considerably softer. Under the circumstances, it is not unreasonable to suppose that a lode is not far from the present face of the crosscut, but whether this fault will prove to be productive of copper is an open question. The location of the Superior & Boston, a proven mine, is favorable to the ultimate development of copper deposits.

It is probable that within the next few weeks the development of the Arizona-Michigan property will be hastened by the use of machine drills. The directors of the company met in Houghton, Mich., last week and, although an account of what business was transacted has not yet reached Globe, it is believed that the installation of an air compressor at the Telfair shaft was favorably considered. One of the greatest hindrances in the development of the Arizona-Michigan has been the extreme hardness of the ground in which the crosscuts have been driven, and this drawback would, of course, be largely overcome by installing air drills.

UNVEIL CALHOUN STATUE.

South Carolina and Massachusetts Unite in Ceremonies.

Washington, March 12.—In the two houses of congress, South Carolina and Massachusetts today joined hands over the grave of John C. Calhoun. The occasion was the unveiling of the statue of the great South Carolinan which, sixty years after the period of his long continued struggle for state rights, was set up today in statuary hall.

The unveiling was conducted wholly by South Carolinians. The cords holding together the drapery were loosened by Mrs. Bratton and Miss Gist, daughters of the Palmetto state. Governor Ansel presided and Former Governor Mauldin delivered the principal oration.

The statue depicts its subject in a striking attitude, and is placed between the figures of Ethan Allen and Lewis Cass, directly facing the effigy of Webster, Calhoun's great antagonist.

The ceremonies of acceptance took place in the senate and the house following the unveiling exercises. It was then that the representatives of the two antebellum belligerent states met to bury the hatchet. Senator Lodge and Representative McCall speaking for the New England commonwealth, and Senator Smith and a number of South Carolina representatives for that state. An address was made in the senate also by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon.

The Calhoun family was represented by Patrick and John C. Calhoun, grandsons of the statesman, and by several great-grandchildren.

LIVED TO WITHIN TWO MONTHS OF REACHING CENTURY MARK

MRS. MARIA ELIZABETH STICKNEY AND TWO OF HER GREAT-GRANDCHILDREN.

Mrs. Maria Elizabeth Stickney, who died Tuesday at Spirit Lake of old age, would have been 100 years old had she lived until May 30. At the time of her death she was 99 years 10 months and 8 days old.

Yesterday afternoon the funeral was held from the family residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. Folkerst of Spirit Lake, and last evening Undertaker W. H. Richter of West Duluth sent her body to Corona, Mich., a former home, where burial will be made today.

Mrs. Stickney was born at East Troy, N. Y., May 30, 1810.

A few years later her folks moved to the West and settled in Michigan, where they have long made their home. In recent years she had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. E. Folkerts of Spirit Lake. Mr. Folkerts formerly conducted a confectionery store on Second street near the Central high school and she lived with them at that time.

In the above picture Mrs. Stickney is shown with two of her great grandchildren. She is survived by eight children, most of whom reside in Michigan.

NEW BUILDING WILL BE READY FOR OCCUPANCY BY APRIL 15

THE NEW SCOTT-KREIDLER BUILDING.

Work on the exterior of the new two-story Scott-Kreidler building, Central avenue and Ramsey street, has been completed and the lower story of the building will be ready for occupancy by April 15. According to E. G. Kreidler, it will be a month later before the second story is finished.

The work on the building has been very slow. After the contractors had built the foundation and before the superstructure was started, the foundation wall fell in along one side, and the work was given quite a set back. The building is built of brick and along modern lines.

The entire upper story will be given over to office rooms and many of them have already been leased. The occupants of the lower floor have not been decided upon as yet. The Scott-Kreidler agency will occupy the center store portion. A billiard and poolroom and a barber shop will be in the basement of the new block.

CLAIMED TO BE BIGAMIST

Oliver Gerow Said to Have Been Married at Flint, Mich.

Is Now Facing Trial for Deserting His First Wife.

In spite of the denial of Oliver Gerow, at present in the county jail awaiting trial in district court on a charge of child desertion preferred by the grand jury, information has reached the city that on Nov 6 of last year he was married to Miss Lola Lealand at Flint, Mich.

In 1907 Gerow married a Duluth woman and after living with her for some time, he deserted her, it is alleged. Since the parting a child has been born, and the charge of child desertion is the only one to be heard in the local court.

Wife No. 2, who was Miss Lola Lealand, is said to be living with Gerow's family in Saginaw, Mich. Although it was supposed that Gerow had two wives, no information could be gathered for a long time as to the real facts in the case.

He stoutly denied that he had been married twice, and the most thorough search failed to reveal the fact that there was a second Mrs. Gerow. The Michigan authorities have been searching all over the state for a record of his marriage and yesterday they uncovered the license at Flint, Mich. The young woman, who is but 19 years old, is said to have been found at Gerow's home in Saginaw and caught unawares, to have admitted that Oliver was her husband. She is said also to have admitted that the marraige took place at the time and the city mentioned.

As the second marriage took place in Michigan, it is beyond the authorities here to hold him on a charge of bigamy. The authorities at Flint have taken up the case, however, and as soon as he is out of the Duluth trouble, they will be on hand to take him back.

Gerow was arrested some time ago on a charge of both bigamy and wife desertion. As no information could be obtained on the bigamy charge at that time, he was indicted on the latter charge. His first wife is in the employ of one of the county officials as domestic.

Gerow is but a youth and would not be taken for more than 19 years of age. He claims that he was forced into the Duluth marriage when he was so young that he did not know what he was doing and also claims that it was Mrs. Gerow the first who did the deserting and not he, as charged. He claims he does not know his first wife's name, her age, or the date of the marriage, but states that he is willing to go back to her and support her.

Young Gerow has a picture of the Michigan girl, according to those about the county jail.

The case will come up in the local court some time next week and he will later be tried on a bigamy charge in the Michigan courts.

ONE MORE SKI TOURNAMENT

The Duluth Ski club will hold its last tournament of the season tomorrow on the Chester creek hill. Although the weather has been mild for over a week and the snow in the downtown district has almost melted away, the officials of the ski club say there is still plenty of snow at the grounds and the hill is in condition for good jumping.

All of the Duluth experts are entered for the tournament tomorrow and there will also probably be some jumpers from oustide of the city. A determined attempt will be made by some of the riders to beat the mark of 140 feet made on the Ishpeming, Mich., hill on Washington's birthday. The mark has been given preference as a national record over Ole Fiering's jump of 141 feet made on the Duluth hill earlier in the season.

FIERING MAKES TWO GOOD JUMPS

Ole Fiering, the great Duluth ski rider, this morning made two great jumps on Chester park hill, jumping 140 and 141 feet in two trials. Fiering will compete in the events of tomorrow, and the officials say that there is likely to be a national record broken, as at the present time the hill is in great condition and as fast as lightning.

Officials of the Duluth Ski club say the claim that the national record was broken on the Ishpeming hill, is simply an attempt to boost the Michigan slide as the fastest in the country.

Duluth Ski club officials say that there were no records broken on the Ishpeming hill, and that the best jump of the tournament was made after the schedule events had been completed and the last official jump made. According to the local officials, some one offered $25 to the jumper who would break the national record, and the jump of 140 feet was made, which the Ishpeming officials are holding as the national record.

On Jan. 16 last, Ole Fiering jumped 144 feet on the Duluth hill in an official jump. Then, why the Duluth officials ask, are the Ishpeming officials attempting to say that the national record was made upon the Ishpeming hill?

Duluth officials say there is plenty of snow to pull off the scheduled events of tomorrow, and, furthermore, that there is some likelihood that the national record will be broken.

A SPECIAL PROSECUTOR

City Needs Man to Investigate Troubles of Woodsmen.

E. J. Kenny, prosecuting attorney in the city criminal courts, declares that a special man should be employed by the city to keep track of the employment agents.

He states that the duties of such a man ought to be to investigate all complaint made against the employment agents, which have been numerous during his two-years' term of office. To pay his expenses and salary, Mr. Kenny suggests that the fees of the employment licenses be raised so as to meet the difference.

He declares that it is impossible for a single man to care for the other criminal business of the city and keep the employment agents straight at the same time. He is firmly convinced that some of the agents give the lumberjacks the worst of the deal, taking their last dollar on the promise of a job and then failing to produce the goods. With a special agent to make this his special duty he is convinced that most of the practices in vogue could be stopped or prevented entirely.

The agent would be able to leave the city to learn whether or not the employment agent and the foreman of any lumber camp had an agreement to hire men, take their money, and then discharge them after they had been working only a few days. He thinks that it would be easy to discover this, as either the agent or a man in his employ could hire out with the foreman doing this kind of business and mingle with the men long enough to satisfy himself as to the true state of affairs.

This morning seven men complained to him that they had spent about the last of their money to get jobs which were not forthcoming. It appears that each of the seven gave the Lake Superior Employment company $1 for their fee on condition that they work for a lumber company at Hall Club for $2 a day. Their board was to cost them $4.20 a week. Their fare cost them $4.74 for the round trip, as they claim that there was no work for them when they got to the camp. This made their total expense $5.74, to say nothing of the loss of their time. None of them was well fixed and it took about the last of their ready cash.

The employment agent had an order on his books dated Feb. 24, about three weeks old. The conclusion is that the order was given in good faith, but that the agent was so slow in filling it that the company got the needed men in the meantime. Nothing can probably be done to the agent, but the men suffer.

Other complaints of a similar nature and worse have been made to the police. In many cases the agent has been compelled to make good, but it frequently happens that there is no recourse. It is thought that a special agent could protect the interests of the men and at the same time see that the agents were not imposed upon.

ARGUE CASE ON MONDAY

Next Monday before the United States supreme court at Washington, the constitutionality of the corporation tax provision of the new tariff law will be attacked in arguments in about fifteen cases involving corporations of all classes. The cases are of interest to all corporations throughout the country and Duluth people are especially interested because one of the cases originated in Duluth and involves local parties.

It is the case of Oscar Mitchell against the Clark Iron Mining company, in which J. L. Washburn will appear before the supreme court in the interest of the plaintiff-appellant. Mr. Washburn, who is in the South, has prepared a brief, copies of which were received in Duluth today.

The Duluth case is the only one of the number to be argued which raises specifically the question of the validity of the law as applied to corporations which receive their income from the rental of real estate. Almost all kinds of corporations are represented in the different actions, but the Duluth case is the only one raising that point.

Mr. Washburn contends that courts in the income tax cases have held that a tax could not be levied on the income from real estate unless it was apportioned according to population. The Constitution provides that all direct taxes shall be so apportioned and Mr. Washburn contends that the corporation tax, which provides otherwise, is unconstitutional as a tax on the income of corporations which receive their income from real estate is a direct tax.

Mr. Washburn also attacks the law on the ground that it is in effect a tax on the governing power of the state. He contends that there is a lack of uniformity in that corporations are discriminated against in favor of individuals and partnerships. He says that the provision requiring publicity of the business secrets of corporations is unwarranted and unjust and that if congress has the right to pass this law it could, under the guise of taxation, destroy all state corporations and force all business to be done by federal corporations.

BIG CROWDS SEE BOY MINSTRELS

The boys' department minstrels played to a capacity house last evening. Every seat in the auditorium was filled and standing room was at a premium. The entertainment was pronounced by those who saw it as the best amateur minstrel show ever presented in Duluth.

The program opened with a restaurant sketch by Laurence Duby, Stanley Lamb, Arnold Berg and Caldwell Harris. It was a take-off on "The Ham Tree," and for twenty minutes the audience was kept in a continual roar of laughter. The second number was a bunch of nonsense by Chester McLeod and Albert Ewald. Chester McLeod in an imitation of Harry Lauder was one of the features of the evening. A musical sketch was given by Ivan Northfield, Raymond Hancock, Milton White and Arnold Berg, and they had to respond to repeated encores. The closing number in the first half was a reading by Miss Agnes Johnson, accompanied by Miss Wallin on the violin. Miss Johnson is a pleasing reader and her number was well received. For an encore she gave "Yon Yonson at a Baseball Game."

In the minstrel show Paul Clarkson acted as the interlocutor, and he kept things moving from start to finish. The end men were Laurence Duby, Stanley Lamb and Chester McLeod, and they kept up a line of jokes that were mirth-provoking. Solos were sung by Laurence Duby, Stanley Lamb, Chester McLeod, Wellington Cook, James Jones, Milton White, Philip Wood, Cecil Gilliland, Ivan Northfield, J. R. Batchelor and Paul Clarkson. The chorus consisted of twenty-two voices. Miss Lucille Bradley was the accompanist.

CAMPS ARE BREAKING UP

Spring mildness has compelled the abandoning of work at many of the lumber camps of the northern part of the state. The snow roads have become impassible and the ice roads are going fast. Men from the camps are pouring into the city by the train loads, and unless there is a sudden drop in the temperature, it will be impossible to get the logs out to the railroad by way of the logging roads.

Reports from lumbermen today stated that in many camps the roads have become running lanes of water and there is no solid bottom upon which to haul heavy loads. It will be utterly impossible under the present weather conditions to get logs out of the camps by team, say some of the Duluth loggers, unless there is a change in the weather conditions by tomorrow.

Many of the camps have large stock piles that the officials were planning to get to the loading platforms of the railroads. The advance of spring has nipped these plans in the bud, and in many of the camps there will be a quantity of logs left for another season.

With the letting up of the work in many of the camps the laborers are flocking into Duluth. There are more men in the city at the present time than there has been this winter. Many of these men will go west to engage in railroad work. Others will go to work on the drive.

SUPERIOR

SMALLPOX "SCARE."

Despite the efforts of the health authorities of Superior to "hush up" the smallpox scare at the East end, there seems to be a mild epidemic in that section of the city and today it was reported that one of the teachers in the Nelson Dewey school was quarantined with the disease.

There are now quite a large number of cases at "old town" and there is some talk of closing the schools on account of the disease. Today some of the schoolrooms are being fumigated and the health authorities are closely watching matters.

Called at Wrong House.

Because he called at the home of Lieut. D. W. Scoon of the Superior police department yesterday, Charles Kuff was forced to leave the city. Kuffs was in search of something to eat and devised the "back door" method of getting it. Putting in his appearance at the home of the officer he was promptly arrested, but allowed later to leave town.

N. Safedy and Phil Evans, two traveling peddlers, were arrested yesterday afternoon and charged with peddling without a license. They were released on the agreement they purchase a license at once.

Cooper Team Winner.

By a score of 33 to 19, the Cooper Alumni basket ball team of Superior defeated the Hayward team last evening, the game being played at the down state town. Today the Cooper grads are at Spooner, where tonight they have another game with the Spooner City team. The Coopers have made a good record this season and have not only defeated most of the city teams in Superior, but also a number from neighboring towns.

Will Invest Funds.

The combined police and fire pension funds, amounting to above $16,000, will be invested in city 4 per cent bonds. An ordinance providing for this will be introduced at the next meeting of the council. About $9,000 is now in the fire fund and $7,000 in the police fund.

Found Dead in Bed.

Adolph Swanfors, a laborer, 50 years old, was found dead in bed at an early hour this morning by a relative. The man had been living at the home of his cousin, Adolph Johnson of 202 Ogden avenue. The man had been suffering from a bad cold. The body was taken charge of by the coroner but no inquest will be held. The county will bury the dead man.

New Town Is Named.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Many would like religion as a sort of lightning rod to their houses; to ward off, by and by, the bolts of divine wrath.
—Henry Ward Beecher.

THE DUTY OF SUPPORT.

The Producers' Co-operative Market association is fully organized, and though not yet fully equipped, it is ready for business and its manager has addressed a letter to the local retail trade which is published elsewhere tonight.

It should hardly be necessary to suggest that every citizen, whether retailer or consumer, owes to this new institution the duty of support. The open market has been needed for a long time by both producer and consumer, and most of all it has been needed by the city of Duluth. It forms a very large part of the strong and deep foundation of the new and greater Duluth. The permanence of that foundation depends to a great degree upon the success of the open market.

While support of the open market is a duty, it is also good business. Insofar as it is capable of supplying the needs of the local retailers, it will pay them to patronize it and to give it preference. If it does not at first supply all their needs, their present support will help bring about a condition under which it will supply all their needs. They will be able to get at the open market products of first quality, and they will be assured of full weights, uniform grades, sound stock all through and prompt rectification of errors. The letter from the manager of the market to the trade guarantees these things, and also "as good goods, for the same price, as can be had anywhere."

While the creation of this market and of the co-operative marketing association back of it has been conducted quietly, the public has been kept fully aware of each step in the proceedings, and spurred on by the high cost of living, it has developed a lively interest in the success of the movement. It will be surprising, therefore, if retailers who make public the fact that they give preference to the local market do not find that that is pretty good advertising for themselves. The consumers wish this open market and co-operative marketing project to be a complete success, and they will appreciate the efforts of retailers who contribute their support toward making it a success.

The soil is here and the demand for the soil's products is here. What the situation lacked was provision for marketing, and more tillers of the soil. Provision for marketing having been made, through the co-operative marketing association and the open market, the producer and the consumer have been brought together. The success of this enterprise means more tillers of the soil, more products, more wealth, and better and cheaper living in Duluth.

THE DRUNKARD AND THE JAIL.

"Imprisonment does confirmed drunkards no good," said Judge W. L. Windom Thursday in sending to the poor farm for recuperation a man far gone in the drink habit. He might have sent him to jail, as the custom is, but he chose to try another way.

"They only come back after serving their time to find the doors of 185 hell houses waiting to receive them," continued Judge Windom. "As soon as they get liquor they are drunk again. Their will power is gone; they can't help themselves."

That's true, and more than that is true about sending drunkards to jail. They are sent to jail as a punishment. Perhaps there is some faint idea back of it, or was in the beginning, that it would be corrective, too. It isn't however; it is punishment, truly enough, but more men have been confirmed in drunkenness by being sent to jail than have ever been cured of it by being sent to jail. In fact, it is very doubtful if anybody ever was cured of drunkenness by being sent to jail.

With confirmed drunkards, men in whom appetite has taken the place of will, and whose ambitions and aspirations are drowned in an all-consuming and morbid craving for that which has destroyed them and will kill their bodies as it has killed their minds and souls, the jail sentence is but an interval of twitching and fear-plagued abstinence between drunks. Where thirty days of forced abstinence might possibly cure one not too far gone, it is merely a storing up of appetite in the case of the confirmed drunkard.

With beginners in drunkenness the effect of the jail sentence is even worse. Every man hates the patrol wagon, the police court and the jail. They mean shame and disgrace. They act as a deterrent, in a way; and that is their only imaginable good. But when a man once has undergone that shame and disgrace, the sting of it is gone. It is a deterrent no longer; and presently, pride gone, ambition dead, and nothing left but that terrible, maneating, soul-consuming appetite, not even the threat of the jail serves to hold them back.

Judge Windom said that there ought to be a place in this county where such men could be sent and cared for. He is right. Here and there police judges have adopted the plan of suspending sentences for drunkenness upon promise of sobriety, and that is a good way, too. Many a man doesn't realize the dreadful road he is traveling until he wakes up in a police cell. Then he is repentant and ashamed. When he faces the judge that morning it is probably a turning point in his life. To go to jail means loss of pride and loss of sensibility to the ignominy of the jail; and these mean confirmation of the habit of drunkenness. There is a great chance, there, for a wise and discriminating judge to become a savior of men. A lecture, a sentence, a suspension of that sentence on the promise, always willingly given, that the culprit will sin no more; a little watchfulness of the cases through the medium of the police: many a man has been turned back from the road to hell and his feet firmly planted on the straight and narrow road to good citizenship by such a course.

But there should be, as Judge Windom said, a place where men far gone in drink could be given the benefit of forced abstinence, medical care, good food and hard work in the open air. Leniency and watchfulness for the beginners, hard work in the open air for the drunkards: these are far better than the jail. Applied to drunkenness, nine times out of ten the jail is a monstrous and barbarous encouragement to self-destruction.

A FAMILIAR OF OTHER DAYS.

Well! Well! Well! If here isn't our old, long-lost friend, the "foreigner who pays the tariff tax"!

We hadn't seen him or heard of him in so long that we thought him safely dead and buried, long ago. But here is the St. Cloud Journal-Press dragging him out of the grave and presenting him to us with the earth still clinging to his shroud, which is of a cut fashionable twenty years ago.

The other day the St. Cloud newspaper gravely told its readers that most of the revenues derived from the tariff are paid by the rich through their luxuries. The Herald couldn't resist the temptation to show the Journal-Press that only about a quarter of the revenue comes from luxuries, and the rest from necessaries. Not only that, but we showed that while the tariff tax amounts to $3,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 a year, only about $325,000,000 a year reaches the government treasury in the form of tariff revenues, and that the rest of the tremendous sum paid by the people goes to the beneficiaries of the tariff special privilege. Also, that of these billions by far the greater part, more than three-quarters in fact, is paid through taxes on necessaries and not on luxuries.

The Journal-Press agitatedly rifled the graveyard of dead political theories, and triumphantly came back at us thus: "The Herald takes no thought of the duties paid by the foreigner when he sends his goods to the American market." That ingenuous response revives tender memories of days long past. The "foreigner who pays the tariff tax" hasn't been heard of before in many years. Anyway, we are glad to see him again, even if he does look weary and abashed, and seems to be wishful of being allowed to rest his tired bones in the grave from which he has been so rudely snatched. Body-snatching isn't a pretty business. The Journal-Press ought to be ashamed of itself.

By the way, we never could understand just how that foreigner ever managed to pay the tariff duty, anyway. This country has no custom houses in Europe. There is nobody there to hand the money to if the foreigner was simply crazy to pay the duties. The duties are collected on this side, are paid by the importer, and are promptly added to the cost of the goods, with a little margin to pay for the vexation and bookkeeping involved. And when Mr. Consumer buys those goods for his home, though he doesn't know it, he pays the full duties and a little more. He not only pays the duties that go into the treasury, but when he buys American-made goods whose prices are pushed up to the level of the tariff wall, he also pays a tax that goes to the manufacturer. We like nothing better than to oblige and gratify, and so we have responded thus to this prophecy of the Journal-Press: "Of course The Herald may come back with the old stereotyped slogan that it is the people who pay the taxes, but it does not work out that way." Before that grave-stained "foreigner who pays the tariff" is put again to rest in his tomb, we wish somebody would explain how it possibly could work out any other way.

The Journal-Press doesn't deny any more that three-fourths of the duties are on necessaries. But it does say this: "These same people (the rich) probably pay very much more than half of the revenue from all other sources"—meaning from necessaries.

Possibly 5 per cent of the people are "rich." One rich man can eat and wear about the same amount of stuff as one poor man, providing their appetites are equal. The only way the rich could pay half the tariff tax on necessaries would be by eating and wearing half of them. If 5 per cent of the people are eating and wearing half the commodities dealt in, no wonder the cost of living is high for the remaining 95 per cent.

THE OLD MASTERS.

The Herald has a brisk and interesting letter from Paul De Longpre, a well known American artist, in which he says some things about the craze for "old masters" that are worth considering.

Unquestionably there is a good deal of sham and pretense about much of the artistic worship of the "old masters." The world would be immensely poorer if it were not for its possession of many of these priceless works of art; but art would be immensely better off if more discrimination were used in this worship of pictures merely because they are dim and cracked and age-stained, and have great names attached to them.

Says Mr. De Longpre: "In the last fifty years several hundred millions of dollars have been spent for thousands of ugly, smoky, cracked old masters—most of them spurious. The great majority of the so-called old masters flooding the United States should be relegated to special rooms called Chambers of Horrors.

"The true artist or amateur of art must, first of all, be lover of the beautiful; it must be his religion, and the great, elevating mission of art is to educate the masses to love the beautiful. Starting with that idea, which is absolute truth, it can be asked: Is there any real beauty (outside of a limited number) in the thousands of so-called old masters to be found in the United States? Most assuredly not!"

Have you ever been brought face to face by its enthusiastic owner with a so-called "old master" and bidden to grovel before it? He has bought it in Europe for a small fortune, and even though he may have no real conception of art and beauty, and may worship the figure placed upon it by its vendor rather than anything intrinsically admirable in the picture, it is his choicest treasure. You are polite, and you don't wish to hurt his feelings; so you conceal your impression that the picture is positively ugly, that it bears no remotest relation with nature, and that if you found it in an attic you would probably sell the frame to a second hand dealer and throw away the canvas. So you join in his enthusiasm, and affect a fervor of admiration that you do not feel.

If you have seen real "old masters" in galleries, in this country or in Europe, your hypocrisy probably will be all the greater. For that will have taught you that an "old master" may have beauty and charm, and that it need not necessarily be dingy and grotesque. If you have some knowledge of the thousands of factories, in this country and Europe, which turn out properly aged "old masters" by the yard, you will pity your host. If you stop to realize that if the old masters painted two pictures a day they couldn't, in their lifetime, have put out half the work credited to them and apparently signed by them, you will reflect upon the folly of a man who has no knowledge of art putting his money into "old masters."

Mr. De Longpre calls this "the silliest and most barbarous craze of the age," and there is justification for his superlatives. American painters are turning out beautiful pictures that are a delight to the senses and the intelligence, and that it is a pleasure to own. Yet American money goes in untold amounts to the support of those European rascals who turn out "old masters" as buttons are turned out of a factory.

It is easy to join with Mr. De Longpre in the hope that "the long craze for the so-called old masters will soon be a thing of the past, and that the majority of them will be relegated to the obscurity to which they belong, and replaced by modern works of art, full of the poetry of life and freshness of colors."

BY-PRODUCTS.

Both the meat trust and the oil trust can point to a time when meat and oil were much more costly than they are now. They use this fact to prove that the trust has cheapened the cost of living; but what it really means is that they have found out how to use the by-products, and they make more money out of these than they do out of meat and kerosene. Now the beef trust utilizes everything but the squeal, and the oil trust uses everything but the smell—and they may find ways to use even these.

That idea of using the by-products is getting into pretty general use, and the world is immensely the better for it. It was a great waste of wealth when the horns and the hoofs and the bones were thrown away, and when it even cost money to get them out of the road. Now every bit is used, for one purpose or another, and the meat trust makes large profits on what used to be waste. The example is worth emulating, for there are thousands of ways in which waste can be turned to profit.

For instance, did you ever stop to think of the potential value of the by-products of your time? You work for a living, of course, if you deserve to live, and that takes, say, eight hours out of the twenty-four. That leaves sixteen hours. Out of that you sleep, say, seven hours, and that leaves nine hours. You probably take less than an hour for your three meals, but allow two hours. That leaves seven hours. What do you do with those precious seven hours that are yours to do with as you please?

These extra hours in your day are, unless you are greatly different from the average mortal, very much like the horns and hoofs that used to be thrown away—wasted. The beef trust found profitable use for the horns and hoofs; don't you think it possible that you might find profitable by-products in those seven valuable hours that are left out of your day?

Just for a test, analyze one of your days and find what you do with those seven hours. You use them in some way of course; but do you make good use of them?

For instance, just think what you could do with just a single one of these hours every day by devoting it to reading good books, books that will broaden and uplift and inspire; books that will give you a new and wider and more delightful outlook upon life; books that will provide culture and knowledge and that will help make life more worth living. Just an hour out of this spare seven, used intelligently every day, would in the course of a year enable you to digest a wide variety of books worth while.

That is just one way of utilizing the by-products of your time. There are many others that will occur to you. In the summer you can make a garden, or study some natural science like botany or geology that will bring you in contact with the glorious out-of-doors. You can put in an hour or two walking in the country to freshen you up for your day's work. If your system lacks tone, don't go to the drug store; set apart fifteen minutes a day to physical exercise in the fresh air. If you have a taste for painting or drawing or writing, take an hour or two of your spare seven, and cultivate that taste.

If you plan your day wisely, you will utilize the by-products of your time; thus you will find that there is much more in life than you had suspected, for you will find time to look about you and see how glorious and full of opportunity and interest it is. Remember the old saying: "Lost—Somewhere between sunrise and sunset, a golden hour, set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for it is gone forever." Don't use all your time in working, sleeping and eating; that makes you little better than a vegetable. Use some of your time to discover your mind and soul, and then develop them. You can't be all you ought to be unless you do. Develop the by-products of your time.

INSULT TO INJURY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why don't the city authorities compel contractors who are taking up all the sidewalk space in addition to over half the street, to at least provide dry footing where pedestrians are compelled to go out onto the street? Several new buildings are in the course of construction in the downtown district and in order to pass in front of them, people are forced to wade in slush and mud ankle-deep. It isn't enough to tell these contractors that they haven't any right to the use of the sidewalk. Yell at them until tired and the conditions remain the same. I understand they have no right to use the sidewalks at all, but they not only use the whole space, but lack the decency to lay boards in the muddy streets for the use of the public. My idea is that a few of them ought to be arrested. It seems that it is necessary to arrest them every so often, anyhow, in order to remind them that the city has ordinances regulating the use of the streets, and now would be a particularly appropriate time. In order to keep dry shod the Duluth public is put in the position of the man who hired a cab to take him home so that he wouldn't spoil a shine that cost him a dime. A CLERK.

Duluth, March 12.

LET DULUTH STAND ALONE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

After I read your editorial this evening I mentally grabbed your editorial writer by the hand.

Down in the central part of the state are two towns that call themselves the "Twin Cities." Ostensibly they are working hand in hand, but in reality they are at each other's throats.

Let this town live in peace with Superior. If Duluth cannot travel alone on its name, "Duluth," let us change it, but under no circumstances should it be confused with Superior. Each town has its individuality; each has its own ambitions. The two towns are not even in the same state and any effort to designate them by a single name is futile and ridiculous. I doubt whether the name, "Twin Ports," will be used generally in Duluth. Superior may take to it kindly.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Detroit Free Press: "He married an old-fashioned woman."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; she won't even let him smoke in the house."

Lottie—Is your young minister so very, very fascinating?

Hattie—Fascinating! Why, lots of girls in our church have married men they hated just to get one kiss from the rector after the ceremony.

Illustrated Bits: The Mean Thing—You're so conceited, Connie, that I believe when you get into heaven the first question you'll ask will be "Are my wings on straight?"

Connie—Yes, dear; and I shall be sorry that you won't be there to tell me.

Buffalo Express: "Whitcomb is an independent thinker."

"He is?"

"Yes; he even dares to say the clock in the railroad station is wrong."

Life: Miss Prim—I want a husband who will be easily pleased.

Miss Grouch—That's the kind you'll get.

London Opinion: "I can see what you want, my boy. You want some soap."

"No, I don't. I want some sandpaper."

New York Press: "Why were the animals taken into the ark?"

To get them out of Roosevelt's way, I suppose."

Philadelphia Record: Sillicus—Do you believe there is honor among thieves?

Cynicus—No; they are just as bad as other people.

M. A. P.: Edna—Did you jump when he kissed you under the mistletoe?

Camille—I had to. He is 6 feet 2, and I am only 4 feet 6.

Mott—Great Jupiter! That beats the centipede to a frazzle.

Catholic Standard and Times: "Pshaw!" exclaimed Miss Yerner, impatiently, "I'm sure we'll miss the first act. We've waited a good many minutes for that mother of mine."

"Hours, I should say," Mr. Sloman retorted rather crossly.

"Ours? Oh, George!" she cried, and laid her blushing cheek upon his shirt front.

Judge: "Women have gained fame despite the men!" shouted the sharp-featured suffragette.

"Yes, for untold ages," replied the mere meek man.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "To what school do those Duncans who walk about the streets in Greek costume belong?"

"Oh, they're taking a post-graduate course in free publicity."

Her Hired Help.

Harper's Magazine: At Cumberland, Md., the colored servants, as a rule, go to their own homes at night. The cook in the family of the Episcopalian clergyman not only does this, but of late has frequently arrived at the rectory too late to cook breakfast. Hence her mistress lately told her that for each breakfast missed there should be a reduction in her weekly wages. Dinah passively assented to this, but next day the mistress heard the maid next door say to her:

"'Pears to me you get to work mighty late."

"I get to work when I get ready," was the reply.

"How do you manage 'bout de brekfus?"

"Oh, I pays de missus to cook de brekfus."

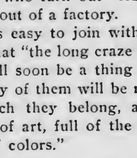
THE WEATHER

CLOUDY



The expected colder weather did not develop last night and the lowest temperature was 28 deg., which is a rather mild figure. The ice, which formed on the walks on account of the snow of the night before and the warm weather yesterday made walking perilous, but conditions overhead were beautiful. Anybody, who longs for California or Florida under present Duluth weather conditions must have la grippe in its advanced stages.

Mild, cloudy weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:28 and it will set at 6:09, giving eleven hours and forty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours rains fell over South Atlantic states in connection with an area of low pressure central this morning off the Virginia-North Carolina coast. Another disturbance overlying the region north of the Dakotas has caused warmer and rather mild weather throughout the greater portion of the Northwest. The barometer is high over Northern Texas and New England. As a rule temperatures have not changed materially during the past twenty-four hours "Indications favor generally fair weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Sunday."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

A Disappointing Chairman.

Kansas City Star: It is impossible to review the proceedings in the Ballinger investigation without observaving the sympathy of the chairman of the committee, Senator Nelson of Minnesota, with the defense. The senator apparently has been less interested in getting at the facts than in confusing witnesses and putting things in a favorable light for the secretary of the interior.

The chairman, in particular, ought to be impartial in his efforts to learn the truth. Senator Nelson has shown himself unfriendly to the conservation side. Possibly this helps explain why the senate organization permitted him to be made chairman. But his attitude is a distinct disappointment to the country, which had watched with admiration his independent course in the tariff debate.

A Bridge Fiend's Ultimatum.

Lippincott's The lady was preparing for her first trip abroad. She consulted her doctor as to the best course to pursue to avoid seasickness. He advocated eating heartily. Another doctor, to whom she mentioned her doubts, advised her to refrain from eating. In despair at such conflicting advice, she consulted a third physician and asked what was right.

"Both, my dear madam, both," he replied. "It just depends upon whether you prefer to discard from strength or weakness."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Keep on Trying.

Life's a try. Success depends on continued trying. One or two failures or even more need not prove disastrous, provided one is willing to try and try again.

Commonplaces these. Yes, but commonplaces that need to be frequently reiterated. For our natural tendencies are all in the other direction. How enthusiastically we enter upon a new task. But when it begins to go hard the blaze dies down. We did not anticipate these obstacles and discouragements. We run up against a strange lethargy within ourselves. Let's quit this job at least, intermit it for a while and in the meantime try something that goes a little easier.

Oh, you quitter! Is that the way the famous artists, musicians, poets, inventors, discoverers and captains of industry have behaved when they were facing what seemed to be an impassable wall? Had they turned aside when the road was hard we should never have had the paintings and statuary the masterpieces of prose and poetry, the great achievements in the material realm which have inured to the advantage of all mankind and of which we avail ourselves, forgetting often that they are the fruit of some one's patient, perservering industry.

But I am chiefly interested in the moral aspects of this matter. Goodness is the outcome of an infinite number of tryings. And there is no line of effort in which men tire so quickly as of the endeavor to be large, strong, pure, useful men. It's a life campaign. Our towns and cities are full of people who heard the call of the highest and gave themslves to the pursuit of righteousness. But the daily battle with impure thoughts, or a hot temper, or the drink habit, or laziness or monotony grew too hard and they stopped trying. Perhaps also the effort required to meet this or that responsibility, to maintain the devotional habit, to sustain the regular institutions of the church wearied them. Of persons of this type the apostle was thinking when he wrote mournfully, "Ye did run well."

But even such can try again. We have plenty of instances of men now successful in business, who in former years, failed in the commercial sense of the terms, but who were too plucky to give up the fight, but trying again they climbed high upon the ladder of success. And, thank God, many a man has, by trying again, recovered the moral status that he lost years ago through ceasing to try.

And our thought is of special worth to those charged with the duty of pushing forward some reform or of bringing definite, but difficult things to pass in the church, the home or in the world at large. Just keep on trying. You can cherish big hopes of the man of whom it can be honestly said "he's trying." To such these words of Canon Scott Holland of London carry great incentive. "The moment when our hearts despair there comes a sudden and swift movement; age-long barriers crumple up; walls fall flat; the work of years is fulfilled in a flood; the impossible has happened before we can believe it."

THE RAILROADS

By SAVOYARD

It seems that Roosevelt did not quite finish the octopus chase, and that Taft is called on to complete it. At least in his elaborate special message of Jan. 7, the president recommends amendment of the Hepburn law that Roosevelt had such a time bullying through congress, the session when Bill Chandler was the medium of communication between the president and Ben Tillman, and, I believe, Joe Bailey also. It had a rather unfortunate ending when Roosevelt was reduced to the necessity of quaffing the cup Nelson W. Aldrich brewed for him, and the president soothed his ruffled feelings by nominating Chandler, Tillman and Bailey to membership in the Ananias club.

Like everything else of reform nature he ever undertook, Roosevelt, in that affair, merely imitated that king of France, who marched up the hill with 40,000 men, and then marched down again. On the "trappings," "the pride, pomp and circumstance" of reform, Roosevelt never had his match in this or any other country, in this or any other age. But that is all. In reality he is, in a political sense, the most vicious character our country has produced, and the one president we have had who was utterly and defiantly contemptuous of the law. This is the great difference between him and Taft, who, in the first place, knows the law, and not only will not violate it himself, but will allow nobody else to break it if it comes to his knowledge. Then I applaud Taft, the one Republican president whose act has pleased, and will not, belie his tongue in his professions of friendship for the South. He is the only Republican president who at the same time is a friend of our people.

As for the railroad problem, all this tinkering with it is worse than foolish. One of two things will happen. Either there will be government ownership, or there will be one gigantic corporation owning every mile of steam roads between the two oceans. The government can regulate one railroad without harm to anybody; but it cannot regulate a number of railroads without harm to somebody. Some of the roads are strong, others are weak. A regulation that the Pennsylvania road can stand without injury would put the Erie into the hands of a receiver. Every time a railroad goes into insolvency, it injuriously affects every community it supplies. A railroad is an enormous buyer, but in the hands of a receiver, that road buys nothing except what it is bound to have, then and there on the spot.

Again there are thousands of miles of road in this country built on the idea of competition that ought not to have been built at all. There is a railroad connecting directly Louisville, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn. It can haul without embarrassment every pound of freight that can possibly pass between those two towns. Then what waste it would be to construct another line between Louisville and Nashville! It would be like the farmer who would send two plows to turn one furrow, or two men to feed one steer. It would be that bane of all business—waste.

All such folly as that would be impossible if there were but one railroad. It would be operated by men whose chief interest would be to build up every community, for it would be to their interest to do so, and if they failed, then the government could step in with its "regulation" and force them to do so.

The law ought to provide that the holding company should not go into effect until it had at least 500,000 stockholders, and the states should enact laws to encourage savings banks to invest in the stock. Thrifty farmers should be asked to take enough stock, the dividends on which would pay the freights on grain, livestock, tobacco or cotton they sell off the farm. Country storekeepers and all other merchants ought to be induced to take stock enough to pay all freights charged against them from the dividends. The stock should be made a basis of national bank circulation, and by operation of law it could be made to yield a dividend of not less than 5 per cent. I say by operation of law, which should so regulate the sum set apart for extensions as to insure a 5 per cent dividend.

It is either one big company, owned in the main by small capitalists, or it is government ownership. We will have government ownership whenever the railroad magnates get tired of being regulated by the interstate commerce commission, and if the present chase goes much further the big railroads will join in with Mr. Bryan and the two together will be able to accomplish the thing. The only way to defeat government ownership is the gigantic single holding company to acquire all the railroad stock in the country and operate every mile in the interest of the people and with as much consideration for every neighborhood and industry in the Union.

Congress for forty years has been full of parrots saying: "Competition is the solution of the railroad problem." Well, they tried competition, for that is all the "rebate" is. Two merchants at the crossroads selling the same boots, the standard price $3.00. One sells at $3.00. That is competition and a rebate of 50 cents on a single pair.

Congress said the roads should compete, and they competed. They gave the beef trust rebates. They gave the Standard Oil company rebates. They gave the steel trust rebates, and made John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie the two richest men in the world, and put $50,000,000 in the coffers of Phil Armour. The roads did not want to do this; they had to do it. Your railroad is one concern that has to do business. It is much better for the road to do business at a loss than not to do business at all, and to do business they were compelled to grant rebates between Chicago and Pittsburg and New York.

There was but one way for the roads to get out of the clutches of the trusts, and that was to pool their earnings. They had a bill in congress to that end, and you ought to have heard the howl that went up. It would have put a stop to the rebate and put every shipper on an equality. It would have crippled every trust enjoying rebates. Of course, the trusts said nothing, but let the octopus chasers alone, and they killed the bill, and thus added tens of millions to the coffers of Rockefeller, Carnegie and the others. Then, after they killed the pooling bill, it was laughable to see the poor little statesmen assail the trusts that they had just saved.

And so it went for years. The railroads were forced to compete. The rebate was the way they did it, and by that means they sent to bankruptcy, or drove out of business, thousands of small shippers, whose business was immediately absorbed by the big shippers. Had there been but one railroad company in the United States that would have been impossible. It could have said to the trusts, "We will haul your goods at the same rate we haul the smallest shipper's goods."

Steve Elkins, who has done more to solve the railroad problem on lines of intelligence and justice than forty Roosevelts, secured the passage of a law forbidding rebates, but not until the roads were allowed to make agreements that amounted to pooling. That is permissible under the law, and the roads and the people are getting on very well now.

But the one settlement is one company, owning every mile of road, or government ownership.

A WORLD CONGRESS TO STUDY CRIME

The United States, a Leader in Many Branches of Penology, Will Entertain Europe at Next Fall's International Congress.

By O. F. LEWIS
Secretary Prison Association, New York.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

When on Sept. 19, 1910, a special train of ten Pullmans leaves New York on a 2,000-mile trip to visit reformatories and penal institutions between New York, Chicago, Louisville and Washington, it will convey one of the most important bodies of representatives of different governments that has ever gathered in the United States. Probably never before have thirty or more governments of the civilized world, including nearly all the nations of Europe, sent to this country their official representatives to meet in an international congress.

To add to the interest of this congress it should be understood that these government representatives come together in this country to study the problems of crime, and of criminal law, and of the treatment of the criminal. Thirty-seven years ago in London, the international prison congress held its first meeting. Americans may be proud of the fact that this meeting to study both the criminal and the crime was organized by an American, E. C. Wines, at the time secretary of the Prison association of New York.

This was a time when the reformation of prison administration was in the air. The act providing for the establishment of Elmira reformatory (the first to be established in the United States) had been passed in 1868 by the New York legislature.

In 1870, at the first meeting of a group of progressive students of crime and crime problems in Cincinnati, the National Prison association was formed, and at that meeting in 1870 the plan for calling an international prison congress was developed. So that two years later it was the United States that took the lead in calling this congress, which has, however, never met as yet in the United States.

Every five years, in the years divisable by five (1900, 1905, for example) eminent scholars, prison administrators, judges and jurists have gathered for this purpose. In 1905 the congress was held in Budapest. At that meeting Dr. Samuel J. Barrows, an American criminologist of international reputation, was chosen president of the congress of 1910.

Dr. Barrows died last April, in the midst of his many activities, and his successor is Prof. Charles R. Henderson, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago. The preparations for the coming congress are novel and extensive. Many of the hundred or more delegates from Europe and other foreign governments have never before crossed the ocean. They will gather in New York in the middle of September and learn what New York city is doing to treat crime and to reduce criminality. Then as the guests of the United States government they will take the special tour mentioned at the beginning of this article. The following institutions will be visited: Elmira reformatory, George Junior Republic, Auburn, N. Y., state prison; Mansfield, Ohio, state penitentiary; Michigan City state penitentiary, Indiana; several correctional institutions in Chicago; Jefferson state reformatory, Indiana, and a number of other institutions. A special train will convey the 100 delegates and 50 or 100 American criminologists and sociologists on this trip.

On arriving at Washington the delegates will attend the annual meeting of the American Prison association from Sept. 28 to Oct. 2. From Oct. 2 to Oct. 8 the international prison congress will be held at Washington. President Taft will open the congress, and it is expected that more than 1,000 persons will attend the meetings.

The United States has contributed remarkably to the solution of prison problems, though in foreign countries far more study has been put upon the very problems which in the United States have led to quick, decisive action. A century ago—to cite one illustration—the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia was built. This penitentiary provided for constant separate confinement of each prisoner from the time he entered until he left the prison; though his sentence was for years, he saw no one except now and then a prison official or a prison visitor. He was led into the prison with a mask and a hood over his face. He worked in a cell, ate in his cell, and the only exercise he obtained was in a little yard built outside corresponding in width to his cell, the walls of the yard being so high that he could not see on the other side. A few years later, in Auburn, N. Y., the Auburn state prison was built, which provided for separation of the convicts during the night and their work in common during the day in the shops.

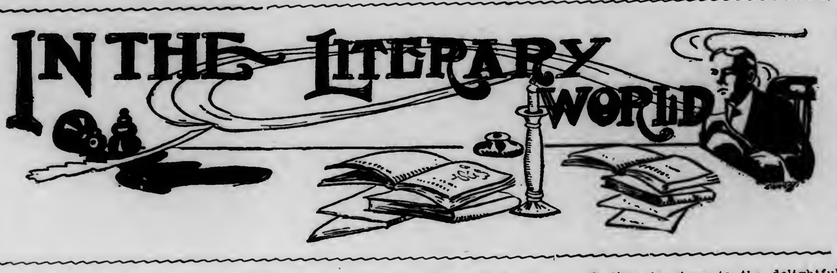
The adherents of the so-called "Pennsylvania system," and the so-called "Auburn system," were numerous. The contest between the merits of the two systems was so keen that for several decades most European countries built their prisons according to the Pennsylvania plan or the Auburn plan. Today most of the European prisons are built on modifications of the one system or the other.

The United States has contributed to the world the reformatory system as developed at Elmira, N. Y., Concord, Mass., Huntington, Pa., and elsewhere. The reformatory system has as its fundamental principles the theory that the prisoner should be held in the reformatory so long as he has not given evidence of his reformation. This requires an indeterminate sentence; for instance, a man committed to Elmira reformatory is committed without fixed sentence. He can be held there by the board of managers until the expiration of the maximum sentence which the law imposes for the crime which he has committed. On the other hand, by a carefully worked-out system of rewards, marks, etc., a young man can make his way through Elmira in about thirteen months.

The prisons of Europe have not adopted this reformatory system to the extent of its adoption in the United States. Prisoners in European countries may be liberated conditionally, but reformatory influences in European prisons are not considered to be so strong as in our American institutions; therefore one of the chief interests of the European visitor will be in the reformatory system. Then again, in the United States, there has developed the great modern system of treating child de linquents in the juvenile court, often called the children's court. In this matter Americans are believed to be far ahead of their European brethren. The work which Judge Lindsey, Judge Mack and other judges in children's courts have done has spreadd its fame throughout the civilized world.

At the international prison congress four general sections will be held. The first will relate to the administration of criminal law, the second to the administration of prisons, the third section to the prevention of crime, and the fourth section to the treatment of juvenile delinquents. The question of crime is no longer a question of prisons. The question of crime today is not simply a question of prisons. It is as wide as the whole field of delinquency. That is the reason why 1,000 students of crime and of delinquency from all over the United States and from foreign countries are to gather at Washington in this great congress in October.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD



THE INSPIRATION OF POETRY. By George Edward Woodberry. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.25 net.

Few excel Prof. Woodberry in the exposition of sound literary appreciation. His literary tastes are fine, his literary judgment is good, and his faculty for literary analysis is keen and profound. This volume contains eight lectures on poetic energy delivered before the Lowell institute of Boston in 1906. It glorifies poetry and the poet with poetic ardor and enthusiasm. "Through all the span of years," it says, "from the morning of the world almost till yesterday, the poets were a race apart; mortal, they yet shed a celestial gleam; dying, they remained deathless; more than any other class of men they typified imortality. • • • Poetic energy is inspiration, ancient conceived as a madness taking possession of the poet and in modern times as a divine prompting of the reasonable soul. • • • Emotion is far older than intellect in human life, and even when reason plays but a faint and faltering part in human affairs. • • • Poetic energy, as it appears historically, is shared and controlled emotion; it is primordial energy rising out of the league of feeling; it is social, and for the principle of its control in general there is no better word than music, or harmony in the old, broad sense of that term. • • • The two traits that most struck observers of poetic inspiration were its involuntary and its unconscious character. The will is laid to sleep, and the mind is entrusted to its own self-direction. The poet looks upon some scene with no thought of writing verses, and suddenly, out of nowhere, the song sings itself in his brain, and his memory has got it in tune and write it down. It is not more strange in the case of a poet whose brain is beat into rhythm, that a mood should so dissolve itself into tune than it is strange that when you sit down before the fire vivid pictures rise before your mind in revery."

Thus poetry is born, full panoplied and with the observance of form and finish according to man-made rules of syntax and prosody. One marvels at the wonder of it, even if he does not dispute it. In six of the eight lectures Prof. Woodberry presents the genius of six poets "as illustrations of that passion and power of life in which poetic energy consists;" "Mat" Marlowe; Camoens, "master of the only truly modern epic"; Byron, "poet of the Mediterranean world"; the sterile Gray, who "is among the poets who die only with the language that they breathed"; Tasso, who "so excelled Gray in power of their class"; Lucretius, hard and dry, well nigh unintelligible, who yet stands out from Roman times "in loneley grandeur."

AN INTERRUPTED FRIENDSHIP. By E. L. Voynich, author of "The Gadfly." New York: The Macmillan company. $1.50.

This novel is not a sequel to "The Gadfly," it is explained carefully, though the story deals with the Gadfly at a period of his life earlier than that covered by the brilliant novel which attracted wide attention nearly half a generation ago. This novel has the same brilliancy, and shows the same hectic and sorrowful morbid genius of which the Gadfly is found in South America by Rene Martel, son of an impoverished French family who is penetrating the blank places on the map of South America as a scientific expedition in order to earn money enough to have an operation performed on his invalid sister. Rivarez, the Gadfly, applies to the expedition for a place as interpreter. He is ragged, crippled, starved; and there is a terror and a mystery about him that both appeals and revolts. A friendship which ripens to love springs up between him and Martel, whose life he saves on the expedition. The story of the perilous and toilsome journey into the wilds of the South American jungle is grippingly interesting, though it is merely a means of developing the characters of the members of the expedition. Martel takes the Gadfly back to France with him, and he becomes a journalist. He suffers from a mysterious ailment which seems half madness. Martel's sister, Marguerite, hates him at first because of Rene's love for him, for there is between brother and sister a very beautiful love; but finally she learns to love the Gadfly, partly because he, too, is an incurable sufferer. Much of the story deals with the physical ailments of Marguerite and the Gadfly, the details of which have an unwholsome fascination for Mrs. Voynich. Finally this friendship is interrupted because the Gadfly believes Rene has betrayed him to his sister, and the trio are separated tragically. Marguerite believes it is because her love disgusted him, and Rene hasn't the faintest idea what it is all about. The reader will sympathize with his mystification, for the novel isn't very illuminating on that point. There is throughout a disproportion between causes and emotional effects that is designed, no doubt, to show that these are people who are of finer fiber and more exalted sensibilities than the average run of people of fiction. But however that may be, and no matter how dimly related some of the action is to apparent motives, there isn't any mistake about one thing: the book is exceptionally fascinating, and it is far removed from the commonplace.

STRICTLY BUSINESS. By O. Henry, author of "Options," "Cabbages and Kings," etc. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. Fixed price, $1.20.

Here are nearly two dozen more "stories of the four million," being characteristic O. Henry stories of queer sides of New York. All are written in the peculiarly sulphitic style that adds piquancy to this author's work. There are the usual delightful surprises in the turn of phrase and plot. There is point to each story, though some are pure farce, some are obvious travesty, and some start out to be serious only to be knocked back into the "funny column" by the writer's refusal to be serious long. It is true that most of his people talk in the same characteristic style, with the same delightful slang and the same quaint turn of phrase; but of course that is because he chooses that sort of people to write about. There is piquant entertainment in plenty in the genuine humor, the fresh originality and the refreshing style of these twenty-three tales of New York, dealing with a heterogeneous mixture of vaudeville artists, bunco men, bedliners, drunks, "rubes," poets, cowboys and just people.

TOWER OF IVORY. By Gertrude Atherton, author of "The Conqueror," "The Gorgeous Isle," "Senator North," etc. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.50.

John Ordham, brilliant but indolent young Englishman of fine family and great prospects, admired from afar Margarethe Styr, a great prima donna with a personality that made her the greatest Brunhilde and Isolde of her day, but hesitated to make her acquaintance for fear of disillusionment. Meanwhile he met Mabel Cutting, a beautiful young American girl who, while she "talked too much and really knew nothing at all, was otherwise quite flawless." Also, she was rich and he was poor and beset by creditors while he pursued his studies preparatory for a diplomatic career. Mabel's smart young expatriated American mother made up her mind that John and Mabel should marry.

Cool composure was a striking trait in Oldham. She marched unexpectedly into a dining hall in a Bavarian palace 100 feet long, and walked through lines of flunkeys as though he did it every day. Also, when he got acquainted with the Styr he endured closest intimacy with phlegmatic coolness—for a while. He married Mabel, left her to face childbirth while he visited the Styr, heard the prima donna tell him of her youth as the property of many men, realized that she was fourteen years his senior, and it all made no difference in his passionless and aloof. Then the subterranean fires were burning. The outburst is volcanic when it comes, and the result tragic.

The story is fresh, vivid, strongly interesting, and it is told with insight and dramatic power. It halts in spots; the tense plot is slacked by interruptions and diffusions. It would have been stronger and the interest more persistent if it had been a third shorter. But Mrs. Atherton is a skilled story-teller, and those who like her work will not be disappointed by this book. The people of the story are strongly defined, and the character of Margarethe Styr is as fine a bit of work as Mrs. Atherton has done. The pictures of life in Munich are vastly entertaining, and the melancholy figure of Ludwig, the mad king of Bavaria, always in the background yet vivid and appealing, is neatly done.

THE DAY OF SOULS. By Charles Tenney Jackson. Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.50.

Here is a broad, highly-colored picture of San Francisco from beneath; a novel of politics and Slumdom full of human interest and vivid etchings of how the other half lives. It is ragged in spots. The author needs to cultivate a little of the art of repression and suggestion. But it is a strong, promising, interesting story. Innocent little Sylvia Spring, "from the mountains," came to San Francisco to marry John Hamilton Arnold, street politician and rounder, because he had won her heart when he went to her town to help local talent put on an operatic performance. He was just the sort of dashing fellow that wins innocent country maidens, and though he didn't love Sylvia, he liked the 300 acres of valuable timber she owned, and he really meant to marry her. She was so innocent, however, that he cast her off after a plunge into San Francisco's tinselled Bohemia, from which she emerged, fluttered and horrified but unscathed. But her influence did much to Arnold. Not only did it lead him to sleep outside in the rain while she occupied his rooms, but it led him to break away from the coil of graft and corrupt politics which had made him what he was, although that was not until after he had corrupted his friend, a legislator, and driven another to suicide with a bad tip on the races. It was a heroic fight, and at one time everybody was against him except a discarded "kept woman" who was his friend and to whom he was a friend, but he won out at last and achieved a firm footing by sacrifice and devotion. It was a fine fight and a clean victory and the story of it is highly embellished with illuminating descriptions of politics and Bohemia in San Francisco, on the whole very cleverly done.

OVER THE QUICKSANDS. By Anna Chapin Ray, author of "The Bridge Builders," etc. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

Donald Rhodes's father, when Donald announced that he was going to take a pleasure trip to Quebec and take his cousin Hilda along, showed a strange horror at the idea, and promptly snatched Hilda off to Europe so she couldn't go. But Donald went, fell sick there, met some very companionable young people, and enjoyed himself. Later, when his father was away, he took Hilda there also, and they had some very pleasant times with the very pleasant young folks they met. Incidentally, a couple of pretty romances began, and presently they become enwrapped in the mystery that lurks in the background of the tale. The plot develops slowly because so much time is given to the delightful experiences of the charming young men and women of Quebec and New York who form its cast of characters, but it develops interestingly. In this volume Miss Ray adds another to the series of charming books in which she describes so well the social life of Quebec. She deals with a powerful motif, which she handles with delicacy and charm. The book is full of real, living people who are placed in intense situations, but whose strength of character carries them through admirably. Miss Ray's novels always have been distinguished for their charming dialogue and accuracy of local color, and her recent stories have been marked by increased dramatic interest, and power. The new work is probably the strongest she has produced.

Of Books and Writers.

Five million dollars is the largest sum there is on record of having been won in a single sitting at cards. The story of its winning is told by Frank Nevill in his new history of gambling, "Light Come, Light Go." (Macmillan). A young Englishman, who knew very little about cards, was induced to join in a game with two strangers whom he had offered to entertain for a night in his hut in Australia. His consent was only obtained upon the agreement that as soon as only one of the three should have won what money they had in their pockets at the time, they would stop playing. The Englishman's luck was good, and soon the cash of the travelers was gone. They, however, persuaded him to continue a little longer, offering to wager a soiled document picked up in some previous game. It was worth, they considered, $50. The next time the bookkeeper for March to fix in the minds of all who are interested in what great men have done and how they did it, the outline of a highly commendable career. The people of the United States have as good right to be proud of his achievements as our neighbors across our Northern borders. His name carries with it the title of lord high commissioner for Canada when spoken or written in this country, but the fact should be as well known that he has had more to do with the development of the Northwest than any other man, with the probable exception of James J. Hill. The names of the two men will go down linked in history. The Bookpeople tells about the achievements of both and the qualities of manhood and business which have enabled them to accomplish so much. Sketches of other successful men in the varying occupations, with their portraits, help to make this issue of the magazine instructive as well as readable. Practical questions in business are discussed from the standpoint of authority.

Automobilists will be delighted with the present number of Leslie's Weekly. Almost every magazine in America has issued a motor car number, but it has remained for Leslie's to publish the first practical auto issue. From cover to cover the magazine is a mine of entertainment and informtaion. Such subjects as "Can Women Run Motor Cars?" "The Automobile as a Farmhand," "Good Roads and the Automobile," "What Becomes of Second-hand Automobiles," "The Popular Motor Cycle," "Can the Auto Aid My Business?" etc., are treated from the practical, utilitarian standpoint. The illustrations that accompany these articles are unusual and striking. Sport followers will find Ed. A. Goewey's usual breezy and entertaining discussion and cartoons in the present issue. "Jasper," Leslie's noted financial expert, gives his usual shrewd advice to moneymakers and investors.

In the International Socialist Review for March, Mary E. Marcy writes on "The Cause of Rising Prices." She points out that the value of gold has sharply declined in the last decade, by reason of improved methods of mining, and that the rise of all prices measured in gold is a natural consequence. This rise, she holds, is worldwide, and not at all limited to trust-made products. She shows good reasons for thinking that prices will keep on rising, and she calls on wage-workers to unite in an "immediate demand" for higher wages.

The teacher in "The Little Red Schoolhouse" would be chocked at the heretical ideas of Chicago school teachers who, winter and summer, are letting in pure fresh air through wide open windows. In fact an outdoor school room has been established where children sit and study bundled up in ulsters and toboggan caps. These innovations in school administrations are described in the March Survey. Sherman C. Kingsley, superintendent of the United Charities writes on "The Outdoor School." W. E. Watt tells about the danger to which the child is subjected, both physically and mentally, through the lack of proper school ventilation. Dr. Addison W. Baird describes an outdoor living room which he has built on the roof of his New York dwelling. Among other articles Alfred T. White, president of the Brooklyn bureau of charities, tells about infant mortality rates in Brooklyn and Manhattan. Mrs. Hellen W. Rogers describes the work of the Louisville Milk association. Dr. Henry L. Shively outlines what is hoped to be accomplished through the new Vanderbilt model tenements and Dr. C. P. Oberndorf compares New York and Munich in regard to alcoholism. Few people in this country are likely to know much about the career of Lord Strathcona. Enough is told of him in the bookkeeper for March to fix in the minds of all who are interested in what great men have done and how they did it, the outline of a highly commendable career. The people of the United States have as good right to be proud of his achievements as our neighbors across our Northern borders. His name carries with it the title of lord high commissioner for Canada when spoken or written in this country, but the fact should be as well known that he has had more to do with the development of the Northwest than any other man, with the probable exception of James J. Hill. The names of the two men will go down linked in history. The Bookkeeper tells about the achievements of both and the qualities of manhood and business which have enabled them to accomplish so much. Sketches of other successful men in the varying occupations, with their portraits, help to make this issue of the magazine instructive as well as readable. Practical questions in business are discussed from the standpoint of authority.

A new book of vital importance to every corporation is the "Treatise on the Federal Corporation Tax Law," by Arthur W. Machen, Jr., which Little, Brown & Co. have just brought out.

It contains the text of the act of congress, the regulations of the treasury department and forms of returns, together with a discussion of the important question arising from the law, and full citations of the decisions under previous federal laws taxing income of individuals or corporations. All the perplexing questions that arise concerning corporation returns are carefully discussed and explained, so that the necessary procedure is clearly evident.

Little, Brown & Co. are publishing a cook book which is said to meet the demands of the hour. "The Golden Rule Cook Book," comprising over 600 recipes for meatless dishes, will be found tried and tested concoctions which the author, Mrs. M. R. L. Sharpe, has devised and used in her own kitchen for the past seven years. Mrs. Sharpe and her family have been vegetarians for years, and these results of her experiments in the cookery line will prove a boon to the cook who now has to cater to non-meat-eating diners.

Among English authors whose entertaining novels have attained widespread popularity in this country is Anthony Hartridge, whose latest book, "Passers-By," is now one of the six best sellers throughout the United States, according to the March Bookman. The first novel issued on this side of the Atlantic with Mr. Partridge's name on the title page was "The Distributors," a story of the doings of a company of London aristocrats known as "The Ghosts." Then followed "The Kingdom of Earth," a dashing story of the "Zenda" type, which was a great favorite with fiction readers last summer. Five printings in five weeks is the record "The Passers-By" has already made, according to Little, Brown & Co., the publishers.

The Yale University Press makes the important announcement that it will publish during the autumn of this year "The records of the federal convention of 1787," under the editorship of Max Farrand, of the department of history at Yale university. The federal convention of 1787 was the most important body of its kind in America, for it framed the constitution of the United States. The proceedings of this convention are naturally of the greatest interest because the intention of its members has been an important factor in the interpretation of the constitution. Its work has, therefore, attracted a great deal of attention, and much study has been devoted to it. Various editions of the two or three principal records of its proceedings have appeared. Until now the printed records have been scattered through a dozen or more different works, and there has been until this time, some material of considerable value, unpublished. Evident need has thus existed for this new and complete edition of "The Records of the Federal Convention," which brings together, in a single work, all of these scattered records.

It is expected by the Yale University Press that the exhaustive search made by Prof. Farrand will result in the present work proving to be a definitive edition of the "Records of the Federal Convention of 1787." It is expected that the records will appear in three royal octavo volumes, with a special limited subscriber's edition, on English hand made paper.

It is interesting to learn that James Bryce, whose book, "The Hindrances to Good Citizenship" is attracting so much favorable attention, is now engaged upon a revision of his "American Commonwealth," which was published about twenty years ago. Much of the ripe fruit of the author's more familiar konwledge of the American people and American institutions, is to be found in the recent publication by the Yale University Press.

The question whether a lawyer should defend a client he believes to be morally guilty is a chronic source of disagreement among conscientious lawyers and students of ethics. This is one of the many interesting points which Mr. Francis Wellman discusses in his new work "Day in Court," (Macmillion), which was published two weeks ago. Mr. Wellman states that the advocate does not sell his conscience and he insists on sincerity at all times. This opinion coming as it does in the front rank of the legal profession is particularly significant in view of certain popular ideas regarding the scruples of lawyers. While "Day in Court" is not put forward as a plea for a charitable attitude toward the profession, its revelation of a lawyer's viewpoint must have a wide effect.

For a first novel by a new author, Wilder Goodwin's "The Up Grade," has already attained an enviable success. Published Jan. 8, this virile story of the Southwest has already been sent to press for the fifth impression, and the book is appearing in the lists of the best sellers. Mr. Goodwin is the son of Maud Wilder Goodwin, who wrote "White Aprons," "Sir Christopher," "Veronica Playfair," and other historical romances that met with great favor. Graduating from Harvard in 1907, this young author spent many months in Arizona, where the scenes of "The Up Grade" are laid, before he returned to New York to take up the study of law. Australia, which has become an important market for typical American novels, has already consumed a large edition of "The Up Grade."

Among the Magazines.

The March month-end issue of the Popular Magazine is, in many respects, a remarkable one. To begin with, there is the first installment of "The Hollow Needle," by Maurice Leblanc, introducing the great adventurer, "Arsene Lupin." Then there is one of Robert Alexander Wason's funny "Happy Hawkins" yarns. Emerson Hough has a study of men of elemental passions in an unusual story called "The Onion." "The Nomination that Went Begging," by Max Marcin, is a political drama full of action. What is probably one of the funniest stories ever printed is told by W. B. M. Ferguson; the title is "Wizard Sixty." There is a long complete novel by Herman W. Sinclair — a story of the Northwest mounted police, vigorously told. Herman Whitaker tells about "The Transformation of Twenty-two," a delirious old locomotive with a penchant for running off the rails. There is another chance to laugh in B. M. Bower's two-part novelette, "Lord of the Pots and Pans," which tells of the troubles of a hotel chef who came to cook for the cowboys.

Little did Washington foresee, when he penned the most memorable passage of his farewell address, the possibility of such a periodical as Current Literature for March. This number of the magazine which sets such store by timeliness seems to catch up the spirit of the age abroad quite as much as it catches up the spirit of the age in these United States. Mr. Fairbanks and the pope, for example, may not be an entirely American topic nor an entirely European one—let us call it international. In Curent Literature much space is devoted to it. The same may be said of that other theme, the tariff. It is international in its aspect now instead of being simply domestic. The evolution of political parties is set forth in a review of the world's events for the past month embracing the opening of the new British parliament, the anticlerical prime minister of Spain and the misadventures of our trusts in Washington. The "rise of the house of Guggenheim" is the title of a very striking character study and in the same spirit is the pen portrait of Judge Lurton, the latest man to assume a seat on the bench of the highest court in the land.

Automobilists will be delighted with the present number of Leslie's Weekly. Almost every magazine in America has issued a motor car number, but it has remained for Leslie's to publish the first practical auto issue. From cover to cover the magazine is a mine of entertainment and informtaion. Such subjects as "Can Women Run Motor Cars?" "The Automobile as a Farmhand," "Good Roads and the Automobile," "What Becomes of Second-hand Automobiles," "The Popular Motor Cycle," "Can the Auto Aid My Business?" etc., are treated from the practical, utilitarian standpoint. The illustrations that accompany these articles are unusual and striking. Sport followers will find Ed. A. Goewey's usual breezy and entertaining discussion and cartoons in the present issue. "Jasper," Leslie's noted financial expert, gives his usual shrewd advice to moneymakers and investors.

To the issue of Harper's Weekly for March 5 Elizabeth Dryden contributes an entertaining account of her impressions of the dress rehearsal of M. Rostand's new play, "Chantecler." Charles Johnson writes in this number upon "The Mother of Parliaments." Under the title "Deceiving the Shopper" Nellie Crooks tells of the adulteration of textiles guaranteed to be "all wool," "all silk" or "all linen." William R. Willcox replies to William Barclay Parsons upon "The Transportation Problem in New York City." Other articles in this issue are: "The Genius of Scott," by Sir Gilbert Parker; "The Army's Songs of the Philippines," by Albert Shelby; and "The Unturning Worms," by William Johnston.

In the International Socialist Review for March, Mary E. Marcy writes on "The Cause of Rising Prices." She points out that the value of gold has sharply declined in the last decade, by reason of improved methods of mining, and that the rise of all prices measured in gold is a natural consequence. This rise, she holds, is worldwide, and not at all limited to trust-made products. She shows good reasons for thinking that prices will keep on rising, and she calls on wage-workers to unite in an "immediate demand" for higher wages.

The teacher in "The Little Red Schoolhouse" would be chocked at the heretical ideas of Chicago school teachers who, winter and summer, are letting in pure fresh air through wide open windows. In fact an outdoor school room has been established where children sit and study bundled up in ulsters and toboggan caps. These innovations in school administrations are described in the March Survey. Sherman C. Kingsley, superintendent of the United Charities writes on "The Outdoor School." W. E. Watt tells about the danger to which the child is subjected, both physically and mentally, through the lack of proper school ventilation. Dr. Addison W. Baird describes an outdoor living room which he has built on the roof of his New York dwelling. Among other articles Alfred T. White, president of the Brooklyn bureau of charities, tells about infant mortality rates in Brook-

THE YOUNGEST PRIMA DONNA ON THE AMERICAN STAGE

—Copyright by George Grantham Bain.

ELVIRA DE HIDALGO.

New York, March 10.—Elvira De Hidalgo is the youngest prima donna. She is only 16. She has youth and beauty as this portrait of her shows. If report be true she has a fine lyric-soprano voice and already sings a wide repertoire. Miss De Hidalgo is a native of Barcelona and received her training at Milan. She had a longing for the operatic stage when a little child but her parents ignored it until she was 12 years old. Then she ran away from home to study singing. When she returned, her parents promised to let her sing. She has justified her early ambition and is popular in the capitals of Europe. She made her debut in this country at the Metropolitan opera house in "The Barber of Seville" last Monday.

MOTORING BONNETS

Are New and Charming and Serviceable.

Motoring in atractive garb is within the reach of all. There is no necessity for discarding beauty when donning the outing cap for the cross-country spin, for motor caps are here in infinite and becoming variety.

Shirred taffeta gives a soft frame for a pretty face. The puffed edge makes a becoming, irregular line, while cords hold the ample folds in lines of shirring about the face. The soft chiffon strings, tied in a fluffy bow at the side, add the piquancy that we associate with the little French toques.

Gray suede is new. The edge is shirred over cording, with a soft relief furnished by a lavender satin quilling. This cap fits closely on the head and is strapped under the chin. No damage can be wrought to the coiffure while under the protection of the soft leather.

A quilted lining is the comfort of a blue satin bonnet. The plain edge has a turned-back plaiting of silk, while the back is brought in soft fullness to the lower line. Rosettes of blue chiffon hold the long ties. A model easy of home execution is this.

A new veil with the rings suggests a quick adjustment, minus the unattractive creases in the chiffon that result from frequent and varying knottings.

A velvet bonnet has petals of silk outlined with folds of velvet. Then velvet rings will hold in the soft folds of the veil with a gratifying quickness and security. Whether the veil is worn over the hat or down over the face, they are equally effectual in their work.

Paris Hints.

Large flat hats have appeared at many of the expositions, for the displays of the large houses may be called such, and flowers in wreaths are encircling the low crowns. This style is becoming to nine out of ten women, for it is undeniable that the long sweeping lines of hats will add to the charm of the face beneath, and they are rarely trying to wearers on account of stiff or straight effects.

Heavy lace incrusted with gems shows that the styles so popular in the winter have been recognized as worthy of repetition for spring evening gowns.

And that leads us to evening wraps. The French woman, you know, is in her glory when, arrayed in the best efforts of the great designers, she can view other costumes on the stage with a willingness to adopt the latest line or note exploited there.

And at the end of the evening's performance, nothing is quite to be compared with the luxury of slipping into a beautiful wrap that combines comfort with elegance. Evening cloaks are growing more magnificent as the days go on. Heavy gold and silver embroidered on supple satin, jewels in every imaginable shade, and silken fringe and cords are used to give almost a barbaric splendor.

When the introduction of any revived or original style is made, either in the rooms of a famous modiste or at the social functions that furnish an arc of the round of pleasure, it is astonishing to view the liberal acceptance of the style, for the conservatism of our American sisters is not a trait of the Parisienne.

Embroided Hats.

Among the new hats there are some which have large crowns of velvet which has been embroidered with soft silks.

The velvet is generally of a different tone from the color of the brim, and the embroidered flowers are worked in the shade to match the rest of the hat. Flower forms seem to be most favored, when the needle is applied.

The possibilities are legion, when contrast is the thing desired. What is more attractive than a large shape of brown rough straw with a crown of a darker brown velvet embroidered with sprays of brown and yellow dahlias, or asters?

Gray, also, is capable of artistic combination with yellow, green or silver.

It, of course, is not surprising that the highly favored embellishment of embroidery has reached beyond the bodice and has touched the hat.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

MISCHA ELMAN,
Who Will Be Heard at the Lyceum Tuesday Night.

Mischa Elman, the young Russian violinist, who will play at the Lyceum next Tuesday evening, and who has just made his debut in New York, came heralded from abroad as one of the most powerful geniuses of the age.

His first appearances have fully borne out all that the European press have said of his wonderful playing, and New York has placed him at the head of all violinists heard there since his distinguished countryman, Wienlawski, played there more than twenty years ago.

Elman was born in Russia some nineteen years ago. He first studied violin with his father at the age of 4 years. At the age of 5 years he played in public. At 7 he entered the Imperial conservatoire in Odessa, and there won his first prize, a free scholarship, at his entrance examination.

In 1902, Leopold Auer, the professor of violin in the Royal conservatoire of St. Petersburg, was making a concert tour in southwest Russia, when young Elman was brought to his notice, and he had him play. That he was astonished, must be adduced from the manner in which their lives have been linked since then. Auer immediately telegraphed the czar of all Russians, that he must give permission for young Elman and his family to come into St. Petersburg, or to accept his resignation as head of the Royal conservatoire. The czar wired his consent and when Auer returned he brought young Elman and his entire family along with him. Elman was then accepted as a free pupil at the Royal conservatoire, and here he spent several years at work. In 1904 Auer was called upon an orchestra in St. Petersburg to allow Elman to appear as soloist, predicting a sensational success for him at that time. His predictions came true with the first concert, and since then it has been of steady growth, until now he is placed at the head of all the world's greatest violinists known to fame.

Auer took young Elman to Berlin, introduced him there, and from Berlin Elma went to London, where his success the past four years have dimmed the lights of all other violinists of note. He played over 130 concerts in London alone since his advent there which is a record unsurpassed. His debut in New York on Dec. 10 was a duplication of what he had undergone in other important centers. It was eagerly awaited, and though he had only sixty hours in New York in which to prepare himself for this, he captured the critics and the public before he had played a dozen bars of his opening selection. Elman's magnetic personality aids him considerably in his great success with his audiences. His technique surpasses that of Kubelik, and he never exploits it, as does the Bohemian, while his tone is of such ingratiating sweetness that he carries his hearers along with him. Elman is the season sensation.

SETTLE STRIKE ON TRENTON CAR LINES.

Trenton, N. J., March 12.—The strike of the employes of the Trenton Street Railway company, which had been going on for the last two days, was settled late yesterday afternoon. The settlement resulted in the men's getting practically everything they asked for. The principal demand was for an increase in compensation of from 18½ to 23 cents an hour. The settlement was brought about through the intermediation of a citizens' committee.

GO OVER BOOKS OF THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

New York, March 12.—It has been learned in Wall street that accountants have been going over the books of the Illinois Central company here and in Chicago, not because there is any suspicion of dishonesty, but to learn why the earnings of subsidiary roads under the presidency of J. T. Harahan have been falling off. The accountants will report to a committee of the board of directors exactly what the financial condition of the property is. Mr. Harahan recently denied that he intends to resign or that there is any intention to depose him. He was elected in 1906 by the Harriman interests, to succeed Stuyvesant Fish.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Campaign for Cyrus Northrop Hall Is Making Good Progress.

Seismograph Likely to Be Installed in the Pillsbury Building.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The greatest campaign in university history is now being successfully carried on. The campaign is for a building for the Minnesota union, to be erected by the combined efforts of the undergraduates, faculty and alumni, and to be given to the Minnesota union and to the university as a tribute to President Northrop. Nothing could be more fitting as a state-wide tribute to him than the dedication of a men's building, which he considers the greatest need of the university at present. The building will be called Cyrus Northrop hall. The fund for the building is growing rapidly; subscriptions are being received daily, and Secretary Johnson says that plans to push the campaign outside of the university are about completed.

Yozo Yamagashi, a Japanese student in the senior class of the college of pharmacy, who was accidentally killed last Sunday, by a falling door which was blown down during a high wind, was a splendid student and would probably have been among the first five students in the pharmacy class. It is practically certain that the regents will grant a request now before them that Mr. Yamagashi be honored by having conferred upon him the degree he would have received in June. A college diploma is considered of much importance in Japan, and it therefore would mean a great deal to the parents of the dead student.

A seismograph is to be installed in the Pillsbury building soon if the board of regents will appropriate the necessary $1,500 for it. The instrument will record the slightest tremors of the earth. The observations will be taken by the students themselves and they will make a practical study of earthquake records.

Prof. C. W. Hall, head of the department of geology, and Prof. John Zeleny, head of the physics department, have put this request before the board of regents.

Oliver Bowles of the geology department, who made an expedition through the Nipigon iron country last summer, talked of his trip before the geology club Monday. Mr. Bowles believes that because of the low grade of the ore, and the poor facilities for transportation, the mines of this country will not be opened until the Mesaba and Cuyuna mines of Minnesota are exhausted. "An expert prospector might be able to choose a valuable claim," said Mr. Bowles, "but much of the land is worthless."

That the Maria Sanford scholarship loan fund will be established by June there is no doubt in the mind of Mrs. Theodore Knappen, chairman of the fund committee. Clubs from all parts of the state are sending in contributions daily. The fund was begun last January by the Ramblers, a woman's club of Minneapolis. Over $150 has already been subscribed; it is expected that there will be $1,200 by June. That will be enough to start the scholarship loan, although $2,000 is expected finally.

KOMURA CABLES HIS ASSURANCE OF PEACE.

New York, March 12.—A cable message dated Tokio, from Count Komura, minister of foreign affairs for Japan, to the New York World, and printed here this morning, denies that there is any danger of war between Japan and the United States. The message reads: "I am convinced that there is nothing in American-Japanese relations to cause uneasiness. The real Far Eastern interests of the two powers are not inconsistent or antagonistic. War is inconceivable. It would be a crime without excuse or palliation. My conviction finds ample support in the understanding of 1908. "KOMURA."

BERT'S AND JULIA'S GOOD SAINT PATRICK.

By Florence May

IT was St. Patrick's Day, and as Bert and Julia Donivan went to school in the morning over the country road they fell to talking about the good and great deeds of St. Patrick. "I wish St. Patrick might have lived during our time," said Julia.

"It would be so wonderful to know such a person. I wish we might have saints alive as well as dead, for they would do us so much good."

"We do have them alive as well as dead," declared Bert, the elder of the two. "But, of course, one has to be very, very great and good to become a saint. And we do have very, very good people living in every age, though we do not call them saints. Now, when one saves another's life, or gives in charity to the poor, one is then almost a saint."

"Oh, no!" corrected Julia. "A very wicked person might save another's life. And, also, one living a bad life is often very charitable. So, you see, you cannot bear out your argument. It takes a person very near to God to be a saint—one who cannot sin."

"Yes, I guess you are right," agreed Bert. "But we do have people who are good in every sense. Still, we do not call them saints."

"I call our mother a saint," said Julia, in a low and feeling voice. "She does nothing but good to everybody. And just think what she is to us—and our home! I think such mothers as ours should be sainted."

"Yes, but you don't find many mothers as good as ours," declared Bert.

"That is the way we think," laughed Julia. "But if we take a vote from the children at school as to who should be sainted in our community, why, each child would vote for his own mother, just as we would vote for ours."

Bert had to agree again with Julia, and then the subject was changed. But throughout the day Julia kept thinking of good St. Patrick, and wishing that she might meet with someone who was really and truly a saint. That evening as she and Bert went home they decided to stop at the house of a very poor family to inquire after their health. There were only three in the family—father, mother and young son. And their livelihood was gotten from a small tract of very wretched, sandy soil which required the tilling of every acre, and which grew things so stingily. Indeed, it was said of this family that they suffered dire want during the winter and early spring, for their provisions usually gave out before another crop could be grown.

In response to Bert's tap at the door a boy's voice called out: "Come in." Bert and Julia entered the wretched abode and saw the mother on the bed, very ill. The father was sitting beside a rusty stove in which struggled a fire of green wood. The boy who had invited them to enter was preparing a meal over the miserable fire, and looked up as his visitors entered, smiling. "Ah, howdy do, Bert and Julia," he said. And he placed chairs for them beside the stove. Then speaking to his parents, he explained: "Mother and father, this is Bert Donivan, you have heard me talk so much about, and his sister Julia. They are schoolmates of mine—when I go to school, you know."

Mr. and Mrs. Day (the name of the family on whom the Donivan children were calling) spoke very cordially to Bert and Julia, and Mrs. Day said: "I hope you will excuse the unkept appearance of our house. But I am too ill to get about, and Mr. Day is just recovering from a serious sickness, and the work all falls upon Patsy. But he is such a good son. I really cannot tell you how noble he has been during our trials of the past month."

"Yes, Patsy is a fine boy," spoke up Mr. Day, warmly. And he looked lovingly at his son, who was making some porridge.

Patsy's face flushed from embarrassment. "Oh, mother and father only think I am so great," he laughed. "You must excuse them for praising me so, for I am their only olive branch, you see."

"Well, there are very few boys like our Patsy," said Mrs. Day. "And during his father's and my illness he never complained once of the work he had to do. He has been obliged to remain away from school two weeks, but he has kept up with his studies just the same as though he had attended regularly, for every night after his work was done he sat beside the fire and got his lessons. You see, the teacher drops in here on his way to the schoolhouse of a morning and lays out Patsy's lessons for the day. And it has been such an encouragement to the boy to have the teacher take such an interest in him. Oh, he has had such a trial—waiting on two sick folks, and all alone."

"Yes, and he has had the wood to cut, and the cows to milk, and the horse to feed and care for, and the chickens to tend. In fact, he has had his hands more than full," said Mr. Day, adding his praise of Patsy to that of his wife.

"Really, if anyone had told me that the boy could accomplish so much, and do it so cheerfully and so well, I would not have believed it. He has really saved my life, for he went to see the doctor regarding me, told him all my symptoms—we couldn't afford to have the doctor come out here—and got some medicine. Well, the doctor said it was absolutely necessary for me to have the medicine given every hour for the first 24 hours, and after that every two hours till the pain subsided and the fever fell. So what did this boy of mine do?—Why, he sat up all night—his eyes on the clock, and on the very minute my medicine was given me. And all the next day the same—without sleep! Well, on the second night his mother—who was also very ill, but who could get up and about occasionally—forced him to go to bed and sleep, and she gave me my medicine. But Patsy was up before dawn, and at work cutting wood, for we were about out of fuel when I took down on my back. Oh, I shall never be able to tell you what this boy of ours has done for us. He is the noblest of God's creatures."

Bert and Julia entered the wretched abode.

The feeble man's voice shook with emotion and he wiped moisture from his eyes. "I bless the day Patrick was born," he added.

"Patrick!" exclaimed Julia. "Is Patsy's name really and truly Patrick?" And she looked inquiringly first at Mr. Day and then at Mrs. Day.

"Yes, of course, he is our dear Patrick," replied Mrs. Day.

"Didn't you know that Patsy is only a pet name for Patrick?"

"Well, I had never thought about his being really and truly Patrick," said Julia. "I am so glad that is his name, though."

Bert laughed outright. "Sister is looking for a St. Patrick today," he explained. "And I guess she has found him. I'll agree that Patsy is as near a saint as live children ever get to be. He is certainly a joy to his parents, and all us kids at school swear by him, he's so reliable and kind-hearted. I say he's a brick."

'And I say he's St. Patrick the second," said Julia. Then she got up and took the spoon from Patrick. "Here, let me stir your porridge," she said in a sisterly way. "You have had so much to do that a little rest won't hurt you. Please sit down and talk with Bert, for I mean to stay here and prepare your supper. Bert will cut some wood for you, carry it into the shed, and then we'll have to run on home. But we'll tell Mamma how ill your father and mother have been and tomorrow Mamma will be here—with a basket of things for sick people. Mamma is a saint, also, you know. And one saint always wants to help another saint when in trouble."

In spite of his protest Patsy was forced to surrender the porridge spoon and sat down beside his mother's bed. Bert ran out to the woodpile and soon the ax and the saw were busy. And after he had gotten a big box of fuel ready for the stove and Julia had finished preparing the frugal meal, they had to say good-by and depart for home. On their way thither, Julia said: "I am not joking when I say that Patsy Day is really and truly a saint. He's the best boy in the world—except you, Bert."

Bert roared with laughter. "I make no pretense of being a saint, Sister, but I agree with you that if there is a saint on earth—besides our mother, of course—it's that Patsy Day. And to think his name is Patrick, too! And we discovered his saint-like qualities and his real name on good St. Patrick's Day. It is remarkable."

"Yes, and I am so glad we stopped at the Day's house, for tomorrow Mamma and Papa will go over there and carry some previsions to the poor, dear people. They are so patient, so gentle and so kind," she added. "And Patsy deserves all the help we can give him."

"Yes, we'll stop there every evening after school and do their chores till Mr. and Mrs. Day are entirely well and strong. And it will be company to them, too, and Patsy will feel less lonely during the long day when he knows we are coming in the evening. It makes me very glad to be able to do some good for such deserving people." Then Bert and Julia hurried on in silence.

Jimmy-Boy.

LITTLE Jimmy sits a-nodding
At the supper table;
He's eaten all the goody-things
That he, poor child, was able.

And Papa smiles at Jimmy-Boy;
And Mamma strokes his head.
Then Papa gently lifts him up
And takes him off to bed.

The Fate of a Disobedient Bunny.

BY MAUD WALKER.

MRS. BUNNY had three of the prettiest little Bunnies you ever saw. They were all of an age, and loved playing in the tall grass that grew along the river bank near to their home, which was in an old hollow stump. But as they grew in size and age one of them, Tim-Tam by name, became very naughty and disobedient. And his little sister, Flo-Flo, and his little brother Fim-Fum, felt very sad over the way the unruly fellow would talk impudently to their good mother and disobey her.

"Something very, very terrible will happen to you some day if you continue being so wicked," said Flo-Flo to Tim-Tam one evening. "And you'll be very sorry after it is too late."

"Yes, you would better turn over a new leaf, brother," said Fim-Fum, such a good little Bunny and so helpful to his mother. He and Flo-Flo ran errands for her and were always so trustworthy, while Tim-Tam, if sent to perform even the smallest duty, would loiter by the way and cause his mother much anxiety.

"Oh, you may be a goody-goody rabbit if you want to," said Tim-Tam, speaking to his brother. "But I mean to have a good time. Goodness and strict obedience are for girls—like Flo-Flo; not for a lively, independent chap like myself." And Tim-Tam raised his long ears very high and strutted about in the grass and dead leaves which lay everywhere about in the woods.

Just then Mrs. Bunny called from the house to her children. "Come, my dears, it's bedtime," she said. "And all good Bunnies are in bed and asleep before the stars come out. Come, run into the house."

They all obeyed their mother, but Tim-Tam had an idea in his head which meant mischief. He went to bed, just like Flo-Flo and Fim-Fum, but instead of closing his eyes and falling fast asleep, as they did, he lay very wide awake, waiting till he heard his good mother's loud snoring. Then, cautiously creeping from his bed, which was shared by Fim-Fum, the naughty Tim-Tam left the house and ran out into a big meadow that bordered the wood, in whose shelter was his own happy home. His mother had always warned him against going off into that meadow, unless accompanied by her to guide and protect him, for it was full of dangers to the Bunnies. A mile to the westward was a great house, and there lived those big creatures called people, some of them being great hunters, killing and devouring rabbits whenever they could get them.

As soon as Tim-Tam got into the open he began to look about him. A brilliant moon gave him light, and the stars—millions of them—added their luster to the moon. So Tim-Tam could distinctly see far in every direction. His eye rested on the great farmhouse a mile to the westward, and, like all unruly children, he desired to go to the place which had been forbidden him.

So he set out towards the farmhouse, going at a brisk run. And not until he had got within a few hundred feet of the barn did he pause to take breath. Not being used to long runs up hill, such as he had just taken, he was all but exhausted and began creeping about in the barnyard to see what he might see. Of a sudden his nose smelt grain. It was corn! He sought it out—some scattered grains on the ground, and was so busy eating it that he did not hear the soft step of a four-footed creature close behind him. And when he did hear the noise it was too late.

"Come, my dears; it's bedtime."

Just as Tim-Tam was eating the corn with a relish a great dog had nosed his approach and had come from the barn where he slept, and seeing the pretty gray rabbit partaking of a meal right under his nose, so to speak, he had easy prey. With one bark of exultation the dog made a leap at the naughty Tim-Tam, and the next instant had the poor creature between his sharp teeth. It was a mercy that his teeth were so strong and sharp, for Tim-Tam was not obliged to suffer long. Within a second or two the little fellow lay dead at the dog's feet. One great bite through the neck had sufficed to put an end to the rabbit, who had crept from his happy and safe home to tragic death.

The next morning, when poor Mrs. Bunny awoke and went to kiss her children good morning, her heart almost stopped beating to find Tim-Tam gone. And all that day she and Flo-Flo and Fim-Fum waited and watched for the erring one, and, at last, when night again fell and the strayed one did not come home, the heart-broken mother realized he had met with a very sad end. Calling to Flo-Flo and Fim-Fum to sit beside her, she said:

"My dear children, you see what a calamity has been brought about by the disobedience of your brother, who had become so unruly and venturesome. He has met with his death and brought grief to our home, which was so very happy. But we must take the lesson to heart. I shall continue to make the home as happy for you two dear ones as I can, and you must profit by the lessons of your erring brother's disobedience."

"Yes, Mamma, we will," sobbed Flo-Flo, weeping for her lost brother, whom she dearly loved. "And we shall try to fill your poor, grief-stricken heart with love for us, Fim-Fum and I will, and help you to recover from the blow of our disobedient brother's wildness and tragic death."

"And I shall be two sons to you, Mamma dear," said Fim-Fum, tenderly, "and, with my sister's help, try to make our home as happy as it can be under the circumstances. But we shall always grieve for Tim-Tam, for, although he was very naughty and disobedient, we all loved him dearly."

"Yes, my children, and if he had been helpful, loving and obedient like you are he would have been with us this morning, as happy as could be, instead of lying cold and still some place in the meadow where the hunters or the dogs ended his existence. I know you two will never forget the lesson." And poor Mrs. Bunny with her arms about Flo-Flo and Fim-Fum, wept out her sorrow on their soft shoulders. And they, full of love and sympathy, mingled their tears with hers.

Evening.

WHEN dear Little Boy
And dear Little Girl,
Are ready for bed, you know,
In the snug cozy corner
They sit with Mamma
Who tells them a story, so low.

She tells them of fairies
Who live in the clouds,
And who can fly through the air;
And after she's through
They're almost asleep,
And then it is time for their prayer.

So down on their knees
Go the two Little Ones,
And feelingly pray to their God
To keep them through night
Till the next morning's light,
Then they go to the sweet Land of Nod.

OUR PUZZLE CORNER

LETTER ENIGMA.

My first is in time, but not in clock;
My second is in hair, but not in lock;
My third is in link, but not in chain;
My fourth is in head, but not in brain;
My fifth is in nut, but not in tree;
My sixth is the same as my first, you see;
My seventh you found in my fourth also;
My eighth is in wind, but not in blow.
My whole spells a word
Which to artists we apply;
And the persons so blessed
Sometimes rank very high.

RIDDLE.

We are airy little creatures,
Each have different forms and features;
One of us in glass is set;
Another you will find in jet;
A third, less bright, you'll find in tin;
A fourth a shining box within;
And the fifth, if you pursue,
It will never fly from you.
ANSWER—Voicele.

ZIGZAG PUZZLE.

This zigzag contains seven words of four letters each. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below another, their zigzag letters, beginning with the upper left-hand letter and ending with the lower left-hand letter, will spell that which is going on in the spring in countries where there are ice and snow. The crosswords are: 1. Something which fills the air in the early morning. 2. Something to be seen on a tree in the spring. 3. A thick, soft cloth. 4. That which a teething baby will do. 5. A single thing. 6. Small, busy insects. 7. The light from the fire.

ILLUSTRATED PRIMAL ACROSTIC.

If the above-pictured words are rightly guessed, and written one below another, their initial letters will spell the name of a person famous in religious history.

A SAINT PATRICK'S DAY BAZAR

By Helena Davis.

SAY, girls, I have a scheme brewing in my head." It was Sally Hartly who spoke to her three friends, Georgie Grey, Alice Bower and Maggie Toole. "I have a genuine scheme, and no make-believe about it."

"All right, let us into the secret," laughed Maggie. "If there is anything in the world that I like more than another it is being taken into somebody's confidence in a scheme. It sounds so mysterious."

"Oh, if there's any mystery about it, please do not exclude me," gaily cried Alice. "I'm in to share your schemes, my dear."

"And I," declared Georgie, linking arms with Sally as the four walked down the street from school. "Come, let's have the scheme—or a description of it, rather."

"Wait till you all come to my house after supper," said Sally. "Then, in the privacy of my den I'll unfold the scheme to you and ask your co-operation in carrying it out. You all can come, can't you?" And Sally looked from one to the other of her little comrades.

"We'll be there," they all cried in chorus.

"You'll find us knocking at your door as soon as you have retired from the supper table to your den," promised Maggie.

Then the four girls parted company, going to their respective homes. At the supper table that evening Sally was very quiet and thoughtful. "What's up with you, Sally?" asked Big Ben, Sally's 16-year-old brother. "There must be some mischief brewing when you, Miss Merry-maker, are so silent and serious. Come—what's up your sleeve?"

Sally laughed and answered Ben: "You shall soon know what's up my sleeve, and it will be a surprise to you, doubtless. But have patience, Bubby. It will all come out at the right time."

Mrs. Hartly laughed at Sally's and Ben's light banter. "I guess, Ben," she said, turning to her son, "that a girl can keep her own counsel as well as a boy. So you'll have to bide Sally's time."

"Yes, and the time will be ripe when she needs big Ben's assistance in money or advice," laughed the big brother. "Am I not right, Sally?" And Ben pinched his sister's nose.

"Yes, about the money part of it, Ben," admitted Sally. "I shall call upon you for some financial assistance, perhaps. But till my scheme is ripe, please be patient."

Ben left the room, laughing, for he was as sunny as he was big and strong, and his parents and sister had just cause to be proud of him. Sally always counted on his assistance in any of her undertakings.

That evening after supper Sally repaired to her "den" at the top of the house. And hardly had she gotten seated when up came her three "partners in conspiracy," as they called themselves jokingly.

"There is no swearing secrecy on the blade of a bloody butcher knife, is there?" asked Alice.

"And no walking the plank if we break our vow, is there?" added Georgie.

"No, only plain co-operation in a great and good cause, and the secret is soon to be given broadcast to the world," explained Sally. "And what is best of all, Ben will help us."

"Oh, that is splendid," cried the "partners in conspiracy."

"Now that you have got your breath I'll lay bare my plan before you," said Sally, pointing the girls to chairs.

"You mean your scheme," corrected Maggie.

"Well, after you have heard it you may name it," smiled Sally. "Now, here it is: You know there are several very poor families in our parish, and it has occurred to me that we—us girls and boys—might arrange to hold a bazar on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, also on the good day itself. We'll have all sorts of things to sell, and the proceeds shall go to charity in our own parish. I know three families woefully in need of help—good, honest people, whose men are out of work at present, and the families on the verge of real want. Now, is there a more fitting thing than to hold a charity bazar for our parish on good St. Patrick's Day?"

"You're perfectly splendid, Sally," said Maggie, going to her hostess and kissing her. "Your idea is noble, and I shall be most happy to be of assistance. I'll work like a Turk, I promise."

"And so will I," said Alice. "And I, too," declared Georgie, full of enthusiasm.

All that week—which was the week preceding St. Patrick's Day—the little charity bazar committee, consisting of the four girls—Sally, Maggie, Alice and Georgie—worked hard and successfully. They solicited donations from the rich merchants and business men "in the parish," and from the housewives they received the promise of domestic articles as well as promises of art embroidery and hand-decorated china. Four days before the opening of the charity bazar there were loads of donations sent to the big hall, the use of which had been donated for the occasion of St. Patrick's Eve and St. Patrick's Day.

The papers of the town gladly gave advertising space to the charity bazar and proudly named the "Board of Young Lady Managers, Misses Sally Hartly, Georgie Grey, Alice Bower and Maggie Toole." And when the doors of the hall were thrown open on the eve of St. Patrick's Day a vast crowd surged in. Everywhere were pretty young girls at booths and tables, all wearing the shamrock, with their hair tied about with bonny green ribbons. It was really a most happy occasion for all interested, for the sales were many and the prices paid for articles were larger than the girls had hoped. They had instituted a plan of allowing the purchasers to pay any price for an article they thought it worth, and it is safe to say the plan was a happy one, for on several occasions generous business men paid for a little workbasket or a drawn-thread piece three times the value of the articles.

But the great throng came on St. Patrick's Day, at 7 o'clock in the evening, and when the bazar closed its business for the day there was not a single article displayed for sale. As Big Ben put it, "They fairly ate up the charity bazar," and the board of young lady managers were the happiest girls in the world when the proceeds of the bazar were counted and a sum of $700 found to have been taken in. And the splendid part of it was there were no expenses to be paid out of the fund. It was all for charity. And Sally, really weeping for very joy, said: "Oh, now we can help those poor families till their menfolks can get employment. Isn't it just too good to believe?"

"It's been a grand success, little ladies," declared a usually crusty old banker. "And to show you how much I appreciate such a spirit in the youth of our parish, I mean to give you a check for enough to round the charity fund out to $1,000. And—here, what am I to do with these slippers and kitchen apron? I bought them just because everything else had been gobbled up when I got here. But—take them and sell them over again. I don't have any use for 'em."

After thanking him from the very depths of her heart for his generous offer of so fine a gift to the charity fund Sally laughed and said: "Please, Mr. Smith, keep the slippers and apron, for they will remind you of a time when you helped to make some poor people very happy by giving so liberally toward their assistance while they were in such dire need."

"I'll do it, little girl," said Mr. Smith, emphatically. "You bet I'll keep them as a reminder that there are other folks in the world besides one's self. This has been a great occasion! Hope you'll have another charity bazar next St. Patrick's Day. It's the time to call forth brotherly love for one's fellow-man."

And a dozen bystanders overheard the crusty banker's last remark and fervently said "Amen."

"We'll be there," they all cried in chorus.

A Brief Story of the Life of St. Patrick.

THE following data on the life of St. Patrick comes from Chamber's "Book of Days:"

"St. Patrick was supposed to have been born about 372. He was stolen by pirates and sold in Ireland, County Antrim. Here he passed seven years, learning the language, manners, habits and customs of the people. He escaped to the Continent, and after a time Pope Celestine advised him to return to Ireland as a missionary. The Druidical priests were great magicians, and St. Patrick found them formidable antagonists, and when persuasion on the part of St. Patrick failed, he cursed their fertile lands and they became dreary bogs; he cursed also their rivers, so that they produced no fish. Again, he cursed their kettles, so that no amount of fire would make them boil. And at last he cursed the Druids themselves and the earth opened up and swallowed them. But the greatest of all St. Patrick's miracles was driving the snakes and toads out of Ireland and rendering the Irish soil forever afterward so obnoxious to the serpent race that they instantly die on touching it."

Written for the Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland.")

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

HONEST, now, as you look down from the visitor's gallery upon the deliberations of "the most august legislative body in the world"—that's our very own United States senate, you know, as per description of some distinguished somebody or other who wanted to be complimentary, doubtless—would you take any of the solemn-visaged, care-worn and frock-coated gentlemen below you for just plain farmers in private life? Real farmers, you know. Not the kind that is meant when somebody says, "Oh, you farmer!" But the sort that patiently tickles a more or less grouchy soil to smile beautifully, that the national stomach may be filled and the national back garmented. Now, would you?

Of course, you wouldn't—because you've got the prevalent idea that "race suicide" among the farmers of the country long since extended itself to the national capitol, and into both of its wings. But the real truth of the matter is, that whatever may be said about the failure of agriculture in the United States to keep pace with the population, as far as congress is concerned, both in the senate and the house the farmers of the country are actually holding their own in proportion to membership in that body. When it is recalled that only seven members of the first congress of the United States, out of a total of ninety-five members, were farmers or planters, it is easy to see that the twenty-five or more farmers of all descriptions in the present congress represent a larger proportion of that useful element in society than obtained in the early days of the republic.

But right here the comparison should stop, for while, in that first congress, the farmer members were farmers or planters, pure and simple—there were no state agricultural schools in existence then, you know—the modern congressional farmer is a sort of "Jack-of-all-trades." It is also noteworthy that the farmer representatives in the present congress come almost exclusively from the South and West, whereas, in the first congress, there was Jonathan Grout of Massachusetts, Paine Wingate of New Hampshire, George Clymer of Pennsylvania and Daniel Carroll of Maryland, representing the Northeastern section.

Who the Farmers Are.

Who are the farmers in congress today? Why, some of the leaders, men whose names are on the lips of their fellow-countrymen a good part of the open national legislative season, and in the closed period too. Hist! There's the entire senatorial delegations from South Carolina and Mississippi, Smith and Tillman, Money, the minority leader, and Percy, recently succeeding James Gordon, that delightful old Confederate veteran who has been a farmer all his years and loves the life so much that he has written poetry about almost every nook and cranny of his plantation. Then there's Bankhead of Alabama, rugged old Knute Nelson of Minnesota, who is one of the few senators who adorns his chin with real farmer-like whiskers; Clay of Georgia, Foster of Louisiana and Warren of Wyoming.

As for the other wing of the capitol, even in your wildest dreams of the personality of the speaker, have you ever imagined him as a tiller of the soil? Yet about the only thing in which he takes an active interest outside of politics is his Southern Indiana farm. And among the farmers who heed more or less gracefully the pounding of his gavel in the heat of debate let there be mentioned Burleson of Texas, Clayton of Alabama, Lee of Georgia, Hayes of California, Kennedy of Iowa, Moss of Indiana, Gronna of North Dakota, Latta of Nebraska, Cocks of New York, who represents Theodore Roosevelt's district, and so has become famous, and Lowden of Illinois, whose greatest affliction in life seems to be that he can't make his fellow-solons take seriously his statements that he is a full-fledged farmer.

A Millionaire Farmer.

Nevertheless, and notwithstanding, and so on, right to the end of the chapter, Col. Lowden—via the military staff of the governor of Illinois—owns and lives on one of the best farms in all that wonderful farm state from which he hails; and aside from being a congressman, Mr. Lowden can truthfully say that he has no vocation in life other than to make this farm of his, which groans under the name of Sinnissippi farm, produce results. But just you tell any of his colleagues that he is a farmer, and see what happens. You see, after he had been born and raised on a farm in Iowa, the colonel went to Chicago, became a successful lawyer, eventually married a daughter of George A. Pullman of sleeping-car fame, and right there spoiled forever his chances of being regarded as a farmer, though farmer he now is, by his congressional coworkers.

Sinnissippi farm is in Ogle county, Ill., and lies on rolling ground overlooking the scenic Rock river. It has every modern appliance, from a patent milking-machine to a flock of Angora goats, which are set to work at sunrise each day to eat the underbrush off the place. One day, while riding over the farm, its owner happened to meet his army of goats at work, and climbing down off his horse stood admiring them. As soon as the goats caught sight of him they advanced so suddenly that the doughty colonel thought it best to be found with both feet on the ground rather than with one foot on the ground and one in the stirrup. As the colonel tells the story, the goats started in to eat the boots off his feet, and fearing that their voracious appetite might lead them higher up, and having no barrel handy, he concluded that discretion was the better part of valor, mounted his horse on the offside, and escaped.

Col. Lowden is an all-around congressman. He enjoys a reputation as an orator which extends beyond the confines of Illinois, and he is a prominent member of the house committee on foreign affairs, which recently reported his bill in congress for the purchase of sites and the erection of buildings for our ambassadors in European capitals. At one time he was a candidate for governor of Illinois and his candidacy precipitated a convention which lasted for nearly two weeks before his opponents could muster the votes to beat him. Like several of the other farmers in the present congress, he should be classed among that constantly growing group of tillers of the soil, who are classed as millionaire farmers.

South Carolina's Two Farmers.

It was from the farm that Senator Tillman sprang into the eye of the country on the crest of the Populist craze. Many a hard and picturesque battle he has been in since then but through all the years in private life he has remained a farmer, and he has never given up a farm of from 3,000 to 4,000 acres in Edgefield county, S. C., on which he raises ordinary farm produce and great quantities of cotton.

And he is a farmer who, outside the capital, and notwithstanding his uncouthness of expression and his radicalism, enjoys a larger circle of friends, perhaps, than any other senator now in Washington. Nor can any other member of congress in either house draw larger crowds when he speaks. Let it but be known that he intends to make a speech on a certain day, and the senate galleries wil be packed, as his colleagues long since found out—and the country, also—he is certain to have something new to say, or, at least, to say old things in a new way. And by the way, despite the biting words he has flung at many of them, today the senior toga wearer from the nether Carolina is a great favorite with his colleagues, all of whom admit his honesty and integrity of purpose.

But Senator Tillman does not know any more about the proper methods of raising garden truck and cotton than does his colleague, E. D. Smith, who is not only a cotton planter of some considerable consequence in South Carolina, but is a business farmer, as well. He entered the senate pledged, to do all that he could by legislation to put the cotton growers of the South in a position to sell cotton at 15 cents a pound. He has tenaciously stood by his platform, and as a result he is one of the "fighting farmers" now sitting in the capitol though, so far, he has somehow miraculously escaped being nicknamed "Fifteen-cent" Smith, a circumstance which will appeal to some minds as an oversight on the part of the wits of the capitol.

No sooner had Senator Smith landed in congress fresh from his farm, than the tariff bill came along and the South Carolinian was on the job day and night fighting for the rights of the cotton growers. He insisted that the cotton planters should have all the necessaries to the running of their business put on the free list, including cotton bagging, used to wrap up the bales, twine and other accessories. Still more recently, the senator has been engaged in a lively campaign to put the dealers of futures in cotton on the New York, New Orleans and other cotton exchanges out of business, on the ground that they helped to run the price of cotton downward without regard to the law of supply and demand. Before he entered congress Mr. Smith was deeply interested in the Farmers' Protective association and in the Southern Cotton association, of which latter organization he was a field agent and general organizer. "You know how to raise cotton, but you do not know how to sell it," he once bluntly told his auditors.

Personally, the senator is not, physically, at least, a man who would attract more than ordinary attention. He is comparatively short in height and proportionately light in weight. When he speaks, however, he does not fail to convince, not only by reason of his fund of information on agricultural subjects, but because of the tremendous earnestness with which he discusses his theme. He has a great deal of that fundamental of success, bull-dog tenacity. When he was twitted recently because cotton has not yet reached 15 cents per pound, he replied gravely: "I have not been here long enough yet."

A Pair of Large Planters.

Together with his new colleague, Leroy Percy, who is one of the largest planters in all Mississippi, Senator Hernando de Soto Money, the minority leader in the upper house, brings to his state the distinction of being the only state in the Union, except South Carolina, which is represented in the senate by farmers, whether they be known as plain tillers of the soil or as planters.

Until very recently Senator Money has been one of the very largest cotton planters in his state. Such he was when the tariff bill was under heated discussion. Nevertheless, he led the fight in the senate against the Republican majority for free cottonseed oil, and won his contention because the Republicans did not like the idea of putting a duty on the oil when a cotton planter of the standing of Senator Money was there to put a veto in the record. The senator is not done smiling yet at the manner in which he confounded the Republicans in this manner, and he makes no secret of his pride in his victory.

Whether among the farmers or other members of congress, it would be hard to find a more scholarly man than Senator Money, not even excepting the noted Henry Cabot Lodge, who is popularly supposed to exude Greek roots and Latin verbs at every pore. In truth, the Mississippian is one of the real scholars of the entire capital. He has been a great reader all his life and is thoroughly familiar with the history of the Southwest section of the country, with particular reference to Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Furthermore, he is able to turn his learning to account legislatively.

A senator who has practically his entire fortune tied up in farm lands in his home state and county is A. S. Clay of Georgia. Although a lawyer of more than ordinary ability, Senator Clay has never failed to turn to the soil when he had any money to invest, and the result is he is today a full-fledged farmer in the best sense of the term.

The Georgian is a most interesting personality. He is the only man in the senate, except Senator LaFollette, who wears his hair pompadour. He is a deep student of legislative matters and, his health permitting, one of the hardest workers in the upper house. During the tariff session he undertook to demonstrate to the senate that the duty on sugar should be reduced. Despite the heat and the warnings of his doctor, the senator made a speech on this subject that lasted a good part of one legislative day, and many of his arguments were never answered. So earnest was he in the fight that only sheer physical exhaustion prevented him from again disobeying the commands of his physician to make another effort to lower this tariff.

As a result of his supreme effort, Senator Clay has been absent during a greater part of the present session, and for a time, his life was despaired of. Now, it is understood that he will shortly resume his seat, and his friends are fearful lest he die in harness in the next great issue in which he takes an active interest.

A Veteran Wielder of Plowshare and Sword.

Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, who is every bit as big a man on the Republican side as Senator Clay is on the Democratic, is not only a farmer in the full sense of the term, but is also one of the largest livestock dealers in Wyoming. During the recent tariff session the senator was charged, because of his defense of the high duties on hides and meats, with being a livestock owner, but he declared to the senate that he owned "not a cow, a steer, a horse, an ass or a goat" except those he kept for the immediate use of himself and family. Senator Dolliver of Iowa, who is something of a farmer himself, rather turned the laugh on the Wyoming man, however, by telling the senate that when he was escorted over the ranges of Wyoming by Senator Warren, the latter had certainly exhibited to him "all the airs of ownership."

"Why," declared Senator Dolliver, "he was so well grounded in the philosophy of the steer that he told me that one of its chief peculiarities was that it did not seem to care whether it lived or died."

Senator Warren is a big, broad-shouldered man of more than ordinary good looks. He walks with a decided limp, having been wounded in battle during the Civil war when serving with the Forty-ninth Massachusetts infantry. Incidentally, he is one of the few members of congress who holds a congressional medal of honor for gallantry on the field of battle, which medal he won at the siege of Port Hudson. It is, therefore, peculiarly fitting that he should now be the chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, and that his daughter should have married Brig. Gen. John J. Pershig, who made a commendable record in the Philippines.

Still another senator who is a farmer—to the extent of owning and running a comparatively small sugar and rice plantation in his native state—is Murphy J. Foster of Louisiana.

Senator Foster first came into public notice a number of years ago by leading a fight in his state which put the Louisiana lottery out of business. Later, when he became governor of the state, a sympathetic strike threatened the bread, water and gas supply of the city of New Orleans. Governor Foster carefully reviewed the situation and finally served notice that he would call out the state militia if the strike were not settled on a different basis within twenty-four hours. The strike was at an end before the time limit expired. In the senate Mr. Foster has been an earnest advocate of the rights of the sugar and rice producers of Louisiana, making a careful distinction, however, between the producers and the so-called sugar trust.

Representative Lee's Historic Acres.

One of the house tillers of the soil, Gordon Lee of Georgia, runs a farm on one of the most historic sites in the United States. Every veteran of the battle of Chickamauga will readily recall the old Gordon & Lee mill, around which some of the most hotly contested charges of that battle were fought out. Mr. Lee was born on a farm on the battlefield just four years before, and has ever since lived within its historic environments. He gives his whole time and attention in congress to subjects of agriculture, and there is no more practical agriculturalist in the capital than he.

Representative Henry D. Clayton, who comes from the adjoining state of Alabama, and who presided over the last Democratic national convention as its permanent chairman, is a farmer-lawyer. He has one of the most strenuous voices in the house. He cannot make a speech on any subject in parlor tones, because his voice will not let him. Before he has uttered two sentences his "fog-horn," as his colleagues call it, simply runs away with him and even the hard hearing members of the house can be seen to smile with satisfaction as every word he utters rolls distinctly against their ear drums. The Alabamian is as good a lawyer as he is a farmer, and as a member of the house judiciary committee has made himself a record which might land him on the federal bench under a Democratic administration. In appearance he is stocky and well built, and his face so nearly matches the baldness on the top of his head that it is hard to tell where one begins and the other leaves off.

Representative E. A. Hayes, who comes from California, naturally devotes his farming instincts to fruit-raising. No California farmer—or rancher—raises anything but fruit, alfalfa and "garden truck." Incidentally, Mr. Hayes is one of the richest members of the house, having besides his farm, iron mines in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan, which are immensely productive.

Mr. Hayes has a mother who has had more than ordinary influence upon the fortunes of her sons. As he relates it, his mother was largely responsible for the purchase of the iron mines which he and his brother bought. In the face of a not wholly favorable report on these mines, Mrs. Hayes persisted in her "hunch" that they were valuable, and the results have more than borne out her judgment.

Incidentally, Mr. Hayes is one of the leading insurgents of the house. He is heart and soul with those Californians who prefer to see the Japanese at home, and now has a bill pending in the house providing for their exclusion. The Californian boasts one of the few dark auburn beards in congress, and it is notorious that when this beard begins to wave in the atmosphere, something out of the ordinary is about to happen. Representative Victor Murdock's red hair and Mr. Hayes' dark red beard have led some of the regular Republicans in the house facetiously to dub the insurgents "anarchists."

"Farmer" Cocks of Long Island.

New York state has one full-fledged farmer in its delegation, Representative W. W. Cocks, whose ancestors settled on Long Island in 1642. Mr. Cocks represents the Oyster Bay district, and has for one of his constituents Former President Theodore Roosevelt. He is familiarly known in the house as "Farmer Cocks," and is the only member of congress so nicknamed.

Mr. Cocks wears a wide-brimmed soft hat and squints his eyes as though the sun was constantly bothering him. He is not a speech-maker, but is one of the busy members of congress on the quiet. The recent agitation in favor of making Theodore Roosevelt speaker of the house of representatives in the next congress met with a happy response from Mr. Cocks. He said he would be ready at any time to step out of Mr. Roosevelt's way if he wished to come to the lower house of congress. As a matter of fact, it is not at all likely that Mr. Roosevelt would care to supplant Mr. Cocks, who is a close personal friend of his. So popular is the New York farmer in the house that his colleagues would not care to see him go. Mr. Cocks, however, cannot restrain a smile when anybody mentions to him the possibility of the former president becoming speaker of the house. He thinks it would be one of the best jokes he could possibly perpetrate on his colleagues.

As for Joseph G. Cannon, when he is not engaged in statesmanship, he likes to turn his thoughts and actions to a farm he owns with his former colleague, and present close friend, ex-Senator James A. Memenway of Indiana. This farm is located in Southern Indiana and is about the only "going" concern in which the speaker takes an active interest. In addition, about all the worldly goods the speaker possesses is the result of well-considered purchases and sales in Indiana, Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska farm lands.

The speaker takes great pride in his ability as a farmer. He was born and raised on a farm in North Carolina, and has never forgotten the rudiments of the game. Recently, a group of Arkansas farmers called upon him to get his support for a bill providing for the drainage of farm lands in that state. As the prospect for the passage of the bill at this session was not any too good, the speaker voluntarily undertook to tell the Arkansas farmers how the Illinois farmers had overcome a similar situation. The callers were almost overwhelmed at the technical knowledge of farm drainage displayed by the speaker and they detained him for more than an hour talking over farming in general.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The success of the 1910 Zenith, which is now assured, is in large measure due to assistant business manager, Charles Kelly. The choice of the class for this office was a good one and his hard work since the work on the Zenith began, has made him prominent in high school circles. Besides being assistant business manager of the Zenith, Kelly has an important part in the class play "Esmeralda," his part being Jack Desmond. Although not on the basket ball team he was one of the foremost workers in persuading the business men to donate for the defraying of the team's expenses to Madison.

Miss Taylor returned to school Monday.

Mr. Wheeler of the chemistry department is still ill at his home in Minneapolis and will not return until after spring vacation.

• • •

The report cards came out last Monday, the first of the second semester.

There was a happy bunch of athletes around school Wednesday. The team left at 5:15 over the Northwestern for Madison. Coach Marvin Wallace, Jim Kelly, Ralph Waldron, Roy Johnson, Morrey Harris, Oscar Solheim and Larry Boyle were the players who went.

The sophomores were also in a happy mood over their victory over the freshmen, which gave them the class championship. Capt. "Dutch" Jeronimous of the winning team said that the sophomores worked hard to win.

The debate between the girls of the Irving high school and Central will be held about April 1. The tryout at Central will be held next Friday afternoon. There are fourteen contestants for positions on the team.

The Monday after the spring vacation the boys' team will contest with the girls in a practice debate.

The side to be given the girls in the debate with the West Duluth school has not yet been decided.

The Forum held a meeting Monday afternoon and elected officers for the remainder of the year. Lloyd Greene was chosen president; Gilbert Bates, vice president; Alfred Ott, secretary, and Ralph Hovde, treasurer.

An election scandal occurred in the election of the sergeants-at-arms and a trial will be held Monday. A special committee has been appointed to investigate.

The German club will give its play some time before next Thursday. The members have been working hard on it and it promises to be good. All the German classes and their friends will be invited to attend the performance.

It was decided at the meeting to have an open hop and the members of the class will contribute 25 cents toward the class spread. The spread will be left entirely in the hands of the high school chef. Lawrence Duby, president of the class, appointed the following committees: Menu committee, Vivianne Kerr, Dorothy Thwing and Elsa Bieberman; decorating committee, Ely Salyards, George Stillman, George Boden, Ledru Bevis and Dave Cook; program committee, Adelaide Miller, chairman, Dorothy Jones and Katherine Munro.

TRADE IS WELL ABOVE THAT OF LAST YEAR

New York, March 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Nearly every report from the large trade centers is of transactions well above last year and of a bright outlook for the new season. Financial conditions are also much stronger, and altogether a better sentiment prevails. This improvement, however, is in spite of considerable uneasiness on account of the strike in Philadelphia, which causes some uncertainty as to future developments. The reappearance of the railroads as active purchasers of rolling stock and other needed equipment is the important development in iron and steel, while evidences that construction work will be pushed with vigor, gives the situation as a whole, a decidedly improved aspect. The needs of the railroads cover various forms of equipment and are apparently becoming more urgent, judging from the important inquiries now pending.

Electrolitic copper has risen in price to 13½ cents.

In lines other than cotton goods, jobbers are doing a fair trade, but reordering in the primary markets is of a conservative character. Retailes are purchasing in a non-speculative way, and the manufacturing situation grows more difficult in consequence of inability to secure sales commensurate with production. Retail conservatism is being enforced. Export trade with the smaller markets has been somewhat better and it is noted that price concessions have brought about more signs of a resumption of normal buying of finished cloths.

Trade in boots and shoes is slightly better, but the question of values continues to limit new business as buyers and sellers do not agree on terms when negotiations for large sized quantities are involved. There is some improvement in the demand for leather and buyers are operating more freely, although no disposition is shown to buy for more than current needs, and the market continues easy and sales, as a rule, are at slight concessions. A marked increase in activity is noted in the packer hide market but holders are compelled to name lower prices than have ruled since the decline that followed the panic of 1907.

SANDSTONE

Sandstone, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lon Terwilliegar was a St. Paul sightseer the first of the week.

Tom Rourke has returned from Superior, where he has been employed as watchman of railroad property for several months. He will again resume his position as foreman at the local creosoting plant.

The Women's Christian Temperance union met Wednesday afternoon to discuss the result of the election and to initiate a class of eight new members. The hostess, Mrs. M. Bullis, served an elegant luncheon after the business meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hammond on April 13.

Oscar Wilson left last Saturday for Minneapolis and Zumbro Falls in search of work as a painter and decorator.

E. Rodenburger and N. P. Johansen of Askov (formerly Partridge) transacted business here Thursday.

Mrs. E. Hemstad has decided to leave for North Dakota in the near future to join her son, Oscar, who recently purchased a drug store at Sentinel Butte. She has offered her restaurant for rent.

Mrs. Paul Gheringhelli is visiting the Berini family at Duluth for a few weeks, leaving here on Thursday.

Mrs. M. Ritchie returned Thursday from an extended trip to California. She was accompanied home by Miss Anna Bergwall of San Fernando, who is now visiting at the home of her uncle, Charles Edstrom.

A delicious luncheon was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church on election night at the opera hall in anticipation of a victory for the Civic league in its anti-saloon campaign. Although disappointed in that direction by a minority of ten votes, the ladies received a fair patronage and the vituals were relished with a hope of a victory another year. About $50 was realized.

R. J. Colvin and John Bodin were Superior visitors this week.

Miss Blanche Russell arrived home last Friday from the Duluth normal. She was accompanied by Mrs. Krafthefer.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the Sandstone Co-operative company was held at the village hall Wednesday evening and its directors were unanimously re-elected. It was also agreed to hold quarterly meetings in the future.

Mr. Tousley of the Right Relationship league was here from Minneapolis to talke on thorough co-operation, and his listeners agreed at the close of the address that he understood his subject thoroughly. Adolph Larson will be retained as manager of the store.

ONE CORPORATION PLEADS TO BE TAXED.

Washington, March 12.—The novel spectacle of a corporation pleading with the supreme court of the United States to be allowed to be taxed, was presented when counsel for the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad company asked the court to uphold the constitutionality of the corporation tax. A brief on benalf of the company was filed yesterday by William N. Dykman and Arthur E. Goddard. So far this corporation is the only one of fifteen organizations that has presented a brief in favor of the law, the others leaving the burden of supporting the law on the government. It is claimed that a tax upon the francbise or business of state railroads or public service corporations is not an interference with governmental functions or instrumentalities of the state.

To Seek Cook's Records.

Tacoma, Wash., March 12.—Belmore Brown's expedition to Mount McKinley in an effort to reach the top, where Dr. Cook said he left records, will leave Tacoma on May 3, it is announced.

The "Little Mother" of the Prisons

GLIMPSES OF PRISON AUDIENCES

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

WHEN I talk to an audience of the free and happy about my "boys" within prison walls, I often wish I could show them the scenes I have witnessed in prison and after prison throughout the length and breadth of our country. The hopeless, or earnest faces, that look up at me from these vast audiences would tell their own tale and often plead their own cause much better than my words could intercede for them. The public at large is so utterly ignorant of that great prison world within the walls, that they cannot judge or speak of it with fairness. The questions which concern the prisoner—his condition, his needs, his difficulties and disadvantages—may be urged and moralized about from many standpoints. There is the standpoint of the bar, that of the bench, of the pulpit, the laboratory, or the study, but there is also that of the cell. From the very first it seemed to me that the great problem, the darkest corners of the shadows, could only be fairly felt, sympathized with and understood from the standpoint of those who are suffering the penalty, those who know something of the sad bitter past and can gauge the difficulties of the hard and uncertain future.

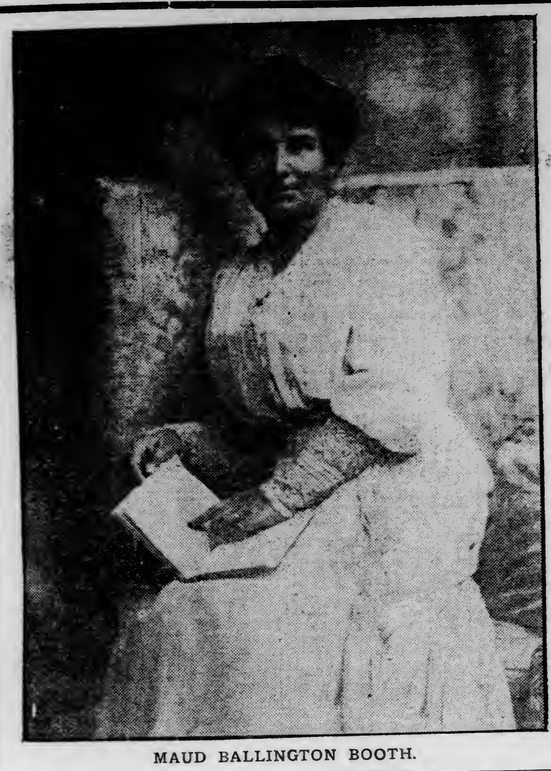
During the fourteen years that I have worked for and with our country's prisoners, I have sought to learn and understand this whole question from their viewpoint. I have tried to place myself in their position. I have kept my mind clear of popular prejudice, and have remembered that we have no right to judge from our own personal experience of life. I think I have come close enough to hear the beat of many broken hearts, to look beneath the surface, to feel with them not as an outsider, but as one of the prison world. Perhaps this is why they have given me the sacred name of "Little Mother," and why I have, since then, always called them my "boys" and why, also, in the new prisons to which I go I find always a loving and loyal welcome, even among the many I have never met before, who have heard from others of my attitude towards them and who believe I can understand that which concerns them.

I cannot give my readers an insight into that which I have learned from the hearts of my "boys" in these years of experience. To gain it, they would have to read the hundreds and thousands of letters I have received. They would have to be listeners at the hundreds of personal interviews with individuals of the prison world, and they would have to trace back their lives by visits to mothers and wives. Above all, they would have to watch them month after month, year after year, and see the valiant effort and steadfast endurance of the many who have determined to make good against almost overwhelming trials and difficulties. Then they would have also to travel with me in countless long journeys throughout the country and meet, as I do almost every town, those whose bright faces I recognize, and who hail me with the good message "All is well, Little Mother," the many who are making good in the new life of freedom.

But I can give you just a glimpse of some of the scenes that I have looked upon, and do look upon almost every Sunday of the year.

As the children say, "begin at the beginning" and you shall see my very first prison audience. It is in far-off California. The sun is shining on a flower-decked land, the blue waters of the bay are mirroring the still more brilliant azure of the sky, while the tiny ripples that break on the shore gleam and glisten like the facets of countless precious gems. The distant mountains are shadowed by a purple haze. The near foot hills are emerald green, save where they are thickly powdered with the gold of Californian poppies. Meadow larks rise from the fields as we pass, with clear, sweet notes speaking of the glad life of spring. White seagulls rise and fall on lazy wings, save for an eager dash into the blue waters from which they scatter a myriad liquid diamonds. The air is soft and balmy, sweet with fragrance of roses, violets and many other unseen blossoms. It is a day when one instinctively takes deep breaths and the words "Oh! it is good to live" break forth unbidden. But here in the midst of beauty and freedom rises a stern grey building. We pass beneath the bastioned entrance, we cross the threshold, and behind us resounds the clank of the closing iron door and the echo of shooting bolts and turning key. What a contrast! Freedom, life, beauty without, and here, heartache, loneliness and incarceration. This is the prison of San Quentin. In a few moments we are seated on the little platform of the prison chapel, while before us crowded on the benches are rows and rows, and almost countless rows it seems to us, of men dressed in stripes of shame. From beyond the barred windows that look upon the courtyard comes the shuffling sound of the lockstep, and around the chapel, with eyes ever alert, stand the armed guards. Do these things appal our hearts the most in that sad scene? Do they make the shadows darkest and the atmosphere heavy with the impotency to help? No! it is something more, something that tightens around our hearts, dims our eyes, and seems to clutch at our throats. It is the expression of utter hopelessness, despair, or sullen desolation that can be read, all too plainly, on those upturned faces. Some of them are pitifully young, some are old and scarred and marred by the past life of desperate crime and wickedness. Yes, I can see them now as if it were yesterday, and yet that was my first days' experience of a prison audience, and it was there in old San Quentin that I gave my promise to God to serve and suffer, to love and hope that I might help to lift the shadow of hopelessness and bring some of heaven's sunshine to our country's prisoners.

Come with me again. It is the 24th of May, 1896. We have entered the walls of Sing Sing for the first time. Passing the long galleries of 1,050 catacomb-like cells in the great dreary, sunless cell-house, we have gained the platform of the old chapel, all too small for the crowd that is packed into every available space. At first there is scepticism, curiosity and interest only, then a wave of emotion sweeps over the audience, tears fill many eyes and amid the deathlike stillness, half stifled sobs are heard, telling of hearts broken, but not hardened beyond the touch of love, as the old, old story of an all tender, all powerful Divine message is told. There has come the moment of decision, the call for surrendering of the old life and for a pledged uprising to seek the new. A man stands up among his fellows, pale, stern, but dauntless. A laugh, swelling into a howl of derision, sweeps around him, but he stands firm, tears coursing down his cheeks, his lips moving in prayer, and as he stands, others whose consciences have awakened, rise and stand with him, and the laughter and mockery die away in a great hush of awe. Twenty, forty, fifty, have made their decision, and marching back in the long striped serpentine line to their dark and dreary cells, it is with joyous faces, to a new life where hope and a strong courage are to battle with the curse and shadow of the past. That was the startling point of our league, known today as the Volunteer Prison league. Only sixty men in Sing Sing when I presented the first white standard emblazoned with our emblem, the



MAUD BALLINGTON BOOTH.

Star of Hope, but it was the nucleus of great things for the future. Since that day, we have enrolled between 60,000 and 70,000.

Follow me again. But now I can show you no hopeless or earnest faces. We have no inspiration from the realization of the earnest appreciation of the audience. We are in a prison again, one of the oldest in this country, the Eastern penitentiary, but our audience is invisible. Stand beside me at the extreme end of the long white-washed corridor, see the iron-celled doors ajar. Now let us send ringing down the bare walls and past those dreary cells the message of freedom and hope, for behind them there are eager listeners, and if we cannot see their faces we can, at least, reach their hearts that await the touch of love. Nine times we must enter just such corridors, speaking each time to an unseen audience, if we would reach them all this Sunday morning. If we could look behind those bars, or into those little cells, we should see on many a prison uniform the little button which is the badge of the Volunteer Prison league, and hanging on the wall their name emblazoned on a certificate of membership, that proves that they are bound together in a league of self-help and earnest living, even though so wholly separated by prison barriers.

Once more let me take you through the heavy iron doors of a prison. This time we are in Richmond, Va. Prepare for a surprise. As the doors clang behind you, look in front of you and around you. Fifteen hundred men are gathered in the prison-yard and in the galleries that surround it on all sides. A vast throng of striped humanity! Above us is the clear blue sky, and a gleam of sunlight shines down upon the upturned faces. It is the opening of the Volunteer prison work in this old prison—a prison planned by Jefferson himself and standing today as it stood in the old days when Aaron Burr was confined in one of its cells.

But time presses, we must travel far and fast on this last journey, and find ourselves at length in beautiful Louisiana. The sun shines down warmly upon us. Friendly, inquisitive mocking birds watch us from the bushes. Gray trailing moss wreathes the fine live oak trees. We have taken the road that runs from Baton Rouge to the river bank. Arrived at last at our destination, we leave the carriage and climb to the top of the steep levee. What a new strange sight meets our gaze! Is it a giant anthill with battalions of those active little workers upon whom the sluggard was advised by wise King Solomon to go for an example? No! this is a levee camp of Louisiana prisoners working on that important constructional work that keeps the great Mississippi within bounds. Here are the mighty earthworks being built, and from base to summit, long numberless plank walks supported by a scaffolding-like structure. Along these planks move, with the precision and order of a drilled army corps, several hundred men dressed in striped clothing, wheeling full and empty wheelbarrows. It is an active scene, but in a moment at the word of command, it is halted and changed. Wheelbarrows and other implements are abandoned. The men quickly congregate, and as they perch themselves on the trestles and planks, we take our position below them and look up at a wall of beaming faces. We receive a right royal welcome from the league at the levee camp, and it appears that almost every man is wearing the little button of membership. Songs and prayers and a heart to heart talk in the good free air by the banks of the great river that gleams silver in the sunshine, form a pleasing contrast to the meetings within the shadow of prison walls.

THE "WHY" OF SOCIALISM

First, because Socialism means economic security to every worker, the banishment of the fear of poverty. It means co-operation and equal opportunity instead of brutal competition and class privilege. No "dividing up" as the Standard Oil company does it, and no drones. It means saving the present enormous waste which absorbs nearly two-thirds of the workers' energy, thus assuring all an easy and plentiful livelihood.

Second, Socialism will prolong human life and make it happier. The longevity of workers averages 39 years; capitalists live to an average of 55 years of age. When the people are their own collective capitalists, the treadmill of toil and the unwholesome congestion of the workers will cease. The fear of loss and the pace that kills the industrial rulers will stop, so that the average longevity will be nearer the Psalmists' three-score-and-ten, and happier. Because of all these reasons we ought to accept Socialism.

Third, Socialism will foster nobler incentives. It will eliminate the present dog-eat-dog incentive—the desperate scramble for dollars—and substitute the better incentives of art, truth, craftmanship and social service, so that emulation will heighten the inspiration of working.

Fourth, Socialism will develop higher individualism. As the plant unfolds its beauty better in a carefully cultivated garden than when cast along the stony, trampled wayside, so humanity—God's soul flowers—will develop to its utmost, to the grandeur of its noblest types like Franklin, Mackglint, Willard, Livermore, like Jesus—in the garden of Socialism. Capitalism crushes the individualism of the mass so that a few may reach the barbarian splendor of the millionaire class.

Fifth, Socialism will advance morality. The present capitalistic system is dishonest for it allows a cunning, wolfish "successful" class, by means of its modern savage battle-ax of rent and spear of interest and boomerang of profit, to exploit the moneyless, and therefore weaponless, toiling masses, and breeds every form of corruption; hypocrisy, graft, swindling, gambling, robbery, murder and war. The righteousness of Socialism will promote a universal ethical society. It will cease plastering and patching with charity poultices and conscience saps, a rotten and collapsing system, and will construct a co-operative commonwealth founded on honesty, substituting justice for injustice and placing a premium upon the practice of the Golden Rule instead of upon the anarchy of "every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost."

Sixth, Socialism will make religion real. All religions, like the flowers blossoming toward the sun, reveal that humanity naturally unfolds its soul-life towards the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man; but every known form of religion, including Christianity, at a certain stage of its development has been captured by the ruling class of its time and prevented to sanction the exploitation of the workers by their masters. This perversion causes the grossest materialism and deadliest atheism under sacerdotal disguises. Such hypocrisy will gloriously flower toward Divine Love when economic righteousness is established.

Seventh, Socialism will do away with attic lodgings, slum cellers, hobo hovels and corporation shacks, and provide every family with its own home and a well-stocked cupboard. It will save woman from shame, make marriage love-mating instead of a matter of money, and stop the present sacrifice of little children to the moloch of commercialism.

Eighth, Socialism will make for temperance so long as men are mentally doped and physically exhausted by capitalism, and so long as there is 9 cents profit in a 10-cent drink, the saloon curse will continue. But the saloon will go out of business when the incentive of profit is removed, and men will crave alcoholic stimulants less when we have more wholesome conditions of life.

Ninth, Socialism will purify politics and perfect true democracy. The efforts of the Democratic "outs" to get in, and of the Republican "ins" to "stand pat," together with the boodling of officials and bribery by business men, besides the fact that there is but one office to 400 competing office-seekers, corrupt politics. When all are "ins,"—when every one has a government position—and the social idea of civil service in an honest industrial system is raised, when business cannot bribe nor boodlers buy, politics will become truer to the definition, "the public welfare." Through the initiative, the referendum and the imperative mandate our present capitalistic government of the rich, by the rich, for the rich, will be replaced with the Socialistic government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Tenth, Socialism will abolish war. War is caused by national competition for the world's market. Competition is war and war is hell. Christians must ultimately condemn competitive capitalism and preach Socialism to save the people from the hell of war. The world-wide movement for the democratization of industry, Socialism, following the consolidation of the world market, will result in a federation of nations—a United States of the World. As Maine never wars with California, so one world-state will not quarrel with another. And international comrades with no need for armies, will not kill each other.

Eleventh, Socialism will settle the labor question and thus avert another possible civil war. Industrial partners in the co-operative commonwealth, their own collective capitalists, receiving the full product of their labor, or its equivalent, will not war or strike against themselves.

Twelfth, Socialism ought to be studied, because Socialism is inevitable. Capitalism and wagedom, like writhing cobras, are now in a coiling, crushing embrace of death; and the victory of one is its doom. As slavery gave way to feudalism, and feudalism to capitalism, so capitalism must give away to Socialism. Economic evolution also points out that in modern industry first come the single self-employing proprietor—his own boss and workman. Then come partnership business—two or more boss partners hiring many "hands." Then the corporation, or partnership of corporations and then finally must come the meging of the trusts into a greater partnership, through the public ownership of all the means of production and distribution—the people's trust, or Socialism. Yours for co-operation and the application of the golden rule.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

All Plants of Homestake Company Will Soon be Running at Full Capacity—Golden Reward and Mogul Also Resume Operations.

Deadwood, S. D., March 12.—It is expected that within a few days the Homestake Mining company will again be running at full capacity in all its plants. It is now dropping 750 stamps a day and machinists are busy putting the other two mills in shape for resumption. Four mills and four hoists are now in operation and the company is employing more than 2,000 non-union men and is making shipments East of bullion three times a month, as before.

Two other mines that shut down in January, the Golden Reward and Mogul, have resumed mining operations, the former in the Lucille and the latter in the Union mine. The companies say they can get all the non-union men they desire and will work on no other basis. Their mills will start the first of the week in a small way and will work up gradually to their former capacity in the same way as the Homestake.

In Pennington county near Slate Creek, George Karr is developing his group of claims and getting satisfactory results. The property lies two miles south of the Lookout mine and has been developed by means of a series of shallow shafts from which drifts are run. Karr is developing a vein running parallel with a porphyry dike that breaks up through the quartzite, with a width of more than 100 feet. Sulphides are commencing to appear at this depth and it is expected that ore will change to the ordinary quartz slate and pyrite in the greater depth.

Assay returns on copper ore taken from the Copper Prince property in the Bear Lodge district northwest of here have caused elation among the owners. One of these, Lloyd Adams, has received returns from a California assayer showing about 40 per cent copper to the ton. The owners say there is a large amount of this ore in sight and are now preparing to develop the mine thoroughly. It also contains gold ore which will be developed at the same time.

A deal has about been closed with Eastern investors for the transfer of the Inter-Ocean property in the Welcome, Wyo., district whereby the property will be developed on a larger scale. The property is owned by O. B. Folden of Tinton; Mrs. Nellie Willson of Buelah, Wyo., and others. It contains a 200-foot crosscut tunnel in connection with a seventy-foot shaft. The main ore body is a sixty-foot vertical ledge of porphyry ore, millible its entire length.

Owners of the Altia Mining company, formerly the Puritan, whose property is in Strawberry Gulch near this city, expect to resume work about April 1. Supt. John McGoffin is in the East making arrangements and is getting modern machinery. Some heavier pumps are to be bought and when they are installed the shaft will be sunk to the 500-foot depth to develop the vertical veins.

Several veins crop up through the quartzite, but have been little developed. The twenty-stamp mill will undergo some changes before it is again put in commission, but Supt. McGoffin hopes to have it in operation before summer.

BUYS BACK MINE PROPERTY

Wardwell and Osborne Group of Claims Repurchased From Arizona Copper Company—To Work Property on Large Scale.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—E. W. Wardwell and Edward S. Osborne, both of Pasadena, and representing Cleveland interests, have repurchased the Wardwell and Osborne group of nine claims, seven miles from Parker, Ariz., and are preparing to work the property on a large scale.

This property was sold more than a year ago to the Arizona Empire Interests for $100,000, and owing to the building of the Santa Fe cut-off through the district and the following rise in prices was only repurchased at an advance.

The Wardwell and Osborne interests have large Eastern capitalists with them in this purchase, and while they state they will sell no stock in the company, will incorporate for $3,000,000, with $2,000,000 in the treasury.

The filing of the incorporation papers of the Osborne Transportation company has been the first step in the development of the property, for until the completion of a branch railroad the mine will ship its copper to the smelter of the Clara Consolidated, using seven-ton electric trucks as far as the railroad.

This property has a large body of 14 per cent copper ore, with some gold value. Nine hundred feet of work has already been done on the property, preparatory to quarrying the ore.

There will be no developing work necessary as the roads are built and the ore can be quarried direct without the necessity of tunneling and sinking shafts.

With the placing of the trucks on the ground, the mine will be in a position to ship a carload of ore per day to the smelter, as soon as it is blown in. This is expected to be within the next thirty days.

The Wardwell-Osborne group will have added to it ten claims owned by E. S. Osborne personally, which was not included in the original sale to the Arizona Empire interests.

WILL START DEVELOPMENT

Mining Men of Coeur d'Alenes Will Expend $800,000 in Work on Idaho Giant, Boulder and Bitter Root Claims.

Spokane, Wash., March 12.—The Western Development company, organized with a capital of $3,500,000 by mining men of the Coeur d'Alene, will have the control and management of the Idaho Giant Mining company, just leased for fifteen years to George Huston of Mullan, Idaho, and the Boulder Creek Mining company and the Bitter Root Mining company. It is also announced officially that the new company will expend more than $800,000 in development work on twenty claims and fractions during the next three years.

Mr. Huston gave out this statement while in Spokane:

"In addition to these leases we secured 242,000 shares of the 1,000,000 shares of stock in the Idaho Giant Mining company. Of the Bitter Root Mining company we optioned on long time 250,000 shares out of the $1,500,000 capitalization. In the Boulder Creek Mining company we purchased and optioned 915,000 shares of the $1,500,000 authorized.

"In all we have a strip of land 7,500 feet long and 900 feet wide, extending from the Idaho Giant on the east to the Morning mill of the Federal Mining company on the west. It is in that section lying south of the Northern Pacific tracks and the town of Mullan and is along a distinct lode system, which has been under geologic study by myself for four years.

The development of the property will be under my direction and the work will be in charge of the oldest and best known mining men in the Coeur d'Alenes.

"It is our intention to begin work as soon as the season permits, though we have until May 15 to start operations. The first development will be through the Boulder Creek tunnel. After proving on this level, a working tunnel will be run south toward the Idaho Giant property. This will be approximately 6,000 feet in length.

"Driftings east and west in exploration will open the ground for future operations, bring the mine products to water and give a depth of approximately 1,500 feet below the apex of the vein system.

"In my study of this district I have found that the iron gossans, which have been a bane to previous operators, have only that effect and that the commercial ore occurrence lies on either side of the iron zone in two well defined fissure-vein systems, caused by faulting.

"There has been more than 8,000 feet of underground work done in different portions of the area in the past. These, with the excellent surface showings, have given ample opportunity to establish the geologic status beyond doubt, and I feel that there will be little guesswork in the future."

TREATMENT OF COBALT ORES

Bridges, are having success in their operations. The ore is being treated by means of a small concentrator, being reduced at the ratio of seven to one, and the concentrates thus secured run from $300 to $700 a ton. The big assays in value from $20 to $120 a ton, practically all in gold.

The new companies have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. They are the Laurium Montana Mining company of Butte, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, and the Vermilion Silver & Lead Mining company of Hamilton, which has a capitalization of $1,000,000 also.

The Northern Investment company of Minnesota has taken over the property of the Elkhorn Copper Mining company at Elliston, about thirty miles west of Helena, under a $100,000 bond. E. B. Cartnery has been put in charge. Two carloads of ore shipped this week to the Washoe Sampling works netted $1,000 a car. The deal includes 135 acres of mineral land.

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

by Stein & O'Rourke. These new comers have taken an option on a 400-acre tract in 43-32," north of Crystal Falls, and diamond drills are now in commission there. The Buffalo & Susquehanna interests are exploring in the same vicinity, while off to the southwest, in 43-33, the Jones & Laughlin Steel company is meeting with success in its drilling operations in the vicinity of the Runkle lake, where what appears to be an extensive deposit has recently been encountered. Benjamin Neely of Negaunee, Mich., who is drilling in section 21, 43-32, east of Crystal Falls, also has found ore. Little is yet known concerning the extent of this strike, but it is believed the deposit is a continuation of that which Corrigan, McKinney & Co. is mining in its adjacent Great Western property." Further to the west on the Menominee range, Iron River, Mich., men who have a churn drill at work in section 11, 43-35, have encountered ore at a depth of 125 feet. The property being tested is adjacent to Lonk lake, to the north of the village of Iron River and not far from the James mine. The New York State Steel company and the Jones & Laughlin company also have promising explorations in the same locality.

the 10,000 originally sold to Strong. Now Strong alleges that after Gassert instituted the case against him to recover the stock, Thornton, in behalf of the North Butte Mining company, entered into a contract with him whereby the mining company agreed to purchase from him the entire block of 10,000 shares, paying down $50,000 of the purchase price and agreeing to pay the remainder in $25,000 monthly installments. The agreement, it is stated, was that the stock was to be deposited with Andrew J. Davis and held until the full amount of the purchase price was paid. Strong asks that all contracts with the defendants be forfeited and terminated

Mining Notes.

To Redeem Property.

The Lentz Mining & Developing company in the Twin Bridges district was recently sold at sheriff's sale to satisfy a judgment of $600. Messrs. Harvey and Oppenheimer of Pittsburg, Pa., have appeared on the scene and as two of the big stockholders in the company they propose to redeem the property and resume development work in the mine.

North Moccasin.

John A. Drake and others of New York own a controlling interest in the North Moccasin gold mine, which was sold recently to satisfy a judgment given in favor of the Bank of Fergus county as trustee for the bondholders for $121,643.72. The North Moccasin is regarded as one of the best gold mines in the Kendall district and adjoins the Barnes-King.

British Butte.

The property of the British-Butte Mining company, located three miles west of the city, will not be mortgaged in order to raise funds to pay off its indebtedness. At a special meeting called for the purpose of ordering a mortgage on the property, President Murphy announced that the directors had completed arrangements to settle the debts due, to the satisfaction of those holding bills against the company. Operations at the company's property were closed down last fall, and it is said that the debt is in the vicinity of $260,000. The work of the company has been carried on with considerable difficulty in regard to reaching the gold bearing ground. From five to seven feet of clay has to be removed by the dredge, and then about two feet of gold bearing ground is reached and then the false bedrock. Of course the dredge cannot do the work beyond the rock, and this is where the difficulty is encountered. If some plan could be devised whereby the work would be proceeded with without too much of an outlay there seems to be a well grounded opinion that the company would be successful in operating beyond the bedrock, as investigation leaves no doubt that there is good gold bearing ground. An engineer is now at work making a thorough examination of the property and among the officers there is a belief that operations will be resumed in the early spring as a result of the report of the engineer.

Guggenheim After Properties.

The Guggenheim people are undoubtedly making an effort to secure interests in this state and particularly in this district. S. D. Nicholson, Julius Rodman and Mr. Plumb, all representing the Guggenheims, have been in the city for some time, quietly endeavoring to secure options on zinc properties and anything that looks good. There is a report which is believed in some quarters that the Guggenheims have secured an option on the Southern Cross mine, located just outside Anaconda, for the sum of $850,000. The report is denied by the representative of the H. L. Frank estate, controlling a majority of the property, but nevertheless people believe the story, in view of the fact that it is known that Mr. Plumb has made a thorough inspection of the Southern Cross property.

MARKET AT STANDSTILL

Little Trading and Operators Hesitate About Taking Either Side.

Crop Damage Reports Continue to Pour In From Southwest.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 12.—The wheat market today was dull and trading was light. The close was ½c up from yesterday's values. May wheat opened at $1.14¼, gained ¼c, sold down to $1.14⅛, $1.14⅜-¼, $1.14⅜-½; $1.14¼-⅜ and up to $1.14½, closing with sales at that price. The July option was late in attracting attention. It was bid at $1.14 after the market opened and bidders raised their quotations ⅛c without attracting offers. The option sold at $1.14⅜, then at $1.14¼-⅜ and up to $1.14½ and closed with sales at that figure.

Flax was dull and soft. May opened at $2.22¾, declined ½c and then sold at $2.21 and closed with sales at that figure. The July option was offered at $2.21 and then at $2.19 without attracting any bids. September was bid at $1.74½ and up to $1.77½ without drawing out any offers. October was offered at $1.67½ and at the close it was $1.69 bid.

Durum was ½c up, barley unchanged, rye the same, and oats ⅜c up. Cash wheat was ½@1c over the near option. The cash market was strong but restricted on account of the comparatively light offerings.

The session was characterized by the uncertain attitude of traders. Not only did they hesitate to commit themselves in the face of a holiday, but they were disinclined to follow their best judgment and bull wheat. They hesitated to take on long lines with a heavy long interest on. They were afraid that they might have to absorb heavy long holdings while trying to elevate values. Such a movement would have left those who accumulated wheat on the recent bulge in a strong technical position, which might become menacing to those who loaded up with long offerings.

Sentiment among traders is mixed. The professional element is inclined to go a little slow about buying on the bulges, although the crowd appears ready at any time to follow the lead of Bartlett-Patten, no matter which way their operations turn. Those bearishly inclined prefer to wait until prices are forced upward and the crop situation can be sanely investigated and a clear estimate made of damage. Many bears who are short the near options are taking on the most distant month as a hedge.

Crop damage reports were numerous today, coming from Missouri, Eastern and Central Kansas, the western and central portions of Nebraska, the Ohio valley and Illinois. Estimates ran from 15 to 75 per cent damage and Atchison county, Kan., in the northeastern part of the state reported "disaster." A message from Philadelphia said that eastern wheat is in good condition and acreage is large. The reserves on the farms are heavy.

Cables were stronger and caused a good feeling on this side at the opening. The later strength was due to buying of Chicago bulls and Bartlett-Patten. The crowd hesitated to follow except scatteringly as the commitments of Bartlett-Patten were not large and the crowd could not forget that the leading speculators had acquired heavy lines on the recent bulge, which might be liquidated if the professional element began to bull the market. Considering the sensational crop damage reports and the moderate accumulation of distant months by Bartlett-Patten the market did not display much strength.

The foreign market was stronger on account of reports from Russia telling of unfavorable crop rumors, a strong spot market and an advance in Buenos Ayres futures. Argentine offerings were restricted.

The cash market showed a little better form today. Cash wheat was in demand in the Southwest, where mills and elevators were purchasers. In the face of this demand, however, was the singular fact that those who sent crop damage reports did not back up their message with buying orders. Some buyers of cash overlooked this fact and took the message at their full value and began to accumulate old wheat for future use.

The cash situation in the Northwest showed improvement. Mills bought moderately. Cash here was ½@1c over May and in Minneapolis choice No. 1 northern sold at 2c over the near option. Other offerings were made at from ½@1½c over.

Some other reports follow: Wichita, Kan., southern half of Harvey county no better than northern. Plowing up and drilling in oats generally. Some improvement close to Wichita, but there is small acreage here. Millers here are more hopeful. Weather now clear and warm with some wind, which is unfavorable. Lots of corn in cribs. Saunders, Omaha wired—Columbus rolling mill, Columbus, Neb., says it is too early to say how much damage, but others claim 25 to 50 per cent damage. Cowgill of Omaha wired—Our traveling man here from Platt county, Neb., says some people say 25 to 50 per cent damage, but think too early to tell yet. Bracken, of Kansas City wired—Western Nebraska sending damage reports and buying orders on wheat to Thresher and Fuller. Farmers here from La Fayette and Johnson counties, Missouri, buying oats for seed. C. A. Cooper, Wichita, Kan., wired—Drove fifty miles in Harper county today, found majority of wheat in good condition. Sixty-five per cent of the fields examined showed condition fully up to the average for this time of the year. Twenty-five per cent considerably winter killed, leaving poor stand and little growth. Ten per cent is dead and will be abandoned. A hard crust of two inches thick covers the surface, which is badly cracked in many places, exposing the roots. Few farmers harrowing with fair success in this territory. General rain would do an immense amount of good. Auburn, Neb.—Not half crop of wheat. Nemaha county, Neb. Kansas City, Smith county, Kan., hurt 25 per cent; Marion hurt 75 per cent; Marshall and Atchison counties total failure. Pawnee hurt 25 per cent. Snow wired from Russell, Kan.—Motored 100 miles through Barton, Ellis, Rush and Russell counties, which have 750,000 acres in wheat. All late seeding is badly killed, but this is only small percentage of crop. If good rains come before warm weather average stand will be 80 or better. Plenty moisture in ground, but top friable as ash heap and needs rain to pack it around roots and fill up cracks now open to wind and sun. Today bright, windy and hard on plant. Acreage larger than last year.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Crop Reports Form Most Important Factor in Wheat.

Chicago, March 12.—Crop reports formed the most important factor in the wheat market early today and gave a slightly improved basis to prices. Opening figures were ⅛@⅜c up. During the first hour influential selling took the edge off quotations for May and July options, but a better demand for September kept that future well toward the high point. Cables telling of bullish conditions in Liverpool and continental markets received scant attention, the conflicting reports from the winter wheat fields engrossing the minds of traders here. May sank from $1.13¾ to $1.13¼ and July moved in a similar manner in the first hour. September added a fraction to its opening price and sold at $1.03⅞@1.04. Initial quotations for May were ⅛@⅜c up at $1.13@1.13⅝.

The May option continued generally steady later in the session. Improved investment in the more distant futures crowded them slightly in advance of May. The close was strong and near the top price with May ⅜ up at $1.13⅝.

Covering trades in the corn pit gave a strong tone at the opening. Futures were a shade to ⅛c up at the start. Continued accumulation of stocks, however, made traders nervous. Offerings increased, making the market slightly easier. May fell off from 64½c to 63¾c, with July and September steadier at about yesterday's final figures. Opening figures for May were a shade to ⅛@¼c up at 63⅞@64c.

In the final half of the day the market gained strength on a better demand. May went up to 64½c. The close was strong all around and near the top, with May ½@⅝c higher at 64⅜c.

Trading in oats followed closely the course of corn, opening unchanged to ⅜c up and sagging on large offerings. May traveled down from 45 to 44⅜@44½c, steadying at about the final figures yesterday. On the start May was ¼@½c to ⅛@¾c up at ⅞@45c.

Forced along by still higher hog prices, which reached a new top price of $11 today, provisions advanced sharply, gaining 5 to 20 cents with pork leading. May pork touched $25.79 at the outset. After the initial demand was supplied prices eased off slightly. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $25.70; lard, $14@14.07; ribs, $13.50@13.52½.

The Cotton Market.

New York, March 12.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 2@11 points in response to reactionary cables, which were attributed to week-end realizing in a narrow market. Southern bull leaders were good buyers on the initial decline. As a result prices rallied to within 3 or 4 points of last night's close on the active months. Sellers were made cautious by talk of a possible May corner and because of bullish week-end figures.

Futures closed steady: March, 14.91; April, 14.83; May, 14.88; June, 14.60; July, 14.59; August, 14.04½; September, 13.08; October, 12.63; November, 12.45; December, 12.43; January, 12.39.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Held in Restraint By Growing Uncertainty of Money Outlook.

Drift of Prices Narrow and Shifting, Later Turning Downward.

New York, March 12.—The light opening demand for stocks today resulted in a sluggish recovery from the weakness of the closing yesterday. The advance in American Locomotive ran to a point and in Louisville & Nashville, Rock Island preferred and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis large fractions.

Some of the active stocks fluctuated very irregularly, Reading and Amalgamated Copper covering a range of about a point and unsettling the general market, until near 11 o'clock when all of the leaders moved up briskly.

Stocks closed irregular and dull. The market was held in restraint by the growing uncertainty of the money outlook. A strong advance in American Tobacco in the outside market was used to quiet apprehension over the recurrency of Monday of the decision day in the supreme court. Covering by shorts put out yesterday about exhausted the demand. The drift of prices was narrow and shifting, turning downwards at the last, but prices ended little changed from last night.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Clare.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The man who says, "I can't save anything," will discover that he can if he buys Duluth real estate on the easy payment plan. He will find in a few years that he has saved a piece of property that is worth real money and lots of it.

ONE OF THE NEW RESIDENCE DISTRICTS WHICH IS BEING RAPIDLY BUILT UP IN THE EAST END

THIRD STREET LOOKING EAST FROM TWENTIETH AVENUE.

Three years ago, Third street, eastward from Twentieth avenue east, was lined by brush-heaps and wild lots with an occasional house. Two years ago, there were a few scattered houses and considerably more interest in property in that district. Today Third street is lined by beautiful residences from Twentieth avenue to Twenty-seventh avenue east and there is hardly a lot to be purchased.

Third street has been the center of the building boom in the East end. It is the center of what is known as the Normal school district, with all deeds conditional on the erection of houses not to cost less than $5,000. People who put much more than that into their homes have purchased property on Third street and have erected fine residences, so that now the street bids fair to become one of the finest residence streets in the city.

So great has been the popularity of Third street that nearly all of the lots on it in the East end district have been purchased and are being held for use as home sites. Few purchases have been made for speculation and once a lot is purchased for use by the purchaser, it is taken out of the market. Nearly all of the lots along Third street in the East end district are out of the market and the tide has turned by force of circumstances to Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets, which are just getting the boom that East Third street held for two years.

INQUIRY IS STRONG BUT FEW DEEDS ARE SIGNED

People Are Acting With Caution in Real Estate Market.

Large Amounts to Loan Are Plentiful in Duluth.

The answering of inquiries and negotiating for deals occupied the attention of real estate men during the past week and few actual transfers of property were made. The market still continues to move along in groping fashion. People are feeling their way and looking well before they make a turn.

If one were to express himself on the strength of a look over the situation, one might say that more than ordinary caution is unnecessary. Why there should be skepticism is beyond comprehension. Of course, the shrewd man going into a real estate deal should see that he is not required to pay more than actual value for a piece of property, but once he has determined that he would be getting full value for his money in buying any piece of property that he might consider, there is no valid reason for the hesitation that marks most of those who are in the market now.

Any piece of property within the limits of the city of Duluth, purchased today at its actual value in the market, will return fine profits in two, three, or five years.

One has only to look around and judge by the past to determine what the future will bring forth. Five years ago Duluth's prospects held nothing that would be likely to exert such a great influence on the city as the prospects now have. Yet people who bought property in Duluth five years ago are rejoicing now over what they call their foresight. The same will happen in the next five years.

Pick out any district in the city and see what has happened. What were lots worth in the normal school district five years ago and what are they worth today? In West Duluth, West end, Lakeside, Lester Park, Woodland, on the hillside? It doesn't take a great deal of foresight to see what will happen in the next five years when Duluth is enjoying the growth that is bound to come with the coming of new industries and the general awakening in the city.

People at home are too likely to let outsiders reap the profit from the real estate advances. That has been the case in almost every city which has enjoyed growth and prosperity.

Money is plentiful for investment in real estate, but for small loans it is scarce, according to those who loan money on real estate. So many fortunes have been made in Duluth real estate the past ten years that men who have been loaning money on real estate mortgages consider they have actually lost by the transactions, as the interest on borrowed money has not kept pace with the advance in value of land.

For large amounts needed in the construction of big buildings, the big insurance companies of the country seem to have plenty to loan. The condition encourages building. Money from the East in large quantities is being received in Duluth and capitalists are looking for paying investments. Land is a favorite form of investment and large tracts to be cut into small farms are at a premium.

The money received for last year's crop in the Northwest has not been offered for loans to any extent, and in this respect bankers are somewhat surprised, as the most of them anticipated cheaper rates of interest as a result of good crops and big prices. The farmers, however, don't want to loan. They are making investments in real estate as a rule.

The interest in acres continues unabated, and that class of property still brings big prices. There are few tracts near the city on the market now, the owners preferring to hold for the profits that are known to be coming. Those who do want to sell are finding no difficulty in securing a ready market.

New Duluth and the territory in the vicinity of the site of the proposed new steel plant are coming into their own. Agents for lots in that vicinity report that there is strong inquiry, mostly outside of the city. It is said that people in the steel plant centers of the country, knowing the real estate activity that has attended the erection of steel plants, are getting into the market and buying residence lots near the site of the Duluth plant. The workers in the steel plants want to live as near to their work as possible. As a result, land near the site of the Duluth plant is being platted and the lots are selling rapidly. They are bringing low prices for the present, but once the plant is under way, they are due for advances that will bring profits to present purchasers.

One addition has already been sold out near the site of the steel plant and two other additions are now on the market. Some sales are made locally, but most of the purchases are made by Chicago and Pennsylvania people, who regard the lots as good speculative venture.

N. J. Upham & Co. report the sale by W. L. Seaton to Jacob Laux of a lot on East Sixth street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east, for $1,000.

Through the same firm, Jennie B. Hooper has sold to a local party thirty-six lots in Princeton Place addition for $2,160.

H. W. Cheadle has sold to Henry Gabbert a 25-foot lot on the south side of Sixth street, between Second and Third avenues east.

• • •

Louise Wieland has sold to Donald Gordon a lot on the east side of Sixteenth avenue east, between London road and South street, for $2,500.

• • •

The Duluth Home company has sold to Frank J. Brown a property on the east side of Twenty-fifth avenue west between Third and Fourth streets, $2,500.

• • •

Pauline L. Wieland has sold to Mrs. Carolina W. F. Ruhnke a lot on the north side of Sixth street between Third and Fourth avenues east, $3,000.

• • •

Tina Gibson has sold to Henry C. Hurt four lots on the south side of Abbotsford street between Lewis and St. Andrew's street in Glen Avon, Third division, for $1,750.

• • •

James W. Monaghan has sold to A. H. Crassweller a lot on the northeast corner of Cambridge street and Forty-third avenue east, for $1,225.

• • •

The Zenith Investment company has sold to O. B. Johnson a lot fronting twenty-five feet on the south side of Superior street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues west, for $7,500.

• • •

Joseph Di Marco has sold to Frank Carr a lot fronting twenty-five feet on the north side of Superior street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues west for $4,100.

• • •

The Western Realty company report activity in West end real estate. Although the sales through the winter months have been below those of last season, there has been a good demand for reasonably priced houses and lots, and the indications are that much property will change hands within the next few months. This firm is getting many inquiries and a number of sales have been made recently through their office, of which they report the following:

House and lot at Nineteenth avenue west and Second street, from Leander Sinotte to Ole Johnson, for $3,125.

Eight-room house at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Halifax street, from William Lundgren to Otto Erickson, for $1,800.

Two lots in Oakland Park addition to Oscar J. Hanson.

One lot at Twenty-second avenue west and Twelfth street, to Erick Carlson.

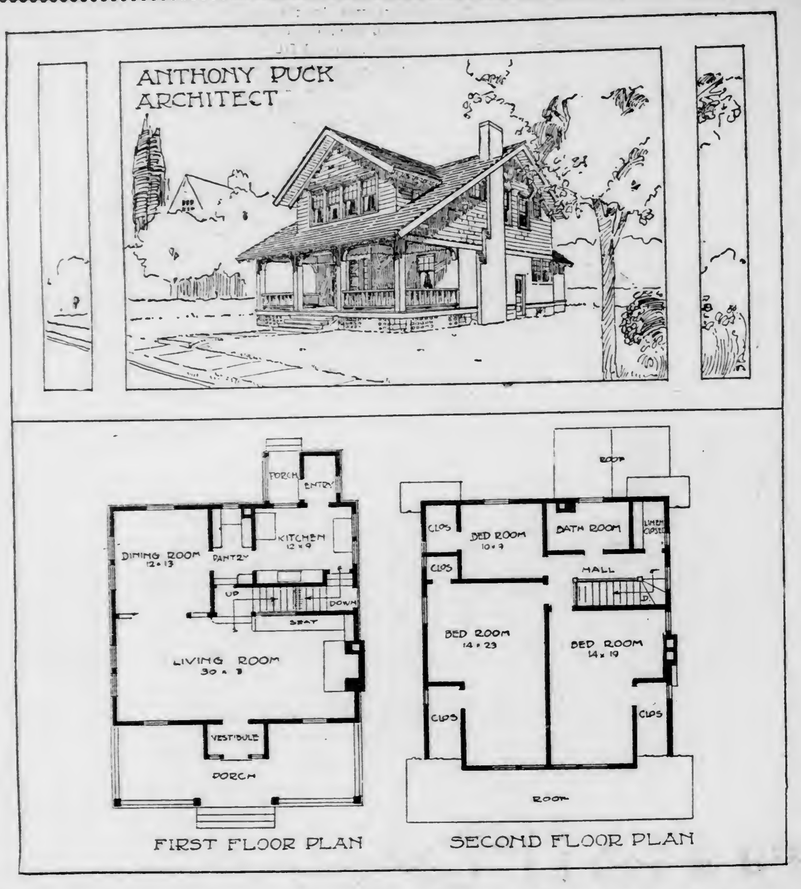
ATTRACTIVE HOME WHICH WOULD COST $3,800 TO BUILD IN DULUTH



The above illustration suggests plans and design for practical and attractive home, estimated to cost complete $3,800.

The construction is frame finished on the outside with stucco for the lower part and shingle for the gables and roof. The foundation may be of concrete or stone with cement floor.

In the plans may be seen an effort to utilize the greatest possible amount of floor space for rooms and the result is unusually large pleasant rooms for the size of the house. The living room extending across the entire front of the house is the salient feature of the plan and with its broad windows, fireplace, staircase is made unusually attractive and interesting. The arrangement of the dining room make it practically one with the living room. It is the intention to rave the staircase enclosed with glass doors at the landing so it can be effectively closed off from the living room, thus eliminating drafts and deadening sound between the two stories. The kitchen and pantry arrangement is good.

In the second story is shown a practical and attractive arrangement of rooms. The irregular shape of the two larger bedrooms only tends to make them more pleasant and roomy. The short hall and convenience of access to the bathroom are a good feature. There is ample closet space and each closet has outside light.

WEATHER IS FAVORABLE

Builders Take Advantage of Conditions and Work Progresses Well.

Richard Hanson Secures Contract for New West Church.

The fine weather of the past week has given a new impetus to building work, and the contractors who have work under way have made the best of it. Work on all of the buildings under construction in the downtown district is progressing well, and the promises that they will be ready for occupancy May 1 will be fulfilled.

In the outlying districts there is considerable residence building in progress. In fact, the winter has interrupted building work very little, for the builders have devised means of carrying on work in all kinds of weather.

There is very little new building coming out. Architects say they have prepared scores of sketches, but the prospective owners are holding off. As far as is now known, the Fidelity building will be the only one to be constructed on Superior street the coming year.

* * * *

Richard Hanson has been awarded the contract for the superstructure of the new First Swedish Baptist church at Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The foundation is already in and work on the superstructure will begin as soon as Mr. Hanson can get the material on the ground. Austin Terryberry is the architect.

* * * *

Alfred Peterson has been awarded the contract for the construction of a residence for A. Tanlson on McCulloch street between Forty-second and Forty-third avenues east. The building will cost about $1,000. P. M. Olsen is the architect.

* * * *

P. M. Olsen is preparing plans for two houses to be erected for the Alliance Realty company, one in the West end and the other on East Sixth street. Each will cost $5,500.

* * * *

Building Inspector S. M. Kielley has issued building permits for work costing $1,000 or over, as follows during the week.

* * * *

John Storms, frame dwelling on the east side of Lake avenue south between Cherry and Randolph streets, $1,000.

MANY SPLIT ON VALUES

Buyers and Sellers Cannot Agree on Prices of Property.

Growth of City in the Last Few Years Must Be Considered.

"The greatest problem for the real estate man in Duluth at present is to get buyer and seller to forget price comparisons in making their deals and get down to the consideration of real, intrinsic value," said a local real estate dealer yesterday. "Most of the hitches and delays are caused by the fact that the prospective purchaser insists in basing his ideas on value on prices that have existed during the last fifteen years rather than considering the main subject: 'What is that piece of ground worth today?'

"Webster says that intrinsic value is the real and true value; not an apparent or accidental value and that definition is one that we are trying to impress on the minds of prospective buyers.

"There are many elements to be considered in arriving at a just determination of true value. One must first eliminate the fictitious and accidental values established by forced sales or by purchases where the buyer has adjoining property and finds he must have a certain lot to carry out his plans for building.

"In the first place, income from property should be the first consideration. Real estate investments, improved, in Duluth pay all the way from 5 per cent to 20 per cent on the investment and most of the flat and apartment buildings with rents on their present basis pay 12 to 15 per cent. This income has become fixed for apartment houses in the last two years for, despite the fact that many apartments have been erected in Duluth recently, there is not a vacant apartment in the city, so far as I know. The normal growth of Duluth has furnished a demand that has kept rents and income from apartment houses on a level basis and there is no change in sight.

Value Is Established.

"This condition establishes a value for desirable apartment house sites that can be figured out on a percentage basis and when the style of the contemplated building and its cost are established, it is a matter of simple arithmetic for a prospective investor to determine what that particular piece of ground is really worth to him if he intends to realize, say 12 per cent on his investment. Because that particular lot sold for a few thousand dollars less when it was bought ten years ago and when Duluth was a city of 55,000 population is no basis for forming an idea of its present worth and, likewise, the fact that some one who was not aware that conditions have changed happened to buy a similar lot for even half the price a few months ago, has no bearing on the real value of the lot.

"Regardless of value, it cannot be disputed that it is human nature and the universal rule of business for the seller to get the highest possible price and for the buyer to buy as cheaply as he can. This condition is, in a way, illustrated by one deal that is now pending. Extensive plans for improvement have been tentatively drawn and the prospective investor is ready to make these improvements as soon as he buys the land. When it came to getting an option on the real estate, the prospective buyer heard that the seller was making an enormous profit on the tract which he bought nearly twenty years ago for a ridiculously low price. Our client was immediately blinded, mentally, and so far he has been unable to consider the main question of what that lot is really worth to him and what income on his investment he would receive at the price asked.

Growth Considered.

"Duluth's growth in the last few years must be considered in arriving at an idea of real estate values, for this city has add over 20,000 in the last five years and, if the demand for homes and apartments after five years of unprecedented building activity is any indication of Duluth's growth, the next census will show a population of at least 80,000 for Duluth."

CHANGE IN BRICK STYLE

Smooth, Pressed Brick Giving Way to Rough Material.

When a man decides to build a house, he takes upon his shoulders a load of trouble that he does not lose until the house is completed, the furniture installed and his family has lived in it a year or two, or long enough for the complaints from members thereof of the things which should have been done and were not, or that were done and should not, to die out.

Expense is usually a vital consideration, but with some fortunate beings, it is not a consideration and thus their load is lightened. But they still have a load. They have an architect to secure, a style of architecture to be decided upon, interior arangements to be made and material to select. And the selection of material is one of the most vexatious problems to be met with in building construction of any kind.

A man's home should always be expressive of his own personality, his own taste. When he does not build his own home, he can express himself only in the interior of the house which he occupies. But when he builds a home of his own, he wants it to embody in its construction his own ideas and personal likes. That being the case, one cannot very well go to an architect, say "build me a house to cost about so-and-so," and let it go at that. One must choose the style of architecture to be followed, decide on the material to be used at least for the greater part of the work, and roughly lay out the floor plans.

There are styles in building as in everything else. The world moves along learning a little every day and architects and builders learn with the rest. Building construction is vastly different from what it was a few years ago. Some of the changes are merely more modern ideas that have come in the course of progress. Others are "style," changes in public taste. Yet with all the changes, substantially the same materials are in use now as were in use years ago.

From the white limestone brick of our forefathers to the smooth faced vitrified brick of the present day is a far cry, yet it is still brick. Cement blocks were unknown years ago, but there were plaster houses and stone was used then as now.

There have been great changes in the kind of brick used in building construction in the past few years and one of those changes is now in progress. Only a few years ago, pressed brick, or vitrified brick with smooth, fancy faces, came into the market and was extensively taken up as a building material. It is still extensively used, but at least for residence construction it is being crowded out of the market by a rough brick that marks a return to the rustic.

"The rougher the better," is the way one dealer speaks of the new preference in residence construction. The market is flooded with rough brick, that standing singly may make one dubious of architectural possibilities, but that will really produce artistic results in construction. People are turning back to the rustic in residence construction and the rought brick, set in rough mortar that fills comparatively wide spaces between the bricks, is proving to be the favorite material.

The style reminds one somewhat of the days when the old red clay brick was the "town hall" back home was built of, was extensively used for residences that were the finest in the village. Yet the new brick does not resemble the old red brick. It comes in red, as well as in several other colors, but it is a rich red, not the rusty color popularly known as "brick." It is a pressed brick, impervious to moisture, and equal in that respect to the smooth vitrified brick.

The new style of brick will be used extensively in residence building in Duluth during the coming summer and several residences have already been built of it in the East end. The brick has been on the market for some time, but it lapped into the smooth pressed brick style for residence building and has not become popular until recently. Now it is being taken up generally throughout the country.

The rough brick is especially effective in the Colonial style of architecture. For rustic dwellings, especially where one has large grounds, it is one, but artistic efforts are secured by capable architects from its use in the crowded centers also. For business block construction it is not very extensively used and the smooth faced brick still holds its own for that class of building.

A new material that has come into the market here and that is looked upon favorably by some builders is a block known as interlocking vitrified block, the material of which the new $1,000,000 St. Paul hotel at St. Paul is constructed. The block has not been taken up for any buildings in Duluth yet, but builders who have seen it are inclined to believe that it will make a popular building material.

The block, while lighter than brick, is considered better than cement block because it is impervious to moisture in the light and freight rates are low on it. It comes in different sizes so that the severe appearance of a block exterior can be eliminated by variety. It can be laid more cheaply than brick and in cost is but a little more expensive than material for a frame building. It can be used alone or can be backed by a layer of rough brick for a brick wall.

Brick veneer as a building policy has almost passed out of existence. People have found that solid brick walls can be constructed at little more cost than brick veneering and they prefer the solid style of construction with its accompanying safety and lower insurance rates.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Duluth, Minnesota, will receive sealed proposals at the Council Chamber in the City Hall in the said City of Duluth at 7:30 o'clock in the evening on March 28, 1910, for the purchase of gold-bearing coupon bonds to the aggregate amount of $200,000 in denominations of $1,000, $500, $100 and $50 (except that where not inconsistent with the bids said bonds shall be in denomination of $1,000).

Said water and light bonds may be bid for under two plans as to time of delivery and payment therefor. First plan: $50,000 to be paid for July first, 1910; $50,000, August first, 1910, and $50,000, September first, 1910. Second plan: The entire issue to be paid for July first, 1910.

Bids may be made on either or both of said issues.

The sale of said bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder at a sum not less than par value thereof, and interest accrued to the date of delivery. Such shall be by popular subscription and actual residents of the City of Duluth shall be preferred in case of bids otherwise equal, and any person, including any actual resident of the City of Duluth may bid on one or more of said bonds. All bids for said bonds shall be without condition or qualification.

Each bidder is required to file with the city clerk prior to 2 o'clock p. m. of said day, a certified check on or a certificate of deposit of a national bank, payable to the order of the City of Duluth, without condition for an amount equal to one (1) per cent of the full face value of the bonds to be bid for, or a good and sufficient bond in the said sum to be approved by the common council of said city, and conditioned that the party making said bid will, if awarded the sale, take the bonds and pay for them according to the terms of said bid and the ordinance; and that in case of failure so to do, the City of Duluth shall have the right to sue upon said bond and to recover the full face thereof, which shall be and in said bond shall be stated as being the sum agreed upon as liquidated damages in case of a breach thereof. And a condition of said bond shall be that the principal and sureties thereon expressly waive all questions of irregularity or illegality in any manner affecting the issue of said bonds, the intention of the bond being to provide for the payment of said sum of money absolutely without any condition or defense thereto.

Said bonds and checks shall at 2 o'clock p. m. of said day be submitted by the city clerk to the city attorney for his opinion as to whether said checks and bonds conform to the conditions of the ordinance, and the bid of any person whose check or bond the city attorney shall deem to not be in legal form, according to the terms of the ordinance shall not be received unless such bidder shall have such check or bond corrected to meet the requirements of the city attorney or deposit a new bond or check duly approved by said attorney before 7:30 o'clock p. m. of said day.

In all cases of bids received and not accepted, the check or certificate received therewith shall thereupon be returned. In case said bonds are awarded to any bidder and the said bidder refuses to accept and pay for said bonds, or any part thereof, within ten (10) days after notice, oral or written, that same are ready for delivery, said delivery to be made at the First National Bank of Duluth, Minn., the said amount of the certificate of deposit or check so furnished to the city shall be retained by the City of Duluth, as its own, and for and on account of damages for breach of the contract on the part of said bidder. In case any bidder furnishing such certificate of deposit or check shall take the said bonds, said sum shall be credited to him on account of the payment thereof. Each bidder must give his address, street and number.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved to the City of Duluth.

BARGAINS

In highest class restricted East End residential building sites. Note the stores, churches and apartment houses going up in the unrestricted districts and spoiling neighboring lots, that once considered choice, are now unmarketable. Consider this carefully and you will buy no site for a home outside of a locality from which undesirable features are barred.

REMEMBER the names of the additions platted or controlled by us in this district extending from Eighteen to Twenty-eighth avenue east and from Second street up the hill to Tenth: "Highland Park," "East Lawn," "Clover Hill," "Williards," "Long View." Building sites are yet cheap, but constantly advancing in response to growing demand. New streets will be fully improved this year of like character with past improvements. A few bargain sites will be sold for the right kind of houses.

DULUTH EVENING HERALD

TWENTY-SEVENTH YEAR. LAST EDITION MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1910. TWO CENTS.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY. 1

CLAIM MINNEAPOLIS HAS 1,500 TO 3,000 CASES OF TYPHOID

Doctors and Charity Workers in That City Denounce Conditions.

Water Unfit for Any Use Whatever----Distributing Point for Disease.

Aqueduct to Lake Superior Is Talked of as Means of Relief.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 14.—Minneapolis is pest ridden with the typhoid germ. Men, women, and children succumb to the fever daily, while cases of the disease infest every neighborhood. For virulence and widespread character the epidemic approaches that which ravaged the city twenty years ago. In the throes of the present siege Minneapolis suffers more than at any of the recurrent fever scourges since 1889.

Thirty-four deaths from typhoid fever were recorded during the month of February. The health department of the city conservatively approximates the number of typhoid fever cases at 600. Estimates of physicians and the heads of charitable organizations variously place it at from 1,500 to 3,000. In support of the latter estimates, it is cited that the hospitals are full of fever patients, and one public school has been converted into an emergency typhoid station.

In the Water Supply.

The source of the fever germ is the Mississippi river, from which the city draws its water supply. Contamination of the river water is charged against smaller cities farther up the river—

NOMINATES IOWAN FOR ELLIS' PLACE

Taft Sends W. S. Kenyon's Name in as His Nominee.

Washington, March 14.—William S. Kenyon of Fort Dodge, Iowa, was today nominated by the president as assistant to the attorney general, vice Wade H. Ellis, who resigned that position to accept the chairmanship of the Ohio Republican committee.

Mr. Kenyon is one of the general attorneys of the Illinois Central Railroad company, with headquarters at Chicago. He is under 45 years of age.

The office of assistant to the attorney-general has charge of the trust prosecutions of the department of justice. The position pays $7,000 a year.

OLD LAND CASE SETTLED

Minnesota Supreme Court's Decision Is Upheld at Washington.

Peter Froyseth Wins Suit Started Against Him By Russell Sage.

Washington, March 14.—The supreme court of the United States today announced a decision in the long controversy over the title to certain land in Minnesota in favor of Peter Froyseth, and against the trustees of the Hastings & Dakota Railroad company. Scarcity of unallotted land in the state of Minnesota was the foundation of this suit of ejectment, brought by Russell Sage as assignee in trust of the Hastings & Dakota Railroad company, against Froyseth, who likewise claimed the ownership of a quarter section of land in Chippewa county, Minn. Sage was scheduled as trustee by Edward C. Osborn and J. J. Slocum.

In 1856 a grant of land was given to the railroad to aid in the construction of a road across the state of Minnesota. By reason of overlapping and prior grants the company had difficulty in selecting land that had not been reserved. The land which Froyseth occupies was claimed by the railroad by reason of selection in 1883, and by re-selection in 1891.

State Court Upheld.

Froyseth asserted that no rights were acquired by the railroad or its assignees under the selection of 1883, and that the lands having been restored to the public domain in 1891, his rights as a homesteader attached at that time, notwithstanding that the railroad immediately selected the lands.

A decision was given by the Minnesota courts favorable to Froyseth. This was affirmed by the supreme court of the United States in an opinion announced by Justice Lurton today.

FIRE DAMAGE IS $800,000

Series of Outbreaks Destroy Five Buildings at Jamestown, N. Y.

One Man Killed and Three Hurt---Help Asked From Buffalo.

Jamestown, N. Y., March 14.—Beginning Saturday night and ending this morning, Jamestown was visited by a series of fires resulting in a total loss of $800,000, the death of one man and the serious injury of three others.

The buildings destroyed include the Gokey factory building, the Gokey business block, the New Sherman house, the Erie Hall block, and the J. F. Briggs block.

The fire first broke out Saturday night in the Gokey factory building, but was believed to have been completely extinguished. At 2 o'clock this morning the flames started afresh, and communicated with the Gokey business block, the largest office and business structure in the city. The fire spread rapidly and was soon beyond control. Buffalo was appealed to for aid.

Hotel Guests Lose All.

Although there was ample time for the guests of the Sherman house to leave the building, none had a chance of saving personal property.

Falling of telephone poles entangled a number of persons in a network of wires.

The Gokey office building was occupied by stores, a business college and offices. The loss on this building is $200,000 and that of the tenants $160,000.

The loss on the Sherman house is

WOULD-BE SUICIDE LOSES HER NERVE

Climbs Onto Ice But Falls Back and Drowns Before Help Arrives.

Detroit, Mich., March 14. — Albert Palucci, 198 Wabash avenue, believes that an unidentified woman, who met death after a terrible struggle early yesterday morning by slipping from a cake of ice into the Detroit river, was his wife. He said his wife disappeared two weeks ago and that she had frequently threatened to end her life by drowning. Her description answers the vague one of the woman, who was last seen in the darkness crouching on the ice cake off Woodward avenue, screaming for help.

Walter Hewlett, a negro on the ferry Promise, about to make a trip to the Canadian side, heard the shrieks of the terror-stricken woman, and without hesitation plunged into the freezing waters.

Negro Tried to Save Her.

Guided by the screams, he was making good headway against the ice when the cries ceased. The silence that followed told those on the boat that Hewlett's attempt at rescue was futile.

It is thought the woman jumped into the river, contemplating suicide, then lost her nerve and grasped the ice cake. The body was not recovered.

The negro almost drowned before he was picked up by a boat lowered from the Promise.

DISCOUNTS STRIKE TALK

Railroad Official Talks of Letter Received From the Firemen.

Carter Declines to Make Direct Statement That Men Will Go Out.

Washington, March 14.—The threatened strike of the 25,000 firemen and engineers of the railroads west of Chicago will not be called, it was believed in official quarters today, until after the federal authorities had been asked to mediate under the Erdman act.

Chicago, March 14.—Probability of a great railroad strike was decried today by a prominent railroad official, who, in speaking for the forty-seven railroads involved in the firemen's wage controversy, declared that there was absolutely no chance of a "walkout."

"The railroad managers' committee will meet again today as usual," he said, "and the firemen's letter will be taken under consideration. It is not likely that the railroads will change their attitude. If it was a question of yielding we might consider it, but to submit to arbitration the questions of authority and seniority would be violating our contract with the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers."

W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen and Enginemen, would not say that he would order the men to strike if an unfavorable reply to their last letter should be received. He said he would leave that to the committee.

THREE IN AWFUL PLUNGE IN AUTO

Car Turns Somersaults Into Canyon But Occupants Survive.

San Jose, Cal., March 14.—Slipping from a narrow road in the mountains, fifty miles north of Salinas, an automobile containing Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Quilty of this city, and J. M. Thompson of Watsonville, plunged into a canyon Saturday afternoon. The car, in its fall turned twice over, and landing in a brush pile pinned the two men passengers beneath. Mrs. Quilty, despite severe injuries, managed to crawl out of the canyon and reach a farm house two miles distant, whence she despatched aid to her husband and Thompson. The latter was injured internally and his condition is serious. Quilty's leg was broken.

The three sufferers were placed in another automobile, and after an all-night journey, were brought to a local hospital.

NEW HORDE TO TESTIFY

More Witnesses Against Maybray in Court at Council Bluffs.

Case Against Superior Man Dismissed for Want of Testimony.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, March 14.—A new array of witnesses presented themselves to testify today in the beginning of the second week of the trial of John C. Maybray and associates, charged with extensive swindling by fraudulent use of the United States mails. Among the many who were to give evidence were handwriting experts, new alleged victims, and some defendants who have turned government witnesses.

Judge McPherson has given notice to counsel for both sides that he would do everything to expedite the trial, and if possible to get in all the testimony by the end of the present week. The government still has seventy-five witnesses to examine. The number to be questioned by the defense is indefinite. Attorney Emmet Tinley, princi-

SECOND MAN DIES FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Frank Schleiman Is Electrocuted at Sing Sing---Protests Innocence.

Ossining, N. Y., March 14.—Frank Schleiman, the second of the two men convicted of the murder of Mrs. Sophie Staber in Brooklyn last July, was electrocuted in Sing Sing prison here today. Carlo Giro, Schleiman's companion in the burglary of the Staber home which resulted in the fatal shooting, was put to death here a few weeks ago.

"I die for burglary only; I never took a human life," was Schleiman's final protest of innocence. "I hope, gentlemen, you will forgive me for my mistake. I realize mine now. I die with a clear conscience," were the condemned man's last words.

His speech was said to be the longest ever made from the death chair in the prison here.

NORTH DAKOTA COAL RATE LAW IS UPHELD

Washington, March 14.—The North Dakota coal rate law of 1907 was today held to be constitutional for the present, by the supreme court of the United States, despite the claim of the railroad that the law requires the transportation of coal below the cost of service.

ARGUE OIL TRUST CASE

Attorneys Begin Oral Battle Over Decree of Dissolution.

Crowd Waits for Chance to Enter Supreme Court Room.

Washington, March 14.—Found by the lower federal court to be a combination in restraint of trade and a monopoly of a branch of interstate commerce, the Standard Oil company today appeared at the bar of the supreme court of the United States to make final argument against dissolution under the Sherman anti-trust law. The proceedings before the highest tribunal of the country are the outgrowth of years of investigation on the part of the government.

The immediate origin of the case was a petition filed in 1906 by the department of justice in the United States circuit court for the Eastern district of Missouri, asking for the dissolution of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey as violating the Sherman anti-trust act. Testimony was taken in St. Louis and New York, including that of John D. Rockefeller himself. Four judges had been called in to pass the case, and they finally announced a decree granting substantially all that the government had asked. It is from this decree that the counsel for the "Standard Oil" appealed to the supreme court.

Justice Moody Absent.

Only eight justices will participate in the present consideration of the case. When Chief Justice Fuller today asked the counsel to proceed, the chair of Justice Moody on the extreme right was vacant. He is suffering from rheumatism and has not been able to Discovery Promises to Lead to Many Doors in French Capital.

Paris, March 14.—A cipher list of persons who, M. Duez, the embezzling liquidator of the properties of the religious orders, declares received hush money from him promises to play in the present scandal a part similar to that of the famous check book of M. Thierret, which served to compromise so many French politicians in the Panama canal affair. None of the names from this code list has been yet been published. M. Duez's former private secretary has been arrested.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT MEETS WITH ROUSING WELCOME AT KHARTUM

Former President Arrives Safely After Perilous African Trip.

Is Met By His Wife and Daughter Ethel at That City.

Visit in Historic Place Will Continue Until Thursday Night.

Khartum March 14.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his party arrived here at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The former president of the United States received a most rousing reception.

Khartoum is in gala attire, practically every able-bodied person in the city was on hand to meet the steamer Dal, which brought the travelers on the last leg of their journey to this city.

Col. Roosevelt's success in shooting in the Soudan a dozen antelopes, including one known as the white-eared antelope and other rare specimens, makes a fitting end to his hunt, which has been successful beyond all expectations. Henceforth the ex-president will be the guest of honor at a series of brilliant receptions. The first of the receptions was held at the Jungle Station of the American mission at Sobat, where Col. Roosevelt dined on his way here. Before his departure from Sobat he spoke of the manner in which the

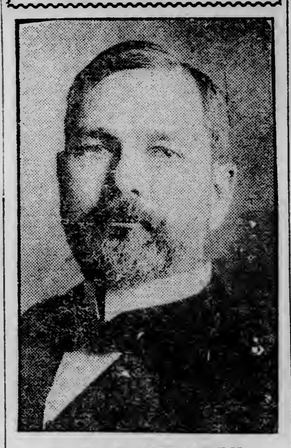
MAY HEAD NEW COURT OF CUSTOMS APPEALS



R. M. MONTGOMERY,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., March 14.—Justice R. M. Montgomery may be appointed as chief justice of the court of customs appeals. He has been offered the position by President Taft but has not as yet decided whether he will accept it. Justice Montgomery was born at Eaton Rapids, Mich., in 1849. He was prosecuting attorney in 1874, assistant United States district attorney in 1887 and has been chief justice of the supreme court of Michigan since 1900.

MEN STAND TEST WELL

Philadelphia Strikers Show No Eagerness to Return to Work.

Effort to Boycott All Banks in the Country Being Made.

Philadelphia, March 14.—Interest in the strike today centered on the ability of the unions to hold the striking workmen together and prevent a break predicted by employers and the city authorities. Early reports showed that although some men did return to work after a week's idleness, there was no indication of a general break. On the other hand, several unions which had hesitated about joining the sympathetic strike cast their lot today with the trolley men.

Early reports that there was no stampede to return to work were confirmed later in the day, and strike leaders declared themselves pleased with the conduct of the workmen who are out.

The number of people of all classes idle because of the strike is still a subject of dispute. The city authorities have not given out any statistics since those issued by Director of Public Safety Clay, indicating that only 20,000 men and women struck.

Neither have the labor leaders revised their figures of 125,000.

About 200 men out of the 3,000 on strike at the Baldwin Locomotive works returned to work today. The Baldwin strikers held a meeting this morning at Labor Lyceum hall and formed a union with temporary officers. A permanent organization will be effected later. The union leaders

BIG COAL STRIKE IN THE BALANCE

Important Conferences Are Scheduled at Cincinnati This Week.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 14.—Industrial peace or a nation-wide coal strike is to be the outcome of conferences and committee meetings preceding and during the international convention of the United Mine Workers of North America here this week.

Recognizing the importance of the gatherings, workmen and mine owners arriving here today sought members of the substitute scale committee of the central competitive field and plied them with arguments as to why increased wages should or should not be granted.

The committee consists of sixteen operators and miners of Ohio, Indiana and Western Pennsylvania, and will virtually control the wage rate and working conditions of every union coal miner in the country, as the central field's contract is the basis for agreements in all other fields.

Hitherto the dispute has been thrashed out more or less openly. The substitute scale committee, however, need keep no record of its progress, and what is done is known only by inference, after a report to the full committee.

PAPER COMPANY CASE DISMISSED

Question of Judicial Authority Over Congress Never Comes to an Issue.

Washington, March 14.—Justice Wright today dismissed the action brought by the Valley Paper company of Holyoke, Mass., against the joint printing committee of congress, on the ground that the plaintiff's bid was illegal in form and did not comply with the regulations set forth by the committee. Attorneys for the paper company asked permission to appeal.

The paper company sought to mandamus the committee to consider its rejected bid to furnish paper for the public printing. Justice Wright issued a show cause order and only the members of the lower house on the committee obeyed it and appeared in court. Senators Bourne, Fletcher and Smoot, on the instructions of the senate, ignored the justice's order on the ground that they were clothed with constitutional immunities.

The case at one time threatened to develop into a contest of the authority of the judicial branch of the government over the legislative.

MUST LET HUGHES BE

New York Party Leaders Are Given Plain Tip By Root.

Situation in Empire State Brings Out Mention of Roosevelt.

New York, March 14.—With the departure of Senator Elihu Root today for Washington to inform President Taft of the result of his conferences with State Chairman Woodruff and the local Republican leaders on the question of Woodruff's retirement from the chairmanship, a political situation looms up which bears directly not only on the state campaign next fall, but on the national campaign of 1912, and which today brought out mention of Theodore Roosevelt as the man who would be called on to save the party this state.

The administration, through Senator Root, has made it clear to those now in the party's leadership in this state that New York must not be lost to the Democrats in the gubernatorial election, for such defeat would endanger the party's success two years later.

Must Let Hughes Alone.

To this end Senator Root informed Chairman Woodruff that the opposition to Governor Hughes and the latter's measures must cease, and the suggestion is said to have been delicately made that the federal power would be used to thwart such opposition if continued.

Whether Senator Root sought to force Mr. Woodruff from the state chairmanship as an initial step to remove from control the so-called "machine" leaders, was the subject of much conjecture at Republican state headquarters today.

"I am still here," said Chairman Woodruff today, and then made it evi-

IN WAR TIME.

Gen. Adalbert R. Buffington, at a dinner in Madison, N. J., told a number of Civil war stories.

"Gen. Malone," he said, "was very thin. Lone cold and windy December morning in '64 he was taking a nap in his tent when his old colored servant, 'Uncle Davy,' tiptoed in, and stumbling in the darkness, knocked down the general's folding cot and spilled him out on the frozen ground.

"General Mahone jumped up furiously, seized a scabbard, and made for Davy. Davy ran. The general gave chase.

"Uncle Davy tore up hill and down dale till he was pretty well out of breath; then he looked back over his shoulder at his master, who bounded after him on slender limbs blue with cold, his long white night shirt fluttering in the chill morning.

"'Fo' de lan's sake, Mars' William,' the exhausted Davy yelled desperately, 'yo' hain't trustin' yo'se'f in dis wind on dem legs, is yo'?'"

HOW SHIPS DISPOSE OF ASHES.

From the Pathfinder: A good many of the steamships still employ the old method of hoisting the ashes from the boilers to the decks above and dumping them overboard; others mix the ashes with water and pump them out; but both methods are objectionable to passengers, especially when the wind is blowing in the wrong direction. The newest of the liners get rid of their ashes by forcing them through the bottom of the hull by means of compressed air.

The ashes are received into a hopper along with the clinkers and are passed along to a crusher, which grinds them up together. In a watertight casing below is a revolving drum, open as it turns first to the crusher chamber, and then to the discharging pump below. Compressed air, about seventy pounds to the square inch, is applied to the drum just before its opening comes over the discharge pipe, and the ashes are sent into the sea with such force that they sweep clear of the vessel's hull. This expeller can get rid of eight or ten tons of ashes, drawn from forty-eight furnaces, in an hour.

RATES TO BE EQUALIZED

Discrimination in Favor of St. Paul Will End This Year.

Fares From Pacific Coast Will Be Same to Both Cities.

Duluth passenger men state that there is every assurance that the coming summer Duluth will be placed upon an equal rate basis with St. Paul, in so far as the rate from Pacific coast points is concerned, and that the fact will result in bringing hundreds of travelers to the city.

Last summer hundreds of tourists returning from the Pacific coast via the Canadian Pacific had tickets that did not permit these tourists to come to Duluth unless they paid extra fare. The consequence was that hundreds of travelers returned East by way of St. Paul, instead of coming down by the way of Duluth and spending a day or two in this city.

There is a strong movement on foot at the present time to have the rate discrimination against Duluth removed. Not only has the Duluth traffic bureau taken the matter up, but other citizens who have been aware of this discrimination have lent their protest to the cause.

It is a very serious discrimination against Duluth, as shown by the fact that it is estimated that something over 100,000 tourists returned to the East last season by the way of the Canadian Pacific, most of them naturally stopping off at St. Paul for a few days on their return journey.

Now that there is an excellent short line between Duluth and Winnipeg there is no longer any excuse for discriminating against Duluth in the matter of rate. It may be that the strong rivalry between the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern has had something to do with the refusal of the Canadian Northern to give Duluth an equal rate basis. However, railroad men say today that there is every indication that the present year Duluth will be put on an equal basis with St. Paul.

The present year promises to be a season in which there will be an exceptionally heavy tourist travel. Especially will the West receive a great amount of tourist travel from the East, according to local and visiting passenger men. For that reason it is important that Duluth secure the equal rate which every effort is being made to secure at the present time.

PETERSON IS ON TRIAL

Claimed to Have Robbed Matt Wuori in a Lake Avenue Saloon.

Is First of Criminal Cases of the March Term.

Before Judge Cant of the district court this morning, the trial of Andrew Peterson, who is accused by the last grand jury of grand larceny in the first degree, was begun.

On March 4 of the present year, Peterson is said to have taken from the person of Matt Wuori, $33. The alleged robbery took place in a Lake avenue saloon. Peterson claims that he did not get the money. There was a general "rough house" at the time the crime is said to have taken place. There were numerous threats, many made motions as if to draw knives, some sought their hip pockets; and all present are said to have been very much under the influence of liquor.

Most of the session this morning was given over to the selection of a jury and the officer who made the arrest was the only witness examined.

With this case the criminal cases for the March term begin. The next case to be taken up is that of the state against Milan Sagatoric and Samuel Raka who are said to have swindled a man bound for the West, out of nearly $500, the money he was about to use to pay the first installment on a farm.

There are some eighteen or twenty criminal cases to be tried at this term of court. The case of the state against Ralph Jones for the alleged murder of Walter Whitehead will be taken up as soon as a few of the minor cases are disposed of.

BEEF TRUST LOSES POINT

New Jersey Supreme Court Will Order That Books Be Shown.

Judge Swayze Says Grand Jury Has Right to See Records.

Trenton, N. J., March 14.—The so-called beef trust lost a decision in the New Jersey supreme court today, Justice Swayze filing a statement that he would sign an order compelling the National Packing company and other meat corporations to produce their books before the Hudson county grand jury for use in the investigation that body is holding with respect to cold storage houses in Hudson county.

The decision was arrived at by Justice Swayze after consultation with other members of the court. In his statement the justice says that only two objections were made on behalf of the companies: First, that the prosecutor failed to show a cause pending in which the books would be required as evidence; second, that Justice Swayze had no power to bring the book within the state except where they might be needed in a cause in the supreme court which would make the books subject to the control of the court.

Upholds Grand Jury Oath.

In reply Justice Swayze says that if a grand jury has a right to do what the oath of the members indicates, that is "to diligently inquire into all such matters as shall in any way come to their knowledge," then the grand jury should be permitted to examine the books. It would thwart the administration of justice, the court declares, to hold that in every instance the case to be investigated must be definitely specified in the proceedings, for not only may the grand jury be ignorant of the necessary facts, but to give the name of the suspected individual or to describe the supposed offense may warn the offender and give him an opportunity to escape.

Books Must Be Shown.

With respect to the second point Justice Swayze says:

"It certainly was never supposed that a corporation whose books contained evidence that would be important in a criminal proceeding against individuals could not be compelled to produce those books for the purpose of affirming such evidence."

LIVELY LATIN AMERICA.

New York Sun: Somebody has said that Chile will go on making money out of her nitrate fields till some near-sighted German several thousand miles away discovers how to make nitrates out of air.

A syndicate of certain members of that always painstaking and ingenious race is approaching this discovery by preparing to make commercial fertilizer out of the locusts of the Argentine Republic. It is said that locusts contain about 14 per cent of nitrogen, and there are no end of them in the Argentine.

Echoes of business comes up from most of the South American cities, according to Collier's. Buenos Ayres is building another fine new avenue, to be known as the Avenida Centenario, in honor of the city's one-hundredth anniversary.

The Bonaereases are also to have fifteen more hospital ambulances, so pleased were they with those recently sent down from the United States, struggling to repair the destruction of the earthquake three years ago, has placed a loan of $5,000,000 to carry on the work.

DORMITORY FOR JURORS

All-Night Session Will No Longer Be a Hardship.

Jurymen and Deputy Will Be Provided With Comfortable Beds.

An all-night session on a jury in the district court will no longer be a hardship, for now the jurymen have been provided with a dormitory. The room is located just off courtroom No. 5, which is located on the third floor.

The quarters will one day be used as judges' chambers when St. Louis county needs another judge, but for the time being they will be used as a dormitory for juries, which must remain out all night. The room has been fitted up with twelve single iron beds with snowy linen and after several hours on some perplexing problem the beds will look mighty good to a lot of tired jurymen. There is every convenience in connection and the sheriff's bed is just outside the door.

GOLF AT PANAMA.

A Fine Course on Which a Certain Red Bug Plays Its Own Game.

New York Sun: "No sir! Catch me playing golf in Panama!" exclaimed the Isthmian civil service worker. "They've a fine course laid out over on the Pacific side—due north, by the way, from the Atlantic end of the canal, you'd think it would be west—but I don't play any golf. Not I!

"That course is the standing joke up and down the line. The new men, just out from the states, they play on it, but in about three days they wish they hadn't.

"A tiny little bug infests the grass there and it's a terror. The people in Spiggoty land call it the red bug.

"Well, about the time one of the new fellows is trying his first drive from the tee every red bug on the grounds has marked him out for a good thing and they're making in droves for hole No. 1, beating him out to it.

"The bug always gets there first. By the time Mr. Newcomer is holing they're in committee of the hole, sitting on all available blades of grass. It's even whispered that certain aristocratic members of the red bug community have learned the art of firmly sticking to the ball wherever it touches the green and thus traveling with it into the hole.

"When the innocent player, joyous at his fine form, puts his hand into the hole, the waiting red bug jumps up his sleeve and proceeds to get busy. In the meantime all the other hosts of relatives make a concerted attack on the player. They make a specialty of getting down into his shoes, between his toes.

"Flees bite, but the red bug digs in and proceeds to tunnel under your skin. The females lay little nests of eggs in your anatomy and they start to hatch. If one of those nests hatches it's a dangerous proposition. Many a man is lamed for life by neglecting a nest.

"When the player makes the course he doesn't know quite what's the matter with him. The wise ones grin delightedly at the squirming unfortunate and finally put him wise.

"Oh, the cure is easy. Get into a bath tub and rub yourself down with fresh tobacco leaves. This will make you a pale, yellow-green color all over, the red bug drops off you. Finish up with a regular bath and also put your golf outfit sadly away for keeps. Always keep away from grass in Panama."

WHALE TOWED THE DORY.

Boston Herald: Capt. William O'Donnell of the fishing schooner Lucy D. Winsor was hauling trawls several miles off Rice Point when his dory began to act strangely. The boat stood on its stern, then tilted by the head and started out to sea at tremendous speed. The captain was experiencing a new sensation and it made him a trifle anxious because there was no clue to the mysterious power that was rapidly taking him off soundings.

With added momentum the dory forged away from the schooner, and its occupant, who admits he was scared, cast off the trawl and crouched in the stern of the boat so the bow would not be dragged under water. But the trawl caught, and two minutes after the dory was flying through the waves at such a rate that water began to slop over the sides.

The dory was rapidly leaving the schooner, when the tension on the line relaxed and the dory presently stopped. The captain hauled in the trawl and found the hooks stripped of fish as a result of the speed at which they had been dragged through the water. Near the end of the gear, however, was found the head of a big cod, its body having been bitten off. That is what makes Capt. O'Donnell believe a whale gave him the terrifying ride out Cape Cod way. He thinks the whale nipped the cod and some of the keen hooks scratched its head and sides and dug into the skin till the whale had towed the dory a long way seaward.

THE TRAMP'S REASON.

Kansas City Star: The late Joseph Dorsey of San Jose, the famous detective whose best feat was the capture of Canon Bernard after a chase from Alaska to Cape Horn, used to impute his success to his knowledge of men.

"A detective," he would say, "should know the habits of every class. Then no disguise can deceive him.

"All men, even the most unmethodical, have their habits. Even the tramp has his.

"'You great big loafer,' I said to a tramp one December day, 'you ought to be in jail!'

"'Yes, Algie,' the tramp replied, as he pretended to fix a monocle in his eye. 'Yes; I know it's the correct thing for our set at this season, Algie; but, deuce take it, it's such a mild winter, don't you know.'"

WHERE INSPIRATION SITS.

Mrs. Quilluser came tiptoeing softly into her husband's study, rested a hand lightly on his shoulder and peered over at the sheaf of half-written sheets on his desk.

"What are you working on now, dearest?" she asked gently.

"On Mary's mittens," he answered pleasantly, but without looking up.

Mrs. Quilluser studied a moment, as if planning. "Dearest, Willie needs a pair of shoes more than Mary does the mittens. I have already promised them to the poor boy. Hadn't you better work on Willie's shoes first, dear?"

"All right, Nellie, all right," he replied kindly, turning his eyes up into Nellie's great patient ones.

Then he pushed back "An Ode to the Dancing Leaves," and cheerfully began to write a Sunday special on "A New Substitute for Coal."

BOYS' SUMMER FASHIONS

WE are going to tone our boys down a bit this season—that is as to the styling of their garments. Perish the thought we could suppress them in spirit even though we wanted to, which we certainly do not. We are going to let them wear stripes and plaids as heretofore, but their stripes are not going to be quité so stripey and their plaids not nearly so plaidey, which in approved English means that we are going to subdue the character of the patterns that will be identified with the boy's clothes this spring and summer. Our boys are going to take their fashion influences from father this season rather than from mother, and this means that simplicity is going to be the keynote as far as is consistent in expressing juvenile fashions.

Grays and greens are to be the color tones with the former much preferred in the decrees. There is to be a preponderance of grays and a significant demonstration that stripes are the real thing. Of course there will be many color schemes aside from the grays and also many very showey patterns, but those who lay down the juvenile fashion decrees countenance these only as concessions to personal preference. The mandate to those who desire to obey fashion to the letter will influence—if not coerce—their lads to affect grays in modest stripes.

For those who will not accept the stripes, and there are many, the more liberal designers say that your boy may wear shepherd checks, broken plaids, broken checks and checked plaid combinations. There are so many beautiful designs displayed this season in these effects that it is safe to say they will not go begging for adherents.

In all patterns, whether it be in plaids, stripes, checks or self designs, moderation and small effects define the tendency toward simplicity. The color schemes are also subdued, the most popular combination being gray foundation with sprinklings of green as the contrasting tone. In the materials those that have been popular for several seasons still obtain. These are the velours, cassimeres, cheviots, tweeds and the more quiet Scotchy effects. These are for the spring months particularly, for in the mid-summer outing and vacation suits we shall see many of the tropical textures employed. Homeespuns, crashes and lightweight flannel effects are going to be tremendously fashionable during the dog days.

Norfolk styles are still the popular thing with the school boys and after these the two-piece single and double breasted sacks. For the little fellows the Russian and sailor blouse styles are to the fore, though several unique departures from these have been launched, but as yet their popularity is speculative and hence cannot be given any definite position in the edicts.

Eton linen collars with Windsorties are going to be worn a great deal this season with both these blouse styles. Both the ties and the collars being detachable. Next to the gray effects, blues are established as most acceptable for the little fellows. In the washable effects there are shown many butcher linens, kakhi and wool crashes. On these also some models include the Eton collar and Windsor ties detached. Sometimes a fancy tassel cord of silk is supplied in lieu of the tie. Many of these mid-summer effects for the little fellows are made along negligee lines with short sleeves and low necks for cool romping.

Bloomer trousers are given the preference on all boys' suits and these are not cut quite so full as heretofore.

The prescribed hat for the school boy this season is the gray telescope with many natty and careless shapings of the brim. Fancy bands will be worn a great deal on these, but of modest colors and not the weird combinations that we are accustomed to seeing.

The boys' shoes follow the same shapes and leathers as are decreed for their daddies. These are dull calfs, patents and tans, and the two-hole eyelet oxfords will be the popular styles.

An International Congress of Easter Fashions

The Fashion Show on the second floor is getting in line for the Easter parade. The showing is eloquent of Spring. The Suit family gathering was never so aristocratic. From a shapely Covert Coat at the modest sum of three times $5 to the sumptuous imported models the assembly is "inclusive" and exclusive—very! The fresh gathering of Chic Skirts and lovely Waists is bound to captivate women, who at all hazards must be smartly gowned. This Mardi-Gras of Spring Newness is encircled with the chaplet of Quality, the S. & B. Co. kind, which has passed into a proverb with Duluth women. The ordinary brand of quality on a printed page with nothing behind it has an absorbing element of whitewash and paint—the thin veneer of which, like a fog before the sun, vanishes on close inspection.

Easter is unusually early this year—two weeks from yesterday—hence, the importance of early selection. The latch string of welcome hangs on the outer door. Come tomorrow.

Easter Suits

The majority are already in and nobody need wait willy-nilly. The showing has reacht high tide. Easter but two weeks away—an extra incentive to early buying.

But the suits themselves are their own best incentive. Why take blue serge alone—in which so many women feel the best drest—there are scores of distinct styles here. Take shepherd checks—those graceful black and white minglings that return each spring as regularly as the Crocuses. Slight figures will lean to Norfolk Jacket Suits. One of more than twenty styles. we have told you of those popular priced beauties, beginning at $24.50 and ranging in price from $35.00 to as high as you wish.

Your attention is specially called to the new "Elsie Janis" Suit for young girls. The semi-fitting coat is lined with blue and white checkt silk. The sailor collar is of the long and rolling variety and faced with same silk. A pretty one-sided sash gives the whole suit a smart looking finish that every young lady is bound to admire; kilted skirts, at $29.50.

The More Elaborate Suits of fine Imported French Serge and Sharkskin Cloth ask you to visit them. They feel proud of their 32 and 34-inch Coats with long panel back, braided. They have the Russian blouse side and front effect, with long shawl collar, are fastened below waist line with three buttons —skirt has "panier" front. Tunic side and back shows heavy band of soutache braiding, with plaited flounce, at $75.

A 3-piece Suit, made of Imported Sharkskin cloth, with long shawl collar, has fancy dressy skirt and a net waist to complete suit. This suit is an adaptation of a model by Paquin and shows the originality of this Parisian wizard of dress.

Many others that the salespeople will show and explain on request. Prices are most reasonable.

Custom-made Suits contain all the art and craft of the pr fession. Bench-made models are always in style, because simplicity, coupled with perfect tailoring, are the dual attributes of the tailor-made.

The bust must be cut along certain lines, scientifically and lightly padded. The collar is fashioned like the collar on a man's coat, and is put on in a peculiar and special way. The suit on the whole must fit without even the suspicion of a wrinkle anywhere, allowing perfect freedom to every movement. Nowhere in the world has the custom-made suit attained such a degree of perfection as it has in America.

We repeat it—with the reputation of the store back of the statement—S. & B. Co. Custom-made Suits are Better than those sold by other stores.

That the Quality Store of your city should have the better suits is what you should expect—and such is the fact.

Style Gossip of the Boulevards.

Chantecler enthusiasm and the Epogue Romantique of 1830 will peroade the modes in dress this season. The Gallic temperament for unusually dainty effects is much in evidence. The new Russian modified blouse effects are belted at the waist line. Skirts are narrower at the bottom. Evening dresses have their trains clipt —will be worn short in fact. Foulards meteors and all clinging fabrics are the pronounced dress stuffs in evidence this season. Every band box that we have seen so far "hints" at Chantecler hats.

Evening Wraps

Are royally beautiful and suitable for a queen's wardrobe This is a democratic court, to which everybody is invited.

Capes in light blue and gray moire—silk standing collar, with Persian trimming—fastens in front with four buttons, at $19.50.

Chiffon Broadcloth, in rose, blue, pink and gray, with shirred silk hood, plus cord and tassel, $19.50.

The New Cape Coat of the Paquin model has sleeves and cape in one piece—like the ceremony gown of a Chinese mandarin—large sailor collar and extra broad revere of black satin with broad cuff bands of black satin. These new capes are chiffon broadcloth in tan, gold, mullen green and black, at $35.00.

Another Beautiful Model is of white broadcloth with diagonal seam across back—cunning bias straps of cloth and button. This very dressy affair of ceremony is lined thruout with golden messaline. The large collar and reveres are also of the messaline, at $45.00.

N. B.—These are only a few off-hand representatives of the assembly gathered here and awaiting your inspection in their dustproof cases.

New Easter Dresses

That will be valued additions to the Easter clothes cabinet, and that will be prized both for the style tendencies that they portray and their undisputed quality.

New Voile One-Piece Dresses, in grey, navy and black, pleated skirts, waists with wide tucks and soutache braid, $35.00.

French Serge One-Piece Dresses, in German blue and grey—panel front—fine kilted skirt with belt at waist line, bodice has tucks and square yoke and collar of net to match as well as cloth capes and net undersleeves, $32.50.

SIGNS OF SPRING

THE FIRST ROBIN NOT YET REPORTED.

The first robin has not yet been authentically reported, although a breathless city is waiting for the news. There have been rumors of robins being seen at Lakeside, but they have not been verified.

The blackbird is on the job, however, and the sparrows show signs of setting up domestic establishments once more.

MARBLES AND TOPS ARE BEING BROUGHT FORTH

Down in the alley behind The Herald office spring has arrived.

Marbles are the popular form of amusement.

On the sidewalks in the East end and the West end, cabalistic signs in chalk also tell of the approach of spring. Games of hop-skotch are in progress. The girls are hunting up last year's skipping ropes. Tops have also made their appearance, and the boys are beginning to hunt for a dry patch on the corner lot, where a "scrub" game of baseball can be pulled off.

Truly spring has sprung.

MINDS OF SUBURBANITES TURNING TO GARDENS.

The mind of the suburbanite is turning to the garden.

Out in sun-kissed Lakeside, the home owner is anxiously casting his eye over the back lot, and wondering if it is nearly time to begin spading or plowing. Thoughts of that prize pumpkin grown at Woodland last year are stirring, and there is a grim resolve to place Lakeside in its proper place as a leader in things agricultural.

In balmy Woodland, similar thoughts are stirring in the minds of the home owners. The frost is coming rapidly out of the ground, under the warm sun, and before many days—unless the weather man suddenly changes his tactics—the work of preparing the gardens will be begun.

CROWS RETURN TO HOMES ON THE POINT.

Spring reached Park Point today. The colony of crows which nest in the tall pines far down on the point, arrived. The birds returned from the South and with most vociferous "cawing" took possession of their old nests or prepared to build new ones. They are industriously engaged in getting settled today.

Yesterday also took many prospective summer campers and cottagers down to look over their property, and if the warm weather continues, the exodus to the point should begin very shortly.

ALONG THE BOWERY THEY SCENT SPRING.

Signs of spring are to be detected in the daily increasing number of men upon the Bowery. Many of them are having their heads clipped, which, by the way, is usually an infallable sign of the coming of spring. They are ooming in every day, because the camps are breaking up, and their lazy demeanor, and occasional new hat, a new shirt and new and lighter shoes—all point to the coming of spring.

The Bowery is one of the best places in the city to get the spring spirit. It is there, in the wide-open coat and sometimes shirt, the basking in the sun, and that indefinable something that comes over man—especially that type of man who sometimes takes on the attributes of the animal—and presages the coming of warm and sunny skies and balmy air.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Woodsmen on Spring Celebrations Keeping the Police Busy.

Clerk at Bethel Claimed to Have Used Lodgers Too Roughly.

The police court is beginning to get the usual spring run of woodsmen, a sure sign that the worst of the winter is over. The weather man never comes to the courtroom to make observations, but the court officials never have to read the weather reports to learn whether spring is here or not. They just cast their eyes over the grist, and if the broken jackies are there they are satisfied that it's safe to buy a spring coat or suit. Half a dozen of them entered pleas of guilty to being drunk this morning and received suspended sentences. They had "shot their wad," in police court slang, and were anxious to get back to make another "stake."

John Wooland, a clerk at the Bethel the last five years, was unable to find an officer early Sunday morning to quiet two turbulent lodgers in the basement, so he undertook to restore pence and quiet without assistance. He evidently became rather strenuous, for a policeman was attracted to the scene. Instead of the troublemakers being arrested, they charged Wooland with assault, and he was taken to police headquarters. The complaining witnesses gave their names as Ben McFadden and John Houser. They failed to appear this morning to swear to the complaint and the case will likely be dismissed. Wooland was released on $25 bail.

• • •

Fred Wilson presented a wonderful face when he pleaded guilty to being drunk this morning. His head looked like the cartoons which are supposed to show how Battling Nelson appeared after his bout with Ad Wolgast. The crutches were missing, but it was plain that he didn't need them from the way he hiked out of the courtroom when the court gave him a suspended sentence.

• • •

Andrew Robinson got five days in which to straighten up. He had tried to drink up all the "red eye" on the bowery, but when the squirrel whisky started him to climbing trees the police took him in charge.

• • •

Some mean man stole Conrad Peterson's hat last night while he was sleeping in jail, leaving him a cap which was in danger of walking away from him. He had not been in before, and sentence was suspended. Conrad came to this country from Sweden a few days ago and can't talk a word of English. He was celebrating his safe arrival when he was given a free ride in the Black Maria.

• • •

Louisa Fairchild, arrested last Friday night when the police raided the brick flats at First avenue west and First street, pleaded guilty to being a vagrant in police court Saturday afternoon. She was fined $75 and costs or sixty days. Sentence was suspended on her promise to shake the slush of Duluth's streets from her boots, never more to return. Marie St. Omer, arrested at the same time, was unable to pay her fine and she was sent to the county jail to board with the sheriff for a month.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM

CULTURE IS NEGLECTED

American Men Neglect Finer Things of Life, Says Pastor.

"Where Are the Men?" was the subject of the sermon preached at the First Unitarian church, First street and Eighth avenue east, by Rev. Geo. R. Gebauer, yesterday morning. "The one thing most noticeable at any public gathering for the purpose of intellectual, aesthetic or moral culture, is the comparative absence of men," said the speaker. "The reason for this must not be sought in man's natural distaste for the higher things of life, but in our peculiar social conditions, which have lowered the standard of man to that of a mere hustler for money; manhood and money are closely identified, and his aspirations are turned by the spirit of the times in that direction. And so it happens that in many instances the highest in man's soul has been dwarfed and his intellectual life has become cramped and narrow and mediocre. What a rarity today to find a man with a wide love of the beautiful, the man who can genuinely admire a picture, or a great poem or a piece of sculpture or music. These things are left to the women and are even despised by certain men, who feel a strange superiority in their ignorance. Hence it comes that art and literature become more and more feminized. But sad as this is, we may be thankful, that the women at least have still that craving for the beautiful, superficial though it be, for otherwise we should not possess any culture at all. Our libraries are largely today institutions for women. The practical management of these public bookeries is in the hands of women and for the consumption of the female mind largely the books are bought. And as it is in the library, so it is with the lecture platform. Of course the lecturers still mostly wear dress suits, but their thoughts come largely in feminine garb. This is but natural. The man who expects to address an audience on a literary subject knows before hand that nine tenths of his hearers will be women, and "womanly" he will speak. I almost think it would be most appropriate for most of our lecturers to appear in a gown on the platform to be, outwardly too, more in harmony with the audience. I do not say, that for this reason our art and literature are necessarily bad. It doubtless has grace and beauty, but it lacks in realism, objective truth is less in evidence.

"And so as men have turned away from the graces and muses in their sordid pursuit of mere living, their lives become in many instances sordid and graceless. Yes in our land boastful of its co-education more than elsewhere, there takes place a steadily widening cleavage between male and female interests in life. The man turns quite early and altogether to the practical concerns of life, while his sister is at least trying to cultivate the things of mind and soul. Go to your high school and you will find already the incipient notion of what is true knowledge for boys and what is study for girls. The 'real' boy is rather ashamed to get a high mark in certain studies, like literature, art, music, which by right of sex belong to the cultivation of the 'sissies.' And so it comes than an ever-increasing number of men are unprepared to appreciate the grand and beautiful in life, and that their judgments in matters of art are often so puerile.

"Yes, and it is just this lack of a well rounded education, which accounts no little for this perpetual 'opera comique' in public affairs. We have not the foundations in our present day manhood, generally speaking, to bring about a thorough reform. Just because we merely strive after the immediate and practical, we are so eminently impractical in politics; inefficient in statesmanship. Our reforms consist largely in re-forming, changing of matter which should be cast aside. No nation has higher talent, no nation is more adaptive, none has greater patriotism, no other has such fine political leaders, such orators, finer mainly brains; and yet few other nations have such lack of a thorough social philosophy, upon which in the end all real reform must rest. Only the man who has grasp upon history, not the facts merely, but its philosophy, who has detected the inner reasons for outward conditions, can be a statesman. And so also he must have hold upon the beautiful. If his imaginativefunctions have not been trained, he will in spite of all his smartness fail to understand some of the deep-going movements of our day, which cry for justice and protest against this commercialization of social life.

"Manhood needs an awakening in our days: it must come to its own, if it would be the factor it should be in the progress of the world. We must lift the whole man, take him out of this depressing atmosbhere of mere living. He must learn to see, that manhood is more than money and the ability to appreciate the beautiful and noble in life of more value than the best car and the finest mansion. The ideal side of man needs cultivation, his taste for the best things in life needs training. We want men not to turn from shop and office to the lecture-room where the high themes of life are discussed; we want them in the concert hall, in the art gallery, in the library, and we want them in the church, where the whole man is touched by the deepest thing in life and where even a weak little man in the pulpit may turn the thoughts of man toward what is ever eternal and sublime, ever inspiring, ever helpful and which, no matter under what form, gives man the power to be a whole man."

CREED OF THE AVERAGE MAN

Doubts Many Things But Believes in Fundamentals of Christianity.

Rev. John Walker Powell Preaches Second of Series of Sermons.

"The Average Man and His Creed," was Rev. John Walker Powell's subject at the Endion M. E. church yesterday for the second of a series of three sermons on the general subject, "The Average Man and the Church."

Mr. Powell said that the present generation is characterized by indifference to the creeds of the church, not that the average man would deny most of the doctrines of the creed outright, but he does not see their use. Although they may be true, he does not feel sure that they are and he will not affirm them. Every man has a creed, he said, made up of the things he does believe.

"The average man," said Mr. Powell, "does not believe some articles of the creed and some he seriously doubts.

"For example, he is in doubt about miracles," he said. "He is in doubt about eternal punishment. He is inclined to disbelieve in a personal devil and he is quite sure that whatever Heaven may be, it is not a place of golden streets and feathered angels and golden harps. He doubts the possibility of instantaneous conversion and the efficacy of prayer. He will not deny these things outright, but he is in doubt.

"Much of the doubt," said Mr. Powell, "is due to the crude form in which these things are taught. These are not the central truths of Christianity, however," he said, "and the average man may suspend judgment on them. There are a few things that the average man strongly disbelieves," he said, "and chief of these is the notion that God will condemn an honest, upright man because he does not accept certain doctrines or prefers a certain religious experience. The average man denies that one man will be saved because he is a Christian and another lost because he is not, although both may be upright men.

"On this point, moreover, the average man is right," said Mr. Powell. "Christian teachers have often grossly misrepresented their Master at this point and then have condemned men because they refused to accept this misrepresentation. The notion that God will accept anything in lieu of right living is a perversion of scripture. The doctrine that a man of good life will be lost because he did not hold certain opinions or profess a certain type of emotional experience is unscriptural, un-Christian and untrue."

Turning to the positive side, Mr. Powell said the average man believes in God, in righteousness, in the brotherhood of man, in the golden rule and in Jesus Christ as the world's master.

"All this is essentially Christian," he said. "I do not say that it covers the whole of truth. I do not mean that the standard of Christian living ought to be lowered to meet the idle indifference and carelessness of men. But these are the real fundamentals of the Christian faith, for 'what hath the Lord required of thee but to do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God.' Let a man take this faith and honestly live it, and his life will grow into the deeps of Christian experience."

THE CONVERSION OF A GOOD MAN

Religion Not for Women and Children Only, Says Pastor.

"The Conversion of a Good Man" was the theme of a sermon by Rev. Ray E. Hunt at the First Christian church last evening.

He used the conversion of Saul of Tarsus to show that all men need Christ.

Mr. Hunt said in part: "It was formerly thought that religion was only for women and children, and if for men at all, only for those who were exceedingly bad. Now we are thinking that all men, irrespective of occupation or intellectual attainments, need Christ." The speaker pointed out the fact that Saul was a good man from the standpoint of the law, yet not a Christian; an educated man, yet not a servant of God. His obedience without question was held up as an example to present-day men. It was immediate and without question. He accepted the statement of God without endeavoring to excuse himself or theorize about the necessity of obeying. There were three baptisms last night.

The subject for tonight will be, "What and Where Is Heaven?"

MANY ATTEND MEN'S MEETING

Rev. E. N. Clingan of Quincy, Ill., Addresses Regular Sunday Gathering.

"Making the Most of Life," was the subject chosen yesterday afternoon at the regular weekly man's meeting at the Y. M. C. by Rev. E. N. Clingan of Quincy, Ill. The attendance at the meeting was the largest in many weeks. The Normanna Singing society rendered a special musical program of sacred songs that were much enjoyed.

Rev. Clingan is a forceful speaker and he held the close attention of his audience during the hour given over to his address. He took as his text John. x,, 10: "I am Come that They might have Life and that They might have it more Abundantly." The speaker endeavored to prove that no man can reach the highest enjoyment of life without the Christian religion.

Mr. Clingan said in part:

"I know there are a great many people who can see only the negative aspects of the Christian life. As they see it, to be a Christian means a hard and narrow life of self-denial, sacrifice, cross bearing, separation and service. Christian growth means to them a progressive renunciation of all that human nature holds dear. And there is something of truth in this. But there is another view of the Christian life that is equally true. If it does mean the giving up of certain things, it means gaining other things that are of infinitely greater value. The positive side of the Christian life is of much greater importance than the negative. True Christian growth, instead of appearing as a progressive renunciation, is now understood to be progressive acquisition.

"The Christian conception of life demands the full and symmetrical development of all our native resources. It includes the whole man. When Jesus spoke of 'the life more abundant' He doubtless thought not only of the spiritual man, but of the physical and mental elements of human life. I am glad that the Young Men's Christian association stands for the full rounded development of the whole man. Its aim and efforts are all intended to help young men make the most of life."

Equally elaborate is the exposition of waists, skirts, underwear, gloves, laces, neckwear and the like.

All in all, you'll find no counterpart of this showing of correct spring fashions.

Cloquet Lumbermen Cut 25,000,000 Feet of Timber From Indian Lands.

Nearly 25,000,000 feet of timber has been taken from the Fond du Lac Indian reservation by Cloquet lumbermen during the present logging season. There are seven camps in all.

The work on the reservation is being done under Capt. William O'Neill, a veteran of the Civil war, who knows the process of lumbering from the cut in the forest, until the green board is piled in the yard.

Some of the lands on the reservation were cut over about twenty years ago. Natural reforestization immediately set in and the result is that in a few years, the growing timber will again be ready to cut.

LISTEN TO SERMON WHILE FIRE RAGES

Convicts Sit Quietly in Spite of Danger From the Flames.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 14.—In the face of a fire peril which would have stricken an ordinary crowd with panic, 600 convicts at the Western penitentiary sat quietly through their Sunday afternoon services with hardly more than a ripple of fear. There was good cause for alarm in a stubborn fire in the hosiery factory of the prison, not fifty feet away from the chapel, and its smoke enveloped the windows so thickly that electric lights were turned on while Chaplain C. M. Miller continued the exercises.

Warden Francis himself was in the chapel when the fire broke out. He selected half a dozen "trusties" to help the prison and city fire departments fight the blaze and then returned to quiet his charges. Fully half of the 600 had jumped to their feet as if to stampede, but at a word from Chaplain Miller they recovered composure, reseated themselves and listened attentively to the sermon. The loss will not exceed $15,000.

JOB FOR YOUNG ROOSEVELT.

He Is to Become Manager of Some Western Carpet House.

New York, March 14.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., probably will finish his work at the carpet factory at Thompsonville, Conn., where he is employed, in June and will become manager of one of the corporation's Western houses.

While no date has been set for his marriage to Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, this, coupled with the fact that Col. Roosevelt may reach New York late in May or early in June, is taken by some to indicate that the wedding will take place in that month.

Among the throngs in Fifth avenue yesterday were young Roosevelt, his fiancee and her mother, Mrs. H. A. Alexander.

Manitoba Elevator Bonds.

Winnipeg, Man., March 14.—The Manitoba government Saturday issued $2,000,000 in bonds for the purpose of making a start at buying out the present elevator systems in the province.

GIRL SUPERSTITIOUS; MAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Warsaw, Ind., March 14.—Because yesterday was the thirteenth of the month and unlucky, Miss Ethel Moore postponed her wedding to Don Cripe, which was to have been held Sunday afternoon. He, after vainly protesting, went to his father's house and killed himself with a revolver. Miss Moore told her friends that she did not realize before that she had set her marriage upon a date that was certain to bring unhappiness.

Millet Picture Stolen.

San Francisco, Cal., March 14.—Millet's painting "Shepherd and Flock," owned by Miss Sarah M. Spooner, valued at $10,000, was stolen yesterday from Golden Gate park museum. It was cut out from the frame while many visitors were in the museum.

He was 51 years old and had suffered from paralysis since May. Despondency was the cause of the suicide.

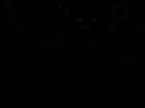
The Doctor's Answers



By Dr. Lewis Baker.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similiar nature. Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College building, College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. If unable to obtain any of the drugs mentioned of your regular druggist, go to some prominent large retail drug store which is sure to be well stocked.

George B.:—You state your symptoms are constant thirst, feverishness, pains in the back and groin, swelling of the ankles, puffs under the eyes, inflamed eyelids, painful, smarting and frequent urination, sleeplessness, catarrh, etc., and you are correct in surmising that your kidneys and bladder need a good tonic treatment. Have any well stocked druggist mix the following: 1 oz. fl. ext. buchu, 1 oz. comp. fl. balmwort and 4 ozs. comp. syrup sarsaparilla. Take a teaspoonful before or after meals and one when retiring. Drink plenty of water between meals. Eat slowly. Abstain from alcohol. Continue treatment 6 to 8 weeks.

George W.:—You have dyspepsia, if your symptoms are bloating and belching, pains in stomach, foul breath, headache, weakness and dizziness. You should avoid pastries and sweets for some time and take a teaspoonful after each meal, of the following:

3 ozs. essence of pepsin, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol and 2 ozs. syrup of ginger. Mix. The foregoing will usually correct and cure any case of indigestion or dyspepsia.

Frank:—Your extreme thinness is unnatural. You should weigh 25 pounds more. Your trouble is due to inability of the digestive tract, or alimentary canal, to absorb the proper elements that go to make flesh and fat from the food taken into your system. I know many who have gained a pound a day for 30 days through the use of the following prescription. Your sister will find it very strengthening, while increasing her weight. You can both use it to great advantage:

3 ozs. essence of pepsin, 3 ozs. syrup hypophosphites comp., 1 oz. tincture cadomene, (not cardamom), and 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol. Mix, take a teaspoonful after meals and one before retiring. Continue 30 to 90 days.

Mrs. S.:—Your complaint is a very common one and is commonly termed "whites." In reality it is leucorrhea, and if permitted to become chronic is very weakening and causes many complicated female diseases.

Write me again, giving full name and address and all symptoms, and I will mail you prescriptions and outline a thorough curative treatment for all female diseases.

Business Man:—Your condition is not beyond hope. Timidity, insomnia, nervousness and inability to act rationally and naturally as a healthy, vigorous person would, can soon be overcome, and abounding new health can be felt surging in rich red blood through the entire system if the following treatment is faithfully adhered to. Use the following powerful, though harmless nerve tonic in teaspoonful doses 3 to 4 times a day: Comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz., comp. essence cardiol 1 oz., tincture cadomene comp. 1 oz. (not cardamon), and comp. syrup sarsaparilla 3 ozs. Mix all together.

City Lass:—The following formula is said to be used by a noted beauty specialist for increasing the flesh of the bust, arms and neck. If properly used it should prove very satisfactory and round out your figure as desired: Comp. tincture cadomene 1 oz. (not cardamon), glycerine 2 ozs., rosewater 3 ozs., and 1 teaspoonful of borax. Mix. Shake well and apply to the neck, arms and bust, rubbing and massaging until completely absorbed. Then wash the parts treated with hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Then massage with olive oil or sheep tallow. Apply morning and night for several weeks or months, as the case may require.

Fred:—Ask your druggist to prepare you a solution of boracic acid with which to treat your inflamed and watering eyes.

PEACEMAKER WORSTED; SUSTAINS BROKEN LEG.

Lidgerwood, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A broken leg was the compensation received by Sylvester Warzeke for interfering in a fight between a pair of Genesco combatants in the role of peacemaker. ORATORIO MUSIC APPRECIATED

Large Attendance at Masonic Temple for Fine Concert Program.

That Horace Reyner's efforts to cultivate a taste for the music of the oratorios are appreciated was demonstrated yesterday by the attendance for the second program consisting of that music at the Masonic free concert. Every seat was occupied and it became necessary to bring more chairs into the auditorium.

The first vocal number was by H. H. McFayden from the oratorio of "Messiah" the second part of which, "The Trumpet Shall Sound," was particularly pleasing and was sung with a vim which suited the piece and showed the powers of the singer, who was in good voice; as an encore he sang "Better Land." Following Mr. McFadyen was an air from Sullivan's "Prodigal Son," sung by Miss Ulsrud, who possesses a large, round, sympathetic contralto voice, which she handled with good effect and she sang for an encore "All Through the Night."

Mrs. Leo. A. Ball was in splendid voice and sang "I Will Extoll" from Costa's oratorio of "Eli." The composition is itself very fine and as rendered by Mrs. Ball was a delight. Her interpretation was artistic and the hearty applause demonstrated that her audience was with her in appreciation, which she acknowledged by singing splendidly "Spring Has Come." Mr. Lanners sang the difficult aria from the "Prodical Son" with good expression and responded to the encore with Handel's "Behold I See." Mrs. W. H. Stephen, although suffering from a bad cold, sang magnificently Barnby's arrangement of the 97th Psalm, "O Ye That Love the Lord," and as an encore "He Shall Feed His Flock."

The organ music by Mr. Reyner was of a varied character from the splendid overture in Haydn's "Samson" to the pathetic "Virgin's Prayer," by Massenet; from the "Chants Sans Parole" of Lemare to the virile "Fanfare" by Lemmens and all of them were played with the artistic taste and command of execution which characterizes all of his work. The thanks of the audience were extended to Mr. Reyner and his pupils for their efforts in both concerts.

The concert on next Sunday will be the last regular one, there being no concert on Easter Sunday.

Don't Blame Your Stomach

When Without Exertion or Cost You Can Enjoy Meals and Cure Dyspepsia.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Don't blame your stomach or your luck when your meals declare war on your system.

When the stomach won't do its work it is because it cannot.

When foul smelling odors come from your stomach, when the headaches and the sourness of mouth every morning makes you hate your breakfast, when dreams and nightmare assail you, don't give up the fight.

This is the appeal of nature, and it should be heard.

Over-eating, late suppers, poorly chewed food, too rich pastries and under-done cooking are some of the causes of the stomach's ill health.

When the stomach is busy, it presses and churns all the liquid matter from food and with its juices dissolves into liquid form or pulp everything which comes into it.

If such food be poisonous it effects the juices, attacks the stomach, goes into the blood and weakens the entire system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest a full meal easily without material assistance from the stomach. They will restock the gastric fluid with all the elements needed. They build up the blood, destroy sour taste, bad breath, belching, stomach and bowel trouble and quickly restore natural conditions.

One grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food in the stomach or in a glass vial without aid of the human digestive apparatus.

The method of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the methods of Nature.

They contain every requisite for the stomach and digestion. After a meal one of these little tablets when it enters the stomach mingles with the juices, attacks the food and digests it. It removes the fermented and decayed mass, lying stagnant there and eases the stomach at once.

It is wholly a question for you to solve. Your druggist will furnish Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets 50c the box, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

TO REORGANIZE THE DEPARTMENT

Dr. H. E. Webster, the New Health Commissioner, Will Make Changes.

Dr. H. E. Webster, recently appointed health commissioner by Mayor Cullum, expects to thoroughly renovate the department after he qualifies for the office. Several of the men who have been in the city employ for years are said to be slated for decapitation "for the good of the service."

Dr. Webster will continue the campaign for pure milk, sanitary bakeries, clean butcher shops, etc. He recognizes the value of these reforms and will see that there is no falling off in the work along this line.

He is also planning to organize the department along different lines, creating separate bureaus for the handling of the different branches of the work that comes to the health department. The number of employes will not be increased, but the efficiency of the system will make the improvement, he says. The contagious diseases would be under the direction of one man, sanitation under another, etc. Dr. Webster is planning other reforms which he will announce after taking office.

We are spending a fortune each year in advertising the SEGERSTROM PIANO direct from the homes of satisfied customers, which, after all, is the very best advertisement, and we intend to accomplish in one year what other manufacturers have taken 50 years to do. Lipton spent a million dollars in advertising the products of his manufacture. Wise guys pronounced him a lunatic. Today he is heralded by the crowned heads of Europe and proclaimed the King Merchant. He was created a Peer, with the title of Sir, by King Edward. It pays to advertise when your goods are right. We sell more Pianos wholesale and retail than any other manufacturing concern in the country, and our plan appeals to the thinking buyers on account of our system of selling Pianos direct from FACTORY TO HOME, which eliminates all middleman's profits.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, March 14.—There was a fair volume of business in finished steel products last week and the prospect is favorable for g reater activity. The railroads are developing larger orders for equipment and the slightly lower prices prevailing for plain structural material and fabricated steel is bringing out larger orders from railroads, equipments, shops and contractors.

Orders for rails aggregated 85,000 tons, including 60,000 tons for the Southern railway of which 12,000 tons are to be open hearth for rolling at the Ensley plant of the Steel corporation. Although new orders for railroads were less than 2,000, a distribution of 10,000 is to be made this week and inquiries are in the market for 18,000 and 15,000 additional are in a tentative state.

The same is true of locomotives. New orders were placed for only seventy, but there are inquiries for about 1,200 about half of which are definitely in the market.

Contracts for fabricated steel for buildings and bridges aggregated 25,000 tons. Railroads and car shops placed additional orders for steel plates, shapes and bars aggregating about 40,000 tons for car underframes. Similar contracts are pending for larger tonnages as well as for car wheels and axles.

Contracts for pig iron were again light. In the Eastern district there was scarcely a single transaction worthy of note, but pipe works are on the point of closing for a fair tonnage. Virginia furnaces have taken some large orders for Western and Southern shipment recently, but stocks are still 238,000 tons in that district. The principal transaction in foundry iron in the Central West was 15,000 tons for the Westinghouse Electric company. The daily output of pig iron in February was greater than in January. Prices are lower.

PUMPING WATER TO ORPHANAGE

New System Put in Operation By Water and Light Department.

The new Catholic Orphanage water system has been placed in operation and the water and light department is no pumping water to the 20,000-gallon tank on the Orphanage grounds. The new pump installed at Minneapolis avenue, just east of Anoka street, has been tested and found to pump more water than its capacity. The capacity is 300 gallons a minute, but the pump on its test pumped 310 gallons. It is a gas pump of modern make and is capable of supplying sufficient water to the district for some time to come.

The Orphanage system for the present is a sort of private system operated by the water and light department, as the Orphanage advanced the cost of the system, it being installed principally for the use of the Orphanage. There is a large district to be ultimately supplied, however, and when the entire patronage becomes sufficient to support the system, the advance will be repaid to the Orphanage, the system will be taken over by the water and light department and a new tank will be installed away from the Orphanage grounds.

The new pump pumps out of the tank which supplies Hunter's Park. There is a large territory between it and the Orphanage and from the amount of building going on in this district, it will doubtless be but a short time before the system will be a regular part of the water system of the city. The mains running to the tank on the Orphanage grounds are large enough to supply a larger tank when the demands on the system are large enough to warrant its installation.

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

In a disease so painful as Rheumatism, medicines containing opiates and nerve-quieting drugs are often used. Such treatment is dangerous not only because it frequently causes the sufferer to become addicted to the drug habit, but medicines of this nature are always injurious to the system. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and its cure depends entirely upon a thorough purification of the circulation. As long as the blood remains saturated with uric acid, an inflammatory condition of the nerves, muscles and tendons of the body will exist, and the pains, aches, soreness, and hot, feverish flesh of Rheumatism will continue. The one safe and sure cure for Rheumatism is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy for this disease, made entirely of the healing, cleansing juices and extracts of roots, herbs and barks from the natural forests. S. S. S. does not contain anything that is in the slightest way injurious to the system. It is absolutely and purely vegetable, and free from opiates or sedatives of any kind. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by removing the uric acid from the circulation, it makes the blood pure, rich and healthy so that instead of depositing sharp, uratic impurities into the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, it nourishes every portion of the body with natural, healthful properties. WANTS MONEY FOR AMPUTATED LIMB

Sailor Sues Steamship Companies for Alleged Negligence.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 14.—The case of Thomas McWueen of this city against the steamer P. P. Miller and the tug Yale for $15,000 damages is on in the United States circuit court. The boats are owned by the Miller Steamship company of this city and the Great Lakes Towing company, respectively.

McWueen, who was a deck hand on the Miller, claims the accident occurred through the negligence of the master and crew of the steamer and that the tug's crew also was responsible in a measure.

The accident happened in 1908 as the steamer was leaving port. McWueen became entangled in a hawser and had to have his leg amputated.

McWueen's complaint states it was because there were not sufficient men in the crew of the steamer, that the rope was not properly handled when the accident occurred, also, that the tug began drawing at the line before a sufficient length of it had been let out.

THE FIRST BOAT AT MUSKEGON

Steamer Indiana Makes Trips From Chicago to Michigan Port.

Muskegon, Mich., March 14.—Upsetting all predictions to the contrary, the Goodrich Transportation company kept its promise to open navigation into Muskegon. The steamer Indiana, headed by the ice crusher Arctic, from Manitowoc, made the harbor and after a four-hour passage up Muskegon lake, bucking ice floes every foot of the way, tied up at the dock. The Indiana will make trips three times a week in spite of the menace of the slush ice fields in Lake Michigan and the necessity of keeping the Arctic constantly at work in the inner lake breaking up the ice.

THE RICHARDSON WILL SOON FLOAT

Operations on the Wrecked Steamer Are Again Resumed at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 14.—Capt. Alex Cunning and his wrecking crew has resumed operations on the wreck of the steamer W. C. Richardson outside this harbor. In a few days the wreck will probably be pumped out sufficiently to begin raising her.

The tug Harvard took the lighter Wayne, with men and equipment out to the wreck. The wind did not disturb the ice much and no damage was done to the crib work, which is over the hatches and is now being put around the after pilot house.

DREDGEMEN TO GO IT ALONE

For some time the dredgemen of the Great Lakes have been contemplating the formation of an exclusive dredgemen's organization for the Great Lakes and deep water. Steam shovelmen and dredgemen at present are affiliated and the dredgemen feel their interests now demand that the entire time of their representatives should be given to their branch of the business. Definite action is now expected to be taken before navigation season advances very far.

MORE HARDWOOD FLOORING PLANTS IN UPPER MICHIGAN

Negaunee, Mich., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The manufacture of hardwood flooring in Upper Michigan, already an industry of important scope, is to be expanded still further. The biggest flooring plant in the world is that of Senator Isaac Stephenson, at Wells, Delta county, ranking next to it is that of the Wisconsin Land & Lumber company at Hermansville, Menominee county. A similar factory of large capacity is being established here by the Consolidated Fuel & Lumber company. Gladstone, Delta county, also is to have a plant of the kind. This factory will be erected by the Northwestern Cooperage & Lumber company. It will be the seventh mill of that big concern at that place, and like the other six, it will be fireproof construction.

IMPORTANT ELECTION.

Saloon Issue Figures Prominently in Michigan's April Election.

Marquette, Mich., March 14.—In the elections on the prohibition question that will occur in Michigan in April the existence of approximately 1,400 saloons and a number of breweries will be at stake. The election in Marquette county will be the most important in the state, after the one in Kent county, as there are 162 saloons whose fate is in the balance here, against 243 in Kent.

With the exception of Kent, Ingham, St. Clair and Marquette counties, the prohibition elections will occur in counties of large rural populations, which are usually figured as being predisposed to the "dry" side of the controversy. Already over 1,000 saloons have been put out of existence in the state by the work of the anti-liquor forces. The elections of 1908 closed 205 saloons and two breweries, and the elections of 1909 closed 586 saloons and ten breweries. In addition, through the passage of local ordinances and the resurrection of moribund laws, 200 other saloons, it is estimated, have been forced to suspend business.

NEED NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

People of Thief River Falls Agree Improvement Is Needed.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a mass meeting of the citizens it was unanimously decided to support the board of education in the direction of constructing a modern high school building this spring. Several speakers discussed the school building proposition and the only solution of the problem of crowded school buildings was the action indicated. Plans for the proposed high school call for a structure which will house every department which can possibly be offered in a secondary school, particular attention being paid to the newer phases of industrial and agricultural instruction. An election to vote bonds for a state loan will be held within a month and in the meantime the plans will be perfected and the contracts will be ready to let as soon as the bonds are issued.

The growth of the local schools has been steady and heavy for several years, until today the high school of Thief River Falls stands in point of enrollment twentieth in the state, not including the schools of the three large cities, and it ranks fourth among the high schools in the northern half of the state in size.

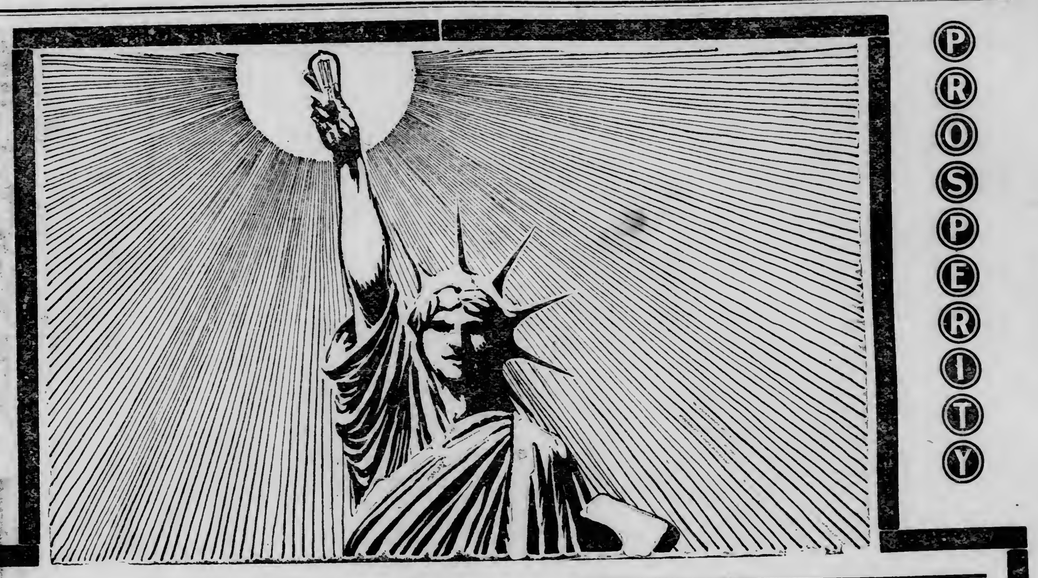
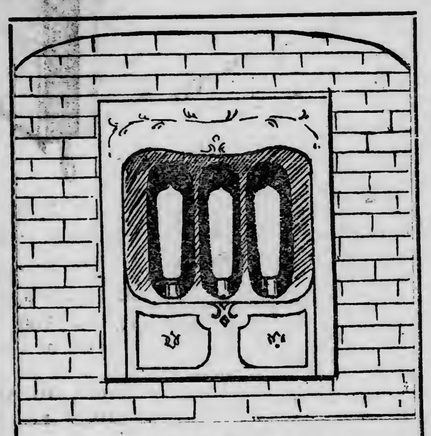
Minot, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Legality of the common law marriage in North Dakota will be tested in the district court of Ward county in the case of Mrs. A. Schumacher against the Great Northern Railroad company. An objection was raised by the defense Saturday to the introduction of any evidence bearing upon the common law marriage, and the point is being thrashed out today, an adjournment having been taken.

Schumacher was killed about a year ago in an accident caused, it is charged, through a conductor's carelessness, and damages are now asked.





The Electric Radiator

YOU ought to have an electric radiator in your house NOW! This is just the time to get the most use and the greatest pleasure out of one! Artificial heat is still necessary and will be for some time to come, but one hates to have to keep a troublesome furnace or coal stove going all day and night just for the little heat that is really required in such weather as we have been having lately. The electric radiator does away with the necessity! The turn of the switch gives you at once JUST the required heat, without labor, without dirt and without waste. No coal to be dragged up two or three flights of stairs, filling the entire house with coal dust, no fires to be banked before leaving the house—at the expense of your "party clothes"—just reverse the switch, and at once the soft, warm glow fades and heat and expense stop instantaneously. On your return from your evening's entertainment there is no question of having to rake up or reitght the stove—turn the switch once more and the heat follows INSTANTLY.

Then you can prepare yourself a little supper also with electricity, without dirt or trouble, by means of the electric chafing dish—another constantly useful way of utilizing electrically generated heat.

The Electric Flat Iron

Use the Electric Flat Iron ONE wash day and you will never go back to the old-fashioned way—you will join us in considering the use of the stove-heated iron a relic of the dark ages. Just consider! All you have to do is to screw a little plug into an ordinary electric light socket, turn on the power, and in a few moments you can start ironing. That's all the attention your iron will need until you have worked your way through the entire batch of laundry. Then you turn off the power, unscrew the plug and put the iron away. With the stove-heated iron you have first to light your fire, you know that it will overheat the entire house, but you can't get around it. Then you drag out two or three heavy irons, so that you will always have one at the right temperature, and having placed them on the stove you have to wait twenty or thirty minutes while they arrive at the right heat. And from then on, your course through the pile of laundry is marked by trudging to and from the hot stove, to fetch fresh irons and to throw on more coal—blackening your hands and making it necessary to stop and wash them before you can go on with your work, burning your finger to test the heat every now and then, smudging the clothes once in a while with smut from the stove, that you did not notice until too late, and hours and hours of drudgery in a stifling heat when you might have done it all in an hour, the clean, pleasant, cool way, with the ELECTRIC FLAT IRON. Is it worth while, when an initial expenditure of only THREE-FIFTY will save you hours of time, and therefore money, and all the worry and overheat?

The Electric Cook Stove

In a score of different ways the electric cook stove makes life more worth while. Particularly is this the case in the modern apartment house, where space is at a premium and the use of a big, smoky overheating coal stove is impossible with any degree of comfort.

The neat little electric cabinet can be placed in the dining room if desired—it will be an ornament to any room; the brilliant aluminum cooking utensils easily kept clean, light and therefore easily handled, are all within reach at the same time, should you need them all at once. One alone can be used, or a sufficient number to prepare a complete dinner.

The entire absence of coal or gas fumes makes it possible to keep the house cleaner than ever before. Food prepared in electrically heated cooking utensils is guaranteed a gainst dirt and smut which otherwise cannot be prevented from mingling with it. Considering the fact that there is no waste connected with the use of electricity for cooking purposes, it is far more economical than any other fuel, besides being more pleasant to use. For cooking in the summer time it has become almost indispensable to the modern housewife.

The New Electric Light

Nothing can equal the Tungsten light as a means of attracting attention to a store or the contents of a show window. Keep your store as bright as electricity can make it and you will speedily notice an increase in the amount of business that you will do each month. You will always find the greatest crowds in the brightest lighted store. Make this resolution—that YOURS shall henceforth be the brightest store in your vicinity. Consider the electric sign—five blocks away a good sign will stare the people in the face, inviting them to come in and see if they want anything in your line. It is an established fact, that the installation of electric fixtures in any store or residence will greatly add to its value. One of the first questions asked you, if you try to sell a building, will be, "Have you got electrical fixtures?" If you have to admit that you have not, the customer will drop his offer many dollars. Electric light is the most comfortable and hygienic of all, it pays for itself in comfort and then, if you sell, the purchaser is willing to pay you again in CASH. Surely, then, you have no reason for not having it in YOUR home or place of business.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

ADMITS HE IS FORGER

Young William Carroll, Arrested in Duluth, Pleads Guilty in Hancock.

During Drunken Spree Passes Three Forged Checks in Copper Country.

Hancock, Mich., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Willard Carroll, arrested in Duluth by Under Sheriff Sheridan, pleaded guilty to forgery in Judge Olivier's court and was bound over to circuit court in the sum of $2,000. Carroll confesses to have forged Lieut. Henry W. Hecker's name to three of the pay checks for the First division, Michigan Naval Reserves, and to have cashed those checks at the Houghton National bank, the Citizens' National bank and Strobel's saloon in Houghton. Warrants for the young man were issued from Judge Olivier's court. Under Sheriff Sheridan went to Duluth last week and encountered little difficulty in locating his man.

Finds Him at Undertaker's.

Learning that William Cowling, formerly of O'Neill's was employed at one of the Zenith City undertaking establishments, the officer went thither, believing that Cowling would know something of Carroll. Cowling was out when the officer arrived, but Carroll was there, talking with the proprietor. Carroll did not know Sheridan, nor did Sheridan know Carroll, but when the officer mentioned Hancock the young man displayed an interest which made the under sheriff suspicions. Taking a long shot, he asked:

"Isn't your name Carroll?"

"Yes," replied Carroll.

"Well, it's all off," said the officer.

"I thought so," was the young man's only reply.

That ill-gotten gains bring little joy has been proven by Carroll's case. The young man since leaving Hancock had been in perpetual fear of the officers. His face wore a hunted expression, and he confessed to the officer while dining with him in a Duluth restaurant that the meal was the first he had enjoyed with any amount of satisfaction since committing the crime.

Returns Without Extradition Papers.

Carroll agreed to return without requisition papers, and he was not placed in the Duluth jail, the officer merely keeping him under surveillance during their stay in the city. Carroll cannot be more than 20 years old, and he has already twice paid the penalty for his act in repentance. He declares that he had no accomplice, and that he forged the checks after a drunken spree and while in need of money, having found the checkbook with the checks already made out but not signed in Lieut. Hecker's desk. Two of the checks were for $14.50, and were made out to William Martin and Archie Farley. The third was for $15.50, a petty officer's pay.

BULLET IN HEAD, JOHNSON LIVES

Peers Into Muzzle of Weapon to See If Its Loaded and Is Shot.

Warroad, Minn., March 14. — That Jack Johnson of Sprague is not a corpse is nothing short of a miracle, and that he is able to be about and tell the tale of how he came to get a bullet hole through his head is no less miraculous, but such is the case, nevertheless.

Johnson was practicing target shooting with an automatic rifle, when a cartridge refused to explode after he had pulled the trigger. He turned the muzzle of the gun towards his face and peered into the barrel to try to discover the cause of the trouble, when the gun suddenly discharged and the bullet entered his head just above his left eye, coming out near the crown of his head. As the muskeg train was about due, two of his friends made haste to get him to the depot to bring him to Warroad for medical aid, and they arrived here several hours after the accident occurred, when Johnson was still strong enough to walk from the Canadian Northern depot over to Dr. MacDonald's office to have the wound dressed.

Upon examination it was found that the bullet, in passing through his head had touched no vital part and that there are good chances for his recovery.

BUY CROOKSTON CREAMERY.

Bridgeman & Russell Purchase Large Concern in Polk County.

Crookston, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crookston is to become the creamery center of Northern and Northwestern Minnesota. The president of the Bridgeman-Russell company of Duluth purchased the Crookston creamery and will at once turn it into a first-class plant in every particular, capable of manufacturing upwards of 1,000,000 pounds of butter per annum.

For some months the Duluth company has been negotiating with a view of securing the local creamery, desiring especially the location. Mr. Bridgeman came to the city, accompanied by his secretary, and after an entire day spent in communicating with the committee appointed by the Commercial club, the deal was finally consummated just before the Duluth train pulled out, and the keys of the plant were turned over to him.

He placed a man in charge at once and by the first of next week the new buttermaker will be here. The purchasers will enlarge the plant by erecting a refrigerator, an ice house and a large storage building. Milk stations will be secured throughout the entire section and it is expected that within the coming thirty days the plant will be under full swing.

WILL BE DEPORTED.

Carrington, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rinhold Helmann, a German, aged 24 years, has been engaged in taking a course of outdoor plunges in small pools of water, with the mercury below zero, which landed him in the county jail with an information of insanity against him. A crank on religion, the fellow believed that his habit of going about with very light clothing and taking occasional baths in the winter air would not harm, but that God would protect him and provide for him. On the latter theory, he refused to exert himself to any extent on the subject of work. He will be deported, having been in America only seven months.

LAYING HEAVIER STEEL.

Northern Pacific Takes Up Work Where It Left Off in November.

Brainerd, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of completing the laying of ninety-pound steel on the Duluth-Staples line was resumed today. Work was shut down in November because of the fact that the men could not be held for track work after the lumber camps opened. It is expected that work will be commenced with a crew of at least 100 men. Roadmaster Tyler states that men seem to be plenty this spring and the company expects very little trouble to keep a full crew. The work of laying the steel and completing the ballasting of the road between Deerwood and Brainerd will be pushed to a rapid completion.

MIKL GIVEN LIFE.

Self-Confessed Murderer of Wife and Child Pleads Guilty.

Grafton, N. D., March 14.—Pleading guilty Saturday afternoon to a charge of murder, Frank Mikl was immediately sentenced to life imprisonment in the North Dakota penitentiary. The crime Mikl pleaded guilty to was that of killing his 2-year-old son, whom he strangled to death, after having killed his wife in the same manner. Mikl has already been convicted of murdering his wife when he made a complete confession. This resulted in the second charge being filed against him. Under his previous conviction a sentence of thirty years was given.

FALLS OVER AND DIES.

Sudden Summons Comes to Frank Botkin at Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Botkin, or Butkin, of Crow Wing, died very suddenly in the National hotel here Saturday. Butkin was sitting talking with friends and reading a newspaper. Suddenly he gave one gasp and dropped back in his chair. Physicians were hurriedly summoned, but they pronounced him beyond help. The deputy coroner was called in and decided there was no occasion for an inquest.

Butkin was but little known in the city. He was not a drinking man and although he had been around the hotel for two or three days the proprietor says he had not touched liquor. He is said to have been a single man and to have been well fixed, having recently made a good sale of his land near Crow Wing. So far as is known he had no relatives living in this section.

Duluthian Secures Lion's Share of Grand Forks Paving Contract.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. R. McDonnell, the Duluth contractor, secured the lion's share of the paving work let by the city council Saturday evening. Out of a total of about 76,000 square yards of paving contracts allowed, McDonnell secured 38,000 yards, the remainder being divided between three other contractors.

Mr. McDonnell's bid on the 28,000 yards of Donnellite, which was accepted, was $81,000. Fielding & Shepley of St. Paul, secured a contract for 8,700 yards of creosoted blocks, the bid being $24,895. The Bitulithic Paving company receives a contract for 20,000 yards at $73,355.80, while the Blome company received a contract for 19,700 yards at $51,792.

Jud, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Activities of Northern Pacific surveyors in this section during the past few days has resulted in the rumor that Jud is to be favored in the laying of the new line that the company anticipates building through this section of the state to connect up from Edgeley to Cannon Ball.

From Linton comes the report that the surveyors who have been working along the Missouri river have at last discovered a good foundation for a bridge, being a little north of the Macnider ranch near Emmonsburg. At that place the surveyors found a vein of lignite coal fourteen feet thick, and on this they propose the foundation of the bridge can be laid.

Knowledge is Power

There is one kind of knowledge that is power and prestige in the hands of a woman. It is the knowledge of her own nature, her own physical make-up and the home-treatment of diseases peculiar to her sex. There is a great home medical book that teaches all this. It is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages and over 700 wood-cuts and colored plates. Over 2,300,000 American homes contain copies of this work. It used to cost $1.50; now it is free. For a paper covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; French cloth binding, 31 stamps. A new, revised up-to-date Edition, now ready.

This great book tells all about a medicine that is a cure for all weakness and disease of the delicate organs distinctly feminine. That medicine is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During the past 40 years many thousands of women have used it with marvelous results.

It imparts health, vigor, virility, strength and elasticity to the organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the period of gestation, it makes the coming of baby easy and almost painless. It completely banishes the pain and misery that are the result of a woman's neglecting her womanly health.

An honest medicine dealer will give you what you ask for, and not try to persuade you to take some inferior-secret-nostrum substitute for the little added profit he may make thereon.

"Favorite Prescription" is so perfect and so good in its make-up that its makers feel warranted to print its every ingredient on its bottle-wrappers. Is that not a significant fact? As will be seen from its list of ingredients, it contains neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs.

Joseph E. Fox Wants $25,000 From Albert H. Polinsky.

Claims That Polinsky Robbed Him of Wife's Love.

In district court Tuesday, the case of Joseph E. Fox against Albert H. Polinsky for $25,000, for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections, will come up.

In his complaint filed with the clerk of the district court Mr. Fox claims that on December 12, 1904, he and Lucile M. Hales were married at the city of Duluth. They lived together as husband and wife until June 25, 1909. During the month of September, the same year, they were divorced. The divorce followed Mrs. Fox's arrest in a Superior hotel.

He says that as a result of all the family trouble he has suffered much distress of body and mind. He asks that he be granted $25,000 for having his home broken up.

SUIT AGAINST WEYERHAEUSER

Action to Oust His Companies From Washington State.

Spokane, Wash., March 14.—Advices received in Spokane from Olympia are that an action to cancel the charter of the Weyerhaeuser companies to do business in Washington for alleged violation of the conspiracy clauses of the new criminal code has been started as a sequel to the long legal battle between the Nicomen Boom company and North Shore Boom company involving rights in North river.

The Nicomen company established a boom on the river after the North Shore company put in a boom farther up stream. Litigation arose and the Nicomen company won, but, pending the trial, the North Shore people continued business after being enjoined by the supreme court. They were then ordered to pay damages for loss of business suffered by the old company during the years the cases have been fought in the courts. It is also alleged that the North Shore company is further interfering with the Nicomen company.

It is alleged that Weyerhaeuser was financially interested in the North Shore company, provided the money to fight the case through the courts, and is now behind a new company which is proceeding along similar lines.

Now the Nicomen Boom company asks the war department to order out the dam as an obstruction to navigation, requests the state fish commissioner to prohibit the dam as an interference with salmon, and petitions the attorney general of Washington to institute action to put the company out of business, claiming to have proof of the Weyerhaeuser connection.

THUMB MARK IDENTIFICATION.

Washington Herald: Martin S. Steele of Cheyenne, Wyo., said last night that the old Chinese system of identification by thumb marks has been adapted to modern banking, and the method is now in practical use in the First National Bank of Cheyenne as a means of identifying the signatures of the many foreigners who carry deposits at that institution.

"In fact, the thumb mark has become as necessary on checks drawn by this class of the bank depositors, as is the written signature of the drawer of the check," said Mr. Steele. "The system has been in use almost two years now, and in that time the bank has not had the least trouble with its foreign depositors, but instead has found that the arrangement works to perfection.

"There are probably more nationalities represented in and around Cheyenne than in almost any other city of the country. The great mining camps of the state have drawn every nationality of Europe to themselves, while the Union Pacific and Burlington railroads have brought hundreds of railroad laborers from Asiatic countries. Corean ditchers, Japanese section men, Chinese workmen, Mexicans, Indians, Lithuanians, Czechs, Poles, Hungarians, Bohemians, Welshmen, Irishmen, Greeks, Italians and about every other nationality can be found around Cheyenne in the course of a day's search. Many of these persons deposit their savings in Cheyenne banks, and very few of them, comparatively speaking, can write their own names, especially in letters which can be read by an ordinary American business man."

NO NEW FEATURES IN HEADWEAR

THE changes in the shapes of derbies and soft hats this season are so slight from the conventional shapes of heretofore, that it is extremely difficult to define them with any degree of lucidity. Let becomingness be the primary consideration and you cannot go amiss. The shapes shown this season by authoritative designers are so varied that no man, if his judgment be good, need wear an unbecoming style. The stiff hats have undergone little, if any change. The tendency is towards crowns that are less full in the tip showing a trifle more of the oval shape than was worn last winter. The most approved brims are medium set, terminating in a 3-inch round curl. The prevailing dimensions do not differ radically from the vogue of recent seasons. In height they vary from 4 to 5⅜ inches and in width of brim from 1⅝ to 2¼. Black has the preference over everything else. A few grays, slates, seal browns and tans are shown, but we do not look for wide popularity in the colored stiff hats this season. Few D'Orsay shapes are shown in the best shops, and when recommended at all are suggested for men past middle age.

The silk hat for the season shows a slight bell-shape, and in general lines and curl of brim it is about the same as the derby referred to above. For young men the approved dimensions are 5⅝ by 1⅞ inches and for older men 6⅞ by 2¼.

Soft hats will have a renewed popularity this season, and there are no marked changes in the shapes now shown from those of last spring. There will be a prominence of gray shades to work in harmony with the gray suits. There will also be various tones of brown shown, running from seal and chocolate to the light tans and champagnes. Dark blue is gaining more popularity than has been evident for recent seasons. The popular dimensions range from 4 to 4½ by 2 to 3. Some of the gray hats now shown have bands, binding and edge stitching of contrasting colors, usually plum or blue.

It is noticed that in the telescopes there is a tendency toward medium low crown, wide flat brims with rounded curl all around the edge. This is one of the few new shapes shown this season. In appearance it is a mighty attractive block, distinctly different from the designs of recent years.

The one novelty note in caps for the season are those showing rather loud black and white checks. Aside from these loud Scotchy patterns obtain. Yacht and golf shapes are decidedly more popular than the bulky shapes previously in vogue.

As to straw hats, sennit and split straws in sailor and yacht shapes will be the popular things. Some soft braid hats will be worn, but it is believed that their popularity of last summer will be found on the wane as the season progresses. There are no extreme novelties shown in the stiff straw hats. The medium rough braid has the preference over the coarser weaves. On these the brims will be found to be a trifle wider than those shown last summer. The popular dimensions in straw hats for the season are 3¼ by 2, 3⅞ by 2, and 2⅞ by 2.

There is every indication that Panamas are going to return to high favor.

Adjustable fancy bands are going to be more fashionable than ever this summer and their adoption will not be restricted to the school and college boys but substantial business men, who keep in close touch with the trend, will surely wear them.

One reason why these will be taken up by maturer heads is from the fact that harsh contrasts are no longer in vogue. Soft tones and color harmony is being introduced in subdued combinations that will appeal to the discriminating dresser. Until recently the business man who wanted fancy bands would have an array of college colors spread before him for his selection, whereas he now has the opportunity to take his choice from a good assortment of quiet combinations that will appeal to his fancy.

It is a new mode for men to have a number of bands of various hues to fit the color scheme of his general dress, just as a quantity of neckwear is maintained for the same purpose. The new tones and shades shown this season are truly beautiful. Of course, in college localities, college colors will still be worn. Two prominent colors that will be seen a great deal this season in fancy bands are gray and reseda.

CUTTING THE ANNUAL CROP OF ICE FROM LAKE SUPERIOR TO SUPPLY DULUTH'S NEEDS

PUSHING CAKES ALONG CANAL.

BREAKING UP THE CAKES.

PROCESS IS INTERESTING

Cakes Cut With Plow and Shoved Along Open Canal.

Duluth Uses Nearly 100,000 Tons of Ice Every Year.

Companies No Longer Rely Upon Lake for Their Supply.

The ice men were busy on the lake front last week rushing into the storehouses the last of the season's crop.

The harvest on old Lake Superior has not been as heavy this year as during years goneby. The lake was frozen over late and the warm weather of the past week has played havoc with the frozen water.

The residents of the city of Duluth each year use from 70,000 to 100,000 tons of ice. As the population increases, the ice is needed in greater quantities and each season the ice companies are forced to put up just a little more than during the year gone by.

This year a greater part of the harvest was gathered on Spirit lake. Fearing that the lake would not give them a proper opportunity, the ice men took no chances but harvested early at any point where they knew the ice to be pure. Spirit lake water is known for its clearness and it cannot be told from the ice taken from the lake.

At least one of the Duluth ice concerns is not harvesting from the lake this year.

The pictures show work as it was going on last week off St. Croix avenue. Ice harvesting is a great deal like haying. It all has to be done in a hurry. A few days of warm weather makes it soft and ice put up in this condition saves poorly. The colder the weather the better, when putting up ice. Care must be taken to cover with the right amount of sawdust. If too little, the ice will soften and disappear, and if too much the ice will heat.

An ice-cutting machine is used to mark off regulation size cakes. The cuts are gone over again and again until the cut is about eight inches deep. The lines are made in one direction and crossed to the same depth in another, making squares of ice. These squares are the pushed along an open canal to the lift, which takes them to the storehouse.

The process is an interesting one and during the time that the men were busy harvesting, many looked on.

THE LIFT AT WORK.

MODERN DENTISTRY.

How Gold Inlays Are Made and Put Into the Teeth.

New York Sun: The modern dentist now makes gold inlays as well as inlays of porcelain.

In making an ordinary gold filling the cavity in the tooth is made larger within than at its opening, the walls thus contracting helping to hold the filling in. The cavity for a gold inlay must of course be at least as large at the opening as at any interior point, for the inlay is in a solid block.

There may be various reasons for putting into a tooth a gold inlay instead of a filling malleted in. For one reason it may be that the walls of the tooth are too frail to stand the malleting without danger of breaking, or it may be that the gold inlay is to go into a back, grinding tooth, where a malleted filling would not serve the purpose. An ordinary gold filling such as is malleted in is made of pure gold; if it were otherwise it could not be worked; a gold inlay can be alloyed to make it of a degree of hardness sufficient to withstand use.

Porcelain inlays are commonly set in front teeth, where they do not show as a gold filling would. The porcelain powders of which such inlays are made are produced in a practically endless variety of shades, which can be further varied by combination.

It is possible to make a porcelain inlay that will match the surrounding tooth so perfectly that except upon the closest inspection it is impossible to tell where the tooth leaves off and the inlay begins. Porcelain inlays, which are molded into shape from the plastic material and then baked, may be set in grinding teeth, but this is not commonly done. A porcelain inlay that might not break if stepped on might break in a grinding tooth in use.

A perfect amalgam filling will wear as well and as long as the tooth in which it is set, but amalgam discolors in time, and there are persons who will not have an amalgam filling even in a back tooth, out of sight. For these people for a grinding tooth gold inlays are made.

In whatever sort of tooth the gold inlay is to be placed, the cavity when drilled out is furrowed down its sides within with little grooves, into which corresponding moldings on the inlay will fit, this to hold the inlay more securely in place and the better to enable it to withstand pressure applied to it from various directions, and with the cavity finished a form or pattern is taken of it in wax. In one end of this little form or pattern in wax is thrust a delicate wire, by which it can be handled without handling the form itself, and then this pattern is set in a tiny flask, and around it, as in a foundry the molders pack sand around patterns in making molds in bigger flasks, plaster is packed.

When this tiny mould containing the wax pattern for the inlay has hardened the wire is drawn out of the pattern and the wax is melted out of the mould, and then there is the mold ready for the casting, which is done by the aid of various special appliances made for the purpose. Then you break the little plaster mold and there, released, you have the gold inlay.

It is set into place with cement, which after an hour or two in which to harden holds the inlay firmly and securely anchored. In due time later the dentist will grind it down around to make it perfectly flush with the surrounding tooth surface and polish it.

TOY FLYING MACHINES.

New York Sun: Toy flying machines are now made in great variety as to styles and sizes, and range in price from 25 cents to $50. The lower priced toys of this sort are little metallic airships which do not actually fly, but when driven by a propeller wheel, operated by clockwork, swing out and describe a horizontal circle in the air, while suspended at the end of a cord.

There are flying machines of this kind fashioned in imitation of the Zeppelin airship in various sizes up to a length of eight or ten inches. There are also clockwork, bird shape flying machines with wings spreading eight or ten inches, and with the propeller wheel placed in front, that sell for 50 cents and 75 cents.

The most striking of the clockwork flying machines that are worked to swing around suspended, is modelled after the Wright machine with its planes about a foot in width. It sells for $6.

The machine that sells for $50 will actually fly. It weighs five pounds. Its length is five feet four inches and its spread of wings or planes from tip to tip is five feet six inches. It has a frame or wood supported on the regular roller wheels three in number, on which it rolls along the ground preparatory to starting on its flight. It has four wings, placed horizontally and all in the same plane, two on each side, one back of the other, and it has a regulation propeller wheel being about twenty inches in diameter.

Power for this machine is supplied by a stout, thick strip of rubber, which extends from the extreme front of the machine along its top to the wheel at the back, and which is free except at the extreme ends. To get the power to move this machine, the rubber strip is twisted by means of the propeller wheel used as a crank. Thus when the propeller is released the rubber uncoils itself along its length, communicating power to the propeller. This flying machine will fly two blocks.

CURE FOR BLUSHING.

Youth's Companion: Blushing is a curious phenomenon often very disagreeable to the sufferer. It is due to a sudden relaxation of the walls of the minute blood vessels of the surface of the body and is classed by physicians among the nervous affections of the circulation.

Self-consciousness is usually the exciting cause of habitual blushing, which occurs therefore more commonly among bashful children, and in girls more frequently than in boys. Those who blush easily are generally of a sensitive, nervous temperament, and as contact with the world modifies this somewhat, the habit gradually disappears with age.

The face is the part where blushing more commonly occurs, although any other part of the body may show the same change. One who watches the blushes of a painfully embarrassed person may see a faint pink flush spread over the ears and throat as well as the cheeks. It is said that among uncivilized tribes, where much of the body is habitually exposed, blushing, when it occurs at all, may involve all the uncovered parts. It is probably because the face is the part by which one is identified—that which personifies the individual—that it is the recognized seat of the blush.

Sudden attacks of general blushing without any apparent reason may affect those who are somewhat advanced in life and constitute a most disagreeable symptom.

Children who blush easily should be trained to overcome self-consciousness or bashfulness. They should be persuaded, not forced, to take a prominent position among their playmates rather than to hold back and speak only when they are spoken to. Undue timidity should be overcome because it injures the chance of success in business or the social world. The "speaking of pieces" in school, if the child can be persuaded it will be good for him, will go far to cure morbid blushing.

The spontaneous blushing or flushing of adults may be benefited by tonics, remedies to aid digestion, a generous but simple diet, cool bathing and plenty of exercise in the open air.

AN AERIAL COSTUME.

A London firm has already designed and had made what it calls an aerial costume; in other words, a dress to be worn by women aeronauts. It is of the best sheepskin in a beautiful dull raisin red, though of course any other color could be chosen.

The coat is cut to come just below the hip line, says the Queen, buttons down the front and is close fitting. The buttons are of natural colored horn; but here again a wide diversity is possible, for these horn buttons are now to be had in any color to match the leathers.

The sleeves are caught in at the wrist with an elastic band and over these long stiffened gauntlet gloves are to be worn. The coat is lined throughout with a soft thick camel fleece in the natural color. The divided skirt is extremely full and is lined with satin and caught at the knee into fairy wide band which go under the high boots.

For headwear, the newest type of motor bonnet is the style suggested. It is of the cottage shape, composed of leather to match the suit, and has rather a deep front, which is lined with ruched satin and generally worn folded back in fron a few inches. It can, however, be turned forward when necessary and makes a capital shade for the eyes from the sun. At the neck, the bonnet is put into a deep sort of shaped collar which buttons over with two small horn buttons at one side of the front.

The whole effect of the outfit is neat and smart in the extreme, yet the pretty and becoming bonnet gives it a picturesque appearance. The entire thing is designed to be thoroughly practical and comfortable and to take up as little room and impede the movements as little as possible.

Moreover it is quite airtight, and owing to the way in which the collar on the bonnet overlaps that on the coat, the gauntlets cover the lower sleeve and the high boots come over the bands of the divided skirt at the knee, there is not a crevice where the wind can slip in, as it would certainly be apt to do when one is whistling through the air at the rate of a mile a minute.

A ONE-ARMED PIANIST.

Musical America: Hungary's one-armed pianist and composer, Count Geza Zichy, reached his sixtieth birthday in the first week of the month. As a boy of 14 he lost his right arm through an accident he met with while hunting, but even without the usual complement of fingers he was not to be deterred from devoting his life to music.

With Liszt and Robert Volkmann as his teachers he developed an extraordinary left hand technic and gained a comprehensive knowledge of the art of composing.

His principal work has been made in the domain of opera. His "Alar" found its way to Berlin; both it and "Meister Roland" have been performed frequently in Hungary. He has also produced a large choral work, "Dolores," and a few eyes from the sun. At the neck, the bonnet is put into a deep sort of shaped collar which buttons over with two small horn buttons at one side of the front.

QUEEN OF ENGLAND AND ONE OF HER FAVORITE GRANDSONS

QUEEN ALEXANDRA AND PRINCE OLAV.

Queen Alexandra has a number of grandsons, but none of whom she is more fond than of little Prince Olav, the crown prince of Norway. When Olav's father, Prince Charles, married Alexandra's daughter, he gave up his interest in the Danish throne and settled down to a life of ease in London. But when Norway split away from Sweden and needed some one of royal blood to take the newly-created throne, Charles yielded to entreaties and became King Haakon. Little Olav is often in England and is much loved by the English people.

HOODOOS OF THE RAILROADER

Black Cat and Number 13—Engine With Record as a Man Killer.

Kansas City Star: The engineer and fireman are the firmest believers in the dangers of a black cat crossing the track in front of an engine of the number 13 and its combinations, of wrecks lurking near haunted places along the track where some previous disaster occurred. And the list of beliefs runs on almost without end.

Life spent in the engine cab tends to develop the abnormal and imaginative in a man. A constant tension of the nervous system enforced by a rigid attention to duty, a prolonged absence of speech made necessary by the deafening roar of steam and grinding of brakes, the endless monotony of the track unwinding like a pair of ribbons broken now and then by a sharp curve and around which may lurk an unforeseen peril; all this counts in a man's mental training.

The number 13 is the most ancient of railroad superstitions. Trainmen often refuse to take out a train of thirteen cars. But the 13th day of the month holds no terror for them, unless connected with another thirteen; strangely enough, Friday, the 13th, is the same as any other day. But to take out an engine or caboose on that day whose number adds up thirteen, as eighty-five or 292, is equally desperate.

Some men bear the terrible record that brand them as hoodoos. They may be good, jolly fellows, and railroaders will cheerfully meet them anywhere except on a train or on an engine. Here their past records prove them lightning conductors of disaster. The most widely known of these unfortunates of superstitions is an engineer on the Chicago & Alton. Mr. —— never suffers himself, but more than twenty have died on the pilots of engines of which he held the throttle.

In September, 1907, Wabash "accommodation," running from Moberly to St. Louis, crashed in an open switch at Mexico, Mo., and killed three. As D. P. Taylor, the fireman, was dragged out from beneath his engine, he said:

"I saw a black cat run across the track just as we pulled out of the yards. I said something would happen, but the fellows all laughed at me." Thus has the hoodoo of the black cat, almost forgotten by railroad men, revived.

Perhaps the most widely known tangible hoodoo west of the Mississippi river is an engine. Every few months a headline says:

No. 847 Kills Another.

This engine belongs to the Wabash and more than twenty-five have been killed either in its cab or in coaches which it pulled. A mechanic in the repair shop told me that in repairs and damage suits it had cost the company enough to buy two engines of like make, and he said it earnestly and had computed the cost with effort.

No. 847 came to the Moberly, Mo., division from Chicago with fifteen fatalities to its credit there. It is said that the reason it was transferred was that railroad men on the Eastern division refused to run it.

Shortly after its wreck at Thompson, Mo., Oct. 26, 1907, in which four were killed, a number of railroaders tried to form an "anti-847 club," the purpose of which was to boycott the hoodoo engine off the division. The scheme failed and now the "man killer," as its homicidal nickname stands, runs regularly between Moberly and Kansas City.

BUYING RUBIES IN BURMA.

Oriental merchants have business methods which would arouse the wonder of the New York storekeeper. Perhaps the most peculiar methods are associated with the sale of rubies in Burma.

The prospective purchaser takes a seat near a window and has before him a large copper plate. The sellers come to him one by one and each empties upon this plate a little bag of rubies. The purchaser arranges the gems all in separate little heaps in order that he may set a valuation upon them.

He first divides them into three grades, according to size. Each of these groups is again divided into three other piles, according to color, and each of these piles in turn is once more divided into three groups, according to shape.

Artificial light is never used in the examination of rubies, the merchants believing that full sunlight alone is capable of bringing out the color and brilliancy of the gems. All sales must be made between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. and the sky must be clear, so that nothing can dim the radiance of the crimson stones.

The copper plate is brought into requisition in more ways than one. The sunlight reflected from it through the stones brings out, with true rubies, a color effect different from that of spinels or tourmalines, which are thus readily separated. Many spinels bear a close resemblance to the ruby, but this simple test made under the keen eye of the Oriental never fails.

When the various stones have been segregated the buyer and seller begin an odd method of bargaining by signs, or rather grips, in profound silence. After agreeing upon the fairness of the classification they join their right hands, covered with a handkerchief or the flap of a garment, and by grips and pressures understood among all these dealers they make, modify and accept proposals of purchase and sale. The hands are then uncovered and the prices are recorded.

Luck in the Auction Room.

During a certain sale which I was conducting, says Charles Harris, the auctioneer, in the Strand, was an old picture so covered with dirt and grime what it was like. This was hung upon the wall in a prominent position, but did not, apparently, find favor in the eyes of any of the dealers who were present. No reserve price was placed upon this picture, which had been put into the sale by a local pawnbroker, to whom it had been pledged and not redeemed. In spite of every effort on the part of the auctioneer, who naturally did his best to make the audience believe that it might be of considerable value, bids came very slowly, and it was eventually knocked down to a young man who had looked into the sale quite casually, in order to waste half an hour during which he had to wait for a train. Taking a great fancy to the frame, which was of oak, blackened with age, he hazarded a bid of $5, at which price it was knocked down to him without any competition. As he did not want the picture, he asked the auctioneer whether he would mind trying to get a bid for it, if he cut it out of the frame; and, being answered in the affirmative, he took out his knife and neatly cut through the canvas all around the edge. Imagine the astonishment of himself and all present when, hidden behind the canvas, he discovered five bills for $100 each! Evidently the picture had been used to conceal the savings of some previous owner who had died without disclosing the secret, and whose hardwon fortune thus came into the hands of a total stranger.

WEST DULUTH'S FUTURE.

By the way, there was matter worth thinking about in the review published in The Herald Saturday evening of the industrial situation in West Duluth.

Without counting the work that will be done this summer on the new steel plant at Spirit Lake, it is estimated that $2,000,000 will be spent in expanding industries already there and in establishing new ones. The Zenith Furnace company will spend $150,000 in increasing its dock line and dock facilities. The Hanna Coal company will build a new coal dock costing about $500,000. The Canadian Northern will build shops and roundhouses. The Imperial Iron works will build a large foundry as an addition to its other shops. It is said that another coal company is negotiating for a site and will build a dock. Besides these items, many smaller industries are expanding or newly locating; and a little further up the river the new steel plant will go forward rapidly.

The territory on the Duluth side of the St. Louis river from Rice's Point west always will be the center of Duluth's payrolls. A broad level stretch parallels the river, where are ample dock sites with access to the greatest inland waterway in the world, side by side with railroad lines reaching every market. In the valley of the St. Louis on the Duluth side of the river there is room for industries that will support a population of half a million people; and between them and on the slopes to the north are splendid residence sites for the workers. This is to be—and is—the workshop of Duluth, and in time to come every foot of that ample ground will be occupied by factories and industrial works of many kinds, and by the stores and residences of the workers and of those who supply the needs of the workers.

It needs no prophet to foresee the coming of this time. It is so near now that anybody can see it. Nature has dealt lavishly with Duluth by providing it with excellent industrial sites close to a great waterway and near the markets, and man is doing the rest by assembling the industries and by providing rail outlets for their products.

Payrolls make cities, and Duluth is getting its payrolls. Thousands of well-paid workers are being added to the population of this city, and thousands more will come in the next year or two. The broad flat along the river provides hundreds of splendid sites for factories, and the slopes bordering the flat provide beautiful residence sites. Located near to the base of supplies of raw material for the metal manufactures, close to an abundant supply of timber for building and manufactures of wood, handy to a great and growing market for products of all kinds, and with rail and water transportation facilities unexcelled anywhere in the world, it is no wonder that Duluth is growing, and that its rate of growth is increasing every day.

NOT PROPERLY TRAINED OVER THERE.

James A. Patten, the Chicago speculator, had some experiences in Manchester, England, the other day which, the Associated Press report said, "greatly surprised and irritated him."

Having come to England to "look about", he visited the floor of the cotton exchange at Manchester, and his appearance was the signal for a hostile demonstration that resulted in his forcible ejection from the exchange. In the street, he was pursued by a mob which threatened actual physical violence, and he had to be rescued by the police. After being hidden for a time in a business office, he was hustled into a cab and driven to safety. He took the first train to Liverpool, where he was treated much more politely.

What was the occasion of all this? "Patten's coming had been widely heralded since his arrival at Liverpool," says the report, "and the reception was ready for him. There are persons in Manchester who were squeezed in the Patten rise in the price of cotton last year, and they have neither forgotten nor forgiven the man who at times has forced the price of cotton and grain to new figures."

In other words, not being used to the sort of speculators who make "corners" in products that are necessary to the lives and well-being of the people, the people of Manchester seized the opportunity to express their disgust with such methods.

It is different in this country. While many people here are disgusted with a man who manipulates the prices of the materials of food and clothing, and who creates fictitious values for them, many more simply admire the "financial genius" that makes such feats possible, and wish they could do it themselves. That this country is a large producer of such commodities, and that fictitiously high prices result in some benefit to the producers, probably helps to condone the offense. In England, where there is little production but much consumption, the viewpoint is different. England notices that when prices are forced to heights not justified by market conditions a heavy burden is laid upon the consumer.

It has been said that this is the only country in the world where it is safe, these days, for a man to corner wheat or cotton or pork and reap a rich profit out of the necessities of his fellow-beings. Whether or not that is true, certainly it is true that this country stands such things better than any other country. When a man here makes a fortune by cornering the food supply he is more likely to be toadied to because of his wealth than he is to be "booed" and mobbed for his high crime against society.

But there is less patience with such business in this country than there used to be, and the remaining supply of patience shows signs of wearing out. The time may come when it will no longer be safe even in this country for a man to "rig" the produce markets to gain enormous profits for himself at the bitter expense of the people.

THE EASTER FASHION SHOW.

The Herald today forms one of the most conspicuous signs of spring yet noted. The shop windows, of which The Herald's decorative features are reflections, are parts of that same sign. Anticipating by several weeks Nature's spring bedecking of herself with flowers and tender greens, the coming of Easter signalizes womanhood's bursting forth into the bloom of spring fashions, and the shops are full of the daintiest and most brilliant displays of beautiful apparel. As guideposts to these tempting displays the advertising columns of The Herald tonight burst forth in fashion's bloom, forming an array of beauty and brilliancy that dazzles the eye and stirs the feminine heart. The men's needs of Easter bedecking are not overlooked, nor do the offerings for men lack beauty, variety or luminosity.

And, by the way, the showing of Duluth stores in The Herald tonight and in the shop windows and upon the counters and shelves is something that it is worth while to pause and contemplate and admire, even if you are not seeking information about what to buy and where to buy it. Duluth has reason to be proud of its retail stores at any time, for they are progressive, up-to-the-minute, complete and competent to meet any needs. But probably never before has the showing of spring fashions been so complete and so beautiful as this year, as anybody can learn by casting an eye over the illustrated catalogues in The Herald's advertising columns tonight.

MEDIEVAL METHODS OF EDUCATION.

Under the title "Medieval Methods for Modern Children" Maude Radford Warren writes in the current Saturday Evening Post a trenchant analysis of modern educational methods in this country that rings with unassailable common sense. The Herald is particularly interested in it because it is exactly in line with its frequently expressed opinion that the time is come when the public schools should cease to be conducted wholly in the interests of the 1 per cent of the pupils that go to college, and when the needs of the 99 per cent should be met with something that will benefit them and fit them to be useful men and women.

Says Miss Warren: "We started with the Puritan ideal of education, formated by a hardheaded stock that sent the most promising boy to college, while the rest of the family lived on porridge to pay his fees. The Puritan remained fastened in the idea that every boy should have the education of the scholar and the gentleman. He must know Latin and Greek. The conditions of the country have changed, but not, so far, that original academic ideal of education. To this day most of the emphasis is put on the 'scholar and gentleman' courses, the college entrance requirements, which may be fitted, indeed, for the progeny of the Pilgrim Fathers, the 20 per cent of Brewsters and Aldens. But all over the country are thousands and thousands of children who call themselves Americans but who answer to the names of Alessandro and Lars and Heinrich and Ignatz and Ikey, and who are pushing up to the doors of our schools and asking for their money's worth. Do they get it?"

Miss Warren proceeds to show that they do not; that the needs of the many are forgotten in the superstitious devotion to a system that is designed to prepare everybody for college and the professions, when only 1 per cent can go to college and less than that can be professional men and women, while the 99 per cent who must be business men and artisans and housewives are dropped by the wayside, wholly unequipped to face their share of the world's work, and with their real education yet to be gained. The country demands artisans and housewives, and it gets a small proportion of graduates more or less fully educated for professional life, and an appalling proportion of forced graduates from the early grades, not fitted for anything.

"Our public school system, elaborate as it is, fails to meet the needs of all the children chiefly because the standards are academic," says Miss Warren. "It meets excellently the needs of the Aldens and Brewsters who have minds fit for such training; and if no one but Aldens and Brewsters went to school, then the system would be without a flaw. In that case there would be enough teachers to make the children perfect intellectual aristocrats. But for the majority of the students are needed industrial schools, trade schools. As it is, in a city of a million inhabitatnts we have manual training schools that will accommodate about one-half of 1 per cent of the children. And these courses, incomplete as they are, have their usefulness still more lowered because they are unrelated to the fundamental work of the schools."

This country has many institutions deeply encrusted in habit that is almost impenetrable; but it has no institution more deeply entombed in pernicious inefficiency than the schools, and none that so greatly needs to be dug up and rebuilt.

PUBLICITY OF CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

By no means least of importance among the measures pending before congress is the bill providing publicity for campaign contributions, which was reported for passage Saturday by the house committee on elections. The party viewpoint was shown by the fact that while all of the Democrats voted for the bill, the Republicans were divided. The viewpoint of the two parties within the Republican party is shown by the further fact that the progressive Republicans voted for the bill while the reactionary Republicans voted against it.

And that, in turn, is illuminating as to the good faith of Republicans who oppose publicity. The people have suspected that the Republican party is kept faithful to Special Privilege because it is bribed by campaign contributions. That suspicion has been turned to certainty by proof of the fact. Those who are willing that the Republican party should continue to be bribed into the service of plutocarcy are standing against publicity. Those who believe that the party should serve the people are standing for publicity.

The people have a right to know the source of campaign contributions, and refusal to provide for publicity that will keep them informed is confession that the party dares not betray the source of its financial support.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FROM MISSOURI.

To the Editor of the The Herald:

In looking over the paper of Friday night, I noticed a letter signed by "E. Hammond."

I don't know who he is nor do I care, but if he will take a family of six including himself and try to live on $26 a month, I will gladly furnish the money, and it is a ten to one bet if Mr. Cook's diet of pork and beans doesn't kill him in a month, it will put him in the insane asylum.

Speaking of $20 Easter bonnets, it's a cinch that "Hammond" never bought any, or at least not on the $26 a month plan of living.

According to Mr. Cook or Hammond's way of thinking, people ought to live as "Adam and Eve" did, and wear fig leaves.

If Hammond had a wife and family to care for, I think he would soon change his mind.

Hoping he will find time to answer this little note, I remain yours truly,
FRANK KOLE.

FIRETRAPS AND HOW TO HANDLE THEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I note your fire protection editorial of March 8. Thanks.

Glad you approve of the tax scheme, though in most cities the labelling idea takes better than the tax one. In the first place such libelling, while drastic, would be in line with what is being done in other directions, while touching the tax system is looked upon as more revolutionary. The old system is something sacred, like the Constitution, not to be tampered with. I am in hopes, however, of getting both through ultimately. There is nothing like keeping relentingly at it, and whatever sins I may plead guilty to certainly that of giving up a scrap can't be laid at my door. But perhaps that's the worst of sins.

Labelling buildings does seem a bit hard, but it's the one thing that will bring the owners of sloppy buildings to time. Not a bit more drastic than placarding houses where there is scarlet fever or other such disease, and, surely, fire is as terrible a plague as any of these. The only trouble is that the scheme is new. As a people we are awfully progressive but also devilish slow in taking up with new things. That may seem strange but think it over. More new things spring up here than anywhere else, but we also fought the telephone, protested against railways, laughed at the telegraph and broke up the first sewing machine. Why, I am not such an ancient duffer but still I can remember that the first quarantine for smallpox had to be done not by the police but by troops with fixed bayonets, and bloody riots were common. Yet in six years' time smallpox was reduced from 2.146 to 0.063 and now is a negligible quantity.

Give us a hand once in a while and we'll land labelling and a lot of other good things. Gratefully yours,
E. W. FITZPATRICK.

The Day Is Done.

The day is done, and the darkness
Falls from the wings of Night,
As a feather is wafted downward
From an eagle in his flight.

I see the lights of the village
Gleam through the rain and the mist,
And a feeling of sadness comes o'er me
That my soul cannot resist;

A feeling of sadness and longing,
That is not akin to pain,
And resembles sorrow only
As the mist resembles the rain.

Come, read to me some poem,
Some simple and heartfelt lay,
That shall soothe this restless feeling,
And banish the thoughts of day.

Not from the grand old masters,
Not from the bards sublime,
Whose distant footsteps echo
Through the corridors of Time.

For, like strains of martial music,
Their mighty thoughts suggest
Life's endless toil and endeavor,
And tonight I long for rest.

Read from some humbler poet,
Whose songs gushed from his heart,
As showers from the clouds of summer,
Or tears from the eyelids start.

Who, through long days of labor,
And nights devoid of ease,
Still heard in his soul the music
Of wonderful melodies.

Such songs have power to quiet
The restless pulse of care,
And come like the benediction
That follows after prayer.

Then read from the treasured volume
The poem of thy choice,
And lend to the rhyme of the poet
The beauty of thy voice.

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day
Shall fold their tents like Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

—Henry W. Longfellow.

Brute or Under Dog.

Puck: It's all right and a fine thing to help the under dog, but before you rush in, be sure it is the under dog you are helping, and not the brute on top. The motive for much of the anti-trust legislation at Washington has been a desire to help the under dogs of business, to help them shake off monopoly's grip. That, we assume, is the main motive of the latest "Corporation tax," but of this bill one of the sections stipulates that a full statement of every corporation's business shall be filed yearly with the government, which statement shall become a matter of public record, open to everybody. This is where the administration, aiming to aid the under dog, it seems to us is really of valuable assistance to the brute on top; for not all corporations are large corporations, powerful and despotic. Some of the "under dogs" of business are corporate in form and come under the publicity clause of the law as squarely as the biggest trust. Therefore, if what they file with the government respecting their business affairs is to become public property, on tap at all times, "monopoly" will get with ease information concerning scattered independents which to date it has obtained by corrupt means only. It will no longer be necessary, for example, for the largest trust of all to bribe a clerk in a weak rival's employ; bribe him to send it secretly, month by month, details of his employer's business. Under the new bill the money now spent in bribing clerks may be saved. Complying with the law, the trust's weak rival will send a sworn statement to the government, and the government in turn will hand the statement to the trust upon request. Truly an ideal arrangement. We hope we are wrong in our assumptions, but we very much fear we are not. Every dog has his day, but the under dog's day is not yet—if he be incorporated.

Wanted Medicine.

Philadelphia Record: "The late Frederick Remington," said a Philadelphia artist, "had a humorous way of illustrating his arguments with incidents from real life.

"He was arguing once on prohibition. He described a trip he had once made in the prohibition state of North Dakota. He told how he rode through Degroat, Maza, Benzoin, Iola and other towns in the Devil's Lake neighborhood putting up for the week-end at Minnewaukan.

"As Remington was buying a cigar at the Minnewaukan drug store Saturday night a cowboy entered. He wore a red shirt and bearskin leggins, and he carried a two-gallon demijohn.

"'Jack,' he said to the drug clerk, with a loud laugh, as he swung the enormous demijohn on the counter, 'Jack, fill her up. Baby's sick.'"

THE WEATHER

FAIR

A brisk wind, which blew from the northeast for a time yesterday afternoon, was the only unpleasant feature of an otherwise perfect spring day. Were one not mindful of the treachery of March weather, one might say that spring has really come. But forgetting what the treachery may bring forth, one will say that the present weather is beautiful, enjoyable, delightful, and any kindred expressions that Mr. Webster may have incorporated in his celebrated work may likewise be applied. It's enough to make any baseball fan sit up and take notice of the sporting pages and any fair damsel think of that new spring suit and that dream of a hat, for which father is going to pay out many pound, hard dollars. The mercury went to 40 deg. yesterday.

Mild weather also prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:23 and it will set at 6:12, giving eleven hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Somewhat colder weather prevails this morning in the lake region and Northwestern states as a result of a rather strong area of high barometric pressure central over the Red river valley. A disturbance that moved its center from the lake region to the New England coast during the past twenty-four hours caused light snow or rain over the New England states and the eastern lake region, besides brisk to high westerly winds throughout the lake region generally. Freezing weather is the rule in districts north of the Fortieth parallel.

"Indications favor a continuance of fine weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m. today:

The "Working Girl."

Louisville Courier Journal: A Chicago woman's club has banned the term "working girl." As a substitute it proposes the extremely awkward descriptive phrase "young ladies employed."

The "woman's" club should first change its name to conform to its views. The "chairwoman" of the committee on much-ado-about-nothing, if there is one, drafted the resolution here referred to, should be called a "chairlady," or the countess-occupying-the-chair.

We have society women, women devoted to charity work, women traveling for pleasure, women writing books and plays, girls attending fashionable schools, girls marrying titles, girls singing in the chorus and girls and women engaged in all sorts of activity and inspiring poetry and art without any activity.

The statesman, the orator, the author, the soldier, the dramatist, the civil engineer, the physician, the astronomer, the historian, the diplomatist, the blacksmith, the minature painter and men in various other "employments" are proud of their work, if it is well done, and not of their employment. We have "gentlemen" of the jury, but men run governments, build transcontinental railways, sink shafts into the bowels of the earth for coal or gold, girdle the globe with lines of ocean steamers, lay cables under the oceans to facilitate communication between countries, change the maps of empires, cast out kings, set up republics, defend liberty, increase light and otherwise exert themselves in honorable and ambitious undertakings.

When working girls go upon a strike for higher wages the public is inclined to sympathize with them, and to applaud the parade and uphold the right of the working girl to consideration. The world has a tremendous amount of respect for girls and for work. But it would probably be more difficult to stir up sentiment for "young ladies employed" if they should find their employment uncongenial, their hours unsuitable or their remuneration insufficient for them to live as a young lady employed ought to live.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Thomas Cochran, Jr., of the firm of Cochran & Walsh, came up from St. Paul last night. He addressed the prayer meeting at the Presbyterian church, and gave a very interesting talk.

Telegrams were received here yesterday from James Redmond at Hot Springs, Ark., announcing the death of J. E. Knowlton, from Bright's disease. Mr. Knowlton was 55 years of age He came to the Northwest from Lewiston, Me., in 1869, and has been a resident of this city ever since. For the past sixteen years he has been a partner of Moses O'Brien in the livery business. They were very successful, and Mr. Knowlton's estate is worth about $120,000. From 1882 to 1885 he served as postmaster of Duluth. He has been a widower many years. One child, Mrs. Carpenter, of this city, survives him. The body will be taken to Maine for interment.

Capt. Harry Zealand, who has sailed into this port for many years, denies the report of his death. The story arose from the death of his brother, Capt. William Zealand, from a surgical operation on March 7. Four other brothers are also captains of vessels. Capt. William Zealand owned and sailed many vessels on the ocean as well as the lakes.

It is reported from St. Paul that Governor Merriam has decided to appoint Jay M. Smith of the old grain firm of Smith & Dewey, to be oil inspector at Duluth.

Attorney Edward Fuller has written an ode to Apollo and dedicated it to the Apollo club, of which he is a member. It has been set to music by H. P. Robinson, the director of the club, and will be presented at some future concert.

C. B. Wagar has returned from an extended visit to the leading piano and organ factories in the East.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Not What Is Needed.

Greenbush Tribune: The Duluth Herald says something worth while when it makes the statement that while a 1 mill road tax may be a good thing, it will not nearly meet the requirements of Northern Minnesota Under the proposed act no county could receive more than 3 per cent of the money raised in this way. It will take far more than that to build roads in the northern counties. The state bordering on its own land or sell to private parties. The 1 mill tax will not build our roads. We would be in favor of a law putting all our money into a general fund and let the state build roads. By letting out the work in big contracts and using improved machinery we would get better and far cheaper roads. Letting out these little town or county contracts of a mile or more is a positive waste of money.

Duluth, the Convention City.

Princeton Union: Duluth keeps open house for conventions, and it wouldn't be a bit irritated if there were at least one a week the coming summer.—Duluth Herald.

And nowhere in this great state could a better place be found to hold conventions, especially in the summer time. Duluth has the climate and accommodations, and its people are known far and near for their hospitality to visitors.

You Are Right, Sir.

Eveleth Star: There is a wish, a real desire among the honest political forces as well as among the business interests of Duluth, that the ranges receive their just quota of representation in county politics.

The Press and the President.

Unless it is the wilsh of the administration to throttle a critical magazine and newspaper press, the second class mail rate should be left where it is.—Duluth Herald.

Now isn't that where the trouble lies after all? The independent magazines, the country press and a few daily papers which dare not call their souls their own, are telling the truth about the administration and its friends. Taft and Aldrich and Ballinger and some more of the bright and shining lights at Washington as well as leaders in other cities at the last have been shown up for just what they are and now Hitchcock comes forward with a petty measure to attempt to throttle the publications or to intimidate them so that they will cringe and fawn.

The press is accustomed to cringing and fawning and if the rates of postage are made prohibitive the publishers will take the case home to the people and there will be a change.

You Echo Our Sentiments.

Spooner News: Northern Minnesota should not send, to St. Paul, a single senator who is not so firmly pledged to reapportionment that he will not willingly vote to shorten his term, if necessary, to reapportionment. No candidate who will not pledge himself to that extent in plain and unmistakable language, should receive the support of any loyal citizen of Northern Minnesota.—Duluth Herald.

It is all right to send men to the senate pledged for reapportionment, but to our thought it seems more essential to send men whose past experience and records are such as to establish beyond a doubt that they have the qualifications and leadership necessary to cope successfully with a problem such as reapportionment. Reapportionment be dinged if it ain't a reapportionment that will give the north country what she deserves, and the only way to obtain such beyond any doubt is to send a few tried and true wheelhorses who can guide the band wagon into safety. Pledges and promises are like glass, but its character and ability that counts in a fight like this.

Working for a Living.

From an address by Edward S. Martin, editor of Life, New York, to the students of the University of Texas: One of the best things about working for a living is that it gives the worker common interests with people with whom he could not otherwise come in contact. The thing that more than any other single thing makes the individuals who compose human society interdependent is the necessity of making a living or the desire to make money. One does not realize either of these aspirations to advantage without getting down off any perch on which he may find himself installed, and working in the crowd shoulder to shoulder with the other workers. A high degree of exclusiveness is only possible to do-nothings, and is only prized by know-nothings. The people who value it seem to think that the crowd contaminates and vulgarizes; that such virtue as they may contain is diluted and weakened by a large acquaintance with ordinary people; that the only people to have easy relations with are the "nice" people, the people of social position who have something advantageous to confer, the people who are best to dine with, and out of whom something can be made. That is the mistaken notion, and the mistake is one of small minds. The people—the great mass of the people—are the fountain of honor and the main sources of most advantages. The wise course is to get in touch with as many of them as is reasonably convenient.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chew Your Universe.

Homer Crow in Lippincott's: The man scrambles out of bed, leaps into his clothes, flops down at the breakfast table, gulps thrice, races down the street, swings on to a car, elbows into the elevator, flings open the office door—and sits down and reads the morning newspaper for an hour. Morning after morning does he until his friends lament over a premature grave. He has rushed through a short life into a long eternity. He hasn't stopped to masticate life.

There is lots of nourishment in life, if eaten properly. Stevenson, who had solved the x and y of the question we call life, put it in words that shout: "Some people swallow the universe like a pill."

We gobble through life these days. Life is really a very pleasant feast, with the music of the sphere as an orchestra, but we gulp it down as if it were a dairy lunch on the nearest corner.

Many times have we been told that life is what we make it. And many make it a pill!

"Keeping up with business" is laudable; but we shouldn't have to put one hand on the hearse to keep up with the procession. We are merely tearing off the leaves of life without looking to see how far the calendar is numbered.

Hurry is a brother to Worry, and we all know what Worry killed. And its victim has nine lives! Beware of the Hurry and Worry Brothers!

Many people can "see" a world's fair in a day. Others stay all summer and leave regretting that they can't make another tour. They have been masticating.

European waiters firmly believe that stomach trouble is as catching in the States as measles. The second day that a London waiter serves an American he greets him with, "And how is your stomach today, sir?"

You can rush and hurry all you want to, but you can't get away from a mistreated stomach. It will follow you up day and night with an accusing finger!

Dispatch in business is all well and good. But we become so contaminated with it that it affects us at the family hearth, or at the seashore. Business should be left behind locked doors. Life outside the door marked "Private" should be digested. The will-o'-the-wisp just ahead is alluring; but if we bolt our life for it, we find by that stern old schoolma'am, Experience, that it gets farther and farther ahead, until at last we stumble into the final bog.

Let us be Epicureans at life's table—but let us fletcherize.

INSURGENTS TO MAKE WAR

Railroad Bill Will Be Basis of Decisive Congress Battle.

Will Attempt to Show They Follow the Party Platform.

Washington, March 14.—The senate insurgents are preparing to defend their Republicanism. They have heard that President Taft is about to assail them vigorously, perhaps on his Chicago trip, and even read them out of the party.

While the president is making this trip the debate on the railroad bill will be in progress in the senate, and the insurgents will attempt to show their views represent orthodox Republicanism rather than those of President Taft as set forth in the administration bill. Senators Cummins, Clapp and Dolliver, and probably other insurgents will defend their Republicanism in their railroad speeches.

Among the exhibits which the insurgents will offer will be the Republican platform, the president's letter of acceptance, and the president's Des Moines speech. The insurgents also have possession of the various drafts of the railroad bill, from the time it was first prepared by the president's advisers. They expect to trace the development of the bill, tracing the change of opinion which the president and his advisers underwent.

Say Platform Is Not Met.

The insurgents will claim that the provisions made in the bill for agreements between railroads go beyond the limitations prescribed by the Republican platform. The platform as interpreted by the insurgents plainly calls for an affirmative approval of agreements before they go into effect. That is what the insurgents want now. But they will show that the bill permits such agreements to go into effect without the approval of the commission.

They will quote both the letter of acceptance and the Des Moines speech as indicating that the president himself formerly interpreted the platform provision to mean that in each case the agreement must be affirmatively passed upon by the interstate commerce commission before it goes into effect.

The Des Moines speech will be quoted as indicating the president's attitude on absorption of railroads. This speech will be declared to mean plainly that the president would not only prevent further merging of competing lines, but would force roads to disgorge such stock as they already had purchased. The insurgents will say that they want this thing now. But they will show that the bill, as presented to the senate, permits a road owning 50 per cent of the stock of a compelling line to buy the remainder.

Committee Action a Comfort.

The insurgents are taking comfort in the action of the house committee which has in some particulars even gone the insurgents one better. Today the house committee voted to squeeze the water out of roads which merge or are reorganized after bankruptcy. Under the bill as perfected today by the house committee, the capitalization must not exceed the fair value of the road, as determined by the interstate commerce commission.

The administration bill provided that in case of mergers the railroads might exercise an option in determining their new capitalization. They might decide upon a capitalization equal to the combined capitalization of the merged lines, or they might capitalize at an amount fixed by the interstate commerce commission as the fair value of the combination.

In the case of the reorganization bill the administration bill provided that the capitalization should not exceed that of the old road. In the case of both merger and of reorganization the administration bill would have perpetuated such water as previously existed in the capitalization. This was defended on the ground that the bill was built on the theory of not disturbing the present status of any road, with the consequent danger of panic, but of insuring against stock watering for the future.

Unite to Defend West.

Not only on the railway measure, but on other bills, the insurgents of the house and the "outlaws" of the senate have met upon a common ground and joined forces in what promises to be a serious fight against the regular organization of the two houses.

They demand the opportunity to discuss fully and act as they see fit upon the administration bills and other legislation in which the Western sections of the country are interested. To bring this about, notice has been served upon the leaders of the two houses that congress will be kept here until fall, if necessary, before the insurgent members will submit to being whipped into line for legislation which they consider defective.

The house insurgents who have made the tentative agreement with the senate "outlaws" are now four in number Murdock of Kansas, Madison of Kansas, Cooper of Wisconsin, and Fowler of New Jersey. Other members of the house are said to willing to take part in the plan, and will make themselves known at the proper time.

These four have joined with La Follette, Cummins, Dolliver, Clapp and Bristow, the outlawed Republican members of the senate. It is proposed to submit to no whip upon the railroad bills, the postal savings bank bill, or other important legislation unless the opportunity is permitted for full discussion and amendment of the bills in accordance with the expressed desires of the Middle Western sections of the country.

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

Holly Springs, Miss.—"Words are inadequate for me to express what your wonderful medicines have done for me. The doctors said I had a tumor, and I had an operation, but was soon as bad again as ever. I wrote to you for advice, and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as you told me to do. I am glad to say that now I look and feel so well that my friends keep asking me what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards, Holly Springs, Miss.

CLAIM MINNEAPOLIS HAS 1,500 TO 3,000 CASES OF TYPHOID

Brainerd, St. Cloud and Anoka—where typhoid has been prevalent. Typhoid germs are so thick that a tooth brush dipped into the water for the purpose of cleansing the teeth has gathered enough of the bacilli to cause death.

The population has been forced to resort to heroic measures to prevent a further spread of the disease. Physicians without exception advise against the use of the city water for any purpose whatever. It has been turned off from the city schools. The pool at the university has been drained and the water is not used in any portion of the city for bathing purposes even.

Hotels have driven their own wells, some of these to a depth of 1,000 feet. Eleven spring water companies do an enormous business delivering spring water at 5 cents a gallon.

Accuse City Authorities.

Heads of citizens' organizations in Minneapolis charge the council and the city authorities with negligence, and point out that water conditions in Minneapolis now are just as they have been for years past. Efforts to get action of remedial character by the city council have met delay after delay. The state board of health has announced that in realization of the critical phase of the situation it would take action to compel a move of some sort by the city authorities.

Citizens are up in arms over procrastination on the part of the council, and it is probable that the big death toll of the present epidemic will force action to provide the city with pure water.

Six hospitals of the city are so filled with patients that it is impossible for them to receive any more. As an emergency measure the Marcy school, in the heart of the best residence district, was converted into a hospital.

Tried to Suppress Facts.

Despite the charge that the authorities and the daily papers of the city have attempted to suppress facts connected with the typhoid fever epidemic reports of conditions in Minneapolis have spread over Wisconsin and Minnesota and even beyond the confines of those states.

Far from approving the apathetic attitude with regard to the matter, prominent citizens are of the opinion that a revolution in conditions can only be accomplished when the council is forced to a realization that the bad water situation is working grievous damage to Minneapolis.

Minneapolis was branded "A dangerous distributing center for the surrounding country," by Dr. J. W. Bell, one of the leading physicians of the city and an authority on typhoid fever. He said:

"I wish you would particularly call attention to that fact. This is a gateway through which hundreds pass. We distribute typhoid fever through these visitors. It is really a dangerous distributing point for the disease.

"I have a patient now in Duluth. He was here only two days and went home and developed a virulent case of typhoid.

"I have another patient in New Prague. He visited in Minneapolis only three days and was immediately taken down by typhoid."

Stricken at Church Social.

Dr. Bell narrated an instance in which a young man at a church social tasted city water for the first time in his life. He drank three glasses and contracted a serious case of typhoid.

"I have positively forbidden any of my friends or patients to use the water in any way," he continued.

A plan for pure water suggested by Dr. Bell has received approval from many sources. Predicting that St. Paul and Minneapolis combined will have a population of 1,000,000 in fifteen years, he urges the construction of a great cement aqueduct to Lake Superior to provide a water supply for both cities. This would cost $20,000,000, according to estimates of engineers.

FIRE DAMAGE IS $800,000

$150,000, and on the furnishings $50,000.

In the hotel were the Postal Telegraph quarters and the offices of the Jamestown Street Railway company and of the Chautauqua Traction company. The Postal lost all its lines. The Western Union tlegraph service was also paralyzed and the telephone service cut off.

The loss on the Gokey factory building and to tenants is $150,000.

Broke Out Again.

At 5 o'clock this morning, after it was believed that the fire was under control and the Buffalo fire department, which had been asked for assistance, had been notified not to come, the flames communicated to the Erie hall block, occupied by the Bijou theater, which was destroyed with the J. S. Briggs block. The loss on the two buildings is $50,000 and on contents $30,000.

The burned district includes a large section of two squares in the center of the city.

lating their contract with the engineers; this is all bosh," said Mr. Carter. "It is a subterfuge on their part to make the public believe that other organizations are to blame for the railroad's attitude in refusing to submit the entire controversy to a board of arbitration. We are not asking for any privileges that these railroads are not now granting to the conductors and trainmen."

The letter sent by the men's representatives follows:

"Dear Sir—Your letter of this date (March 13), wherein you state that the managers' committee declines to further consider matters in controversy, has been received and in reply our committee instructs me to say:

"If there is to be a great railway strike the responsibility must and will rest on the managers' committee. That there may be no misunderstanding concerning this responsibility, our committee here proposes the submission of all matters in dispute to an adjustment by arbitration.

Denies Arbitration Obstacles.

"The public has been informed, through the press, that matters in controversy cannot be arbitrated because they involve the authority of railway officials and discipline of employes. This statement our committee emphatically denies.

"The officials of many railroads represented by the managers' committee do not hesitate to confess the gross injustice perpetrated under present practices.

"Our committee directs me to request the managers' committee, through you, if this proposition to arbitrate is not accepted by the managers' committee that you notify us at your earliest convenience."

The railroads previously announce their willingness to arbitrate the increased wage demand, which the firemen say would amount to about 12½ per cent. Two other demands involved, the managers say, concern discipline and authority and are not open to arbitration. These points have to do with the promotion of firemen and questions whether when they become engineemen, they are still under the jurisdiction of the Brotherhood.

NEW HORDE TO TESTIFY

pal counsel for the defense, said today that until the government rested it would be impossible for him to outline the extent of the testimony he would offer.

Many Turned Away.

Crowds pushed into the courtroom long before the appointed hour this morning. Many later comers were turned away by bailiffs.

Willard Powell, one of the defendants, learned today of a fine of $1,000 assessed against him by the judges for the action of a horse he rode in a race ten days ago at Jacksonville, Fla. Powell in the present case is charged with having inveigled Joseph W. Walker into a horse race which cost the latter $5,000.

On motion of United States District Attorney Temple, the complaints against Fred S. Mull and James R. Morrison of Superior, Wis., two of the defendants, were dismissed, and by direction of the court the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Later Col. Temple stated that the witnesses against these men were in Canada and would not voluntarily come here to testify. The government has no means of compelling attendance from across the border.

ARGUE OIL TRUST CASE

attend any sitting of the court this term.

Every available seat in the little room was occupied. Many attorneys from a distance had come especially to the city to listen to the arguments. The defense had a corps of brightest legal minds, headed by John G. Johnson, John G. Milburn and D. T. Watson. On the government's side were Attorney-General Wickersham and Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, who has fought the case from the first.

Long Line Outside.

Long before the judges took their place on the bench the sixty seats provided for spectators were filled, and a long line had been formed outside the courtroom by people hopeful that some thing would call the early arrivals away.

say a delegation of the men called upon Supt. Vaudain of the Baldwin plant today and asked permission to unionize the works. The union leaders stated that if this permission were granted all the strikers would return to work. The superintendent has not yet given his answer.

Action by the central labor union calling out union men employed in handling milk, bread and necessaries of life, had no serious effect. Strikers declare that the mandate did not become generally known until today, and that all unionists engaged in the handling of food products will eventually obey the order. Large milk dealers and others, however, assert the strike will not seriously affect the food supply of the city, as men employed in these lines of trade are not strongly organized.

National Boycott on Banks.

A strike declared against the banks is a new move in labor warfare. The call of the labor leaders urging working men and women not only in this city but throughout the country to withdraw deposits from banking institutions and thus "deprive capitalists of one weapon with which to fight organized labor," is being watched with interest. This action was taken because the local banking interests are disinclined to enter the fight between the trolleymen and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company. Bankers seen today admit that this latest plan would be a dangerous one if it was to be unanimously carried out, but they do not believe that the unions will succeed in causing a very general withdrawal of deposits. No apprehension is felt, in banking circles, because the greater amount of workingmen's deposits are in savings fund institutions which require at least two weeks' notice of withdrawal.

More Cars Running.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit company operated almost its regular number of cars today. Officials of the company announce that they have 4,500 men available to run the cars and that additions to the force of experienced motormen and conductors are reaching here daily from various sections of the country. The cars are being more generally patronized than at any time since the strike was declared.

The declaration of labor leaders that they intend to use every weapon to win the present fight may involve many unions in tangles with employers. When the general strike was ordered the organizations as a rule were at peace, but action of the central body in calling upon all workmen, whether organized or not, to seize the present opportunity to demand higher wages or better working conditions may bring about an extended labor struggle in other industries.

Headed Off Specification.

Several large industrial establishments, scenting trouble, have made concessions to their employes and have thus prevented strikes on specific grievances.

The printers, musicians and several other unions that decided not to join the strike last week will, it is believed, stick to that decision, and refuse to obey the orders of the Central Labor union.

Will Vote in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 14.—A vote on whether to strike in sympathy with the Philadelphia carmen will be taken tonight by the 2,100 street railway employes in this city. The State Federation of Labor, recently in convention in Newcastle, voted in favor of a statewide strike if the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company still refused to arbitrate. The Pittsburg street carmen's union is a member of the State Federation. The local men's agreement with the Pittsburg Railways company expires April 1, it is said.

"I understand the men are to hold an all-night meeting to vote on a strike in sympathy with the Philadelphia carmen," said a representative of the Pittsburg Railway company today. "But we will not cross any bridges before we come to them. We have no differences with our men now and don't want any."

MUST LET HUGHES BE

dent that he would, at least, continue as chairman until the end of his term.

Eye on National Campaign.

"There's much more than the chairmanship of the state committee involved," said an up-state leader today. "President Taft and his friends are setting the stage for the national campaign in 1912, and the administration feels that unless the present state organization joins with Governor Hughes, a party split will follow that will give the state to the Democrats next November and seriously jeopardize the party's chance for capturing New York state's thirty-nine electoral votes for the Republican presidential nominee.

"Woodruff will remain chairman, and the opposition to Governor Hughes will in a large measure, cease, so that no split may occur if the Root plan is carried out; but the election of Senator Cobb as president pro tem of the state senate has so strengthened the hand of Woodruff and his friends in the organization that they may elect to advance such legislation as they please at Albany, and in so doing they will split the party wide open.

"Hope Lies in Roosevelt."

"Our hope lies, in that event, in Theodore Roosevelt, who will be asked to assume the leadership of the party—and his return is only three months away."

The Woodruffites assert that the efforts of the administration in the present situation constitute an invasion of the rights of the state political control.

Chairman Woodruff indicated today that the Allds case would be judged solely on its merits, and informed his callers he had not even been able to learn how the Brooklyn senators stood. A close advisor of Mr. Woodruff said at the headquarters this afternoon:

"The situation is thoroughly understood by Senator Root and the chairman. The telephone and telegraph will be placed under the public service commission, but probably under the up-state department of the commission.

No Whitewash.

"The Hinman-Green bill for direct nominations won't go through, but the bill drawn by the special committee, which is a modification of the Hinman-Green measure, will be adopted.

"Chairman Woodruff tells me that the stories told by certain congressmen in Washington that Senator Allds is to be whitewashed have no basis in fact, and that the case will be fairly passed on."

COSTS MAN MORE TO LIVE.

Rules New York Court After Debate With Feminine Complainant.

New York, March 14.—Does a husband need more money to live on than his wife? A New York court has ruled that he does.

Mrs. Platek brought her husband in court on a summons charging non-support. The court awarded her $3 a week.

"I can't live on that," said Mrs. Platek. "A woman needs more money than a man."

"I don't think so," answered Magistrate Corrigan.

"It is so. A woman has to buy many hats."

"But a man has to buy many hats, too."

"But a woman has to buy many skirts."

"And a man has to buy many trousers."

"Well, a woman has to buy many things a man doesn't."

"And the reverse is true," said the magistrate as he waved the wife aside.

COCOANUT SENT THROUGH THE MAILS.

A coconnut almost as green as when it was picked from the tree in the tropics and full of milk came through the mail from Miami, Fla., to Charley Laugbridge in the rough, bearing only the address and 2¢ cents in stamps. Inquiry at the postoffice elicited the information that several Duluth people have received cocoanuts from the South this winter sent through the mail in the "original package."

BONDS WILL BE APPROVED

New City Officers May Assume Office After Council Meeting.

Aldermen Will Consider Purchase of Complete Garbage Equipment.

The city council will receive bonds from the appointees of Mayor Cullum at the meeting tonight for approval. It is expected that they will receive favorable consideration. An attempt was made to block the confirmation last week, but is was thwarted in open meeting and the aldermen who were in the deal are now, apparently satisfied to let matters remain. The idea was to refuse confirmation until the mayor appointed a new chief of police.

The question of purchasing enough equipment to establish municipal collection of garbage all through the city will come up again. The resolution was introduced last week but was laid over on request of one of the aldermen who wanted to investigate the matter. The aldermen are in favor of the collection, but some of them are doubtful if the city can afford the expenditure at this time. The experiment conducted by Dr. F. J. Patton, health commissioner, has shown that the collection is self-sustaining, but it will cost a considerable sum to buy wagons and horses. If the equipment is bought this year the same fees will likely be in force, but the general opinion is that in the future the collection will be free.

Dr. Patton will recommend to the council tonight that the top floor of the new contagious hospital at Fourteenth avenue west and Third street be completed. The rough work has all been done, but no furniture or fixtures have been put in.

The newhospital is already crowded, the majority of the patients having scarlet fever. Applications for admittance are being steadily received but they have to be turned down for lack of room. There are many more cases of scarlet fever in the city than normally and they are receiving careful attention from the department officials. The service could be bettered if more room were available. The finishing of the third floor would add at least a third more to the capacity. The necessary expenditure would be comparatively small.

Several saloon licenses will come up tonight. Two applications have been made for the Christopher license, issued for 228 Lake avenue south, which was revoked by the council a short time ago, and several applications for transfers have come in. Most of the other business will probably be strictly of a routine nature.

OPENING AT GIDDING STORE

Bewildering Display of Spring Fashions for Duluth Women.

From the waists, tailored linen, handmade lingerie and perishable ones of silk crepe and hand embroidery, which are to be found at the right of the entrance of the J. M. Gidding & Co., establishment clear through to the remote department at the left rear of the third floor, every department at the Gidding store clamors for attention.

There seems to be no smallest accessory for woman's dress that this firm has not anticipated and supplied. The suits and hats are of course the thing of first importance, but when the charming smaller articles, waists and neckwear and gloves and embellishments of various sorts are noticed and their smartness and elegant simplicity noted, it seems that they must be the things of first importance.

Today was the first of the three days' formal opening for the store and many women availed themselves of the privilege of viewing the new spring things. The store is made attractive in addition to its stock with palms and flowers and every Duluth woman is probably planning a visit to its various departments before the end of the three days.

Three floors of luxurious showrooms, containing a stock of beautiful gowns suits, cloaks, millinery of the highest class, waists, undermuslins and lingerie, complete a distinctive and fashionable display.

Graded Sizes.

A distinctive feature of the Gidding suits this season is the grading of sizes. Time was when suits were all made after one type of figure, that which the maker thought should be the female human form divine. The suit in the end failed to conform to the contour of Venus who had no need of it or to the figure of the modern woman who purchased it and who had to have it taken up on the shoulders and let out some place else and shortened here and done something else to there. The grading of sizes of the Gidding suits includes garments made especially for the young girls whose figures demand a particular and special sort of adjusting; then there are suits especially designed for slender women of small stature who yet desire women's styles; there are suits planned for the woman whose friends, even admit that she has too much and too solid flesh and her figure—where has it gone? Anyway this year she will find suits designed for her and what a comfort it will be only the stout lady will ever fully realize. The woman of perfect figure will of course find no difficulty in getting her size.

Suits in the leading style features of the season, are shown of course, in the materials that are best adapted for the styles chosen. The lapels of the coat, the feature that most easily displays poor tailoring, are finished and perfect specimens of work.

The hats are dreams. There are various sorts of dreams and this part of the store shows bonnets that are positively impudent in their pertness, to huge structures of lace and feathers that awe in their presence the most flippant. The most stylish features of the spring are shown in the hats. Large or small, you take your choice. Dress hats, things with willow plumes and expensive laces and beautiful ornaments and unusual and exclusive colors, are there, and so are smart looking hats of simple but fashionable design.

These are but two of the many departments, in every one of which new things for the spring are shown. The waists are particularly lovely. The tailored waist has first choice and the distinctive feature is a bit of hand embroidery in white or colors that make these waists wonderfully smart. Crepe waists in the imported fabric with real Irish lace and hand embroidery are fashionable and waists of more simple design are good.

Only a visit to the store can acquaint Duluth women with the wilderness of lovely things spread out for their choice.

AMERICANS IN LONDON SOCIETY.

Lady's Pictorial: Regretfully as one must acknowledge it, such novelties in the way of entertainments as have illumined the past rather dull London season have been provided by American hostesses. The soiree Watteau given recently in the garden of a house not a hundred miles from Sloane street was absolutely charming and original.

It is wonderful what can be done with quite a commonplace "back garden" in a London square if the hostess only has ideas. This American one has many, and by means of roses, electric lights, artfully constructed little fountains and the most graceful measures—for it was pavanes and minuets and gavottes that were danced in suitable costume amid these picturesque surroundings—she transformed her little garden space into fairyland and transported her guests to the eighteenth century.

Free If It Fails
Your Money Back if You are Not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend
We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.
It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.
Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.
The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.
We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents. Sold in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store, E. M. Treaway, 108 West Superior street.

BRINGS SUIT IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Mary Norris of Duluth Wants $5,000 From Promoter.

Says Promised Dividends on Stock Have Mot Materialized.

Mrs. Mary Norris, 112 East Third street, widow of the late Capt. Norris, has filed in Chicago what is said to be the first of a series of suits against J. J. West, a Chicago mining stock promoter. Mrs. Norris asks $5,000, alleging that she was induced by promises of large dividends to invest that amount of money in stock of the Federated Reduction companies and that the dividends have not been forthcoming and the stock is worthless.

The suit brought by Mrs. Norris, which is expected to be followed by similar actions by other people, has caused a storm to break around West's head. State Attorney Wayman of Cook county has been asked to look into some of the deals with which West has been connected and a grand jury investigation may be held.

The Federated Reduction companies, according to the prospectus, owned the immensely valuable Santiago y Anexas mines in Old Mexico. The prospectus says that $150,000,000 worth of ore is in sight; that the mining of it is an easy proposition; that a reduction plant was to be installed and that the plan would earn from $3,500 to $4,000 a day net. Big dividends were promised. It is said that the Federated made no payments on the mines and does not hold the title.

Another deal which is to be investigated is the alleged floating of $90,000 in certificates of deposit on the Safety Banking & Trust company of Philadelphia, a state bank, by West. It is said the holders of the certificates have been unable to realize on them.

SAYS JOHNSON CAUSED DEATH

Eric Olson Sues for $5,000 on Behalf of Charley Olson's Family.

For assault on the person of Charley Olson, the result of which, it is alleged, cost his life, Eric Olson, as administrator of the estate of Charley Olson, has begun suit in the district court against August Johnson for $5,000.

On Dec. 1, 1909, Charley Olson went into Johnson's candy store. Olson was thrown out of the building, his head striking on the sidewalk. The collision with the walk caused a fracture of the skull, and Olson died some days later.

The case was started this morning before Judge Ensign of the district court. Eric Olson, as administrator of the estate, is suing for the members of Charley Olson's family.

LITTLE CHANGE IN MEN'S FOOTWEAR

MEN'S shoes are built on such conservative lines that there is but slight opportunity for variation of style. Of course, for the gratification of the "fancy boy" there are always a few "freak" conceptions launched each season, but these never find recognition with the really fashionable men of refinement. One flagrant offense of recent introduction was the green shoe, another the shoe that fastened with gilt buckles and straps and still another was the shoe with colonial tongue and colored lacings.

"Peace to their ashes!" We men are not for ostentation in our footwear. At least, most of us are satisfied to direct as little attention to those members as possible.

The advanced styles are now shown in the shops evidence a tendency for shorter vamps, higher heels and broad toes. This means the prominence of the "comfort" and "bull dog" shapes which were in vogue some years ago. The soles are lighter weight and closer trimmed than last summer's sles. In both shoes and oxfords the black calf and Russia effects are the preferred finishes.

It was thought that the tans would continue their wane of popularity indicated last season, but from advanced showings and early purchases in authoritative shops they seem to show a returning tendency. This season, however, the tans will be darker than those in vogue last summer. Warm brown, fawn and oxbloods are shown with greater prominence and are meeting with stronger support than the yellow and light tans of last season. Many of the oxfords shown are the one and two eyelet styles and the smart booteries are strong in their praise of this departure.

The button oxford is well placed in the edicts for this season. Gun metal finishes to match the gray tendency of the suit styles are shown, but we do not look for any great response from these. Men of discrimination have always been loath to accept any footwear finishes other than the conventional black and tan shades and while there is a logical reason for introducing the gun metal, in that they would be harmonious with the color scheme of the season, it would be safer, if not saner, to see them prominently established before we adopt what is likely to be a fleeting fad.

For evening wear at summer resorts, country clubs and early functions patent leather pumps have the first call. Men who prefer the shoe to the pump for dancing may adopt a new treatment which is now introduced. These shoes have black buckskin tops. The dead black of this combining well with the brilliancy of the patent leather vamp and the effect is much richer than the average cloth tops.

There is also an effort being made to launch a black satin pump for men's evening wear! This is made over a well-fitting last and with first-class material produces a piece of footwear which has a distinctive appearance and may figure prominently in our future styles. Its general effect is less brilliant than patent leather but at the same time is not as subdued as the dull calf skin. It may be said in their favor that they hold their shape fairly well and we are looking forward to their destiny with much interest.

Returning to the street shoes it might be noted that gray suede tops are being shown in some of the shops. It is contemplated that the gray tendency of the season will induce many men who have a penchant for matching, to adopt this effect. Wax calf and dull velour calf are really considered the most fashionable effects for the season. Not as many wing tips will be worn as heretofore.

In one of the trade magazines there recently appeared a scale giving the relation in sizes in shoes to half hose. We believe this bit of valuable information deserves chronicling here. It is said that with a No. 5 shoe the proper size of half hose would be No. 9; with 6 shoe, 9½ hose; with 7 shoe, 10 hose; with 8 shoe, 10½ hose; with 9 shoe, 11 hose; 10 shoe, 11½ hose. It further informs us that sizes in half hose correspond with inch measurements, as for instance, No. 9 equals 9 inches from heel to toe.

In order to determine what should be the proper size for your foot, it is stated that No. 9 should measure 12½ inches in leg length and ascending sizes call for half inch additional length respectively. In other words, size 11½ means hosiery should measure fifteen inches from foot of heel to top of cuff.

EGYPTIAN FARMING TOOLS.

Washington Herald: "One of the curious sights in the Egyptian harvest season is a modern thrashing machine noisily working in a field adjoining that in which a native thrasher is treading out the grain," said Horace F. Coler of Chicago, who has made a tour of the world in the interests of American farming implements.

"The brown skinned tiller of the soil, clad in his flowing robes of white or the favored dull blue and yellow combination sitting on the high seat of the crude thrasher, which is dragged over the fields by a yoke of patient camels, or perhaps a camel and a donkey or a couple of buffalo cows, appears to the stranger who sees this for the first time like the principal actor in a scene worked out by an ingenious mind for stage effect.

"The native plow in Egypt is simply the forked portion of a tree or two pieces joined together and smoothed off, a primitive contrivance which may still be seen in use by Cuban farmers. The thrasher is a sledge-like affair fitted with round crushers of wood or iron and weighted down from the top. The grain is crushed into the ground and when gathered up it is mixed with lumps of mud, but it is said that never a kernel of it is lost or wasted.

"American farming machinery may be found in the remotest parts of the world and where least expected. In what manner it gets there I could not ascertain. The natives could not enlighten me."

Detroit, Mich., March 4.— George Qualey of St. Louis was the star of a long day's siege of rolling in the American bowling congress yesterday, when he scored 689 in the individual event and landed 278 in his last effort, the high single game of the meet. This put him in second place, three pins behind William Richter of Chicago, who rolled into the lead Saturday.

Qualey had an excellent start with 213, but a split and a miss of the tenth pin in the second game brought him down to 198. With 411 for his first two games, he opened a terrific onslaught on the pins. He opened with two strikes and then moved down the 6-10 combination for a spare in his third frame. Nine successive strikes completed his string with 278.

R. Zingler of Chicago had the next best score of the day with 612 and Charles Vanderwater duplicated this figure. Henry Schlenk of St. Louis rolled 605.

Henry Schlenk and Henry Baume of St. Louis led the doubles for the day with 1,192, which gave them temporary possession of tenth place. F. Entel and C. Barker of St. Louis came next with 1,180.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYERS HOME

Capt. Boyle Satisfied With Showing Made at Madison.

Members of the Central basket ball team returned from Madison yesterday feeling very well satisfied with the showing made at the big Wisconsin tournament, though somewhat crestfallen that luck turned against them in the close game with Sterling, Ill. If the local boys had won this game they would have reached the finals and would have played Appleton for the Western championship.

Capt. Larry Boyle in commenting upon the tournament, stated that Sterling secured three very lucky baskets from near the center of the floor, while the Duluth boys threw several that hit the edge of the basket, circled the edge for an anxious moment, and then dropped out. However, Larry came across with the information that the Appleton team was about the strongest basket ball team in the entire West.

The boys were treated well and had the time of their lives. The games were played in the big, modern gymnasium of the University of Wisconsin. The interpretation of the rules was rather lax, according to Larry, which fact somewhat handicapped the Duluth players.

On the strength of the showing made at Madison, the Duluth players are the champions of Minnesota. Central is tied for third place at the tournament and made an exceptionally fine showing. The team has improved rapidly since early in the season, and today is the best high school team in the state.

The local Y. M. C. A. team, Blaine high school of Superior and the Superior normal will complete the schedule of the team. Blaine defeated Duluth by one point early in the season, but the members of the local high school team are confident that they will turn the tables upon the Superior team and win the game by a fair margin.

This belief is based upon the showing of the two teams at Madison, Duluth making much the better showing of the two teams.

SAILOR DEFEATS LINSLEY.

Hibbing, Minn., March 14.—Sailor Jack of Duluth defeated Henry Linsley here Saturday night. Linsley was much heavier than the Duluth man, but the latter possessed the more science and had the better of the match all the way through.

After forty-seven minutes of wrestling the Sailor threw Linsley into the audience, injuring his ankle and badly bruising him. Linsley was unable to continue and the match was awarded to the Duluth man.

It was the fastest and best match that has been seen here for years. Linsley stated that he would like another chance with the Duluth man and the Sailor stated he would take Linsley on at any convenient date.

Accept Challenge.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 14.—The Australasian association has accepted the challenge of the English Lawn Tennis association for the Dwight F. Davis international cup. The Australasians have decided to play out their preliminaries in time to permit of the finals being completed in December.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE)

At last there seems to be some sort of mild progress being made in the untanglement of the welterweight mixup, which is about as complicated and as positive as the meeting of a fly and a jug of molasses.

Just the other evening at Milwaukee, James Gardner put the blankets on James Clabby, another of those prides of Milwaukee, and is therefore entitled to be considered our leading exponent in the class that perches midway between the light and middleweight classes.

For some time Jimmy Gardner has been recognized as the near welterweight champion. Mike Twin Sullivan has upon several memorable occasions shoved the Gardner boy off the welterweight championship mountain peak, and, fresh from the besting of the Clabby person, though the win was scant, it is up to James Gardner to take on the Sullivan Twin and settle right here and now this dispute over the welter premiership.

For some reason this Sullivan harp has never been able to put James in a state bordering upon hors de combat, whatever that is. If James has trained faithfully and put a little more of the elixir of life into his efforts the next time he meets the Boston bald boy, he may yet become the one undisputed king of the welterweight division.

Sailor Jack clearly showed his class Saturday night by beating big Harry Linsley at Hibbing, a man who defeated Emil Peterson in two straight falls, and who was considered a very good wrestler. Linsley is a strong man, in addition to his ability as a wrestler, and his defeat by a man as small as the Duluth marine reflects credit upon the ability of the former Buffalo boy.

It is to be hoped that at last Duluth has found some sort of a champion. In his work the Sailor chap has showed that he is one of the cleverest little mat men that has ever been seen in these parts. He is willing to meet them all, and it is his ambition to meet Young Miller of St. Paul, the wonderful little welterweight champion, in a match that will determine decisively the ability of the Sailor.

If the marine defeats Dick Shepherd, the Pipestone crack, who gave Miller a great struggle in St. Paul, he will be in a position to take on the best in the welterweight division.

As to the mysterious "Mose Brown," he will probably be accommodated in due time. That his name is not "Mose Brown," however, is pretty nearly certain. He is probably some guy brought for the Sailor's scalp, and has been brought from the big towns and the white lights to the northern range, precisely for that purpose.

If the Duluth crack does go against the mysterious man, for the time being from Virginia, he will be prepared to meet a crack; for bushers, Cousin Jack, don't get people to plunge recklessly upon their chances against a man that is near the head of his class.

In Chicago there is excitement intense and of the breathless sort, all over the proposed finish wrestling match between Stecn Zbyszko and Yussiff Mahmout. There has been a $9,000 purse offered for this go, and Jack Herman, manager of the Pole, has stated that Poland's representative is ready, provided the purse is made 80 per cent to the winner.

The ultimatum upon the part of J. H., would lead careful readers to the suspicion that Brer Herman has an idea lodged in his crop, that Zby will just naturally toss the Bulgarian.

Another stipulation, as well as ultimatum, upon the part of Herman, is that the match be allowed to go to a finish, no matter if it continues until Old Sol makes an appearance in the sky-tinted East. Herman opines that the match may drag until the wee sma' hours, and that the longer time the watches register, the better will be the chances of the Pole. Therefore the stipulation regarding the all-night clause.

The winner will be matched to meet Champion Gotch in what will perhaps be the champion's last appearance upon the mat, if his recent statements are true. If Frank wins from the winner of the Mahmout-Zbyszko bout, surely there will be few more opponents for him to conquer, and like Jeffries, some few years ago, he might as well retire.

Larry Boyle, the dashing captain of the Central basket ball quint, has won an honor never before accorded to a Minnesota interscholastic basket ball player. He has been chosen for the all All-Western interscholastic team, an honor which was won only through the brilliant playing of the auburn-haired lad at the recent Madison tournament.

There are few greater all round high school athletes than Larry. He plays football and baseball, and besides is a crack hockey player. Then he has just demonstrated his ability in the basket ball line. They say that he even plays a corking good game of marbles.

He is of a family of athletes and he is destined to be one of the best of the brothers. He has won an honor that his brilliant playing at Madison warrants; which, by the way, is a good deal. The fact that he has gone ahead and overcome the handicap of the loss of one arm is proof of the spirit he possesses.

It is sometimes only when close together guys fall out that the truth becomes known. The other night at Kansas City Frank Gotch and "Doc" Roller came near having an impromptu mix in the confines of one of the dressing rooms of Convention hall. Friends, those ever convenient attributes to fame, stopped what threatened to be a vest pocket imitation of Mount Pelee upon another rampage.

It seems that in various parts of the country the genial doctor has been advertising himself at the expense of the champion. After throwing some opponent it has been the habit of the former college athlete to throw out his chest and tell the people that Gotch was the next big tree to fall; that Gotch was not getting any better, while he (Roller) was getting better with every match.

The heavy "ME" stuff got to the ears of Gotch, and at Kansas City he called Roller sharply and to the point. Words were exchanged and then came the threatened elimination of features.

If Roller gets Gotch into a deep and abiding peeve and meets him on the mat it will be some days before Dr. Benjamin Franklyn Roller, great athlete though he is, will enjoy the scenery and contemplates life with a serenity that comes with being at peace with the world.

The writer is in receipt of a letter from genial Michael J. Kelly of the St. Paul baseball team, in which Mike stated that he believes Sylvester Breen will stand a very good chance of landing a permanent berth with the Apostles the present season. We informed Mike of the possibilities of the boy, and when Kelly looked Breen over from the stand at Athletic park, he soon saw that the youngster had the makings of a great player.

Breen started off at a fast clip at the latter end of last season, and if he can strike a fast gait in the spring practice and maintain it, he will be one of the most promising third sackers in the A. A.

The boy is bright and has the best of habits. He never does the wrong thing at the wrong time, and that quality alone will recommend him to M. J. Kelly, who loatheth like the snake the bone-headed ball player.

Ketchel and Langford may hook up a couple of days before the big fight between Jeff and the other black mit man. There will be a large and joyous crowd at San Francisco several days before the large mill, and they being the kind of people who seldom read Ibsen or Sudermann or other of the deep stuff producers, will probably be looking for excitement of the concrete kind.

Knowing this, and noting carefully thereof, the men who pander to the amusement loving side of the people, have bethought themselves of the big stir that would be caused by the announcement of the meeting of Ketchel and stubby Sam.

If Ketchel can be induced into the ring with the black, the fight will probably be staged. That is, of course, if Langford beats Jim Flynn upon the glorious St. Patrick's day meeting.

KUEHNOW IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Duluth Magnate Believes Present Season Will Be Banner One.

John C. McGreevy and A. W. Kuehnow, who represented Duluth at the Red Wing meeting yesterday, returned today from the meeting. Both are enthusiastic over the prospects for the coming season.

"It should be the best baseball season this part of the country has ever enjoyed," said Mr. Kuehnow. "Every town is enthusiastic over the outlook, and as far as we can figure out, there is but little doubt that the 1910 season will reach the high water mark of baseball, in the towns of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

"Red Wing looks like a live, little town. It has a population of about 15,000 and every man and boy is enthusiastic, apparently, over the baseball outlook. We should have the best season we have ever enjoyed in Duluth. We will have faster baseball, more teams in the league, and some of the best players of other fast leagues in our ranks. In my opinion the Minnesota-Wisconsin league will be the fastest of any of the class D organizations the present season."

APPLETON WON FINAL GAME

Wisconsin School Carries Off First Honors at Madison Tournament.

Madison, Wis., March 14.—Outplaying their opponents at every stage of the game, Appleton high school won the Western championship at the closing event of the interscholastic basket ball tournament, defeating Sterling, Ill., 43 to 16, Saturday night.

The Wisconsin high school players put up a grand floor game and were also dead shots at the baskets. Sterling, while playing a hard game, was not in luck, missing several easy attempts.

As has been the case in all the games, Capt. Sylvester was the star, totalling twenty points for his team. Whalen was not far behind, shooting five baskets. Wynn was the Sterling star, playing an aggressive game and gathering four baskets. The score:

Appleton (43).		Sterling, Ill. (16).
Whalen	f	Wilger
Taylor	f	Wynn
I. Withuhnd	c	Real
Sylvester	g	Hill
E. Withuhnd	g	Rieger

Field baskets—Sylvester, 2; E. Withuhnd, 5; Taylor, 2; I. Withuhnd, 2; Rieger, 1. Free throws—Whalen, 3; Wynn, 2. Referee—Davies, Milwaukee. Umpire—Kadish, Milwaukee.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE.

Billy Beaulieu Answers Sailor and Agrees to Finish Wrestling Match.

Billy Beaulieu of Superior has accepted the challenge of Sailor Jack for a finish wrestling contest for a liberal side bet, and the contest will probably be staged before the Duluth Athletic club a week from the coming Friday. The sailor will take on Dick Shepperd Friday night, but after that match will be ready to take up the acceptance of the clever Superior man, who so handily defeated Ole Johnson in the preliminary to the Ordemann-Person match.

Beaulieu has defeated a number of wrestlers on the other side of the bay, most of them being heavier than he. He believes that he stands a very good chance of defeating a man who is pounds lighter than himself. On the other hand the Sailor is confident that he will have but little trouble in winning over Beaulieu.

LENGTHEN SCHEDULE

The Minny League Magnates Agree Upon 130-Game Season.

Salary Limit Is Fixed and Number of Players Limited.

Red Wing, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—After formally accepting the guarantees of Red Wing and Rochester as members of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, thus giving the representatives from those two towns votes upon the succeeding business of the meeting, officials and managers of the league got right down to business in the meeting held here yesterday.

A compromise was made on the much discussed attendance guarantee. Some of the smaller towns, such as Wausau, Eau Claire and La Crosse were in favor of reducing the guarantee from $50, the figure fixed at the preceding annual meeting of the league, to $35. A compromise of $40 was decided upon, and this amount will be paid, rain or shine.

The question of salary limit was taken up, and it was agreed that the salary limit of $1,300 a month for each club, should be rigidly enforced, and that each club should be allowed to carry only thirteen players.

A. W. Kuehnow of Duluth made a proposition that the 10 per cent clause, which compels each club to pay 10 per cent of each day's receipts into the treasury of the league, be abolished in favor of an amendment having each club pay a straight sum of $100 each month. Mr. Kuehnow suggested that this would be more fair to all the clubs concerned. The motion of Mr. Kuehnow was voted down.

It is believed that the schedule will open on May 7 and continue through until Sept. 11. This would give the league approximately 130 games for the season. If Duluth and Superior opened in the southern end of the circuit on the seventh of May, the clubs would reach home about May 22.

President John A. Elliott, A. W. Kuehnow of Duluth and Secretary C. B. Cheveral of Superior will act as a committee on the drafting of the schedule.

Every manager but Darby O'Brien was in attendance and several attempts were made to trade players. O'Dea of Superior was present and strenuously attempted to get Joe Killian to sell or trade Koepping, the player who was with Superior last season and who went to Sioux City from Superior, later going to Winona.

Killian could not hear O'Dea and the Superior manager was very much disappointed in his failure to land Koepping.

It was agreed that fines inflicted by umpires must be paid into the club and a receipt given before the player can play another game. If a visiting player is fined he must pay the fine to the home club. President Elliott was authorized to make rules covering the enforcement of penalties.

The following officials and club representatives were present: President John A. Elliott; W. J. Sommers, vice president; J. B. Fleming, secretary and treasurer.

H. D. Davis, president of the Eau Claire club; J. B. Fleming, director, and Thomas Schoonhooven, manager.

Robert Hochrit, secretary of the Wausau club, and Carl Bond, manager.

John Norton, president of the Rochester club; W. R. More, director, and Jack Corrigan, manager.

Henry J. Rooney, president of the La Crosse club; Charles Rawlinson, secretary, and Joe Safford, manager.

John Borth, president of the Winona club, and Joe Killian, manager.

W. J. Sommers, vice president of the Superior club; C. B. Cheveral, secretary, and Arthur O'Dea, manager.

John C. McGreevy, president of Duluth club, and A. W. Kuehnow, secretary and treasurer.

Dr. M. H. Cremer, president, Red Wing club; Thomas Considine, secretary, and Mike Mallory, manager.

OLDFIELD BEATS WORLD'S RECORD

Daytona, Fla., March 14.—Barney Oldfield, with his 200-horse power Benz, showed great form yesterday by driving a mile in 27 2-5 seconds, which is 4-5 second better than the world's record.

In the exhibition events Tuesday, which will supplant the old field day, Oldfield consented to go for the one and two-mile world's records. All records he makes then will be official.

The regular speed carnival dates with the original program will begin March 22 and continue for two days.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE QUINTET EASY WINNERS.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Agricultural college, playing superior ball, defeated the North Dakota university basketball team here Saturday evening before an audience of about 700 students of the two institutions. It was the second defeat for the university this year at the hands of the Aggies.

The game was a heart-breaker, the university having the score a tie with two minutes to play. The final count, 19 to 17, evidences the fact that the match was closely contested. Fouls were called repeatedly, the university securing a majority of its points in that manner. The agricultural college team was accompanied by about 100 rooters, and they chartered a special train.

SKI TOURNAMENT IS CALLED OFF.

A high wind prevented the holding of the ski contest yesterday. The wind was so strong that it was considered unsafe for the riders to attempt to jump, so the events were called off.

ROLLER SKATERS CHALLENGE

Cohen, Foster and Kendig of Twin Cities After Frank Bryant.

"Hi" Cohen of St. Paul, a roller skater, who has just returned from the Pacific coast, and who is here in search of a match with Frank Bryant, claimant of the Head of the Lakes roller skating championship, stated today that he would race the local man any distance from one to five miles.

Cohen was beaten by Bryant in a mile race earlier in the season, but claims unfamiliarity with the floor at Lincoln Park pavilion was responsible for the defeat.

He stated that he will work out a few days and will then be ready to post a side bet for a race. Bryant has a standing challenge with any skater in the Northwest, providing the race is skated in the Lincoln Park rink.

Foster, another roller speed merchant, who hails from Minneapolis, is also in town looking for a race with the champion. John Kendig, also a roller racer, is here on a similar mission, so there is quite a colony of the roller speeders sojourning at the Head of the Lakes at the present time.

"FOLLIES OF THE DAY."

Empire Circuit Burlesque Show Opens Engagement at the Lyceum.

"Follies of the Day," a burlesque show from the Western wheel of the Empire circuit, opened at the Lyceum yesterday.

It is one of the regular burlesque shows of the type that formerly played the Metropolitan, although since the Metropolitan closed, the Empire productions have improved. "Follies of the Day" is a good snappy burlesque, with little in it that would be objectionable even to the majority of the regular patrons of the Lyceum. Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, has been traveling with the company, but laid off one week. The company had no booking for this week, and Manager Pierce brought it to the Lyceum for the benefit of the former patrons of the Metropolitan. Two large houses enjoyed the performances last night and yesterday afternoon.

The burlesque on popular dramas by Gertrude Hayes and Larry McCabe was a clever feature. "Follies of the Day" will be repeated tonight.

The Stock Company.

The Franklin Stock company will open at the Lyceum next Thursday, March 17, presenting "For Home and Honor," a drama which deals with the career of Margaret Mordant, a trust-ing English girl who is led astray by an adventurer who takes her to America under pretense of marriage. She finally learns that he already has a wife and in desperation kills him and is placed on trial for her life but is acquitted and all ends well at last.

The popular price scale will be in effect for this engagement.

OSLER'S THEORY REFUTED.

Middle-Aged Fathers Have Given World Its Greatest Men.

London, March 14.—Do the qualities and capacities of children vary according to the age of the parents? Dr. Charles Reinhardt, author of "One Hundred and Twenty Years of Life," who raised this interesting question in a lecture on the prolongation of life, stated in an interview that the theory was based upon researches of the late Prof. Lombroso.

Following up these researches, he said, statistics had been obtained in Boston and other cities of the United States, and had been the subject of examination for the last eleven years. The conclusions so far obtained are as follows:

Great philosophers, philanthropists, poets and thinkers are generally found, on investigation, to be the product of fathers comparatively advanced in life and of not very youthful mothers.

Successful generals are usually the offsprings of fathers who are men of 40, generals being regarded in the light, not necessarily so much of fighters, as of great organizers and men of intellectual capacity.

Brave and daring deeds are found to be done for the most part by sons whose fathers—not so much the mothers—are youthful.

The children of very young parents are generally egotistic and selfish, and not very deep thinkers.

The explanation of the last of these theories is alleged to be, said Dr. Reinhardt, the age of the father.

On the general question of longevity, Dr. Reinhardt quoted the words of Confucius: "Until a man is 30 he is like the ivy or the vine, with no inherent strength: at 40 he is a bare tree; at 50 he puts forth leaves; at 70 fruit."

Prof. Osler's theory that a man's best work is done before he is 40 and that at 60 he should retire, is completely refuted.

MISS BLOODGOOD'S BODY IS DISCOVERED IN LAKE.

New York, March 14.—Clad only in the nightgown she wore when she disappeared, the body of Miss Helen Bloodgood has been found in Lake Carafalgo. Miss Bloodgood fled last Wednesday night from the cottage of Leslie R. Fort, son of Governor Fort of New Jersey, and it is supposed the girl ran barefoot through the woods to the lake half a mile away and threw herself into the water.

Miss Bloodgood had been here for two weeks under the care of physicians and two nurses. She suffered from disordered nerves.

She was a daughter of William Bloodgood of New York and an heiress to a large fortune.

MURDERS BOYS AND THEN KILLS HIMSELF.

New York, March 14.—Herman Moritz, a retired real estate dealer, 45 years old, and two sons, were found shot to death in their home in the Bronx. The father's body was in a hallway, the eldest son lay dead in a closet, while the younger boy was found in the cellar. A revolver lay beside the father's body. Moritz apparently was seized with a fit of despondency, to which neighbors say he was subject, killed both his boys, set a fire in the cellar, gave the alarm, then returned and shot himself through the head. The Moritzes were well-to-do. Mrs. Moritz was not at home.

SALE OF
NEW DULUTH LOTS

The New Duluth Company has decided that it will on the 21st day of March, 1910, place on sale between 350 and 400 lots in the First Division of its splendid Townsite of New Duluth, at prices ranging from $22.00 to $48.00 per front foot for business lots, and from $11.00 to $16.00 per front foot for residence lots.

This division of New Duluth is a table land, elevated about sixty feet above St. Louis river, which is near its southerly boundary, has a number of graded streets and sidewalks, has the advantages of schools and churches is beautifully situated for residences and homes, of which it already has a large number, and adjoins Manufacturers' Division, which doubtless will in the near future be the location of many manufactories.

Commonwealth avenue and Grand avenue are designed to be the business streets of New Duluth.

The proximity of New Duluth to the development work of the United States Steel Corporation and the Interstate Bridge, and to its new steel plant, which it is beginning to construct, insures a large population in New Duluth before the end of the present year. The New Duluth Company can therefore recommend investments in New Duluth property to all.

For the sale of lots herein proposed, The New Duluth Company will receive applications until March 21st, 1910, from parties desiring to purchase. The applicant should state the number of lots he desires to purchase. That each applicant may be treated impartially as to choice of lots offered, a plan to be followed will be adopted on the morning of March 21st, to determine the order of his turn to make selection of lots. To entitle each applicant to his choice of lots, he or his representative must appear on March 21st, and in his turn exercise his choice of the lots. Ten per cent of purchase price must be paid on the selection of lots March 21st; within thirty days thereafter 10 per cent additional is to be paid on the delivery of land contract in the usual form for the lots sold. The terms of payment for the balance shall be as follows: One-fifth of purchase price in six months, one-fifth in twelve months, one-fifth in eighteen months, one-fifth in twenty-four months after date of sale with 6 per cent interest on all deferred payments.

Title to all lots sold is to be good. All land contracts issued for lots sold at this sale shall provide that if the purchaser shall construct a building to cost not less than $1,000 on any business lot, and not less than $500 on any residence lot, within one year from date of sale, that one-fifth of the purchase price of said lot represented by the installment maturing next after the completion of such building, shall be cancelled as an inducement for improving the property; providing the lot is free from liens or claims, which might jeopardize the company's security thereon for the balance of the purchase price.

A list of prices for all lots to be offered at this sale, and maps showing the location of the lots and their proximity to the New Steel Plant can be secured on application by mail or otherwise to

CONCERNING WOMAN.

A scant two weeks remain until Easter, and what is two weeks in the effort to get something to wear. It's nothing, absolutely nothing, as any woman can tell you. The merchants are doing their best to lighten the woes and labors of womankind and also the father's purse, and along Superior street every store window is bursting into bloom. And, too, the devout ones are, contrary to the mandates of scripture, taking thought of what they shall wear tomorrow.

Taking thought! Dear land, can those hours of anguished torture be even suggested in the common-place phrase, "Taking thought." But the windows blazen the fact to a heartily interested world, that spring is here and the styles have arrived, and all of vanity fair is finding time between arduous duties and devout attendance at church, to find out just what "they" are going to wear.

The chantecler is crowing for attention. Press reports bring notice of the chantecler gown. The hats have become almost common by the wholesale attention they have already received. The cartoonists have come forward as one man to the rallying support of the chantecler hat. Every one is already more or less familiar with the cartoonist's idea of the hat, but it differs somewhat from the milliner's. They vary, do the chantecler hats, and one that was rather smart looking, had a hen ambitiously, but ineffectually, trying, with outstretched wing to cover a large sailor hat, the rim of which had a border of chantecler red. Other designs had wings and tail feathers.

Colors are known as "Chantecler." There is chantecler red and chantecler brown, any anyone who has ever been a little neighbor to the chickens will get a line on those colors at once.

Then, too, there is the chantecler strut, which is the very latest in modes of walking. But that is clearly impossible to describe.

Now to the chantecler dress, which has appeared in New York, and which has been widely described.

The gown shown was of red satin—"chantecler shade"—with an overdress of black lace. The lace has a wide border composed of strutting roosters around the bottom. And the rooster design in the lace appeared appliqued on a white girdle of the "Chantecler shade" around the corsage. The chantecler red is similar in shade to the comb of the barnyard cock.

The spring openings are as inevitable in the spring as was sulphur and molasses in the days of those ling-suffering people who were the grandmothers of the present generation, and hats somehow or other receive the largest share of attention. Period hats they are calling them, and some of the quaint irrisistible things are far removed in spirit from the strident age and the self-sufficient and fair-minded person who asks for a vote, as anything you could imagine. But the girl of 1910 will adjust the poke bonnet to effect at its most killing angle and look like a sweet little picture out of an old print, and will calmly sit down and pour forth statistics that will prove—anything she wants it to.

The hats are called the Aeroplane, the Marie Antoinette, Louis XIV and Louis XVI, the Marquis, Charlotte Corday and the adorable sort of 1830 and 1850, that look as if they had come out of that eminently respectable periodical, Godey's Ladies' Book. But in a very short time every woman will know the vagaries of fashion for herself.

The shops and milliners are not the only ones preparing for Easter. The florist is nursing his blooms with wonderful care. Strange as it may appear, the Easter lily does not know instinctively when Easter will arrive. Nature is wonderful, but it doesn't keep tract of the date of Easter and send forth its lilies to beautify the world at that glorious morn. But the florist sees to it. and forward little lilies are set back in their proper places. Even, he goes to such extremes as to put the potential beautiful white things in cold storage, and if even they they show a tendency to blossom before the forty days of Lent is by, the florist puts a night cap on them. And then close to the Saturday before Easter the lilies that have been kept from blooming are placed in a temperature of 80 degs. and Nature helps out and suddenly there is one glorious burst of pure and fragrant bloom.

The merchants have no such qualms of conscience, and nearly every store along Superior street is blossoming forth in spring array right now.

DULUTH WOMEN.

Give Their Views on the Suffrage Question.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press, interested in securing a symposium of the opinions of Minnesota women in regard to the suffrage question, has quoted a number of Duluth women whose views will be of interest here. Yesterday's Pioneer Press says:

"The women of Duluth were mildly interested in the indorsement of the suffrage movement by the editorial convention at Minneapolis, and by the development and reapportionment convention at Minneapolis, and by the development and reapportionment convention at Bemidji. The women who are enthusiastic in their support of the movement accept the indorsements as a matter of course, as of something which was entirely proper and to be expected. Those women not active in the suffrage movement are pleased with the indorsements, as they would be with any movement for the advancement of women, or giving promise of such results.

"Personally," said Mrs. J. D. Morrison, president of the Twentieth Century club of Duluth, "I am not greatly in sympathy with the woman's suffrage movement. If it were in effect it is possible it might tend to purify some things in politics, but there is more to be considered. I fear women may find politics demoralizing and in time the ideals they cherish now may be destroyed. I am convinced women can obtain better and more effective results in the direction of advancement of their sex through the organizations they now have than by exercising the ballot."

"Mrs. S. R. Holden, former president of the Duluth children's home, says:

"The woman's suffrage movement is a matter to which I have given little attention. The women of this city generally, judging from quite a large number I have talked with on the subject, are much pleased by the indorsements by the editorial and the Bemidji conventions of the suffrage movement. I believe the day will come when the women of this country will be placed on an even footing with men in the exercise of the ballot.'

"Mrs. Henry Taylor says: 'Woman's suffrage is inevitable. How soon it will be realized in all the states of the Union I have no means of estimating, but it is sure to come.'

"Mrs. E. A. Separk, president of the Third Circle of the Endion M. E. church, says: 'I have never given the woman's suffrage movement earnest attention, but in a vague sort of way I have always believed the day will come when women will exercise the ballot on an equal footing with men. I am in sympathy with the movement, and I think the indorsements by the editorial convention at Minneapolis and by the convention at Bemidji of the suffrage cause are of much importance. I think the women should not be hasty in arriving at conclusions, and not act upon impulse. There is much to be said on both sides of the movement, and it is of so much importance it should be given impartial and earnest consideration in order that no mistakes shall be made.'

"Mrs. W. C. Agnew, former president of the Y. W. C. A. of Duluth, says: 'The woman's suffrage movement has never appealed to me very strongly. I doubt if it is practicable. While I am not opposed to the movement, I am deeply interested in the general advancement of women. I have never thought of the ballot in connection with the advancement of women.'"

AMERICAN TENOR IN GRAND OPERA

ORVILLE HARROLD.

The first American tenor who promises to take his place among the singers of the world's operatic stage, made his debut at the Manhattan opera house, on Feb. 19, as Canio in "Pagliacci," scoring an immediate and tremendous success. Orville Harrold, who was born in Muncie, Ind., is only 22 years old, but notwithstanding his youth, knows already how to use a voice that is more than lovely. It is really beautiful, with a remarkably clear free rich upper register. He is another discovery of the wizard of grand opera, Oscar Hammerstein, who found him in a vaudeville quartet, had him trained and sent him in a concert tour with Mme. Tetrazzini. Mr. Hammerstein has engaged him for a number of years and will send him to Paris this spring to acquire a repertory under Jean de Reszke.

PICTURESQUE STYLES.

Some Are Copied Entire From Old Prints.

Fashion has changed its tailored suits in a jiffy. The doom of the long coat has been sounded. Every one of the big shops is in league to accomplish this, and shoppers are walking models. The new coat has a peplum, or is cut away in little wing-like skirts. It is banded at the belt line and it as smart as smart can be.

Then there are the new colors. Not quite so gay it seems as last season, but chantecler red, a lovely Easter green, a rich turquoise and a lovely amethyst. Great buttons are worn, many buckles and a mixture of mock gems had metals. The new trotteur suits are trimmed with large flat buttons of shaded horn, the little skirts of the coats not reaching below the hips.

Skirts are short and straight. It plaited the plaits take long lines, and the general effect is both chic and practical. The sleeves are snug and mannish and no note of trimming or bizarre novelty mars simplicity.

Machine embroidery is not scorned. Fully half the costumes shown in the State street establishments have embroidery done by the machine, or braiding which has been put on in this manner to be able to b ring prices within range of the wearer. Coats, skirts and underwear all enjoy this good, style of trimmings. On the counters quantities of applique materials are sold ready to be applied, and a plain well-tailored suit is made dressy by this means.

Hats, it is fair to report, are both large and small. The new turban looks like a "hot-cross bun," a near relative to Tommy Atkins' red top piece. These convenient small hats are most practical as well as smart, and many are worn.

The new suitings promise us coats of many colors and trotteur frocks of rainbow hues. The two-toned effects that appeared first with the taffeta changeants of last year have crept into the tweeds and homespuns, says the pelinecator for March. Many of the wool materials have rough surfaces and loose weaves of soft, heavy threads—oatmeal cloths, canvas cloths and hop sackings most of them are called.

They are extremely swagger-looking and suggest all manner of good-looking tailored suits. The colors are light and undefined. Very frequently the warp threads are of one color and the wool threads of another, so that the material shifts and shades from one tone into something quite different. For the most part they are light.

"The tans range from putty color to chamois and go no further. The greens are olive, lizard and sweet grass. The heliotropes and violets are very soft and subdued. The rose shades are practically dead, and in their place we have amber, gold and butter color. Blues are always good, but this year they are even better than usual, especially in the lighter shades of Gobelin, Beauvais and Delft."

So great is the liberty in costume that many have been copied from old prints. In fact a modiste has given the information that the majority of costumes to be seen at the art institute this month at the portrait show will be reproductions of the quaint robes and colors favored by Arlent Edwards in his color prints, says the Chicago Post. Probably tonight the advance ideas of spring will be as much of a picture pageant in the corridors as the portrait gallery is on the walls.

A striking feature is the return of the lace undersleeve. Gloves are being cast aside for indoor functions, and the fall of lace and embroidery over ring-adorned fingers is a pretty aftermath to the over-glowing of the winter. Undersleeves are a favorite bit of home needlework.

While the big department store begs for a return to silk petticoats and the windows are full of them, the packing boxes are filled with the divided skirts which have developed from the Turkish trouser. Most sensible are these in soft silks fastened about the ankle with a rubber band or a narrow ribbon tied with a bow knot. The knee length is offered, but the ankle length just above the neat slipper or pump is the latest model.

The children will like sandwiches which are spread with fig paste and sprinkled with ground peanuts. The figs are boiled until they can be mashed into a paste and are then seasoned lightly with lemon juice.

THE EVENING STORY

FOR THE SAKE OF WINNING

By Charles S. Reid.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Rembrant was passionately in love with Mlle. Felice Danglers; and it was on her account that he had accepted an invitation to accompany her brother in the balloon race from Paris to D——.

"The chances are good, of course," she answered. "But, you know, victory is not absolutely certain."

"Will it be so great a matter if he should not win?"

"Yes. I fear defeat will mean one of two things for my brother, insanity or physical collapse, so completely is he absorbed in the work."

"Surely, your fears must be extravagant."

"I wish I might feel they were."

"Oh, never fear; he will win the race."

"Yes, M. Rembrant, he must win!" Mlle. Felice's beautiful eyes glowed.

There were four contestants in the race. Among them was one Alfretti, an Italian merchant, whom, alone, Danglers seemed to fear, and this fear arose from a want of knowledge of the other's skill. The start was made without accident; and as the car of Dangler's balloon leaped into the air, Rembrant waved a farewell to Mlle. Felice, as she sat some distance away.

The four balloons rose gracefully together and for half an hour their relative positions remained unchanged.

During this time, the Duc de Lasalle and M. de Sassure had dropped far behind, and it became clear that they were out of the race. But the Italian Alfretti was constantly showing his opponent the shadow of his heels, only to be overhauled the next moment by Danglers, who by this time began to show considerable excitement. His lips were tightly compressed, his breath occasionally was labored, and his eyes seemed to roll in a feverish fire.

Rembrant was watching the balloonist closely for the first signs of that insanity which the sister feared might result in case of defeat in the race; and it became evident to Rembrant that the nerve centers of his companion were even now suffering a terrible strain.

The race was drawing to a close, and it was evident that a few more strides of this kind would win the race for the Italian. Rembrant watched the aeronaut's face, but the impulsive movements of the latter suddenly had changed to deliberate ones, and he looked at his two remaining sand bags in a thoughtful manner.

Presently, Danglers pounced upon one of the sand bags and heaved it overboard.

"M. Rembrant," he said, turning sharply, "have you kept count of the bags Alfretti has thrown over?"

"I had not thought of it being necessary. But now I should like to know his resources. He manages well."

The balloon was mounting swiftly, after being relieved of the weight of the sand bag, the rival balloon being left in a lower current, but still ahead. Danglers' machine now made a new rapid strides which carried it far in advance, and the man's eyes glittered with satisfaction.

But these relative positions did not long remain unchanged. Alfretti's machine fairly leaped into the air and once more moved ahead in the race. "Mon Dieu!" exclaimed Danglers, "how he tilts!"

The last remaining ballast bag was thrown overboard, and the car shot upward. They were now within a few leagues of the goal, and every foot counted for something. The two balloons were sailing almost abreast, though the Italian held an elevation a little above that of Danglers.

The tug of war had come. Alfretti was seen to be looking ahead, as a steersman who carries his boat well, and knows it. Rembrant occasionally glanced at the rival balloon, but kept his gaze more steadily upon Danglers whose excitement now seemed straining every nerve in his body.

Presently, the turrets of D— came into view in the distance, and Danglers started backward with clinched fingers, his gaze rivetted on the rival balloon, for it had moved steadily forward.

Danglers searched for some article of ballast that might be thrown overboard. But the floor was bare—and the man's eyes fastened their gaze upon Rembrant, and there was a light of childish glee in them.

"Ha, I shall win yet!" he exclaimed; and Rembrant understood the meaning of the words.

Danglers was a maniac, his strength would be powerful, and Rembrant shuddered at the thought of the imminent struggle with this madman who meant to cast him overboard merely to lighten his car.

The distance between the two balloons was slowly increasing in Alfretti's favor, and Danglers' feverish eye saw the situation. Again he turned upon Rembrant.

"Will you leap? or shall I be compelled to use force?" he exclaimed.

"M. Danglers, you are beside yourself," was the reply. "Let me argue the uselessness of such a course—"

"Ha, there is no argument. What care I for the technicalities—I must be in at the goal first, do you understand?"

Meanwhile, Danglers had not withdrawn his gaze from Rembrant's face, but had taken a step toward him.

"I'm growing impatient, M. Rembrant," he said presently. "And why hesitate? It is all one to you, for do not doubt that my strength will prevail."

"And how," began Rembrant, "will you account to the authorities for this crime?"

He was seeking to gain time, and the madman's keen insight readily divined his purpose. Danglers smiled. It was a ghastly smile that caused shivers to pass through the strong frame of Rembrant.

"Who is there to say it was not aeronoblia?" he said; and he dragged a creeping step forward, as if the question were settled.

The American braced himself against the side of the car; and he realized the meagerness of his chances.

"Will you leap?" hissed Danglers almost in the other's ear.

"I will not," came the answer.

Instantly, the madman sprang toward his intended victim. But Rembrant had leaped aside. And he now seized the rope leading to the gas valve in the top of the balloon and dragged it downward.

Danglers had turned; and when he saw this, he was for a moment rigid with rage. In that moment Rembrant took the opportunity to give vent to all the gas that might escape—and the car seemed almost to drop from their feet.

But Danglers was upon him in another moment, and a terrible struggle between desperation and madness ensued. And, while the strength of Danglers was not to be matched, athletic science came to the aid of the American. The madman found his task one of no easy accomplishment.

Once, Rembrant was on the shoulder of his antagonist, and the latter had sprung to the edge of the car. But by mighty effort the American managed to hurl himself into the air and back over the head of the aeronaut, when the struggle was instantly begun again. Danglers seemed never to tire, while Rembrant felt his gasps for breath growing shorter, and he realized that the end must be.

But he managed to keep clear of the madman's grasp for some time by his superior activity, although the other's alertness was marvelous.

At last, Rembrant became so much exhausted he seemed hardly able to stand, and once again he was raised to the shoulder of his antagonist who a second time staggered with him toward the edge of the car. It was an intense moment for the American—he realized that he was powerless now to save himself. Involuntarily, he glanced upward once before closing his eyes to the destruction that seemed to await him. The sky into which he looked was clear and blue. But in the instant a dark object had appeared far away above him against the background of blue.

The sight gave Rembrant a newer lease of life, for by a powerful and sudden effort he once threw himself loose from the grasp of Danglers. Landing upon his feet in the car he seized his companion by the arm and pointed upwards.

"Look, M. Danglers," he cried; "you have won the race!"

And it was so. When Rembrant opened the gas valve, the balloon had dropped into a strong breeze that was blowing in towards the goal not more than 200 feet above the ground; and they were now passing over the turrets of D——.

Danglers glanced upward, then leaped to the edge of the car and looked over. In another instant he had the valve rope in his hand; and the balloon was soon brought to rest on the field which had been designated as the goal.

During their passage back to Paris by train Danglers turned to Rembrant.

"What are your feelings toward me, M. Rembrant?" he asked, all traces of the madman having disappeared.

"Friendly, M. Danglers," answered Rembrant.

"Thank you. You have a generous nature, M. Rembrant; and remember, I count myself your everlasting debtor."

"Not at all. But I am glad you won the race, primarily because Mademoiselle Felice wished it so heartily."

"Ah, Felice. Then you are interested in her wishes?"

"Indeed. Who could know her and not be?"

"I shall commend you to my sister."

When Rembrant next called upon Felice, Danglers came in.

"Felice," he said, "I owe M. Rembrant an enormous debt of gratitude, a debt that cannot be paid in cash. Perhaps you can cancel my obligation?"

"M. Danglers overestimates the situation," said Rembrant, after the brother had departed. "But since he has transfered the obligation to you, Mademoiselle Danglers, I shall expect the full debt."

"And what may that be, as I am anxious to pay, if the terms are within my power?"

"Entirely so. Your hand, Felice."

Rembrant had drawn quite near and was stealing an arm about her waist.

"The terms are quite easy and agreeable," she said, and gave him the hand he coveted.

TAKE CASH AND PAPERS

Thieves Enter Office of the Water Board at West Duluth.

Get Away With $80, Property of the Office Superintendent.

Unknown thieves broke into the branch office of the water and light department, Ramsey street and Northern Pacific right-of-way, late Saturday night, and took from a safe $80 in cash and a number of valuable papers, all the personal property of Daniel Keefe, who is superintendent of the West Duluth office of the water board. The police have no trace of the thieves.

The building which was entered stands in an inclosure at the rear of Wade's hardware store, Central avenue and Ramsey street, on the city lots, which are also used by the board of public works. Another small building, used for storing tools, was also entered but nothing of any value was taken. Entrance to the water and light office was effected by means of a skeleton key, which was used to unlock the rear door.

The safe had been left unlocked by Mr. Keefe, but one of the cash drawers which contained the money and valuable papers, such as deeds, mortgages, etc., had been locked. A small iron bar, which was left by the marauders on the floor, had evidently been used by the robbers in prying open the cash drawer. The drawer and the contents were taken.

One or two of the other drawers in the safe were pulled out but the contents were not disturbed. A desk which stood in the room was locked and apparently no effort had been made to open it. On the floor beside the safe, there lay a small iron bar, an old case knife and a large and small screw driver. The tools had all been taken from a rear room in the water office. The discovery of the theft was reported to the police early today, when Mr. Keefe went to his office.

The police are satisfied that the robbery occurred Saturday night. Yesterday forenoon, Joseph Beck, street commissioner, passed the water office and noticing the door ajar shut it without looking in. He told the police that he thought at the time that Mr. Keefe had probably neglected to lock it Saturday night after work.

In the other building, used by the street commissioner, the desk was opened and from it were taken two packages of tobacco and a couple of keys. This building is used as a tool-room for the street commissioner and the board of public works. The rear door had been forced open, it being secured only by a small hook, which fastened on the inside. The front door had been locked.

The police have a good description of the papers and money taken and are working on the case today. They are of the opinion that the parties wanted are familiar with the affairs at the water board office and perhaps knew that Mr. Keefe had been in the habit of leaving the safe unlocked.

BAD CHECKS ARE PASSED

Several West Duluth Business Men Victims of Clever Forger.

Bogus checks have been passed on a number of West Duluth business men by a clever swindler for whom the West Duluth police are now looking. Four of the checks were returned as worthless Saturday and the matter was afterwards reported to the police.

The victims of the swindle are: A. Carlson, Pete Deloyia, Pete Smith and Yukosav & Mikish, saloon keepers on Raleigh street. They range from $11 to $14 and aggregate about $50.

Although the checks are drawn under different names, there is a similarity in the writing that would indicate that the forger in each case was the same person. Some of the names that he uses are: O. M. Holmberg, John E. Nelson, Frank E. Berg and George E. Smith.

The checks were dated March 3 and were drawn on the American Exchange National Bank of Duluth.

THE FOLLY OF WORRYING

More Worry Means Less Work, Says West Duluth Pastor.

Rev. D. G. Cole, preached before the congregation of the Union Peoples' church last evening on "Surmounting Obstacles," from the text: "And they said among themselves, 'who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulcher?' And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away; for it was very great."

The chaplain said in part: "Three faithful friends of Jesus are on their way to His tomb with sweet spices for His embalming. A great stone closed the doorway of the sepulcher. Their gloom increased when they realized that their hands could not remove it. 'Who shall roll us away the stone?' Worried and perplexed they saw an apparently insurmountable obstacle and thought it a genuine cause for worry.

Depressed and filled with forebodings, with heavy hearts and worried brains they gave rise to the exclamation: 'Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulcher?' And when they looked,' says the Word, 'they saw that the stone was rolled away.

"The story illustrates what passes in innumerable minds over vastly less important matters. The human mind seems fond of worry. It is as wide as the universe and an age-old disease. Some one says: 'It blasts our hopes, blights our happiness, casts its hideous shadow across our pleasures, destroys our sleep, mars our health and keeps us in misery most of our lives.' Do not worry, does not mean, stop thinking and planning. One should make careful preparation for the future. Regard your life as a career to be thought out, planned for, —all to culminate in some noble and desirable end. A normal mind simply must look ahead. Preparation should be made for that which may be reasonably expected to come about. Plan for that which you desire to accomplish.

"But a troubled mind cannot think clearly, vigorously or logically. If the brain cells are clogged with the muddy waters of worry, the attention cannot be concentrated with the desired force. When fed by pure blood, the mind becomes clear and active. Thought concentrates the powers; worry dissipates them. Healthy thoughts look for success; worry expects failure.

"Today's calamity may be but the storm cloud of tomorrow's prosperity and happiness that shall burst in life-giving flood upon the tired souls of men. To guard against the worry of life, remember the providences of God. He is infinite and though you are nevertheless a part of the divine plan that shall evolve in the ultimate fitness and harmony of things. 'God's in His heaven.' All's right with the world.'"

Caricaturing Cardinal Newman.

A friend asked me purposely down to stay in Birmingham, says "Spy" in the Strand, to make a caricature of the late Cardinal Newman. At Euston Station, on my way, whom should I see on the platform but the old cardinal himself. He went into the refreshment room; I did the same. He ordered a plate of soup; I followed suit. He sat down at a small table; I took a seat opposite to him and got a good stare. But not content, as I wanted to see him in conversation, I went down to Birmingham and next day called at the Oratory and asked to see the "Father." To my alarm a priest suddenly came forward, and—"Did I wish to consult his eminence? If so, he would try to procure me an audience!" Here was a dilemma, and no mistake. I could not say I had come to caricature the old gentleman. The priest left me to make inquiries and I seized the opportunity and fled. I wonder if they counted the spoons afterwards?

SYSTEM IN BUTCHERS' MEAT.

The Meat Parlors Have a New Clerk and New Method.

New York Sun: Time was when the business colleges fulfilled their appointed functions when they turned out more or less competent stenographers and typewriters and practitioners of the mysterious art of keeping books. That did well enough for a bygone age. Now clerks are clerks no longer; they are office assistants with enlarged methods of doing the same old things, with equal enlargement of their own idea of their own importance.

It develops out of the new methods and the new appliances to set the new methods in operation. From the great corporations down to the most modest business establishments it's all loose leaf, form letter, follow up.

A purchaser is swallowed up in one line of business system; he is followed up with all manner of inducements to come back to buy some more. A shopper, one who merely prices things as he looks around, is not negligible in the new era of business because he merely shops; another line of the business system catches him as a prospective customer and files him as a "prospect" to be bombarded with every sort of inducement to become a buyer.

The business schools are turning out so many of this newer type of office assistant, highly specialized in the arts of modern commerce, that the graduates are glad to take any sort of place, even of the more humble sort. Thus it is that in the commerce which concerns itself with the more intimate domestic needs, the butcher, the grocer, the fishmonger, even the candlestick maker, if the lamp of the metallic filament has not wholly replaced him, the trained office assistant has begun to replace the random clerk.

With the new assistant the new method system at last in the commerce of houschold needs.

A first experience with the new condition of such affairs is gleefully reported by a housewife, who yet retains an interest in the Martha cares. She was called to the telephone to be engaged with a voice which while feminine was strictly business.

"This is Schmidtlap's meat parlors; yes'm, the butcher shop where you trade. We note that you had a joint for Sunday. Then on Tuesday you had us cut you a sirloin and pick you out a chicken."

"But I don't quite comprehend," said Mme. Housewife.

"Oh, we always do that with our regular customers, follow them up, you know. Now this is Thursday, and I presume you will have fish tomorrow. But for today's dinner? How would a small order of sweetbreads do? Benchman advises me that I may offer some that are prime and tender, not for everybody, but for such a good customer."

It took the housewife's breath away to have her marketing thus automatically accomplished, to be practically passive in the conduct of her domesticity. But to follow up one person was by no means at the end of her office system, more was to follow.

"And Mr. Schmidtlap," she continued into the housewifely ear, "hopes that you found the bird tender. He asked me to select as good a bird as I should for myself. Of course, tomorrow we shall not expect to handle your business. Friday, you know; but may I not book now your order for Saturday for a Sunday joint? That will afford me the opportunity to select a really creditable piece of meat, satisfactory to you. Thank you so much for your order. Good-by."

"After this," said Mme. Housewife, "I had to sit down to catch my breath and recover from this mad whirl of the retail meat trade. Hereafter I shall have the warmest sympathy with the poor men who plunge beyond their means when they are drawn by the lure of investment securities downtown. What a magnificent system."

LIBEL RISKS CARTOONISTS RUN.

I have been very near libel actions, says Cartoonist "Spy" in the Strand, and one man actually threatened me with a warm article in a newspaper in return for a caricature I had done of him. Of course, I am not universally beloved. I remember caricaturing a certain army officer. He had enormous ears, and in other respects resembled the conventional low comedy British colonel—very dapper, and with very short legs. He came to the studio and there prefaced the sitting with the remark that he didn't mind the caricatures one bit. But he altered his tune when I had finished with him. "Oh, no, no!" he exclaimed, on examining the portrait. "I didn't come here to be made a pygmy of. I don't mind genuine caricature, but, hang it! this is an insult to the queen's uniform. Look at the legs you've given me. They're much too short."

Well to pacify him I added a piece to each of his legs, but even then he wasn't satisfied.

"Can't you cut a bit off my ears?" he said.

This last remark exhausted my patience, and I told him straight that I didn't invite him to my studio to teach me my profession. With this parting shot from me he vanished, and I afterward learned that the little man took the trouble to visit the lithographers and implore them to reduce the size of his ears in the cartoon.

The Child and the Camera.

Louis Langlier in the Strand: Of all the formidable weapons, implements and objects calculated to intimidate childhood and rob it of its charm I think the camera, in the hands of a maladroit operator, deserves the leading place. Instead of catching and immortalizing the "light that never was on sea or land," it instantly extinguishes it. The happy expression, the innocent look, the artless pose, the unconscious smile, all vanish, and in their stead come stupidity, dullness and a vacant unreality. The soul of the child has fled for refuge to its inner fastnesses, and all that the photographic plate (not more sensitive than the little creature before it) records is the lifeless and unattractive exterior. Take up at random a dozen photographs of children a few years ago, before the picturing of children was studied as an art by photographers. What could anyone expect from the methods then employed? Who shall describe the terrible sufferings generations of infants then underwent at the hands of the operator of the camera? Who shall narrate the sufferings of the operator himself? He was not content to rely wholly upon his camera for frightening the trembling or perverse mite before him; he boasted a whole arsenal of "properties" and such a fund of "patter" as no nursery in the land had ever heard before.

Still, with all the conditions favorable, the result may not please. A picture has been made—a composition attractive to those who do not know the little sitter—but still there is something absent, and that something is the most essential thing of all. It is the soul of the child. It is not in pose or gesture; no grimace can express it. It is the art of treating the infant sitter as you treat grown-ups, the art of making it serene, of making it wholly unconscious of the camera. This, in my opinion, is the triumph of the photographer. It is more glorious than photographing landscapes or waterscapes, or even of portraying those adept sitters, the favorites of the footlights. It is a hard art—this of "stalking" the inner consciousness of babyhood. With all their distracting volatility they have their moments of celestial, cherubic calm which speak to us of things which are amongst the most beautiful in life.

A NAIVE CRITIQUE.

Channing Pollock, the able dramatist, has amazed America with the declaration that Eugene Walter's "Easiest Way" is a better play than "Hamlet."

Discussing this declaration in Washington, Mr. Pollock said to a reporter:

"I mean that in construction Walter's play is better than Shakespeare's. It should naturally be better, after so many hundred years of construction—the same as vehicles of locomotion are better. Of course, in profundity of thought, it is not, if Mr. Walter will pardon me, quite so good."

Mr. Pollock smiled.

"Shakespeare," he said, "was weak on construction. When I try to admire his plays as plays, I am, like Mrs. Beecher Stowe's gardener.

"Mrs. Beecher Stowe was walking in a garden with a friend. An aged gardener was at work among some roses. The ladies watched him for a time. Then Mrs. Beecher Stowe said to him suddenly:

"'My man, did you ever read "Uncle Tom's Cabin?"'

"The old gardener didn't want to hurt the famous novelist's feelings, and at the same time he didn't want to appear an ignoramus. He stammered:

"'Well, no, not exactly, ma'am. I've as you might say "read it;" but I've tried to, ma'am.'"

BASEBALL "COME BACKS"

Great National Game Furnishes Many Examples of All-in Athletes Coming Back.

Moore and Morgan Are Cases Where Ball Players Showed New Form.

(By Billy Evans.)

Can the star ball player, almost ready to join the down and out club, show a sudden reversal of form, and in a short time win back his place as a stellar attraction?

Is baseball it's the ambition of every amateur and minor leaguer to win a berth in either of the big leagues. It's the greatest honor that can be conferred on a diamond hero.

In pugilistic circles it's the one desire of every fighter to be able at some time during his career to write the word champion in front of his name.

In any branch of athletics, the progressive chap always seeks to win the highest honors that can be attained. It he has the spirit that wins he never gives up until he reigns supreme.

A regular place on a big league team is the same to the ball player as the title champion is to the fighter, especially if he happens to be recognized as a leader at his position. The strain that any man must undergo to hold his berth in the majors, or his title of pugilistic champion is a severe one, and sooner or later it will assert itself. There comes a time in the career of every athlete when it seems as if he starts going back instead of getting better.

It's the history of sportdom that the percentage of come backs is greatly in the minority. It is also true that more men labeled all in as ball players come back to old time form, than in any other branch of athletics. Figilists who have received their "knock-out" route rarely regain the confidence and class that made them championship contenders. After being once beaten and shoved into the ranks of the ranks of the also rans, few athletes are able to win back the honors and title that made them famous.

If there is any exception to the rule that athletes cannot come back after repeated reverses, baseball offers it. A perusal of the averages of the National and American league for 1909 discloses this fact.

Moore Sent to the Minors.

Several years ago while a member of the Cleveland club, Earl Moore, then regarded as one of the best pitchers in the American league, suffered an injury to his left foot. Moore, while playing the infield one day in practice, was struck on the instep by a swiftly batted ball. At the time little attention was paid to the injury, but later it became so serious that some of the country's most noted specialists were called to attend him. The injury caused Moore to become almost flat footed, and so weakened the member that he was unable to throw any weight on the left foot when delivering the ball.

Naturally because of the weakened condition of the left foot, Moore was unable to take the long stride that he usually did when sending the ball to the batter, it interfered greatly with his speed, and because he was compelled to practically change his entire style of pitching, he lost control of the ball.

For over a year Moore tried every known remedy and appliance that might strengthen the weakened instep, and apparently all in vain. It was not long before everyone was pronouncing Moore as all in, down and out. Some critics were very uncertain as to whether or not Earl would be able to deliver in the minors. Evidently the Cleveland club entertained a like opinion, for Moore was disposed of to the New York Americans in exchange for Walter Clarkson. After a brief trial with New York Moore was ticketed to a minor league booth in the Eastern league.

Moore Came Back Strong.

The once famous twirler was surely on the toboggan, and it was up to him to deliver or keep on sliding. Evidently it was just the opportunity he had been waiting for. Strength returned to his foot, he began to deliver the ball in the style that made him a terror to American league batsmen, and in a short time had dumped enough sand on the toboggan to stop any further movement toward the bottom. With a club that finished near last Moore averaged better than .500 and fanned better than six men per game.

Manager Billy Murray of the Philadelphia National league team decided that Moore had come back, and before the close of the Eastern league season he had purchased his release from the Jersey City club. It didn't take Moore long to convince everybody that he had come back, the National league batsmen in particular. Last year Moore won eighteen out of thirty games for the Philadelphia team, a percentage considerably better than that attained by the club he represented.

Not so many years ago Charley Street was given a chance by the Cincinnati club of the National league to demonstrate his ability as a catcher. For some reason or other Street failed to impress the manager of the Cincinnati club and he was handed his knock out in the shape of a release without any strings attached. Street recovered soon after the count of ten had sounded, and in a few short years worked himself back to the American league for a trial. He joined the Washington club and inside of a few weeks demonstrated beyond a doubt that he was real big league stuff, and has kept on delivering ever since. Today he is reckoned as one of the very best catchers in the American league. Street came back with a vengeance.

Morgan Has Unique Career.

Perhaps no player has had a more unique career than Cy Morgan, now a member of the Philadelphia Americans. Up until two years ago Morgan was the property of the St. Louis American league club. For three years previous Morgan's name always appeared on the roster of the Brown's team. Each spring he would report and usually would start one or two games, and then be shipped back to St. Paul in the American association.

Manager McAleer, then in charge of the St. Louis club, was certain that Morgan had the stuff to stick in fast company, but the fans refused to be convinced of the fact. Just as soon as Morgan would step on the rubber the crowd would get after him, and it wouldn't be very long until he was on the way to the clubhouse. It became evident to McAleer that Morgan would never do as a St. Louis player, and he was sold to the Boston Americans. Morgan then proceeded to make good. Perhaps no victory ever pleased him more than the one he scored against St. Louis on his first appearance in that city after drawing his release. He shut the Browns out, 1 to 0, holding them down to something like two hits. For some reason or other Boston traded Morgan to Connie Mack last year, and it was a mighty good thing for the leader of the Athletics, as Morgan was a tower of strength in the gruelling battle for the pennant honors.

Ball Players Don't Often Come Back.

These are but a very few instances of where ball players have come back after they had been pronounced ready and ripe for the bush leagues. Every spring a bunch of players once regarded as too slow for the majors are found back on the job, and in many instances they justify the chance given them of making good.

In many cases the fall from the big league to the bushes is due to lack of experience, while often a player stays in one city too long to be able to show his real value. A change of scenery is often the most beneficial thing in the world to a ball player. It's doubtful if Earl Moore would be the star that he is today had he remained with Cleveland. New pasture, new association and new surroundings in general invariably proves a great tonic to players who are failing to please fans and employers.

Fight fans are wondering if Jim Jeffries will come back. Baseball fans are thinking about the great Bill Donovan, the clever Vic Willis, the redoubtable Cy Young, the energetic and ambitious Harry Howell and a score of other great stars who for years have thrilled fandom with their wonderful work. They are wondering if they will come back for another good year.

A majority of fighters may fail to toe the scratch as good as ever after a bad season, but a big per centage of the ball players do.

SENTIMENT IS LACKING

National Sport a Survival of Fittest Where Only Ability Counts.

Baseball is truly a survival of the fittest.

Sentiment plays a very small part in the great national game.

You must deliver the goods in the majors or minors, or it's back to the factory and ten hours a day of real toil.

It's not what you used to be able to do when you were a star, but what you can do this very minute. Salary is based on present ability, not deeds of the past.

The baseball fans of today are loud in their praises of the great Wagner, the brilliant Lajoie, the sensational Cobb, the wonderful Mathewson and a score of other luminaries. These players are the idols of the fans in their respective cities. They are big favorites with the baseball fans because they are delivering the goods. Just now they are the stellar attraction, the players over whom fans enthuse.

In a few years things may be entirely different. Just as soon as Hans Wagner slows up on the bases and fails to clout the ball around the .300 mark, the rooters will soon implore Barney Dreyfus to get some youngster to take his place. When Ty Cobb fails to steal bases with reckless abandon and crack out timely hits that spell victory for Detroit, the Tiger rooters will yell for some one to take up his burden in the outfield. New York rooters will forget many of Christy Mathewson's wonderful performances when that great twirler's trusty right arm fails him. It's the same with every star in every league, just as soon as he hits the toboggan, the fans yell for his head. Present failures soon overshadow past successes. Two or three poor plays that lose games can destroy a reputation that hundreds of brilliant plays built up.

The task of the veteran is equally as hard as that of the youngster, although his experience often helps him out of tight holes that would have proven extremely embarrassing to the new recruit. In these days of modern baseball a player can't hold down a berth in the big league very long on his past reputation. He may hang on for a year or two because the club owner employing him insists in hoping against hope that he will come back to his old-time form, but the inability to deliver is only temporary.

As in every other business, the men connected with the game, the players in particular are always aspirants to be regarded as the best at their respective positions. They do this because they realize that their chance to increase their yearly stipend depends altogether on the form they show.

The abolition of the salary limit was one of the very best moves ever made for the good of the game. In the old days when the major league players were limited to a salary of $2,400 for their six months' work there was little to strive for. After a player reached such a figure because of marked ability, there was no inducement to try to improve, except that of personal pride. It's a cinch that Tyrus Cobb would not take the chances on the bases he does if he knew the taking of such chances would help his standing as a player, and incidentally increase his salary.

Pennants are impossible with a lot of dead timber. Championships demand high-class players in all departments of the game. Club owners and managers are always on the alert for men who can deliver the goods just a little better than any of their rivals on the other clubs. Baseball is truly a survival of the fittest.

When a youngster breaks into the big league from the bushes the first thing the opposing players on every other team do is to try to discover his weakness, if he has any. Old players realize their success depends on their ability to outguess and outplay the newcomers. The youngsters realize that they must show to as good, if not better, advantage than the veterans, provided they care to remain in fast company.

Any time a minor leaguer breaks into the majors with a batting average that threatens to drive all the star twirlers out of the organization the pitchers at once begin to devote all their time and attention to the new arrival. Not knowing what the youngster likes, the star twirler may feed him a fast one, letter high, only to see the lush leaguer jar the left field fence. He will go through his entire assortment for the purpose of finding out just what kind of a ball the youngster has trouble hitting, should he happen to have a weakness. Possibly, after experimenting for some time he discovers that the ambitious youngster has trouble hitting a curve ball on the outside at the knee. If such happens to be the youngster's weakness, woe unto him, for in a very few days every pitcher in the league will be aware of the fact, and every one will make it a special point to serve him nothing but the very kind of a ball that troubles him most.

A year ago last fall the Cleveland club secured Wilbur Goode from the Akron team of the Ohio and Pennsylvania league. Goode jumped into the game just at the time the Naps were battling hardest for the pennant honors. Although his experience had been limited, Goode played excellent ball for the Naps, making his best showing at the bat. All pitchers looked alike to him, and he won many a game for the Cleveland club by his remarkable ability to hit the ball. No player on the Cleveland club helped more to make the Naps near pennant winners than Goode.

During the winter months many nice things were said about Goode, and general opinion was that the Cleveland club had picked up a youngster who was sure to shine as a big leaguer. For some time Goode joined the Cleveland club in 1908 he hit the ball well over the .300 mark, but a slump late in the season brought his mark down to about .280. Last year Goode in ninety-four games hit only slightly over the .200 mark. He failed to show the form that made him look like a runner up for Cobb, so much so that the Cleveland management did not hesitate to trade him to Philadelphia last fall.

Just what caused the sensation of one season to fall to live up to the reputation he had established is something of a mystery, for Goode is only a youngster. Goode's great prowess with the stick caused all the twirlers to pitch their best to him when he stepped to the plate. Perhaps some pitcher found out that Goode had a vital weakness, his discovery was soon communicated to other twirlers on the circuit, and as a result Goode's average slumped considerably. It's also just as possible that ill health affected his work, and that he will come back as good as ever next summer. Connie Mack will soon discover the trouble, if any exists.

Three or four years ago a pitcher by the name of Smith was secured by the St. Louis club. He started off like a wonder, winning the first six games in which he officiated. Critics thought the Browns had a cracking good man in him and many believed he would be one of the best "spit" ball pitchers in the country.

That Smith had a good "spit" ball there was no denying, but his curve ball was little or nothing, while his fast ball came to the plate straight and true. In his first six games Smith depended almost entirely on the "spitter" and met with great success. He worked a number of games in rather bad weather, and early in May pulled up with a sore arm. The club at that time was rather short on pitchers and Smith tried to work minus the "spitter." He was hit hard in every game and soon passed out of the league. Another phenom had been exploded after getting a Christy Mathewson start.

You must deliver in most any old business to get the money, but more so in baseball than any other business or profession.

THREE SCORE AND TEN PLUS FIVE

J. H. THIRY AND FAMILY.

New York, March 14.—When he was 76 years old, John Henry Thiry decided to marry and raise a family. This might be considered a rather uncertain ambition for anyone of that advanced age, but not for Mr. Thiry. He chose for his helpmate a charming woman some fifty-five years younger than he and they were married. This was twelve years ago. Mr. Thiry now has a family of five children, the youngest born in September last. They are all healthy children.

ELK RANGE WITH CATTLE.

Anaconda Standard: "Elk are increasing in the mountains of Montana. This increase is steady and it looks as if it will be only a comparatively few years before they will be again counted by the thousands instead of a few scattered bands," said Game Warden Henry Avare. "This is especially true in the northwestern part of the state and the parts of Madison and Gallatin counties which are near the Yellowstone National park.

"Some time ago I made a personal investigation of the conditions which prevail among big game in the region near where the Madison and the Gallatin rivers leave the boundaries of the park. The deputy warden of Gallatin had been reporting elk in that section by the thousands and I could not believe it. Accordingly I took him up on his invitation and spent several days in that section. Seeing is always believing, and I saw thousands of elks there, and they were feeding with the half wild range cattle as contentedly as if they were domesticated and were in barn yards.

"This condition has been brought about through the laws protecting elk and furthermore because the poachers are not allowed to make big killings near the boundary of the park, are practically eliminated from the game. Time was when they would enter the park, scare a bunch of elk or buffalo across the line, butcher them at their leisure and sell the meat. Now the selling of elk meat or venison is prohibited by law and every soldier in the Yellowstone National park—and there are three troops of cavalry there—is a special deputy game warden and he has power to follow poachers across the park line into either one of the three states which border, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming, and make arrests.

"These poachers are often tried at Fort Yellowstone, and the way the military officers have of handing out $1,000 fines for poachers is rather unsporting, for if the fine is not paid it means a long term in the guardhouse, and the guardhouses on military reservations are not fitted up for the comfort of the unwanted guests.

"Further an important step was taken this year regarding the ranging of sheep near the boundaries of the park. On the Yellowstone side it has been customary in the past to range the sheep up to the very line of the park. This practice resulted in the feed being eaten off so closely that the snowshoe rabbits starved to death. When the elk, antelope and deer came out of the deeper snows of the park in the early winter to their old wintering grounds they found nothing to eat and some of them were in danger of starvation.

"Often they would wander into the settlements, to be tangled up in wire fences. I took the matter up with the forestry department and the commandant at Fort Yellowstone, the result being an order that sheep would not be allowed to come nearer than within six miles of the park line. The results are already apparent, for there is a splendid stand of grass on all sides of the park, and the game will be assured of plenty of pasturage during the coming winter."

LUXURIOUS SLEEPING CARS.

The latest sleeping cars in India are fitted luxuriously. Like most foreign cars they are divided into compartments, but a corridor runs from end to end of the car. Each compartment contains two berths. The upper berth is of peculiarly ingenious design, so compactly constructed that a casual observer would fail to see how it can be lowered.

The compartments are large enough to contain the luggage that can any two persons can require, and are fitted up with all kinds of conveniences. Every compartment has an electric fan under the control of the passengers, and of the three electric lamps one is a small night lamp that can be kept burning all night without inconvenience.

If a party is too large for a single compartment, says the Railroad Man's Magazine, a sliding door connecting with the adjoining compartment can be thrown open. On the other hand, if the passenger desires he can lock his door and pull down his Venetian blinds and be secure from intrusion.

At each end of the coach is a roomy bathroom, with a large bath half sunk in the floor, the walls lined with mirrors, and equipped with every obtainable sanitary device. There is also a servant's compartment. It is said that this coach has been approved by the railway board as the standard type for Indian rolling stock.

THE SENATOR CONFESSES.

Lippincott's: As every lawyer knows, Senator Daniel is the author of a constitutional treatise in rather negotiable instruments, which is generally considered to be the leading authority on the subject. A friend one day inquired how it was that in the midst of his arduous political duties, which must hav demanded his constant attention, he found the time to write two such exhaustive volumes.

"Why," replied the senator, 'It happened this way: A young fellow I knew came up to me one day and said: 'Say, Mr. Daniel, does a sight draft bear interest?' And—would you believe it?—I couldn't answer that simple question. So I determined then and there to find out all about it. It took me a long time, but I did it."

"Well, senator," observed the friend after a short pause, "does a sight draft bear interest?"

There was a moment's pause.

"Hanged if I know!" was the abrupt reply.

FREDERICK T. GATES.

New York, March 14.—John D. Rockefeller has had a bill introduced at Washington to establish the Rockefeller foundation, under which the greater part of his enormous fortune is to be devoted to the welfare of mankind, and especially to the people of the United States. Associated with Mr. Rockefeller in this foundation are his son, John D., Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Starr Murphy and C. O. Heydt. Mr. Gates has been known as the "almoner" of Mr. Rockefeller for many years. When the billionaire turned his attention to charity some years ago, he found himself overwhelmed with begging letters of whose credibility he was unable to judge. So he employed Mr. Gates to pass on the applications.

IS SETTLING THE SOUTHWEST

Irrigation Making Garden of the Desert, Says C. A. Marshall.

Charles A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum theater, returned yesterday from a trip to the Southwest, California and the state of Washington. Mr. Marshall was with W. F. Fitch, president of the South Shore, a greater part of the time he was absent.

"Every acre they can get water to they are utilizing in Texas and Arizona, and when they solve the secret of irrigating those vast barren acres, they will make the great desert look like a garden," said Mr. Marshall today, in recounting his impression of the work that is going on in the agricultural district of the Southwest.

"In Texas and Arizona at the present time, they are doing a great deal of irrigating. Many people are taking up farms in that section of the country and in my opinion, it can't be very long before many thousands of acres of land that are arid at the present time, will be made into profitable farms.

"Arizona is bound to be a great agricultural section of the country in the not very distant future. They are irrigating many thousands of acres of land out there, and when they have extended this system, you will find that farms and towns will spring up right out there in the vast desert.

"Los Angeles is a great and rapidly growing city. It is one of the most beautiful cities in the country. It is a wealthy as well as a beautiful city and at the present time is enjoying an immense growth. It is the home of tourists during the winter months, and in addition to this has a steady growth of population that is really remarkable.

"I was most surprised by the spirit of development all through the Southwest and believe that it is simply a question of time until almost every available acre of land that at the present time is waste, will be under cultivation."

FEDERAL MEN IN VERBAL TILT

Cunningham Inquiry Closes With Exchange Between Sheridan and Jones.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 14. — A momentary clash between two representatives of the government brought to a close today the hearings before United States Commissioner W. J. McGee on the Cunningham coal land claims in Alaska. When the inquiry was resumed this morning, Clarence Cunningham, was still upon the witness stand, but his testimony was soon concluded. Both sides formally rested their case, but the government reserved the right to offer rebuttal testimony to that given by Cunningham. Commissioner McGee adjourned the hearing to next Wednesday at Washington, D. C.

During a lull in the proceedings, Attorney Pugh, who appeared for the government, indulged in a friendly conversation with Cunningham.

"I think that should go in the records; everything here should go into the record," H. L. Jones of the land office remarked.

"Do you say that seriously?" Attorney J. M. Sheridan for the government asked.

Not Asked for Advice.

"Certainly I do," Jones replied.

"Well, we are not asking you for any legal advice," said Sheridan.

"I was sent here by my chief to assist in this hearing," Jones retorted.

"Yes, to assist in giving us facts, but not advice in the conduct of this case," said Sheridan.

"I have a different opinion regarding that," said Jones.

"As to that we will see later," Sheridan replied as the tilt was closed.

COPPER MARKET MARKED TIME

Little Trading in Shares But Prices Hold Fairly Strong.

Copper stocks today simply marked time. The interest was entirely professional and traders appeared apathetic. A heavy long interest apparently has taken its profits and has left the market. The sentiment seems to be bearish although the short side is not much in evidence, due, perhaps, to the indifference of both longs and shorts who are not eager to enter the market on account of the many disturbing elements which have given the situation a pronounced element of uncertainty.

The forthcoming decision of the supreme court in the American Tobacco case was not handed down and traders were not inclined to do much until it was learned if a decision would be given. The possible strike of firemen on Western railroads is liable to have a serious effect on the market if it materializes and traders hesitated to buy today because it will not be known until tomorrow if the strike will be called. The strike in Philadelphia which lost its effect as a market factor became more predominate to day on rumors that the sympathetic lockout will not be extended to trades now employed.

The short interest in the market is small although reports today were bearish. Nevertheless the market opened fairly strong and acted well until toward the close when it declined to opening levels. Stocks moved little either way.

The local market was fairly active with many more bids than offers. Butte-Alex Scott, full paid, sold at $7.50, Shattuck at $23 and $22.75, Warrior at $10.12½, Butte & Superior at $2.50, Calumet & Corbin at 98 cents, and $1, Red Warrior at $2.37½, Amazon at $5.87½. Bids were in the market and were unfulfilled for Live Oak at $21.50, Duluth-Montezuma at $7, Denn-Arizona at $2.50, Butte-Alex Scott, part paid at $4.37½, Carman at $1.18¾, Duluth & Sonora at $6.50, San Antonio at $12.50, and Rawhide Royal at 5 and 6 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $79.12½, $79.37½, $79.87½, $79.50 down to $79, and at the close at $79.25. Calumet & Arizona sold at $74 and up ½ point; Giroux at $9.62½ and $9.50, and back to the opening, Greene at $10.37½ and up to $10.62½ and down to the opening; North Butte at $41.75, up to $43 and back to $43; Superior & Pittsburg at $14.12½ and down to $13.87½; Ojibway at $10.24, and Steel common at $88.62½, up to $88.75 and down to $88.50.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is slightly stronger. Lake is selling at 14 cents and electrolytic is 13⅝ to 13¾ cents per pound. Early in the week there was some hesitation on the part of buyers awaiting the report of the Copper Producers' association. The statement published yesterday showed an increase of 5,724,563 pounds, bringing the total surplus in this country up to 107,187,902 pounds. February production showed practically no decrease, amounting to 112,712,493 pounds, comparing with 116,547,287 pounds in January, a longer month. This production does not reflect the curtailed output of the Butte mines during January and February or the Utah and Nevada mines in December; but shows the actual output of the refineries. This month's refinery output should show a considerable decrease because of the reduced mine production referred to two or three months ago. Domestic deliveries amounted to 66,618,322 pounds, which is a very good showing. There was a decided falling off in exports, the outgo in February amounting to 37,269,518 pounds, compared with 81,691,672 pounds in January. This sharp decline does not necessarily indicate that exports will continue to decline, but rather that there were very heavy shipments during the closing days of January which normally would have been included in the February account. Taking January and February together there has been a decrease in the American surplus so far this year of 34,578,209 pounds. I feel very confident that there will be another large decrease in the surplus this month.

"Trade conditions have been abnormally disturbed during the past few months by the sugar, tobacco and Standard Oil litigation, and more recently by the effort on the part of certain labor leaders to precipitate a general strike because of the practical failure of the strike in Philadelphia. All this is tending seriously to restrict the natural increase in the consumption of copper.

"According to the best information I can gather in the trade, the tendency is decidedly towards improvement. Unless there are unexpectedly unfavorable developments in the political and business situations, copper consumption in 1910 will greatly exceed that of any previous year, and the price of the metal will gradually work higher."

ASHLAND HEARING BEGINS ON TUESDAY

Representative of Interstate Commerce Commission to Take Testimony.

Ashland, Wis., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Brown, who was delegated by the inter state commerce commission to take testimony in the protest of the Ashland business men against the railroads and steamboats handling freight in and out of this city, arrived today and the hearing will begin at 1 a. m. tomorrow in the city hall.

The Ashland people claim discrimination against this city and contend they should have the benefit of the same rate given to Duluth.

It is expected that most of the railroads and boat lines will be represented at the hearing.

IRON MOUNTAIN, MICH., MAN FOUND DEAD IN OFFICE.

Iron Mountain, Mich., March 14.—Dr. Charles Seaberg of this city was found dead in his office with a bullet hole through his heart. The theory of suicide was not borne out at the coroner's inquest, it developing that he was putting on his coat to go to dinner when his hand encountered the pistol which he always carried and in attempting to draw the weapon it went off, the bullet piercing his heart.

MAN KILLED AND HIS WIDOW IS ATTACKED.

Topeka, Kas., March 14—Wade Lindemood, a farmer, living ten miles east of here, was lured from his home early Sunday morning and attacked with an ax. A short time later an attempt was made to criminally assault Mrs. Lindemood, who was waiting in the house for her husband's return. Mrs. Lindemood broke away from her would-be assailant and gave the alarm. Searchers found her husband dying.

George Brittenham was partially identified by Mrs. Lindemood and was brought to Topeka to prevent a lynching. He denies his guilt.

SPOILS SCHEME OF PARISIAN PUBLISHER

EMPRESS EUGENIE.

Paris, March 14. — Ex-Empress Eugenie has been solicited many times to write her memoirs, but has always refused. Recently it became known that a Paris publisher had got together fragmentary facts and stories and was preparing to give them to the world at the time of her death as genuine reminiscences. The ex-empress, hearing of this, has repudiated the book.

Roads Breaking Up.

The logging roads are breaking up, according to Samuel Simpson, a logger who operates near Bena on the Great Northern. He was at the St. Louis last evening on his way to his home in Minneapolis. Mr. Simpson said that wolves killed fewer deer than usual. The snow has not been deep and it is almost gone. The deer have been abole to elude their enemies, the timber wolves.

LEAVES CASE OPEN TO LATER ACTION

Supreme Court Says North Dakota Coal Rates Must Be Tried Out.

Washington, March 14.—In upholding the North Dakota coal rate law of 1907 as being valid "at present," Justice Holmes of the supreme court of the United States said that there were so many uncertainties about the rate being confiscatory that the supreme court did not feel justified in overruling the state court which held the law would not prove confiscatory if put into effect. The affirmation was made, however, with a statement that such action should not prejudice the case of the railroads if, after the law went into effect, the measure did prove confiscatory.

Since 1907 there has been a law in the state of North Dakota to fix the rates on coal transported by railroads within the state. The Northern Pacific and the Great Northern railroad companies failing to put the rates into effect, the state brought suit in the supreme court of North Dakota to prevent the charging of higher rates on coal transportation than those provided by the law of 1905.

The railroads replied that the law was unconstitutional. The reason assigned for this was that the statute sought to take the property of the railroads without due process of law, and that it was an interference with interstate commerce.

The supreme court of the state held the law constitutional and ordered the issuance of a restraining order.

CHESS A MODERN GAME.

Strand: Chess is but a game, a pastime, a relaxation, but it has at times absorbed the faculties of the intellectual in every clime. It numbers among its amateurs the greatest names of battlefields and thrones; it tels of warriors, poets, painters, sculptors, statesmen, and divines; it possesses a literature and language of its own; it makes enemies friends, and finds a temple on the ocean, in the fortress, and by the peaceful fireside. Perhaps the greatest eulogy on the game was the remark of Sir Walter Raleigh, "I do not wish to live longer than I can play chess." It is certain that those who do not play the game are quite unable to form any conception of the high intellectual delights experienced by the chess enthusiast.

The origin of chess has been sought in vain. The fact is, the game has so changed, developed, and improved down the course of centuries that in its present form it would not be recognized by its inventor—if there ever was one. The oldest chess problem on record is thought to be that contained in an ancient Persian manuscript, attributed to Caliph Kaliffen Mutasin Billah, who reigned in Bagdad, A. D. 833 to 842. But the reader would have to learn the old rules before it was intelligible. For example, the queen could make a move of only one square at a time, and that a diagonal; but a queen promoted from a pawn was allowed to make a move of two squares diagonally. The bishop had no power over any square except the third from which it stood on its own diagonal line, but it was allowed to vault over any piece that happened to be between. In short, it was a totally different game. Chess, in the precise form in which we know it and play it today, is a comparatively modern game.

HOW MISTLETOE IS GATHERED.

Wide World: Ceuzy, in Brittany, annually becomes a center of attraction for the mistletoe pickers, and the poplars that line the hillsides round about the village show an abundance of the precious evergreen, the sight of which would fill the heart of many a Norman mistletoe gatherer with envy. Here, however, the trees are lofty, and by no means so easy to despoil of their white-berried parasite as the apple trees in Northern France, which yield most of the harvest destined to find its way to the British market. Nevertheless, clambering up into the tree-tops sixty or seventy feet from the ground is not so difficult a task as it may appear to those who are uninitiated into the modus operandi of the mistletoe hunters. With the aid of peculiarly-shaped iron grifes attached to their feet, enabling them to get a firm grip of the trunk or stem which they wish to ascend, the skilled climbers make their way from branch to branch with monkey-like agility, and no fear of meeting with an accident seems to disturb their equanimity.

Needless to say, even with the assistance of these artificial claws practice and experience are required, and many a novice who, attracted by the apparent simplicity of the feat, has recklessly rushed into a first attempt at griffe climbing has had occasion to repent his foolhardiness. It is quite surprising to see with what rapidity a nimble climber can accomplish the task he has set himself. Within a few minutes the tree is shorn of its beautiful winter garb.

THE FOLLY OF MAN.

John D. Rockefeller never ceases of impressing on the young the folly of mean and parsimonious habits, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. In one of his most recent interviews he said:

"These miserly people reap nothing but discomfort from their false economies. Take, for example, the case of Mrs. Silas Long of Sussex.

"'Martha,' said old Silas one day, 'I think I'll go and get a few apples from the orchard.'

"He looked at her timidly. She said:

"'Well, be careful now, Si, only to pick the bad ones.'

"'Suppose there ain't no bad ones, Martha?'

"'Then you'll have to wait till some goes bad, of course,' the old lady the world in the interest of the movement, for the purpose of investigating the work done by the missionaries in snapped. 'We can't afford to eat good, sound fruit wuth 3 cents a bushel.'"

LOW STYLES COMING MODES IN COIFFURES

By Jane Brayton.

NOT easily will the women who have adopted the popular turban coiffure give up the comfortable turban frame which not only makes thin hair seem luxurious but forms a splendid support for millinery. They will alter its location if they must, but its comfort insures its popularity for some time to come. The word from Paris is that coiffures show a tendency toward an arrangement low down in the neck, which will still permit the use of the turban cap frame, and also the use of as great a quantity of switches and curls and braids and puffs as have impoverished many a purse the past season. "Fifty dollars is a modest price to pay for an adjustable coiffure," says a well known hairdresser. "We are making up a braid now which will cost $500, and yesterday supplied a switch of white hair that was worth $1,000."

The turban drape and the turban braid coiffure, variable as to width and height, will be fashionable for some time to come, on account of its general becomingness. To get the best effects in arranging the hair in this manner a turban cap frame is necessary and a switch about thirty inches long. The braid is also used—a wire bee-hive frame is also used—a wire cap with a hole in the center through which the hair is drawn and then laid softly around the frame. With the braid is often used, also, puffs to fill in, on the top of the head, and soft curls that stray out from beneath the braid in the back, or soften the face at the temples.

A quaint and unique coiffure seen on a bride not long ago was made, apparently, with the aid of two long braids, which were coiled into veritable cabochons on each side of the head, just above the ears. The hair was arranged simply in the front, with a bang effect, while the veil was drawn backward between the braided coils.

A style that is particularly becoming to young faces is what is called the Juliet coif. The hair is waved into a moderate pompadour and brought back to a soft mass of Psyche curls, that are allowed to twist naturally and loosely. When a jeweled Juliet cap is worn with this, a most delightful effect is produced.

The fringe bang is worn by those who desire a chic coiffure at the risk of its being unbecoming. This is a most trying style, but since the bang can now be bought by the yard, it is a style that it is possible to abandon, when one tires of it, which one could not do when the bang grew on one's scalp.

Although the preference is for the coiffure that is wide and round rather than high, what is called the tower coif is in very good style. The hair is usually parted with this, and a mass of puffs placed on the top of the head. Sometimes a gauze of gold ribbon is brought around the back of the head to tie in a tiny bow that is almost hidden by the puffs.

One of the extreme methods of doing the hair is a combination of bang, curls and a mop-like use of a long switch. The bang is curled in tiny ringlets that form a fringe all around the head. About the head is then wound tightly the long straight switch, and in the back a tumble of curls is pinned in carelessly with shell pins.

QUIET BUT STRONGER

Wheat Advances on Numerous Crop Damage Reports From Southwest.

Traders Nervous About Entering Market---Flax Dull and Strong.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 14.—In a light trading market today, wheat values advanced ½c here and from ⅝c to 1⅛c elsewhere, the chief strength being in the July option which is especially susceptible to the numerous crop damage reports which are flooding the market from the West and Southwest. The shorts hesitated to enter the market except to cover but as the short interest is small, it was not a market factor of consequence. Around the top levels the market ran into a few stop loss orders and many profit taking orders from holders of small long lines, causing a recession at the close which carried values downward from ¼@⅜c. Owing to the hesitancy of traders to enter the market the situation was somewhat nervous.

May wheat opened at $1.14½ bid and sold at $1.14⅜@⅝, $1.14¾, $1.14⅞@1.15, $1.14¾, $1.15⅛@⅜ and down to $1.14¾@⅞ and $1.15, closing at $1.15 bid. The July option opened at $1.14⅝ with no trading, sold at $1.15⅛, $1.14⅞ and $1.15 and closed at $1.15 with no trading. Flax was dull with little trading, the action being confined to the near option. May opened at $2.21 bid and sold at $2.22 and closed with offers at that figure. July was $2.20 asked and September sold at $1.77½ and October was $1.69½ bid.

Cash wheat was ½@1c over May and oats closed ½c up. Barley and rye were unchanged. Durum closed ⅝c up.

The bull crowd was strongly in evidence. Bartlett-Patten bought September moderately and also took on lines of July. Values opened strong and firmed immediately on the receipt of many reports of crop damage from the Southwest and messages telling of the dry weather there, which if not broken by rains, will result in further damage to the growing plant.

There were too many bad crop reports for the shorts' comfort. There were few selling orders and yet trading was so light and buying orders were so scarce, that the situation could hardly be classed as a bull market. The trade is long so far as sentiment goes, but it is not backing up its opinion with purchasing orders. Traders are beginning to have more belief in murmurs of damage to the growing wheat plant but they are waiting for further confirmation. They are not enthusiastic over the long side but they are beginning to regard that position with more favor.

That there has been some damage no one doubts but it is yet too early to tell definitely its extent. If dry weather continues a firmer and higher market is looked for. If rains come, values are expected to weaken. The market appears to be strictly a weather proposition.

The general market is above an export basis and this market is not doing anything in that line. The situation is absolutely on a domestic plane. If the coming crop is liberal, affording a large exportable surplus, values necessarily must decline to admit of export business. The foreign consumer now is in an independent position and is able to dictate prices. European stocks are twice what they were last year when stores aggregated 24,000,000 bu. Russian stocks are three times as large as last year when they amounted to 7,000,000 bu. The foreign situation today was moderately bullish. Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d higher. Shipments from Argentina to the United Kingdom were light. Short covering helped the market and bad reports from Russia were a bullish factor.

The visible supply of wheat increased on this side 634,000 bu., but in the face of the predominate crop damage reports it did not exercise any influence on the market except to make traders do some closer guessing on the situation, especially the cash position. Farmers in the Northwest are not delivering to elevators which are responsible for almost all of the shipments now being made to primary markets. Field work, which will begin soon, will have a tendency to detract from deliveries. Mills bought cash moderately and the arrivals at Northwestern markets are well taken care of. Two additional mills were started up at Minneapolis today. Since Jan. 1, the flour shipments from Minneapolis have amounted to 3,600,000 barrels or 1,100,000 barrels more than in the same period last year.

Finley Barrell & company's special report follows: "Argentina: Wheat receipts are light, and country movement is not increasing owing to the unsatisfactory prices obtaining. For the immediate future it does not look as though Argentina would ship over 4,000,000 per week.

"Australia: Exports still continue liberal, and over last year's figures Movement from the interior shows signs of gradually lessening, but if our private advices are correct, government figures will have to be revised, as yields are turning out much better than expected.

"India: The prospects of a very large crop in India continue exceedingly rosy. Rains just were needed, coupled with favorable weather over the largely increased acreage, is advancing the plant daily. Calcutta and Kurachee new wheat freely offered for shipment with few takers.

"Europe: Weather conditions throughout Europe continue favorable, although weather is unseasonably mild. Hungary and Roumania being especially favorable, and the outlook there is such that holders are resisting their earlier purchases of foreign wheat. In Spain a drouth of short duration has been broken by copious rains.

"Great Britain—Reports are more favorable."

"Russia—Conditions in Russia remain unchanged, although some reports of winter killing are being received. Figures recently issued confirm the statement of last week in this report, that interior stocks are enormous, in spite of bad roads. With the Azoff sea open five weeks earlier than recent years, it looks as though Russia would supply all comers' needs until Australia and India wheat begins to press on the market."

"United States—Crop damage is still the paramount subject in grain circles. Conservative confidential advices from several independent sources lead us to believe that abandoned acreage in Kansas this year will be the largest on record, although we also believe that much acreage that today is considered worthless will under the influence of growing weather, revive, and show fair yields. Rain is needed within the next ten days to benefit the fields where winter damage is shown although telegraphic inquiries show that the sub-soil throughout the state contains ample moisture."

Some crop reports follow:

B. W. Snow wired from Hutchinson, Kan.: "Drove across Russell, Ellsworth, Rice and Reno counties. Cattle badly killed on high land and on heavy soil, top soil caked and criss-crossed with cracks two inches in depth. Deep cracks marks where drill shoes have opened the ground to deposit seed exposing plant roots. Four counties have 600,000 acres. Would estimate present stand at not above 55 per cent.

Snow wired from Newton, Kan.:—"The east week have examined fields in twenty largest wheat counties. The limit of serious winter killing at Great Bend, involving about half the acreage of the states and ranges from 25 per cent to a complete loss. West of this point the present loss is small but the plant is beginning to die from exposure of roots to sun and wind. The state will not average two-thirds of a stand now. With such plants as are showing weak vitality at the beginning of spring growth this is equal to a reduction of 2,000,000 acres in area with plant on remaining acreage weak and unpromising."

"St. Louis wired—"Graves was in St. Charles county Saturday on the 2,500-acre Baldwin farm. On Feb. 12 it looked like 20 per cent damage, now the manager says damage due to thawing and freezing and winter killed is 60 per cent, and they will begin today to plow up 1,000 acres to put to oats."

Kansas City—"Plowing up wheat fields at Hardin, Cameron and Dewitt, Mo., today. Car seed oats sold for Sedalia. City of spring wheat sold to go to Slater."

Chicago—Kinyon wired from Coffeyville, Kan., which is on the boundary between Montgomery and Lavett counties which have together about 45,000 acres of wheat: "Wheat in this vicinity looking generally good. Stand is good and acreage is larger than last year. Plant deeply rooted." Cooper's report to Harris Winthrop reads: "Drove sixty-five miles out of Belle Plaine in Sumner county, Kan. Found lowest average condition of growing wheat of any of the counties I have visited. Best wheat is in northeast part of county. Also good wheat in territory around Mayfield and Perth between Riverdale and four miles west of Anson. Also in territory around Dalton. There are very few promising fields and a large acreage will be abandoned. One hundred thirty-six fields inspected show 40 per cent in good average condition, 36 per cent badly winter killed, sickly plant, poor growth and stand, but enough life, with favorable weather to make part of a crop, 25 per cent dead in Sedgwick county along the Orient, between Viola and Wichita and Sedgwick fields generally show poor growth and stand. Considerable damage, but enough life to make fair crop with favorable weather." Kansas City—Headlines in Star yesterday over an article by Nicolet: "Kansas wheat badly hurt, large areas damaged by winter killing in central counties. Extensive impairment of crop. Rain must come at once to prevent further extensive damage."

Broomhall cabled: "The wheat market at the start was affected by the sharp advance in the Buenos Ayres future market, and values were ⅛@⅜d higher. Following the opening, May and July showed a further advance of ¼@⅜d on shorts covering due to the light shipments to the United Kingdom, 4,440,000 bu against 5,840,000 bu the previous week, and continued unfavorable reports from Russia. Later and toward midday the market developed some realizing on the larger La Plata offerings, brought on the advance in the liberal increase in the amount on passage. At this time the market was generally steady to firm and ⅛@¼d higher than Saturday. Corn was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later there was an advance of ¼d on the steadiness of La Plata offerings. Total world's shipments—Wheat, 11,408,000 bu; previous week, 12,400,000 bu; last year, 10,512,000 bu. Corn, 2,064,000 bu; previous week, 1,316,000 bu; last year, 2283000 bu."

Bartlett-Patten's Liverpool agent cabled: "Wheat uncertain; shipments more moderate. Great uncertainty prevails as to how wheat will grade here. Market dependent on accumulation of contract stocks. Manitobas are above our parity. Corn market is sustained by fact that quality of arrivals are not equal to standard. Will not pass on contract here."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bullish Inclination Marks Early Trading in Wheat.

Chicago, March 14.—Bullish inclination was noticeable today in the early trading in wheat, particularly in the distant option, which opened ¾@1c up and kept well toward the top through the first hour on general commission buying. The May delivery started ⅛@⅜c higher and worked up to $1.14⅝. There was a good investment in July wheat at $1.08 and $1.07⅞. The trade was colored by renewed crop damage reports encouraging the bulls. Open figures for the May option were $1.14@1.13¾.

The market held steady at the high levels throughout the session. The more distant futures showed the greater strength. There was much trading in July which reached $1.08⅜. The close was strong and near the top figures, with May ⅞c up at $1.14¼.

Light offerings in the corn pit gave the bulls all the advantage in the first hour. The start was strong on all the futures, with prices ¼@¾c up. The demand overbalanced the tendency to sell, and lifted quotations. May moving from 65⅝@65c. Opening for the May option was ¼@½c up at 65⅝@64⅞c.

In the final half of the day the market became stronger on improved demand, prices advancing from ⅞ to ¼c above the early high point. May sold at 65¼c, the other options crowding up with it. The close was strong with May ⅞c up at 65¼c.

Trading in oats took its color from the other grain pits. May advanced from 45¼c to 45⅝c in the first hour. May opened ⅛c down to ⅛c up at 45¼@45½c.

Lard and ribs showed a slight initial decline, opening 2½@7½c lower for the May product, although pork at the start gained 10 to 12½c. Continued high prices for live hogs had a bullish effect on provisions in the first hour and quotations advanced slightly, May pork selling at $25.97½. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $25.95; lard, $14.00 and ribs, $13.50.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Firmer But Price Range Continues Narrow.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 14.—Wheat was firmer today, but the market continued in a narrow range, there being a difference between the high and low May price of ½@⅝c. The first seeding of spring wheat occurred at Ashton, S. D., today. Trading in the pit was light and scalping profits were quite generally accepted. Speculation was light, trading being confined almost wholly to professionals. Local elevator stocks increased 300,000 bu for two days. News from the Southwest told of further damage to the winter wheat crop and this made the deferred contracts relatively firmer. May closed ⅝c higher than the opening and the close Saturday. Minneapolis today received 621 cars of wheat, as compared with 265 cars a year ago; Duluth, 86 cars against 99 cars, and Winnipeg 221 cars against 178 cars. May opened $1.13¾; high, $1.14¼@1.14⅜; low, $1.13¾; close, $1.14⅛. July opened $1.14; high, $1.14⅝; low, $1.14; close, $1.14½. September opened $1.04¼@1.04½; high, $1.04-1.04¾; low, $1.04¾@1.04⅝; close, $1.04½. Cash wheat was in general in good demand. Millers continued good buyers, but elevators were in the lead. Offerings were liberal and met with a ready acceptance. No. 1 northern sold for ½@2c above the May option and No. 2 northern for the even May price to 1½c under. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.14⅜@1.15⅜; to arrive, $1.14⅜@1.16⅜; No. 2 northern, $1.12⅜@1.13⅜; to arrive, $1.12⅜@1.13⅜; No. 3 wheat, $1.07⅜@1.11⅜; No. 3 yellow corn, 56¾@59¾c; No. 3 white oats, 43⅜@44¼c; No. 2 rye, 72¾@75¼c.

SPRING & SUMMER 1910

Paris and American Fashions

Flower-Laden Hats the SPRING MANDATE of the MILLINERS

(By Rene Mansfield.)

It took one rose to make the winter hat. It will take more than a dozen to make the smart spring and summer confection. A fashion that permitted a woman to close her eyes, drop a single blossom or bow or rosette on some corner of a rakish shape, stab the crown with a hat pin and sail forth correctly bonnetted would be necessarily short-lived. "Oh! with their unadorned headgear!" roared the powers that be. Sotto voce: "It's bad for the trade." So all signs seem to indicate that we will stagger under cartloads of blossoms before the end of summer. The advance styles show moderation in their use, as well as in the new shapes, however, and though one model had pink roses standing upright over the whole top of the crown, surrounded by a heavy hedge of white lilacs—all of which suggested watering cans and pruning shears—the most conservative woman should be able to find something to her liking.

Now color schemes rather than new shapes are the novelties of the season. The Russian turban that has been so popular during the winter will take a new lease of life, at least for the early spring, appearing in straw, maline, and sometimes in silk, such as pongee, to match the costume. These are trimmed with flowers, sometimes in bunches at the side, sometimes having the whole top of the crown made solid of flowers. One striking turban of black net had a crown of this sort on which pink roses were used, the color being softened by a loose veiling of net caught in here and there with a tam o' shanter effect.

The maline turbans may have a cluster of flowers nestling in their perishable folds, or may be given a jaunty dash by wings. A delectable color harmony was achieved by a bunch of ragged silk roses in a pastel pink, crushed among the folds of a pinkish lavendar maline turban.

The cavalier style with its wide brim rolling gracefully on the left side, is perhaps the most popular shape for spring, because of its particular adaptability for flower trimming, and the larger sailor is much in evidence. Scarcely a hat of this character is seen without a facing of satin, velvet or taffeta. O novel feature is the covering of the top of the brim with satin or velvet, the under part remaining of the uncovered straw. When the brim is faced underneath often the crown is smoothly covered with the same material. Black maline and black net are much used in the dress hats in the cavalier styles, bound with velvet, satin or cloth of gold. A bunch of roses and violets formed the trimming of a moderate sailor shape which had the appearance of being made entirely from gold braid about an inch wide, stitched flat together.

Leghorns, rolled easily at the side, or turned up sharply at the back vie for approval with the variations of the tricorne which are used for both dress and tailored hats. Hair and hemp shapes, chip and Milans are greatly in demand. For the street hats large bows of straw or ribbon or velvet, made into the stiff pump bow, give a perkiness to the sometimes clumsy looking turbans. The long popular mushroom brim, under which a woman might look like a demure mouse, or an inquisitive squirrel, is seen no more. It has been given a twist here and a flare there till it has quite lost its drooping reticence. But its offspring, the poke bonnet is here, with huge bows at the back and raw roses to the front that belie its modest character. One of these delightful creations was of pink satin covered with ecru lace. A pink aigrette at the left and a huge bow of brown velvet at the back formed the trimming. Sometimes demi-plumes are used in the back in place of the bow. But a note of warning should be sounded long and loud. These fascinating chapeaux are anything but fascinating above and around a face that has lost the round curves and the fresh color of youth. Matrons and spinsters, beware!

The introduction of a touch of brilliant scarlet on many of the newest hats amounts almost to a craze. A band of ribbon velvet around the crown, a scarlet wing, a velvet facing—the smartest hats show these chic effects. The brilliant poinsettia, whose velvet richness was so striking against the fur turbans of winter, has blossomed into summer usage with petals of silk and linen. Great clusters of them are used at the side of wide-brimmed hats, falling over the upturned brim and resting on the hair. Cherries are the only fruit seen on the hats as yet, but these are used in striking ways. One leghorn, of sailor shape, had a fold of scarlet velvet around the crown. A huge bunch of cherries was fastened to the left side of the crown, and through a slit in the brim a portion of it was allowed to hang or rather dangle over the ear.

A Spanish turban, faced with black velvet, was most effectively trimmed with three black pompons from the center of which sprang a scarlet aigrette. Another turban of Tuscan straw was simply decorated with a rosette of changeable taffeta. These changeable effects it is expected will be much used, especially in the malines. Turbans made entirely of flowers are again being worn. Lace flowers which are made of Brussels lace or fine maline formed into petals have the regular flower centers and are used in the semblance of the cabbage rose, chrysanthemum or dahlia on many of the smaller hats. The leaves are sometimes traced with gold or silver veining to give the touch of metal so desirable.

The dress hats are developed in a wide variety of net and lace. Willow plumes and aigrettes are used almost exclusively in the trimming and the Gainsborough styles prevail. One stunning model is of Milan straw, with the upper brim covered with black velvet. It is caught up sharply on the side with a white heron aigrette and pink coral bead cabochon. Another charming hat that made one think of garden parties and Dolly Varden, was a white silk hat in a drooping shape, covered entirely with black Chantilly lace. At one side of the crown the lace had been fashioned into a feathery bow, while at the other tiny pink moss roses were snuggled into the folds of the lace that encircled the crown.

WHAT THE MOTORIST WILL WEAR

THE motorist's apparel should primarily be pointed towards practicability and comfort and these realized, then the accomplishment of artistic effect may be given consideration. That grace, utility and ease can be embodied in the motorist's clothes is evidenced in the productions now to be found in any of the well-equipped shops catering to this trade.

For those men who desire to affect the prescribed fashion in auto attire we desire to state that such fashions are well defined, even to the minutest accessories. Those who decide such things have designated in the garments the authentic materials, colors and styling for the devotee in contra-distinction to the garments that the business man wears, who merely uses the motor in riding to his office as a matter of convenience.

The mandates for the suits are that the coats be cut Norfolk with belts and box plaits. The coats are cut yoke effect, the yoke extending to the top button of the coat and to the beginning of the plaits. The belts close with two buttons and are, of course, of the same material and pattern as the balance of the garment. All edges, lapels, cuffs and pockets are lap seamed. Usually cravenetted and waterproof materials are employed.

The best usage has established that the caps should be of the same material and pattern as the suit. For the gentlemen drivers the caps are of English yacht, gold or Eton styles. Also some negligee telescope effects are permissible.

The trousers are cut peg-top with tailored cuff buttons and are all of the full knickerbocker effect. The cuffs on these trousers are either button or lace at the knee. These trousers are similar in style to those in vogue for the cyclist during the height of that craze a few years ago. Puttee leggins are worn with this costume, the button or lace effect on the cuffs showing a little bit above the leggin top.

The materials chiefly employed in the construction of these suits are of whipcord, petrel cloth, kahki and natural linens. In whipcords the popular shades are tan, pearl and gray, and in the petrel cloth, brown. The kahki and linen suits are of the natural unbleached shades of those materials.

There are several styles of topcoats permitted to the motorist. There are the raglan, gaberdines and slipons. The raglan overcoat are cut along the lines of the conventional raglan styles. Variations are confined only to length and fullness. Some have the regular collars with a tab attachment at the throat, so that it may be clasped snugly as a protection from wind, rain or dust. Others have a protector collar made to fit snugly at the throat. On all these coats there is also a tab attachment at the cuff so that the sleeves may also be clasped snugly at the wrist for the same protection. These raglans are fly-front or of button-through variety. These latter may be either single or double-breasted. Most of them have slash diagonal vents, so that entrance may be made to the suit or trouser pockets without disturbing the outer garment as to unbuttoning. These garments are for the most part finished off with lap seams or heavy stitching.

One novelty recently shown in one of the smart shops, shows the protector collar laced in front with silk cord instead of the usual buttons.

The gaberdines are cut much fuller than the raglan or slipon styles. Some are almost bell-shape in their flare and sweep of skirt. These garments are shorter than the raglans and usually stop at the knees.

Tan, slate and olive are the fashionable shades in these outer garments and various textures, presumably of foreign origin, from their names, are employed. These materials are known as Burberrys, Roseberrys and McIntosh cloths. While being quite substantial in appearance they are really light in weight for spring and summer usage.

It is well defined that the motorist is to wear shirts of soft flannel or some lighter silk texture, such as pongee, Jap or China silks. These shirts usually have the soft roll, lay down collar, or are collarless. Where the soft roll collar is attached the bat wing or string tie is worn and with the collarless shirts stocks are affected. Stocks are returning as fashionable for all outing purposes.

Puttee leggins are much in vogue, these being, either black or tan, calf or pigskin. Gauntlet gloves to match the leggins are worn. Some very smart drivers are wearing these leggins and gauntlets of a gun metal finish, and these are very handsome in tone.

There is some variation in the costume of the gentleman driver from that of his chauffeur. It is decreed that the chauffeur's coat should be the plain box, double-breasted, button-through garment, with no embellishments as to cuffs and lapel treatment. Also the chauffeur cap is to be of the French chauffeur style, having a large visor and full flat crown. The trousers are cut same as the owner's garment but have no buttons or laced effect, the cuffs being plainly tailored, merely to tuck into the puttee leggins. These garments are of washable whipcoard and olive shades are preferred. The leggins and gauntlets are black calfskin. On stormy days the chauffeur wears a rubber cap with a cape attached which falls down over the neck and shoulders and cut around the face, thus giving gratifying protection in the most inclement weather. These rubber caps are shown in black, light tan and terra cotta shades.

NOVELTIES IN SPRING WALL PAPERS AND DRAPERIES

TO THE poet, spring may suggest violets and swelling buds and tender greens, but to the householder it suggests paint and varnish, physical discomfort and mental distress. The selection of wall paper and house furnishings assumes the importance in these days of the selection of silver plate or a grand piano. It is no light task to select from the hundreds of styles of wall paper the precise color and pattern that will harmonize with your furnishings, nor is it any easier to choose the draperies that your wall treatment requires, which is an essential of artistic effects.

It is to be a season of dull tones, with a preference for the same tints carried throughout a floor, which will simplify selection somewhat. Cartridge and oatmeal papers in tans and putty shades will be used a great deal. Panel effects are returning to great favor for the drawing room and dining room. Papers showing a design in relief or on a background of embossed silk or satin, when combined with moldings of gilded wood form a very rich wall treatment. The dining room may be paneled in French tapestry or the Japanese leather papers. The dining room of a summer home had panels of pale green matting, while the wainscoting was of rough bark, which covered studding and beams also.

This panel idea, which is approved from a sanitary standpoint because there is no papering in corners, is especially desirable for a nursery or playroom, since the decorations are easily changed. The wall spaces about the panels are painted to suit the woodwork, and the panels may be in the form of detachable frames.

Although the plain papers, or subdued two-tone effects are favored for the first floor rooms the bedrooms may have a bit of color in a flowered or conventional border. An old fashion has been revived in carrying the border around the door frames and just above the surbase.

Some Drapery Suggestions.

A new tapestry has appeared which is made in Scotland and is called Helena tapestry. This sells for from $3 to $4.50 a yard. It is a mixture of silk and mercerized cotton, and comes in attractive two-toned English designs. The surface has an agreeable raised and crinkled appearance.

Rajah cloth and Danish cloth in ivory tint are durable and effective for inner bedroom curtains.

For a handsomely furnished room the heavy Shikii silk, which sells for $1.80 a yard, makes sash curtains that will last for years if in white or ivory. Side hangings may be of this silk, also, in any of the gorgeous shades it may be obtained.

A drapery stuff, called decorator's voille, which resembles the French voille in dress goods, is greatly used because of its delicate colorings and the gracefulness with which it can be draped. It sometimes has a border of a Persian band and sometimes is finished with a band of old-fashioned cross stitch done over canvas, with the canvas threads drawn out after the design is finished.

Old-style moreen, which has the appearance of old damask, may be had in double width at 75 cents a yard. This is attractive in a dining room, but as it is rather stiff the lower hem should be weighted.

"CORRECT DRESS FOR WOMEN"

Announce

For Tomorrow and Wednesday a Continuation of Formal Opening Displays

In Spring and Summer

Millinery, Garments, and Accessories

Everyone interested in Correct Fashions for the in-coming season is cordially invited. Women who have no intention of buying are equally as welcome as those now ready to purchase.

MILLINERY: Present displays comprise the handsomest and most tasteful creations from such noted French and American designers as Georgette, Talbot, Marie Louise, Rebeaux, Kurzman, Joseph, Bendel, Phipps, Burgesser, and Gage, together with "Gidding-Made" styles designed by the clever little French "Hat Artiste" employed for the "Gidding" designing this year.

GARMENTS: The Garment Displays embrace a thorough range of practical and beautiful styles in Suits, Coats, Dresses, Gowns, Wraps, and Separate Skirts. The garments bespeak the "craft" of the best makers of the country—and many wear a Foreign stamp of style.

All other departments, as Waists, Gloves, Neckwear, Undermuslins, and Hosiery participate in this general presentation to the public of correct wearables for the new season.

Buying is not urged—yet, the fact that there are only eleven buying days before Easter is prompting women to decide early as is shown by the liberal Easter trade which this store has already enjoyed.

"THE GIDDING CORNER"—First Avenue West and Superior Street, Duluth.

Spring Suits & Gowns show Many New Features

By Rene Mansfield.

MME. LA MODE is no respector of history, chronology, nor seasons. In less than a twelvemonth she has stepped airily out of King Dagobert's toggery into the cuirass of the Middle Ages and thence into the courtly costumes of Louis the Fifteenth's time. Now her capricious head has been turned by military regalia, and though the summer months are approaching, she is donning the modified uniform of the Russian Cossack, with complete indifference to the fact that it is obviously a winter effect. So the puzzled purveyors to her ladyship's whims have had to skirmish exceedingly to adapt the style to spring and summer usage. The result is an infinite variety of bloused and belted garments, but all showing the unmistakable Russian influence, even to the trimmings of broderie russe and the buckles and clasps bearing the Russian eagle's head.

Conservative buyers in this country, however, sound a warning note in the declaration that the Russian models will undoubtedly be favored in the dressier suits and three-piece costumes, but that the seven-eighths fitting tailored suits, 26 to 32 inches in length, will easily hold their own. These will be made with long roll and notched collars and the left side lap, approaching almost to a blazer style when the roll collar is emphasized. A novelty in these tailored garments is the introduction of lingerie effects. Pleated German valenciennes edging the collar and cuffs adds that touch of lacy daintiness that feminizes the most strictly tailored suit.

The developments of the Russian blouse effect range from the simplicity of the blouse coat brought into the waist line with a patent leather belt, to the satin coats that are shirred or pleated into belts of gold braid or silk embroidery. It is whispered in the inner circles of the Parisian modistes that before the end of summer the regretfully relinquished Eton and bolero will come into distinct favor again. We had had the long coats for several successive seasons now, and the pendulum may naturally enough swing from their length to the abbreviation of the Eton and bolero. The home dressmaker will rejoice at this change, for the simple style of the short coats does not present the difficulties in making—nor the expenditure—that the longer garments do.

But there seems to be a law of compensation in fashion as in other things. When two yards is subtracted from the coat four yards is added to the skirt. A bas tie skimpy, clingy skirt of yesterday. Pleats are back again in every delightful style of frou-frou. The novelty in the season's skirts is, of course, the tunic or half-draped effect over a pleated flounce. The apron tunic is shown in many of the ready-made models, but since there are no hip seams whatever to allow alterations, it is necessary to obtain a perfect fit in the beginning, which is not always an easy matter. The side pleated skirt, which proved so becoming to most figures, has returned to favor as has also every variation thereof—the plain panel alternating with a pleated one, side pleats alternating with box pleats, shaped gores confining pleats below the hip line.

Serge is undoubtedly the most popular fabric for the street suits, the marine blue that was so much worn during the winter continuing in favor. So if it be serge, one can make no mistake in the selection of material for the spring suit, since every weave from the fine twill serge to the fancy and rough weaves will be used. Novelty cheviots, particularly in the black and white, or pepper-and-salt effects, two-toned diagonal, basket cloths and mat weaves will be used in the more expensive suits. The tendency is toward the soft, rough cloths, including homespuns and worsteds. The pin-stripe serges it is expected will be much worn, especially those with the hair-line stripe of black, from one-half to three-quarters of an inch apart, on a white ground, or the white line on a navy blue ground.

Although the three-piece suit in the more elaborate styles will persist, the silk suit, consisting only of skirt, and coat, bids fair to push to the front again as the smart apparel for semi-dressy occasions. Tussah and pongee silk are used almost exclusively in these suits, though ribbed and corded effects are also good. Foulards, which grew and grew to such extravagance in sprawl and color that they lost favor with the discriminating woman, are insinuating themselves into her good graces again by their soft colorings and modest designs. The smaller the pattern the smarter the foulard is considered to be. Another revival of a once popular silk is that of the changeable or chameleon silk, which is to be found in the taffetas and sutins. Many of the new suits and coats are lined with this changeable silk, in a contrasting shade.

Though the suit coats have all been shortened up into Russian blouse and even Eton lengths the separate coat for spring continues to be full length, though often developed in the Russian effects. The straight cut garments on closely fitting lines are easily in the lead. Silk coats, of black taffeta, or the natural shades of pongee and tussah, will be much worn. One model in tussah illustrates a new feature in the combination of a blouse front with a belted effect, without a belt, however. The fullness of the blouse front is confined in three narrow tucks to which is extended the skirt panel, thus forming a sort of low, broad belt. The very long roll collar is the distinguishing feature of the new coats, together with the left side lapping. Sometimes a single button fastens the coat at the waist line, and more than three are never used.

The color note for spring is a subdued one. Soft, silvery greys, greens with yellow glints in them, natural pongee shades, and all the pastel colorings predominate. In the changeable silks and foulards the tans, grays, rose, violet and green are preferred. The neutral tones of the street costumes are often relieved, however, by a touch of brilliant color at the neck, and the use of contrasting color in some of the new linings makes subtle color harmony possible. A striking pongee coat having a shawl shape collar of orange taffeta, embroidered in the same color, had a lining of coin spotted foulard—having black dots on a burnt orange ground.

Belted Effects Prevail in House and Evening Gowns.

The popularity of the ready-made gown for every day or dress occasions has resulted in a wide selection of these to be found in the shops. They range in price and elaboration from the simple tailored effects in silks or light weight wool materials to the dinner gowns and evening costumes, swathed in chiffons and a-glint with tinsel. The modes seem to have conspired to aid the woman who thriftily "makes things over." Overskirts, draperies, sashes, the use of several different materials on the same gown, sleeves made from net of chiffon or gold cloth—what possibilities for the refurbishing of the old directoire gown or ruffled evening dress, or worn jumper suit these fashions present!

The materials favored for the simpler dresses are tussah and foulard silks, wool batistes, voiles and cachemire. The Russian influence is strongly shown in the insistence upon a normal waist line, either suggested or encircled with a girdle, or belt of leather, or folds of material, often in a contrasting color. Though it was predicted that the vague of the tunic would be fleeting many variations of its simple outlines are being shown. The most approved style is cut off at the knees and is either of even, round length, or falls in points below the hips. With a short skirt the effect is not always graceful, so that tunic modes are best employed in the more elaborate costumes.

The trimmings of the plainer dresses consist generally of self-covered cording, or braids in the cord or tubular effects. The preference for the military styles, with the side lapping of coats and costumes has brought out many new ideas in ornaments and loops. Embroidery in coarse silks and yarns, and cross stitching is much used on dresses, and coats also. It is predicted that laces will be used to a greater extent than they have been for years. Irish laces will continue popular but the lighter laces, such as the Orientals, Chantillys, lierre and valenciennes will be especially in demand because of their adaptability to draped effects.

The chiffon-veiled effects which have been so well liked in evening gowns the past season are now being used in reception gowns and dinner frocks. Black chiffon tunics over blue or green or orange satin foundations are among the more favored styles.

Evening gowns for early spring are more profusely spangled and beaded and glittering than they were during the winter season, if that is considered possible. A mere man remarked the other day that a woman in fashionable evening dress looked like a streak of lightning and was as audible as a glass factory in an earthquake. But that doesn't matter at all. She has exhausted the supply of tinsel, so that now two-toned metal effects are being shown in laces and cloth of gold and of silver are found on all the more elaborate gowns.

Sleeves need no longer be of the same material as the gown. Indeed they may be different for each arm if one wishes to adopt one of the latest caprices of fashoon. Lace, net, gold and silver tissue and chiffon are largely used.

Linen and lingerie gowns already give promise of unusual popularity. Pastel shades in linen, hand embroidered, are shown in many tailored effects. The princess lines of the strictly lingerie gown which were anything but practical, have given way entirely to the full skirts and belted walsts. Madeira and Larraine embroideries are much used on these dresses, and flouncings to a width of twenty-seven inches are seen. One model has the body of the dress made of narrow strips of all-over connected with insertion with narrow gallons above the flounce.

DESTRUCTION BY WHITE ANTS.

Manila Times: White ants have wrought great destruction at Schofield Hall at Fort William, McKinley, and it has been necessary to temporarily brace the building to prevent it from collapsing. The chief damage has been done to the timbers and braces of the portion of the stucture, and pending repairs the use of the rear gallery has been forbidden.

It was feared that if many persons used the balcony at one time the whole structure would collapse. The destructive work of the ants was discovered several weeks ago, but it was not thought that the building was in a dangerous condition. A closer examination made several days ago, however, revealed the startling fact that many of the heavy timbers were almost entirely eaten away and that under any strain would have fallen to pieces.

Prompt steps were taken to make the building safe. Special braces were placed at several points and arrangements are now being made to replace the honey-combed pieces.

The residence of the governor general, at Malacanan has also been found to be in very bad condition, and repairs are necessary to prevent its collapse. Experts form the bureau of public works have decided that it will be unsafe for the new governor general to occupy the building until a large amount of reconstruction work has been done.

THE authoritative apparel modes for the Spring season, 1910, are correctly mirrored in the brilliant assemblage of clever garments now arranged for examination at this store. Charming style innovations, correctly interpreting the highest ideals of such renowned designers as Paquin, Doucet, or Redfern, are realized in the surpassing specimens of tailored art that now await approval. Springtime garments are departures from the elaborate embellishments of past seasons. Charming simplicity is the keynote around which foremost couturiers have evolved in a most practical way, garments of the coming season.

Authentic Tailored Garments

Spring Suits show the normal waist line, many Russian models, or styles simulating them. Coats have long rolling graceful revers, inlaid with self or contrasting moire, shawl or notch collars, and are 26 to 32 inches long. Coats frequently fasten slightly to the side. Skirts are of pleated or tunic effects, the former style predominating. Popular models are made from serge, worsted, basket weave or homespun, effectively peau de cygne lined; price range starting at $19.50 and selling up to $75.00.

Separate Coats of 52 and 54 inch lengths have rolling shawl collars, inlaid with moire and closing smartly at the side with metallic or decorative fastenings. Prices begin at $12.50 and range up to $50.00.

Spring Gowns and Dresses

Evening gowns are minus the long trains, but are plus very chic new draping ideas. Conspicuous by their charming simplicity and unobtrusive color, there's beauty and refinement to them, new to the season.

Street and Afternoon Dresses simulate, in a way, the modes of the early 60's. The normal waist line is pronounced and tunic effects are popular. Favored materials for foundation dress are taffetas and messalines; and for the overskirt, chiffons and veilings of harmonious hues. Clever creations are shown from foulard, pongee and taffeta, either plain tailored, embroidered, lace trimmed or the new accordeon or fan pleated models. Prices start at $18.50 and range by easy degrees up to $75.00.

Distinctive Spring Millinery

Awaiting the examination of discriminating fashion followers are surpassing displays of distinctive Spring Millinery. A colorful season of flowers, bringing into use Nature's choicest and rarest handiwork, has given inspiration to the creative talent and artistic genius of our workrooms, resulting in a bright galaxy of exquisite creations of absorbing interest.

There's a pleasing absence of the grotesque and bizarre effects, and a delightful presence of original and individual designs for practical women. Many splendid creations are daring, yes, yet held in leash by art.

Examination will show here a reproduction of an Alphonsine favored model, there one of Georgette's masterpieces; perhaps a Louison turban combining, maybe, maline, velvet, chameleon silks, with sweet peas, poppies, forget-me-nots, lilies of the valley, violets or roses.

Shapes vary almost as much as colors. Here you will find a hat that suits the oval face artists rave about, or a chic effect whose outline suits the round features to a nicety. The bicorne, the tricorne, the torpedo, monoplane, the Napoleon, the cavalier, the new rolling brim salior, the turban, the toque, and the wearable mushroom shapes have charming representation.

To this splendid showing of inexpensive hats, remarkable for its tastefulness, refinement and harmonious blending of colors, we invite your critical examination tomorrow.

Silks, Dress Goods and Accessories

Surpassing displays of the new silks and wool suitings, gathered from the foremost mills of the country, and rivaling in their exquisite beauty and color harmony Nature's rarest hues, await selection. Women who contemplate pretty Easter Suits or Dresses will find substantial realization of their fondest hopes in our gorgeous fabrics.

The prettiest accessories and trimmings, too, that give the finished touch to the garment are shown in the most delicate designs and traceries—shoes, gloves and neckwear—in fact, every need is here best shown. Let your first inspection be here.

FASCINATING FOOTWEAR FASHIONS FOR SPRING AND SUMMER

(By Rene Mansfield.)

"BUT," said I. "they blister!"

"But," said the shoe buyer with finality, "they bewitch!" Which is an adequate reason for the fact that it is to be a plump season at whatever cost to heels and hosiery. Not even the snug ankle strap will be permitted to the woman who would be ultra-fashionable. A new cut of the vamp is said to have improved the fit of the pump to such an extent—that there was ample room for improvement many a callosity and blister will testify to—that the ankle strap has been omitted from the smartest styles for spring and summer wear.

The patent and the dull finished leathers will be used for the street boots, as will also suede, in black. But the shoe buyer affirmed that colored suede would be seen no more 'neath the pettleoats of the correctly clad. He discoursed thus:

"Silk and satin shoes and pumps are expected to displace entirely the colored suedes. We are now showing many novelties in these silk shoes. Some are made entirely of the silk or satin, while others have only the silk tops. The satin is used, of course, for the boots intended for dressier wear. Tussah and pongee silks in blue and black will be much worn with the silk suits this season."

"Oxfords and two-eyelet ties will be second in favor only to pumps. Tan will be used moderately, and later on we expect a bigger season on white kid boots and oxfords than we have seen for some time."

The show cases are distracting with their dainty rows of dancing slippers and their charming boudoir sandals. Gold slippers, that look as though a Cinderella had dropped them in her haste to be away from the grime and smoke, have rosettes of the gold cloth that look like flower petals. Low cut French slippers of black satin have no ornament save a single rhinestone that serves to emphasize the graceful curve from instep to toe. Black suede slippers often have the high gold heel, which women have found does so much to shorten the appearance of the foot. A more daring use of this idea is when a scarlet heel is put on a black slipper and a narrow rim of red is stitched about the top.

Beaded effects are used as extensively on fashionable footwear as on every other part of this metallic season's costume. Sometimes but the toe of the boot is worked out in pet or other beads; sometimes a boot is strapped above the ankle each strap being heavily beaded in intricate designs. A black suede shoe was seen having a heavy extension sole, but fastened to the full shoe height by means of straps about two inches apart. Another novelty in cut is a street shoe with a wing tip which buttons down to the very point of the tip at the side of the shoe. This shoe also was cut entirely in one piece on the inner side, the only seam being at the button lapping.

ON DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

Letter of Schoolboy in Manchester Guarian: My idea of a good income and how to spend it is to get forty-four shillings a week from every male in the house if he was working, and in spending it I should get a book and put all the provisions I had in the house in it and the cost of them. I should first see that I and our family would get their stomachs full every meal time, so I should buy meat that would last.

Every holiday time we should go for a day or two to a seaside resort. For a family of good eaters it takes a lot of bread, especially if you do not bake, and shop bread takes a lot of butter. But they should have it. I would also buy plenty of coal, with good shoes and stockings; also I would buy two beds to sleep on at night.

VANITY FAIR

By JANE BRAYTON

SHE will glitter, she will dazzle, she will tickle—the fashionable woman of the season when she is arrayed in panoply of the latest jewelry conceits. Jeweled bandeaux for the hair, necklaces, dog-collars, chains, bracelets, dinner rings, jingling trinket sets and tinkling purses—like the lilting lady of history, "she will have music wherever she goes."

She may look like an empress, or like some barbaric queen, with a head dress of pearls like a coronet, or strands of multi-colored gems caught into great cabochons above the ears. The seed pearls are probably the best liked for adorning the coiffure. These are often incrusted in flower-like forms on a band of gauze or tulle, which is twined about the head and fastened, preferably at the right side, with a large cabochon of the pearls.

Jet continues to be popular, and the effectiveness with which it was worn with white gowns, as well as black, during the winter assures its use with the light gowns of summer. Coronals, long jet chains and a series of slides, through which may be threaded black tulle for the throat, are among the favored forms most in demand.

Trinket sets ranging in price from $10 to $30 are among the fads of the fastidious woman. These consist of a ring which may be slipped over the finger, from which five chains of varying lengths are hung. At the end of each tiny chain is a miniature aid to beauty—an eyebrow pencil, rouge box, powder box, mirror and also a ball-like coin purse. Parisian women, who have ever been most frank in the public appliances of make-up, make use of all of these trinkets, quite unmindful of onlookers. With the increasing vogue of silver these sets have been made up in attractive imitations of the Mexican filigree work, which sell at a reasonable figure.

It is predicted that mesh bags in all metals will be greatly used this season. These are seen in gun metal, silver and gold in plain designs and also in stunning combinations of metal worked into stripes, with the frame studded with rhinestones or colored gems. One particularly handsome one seen in a Paris shop had a set pattern in the mesh worked out in different colors of gold and silver, with diamonds sprinkled all over between the links like dew drops.

In the leather hand bags the gray and lavender colorings are easily in the lead. A decided novelty in auto or saffian leather has a frame of metal; another style of suede is suspended from a gold bar with heavy knobs at each end, about which the silk cord-handle is carried. A style that is favored for a calling rather than a shopping bag is of soft, natural colored leather, which is embroidered in Oriental designs with burnished gold thread and braids. This is carried by an old gold cord.

And now milady has a new place to secrete her vanity box. It is a wonder she hasn't found the handy hiding place before now—in the top of her umbrella handle, to be sure. These are now being shown with flattened round tops of gold or silver which may be opened by a tiny spring, disclosing a mirror in the top and a crystal lined hollow for powder with a tiny puff ready for use. The lid is sometimes jeweled elaborately or has simply the monogram engraved upon it.

Shirtwaist sets are to be found in every design. These usually come in sets of three pins, two for the collar and one for the inevitable jabot. Extra long jabot pins in eccentric craftsman design are for use with the velvet neck bows, which are still being worn, and with the tulle bows. As for hatpins, they continue to be as big-as-all-out-doors, with a preference for those of the wicked looking spike variety. Ornamental guards for their vicious points have been devised, however, which will rob them somewhat of their savage appearance.

CHURCH BUILT IN A ROCK.

"In the quaint old German town of Oberstein," says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, "an ancient church stands, built in the great rock, rising from the river. The front of the building is of stone, but the church itself is hollowed out of the rock, and penetrates far into the heart. Tradition says that in the fourteenth century, the count of Oberstein, one of the old robber barons, fell deeply in love with a beautiful young lady, the daughter of a neighboring night. His brother also sought the fair maiden's hand, and the two suitors had a violent quarrel. The upshot was that the count flung his hapless brother from the top of his castle wall, high up the precipitous cliff. Repenting of his awful deed, the count vowed that he would build a church where his brother's body first touched the ground. He did so, excavating the church in the rock; and tradition goes on to say a miraculous spring of clear water sprang from the crag as a token that Heaven was appeased. This curious church is now the only Protestant place of worship in the town."

ATTRACTIVE LINGERIE AND NEGLIGEES FOR THE SUMMER SEASON

(By Margaret Morton.)

THE woman that is not moved by a filmy cloud of lace and embroidery and half-concealed, wholly alluring ribbons and bows, is fit for a mother hubbard and woolens. There are not many of her kind. But there are many who are moved to extravagant purchases, or eye-torturing needlework, upon beholding the shop windows with their dainty finery. Never has lingerie represented greater ingenuity in design or a greater amount of hand work and elaboration.

The hand embroidery, which for a time flourished independently on the lingerie of the most fastidious, is now combined with qualities of lace, and tucking and beading and big medallions of Irish or Cluny. The English openwork embroideries are most effectively used on the more elaborate models, while the Lorraine and Madeira embroideries are good imitations of the French hand work, and are more durable and economical than the latter.

A novelty in the ribbon trimming of lingerie is the use of little sprays of rosebuds made from narrow satin ribbons. Tiny green leaves, such as come on millinery buds, hug the satin rosebuds and trail down with the dangling ribbons. Those sprays are fastened on the night gown and corset cover and finish the ribbon that is run through the petticoat beading.

With the return of the separate blouse—though the lingerie blouse cannot be said ever to have gone out—the corset cover is regaining favor. All-over embroidery is used a great deal for these, combined with lace or medallions. The princess model continues to be the most desirable style of garment for wear with gowns, however. This may consist of corset cover and short skirt. Row after row of insertings are used on these until they resemble an abbreviated lingerie gown. The growing insistence on perfect fitting undergarments has resulted in great care being taken that there is not a wrinkle or a suspicion of fullness in corset cover or slip. Sometimes casings are made on the inner side of these princess slips into which whalebones may be slipped, to be removed when the garment is washed.

The prevailing styles in outer garb usually penetrate pretty quickly to the undergarments. Gone are the empire effects in night gowns and negligees. The normal waist line is restored, and beadings are seen to circle the waist instead of being placed just before the bust.

Knickerbockers will always be favored by the woman who wishes to dispense with all unnecessary fullness and fluffiness in lingerie. Those made from white satin de venezia are probably in greatest demand, though they are shown in delicate colors, also.

Petticoats are more frilly and ruffly than they have been for several seasons. Embroidery combined with medallion insets is strongly favored. In the silk petticoats there is an increasing demand for plaid and Dresden silks. The changeable silks are also expected to have the vogue that these effects will have in suits and gowns. Petticoats for wear under wash dresses may be had in gingham, chambray, linen and seersucker. All of the white petticoats not attached to corset covers are cut circular, with no fullness about the waist, and with the flounce put on just below the knee. Some of these have a tucked ruffle of net set on just below the embroidery or lace flounce, which adds a dainty fluffiness to the skirts.

Charming little night caps are being shown in white china silk run with pink or blue ribbons which are to be tied in a big bow under the chin. Some of these have little sachets hid in their soft lining, and altogether are bewitching little vanities.

Tea gowns and negligees are taking on so extravagant and artistic a character, that one is not always able to tell at a glance whether one is looking upon a lounging robe or an evening toilet. Chiffons, figured silks, crepe de chines and all the sheer stuffs are used to make the most ravishing robes d'interieur, as the French call them. One of the handsomest of these was of dull green net over silver tissue, beneath which was a pale green satin lining. Copper-gold embroidery was used on the corsage, making the whole effect a shimmer of dull tones and warm lights. Negligees made solidly of rows of lace and rows of ribbon, are most attractive and may be made at home if one is at all skillful with the needle, or rather with the machine, as these may be made almost entirely on the sewing machine, if one wishes to.

White lingerie negligees will be as much worn as ever, while the comfortable, convenient kimona will always continue to be a necessary feature of every woman's wardrobe. A new style has appeared which is meant especially to be a boon to the woman who travels. It is usually made of some dark, inconspicuous silk, in loose straight lines. To the back is attached a shirred cap which may be pulled up over the head at night to protect the hair from the dust and to preserve the tidiness of the coiffure, since the coiffure of today may not be attained in a diminutive toilet room with four scowling females elbowing their way to the tiny glass. Another attractive way to make up a traveling mother hubbard and shirr three tucks about the waist, through which cable cord may be run. When this is drawn up to fit the waist, and a Dutch collar added at the throat the garment has rather the appearance of a robe than a kimona.

The Japanese silk kimonas, with borders of plain china silk, are indispensable for general use. Pretty effects are obtained with cotton crepe, also, which may be had as cheap as fifteen cents a yard, and may be bound with ribbon, or a fancy silk or soft cretonne. Figured dimities and barred muslins are desirable for the warm weather. Many of these have a belt of beading through which ribbon is run, and the square neck is also finished with the ribbon-run beading.

The short negligees and dressing jackets may be found in a great variety of styles from the lace trimmed silk ones to the simple little muslin ones with neat belt and lacy Dutch collars. One charming model was of pale pink messaline, trimmed with a wide Chantilly lace to each edge of which was sewed a ruffle of narrow black Val. The lace was put on in sailor effect about the neck and formed a sort of peplum about the waist.

STYLES FOR MISSES AND CHILDREN REPLICAS OF GROWN-UP FASHIONS

(By Rene Mansfield.)

MANY times the attempt to adapt prevailing adult styles to youthful wearers results in incongruous and absurd effects. But never have the fashions so favored the needs of the young girl as those of the spring season seem to do. The jaunty Russian blouse seems designed for a youthful figure; the full skirts lend grace to the lankiest limbs; the round hats are built for curving contours.

An attractive model in a suit for everyday wear, which illustrates the style that will be most generally worn by the young girl this season, was developed in navy blue tussah silk. The skirt was a plaited one, with the plaits stitched down some distance from the waist line, giving a yoke effect. The jacket, in Russian blouse style, was gored to the shoulders, with the side-lapping fastened with military ornaments. The belt, cuffs, bottom of the skirt and lapping edge of the blouse were braided with soutache matching the material. This style will be particularly attractive in the summer fabrics, such as linen, duck, crash or madras. Shepherd check continues to be well liked. One striking suit of this material made in the fashion just described, but trimmed with black soutache, in a simple design, applied to narrow bands of scarlet broadcloth.

The princess dress will be worn, in silks, and lingerie effects, by the slim girl to whom it has proved so becoming. A pretty style that a brown-eyed school girl was buying the other day, had four plaits in the skirt on each side, that sprang from the pointed side portions of the waist. The back and front were in panel effect. A square yoke and tight-fitting undersleeves were of corn color tucked chiffon, which harmonized beautifully with the rich brown of the foulard with its ecru polka dots. The over sleeves extending to just above the elbow were slashed, and laced across with brown velvet ribbon, while a band of velvet outlined the yoke on both sides. A soft tie of the foulard, lined with corn color satin was brought from each corner of the yoke to tie in a knot and hang to the waist line.

The hats for the young girls of fashion are simple, but very dashing, the touch of red that is being used so advantageously for grown-ups, being employed extravagantly in splashing bows or jaunty quills and wings One large sailor shape, of black and white check straw, had a huge scarlet velvet bow perked up on the side of it, bebow perked up on the side of it, being shirred. For the small children the butter bowl hat with rosette or flower trimming is in the lead.

For the tiny maids, the pinafore, empire and Russian styles are much used in all the wash fabrics. There is an increasing demand for hand work on these little garments which is being met by very clever imitations which are obtainable at about half the price of the real hand-done dresses. White will lead in the wash dresses, though ginghams, chambrays, lawns and linens in colored and striped or figured effects, will be largely used in the plainer dresses.

For the little girl's party dress are the sheerest white materials, and also organdies sprinkled with tiny blossoms, which may be made up in the most picturesque styles with sashes and ruffles and dainty bits of ribbon, till the wee things look like Dresden shepherdesses.

THAT TIRED FEELING.

John G. Johnson, Philadelphia's famous lawyer, was discussing drunkenness from the legal point of view in the smoking room of the Rotterdam.

"No," said Mr. Johnson, smiling, "the law doesn't take the eccentric view of drunkenness that prevails among hard drinkers.

"A hard drinker's view of drunkenness is very odd. I once examined a man who had been seen by several witnesses snoring over a large beer and a small whisky in a saloon. This man, though, swore he was not drunk. 'I was only,' he said, 'fatigued with drinkin'.'"

NEW CORSET MODELS SHOW NO RETURN TO SMALL WAIST

WHEN a woman won't, she won't and that's all there is to it. Never has this been so conclusively proven as in the case of woman versus the corset makers. Ever and anon the makers of models devolve fashions that recall the wasp-like waists of a few years since—the Louis XV styles, for instance, and the present belted blouse effects. The corset makers speak up straightway and proclaim the imminent revival of minute waists and suddenly curving hips. But Madame? Pooh, she will have none of it—not if the distraught corset makers can devise no other models at all calculated to force entire renewal of stock. She has been permitted to get acquainted with the workings of her diaphragm and she proposes to be comfortable at all costs.

Thus it is that there has been little change in corset styles for spring and summer wear. The bust is slightly lowered, the back is slightly shortened, with a bit more spring below the waist line, the tendency is toward greater suppleness and less boning, and the trimmings are very simple.

The effort to mold the figure into curves of beauty with the minimum amount of boning, which is not only uncomfortable but gives the figure a stiff—also stuffed—appearance, has been most successful in a popular model of the lace-in-front style. The side bones extend only to the turn of the hips and the back bones are considerably shorter than usual. The front steels are remarkably flexible and lighter in weight than the ordinary steel.

Another model is practically boneless, having only the front and back steels, and two side steels. The bust is supported by two tiny bones that run backward from the front steel and two diagonal Venus bones under the arm. It will be seen that such a corset cannot fail to allow every freedom to the body and comfort to the wearer.

Although svelte slimness continues to be fashion's dictum there are few figures so perfect that a little judicious padding does not improve their contours. Most figures are inclined to a little flatness between the waist line in the back, which is overcome by a small oval pad that helps to give the long line required. The looser bust that is favored this season often makes a bust pad of some description necessary. These are sometimes in the form of padded satin bows, which may be hand painted in the most delicate designs, or elaborately lace trimmed, or are simply covered with washable slips that may be removed. Many prefer the sets of ruffles, which are especially desirable for summer because of their coolness.

For the stout woman there are many tricks of the trade which tend to reduce her, too, too solid flesh. There is the hip confiner of sturdy tricot which is woven to the outline of the body. This is worn below the waistline and is adjusted by means of the gores at the side that permit of lacing. The latest models in brassieres are also the knitted tricot, but are adjusted without lacing. Straps from the front pass around the figure and cross to the opposite shoulder, which thus makes it answer the purpose of a sort of shoulder brace as well as bust supporter.

Though fewer hose supporters are being used than formerly, they are all of the broad, flat, heavy variety, with little or no trimming. When the silk jersey cloths in colors are used for the more expensive models, the supporters are of the same color, but rarely have any more elaborate trimming than a flat satin bow.

GLOVE HINTS

THERE is nothing about a woman that so loudly proclaims her taste and her habits as the sort of gloves she is wearing. She may smile under imported millinery, and trail chiffons and laces, but if a pink finger tip push forth through her glove tip, or a buttonless gap be disclosed, her ways are made plain to us. We are certain the millinery and the frou-frou are draggled and tattered.

In this day of silk and chamois gloves a woman can be always neatly and inexpensively gloved. Chamois gloves not only may be washed a dozen times, each time coming out like new if properly done, but they give a touch of smartness to the street frock, and are particularly affected by the outdoor woman because of their supple qualities. Silk gloves are worn the year around by many of the best dressed women; it is declared this season will see a greater popularity for them than ever before.

Though we have but just been emancipated from the purse-splitting long gloves, dealers are getting ready to meet the big demand there is bound to be for them when the elbow sleeve is fairly with us again. For early spring the mosquetaire in six and eight button lengths will be worn with the new three-quarter, or more nearly, seven-eighths sleeves. For automobiling or driving these come in a slightly heavier weight, and instead of buttons have a strap at the wrist to confine the fullness.

Gloves for evening wear are usually of the 18, 20 and 24-button lengths.

Much that is exclusive and charmingly artistic will be found nowhere else!

The hats that we endorse will be hats that are so beautiful as to have won the highest approval of Fashion—some of them daring—some of them quiet—but all charmingly original and superbly "different."

And prices will be as moderate as is possible through careful buying, coupled with a willingness to sell on unusually close margins of profit.

The Keynote of the Display is Extra Style Without Extra Price.

Already—splendid showings of the newer Coats—the newer Suits, and the newer Hats are being made! Especially in popular price models.

We withheld purchasing before the early part of February, as styles were too unsettled. In this way we have safeguarded you against experimental styles, which earlier buyers bought!

But when styles became settled we bought—bought freely—and the goods are coming as rapidly as possible, consistent with the good work we demand in all our wearables. While we have bought freely of finer goods than ever before, we maintain our supremacy in the moderate priced lines.

SPRING FASHIONS IN ODD SKIRTS AND BLOUSES

THE complete eclipse with which it is prephesied every season by knowing ones the perennial blouse is threatened seems further removed than ever this season. Instead of falling into disrepute before the onslaught of the one-piece gown the winter season has seen it flash into tinseled eminence again, and never have the shops offered a greater variety of these indispensable separate blouses than the spring showing includes. One may find them in every form and fabric, from the simple morning affairs of pique or lawn, to the lace and embroidered and chiffon-veiled satin ones.

The lingerie styles show a greater amount of hand work than ever before. Many of the tailored effects have detachable collars and cuffs of linen with English embroidery done in white or colors. Blouses made of linon are especially favored for wear with the plainer street suits. But it is the more elaborate blouses that have undergone the greatest transformation. A blouse unveiled by chiffon or net or lace and without a touch of gold or silver is scarcely to be found in the shops. From the bit of tinsel in the trimming or about the neck has developed the blouse made entirely of gold net veiled with some transparent stuff. For the gold net is sometimes substituted brocade, which is veiled with net or chiffon the color of the costume. One model was of flowered brocade completely covered with row after row of fine valenciennes lace joined with gold thread.

A plain gold foundation blouse may have several chiffon flips that can be slipped over it, thus making it do service for more than one suit. These chiffon over-blouses will undoubtedly be much worn with the spring suits.

Most attractive waists are being made up from tussah silks which have cashmere printed borders. One model employed a deep gold shade of the tussah silk with a border of Persian design. This border crossed the front and back and sleeves of waist at the bust line, the remainder of the blouse being veiled with black chiffon of so sheer a quality that it did not obscure the fabric beneath. A rolling collar of black silk and small turnback cuffs imparted a youthful air to this chic blouse. With it, as with many of the new waists being put out, was provided a straight belt of black patent leather with a gold buckle. In passing it may be said that the restoration of the waist line has brought belts of every description into favor again. Suits are being shown with which are supplied two patent leather belts—the coat belt and the usual skirt belt.

A blouse in a delightful shade of green is of a coarse mesh net mounted over chiffon of the same shade, which is all lined with satin in the same color. A peculiar but attractive color scheme was attained by the use of a clever shade of purple for the mousseline yoke, standing collar, lower sleeves and tucked waistcoat. Two oblong revers of black satin, and a soft crushed belt of the satin added a distinctive touch.

Gray shades were used in a simple little blouse for wear with a tailored suit of gray serge. The yoke and sleeves of chiffon, matching the net of the waist, were tucked in fine tucks headed with a silver thread. The net across the bust was embroidered in coarse gray silk, combined with a soft shade of yellow with a silver thread running through it, which gave a very rich effect.

The side closing continues to be a popular feature of the blouse for everyday wear. This is sometimes fastened simply with tailored buttons, but more often closes with a frill of silk or net. A model in marine blue ribbed silk which fastened to one side had a frill of plaited net in the same shade, upon the edge of which was stitched a bias fold about half an inch wide of plaid taffeta. A fold of the plaid silk completed the standing collar and formed also a wide crush girdle. The yoke of this blouse was laid in deep horizontal tucks, from shoulder to shoulder, while two bias straps extended from the belt up over the shoulders and into the belt at the back.

Bands of broadcloth elaborately braided with black soutache formed the striking trimming of a dark blue chiffon cloth blouse. The small round yoke and standing collar were of all-over lace finished at the edge with a cording of black silk, and in the front with a straight black velvet bow. The bands were put on over the shoulder seams and extended the length of the short cap over the top of the sleeve. There was also a band down the front of the braided broadcloth, with squares of this trimming over the bust.

Hand embroidery, or some of the clever imitations thereof, and Irish and Valenciennes laces dominate the lingerie models. As yet the bishop sleeve is seen on most of the waists, but there is little doubt that the short sleeve is on its way to us again, to the delight of the plump and the dejection of the scrawny.

A favorite style in the tailored waists has four box plaits on each side, with the central one twice the width of the side plaits. Many of these have also stitched straps over the shoulder seams, in epaulet fashion. The sleeves are plaited the entire length from the shoulder down to the three-inch stiffened cuff.

The separate skirts are to be found in every variety of the tunic or overskirt style as well as in the plainer pleated models. Plain materials predominate, but gray mixtures and two-tone stripes as well as shepherd checks are shown in attractive models. A decided novelty, introducing a striking black and white stripe effect has the panels of black serge overlapping the tops of box pleats of the diagonally striped material set on just below the knee. The effect produced is of a slashed over-skirt.

The new skirts all show a return to the normal waist line, which is indeed the marked tendency of all gowns and suits. Trimming consists usually of cloth-covered buttons on the plainly tailored skirts, while with the tunic effects no trimming at all is used.

NEW IDEAS IN NECKWEAR

A SMART touch may be given the tailored suit if a crisp, frilly jabot is worn with the waist beneath it. The newest thing in these little luxuries is the one-sided jabot. This is made very long, extending nearly to the waist line and is formed of a cascade of frills attached to but one side of an embroidered band. In plaited lawn, with an edge of valenciennes or baby Irish, these are charming.

The imitation Irish is probably the most popular trimming for the odd stocks, jabots and coat sets, although Chantilly and Venise are much used in combination, with embroidered lawns and linen. The forms the jabot takes are infinite. Some are simple tabs with a buttonhole stitch about the edge and tiny pearl buttons at their points; others are elaborately lace trimmed, and are pleated into triple ruffles. Coat sets will be more in demand than ever for wear with the jaunty new short coats of the season.

Net collars and jabots are shown lined with colored silk as a foundation, and trimmed with buttons covered with the silk. Touches of gold are used on all the more elaborate stocks and yokes. A style that would be adaptable to almost any sort of moderately dressy blouse is made of ecru net, embroidered in soft colors, with touches of the gold and black. A narrow fringe of the prevailing shade of the embroidery finished the square tabs, and a fold of black satin binds the top of the collar.

The malline bows have sprung into popularity again, though at one time their too great favor threatened their extinction. These are being shown in black and white, sprinkled with tiny beads in gold and silver and jet, but the plainer styles are favored by the best dressed women.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH.

Some of Its Causes—Treatment By Systematic Exercise.

Youth's Companion: Respiration in health and under normal conditions or rest or moderate exercise is an unconscious act, almost as much so as digestion or the beating of the heart, but it is very easily disturbed, even in health, and incertain diseases, its disturbances is often one of the most distressing symptoms. The short breath following violent exertion, such as running or hill-climbing, is familiar to every one. It is due to the increased call for oxygenation of the blood and the temporary inability of the heart to pump the blood in sufficient volume through the lungs.

When shortness of breath is brought about by moderate exercise or mental excitement, it is due to some abnormal condition, such as anaemia, obesity, a weak heart or indigestion. The tendency is relieved by attention to the weak point, whatever it may be, and a judicious system of exercises—a sort of modified training.

Permanent shortness of breath, or dyspnoea, as it is technically called, is a more serious affair, and is usually due to some actual disease. What the disease is of which this dyspnoea is a symptom can often be discovered only by a careful and thorough medical examination of all the organs of the body.

It is often called asthma and treated at home by inhaling the fumes of burning nitre paper, or by some other of the ordinary remedies; but asthma is a distinct disease, although its true nature is not yet definitely determined. It occurs in paroxysms, usually at night, in the intervals of which the breathing is generally easy and quiet. Permanent dyspnoea is another matter and is an indication of something wrong. It may be due to a great variety of causes, only a few of which can be mentioned here.

Anoemia, or poverty of blood, may give rise to permanent dyspnoea, as well as to shortness of breath on exertion. The symptom is a regular accompaniment of diminished lung capacity, either though consolidation of more or less of the lung tissue in tuberculosis of the lungs by an accumulation of fluid or air in the chest.

Anything that interferes with the free action of the heart, such as weakness of the cardiac muscle or disease of the valves of the heart, pressure by fatty deposits, an enlarged liver of gas in the stomach, will produce shortness of breath.

Short breath in children is commonly the result of obstruction in the air passages, caused by enlarged tonsils, the presence of glandular tissue in the pharynx, called adenoids, or a swollen condition of the mucous membrane in the larynx.

Persistent shortness of breath is a symptom that should not be neglected.

WHAT FASHIONABLE MEN WILL WEAR IN HABERDASHERY

WE are going to see less riot of color in furnishings this spring and summer than bedazzled our eyes last season. This is due to the fact that the matching scheme then in vogue is noticeably subdued this season. Last summer the men who desired to be strictly modish transformed themselves into symphony of some particular color and carried out the scheme from cravat to hose, and some extremists even stretched the effect from hat to shoes.

This season it is ordained that there is to be more simplicity in color and where matching is affected at all it is carried no further than the tie, hose and kerchief, and the other accessories are expressed by harmonious contrasting shades. The cravat is to be the dominant note of the color scheme and therefore the gamut of color treatment is given wider latitude in this detail than in anything else except the hose which are to match with the cravat.

Neckwear.

Many beautiful shades, some never seen before in the spectrum of men's regalia, are launched this season. Many rich pastel tones are shown and the variety of color is so great that no one color can be pointed out as the The edicts approve hunter's reseda, The edicts approve heunter's, reseda, French and olive in the greens; then there are dark tans, stone blues, Atlantic and peacock blues, wistaria, helio and old rose. Some of the very ultra new shades are viola; a new shade of pale helio, bullrush; a pale sea-green, mignonette, mallard grey, royal blue, delft blue, Pompadour rose, Rose du Barry, cygnet grey and neopal.

The popular shapes in the neckwear this season are the four-in-hands, As-Cots, once-overs, de Joinville and narrow strings. The texture effects include two-tone color treatments in silk stripes, twills and armure ground weaves, swivel cords, broche bengalines and moires. There are also many taffetas shown, both in solid colors and in conventional designs. Pancl effects in pastel shades are well represented.

Shirts.

There is a decided tendency to give the pleated bosom shirts the utmost prominence this season. These are shown in knife pleats, double pleats or in the finer varieties in cluster or French pleats. Soft materials are also extremely fashionable and will be even more so with the advent of the midsummer days. The materials chiefly employed in these are fine French flannels, silk and linen mixtures, crepe, China, Shanghai, pongee, habutai and Jap silks. These shirts all have the roll collars, patch pockets, French or turn back cuffs, and are usually enhanced by artistic monograms. The stiff bosom shirts and negligees in madras, percales, cheviots and cambrics will by no means be neglected and are shown in some very rich patterning effects.

Oxford basket weaves are also very fashionable and promise great popularity. As to patterns, stripes of the more subdued tone have the preference over the bold stripes in vogue last spring. This season there are also shown many cross bar effects. Black and white treatments in modest stripes are quite the thing. Other effects that are well placed in the season's edicts are blue and white stripes, pink and white stripes, lavender, green, brown and tan tones. Red is a novelty feature of the season and promises to become a favorite.

Collars.

As to collars the fold-over is still in the lead. There is a tendency, influenced by returning tourists from abroad, to introduce the London style of rounded wings, but no great response has, as yet, been noticed. The fold-overs are shown in many angles of the V opening, but the real close-set effect seems to have the most popularity.

Hosiery.

It is ordained this season that the hosiery must still match the cravat in color and this edict gives wide latitude for choice as to the effects in color that you may select from. The tendency seems to be toward solid colors either plain or with self clockings. Neat designs in stripes are also well considered and accordion effects will be much shown in the higher priced lines. Embroidered figures of small designs on dark grounds are well placed in the edicts and two-toned effects and pin-heads are also represented. For sanctioned colors merely refer to the shades decreed for neckwear.

Gloves.

The glove fashions show little, if any, change from the styles in vogue last spring. There is a marked tendency for plain trimming effect in the stitching, and as to buttons both ivory and glass have precedence over the metal clasps, though these latter are by no means taboo. Suedes and chamois finishes return with increasing popularity and in the glace effects the chosen shades are mode, fawn, tan, beige, ox-blood, pearl and steel.

Belts.

There is a great likelihood of many grey belts being worn this summer on account of the prominence of grey in the suits but unquestionably black will be the prevailing effect. Russian, pig-skin, seal and morocco are the prominent leather finishes. Brass and gunmetal buckles have the call over the silver trimmings.

Jewelry.

There is less ostentation in the jewelry effects for men this season as the semi-precious stones are considered much better taste than the costly jewels. Almost all the conventional designs that are simple, and a few that are unique, are in vogue. In scarf pins, as well as links, such stones as scarabs, jade, topaz, amethyst, pearls and cameos are chiefly shown—these usually in oval, elliptical or square cut settings surrounded with gold or platinum bands. Where fobs are worn monogram seals are very well thought of. Chains are of very light character; the heavy effects for the time being are passe. Silk bands are most fashionable and upon these are usually worn the wearer's monongram composed of small brilliants set in platinum.

Canes and Umbrellas.

Light effects in canes are the word this season and the penchant for carrying canes is stronger among men of fashion than we have evidenced in several years. In conformity with the decree for lightness in walking sticks the all-wood treatments are the mode, displacing in a large measure the ivory, bone and metal handles and trimmings. Woods of flexible character are preferred the most favored of which are whangee, pimentos, bamboo, malacca and panama. In umbrellas the solid sticks are displacing the steel rods. In both canes and umbrellas there are many woods of green and gray finishes shown.

Fancy Waistcoats.

Striped effects in unsheared textures are the dominant note of fashion in fancy waistcoats this season. It is not clearly defined as to what color schemes shall be chosen in these materials as this must be left to your own judgment as to the fitness of things. The color schemes of the suits that you are going to wear the waistcoat with must be taken into consideration and effects that contrast well or harmonize artistically with them must guide your choice. If you are in doubt as to the proprieties in this matter the judgment of your tailor or haberdasher should be solicited. As to the details of cut in the fancy waistcoats we need but say that they are the same as described for vests in the article on suit fashions that will be found upon a preceding page.

TRICKED THE AUCTIONEER.

F. Charles Giddy in the Strand: The most curious recollection I have is, I think, that of an incident which illustrates very strikingly the tricky ways of some smart second-rate brokers, and the pains they will be at in order to take any advantage they can of the slips which auctioneers or their clerks cannot help making sometimes. It was quite in my early days as an auctioneer that I was at a sale where there was put up one of those combination washstands with mirror and other fittings attached. The washstand and the fittings had been set down in the catalogue as two lots, and a dealer who had obviously read through the catalogue with keen accuracy duly observed this fact. "Hallo!" said our friend; "I fancy I can make some money out of this." And this was the way he went about it. It is the custom of brokers to purchase articles at a sale for different people and under different names, and he accordingly attended the sale and bought the washstand under the name of Brown, and then the fitting under the name of Robinson. The washstand being sent to Brown, he at once demanded the fittings as well. "Do you think I should have bought the washstand," he said, "if I hadn't also purchased the fittings to go with it?" Our representative thought that there was something in his argument, and, imagining that the fittings had probably been left out by mistake, promised that he should have them, and saw that they were sent on to him. Thereupon, the next person to see us was Robinson, and he insisted upon having the fittings which he had purchased. Needless to say, we were in a pretty quandry, and we did not get out of the matter until after the loss of lawsuit. I think this incident will serve to show how sharp a lookout we auctioneers have to keep upon the wiles of brokers.

MANY NEW WEAVES IN RUGS AND CARPETS

THE Oriental has long been considered the acme of elegance and luxury and durability in a rug for the well-appointed home, with the result that one sees them of every quality in homes where they are not in harmony with the other furnishings. Decorators, when consulted, always advise against an Oriental rug that is not of the first quality and often find that the domestic weaves are better adapted to the general tone of the house than the Oriental, at any price. They maintain that a $50 or $60 domestic rug is better from every point of view than a $100 Oriental. This fact should be well considered before investing in floor coverings that are expected to be used for several years, at least.

Among the staple lines the Wilton, the Axminster and the Brussels have seemed to lead in popular favor for some time. There is an infinite variety of designs in these rugs, which include the Oriental patterns, floral and conventional designs, and two-tone stripe or border effects. The Smyrna rug for a modest floor covering is unexcelled in durability and attractive colorings and designs. This may be found in floral or Oriental patterns, size 9 by 12 for $28.50. It is a heavy, seamless, tufted rug, and the fact that it is reversible commends it to the thrifty. Ingrain art squares are especially desirable for bedrooms and come in many soft colorings at $9 for a 9 by 12 size.

There are many styles of hand woven rugs on the market which are known variously as colonial, rag or fluff rugs. These had their birth in the rag carpets of our grandmothers, whose striped gayness was woven on primitive looms from scraps of ribbon, calico, old dress goods, etc. The fact that it is very difficult, in weaving these rugs, to obtain proper tension in regard to the thickness of the fabric, which varies greatly, accounts for their continuing to be hand woven. This permits of a variety of patterns and of rugs being woven to order in the colors that may be desired. At first considered appropriate for the bath room only, their popularity has increased until they are much used for bedroom rugs. The Log Cabin style with its cheery colors often gives a quaint touch to the kitchen when used in strips before the sink or stove.

For the summer home there are many inexpensive grass rugs which add comfort and beauty to the veranda and are often very effective in the living rooms of a bungalow when the rest of the furnishings are of the same character. For $8 one may obtain a 9 by 12 rug of prairie grass, which is durable and pretty. Paper fiber rugs are also well liked for summer home or modest bungalow. These are made from very tough twisted paper and are among the most durable rugs made.

To meet the requirements of the modern home and apartment with its long living room, new sizes in rugs are being put out. In the Axminster rugs one may find a size 10.6 by 12, and another 11.3 by 15. In Tapestry rugs 7.6 by 9 feet, 8.3 by 10.6, and 10.6 by 13.6 are the new sizes.

1910 ASPECTS of the MODERN HOME

By Rene Mausfield.

THOUGH calamity criers assert that the flat-dwelling age marks the decline of "the palace of the affections" certain ternal hearth, that rallying it is that never has the home, be it mansion, bungalow or apartment, been the rallying place of greater comfort, simplicity and beauty than it is today. Compare the house of yesterday, with its stoop and its stiffness and its parlor, to the house of today with its wide verandas, its classic architecture, its comfortable living room and cosy den. Compare the flat of yesterday with the apartment of today, which has changed its character completely, with its name. With the passing of the parlor has gone the pretentious mantel with its fireless hearth, and the elegantly hideous console. Fireplaces and book shelves have taken their place. The long, narrow halls, which ran like a spinal cord through the old-time flats, has undergone such a curvature that one no longer recognizes it upon entering the vestibule of the modern apartment, which discloses a roomy vista of adjoining rooms.

In house building, this may well be called the "concrete age." Though brick and hollow tile are used extensively, the durability of concrete and the ease with which it may be adapted to artistic effects has put it in the lead of building materials. Its use is being extended to interior accessories such as fireplaces and chimney pieces, and architectural details. It is taking the place of the expensive Czen stone and the Italian and English terra cottas, for garden furniture. Its fireproof qualities, the coolness which is claimed for it in summer, and its delightful contrast with the green of foliage and lawn, commend it strongly to the man who is about to build. Inexpensive lawn or garden accessories in concrete make a harmonious decorative scheme possible, which may not be obtained when other building material is used. From the cement jardinieres for bay trees or decorative plants which may now be bought as cheaply as $2.00, one may enhance more elaborate grounds with pergolas, and lily ponds and bathing tanks whose curbing and surrounding benches are of concrete.

Houses built of hollow tile have the advantage of being affected to the minimum extent by changes in the temperature. The present tendency in stucco houses is the use of this effect for the entire building, instead of a half brick or wood combination. A pleasing example of this was a house whose exterior had been left the natural color, a warm gray, indigo doors, gray shingle roof and a gray brown trim united to produce a most happy result.

The bungalow continues to flourish in the land, albeit there have arisen many which might be more rightly called bungle-O's. We see them bulging over narrow frontings and shrinking to the size of a doll's house on spreading lawns; but with proper environments there is surely no more attractive style for the moderate priced home than the unpretentious, sturdy, artistic little bungalow. A six-room bungalow recently put up had as a background a sixty-foot bluff, while it commanded a view of a little valley below that rose again gently into timbered hills. The piers of the porch and walls and chimney base were of moss-covered stones brought from the nearby bluff and laid up in black mortar with recessed joints so that the extremely rough face was preserved. The outside walls were of narrow siding painted ivory white. The gable panels were finished with a fine screened gravel, and the porch floors as well as entrance and carriage steps were of cement. The roof shingles and the porch balustrade of rough plank, were stained a soft green. The interior finish of the rooms was in curly fir, stained and waxed. In the living room a simple fireplace had built-in book cases on one side of it and a writing desk on the other. Leaded casement windows admitted the light above the book case and the desk.

The prevailing interior woods just now seem to be almost universally a fumed oak, in the soft finish, for the living rooms, and white enamel for the bed rooms. When the style of the living room or drawing room is carried out in colonial furnishings, white paint is considered the only true colonial trim, but when the furnishings tend toward mission effects the dark woods are used. In nothing so much as wall decoration has the taste of a century changed. Indeed we are prone to think that the dingy, durable wall papers and family portraits that ornamented the walls of our grandfathers' houses, indicated no taste whatever. The walls of our lower rooms are a harmony of low, quiet tones, with sometimes the introduction of a decorative border, or artistic stenciling. Plain hangings are used, and the portieres of tapestry or silk may have plush lining the shade of the wall. Mahogany or English oak, always in the dull finish, is favored for furniture. Jacobean sets, or Circassian walnut, with cane insets are especially suitable for the dining room or the hall.

The doom of the plate rail, with its conglomeration of plates and odds and ends, has been sounded. The nearest approach to this abomination is the wainscoted room, having a finish for the wainscot in the form of a shelf. The preferred method of treating the dining room just now is the use of burlap, or oatmeal paper, or the woven wood-veneer for the lower third, with the paper above and a plain strip of wood like the trim of the room separating them. Picture moldings are being placed at the ceiling just below the molding that connects the ceiling with the side walls.

A noticeable feature of the new dining room is the corner cupboard of the same wood as the trim of the room, with glass doors which may be diamond-paned or in small squares. The closed closet below affords a handy cupboard for linens or other things which it is desirable to stow away. Another innovation that is gaining favor is the use of wardrobes in place of closets in the bedrooms. These are but two feet deep, but the garments are hung on coat hangers from the one shelf, and while economizing space they also present a more practical way of disposing of clothing than does the box-like closet with its many hooks and little space.

WITCHCRAFT AT DETROIT.

Inhuman Mutilation of One Woman By Another Reported.

Detroit, Mich., March 14.—Witchcraft is being practiced in Detroit. A case of it came to light in the report of a physician of the inhuman mutilation of one woman by another. Both women are foreigners.

Mrs. Josephine Nowronski was taken ill three weeks ago after she was given something to drink by Mrs. John Skowerinski at a wedding. She tried one doctor after another without improving and finally called a witch doctor. The latter told her she was bewitched and must find the woman who had witched her and draw blood from her.

She bethought herself of that strange drink at the wedding and sent her husband to inveigle Mrs. Skowerinski to her house. The latter came unsuspectingly. The instant she entered the door Mrs. Nowronski pounced upon her, by the hair and held her while she gouged holes in her victim's cheeks with a knife. Then she pulled out half of Mrs. Skowerinski's hair, forced her to her knees, screaming: "Take that back! Take that back!" The victim "took it back" and was released.

The physician says witch doctors have an extensive practice among the foreign element and make lots of money.

THE WALL FLOWERS.

Los Angeles Times: "They are as bitter," laughed Senator Beveridge anent two candidates, "as the two ladies at the Halloween party.

"The younger lady said spitefully, as she sat beside the other during a waltz—they were both wall flowers—

"'I wonder, dear, if I shall lose my looks, too, when I get to your age?'

"'You'll be lucky if you do,' snapped the old lady."

WILL SEEK SEPARATION

Report Says That Premier Asquith and Wife Have Disagreed.

Latter's Fondness for Maud Allan, the Dancer, One Reason.

London, March 14.—The report that Prime Minister Herbert Asquith and his beautiful wife are to be divorced is no longer whispered, but has become a favorite topic in London society.

While the news of an actual break came as a surprise to many, it has long been known that the Asquiths did not live happily together. Many thought that for reasons of policy they would stick it out.

It is now almost certain that Asquith will resign the leadership of the Liberal party and retire as prime minister. He will be made a peer by King Edward, if the present program is carried out, and find a scope for his ability in other channels.

Within two weeks the premier greatly offended King Edward by appearing before him too soon after having lunched well, but not wisely. He came to ask a pledge from the king that he would sustain the government's hand in the matter of abolishing the veto in the house of lords.

"I will give you no pledge," said the king, tartly, "but I advise you, sir, to take one."

Many things contribute to the domestic unhappiness of the Asquiths. They have brought matters to such an acute stage that no sooner does the premier arrive at the official residence than the wife packs her trunks and leaves for the county.

The wife's fondness for Maud Allan, the dancer, has been the cause of more than one family squabble. Miss Allan has a great influence over the premier's wife and has had her social support despite a circle of frowns.

Maud Allan Denies.

Boston, Mass., March 14.—Maud Allan, the famous barefoot dancer, denied here that her friendship for and influence over Mrs. Herbert Asquith had caused many squabbles between the English premier and his wife, as a result of which the latter would seek a judicial separation.

In an interview Miss Allan denied that Mr. Asquith frowned upon the friendship.

"He was very good to me," she said. "I had the honor, the very great honor, to go in to luncheon on the arm of the premier of England. I met them both formally at luncheons and other affairs, but never in private. Mrs. Asquith is one of the nicest women I have ever had the pleasure of meeting.

"I never felt that Mr. Asquith objected to our acquaintance and I am very sure he did not, and as for having exerted undue influence over her that would be ridiculous. Mrs. Asquith was very well known as Dorothy Tennant and any one who ever knew her realized what an able and clever woman she is.

"I never saw or heard of a thing that would point to a separation. Of course there is a decided difference in their ages. Mrs. Asquith is a very young woman and he is much older, but a woman is always as old as she ought to be and as young as she feels, so I don't see that that would cause any trouble.

"I left England in January and at that time Mr. and Mrs. Asquith were very happy. They have a little boy and seemed to be devoted to him."

EVEN THE GAS RAN AWAY.

Harper's Weekly: According to Jeff de Angeles, the player, the worst hotel anywhere was one that some years ago stood in the town of Abilene, Kan.

"I had been bunking at this alleged hostelry with a fellow actor for two nights," says De Angeles, "and our experience took on all the horror of a nightmare. In the middle of our last night, not sleeping well, I was dimly conscious for a long time that something was wrong. Suddenly I realized that the trouble came from a leaky gas jet.

"'Wake up, Bill!' I shouted in my friend's ear, as I shook him violently. 'The gas is escaping!'

"'Well, can you blame it,' growled he, a she rolled off the corn husks."

TEMPTING TABLE WARE

THE changes in the shape of the extreme elaboration of table appointments which was considered au fait but a little while ago, to the utmost simplicity in linen, silver and china.

The Minton, the Haviland and the Royal Worcester makes of china are showing almost exclusively a decoration consisting of narrow bands which may be of gold or of some rich color, just touched or edged with gold. The Italian wares show a greater variety of color, and if one wishes rich color designs, in browns or greens, the Cantagelli ware of Florence will be found most attractive. An afternoon tea set for two in the Royal Worcester, consisting of the tray, two teacups and saucers, sugar bowl and creamer, illustrates the survival and increasing popularity of the plain white in china with the gold band and gold ring, that has been produced for the last seventy-five years. The set was of white, lined with a soft yellow, and edged with a narrow gold band.

Brass tea services are gaining in favor. These are finished with lacquer so that they will not tarnish, and are now to be obtained in many graceful shapes. The copper tea sets are also in demand. These consist of a tray, teapot, bowl and pitcher in a curious conical shape, with repousse decoration and ebony handles. Coffee sets in German china, which always indulge a large porcelain tray, seem to be quite the fad just now. Separate copper trays, 12 inches by 16, costing about $4, come in either oval or square shapes. Mahogany is greatly used for these trays, also, and more inexpensive ones are of green oak with wicker handles, the bottom of the tray being glass over cretonne or tapestry. It is possible to have these made at a slight cost by a picture framer. He simply attaches brass handles to a mahogany or oak frame, preferably oval, and places the tapestry or silk beneath the glass, backing the whole with a thin polished wood.

Table linens show delightful combinations of embroidery, Cluny lace and medallions. Those for gala occasions have always some sort of decoration in the center which dispenses with the usual centerpiece. One novelty from Paris had four nine-inch squares marked off in the center. A conventional design in white embroidery filled two of these, while the alternating spaces were filled in with hand-made filet lace.

One handsome cloth of double damask, which was circular and two yards in diameter, was edged with Cluny lace about two inches wide, put on without fulness. A medallion of lace, eighteen inches across, was inserted in the center of the cloth, with the linen cut away beneath it. The monogram was placed about half way between the medallion and the edge of the table, at the hostess' place.

Another cloth, more within the means of the average buyer, had a scalloped edge, headed by an elaborate pattern in eyelet embroidery. The same pattern was used to outline the central circle. The hand woven Italian linens which are now imported in considerable variety are of such exquisite texture that hemstitching is all that is required on them. Reticella work, which is a combination of open squares or circles and button holed bars, is sometimes seen on table cloths of this fabric.

CHOICE ART WARE SELECTIONS

THE dull gleam of copper, the soft glimmer of brass, the opalescent shimmer of fragile glass, the shrine of bronze and the dazzle of marble—these vie with each other to lure the shopper to the polished tables of the art-ware stores.

Here are Italian bronzes, many of them copies of old Pompeiian forms of incense burners and jars and reliquaries. Here are Tiffany masterpieces throwing back the lights of Dresden and Delft. In the quaint Dresden ware are tiny flowerpots, with blossoming plants that are made of delicate porcelain, wired so that each leaf and bud has a most natural appearance. In the smaller sizes these may be found for $3, which makes them possible for delightful little dinner favors. The larger pots and plants come as high as $20.

In lamps, which may be considered the necessities in art ware, there is an increasing number of elaborate conceptions, but at the same time there are more attractive styles to be obtained in the less expensive styles than ever before. The oil lamps with a pressed glass stand, in colonial design, and with cretonne shades are greatly favored for bedroom lamps, because the cretonne used may match the furnishings of the room. When these shades are finished with crystal fringe there is nothing in better taste for the boudoir. Cut glass lamps are used for rooms of formal decoration, but do not give the pleasant glow that lamps with less transparent shades do.

There has been a revival of the once popular piano lamp, which now appears in wrought iron with the simple crash shades of striking conventional designs, and in the more elaborate styles the carved wood, in Italian renaissance, which has been combined with plaster and gullded, is used for the stand, and the frame work of the shades. These shades alone, before they are lined with the shade of silk desired, are priced at $50.

Sometimes shades of champagne-colored silk with deep silk fringe to match are preferred with the stands made of this composition, and the soft harmony of tone is indescribable.

For the studio, the great hall, or the room of massive proportions there has lately been designed a sort of taper stand which is probably six feet in height. Back of the candle socket is a huge shield which acts as a reflector, as well as a protection from draught. This is in the form of a butterfly with widespread wings, and the whole medieval stand is in Corean brass.

The interest in garden furniture is running high just now. "Some people love four careful walls and some love out-of-doors." It would seem that never have more people loved this out-of-doors than in this day when landscape gardening has become of fine art. Extensive showing is made of marble and concrete garden furniture. There are marble fountains costing $300, which may be duplicated in concrete for $75. There are picturesque Etruscan chairs and classic marble benches and sun dials. There are jars of Italian terra cotta for the decorative plants, which are sometimes glazed in such a way as to make them seem like Majolica ware. In fact, there is an infinite variety of garden accessories that will transform the most commonplace lawn into a charming Roman plaza.

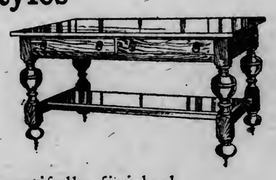
Flanders and Tudor Styles

These quaint, yet beautiful designs are more popular than ever—fashioned from solid oak—stained to look like the original Flanders pieces that originated in Flanders, a province of Holland, Belgium and Northern France. They bridge the gap between the severe simplicity of the Craftsman Mission styles and the more elaborate French patterns.

Flanders Furniture was brought out by Berkey & Gay of Grand Rapids. Many other makers have since imitated and elaborated on these ideas. You'll find the original here, possessing a peculiarly comfortable style of its own.

The Tudor Styles



Originated during the reign of "The English Tudors"—way back in 1500-1660—the age of oak—simple and handsome in design—made for comfort — upholstered mostly in leather—not expensive, but extremely durable and useful. Each piece is made of solid, carefully selected oak—beautifully finished in a handsome nut brown color and covered in German goat skin.

The Original Craftsman Make Furniture Made by Gustav Stickley—the Kind to Buy for Comfort and Durability

A recent customer in talking of Gustav Stickley's hand-made furniture, said: "You can tell it from every other kind. It has a style and finish of its own that the other fellows can't get." That's just the point—the furniture made by Gustav Stickley makes your home or your living room look different—it has a distinct style and air about it that you can't get when you use the many imitations that are being sold.

We sell the original Craftsman furniture—the beautiful soft fumed oak, the soft leather cushions and a bewitching air and style about Gustav Stickley's furniture that compels admiration. It really costs less than the imitations. We are always glad to show it—the finest display in the Northwest awaits you.

Unusual LATITUDE is offered in MEN'S FASHIONS this Season

THERE are at least three widely distinct suit models offered to fashionable men for the spring and summer season. In season's past men have had the option of several designs to choose from but not in recent seasons has the choice covered so much contrast in modeling as is evidenced in the authoritative suit models now displayed.

The model that greatest emphasis is laid upon is a loose short sack coat. Much looser and shorter than we have seen in several seasons. The length of the coat for men of average build is to be about 31½ inches. It is cut straighter than usual and on more conservative lines, and will for that reason be less form defining than heretofore.

These loose sack coats fall more direct from the shoulders than the coats of last season, the sleeves are fuller and there is considerably more elbow room noticeable. The sleeve heads are also full and the lapels show less length of roll, yet the fold will be long and narrow, with a somewhat rakish roll that will harmonize and balance with the fuller back, exaggerated chest and modified shoulder. The shoulder is sloping following more of the natural lines than the heroic types of yesteryear.

While this model is defined as conservative still it is such a radical departure from what we have recently seen that it partakes of the nature of an extreme innovation without being extreme in its details or embellishments. It is a coat that must be skillfully tailored to bring out its merits and its grace and the entire attractiveness of the garments depends on its balance and contour as all fanciful ornamentation is eliminated, many models not even having the conventional back vent.

Another accepted model that smart tailors and designers are featuring is a far cry from the garment spoken of above. This model is slightly form-fitting and shapely to a fault in its contour. The coat is about the same length as the loose sack but it is decidedly tapering at the waist and naturally flaring over the hips. Many variations of this model, all following the general form-fitting lines, are shown. Many new cuff conceptions are offered and there are varying widths and lengths of lapel roll. The prominent note of this garment is the exaggerated chest fullness that with the narrower waist, fuller hips and larger sleeves will add sufficient dash to classify this design as an exceedingly snappy garment.

Still another model that is contemplated for young men is a sack coat that is a trifle longer than either of the other models. For the man of normal height (5 feet, 8 inches), the coat is about 32 inches in length. It is close-fitting and flaring, but with less of the extreme hip seen in young men's models of last season. It has a modified front slip and plenty of snappiness in pocket and cuff treatment to meet the young man's fancy. The shoulders are wider than the natural build and it has an exaggerated chest that give it athletic modeling. This model shows the shoulders wider than the hips and this characteristic accentuates the athletic aspect desired by college men and others who affect their styles.

In these sack coats there is great variety of lapel treatment as to width, length and roll and various conceptions that bring out the individuality of the designer principally expressed in the pocket and cuff designing. The best and most fashionable models, however, do not go to extremes and therefore we shall see less of the freakish fancies that are prone to make young men's clothes ofttimes ridiculous.

All coats close with two, three or four buttons, the three-button models being in the majority. The buttons are not quite so closely set as previously. Vests are about the same in design as last season. Some with collars, but the most without collar or lapels. Trousers will be less peg-topped even in the young men's models, tending more to the conservative, straight and less full cut than previously and are to be worn either plain or turned up to suit the preference of the wearer.

The popular spring overcoat will be the 42-inch Chesterfield, with the lapels moderately long and broad and slightly shaped in at the waist. There is more moderation shown in the width of the shoulders though the sleeves are cut pretty full. This garment closes with a three-button fly front. This will be the standard coat of the season though there are many variations of this model cut more or less full or shapely according to the inclination of the wearer as he leans toward conservatism or in the opposite direction.

There is also a box overcoat that will have some adherents. This model is clinging at the neck and shoulders and falls loose in a wide sweep. It has large and very full sleeves.

Among the other outer garments that will be worn this season is a loose raglan style raincoat with either the protector collar or the regular. This garment follows so closely the well defined raglan lines that description here is unnecessary.

In both raincoats and regular coats there is a tendency toward the return of the paddock coat with its exaggerated chest, shaped in waist, full sweep skirts and lap seams. So many of the really fashionable dressers in the large cities are wearing these coats that their influence is bound to bear fruit if not in a prominent degree this season they will surely be noticeable next fall. The same might be said about the surtout and paletot coats.

Just as conservatism is the dominant note in designing for this season's styles so also is it noteworthy in patterning and color schemes. The two prominent colors of the day are grays and blues, and next to these the fancy blacks, the latter confined to suits.

The entire gamut of the gray tones running from the light grays to the dark oxfords are the very height of fashion this season. The materials most in vogue are the tweeds, cheviots, cassimers, velours and unsheared worsteds. During the summer months many suits will be shown in the tropical fabrics such as homespun, crashes and flannels. The suit patterns run principally to shepherd checks and plaids, broken checks, club checks, pinheads and modest stripes. In the overcoats stripes chiefly are employed and these are of a more obtrusive nature than in the suit patterns. Some plaids and medium stripes are also shown in the suits and a few, but comparatively very few, bold stripes are shown in any garments this season.

The blues and blacks are being shown mostly in fancy worsteds and flannel effects and also in some velour finishes. The patterns are of the most subdued character and consist chiefly of self-stripes, shadow stripes, pencil or chalk-stripes. The contrasting color with these is usually white or soft tones. Greens and browns as well as other off-shades are very little shown.

WILD DOGS IN GEORGIA.

Atlanta Constitution: E. M. Willingham, at Southerland, the old home of Gen. John B. Gordon, reports that the wild dogs made a raid on his place a few nights ago and killed eight fine hogs, two cats, all of his chickens and several large turkeys.

The dogs have been roaming about the neighborhood for several weeks. They appear to gather at night, just like a pack of wolves, and make raids on farms and truck gardens where there is poultry or live stock. Steps are being taken to hunt the dogs and kill them.

The Columbia is ready to show the new things for Easter 1910.

Ready with new clothes for man and boy, with new hats, new shirts, new gloves, new underwear, new hosiery, new haberdashery of every sort, and with new shoes for men, women and children.

Every new idea in men's and boys' apparel—every new feature, every new thought is shown here.

Novelty and originality are the Columbia's passwords, and true reciprocity is its cornerstone.

Columbia articles are selected, not with the idea of how much profit, but how much goodness.

They need no "watching"—they need no glowing tribute—like women they're perfectly able to talk for themselves.

From the day the Columbia started to do business in Duluth, obstacles have been mere stepping stones to greater success. Up to now we know of no better method to increase business than to give the best possible goods at the lowest possible prices, and to place before the public of Duluth and vicinity, a stock as big as is found in cities of much larger size—and this we are doing.
